Plans Considered For Randolph

Officials of the Temple Trust Company which holds a mortgage on Randolph College here, were in Cisco Wednesday and met with local people to consider some method of cleaning up some of the school's indebtedness and placing it on a sounder financial basis. The meeting was presided over by F. D. Wright. The principal spokesman was John B. Daniels, general counsel for the Temple institution and he made an earnest appeal that the Cisco people realize the importance of Randolph College to this city and arouse to action that will give the necessary relief for its continuance here. He called attention to the many wonderful advantages of the location of this school, and the convenience it offers to many in this section of the state who would otherwise have to go away at great expense and inconvenience if they secured such educational opportunities as it offers. He further stated that no large contributions could be made to the school until quite a little sum of unsecured debts are taken care of, and insisted that the people of this city make some arrangements to take care of these so that they will not be in the way of these larger contributions which he intimated might be forthcoming if these other matters were cleared up. President Glenn and Mr. Hamilton of the Temple Trust Co. and F. D. Wright of this city also made short talks.

Scout Committee Has Meeting

In a meeting of the Cisco district Scout committee at the Savoy Cafe Tuesday noon for discussing plans for the next year's work, Hugh White, chairman of the Cisco district on the executive committee meeting held at Eastland last week declared that all towns in the oil belt had voted to carry on the scout work, and that each had accepted its share of the budget. Those attending were Hugh White, J. D. Lauderdale, E. P. Crawford, Homer Slicker, and G. N. Quirl. Attorney Eugene Lankford, on account of illness, was unable to attend. The committee is to have another meeting again at an early date.

Desires "Injunction" To Stop Publication

It is really surprising what a commotion one little article in this little sheet can cause. The same article which got one of the ex-commissioners fever up contained a paragraph which also seems to have brought about a nervous rigor on our city attorney. That paragraph was the one which mentioned about some one "maneuvering around now trying to throw our town into the hands of receivers and try then to get one of the 'old gang' appointed as the receiver."

It seems that this gentleman really had a receivership idea of some kind, which he had been privately nursing along for some time, but he seemed to think that that idea was safely locked up in his private sanctorum, and that no one else dreamed that such an idea existed. As a matter of fact, the idea had been common talk on the streets for some time.

In a rather warm speech before the city commission Monday which wilted his collar all down, we understand he denounced this paper severely, and declared that "an injunction should be gotten out to stop the publication of the dirty sheet," or words to that effect. We understand he also had some large ideas about "impeaching" one of the commissioners. Don't make us laugh, we have a chapped lip. He fervently suggested to the mayor that the gentleman be sent for who wrote the said article in last week's paper. So the chief of police was dispatched immediately to "summon" the author of the article to appear before the commission. The gentleman upon receiving his special invitation with the R. S. V. P. attachment replied he was very sorry, but he was really rather busy attending to his own affairs, and that he could be found there by anyone deeply desiring to confer with him, or words to that effect. The police said something about a "warrant" of some kind which would probably be sent back to force him to come along, and left. The gentleman summoned had a little conference with his attorney who told him that if he had business to attend to to go ahead and attend to it, and let the assembled body worry along without him if he didn't care to go over. He didn't go.

Breckenridge Federal Building Site Selected

The site of the Federal building which Breckenridge is to have was announced by government authorities this week. It is to be located on the E. Tompson property at Court Avenue and Williams Street, priced at $13,500. Plans will be prepared at once it is stated, and it is expected that actual work will begin by the first of the coming year.

With the forthcoming of this announcement Cisco hopes to receive the designation of the location of her federal building soon. No decision has been given out yet on this from Washington, but it is now expected to be made most any day.

The ambitious attorney, inventing his ire, had some idea about holding a "Court of Inquiry." He perhaps perused his law books a little more, for it was postponed "indefinitely."

We must admit we were rather surprised that this gentleman should thus take advantage of his position to vent his spleen about this publication. Such action is deserving of but slight passing notice. There are times when one should merely consider the source. The sheet may appear a little dirty at times, for it sometimes has some subjects of that nature to deal with, and it is rather hard to keep from getting a little soiled handling them—some of the apparently "dirty" crooked work which has helped to place our city in its present condition for instance. And we would suggest that this attorney peruse his law books some more before he undertakes to "get out an injunction to stop the publication of this sheet."

There have been those who earnestly desired to "stop the publication" of this little paper for some time. For the most part they represented sentiments of the tyrant rule and the closed door session policies. For the information of those imbued with such ideas we will state that the day of such things is about over. Following in the footsteps of the dictators of Germany, Russia, Austria, Turkey and Spain are going the little political bosses and the sooner some of them realize it the happier they will be. This little paper is not just the pet idea of its editor. It represents the voice of many citizens of this town, who appreciate the things for which it stands. If some one of our slandering critics want to know just how strong this sentiment it just let them start something to try to tie a gag on this publication.

We would remind them that the same people who are the staunch supporters of this paper were the ones who put four of the present commissioners into office, one of them receiving the heaviest vote of any man on the ticket. The old steam roller was working beautifully till this happened.

We are not cranks. We are not fanatics. We are not trouble hunters, but we trust that we shall not have to lose our temper over some of the little cheap thrusts made at this paper. And we would suggest that some of those who have worked themselves into such a livid rage over this publication go home and take a little sedative to quiet their nerves for within the coming weeks there might be things in our columns which might bring about for them a complete nervous breakdown.

Busy Sessions For City Commission

Business was rather brisk with the city commission this week. The regular session was held Monday afternoon when routine business was transacted, and indications were for a harmonious session till the matter of a story published in last issue of the Citizen came up for discussion. Then business picked up. City Attorney Wright made a report to the commission, and said he had ascertained the author of the story criticising the old and new commissioners, which was signed "Tax Payer." In denouncing the story written by "Tax Payer," Mr. Wright was rather bitter, and inasmuch as the original copy turned in to the Citizen stated that "one of the commissioners" had given information which was the basis on one of the allegations. Mr. Wright stated if any commissioner had supplied this information that he should say so then and there. This was resented by Commissioner Clements, who said he had talked with the author of the story complained, and what he had said was similar to conversations he had discussed with Mr. Wright. Commissioner Clements displayed some heat in resenting the statements of the city attorney, who disclaimed any intention of casting any reflection upon the commissioner, and his explanation was entirely satisfactory. This restored what portended a stormy episode, and peace and harmony prevailed.

Gensure reacted on "Tax Payer" and the "Citizen" paper, was summoned before the commission to give an account—however. And "Tax Payer" but to date he has not felt it urgently necessary to go over.

A motion was presented by Commissioner Donovan and seconded by Commissioner Elliott authorizing the sending of Mayor J. T. Berry, Attorney F. D. Wright and some member of commission to be selected by these two to New York to confer with representatives of the bondholders concerning this city's bonded indebtedness. Expenses of two of the committee to be paid by the bondholders representatives and expenses of the third by the city of Cisco. This action was taken in reply to an invitation by the bondholders committee along this line. The motion carried against two opposing votes. By a vote of three to two, Clements and Burnett opposing, the Chamber of Commerce budget for the coming year was set at $9,000.

Hon. J. R. Burnett, member of the city commission, was elected City Recorder, or Judge of the Corporation Court, at the regular session of the city commission, receiving four of the five votes cast for the office, Commissioner Donovan voting for Joe Wilson it was believed, who was an applicant for the office, R. W. H. Kennon, who was also an applicant, failed to score. The office of City Recorder has always been held by the mayor, but Mayor Berry stated he had rather be relieved of this duty, when the commissioners proceeded to elect a recorder other than the mayor, who has held this office as ex-officio recorder.

Mr. Burnett was nominated by Commissioner Elliott, who stated that "he was an attorney, and therefore qualified for the position, then, too," Mr. Elliott stated, "it has been the custom to name one of the commissioners for these outside jobs." Mr. Burnett thanked the commissioners for the honor thus conferred upon him, promising to discharge the duties to the best of his ability, and appeared to appreciate the compliment conferred upon him.

He was informed that his administration would begin Tuesday morning. He appeared early and qualified by taking the prescribed oath of office, and presided over the morning session of the police court Tuesday morning after issuing special instructions to the po-cracked. It was declared that under the constitution Recorder Burnett could not legally hold the two offices at the same time, and he lost little time in calling the commission together in recess session and tendering his resignation, as he felt he was duty bound to serve out his term as commissioner, having been elected to this position by his constituents. His resignation was accepted.

Here another cog seemed to have slipped, for it was claimed that in taking the oath as recorder Mr. Burnett had automatically vacated his office as City Commissioner, and for a few minutes he was just a plain citizen. But the commissioner was restored to his former state when the commission re-elected him and he again took the oath of office as City Commissioner.

Move which had been started to require all citizens of Cisco over 21 years of age and under 60 to pay a $1.00 poll tax was counteracted by a motion by Clements and seconded by Burnett opposing this action, and upon vote was carried.

Motion by Clements and seconded by Elliott was carried to set aside $500 as a charity fund, to be used according to the best judgment of city officials.

Geo. D. Fee was elected to handle delinquent tax matters for the city.

Improvements in the way of a sewer main in the alley between 13th and 14th streets from manhole on M., K. & T. Ry. east 100 feet; and another sewer main in the alley between 10th and 11th streets from 8-inch main on J avenue west were authorized. Commissioners Fee, Elliott and Clements were appointed as a committee to investigate requests for sewer connections.

Another old settler of this section passed away Sunday morning at nine o'clock when W. A. White died at his home, about one mile south of Romney. He was 70 years of age. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon. He leaves a wife and six children.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Overcash were in Cisco Thursday enroute back to their home in Amarillo, after a vacation and visit with relatives in Hamilton, Texas.

Whoever the Shoe Fits, Let Him Wear It

A certain one of the excommissioners of our city paid us a nice little social call the other day, being all hot and bothered over an article that appeared in last week's issue of this paper. His feelings were all hurt because he seemed to think that there had been some vile reflections made on the members of the city commission of former days. He went on to inform us that if any such article appeared again in this paper that we had "just as well have our little outfit packed to take out of here," or words to that effect.

Some of the present city officials also seemed somewhat worried over the article.

We did not write the article. It was signed "A Tax Payer," and at the request of the writer we did not at first divulge his name. We tried to make it clear to our caller that he had not yet been elected to the board of directors of this sheet, and that until he is it would not be necessary for him to waste his valuable time trying to direct us as to what we shall or shall not print.

The article in question, in our opinion, was not calculated to throw reflections on anyone—unless it would be someone guilty of having a part in the reported mysterious disappearance of some of the city funds. No reference was made to the old commissioners in this. The article mentioned something about the reported shortage of more than a million dollars, and the writer of the article said he "could not believe that any one man got away with all that money." It referred to whoever might be guilty in having a part in bringing about this reported shortage. We suggested to our irate visitor that if he felt that that shoe fit to go ahead and wear it, and we offer the same suggestion to anyone else if they feel that way about it. We have made no insinuation that that individual had anything to do with that reported shortage. We made no insinuation who had anything to do with it, nor can we see that the article in question did. We don't know who is to blame for the shortage. We wish we did. And we think it is about time the good citizens of Cisco were finding out—if that be possible. The article under discussion merely refers to something which as a subject of general conversation had become so threadbare it was "old stuff"—the reported fact that there exists a big shortage in our city funds. And we can see no occasion for anyone getting "all het up" over the mention of it in the paper.

The old commissioners that we know (and we would hardly be termed newcomers) we have personally regarded as our friends, and we hope we shall not feel justified in regarding many of them otherwise. We would not intentionally make any charges or insinuations against anyone without foundation for it, and make none now against them or any one of them. But we do think that the citizens of this town should find some method to ferret out the party or parties who are responsible for this purported shortage and bring them to an unswerving justice. One would naturally think that some of the city commissioners in any town would make it their business to have some knowledge of what is done with the city's money, but there have been several cases on record where they did not seem to do so.

As to "having our little outfit packed ready to leave town," we may have to do that. We'll admit that the securing of the elusive bread and beans has become quite a problem here, and we may have to follow his kind(?) suggestion. We know of several who have had to do that during the past year or two—due in a great measure to the financial condition which this town has found itself in. But we really don't recall sending this individual, or anyone else here, any petition asking whether we could come here or not. We have been very busy for some time trying to pay out an infinitesimal fraction of this valuable city, and it really isn't our present intention to be in any hurry about going away and leaving it. And until that time, as long as we publish this little sheet, we shall very probably print just about what we please, if we think it is for the best interests of this town.

Is our meaning clear?

A TAXLESS CITY

Death may come to the men and women of Chanute, Kansas, but the other supposedly invincible enemy, taxation, does not.

Dispatches tell us that Chanute's $122,610 budget will be chiefly met in 1931, out of earnings from the town's municipal gas and electric plants. At rates called the lowest in Kansas, the Chanute electric plant will contribute $42,100, the gas works $60,460. The rest comes from court fees, interests on deposits, state road tax, other sources.

Ever since Chanute went in for publicly owned utilities five years ago taxes have steadily declined. Last year earnings met the entire budget. The earnings are building a $350,000 memorial building and a $75,000 airport.

Of course, it's all very "subversive," destructive of "rugged individualism." But Chanutes seem to like it.—Fort Worth Press.

CARPING CRITICS

In addressing the National Electric Light Association convention at Atlantic City, by radio from his laboratory in Fort Myers, Florida, Thomas A. Edison gave inspiration to the nation in the following few words, "My message to you is to be courageous. I have lived a long time, I have seen history repeat itself again and again. I have seen many depressions in business. Always America has come out strong and more prosperous. Be as brave as your fathers were before you. Have faith—go forward."

How insignificant do such words make the carping critic appear, who, for personal or political effect and temporary popularity, attacks American institutions which have been developed under private initiative and enterprise.
