WORK RELIEF TO BE RENEWED MONDAY

About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

This getting up early in the morning and going swimming is getting to be the thing... good healthy exercise that gives the proper tone and appetite... and a great deal of fun... They tell that Alex Spears, who is able to throw off the burden of caring for the million, and be a real good fellow, takes his shower with his shoes on... Alex says the scamps tie knots in his shirt... our advice to him is to charge them extra interest when they come in for the loan... and they'll be sure to come... they always do.

Mrs. Herman Reimer wants to know what became of husband's shirt... He also attends those swims... now we regret to mention these things, it may have something to do with our going... Here comes old man Van Sickle... just got married, you know... Soon be old... He admits his wife is the most beautiful creature living... Congratulations.

Here is a letter that needs no comment... addressed to Mr. Chas. Kimmel, Personal House Adjuster, Community Natural Gas Company. Dear Mr. Kimmel... Have just returned from my vacation and have finished reviewing the local papers that were issued during my absence. I encountered a picture in one of those issues which, I after much calculation figured out to be none other than Charlie Kimmel, the demon Softball Hound. If the Community Natural Gas company or the newspaper publishing this striking likeness is giving a prize to the reader able to decipher this picture puzzle, please advise to what address my answer is to be sent. Yours for bigger and better photos. Walter J. Leach.

Dr. F. E. Clark has a bad cold... he admits it... He said a friend advised him to consult a veterinarian, but the only one he knew was out of town so he just took his own medicine... he still has the cold... Understand George Boyd also took his shower in his shoes.

WICHITA CLUB WINNER OVER CISCO GIRLS

Two thousand fans here last night saw the Auto Springs Red Jackets of Wichita Falls take advantage of the Cisco girls' stage fright and pile up a 27 to 7 victory. The Jackets scored 12 runs in the opening inning.

Equally large crowds are expected tonight and tomorrow night for the two remaining games of the series. The Wichita Falls girls are an exceptionally fast ball club, but Cisco gave them stiff competition after recovering from a bad beginning.

Added to tonight's diamond program will be a game between the colored girls of Cisco and Breckenridge, it was announced by Dave Perry, Humble park manager.

Johnson started pitching and Perkins catching for Wichita Falls, but were replaced in the fifth by Grzyler and Smith, respectively. Fenley and Graves formed the Cisco battery.

Six Thousand Flock To Lake For Fourth

2,100 SWIM IN LARGEST POOL TO COOL OFF

Six thousand people celebrated Independence Day at Lake Cisco yesterday, picnicking, boating, fishing, swimming and dancing. One of the largest crowds ever to attend a July 4 celebration at the lake crowded about the swimming pool and the parks and remained until the early hours of this morning.

Lloyd Hughes, manager of the Lake Cisco Amusement company, said today that a checkup of tickets revealed that 2,100 persons swam in the largest artificial pool in the world, while several times that number drifted out to the lake and back to the city during the day.

The Fourth was described by police today as one of the quietest yet experienced. Only one person was arrested on a drunkenness charge. The crowd at the lake was largest during the afternoon, when the water carnival was taking place. Great interest was shown in the swimming and diving contests.

The Lobo band played a concert at the picnic grounds during the noon hour. A blindfold dive and a fire dive were features of the entertainment provided.

Texas-Under-Six-Flags Myth Exploded As Expert Shows Comanches Had Own Banner

AUSTIN, July 5 — Texas has been under the flags of seven ruling nations instead of six as heretofore recorded in history. This discovery was made recently by Mrs. Mary Jordan Atkinson, author of a volume on Texas Indians which is soon to be released by the Naylor Publishing company. In delving into dusty archives and ancient Spanish government records in the University of Texas library, she has brought to light many interesting and heretofore little known facts connected with the Indian tribes who inhabited Texas at and immediately after the time of the first coming of white man to this vast domain. She has found that the Comanches who rose to control over a large part of what is now embraced in the area of this state had their own flag which waved over the villages in their vast barbaric empire.

The rise of the Comanches began with the spread to the lower brush region of Texas of wild mustangs in the sixteenth century. The horses which were first introduced by the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, were the progenitors of the mustangs which in later years roamed at will in great droves over the Southwest. Their coming sounded the knell of the buffalo and transformed the Comanches and other Indian tribes from peaceful into fighting redskins. The Indians of Texas were sun worshippers. The glaring orb of day was an important factor in their lives. The theme of the sun runs through all of the Indian lore unearthed by Mrs. Atkinson.

Red Sun Flag
"Among the flags that waved over Texas have never been mentioned the standard of the sun and the blood-red banner of the Comancheria," Mrs. Atkinson recently wrote. "The first of these, having had its inception in the twenty thousand years preceding the arrival of Colorado, greeted the French and Spanish explorers, while the second marched and counter-marched between San Antonio and Nacogdoches for something like three centuries."

"Christian missionaries from Mexico, preceded by the banner of the cross—gold on white—and the mystic intaglio of the Virgin of Guadalupe, crossing the Texas wilderness, eager to introduce baptism in the sun temples beyond the Trinity river, found their path blocked by sun standards—buffalo skins, tanned as smooth as parchment and emblazoned from edge to edge with holy sun rays.

"The Karankawa, house-boating on the coastal lagoons, gorging on alligators and carrion and human flesh, worshipped the sun. Each evening he stood with folded arms, reverently watching it sink into the sea—laying a golden path to the entrance of that 'other house'—a path to the under world—whither would follow the spirits of the dead who had 'made good medicine' during their sojourn on the earth—in the middle world.

"The Tonkewa, clad in a breech-cloth, a feather, and a pair of moccasins, slipping over the chalk-hills after the deer worshipped the sun and his women tattooed their breasts in its image for the sake of magic medicine.

Fire Temples
"The civilized Mound Builder—the Caddo and the Asinai—living in straw houses said by astounded explorers to have been a hundred feet high, built temples in the piney woods to house the sacred fire—servant of the sun."
"Even the fierce Apache, foraging out of the Mexican mountains, struggling for control of the buffalo range, enemy of the Karankawa and the Tonkewa, of the Asinai and the Caddo, even he, worshipped the sun.

"How long the sun standard was paramount over the hills and on the prairies and in the piney woods of Texas, nobody knows. Until a few weeks ago one would have said: 'Perhaps ten thousand years'; but archeological discoveries within the past winters, particularly at Round Rock, Texas, have doubled the calculations of man's life in the Americas. On old Brushy Creek, famous in Texas history, anthropologists and geologists, working together, took out artifacts—articles made by man—to a depth of eighteen feet in a grave pit. This archeological site is in the heart of the Tonkewa country, but the flintwork taken from the lower level is pre-Tonkewan.

Earlier Civilization
"The Indians who first greeted invading Europeans, the Karankawa, the Tonkewa, the Caddo, and the Asinai, though they had been in Texas for hundreds, perhaps thousands, of years, were not the first to occupy this territory. Underlying the archeological evidences of their existence are those of older and more primitive peoples, but even they in all probability, worshipped the sun. Near Austin, some years ago, a post-hole digger uncovered a cache of great flint blades, some of them nearly a foot long and half a foot wide. They were ranged round a center block of stone to simulate sun rays. Who made them and placed them there, as part of a sacred ritual, no one knows. Presumably they belonged to Indians older than any recorded in history—the Basket Makers, perhaps.

"The staff of the museum of the Texas Indians at the University of Texas hopes soon to acquire one of the few buffalo skins still in existence emblazoned with the sacred emblem of the sun."
"In opposition to the sun standard, which was a religious symbol, like the banner of the cross, stands the red-dyed skin raised on a lance tipped with eagle feathers that preceded the shock troops of the Comancheria—ever a battle flag.

"Like the other Texas Indians, the Comanche worshipped the sun, calling it his father, painting its image on his tents, his robes, and his shields—but his social and political organization was the product of strife, brought into being when the invading Spaniard presented him with the horse.

Comanches Raiders
"The Comanche of historic times was a barbarian, powerful and as flashingly picturesque as the Tartar and the Arab. Under his red banner he whirled into Mexico, raiding the ranches, referring to the proud Spanish ranch-owners as his herdsman. Under his flaunting square of vermilion-tinted leather he robbed the pack-trains moving toward the French trading posts. Following his plume-tipped lance, he set the Mexican garrisons by the ears when they raised the tricolor; and he fought pioneer, Ranger, and Federal soldier as they moved against him under the Lone Star and the Stars and Stripes. Taking advantage of the Anglo-American rift that raised the Confederate Stars and Bars, he cut to pieces the Tonkewa ally of the Texas settler, and whirled to the Gulf. All in all, he retarded advancement of the white frontier for forty years following San Jacinto.

"Nor was it in fair fight that the blood-thirsty barbarian banner lost its sovereign sway over the buffalo lands. The slaughter of the humped herds through cold iron—the invention of the power rifle—starved the hosts that bore the sun shield on the plains.

"Neither was it in man-to-man combat that the sun standard vanished from the Texas woods and prairies. Disease imported from the 'Downlands,' brought by the pale-face people the Indians mistook for gods, together with internal strife bred by encroaching whites, chilled the fires in the sun temples and mowed down the populations of the garden lands."

NEW ONION IS TEARLESS AND HAS NO ODOR

IITHACA, N. Y., July 5 — Development of a brand of tear-less and odorless onions is the aim of scientists of the Cornell University Department of Vegetable Crops who recently produced several strains of non-smelling cabbage.

Experiments are underway, it was disclosed, to determine on which types of soil or in what locality either mild or strong onions may be grown and what determines the power of the onion to bring tears to the eyes.

The scientists' hopes even extend to conquering garlic, it was intimated.

Practical results cannot be expected for several years, Dr. Hans Platenius, engaged in research for the department, announced.

Onions cause tears because they contain a volatile oil, present in small amounts, Dr. Platenius explained. He cited experiments made 40 years ago by a German chemist, F. W. Semmler.

"Semmler had to distill more than a ton of onions to study the chemical composition and nature of the oil which he found causes the tears," Dr. Platenius said. "Even then, he obtained less than one-tenth of a pint of pure oil. What it lacks in quantity, however, is made up on the power of the oil."

Dr. Platenius disclosed that a fraction of a drop of the oil obtained from the onions was sufficient to make the odor of onions noticeable throughout several large buildings.

"Based on the finding of Semmler, we have developed a chemical method of measuring the pungency of onions accurately by giving the amount of volatile sulphur in the onion oil. This method had to be developed because the common testing test was unreliable.

"Next, we had to discover which varieties were the mildest and which the strongest. Onions of all the leading varieties were obtained from different parts of the country. Analysis of the samples showed that our commercial varieties can be placed in three distinct groups—the mildest, medium and the strongest onions."

In the mildest group, Dr. Platenius said, the department discovered were the Italian red, the sweet Spanish types and the early Grano. In the most pungent were White Portugal, Australian Brown, Ebenezer and Red Creole.

The studies, he said, include such problems as temperature, irrigation and the amount of sulphur in the soil as they effect the strength of the onions.

Malakoff Field Is Showing Activity

MALAKOFF, Tex., July 5 — Considerable activity has been reported in the oil field south of Malakoff recently.

A lot of pipe and other material is being unloaded at the railroad yards here and additional material is being shipped in by truck.

Reports are that several tests in the county are looking favorable.

The store is located at 508 East Sixth street, where they have a large patronage of cash and carry and delivery business.

Carmichael announces in today's issue of the Daily News and is quoting many special items, and invites his patrons and friends to visit his store and view this beautiful meat refrigerator which is so important to those who patronize his meat department.

Detectives Find Statue of Gnome

HOUSTON, July 5 — Sam Houston park fans raised such a howl when the bronze figure of a gnome that held aloft a water dish for more than 20 years disappeared that a corps of city detectives were enlisted in a search.

The little Brownie was found in a junk yard, sold by thieves who twisted the statue from its foundations and sold it for only $2.87 cents.

Brownie was replaced on a firmer foundation. The thieves were never apprehended.

EUROPE BUILDS SUPER-HIGHWAYS TO LINK ARCTIC, AFRICA, INDIA

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
ROME, July 5. — Three great European highways under construction shortly will permit motorists to drive from the Arctic Ocean to Cape Town or Calcutta.

These routes join at Cairo and near Jerusalem and then proceed southward to Cape Town and east to Calcutta. Important links in these highways are under construction or plans are being made for their completion.

A conference will be held in Budapest next September at which representatives of central European and Mediterranean nations, including Turkey, will meet and formulate plans aimed at rapid completion of these arteries of transportation. They will rival the proposed All-American highway extending from Alaska to South America along the Pacific Coast.

Route to Cover 12,500 Miles
When completed, the European motorist or visitor may travel from Cape North, Norway, on the Arctic, to Cape Town, a distance of 20,140 kilometers (12,500 miles). Another interesting route now well advanced runs 17,398 kilometers (10,800 miles) from London to Cape Town via Istanbul and Cairo.

One of the most popular routes, supported energetically by the royal automobile clubs of Great Britain and Italy, extends from London to Cairo and measures 5,746 kilometers (3,568 miles).

Italy has been aiding the advance of good roads at home and in its East African colonies. During the past 10 years more than $600,000,000 has been spent in Italy on roads.

Scenic Highway Built
The seaboard route from Tunis to Egypt is another contribution. This scenic highway begins at Tripoli and passes through the following cities: Mesurata, Sirte, Agheila, Gengasi, Derna, and Sollum. This road extends through a wide variety of scenery and runs for long stretches along the Mediterranean.

Recently the government approved an expenditure of an additional $9,000,000 for construction of a super-highway in Lybia. The Tunisian government also has allocated $13,500,000 to improve existing highways and complete new links.

Ferry Adds Links
The Touring club of Italy for some time has been sponsoring the highway running from London to Cairo and passing through France, Switzerland, Italy and Lybia. This route necessitates ferrying from Sicily.

Completion of these major highways will bring a fulfillment to the dreams of Apuleio, Latin - Greek writer, who died 180 A. D. He described such routes from Europe to Africa and the Far East in "The Gold Donkey."

The route from Cape North to Calcutta runs as follows:
Oslo, Hamburg, Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Sofia, Istanbul, Aleppo, Delhi and Calcutta.

The same route is followed from Cape North to Aleppo and then southward to Cape Town via Jerusalem, Cairo, Dodona, Albercorn, Livingstone, Buluwayo, Johannesburg.

SEVEN MONTHS OF RACING ARE BEING PLANNED

AUSTIN, July 5 — Texas followers of the "sport of kings" looked forward today to almost seven months of uninterrupted horse racing at the state's four major tracks.

Starting Sept. 28 at Dallas' Fair Park track and ending May 16 at the same place, a 181 day cycle over the turfs at Fair Park, Arlington Downs, Houston's Epsom Downs, and Alamo Downs at San Antonio, will furnish the longest season enjoyed by the state.

Most ambitious of the meetings is the 46-day program sponsored by Alamo Downs in the height of the mid-winter tourist season. The meet runs from Jan. 1 to Feb. 22.

Before that meet and following the 25-day fall program at Dallas, come in order 21 days at W. T. Waggoner's Arlington track and 23 days at Epsom Downs, Nov. 22 to Dec. 17.

Six Days after the lengthy Alamo Downs season, Houston track owners will open a 21-day spring schedule. Arlington will be the scene of another 21-day meet starting March 26.

Fair Park has arranged a 24-day spring program to end May 16.

About Our Friends

Cecil's Barber Shop have put bright new coats of paint on their fronts... We've been noticing that a few men have been wearing both belts and suspenders... Dr. Griffin, J. R. Burnett and Judge Eugene Lankford are the gentlemen mentioned... we could understand why they wore suspenders but could see no idea for the additional precaution of the belts... But Judge Lankford explained it... "You see," he said, "we are getting so fat that our trousers don't meet at the top any more and so we have to wear the belts to hide the discrepancy"... How can you imagine that!... Dr. Griffin with his possibly one hundred and fifteen pounds.

"Senator" H. E. McCormick went exploring for Black Widow spiders yesterday his armament consisted of a long bamboo pole... In his garage he found the usual large bundle of eggs and finally the lady, herself... he knocked her down and vouches for the fact that she jumped full two feet off the ground... he and daughter, Dorothy, both left for a few moments... being warmed up for the hunt, he explored further and destroyed a dirt dauber's nest in which he found a number of young Black Widows... all dead... thus he says, the moral is: "We often destroy our friends unknowingly... Don't destroy dirt daubers."
