FIRST BALE '35 COTTON RECEIVED HERE

BROUGHT TO GIN HERE BY DOTHAN MAN

Premium Expected to Be Raised Locally for Grower

Cisco's first bale of 1935 cotton was brought in Wednesday morning. It was raised by Robert McKinney of Dothan. The bale had not been ginned at noon today, but it was stated at the Bankhead gin that it would be ginned this afternoon. The cotton in the seed weighed 1,390 pounds.

It was presumed a premium would be raised for Mr. McKinney, but as Sec'y Spencer of the chamber of commerce, was out of town, The Daily Press was not informed what action had been taken in the matter.

A report came to the Daily Press that Putnam had already posted a premium of $50, and that other towns are raising premiums for first bales.

A number of other farmers in the Dothan community started picking today, it was said. Prospects were for a fair yield.

Flying Squadron To Appear Here Friday at Two

The "Flying Squadron" of prohibition workers will be in Cisco Friday at 2 p. m. in the interest of the Youth Program, "Vote Against Whiskey for Texas Youth", it was announced today.

There will be a mass meeting at Mabley park to which all parents in Cisco were invited to bring their children.

The "Flying Squadron" is touring Texas and speaking in more than 300 towns and cities. Joe Simpson of Houston, a 13-year-old boy, will deliver an oration. H. H. Hargrove of Dallas, one of the most dynamic of prohibition speakers in the state, and T. C. Gardner, also of Dallas, for many years a young peoples leader, will address the meeting. Loud speakers will amplify the voices of the speakers.

250 Killed When Italian Dam Bursts

TURIN, Italy, Aug. 14 (AP)—Provincial officials today said that 250 persons were killed by floods which followed the bursting of an hydro-electric plant dam at Ovada Tuesday. Several hundred others are suffering from injuries, shock and exposure as a result of the sudden torrent which inundated forty square miles of territory.

A vast volume of water, stored up by mountain storms, swept over the countryside, washing away scores of homes, wiping out small factories and crumpling a half dozen railroad and highway bridges.

Scores of injured were given emergency treatment at hospitals and first aid stations and others, made homeless by the sudden flood, spent the night in makeshift shelters.

Destruction of the hydro-electric power station at the dam threw the area in darkness, adding to the havoc. Power service over a wide area was disrupted.

The catastrophe descended on the hapless countryside with tragic suddenness. The first warning was a terrific roar like that of thunder rolling in the surrounding mountains, as the dam collapsed.

TAX RATE FOR CITY SET AT $2.50 TUESDAY

$1.50 Is Allocated to General Fund and $1 to Bond Service

The city commission last night perfunctorily fixed the city tax rate for 1935 at $2.50 on the $100 valuation. The levy was allocated $1.50 to the general fund and $1.00 to bond service.

The commission offered the sale of a 750-gallon water pump, purchased second-hand from the Humble company last summer in an effort to increase the capacity of the city pumping plant, to the Lake Cisco Amusement company at what it cost the city. The pump, it was found, could not be used in pair with the 1,500-gallon equipment already installed and a new unit was required to be purchased. The amusement company planned to use the smaller pump to clean its pools, thus saving use of fire equipment and washing the basins more efficiently.

No action was taken upon a proposal that the commission go on record as inviting location of the proposed new $200,000 negro tubercular sanitarium within a few miles from the city.

Tax adjustments and routine matters occupied the remainder of the regular meeting period.

Boll Weevils Are Damaging Cotton

"Boll weevils are doing quite a bit of damage in the Leeroy section of the county," said S. A. Davis, of that community while visiting The Daily Press office recently. "Around Yellow Mound the weevils are doing their most serious damage, perhaps. Some of the farmers in that community are poisoning and trying to rid their crops of the pests. The recent hot, dry weather has helped to check the damage of these pests, as the weevils do little damage during the hot weather. But at that they will act as a greater reducer of cotton than the new deal acreage reduction plan."

Up to the time of Mr. Davis' visit to The Daily Press he said the weevils had done little damage to his crop.

Pauses Here Between Trips Through State

H. L. Mabley, former Cisco hotel man now with the Moody interests, was in Cisco yesterday and last night for a pause between visits to the various Moody properties over the state. He left today for El Paso, Lubbock and other places in west Texas, after having completed a swing through south and east Texas during which he visited Houston, Beaumont and Fort Worth.

Tax Bill Begins Course in Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP)—Facing a move by Sen. Vandenberg to postpone all tax legislation until the next session, when the new budget will be before congress, the $250,000,000 tax bill today started through the senate. Democratic leaders predicted passage by Saturday night.

Lobo Band to Leave at 8:30 a. m. Thurs.

The Lobo band will leave from the high school tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. for the trip to Cross Plains and the annual Old Settlers Reunion which begins there on that date.

A large delegation of Cisco business men will accompany the band, it was hoped.

Dr. H. Seale attended a medical meeting at Philpeco Tuesday evening.

House Committee Okehs New Oil Control Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. (AP)—The new oil control bill was approved by the house interstate commerce committee today. The measure provides congressional consent to the oil and gas conservation compact worked out by representatives of several states at Dallas last February.

Proponents of the bill planned to press for action before congress adjourns. The bill was worked out by a special oil committee headed by Representative Cole, of Maryland.

Young Entertainers On Program of Lions

Alton "Peaches" Wilson, 9-year-old lad from near Cisco, was presented in two guitar and song numbers and Miss Wanda Robinson, Grand Saline, a guest of Mrs. E. C. Barnes, appeared in tap dances at the Cisco Lions club luncheon today noon. The young artists, presented by T. C. Williams, program chairman, won the enthusiastic applause of the club.

Another much appreciated feature of the program was an account by Crandall Jones, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones of his recent Alaskan cruise.

Potato Crop Control Approved by House

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP)—Production control for potatoes, the nation's fourth food crop, was approved by the house today by a 173 to 165 roll call vote.

The house agreed to a senate amendment to the AAA bill classifying potatoes as a basic commodity and authorizing the agriculture secretary to set up a production control plan.

Under the proposed control system, a tax of 75 cents per hundred pounds would be collected on potatoes sold by producers in excess of their sales allotments.

Husband's Birthday Is Wife's Secret

AUSTIN, Aug. 14 (AP)—Clyde Smith, assistant secretary of state, can't reveal his age. His wife, who also works in the state department, was born on the same day in the same year.

By revealing his birthday, Smith exposes that of his wife. So Mrs. Smith has "forbidden" her husband to tell.

Father of Justice of Peace Captor of Santa Anna

CROSS PLAINS, Aug. 14.—Henry Robinson, who has served the Cottonwood precinct for 34 consecutive years as justice of the peace, who helped dig the first grave in the Cottonwood cemetery a charter member of the old I. O. O. F. lodge of that place, and is one of Callahan county's pioneer citizens, enjoys another distinction which surpasses in interest all of the aforementioned.

He is the son of Dan Robinson, a soldier in the war of Texas independence from Mexico. And it was his father—Dan Robinson—who with a small band of companions captured Santa Anna, commander-in-chief of the Mexican forces.

Accounts of the capture told by Mr. Robinson correspond to the letter with the recordings of history on the subject, save that they are more complete and gripping in human interest.

The Cottonwood Justice of the Peace this week gave a graphic account of Santa Anna's capture as told him by his father.

The Mexican general was encountered by the scouting party, captured, taken into camp. The Texans, however, were unaware that their prisoner was Santa Anna, due to the fact that he had abandoned his heavily decorated

Hopson Subpoenaed by Senate Committee

UTILITY HEAD DODGED GROUP FOR 'HEALTH'

Appearance "Forthwith" Before Investigators Demanded

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP)—The senate subpoena was served to day on Howard C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas and Electric System, directing his appearance "forthwith" before the senate lobby committee. A majority of the senate committee had just previously threatened to cite Hopson for contempt if he failed to appear.

Joseph McCarthy, agent for the senate group, succeeded in serving the subpoena after Hopson had testified before the house rules committee that he had "evaded the senate committee" because it was a "matter of protecting his health." "I felt that other employees had them all the testimony I could give," Hopson said.

He took the subpoena without saying anything, and failed to go to the senate immediately.

A resolution strengthening the powers of the lobby committee in questioning Hopson and other witnesses was adopted by the senate this morning. The resolution was presented by Senator Black of the committee, which amended the original investigation proposal to authorize inquiries into corporate and financial structures, salaries and stock transactions between companies.

Italy Summons More Officers for Campaign

ROME, Aug. 14 (AP)—Italy called to arms today another extensive group of officers as the government, apparently indifferent to the tripartite conference in Paris, continued preparations for the east African conflict.

The new order called to service those members of the classes of 1911, 1912, and 1913. The order involves tens of thousands of men who will receive training. Well-informed circles did not disguise the fact that Italy does not expect any development in these conversations to retard her military program in east Africa.

"Italian policy regarding east Africa has not changed in the slightest," said an official spokesman.

Will Merely Listen Well-informed circles believe therefore that Baron Pomptio Aloisi, the Italian delegate who is expected to arrive in Paris Thursday, will listen politely to all suggestions for solution of the Italo-Ethiopian problem advanced by France or England but in the end will maintain the Italian right—backed by a wealth of juridical argument—to deal with Ethiopia in Italy's own way.

Newspapers played up new bellicose declarations attributed to Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia. They announced the steamship Gange will sail for east Africa Wednesday with 2,000 troops who will be reviewed by Crown Prince Umberto prior to their departure. The steamers Merano, Confedenza and Contorosso embarked for African colonies with troops, workmen and supplies.

Italy's intensive was preparations are not interfering with one of her major peace time industries, the tourist traffic, an official communication said.

COAXES WORMS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Quick, easy capture of enough worms for a day's fishing is claimed by B. L. Hutshing for his invention of an "angleworm accelerator." It is an insulated metal rod connected to a light plug. When stuck into the ground the worms dash out, he says.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

One of Archie's shine boys' favorite tricks in a gentle "sell-out". He inquired of the professor the other day if the professor "ever saw an armadillo". "Of course," said the professor.

"Well", persisted Archie, "did you ever see a pea-row?"

The professor was puzzled. "No," said he, "I never did. What is it?"

"It's the same as a bean row, except it's got peas," enlightened Archie.

The professor's indignation will probably cost Archie a shine gratis.

The city commission last night was scratching its collective head over whether it should or shouldn't approve an effort to secure the new negro tubercular sanitarium for Cisco. Whether the good features of such an institution would outweigh the usual popular disaffection for sanitariums of the character was a question upon which the body would like to have the reaction of the public. Medical men point out that the presence of such a hospital near the city would tend to improve rather than endanger the health of the community. Moreover the sanitarium would not be located within several miles of the town, which would thus be practically out of contact with it except for what economic and healthful influence it would have.

Among the economic benefits would be the market it would create for produce and foodstuffs, including dairy and poultry products, groceries, etc. The initial construction costs, involving expenditure of $200,000, would be a community boon, of course. The healthful influences would be the emphasis it would place upon sanitation and the opportunity for a more careful attention to the health of the colored population of the town.

Texas Vets Will Meet September 2 at Amarillo

AMARILLO, Aug. 14 (AP)—The annual reunion of the Texas division of the United Confederate Veterans, originally scheduled at San Antonio in October, will be in Amarillo Sept. 2.

Announcement of the change was made by Mrs. C. L. Lichenstein of Houston, adjutant general of the division. The state meeting will be one day prior to the opening of the 45th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

"Due to the fact that our state reunion of Confederate veterans will not be able to attend both the state and grand reunions, Gen. A. L. Steele has decided to call a reunion of the state body in Amarillo."

Tom Cotten, general chairman of the reunion committee, predicted that the Texas convention would attract an additional 2,000 visitors to Amarillo.

Meanwhile, plans are being made for the U. C. V. gathering, which is expected to be the last for the aging "boys in gray." An early decision that Amarillo alone would foot the bill for the reunion was rescinded after several neighboring towns had offered financial assistance. Hereafter, contributions will be accepted, the committee announced.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.—I John 4:18.

Pray, frightened one, be calm, and know your fear For the frail thing it is, and see it flee, As clouds before the sunshine disappear, To leave your heart at rest, from bondage free. Alvis C. Armstrong.

Faith emphasizes the unseen, hope the unrealized, and now love exalts the unselfish. The world has grown proud of its advances in the idea of service, in humanitarian endeavor, in governmental responsibility for human welfare.—Dr. Frederick H. Knubel.

The Country Club

ONE of the most universal of human failings is the tendency to do things in "spurts" We get all pepped up over a situation and while the fire lasts a great deal is done. Afterwards, when the enthusiasm has settled down to the issue of a long, steady pull, the tendency is to let matters coast, if, haply, any coasting is possible.

WE SPEAK of community planning with a great deal of gusto and scientific wise talk. Last year we had an expert come out here and do a great deal of pretty talking and inspirational spell-binding and we thought so well of the speeches that the papers were full of them and for a time a great many of us were honestly interested in the mimeographed lessons on salesmanship and community planning that he left in large bundles.

IT TAKES a lot of shots in the arm to get anything of community value done, even in Cisco. Take, for instance, the Cisco Country club.

A YEAR or so ago a group of the members got a shot in the arm. It was necessary, if the club was preserved against a foreclosure, that something be done. A refinancing plan was hit upon, willingly collaborated in by the creditors and ably promoted by two or three leading members.

THE shot in the arm died out. Some of the directors developed too much business to attend the meetings. Enthusiasm drained away like the last sup in the Irishman's bottle and the club promptly lay down and went to sleep.

parlor for a few tables of bridge. Otherwise it is about as useful to the civic life of Cisco as a vacant dwelling.

THE investment and the opportunity for the cultivation of the social values of the community that are going to waste in the Cisco Country club represent a serious reflection upon community initiative.

The Bookie Shop

GOV. Alford's move to wipe out the reprehensible horse race bookie shops should win the applause of the citizenship generally. As bad as the influence of horse racing has proved to be, the track itself at least has the saving feature of a sport, but the bookie shop need not be within a hundred miles of a race track and gallant horseflesh to operate.

IN THE demand that has arisen for the repeal of the state's horse race betting law the more nefarious influence of the bookie shops has been forgotten. It is true that the presence of horse racing in a locality emphasizes the opportunity for and cultivates the desire to gamble; and the effect of this cultivation on business conditions in towns where race tracks are located is reflected in multiplying bad accounts and decreased buying of the necessities of life.

A Delegation to Cross Plains

IT IS not so much what you know as who you know that determines your success, said a successful advertising executive recently. He spoke a truth that can be readily translated into the need for community goodwill. It is not so much what a community has as it is the people whose friendship that community commands that makes the community what it is.

THE chamber of commerce has recently undertaken to effect, through group visits to neighboring towns, a closer contact and a friendlier feeling between Cisco and these towns. The value of such visits in the cultivation of a future liaison of mutual benefit is apparent. For that reason the chamber of commerce deserves the cooperation of the business men tomorrow when the Lobo band goes to Cross Plains under its auspices to participate in the annual Cross Plains Old Settlers Reunion.

A Commendable Step

OPENING of the Lake Cisco Amusement company's pools to the youngsters free of charge for one day a week is another step that will help to popularize the resort and at the same time increase its financial support. The presence of such a resort in a city demands that the boys and girls of that city be given every possible opportunity to enjoy its advantages.

The Judge's Corner

By R. W. H. KENNON

REPUBLICANS ENCOURAGED BY RHODE ISLAND VOTE

The recent election in Rhode Island, where the democrats lost the congressional district to a republican, who made the race on an anti-new deal platform, seems to have given the republicans hope of success at the elections next year. This encouragement is reflected in a straw vote being taken by polling the republican county chairmen, young republicans, city leaders, and others as to their first and second choices of a standard bearer for that party to make the race next year.

From 1,565 replies Borah seems to be the leading favorite. Notwithstanding former president Hoover's bid for the nomination he is sixth in the list of favorites. Those favored in this poll are as follows, according to Robert H. Lucas, former executive director of republican national committee, who is conducting the poll:

Borah Leads Borah, 247 first choice and 121 second choice; Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, was second with 167 votes; Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, third with 127; Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, fourth with 97; Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, fifth with 88; and Hoover sixth with 52.

Recently I made the statement that Borah was probably the strongest man in the republican party, and if any republican had a chance of being elected it was Borah. This straw vote, if it means anything, confirms that statement. In fact I hardly think it possible to defeat Roosevelt, though much can happen in the next 18 months.

True, rebellious democrats probably caused some deflection among the Roosevelt supporters, and he may not be as strong among the democrats as formerly, but I believe that the country is still with him and that he will be nominated and elected.

Believed Hoover Will Run The general belief among the leaders of both parties is that the Hoover letters were written with an eye single to the presidential nomination by the republican party, but this poll indicates that his chances are slim. Of course, as I said above, many things can happen in 18 months. I also realize that it has occurred in the past that practically an unknown has been nominated and elected, but

INFLUENCE

It is a great thing to have influence in this world. It is a mean and contemptible thing to sell it on every occasion at a stipulated price.

Men who have influence for sale gather around the national capitol and the state capitol when congress and the legislature are in session. They go there selling themselves, all that they have, to the highest bidder. It doesn't make any difference with such people which side of a question they are on so long as they are connected up with somebody's check book.

The people have a right to go before any law-making body and contend for what they believe in. They have a right to protect their interests, because that is one of the first laws of nature. But it should all be done in an open, fair and honorable way. Lobbying on any side of anything is not a legitimate job. It is an effort to make the third house of any legislative body, which is composed of the representatives of the selfish interests, stronger than either of the other two bodies.

Everyone in America knows that congress was influenced by the lobby which spent millions at Washington to control power legislation. Every one will say that the power people had a right to be heard. But every one will regret that there was such influence used on that body as to prostitute its purposes.—Waco Record.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

One trait which we may commend in Thomas L. Blanton, and commend to our other men in Congress and in our legislatures and in any other public position, is the trait of letting us know where he stands. He says he would like to be in Texas campaigning against the repeal of the laws we have that hold the liquor traffic in check. The reason for such desire is his concern for the boys and girls of Texas. He suggests that every father and mother check up before they vote on August 24 on conditions in Washington, D. C. There with no open saloons but with licensed places for the sale of liquor on every hand, alongside libraries, around the corners from churches and schools, at filling stations, in parks; everywhere are enticements to youth, and to elders, to drink. Therefore if drinking intoxicants is a good thing for health, for mental activity, for moral development, for personal freedom, as well as for the pocketbook, then the example that Mr. Blanton gives us from Washington, our national capital, is a good one for our communities everywhere. But if one doubts its value, and especially if he is sure that drinking is a handicap to good impulses and good efforts, puts an encumbrance upon progress and an obstacle in the way toward happiness and social good then he wants his own community to be as striking as possible in its contrast to our national capital.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—With the major "new deal" legislative proposals far enough along in congress for talk of adjournment to be taken seriously, the inner circle of advisers to the White House in the working out of the administration's program is interesting.

Perhaps the question asked most frequently among Washington politicians is "What man is closest to President Roosevelt?" The answer has varied many times during the past three years. Insiders, however, are pretty generally agreed at the present that Mr. Roosevelt's closest adviser on problems of broad policy is the handsome, bespectacled Prof. Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law professor. A frequent visitor to the White House and a prolific correspondent, he is credited with advocating the move of using tax powers to limit bigness in business. The professor moves silently and mysteriously in his contacts with the White House.

PROFESSOR'S PROTEGES

The proteges of the Harvard law professor also figure largely in the personalities now glittering in the inner Washington limelight. The two most prominent are Tom Corcoran, youthful RFC attorney, and Ben Cohen, PWA attorney.

Corcoran, a co-author of the public utility bill, enjoys not only an official but a social standing with the president. Gossip has it he is in line for a place on the White House secretariat when a vacancy occurs. He was the center of the fight on the utility holding company bill.

Cohen is credited with being the author of much of the bill to regulate and destroy utility holding companies. The cause of the deadlock in conference on the measure, due to the fact that proponents of the "death sentence" section insisted he be permitted to sit in as an adviser, Cohen is disliked heartily by some members of congress, but stands high at the White House.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK.—There are times at night when the low, iridescent lights play tricks with your tired eyes . . . and so for that reason I went back again, just to make sure. "She can't be that lovely," I said, "They can't dance that well." But she is—and they do. I am referring to Rosalean and Seville, whose delightful dancing has brought poetry and enchantment to an otherwise dull summer's night.

They come suddenly from nowhere to flower their dance as you sit at your table in the high Sky Gardens of the St. Moritz, and they dance such as perhaps you have imagined in vague dreams but seldom witness in reality.

What makes them different from other dancers? Don't ask me, I am no student of terpsichore, schooled in the technique of the dance. All I know is that when they begin to dance the whole Sky Gardens becomes still . . . People who are dining in juicy steaks smothered in mushroom sauce, and lobster, and swordfish forget that they have food before them. It would be, I assure you, a stupid fellow who would worry with vitals at such a moment. Or so it seems to me. When, some 20 minutes later, I turned to my chicken it was quite cold, but that didn't matter. If it had been gone that would have been all right, too. That's what Rosalean and Seville do to you as they move to the flow of Eric Corrae's music.

James Hattler Broom, the engraver, has a collection of old Greek coins worth their weight in gold, though a majority of them are in other metals. The Greeks, incidentally, really make most of the wine purchased by Americans under French labels. George, the wine steward of a New York hotel, tells me they make a lot of the brandy, too from currants.

In an attempt to increase the American yen for rum, one company from the Indies has an open house cocktail party every afternoon. Total strangers are welcome to walk in and refresh themselves with rum cocktails.

Strangers often point to those curious white ships that come and go through the harbor, and wonder what they are. Well, they're hospital ships, resembling almost a floating birdcage, built especially so that patients may have an abundance of fresh, salt air. They

Cisco Boy Sure to Get Try With Cardinals Next Spring

With Buffs

H. H. (Cotton) Pippen, Cisco youth, who is making a fine record with the Houston Buffs of the Texas league as a pitcher. His contract is the property of the St. Louis Cardinals with whom he is slated to get a try next spring. Cotton is a former star Lobo football player.

Back in the year 1929 the Cisco Lobos traveled 500 miles to El Paso to play the last of a series of three intersectional games with the El Paso Central high school Tigers. The game was played at night. It ended 32 to 13, or about that score, and the next morning the El Paso papers were full of glowing accounts of the playing of a blond-headed youngster who ran, fired passes and kicked with marvelous skill. That lad, H. H. (Cotton) Pippen was lost to the Lobos during the conference season because of injuries, and that was one of the principal reasons why the Breckenridge team of that year, led by the great Boon Magness, was able to break a Cisco jinx and win the district and subsequently the co-state championship.

A Great Treat

It would have been a great treat to the football fans of this section to have seen a game in which Pippen and Magness played opposite. Both were rated about the same caliber, and their styles of play and attitudes on the field were similar. It would have been a great game. But the opportunity was denied, and Pippen, finishing high school where an outstanding football history was marred by frequent injuries, went on into baseball where he showed even more ability than on the gridiron.

After an impressive pitching record in the amateur and semi-pro circuits, he went with the Beatrice team of the Nebraska State league in 1932 to begin his professional career. He played with the same club in the season of 1933. The Houston club of the Texas league bought his contract from the Springfield, Mo. He saw service with the Buffs in 1934 when his work was impressive enough for the St. Louis Cardinals to buy him from the Houston team at the end of the first season.

Season Record

During his first season with the Buffs Pippen won 15 games and lost 16 with a sixth place club. He worked 230 innings and had an earned run average of 3.60 per game.

When he reported to the Cards camp last year and attempt was made to turn him into an outfielder because of his great speed. This was dropped, however, and he was optioned to the Houston club shortly after the season got under way. He is still the property of the Cardinals.

His work this season has been consistent, with a record that stood Tuesday at nine games won and ten lost. He has been the victim of losing some mighty close ones, however, and reports from the Buffs camp are that if he keeps up his present pace he is a cinch to get an extended try with the Cardinals next spring. Most of his team mates are predicting that he will stay this time.

A likeable youth, Cotton is well thought of by his mates, the manager and the office, who predict a great future for him in the hard, competitive world of organized baseball.

HITLESS WONDERMENT

Brooklyn's Dodgers scored four runs without batting a ball out of the infield. An infield scratch hit, two bases on balls, three errors by Dolph Camilli, Philly first baseman, and a perfectly executed double steal were put together to produce the four tallies.

"Man Who Makes Dogs Talk" Draws For Cisco Press

When Albert Payson Terhune, who is almost as famous for his judgment about dogs as he is for his writings, was judging a dog show at Madison Square Garden in the nineties, he started conversing with a casual bystander (with a shy smile) and the latter, commenting on the fact that dogs were hard to sketch, remarked that there was an elusive something about that was almost impossible to put into a drawing.

"There is only one artist," answered Terhune, "who has taken the trouble to look for that 'elusive something' and who can draw a dog perfectly. He's the master of all canine illustrators—not that that is anything fulsome in the way of a compliment. The man is a wonder at that line of work. You've seen his drawings of course in 'Life'. He is Robert L. Dickey."

At that, the man with the shy smile moved away, as though somewhat embarrassed and not until ten years later when Terhune met Dickey at a dinner party, did the writer realize he had unknowingly met the artist before.

Tells Story

Mr. Terhune tells this story in an article called "The Man Who Makes Dogs Talk."

Commenting on Dickey's personality and art, Terhune says, "The text, 'Out of the strong came forth sweetness' might have been coined for him (Dickey) but in addition to the strength and gentleness, there is an elfin sense of fun and of the ridiculous which shines in his work rather than in his personality. In his illustrations and other drawings in Life, The Saturday Evening Post, the Herald-Tribune Magazine and elsewhere, his dogs are so whimsically vocal and articulate that the appended joke under the picture is all but unnecessary. He breathes a quasi-human quality into every line of his pen-and-ink dogs."

Appropos of Dickey's background, Terhune relates that the artist's grandfather was a famed gunsmith who enhanced the appearance of his work by engraving strikingly lifelike dogs and game birds—also wholly by hand—on the lock-and-breech plates of the guns. His engraved dogs were masterpieces. Some of them are preserved to this day in collectors' cabinets. Not only the old gunsmith but all of Dickey's more immediate relatives were keenly interested in animals and in animal illustrations. From childhood, therefore, Dickey was surrounded by and imbibed text and talent for the theme which one day was to make him immortal.

Drew Horses

As a child he began to draw oddly deft and life-like pictures of his uncle's record-smashing trotting horses. He drew them in every phase of activity and age—crossing the wire, being rubbed down after a race, as colts, as old-broken downs. One of these drawings in a moment of wild confidence, young Dickey sent to "The Youth's Companion". The drawing was accepted, paid for and published to the amazement of the youthful artist and the thrilled delight of his family.

Thereafter his steady rise to fame.

He won for himself a name as the best delineator of horses in all the field of illustrators, and this while still in his teens. But all of the time as a sideline and solely for his pleasure, he was drawing dog pictures. One of these he sent to John Ames Mitchell of Life. Mitchell immediately saw that here was a rare new field of art and humor. He sent for Dickey. Thereafter Robert L. Dickey's dog pictures became an inseparable part of American magazine humor and pathos and beauty.

"My ambition," Dickey told Terhune once, "is to draw dogs in such mild caricature that no dog-lover can be offended; and that he may see his own dog in my work."

Dickey draws the "Mr. and Mrs. Beans" and "Bucky and His Pals" comic page. It appears in the Cisco Daily Press every Sunday.

JOBS FOR GANGSTERS

TOYKO, Aug. 14, (P)—The metropolitan police board here has ordered that jobs be found for petty gangsters who fall into the toils of the law. Thus far five men have been placed, the most recent case being of a 41-year-old man who extorted $3,900 from cafes under the guise of a purification campaign.

Advertising is not an expense—its the life blood of any business.

By T. R. SMITH
BOULDER CITY, Nev., Aug. 13 (P)—The desert has not yet bloomed like the rose, but at least aquaplaning, swimming, and yachting are now possible where a few months ago there was nothing but sun-seared sand and rock.

Piling up fast behind the completed $70,000,000 Boulder Dam is a lake already 52 miles long, with a maximum width of one mile and a half—and due to reach three times that size when storage of water is finished behind the largest manmade structure in the world.

Whatever blooming the desert will do will be miles from here down stream, with the controlled flow of the Colorado river making possible large scale irrigation projects.

Enjoy Sports

But here, on the Nevada-Arizona border, and close to California, Boulder dam has effected a great change in scenery and habits.

Sun burned miners and cowboys, who might live their entire lives without seeing a large body of water, are now enjoying the sports that hitherto have been the privilege of lake country or ocean side dwellers.

Motor and sail boats have already been brought here by train from California and launched on Boulder lake, and more are on the way. Only recently 30,000 bass were planted in the lake in the expectation of luring fishermen to its shores, and a few persistent souls have already taken catfish from the waters of the once muddy Colorado, now becoming crystal clear as the silt settles to the bottom.

Interest in the water sports is about evenly divided between the permanent residents of the vicinity and the 2,000 or more tourists who descend on Las Vegas and Boulder City every week.

Las Vegas, primarily a mining and ranch town, has a population of about 5,000. It is 32 miles from the dam. Boulder City, six miles away, still houses 2,200 men at work on the mighty power houses expected, before the year is out, to generate electricity for southern California, 300 miles away.

Frontier 'Charm'

Boulder City, laid out by government engineers and architects, is a model for city design, with wide curved streets, sparkling green lawns, fast growing shade trees, and an attractive compactness that is in sharp contrast to Las Vegas.

Las Vegas, on the other hand, has a reputation for frontier "charm". It is a "wide open" town with legalized gambling, and old adobe and frame houses that speak of another age. On its streets saunter miners and cowboys in from the desert.

HIKERS' INNS SPREAD

BERLIN, Aug. 14, (P)—The 2,250 youth hostels in Germany provided a total of 6,000,000 night's lodging for thousands of boys and girls on hiking tours in 1934. The movement has grown rapidly since its beginning in 1911, when there were 17 such inns, which cater exclusively, and very cheaply, to young people.

Eastland Men Head Hankins Ex-Students

EASTLAND, Aug. 14—Cyrus B. Frost and Earl Bender of Eastland, ex-students of the Hankins college, were elected president and vice president of the former students association Monday as approximately 250 gathered at Gorman for the annual reunion.

Founders of the school, organized in 1905 and which disbanded in 1912, J. H. and J. F. Hankins of Lubbock and J. B. McIntyre of Dallas, addressed the ex-students.

Ex-students of the school were present from over Texas and about 25 telegrams and letters were read from those unable to attend.

E. E. Layton of Eastland was elected vice president while Mrs. Loma P. McKnight of Gorman was elected secretary-treasurer.

Program for the reunion was as follows: Address of welcome on behalf of city of Gorman, J. W. Cockrill; address of welcome on behalf of ex-students, Earl Bender; response, Mrs. Millie Drake of Breckenridge; invocation, Cecil Bryant of Abilene; reminiscences, Claude Sprattling of Fort Worth; address, Lester Richardson of Houston.

County Judge Clyde L. Garrett, retiring president, was toastmaster. A basket lunch was served at noon by women of Gorman.

Decision on holding a reunion next year will be decided by the board of directors. It was indicated it may not be held because of the Texas centennial.

MUST BURN DEAD ANIMALS IS WARNING

Warning was issued today by the city health department that dumping of dead animals on the city dump grounds without burning the carcasses would subject the offender to a fine in corporation court. Several instances have occurred lately in which dead bodies have been left on the city property to decay.

A sign will be placed at the entrance to the grounds warning against this practice, said Dr. W. P. Lee, health officer. Persons bringing dead creatures to the grounds will be required to burn them immediately.

22 Births

Twenty-two births and eight deaths in Cisco during the months of June and July were reported to the city commission last night by Dr. Lee. During the same period there were, in Precinct 5 outside of Cisco, six births and three deaths, he said.

No illness of a contagious nature was reported.

"Many premises have been inspected in search for mosquito breeding places," said the report. "Some have been found and treated, but the continual rains during July kept the oil drained off the stagnant pools and made it difficult to keep mosquitoes eradicated. I have requested Mr. Johnson to report any unsanitary conditions that may come to his attention."

Keeping of Cows

"The keeping of cows on vacant lots is one of the conditions that require constant watching. It is almost necessary for some people to keep a cow if possible, and if constant care was exercised there would be no danger of infesting the neighborhood with swarms of flies. It seems hard to impress it on people that they must keep clean. But with all the annoyance caused by these two pests, flies and mosquitos, I am encouraged by the fact our unremitting efforts in some measure are successful. Near by towns, from reports, are having more trouble than we are along this line."

"The police force have aided greatly in preventing an epidemic of rabies, their watchfulness and zeal in ridding the city of stray dogs and taking steps promptly to report cases enabled us to come safely through the danger."

"All health certificates with few exceptions have been paid to date."
"W. P. LEE."

One Dead, Officer Wounded in Shooting

CORSICANA, Tex., Aug. 14 (AP)—An unidentified transient man and Will Melton, night watchman at Frost, near here, were critically wounded in a gun fight early today. Melton was making his rounds when the man suddenly covered him with a pistol and ordered him to "stick them up." Melton began shooting instead of complying with the command.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Draganas and two little daughters returned Tuesday from their vacation spent at San Antonio and Corpus Christi. They report a most enjoyable outing, saying the bathing was fine, and fishing good.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—Ratification by congress of the oil states' compact, written by Gov. James V. Allred and Chairman E. O. Thompson of the railroad commission, and adopted at a meeting of the oil producing states' representatives in Dallas Feb. 17, is expected to follow quickly the special message from President Roosevelt, urging its adoption. The president conspicuously asked the congress to ratify, and thus give legal effectiveness to the compact, and nothing else. He did not ask adoption of the amended Cole-Disney compromise federal oil control bill, which state control advocates declare contains a joker in the form of an "advisory" administrative bill, containing potentialities of later blossoming into a fullfledged federal dictatorship. It appears that the president has now become fully convinced that the oil-producing states are able to manage their own oil business, and Gov. Allred and Rail Commission Chairman Thompson, who pioneered this doctrine more than two years ago in the face of terrific opposition, are entitled to a couple of orchids.

Exonerated by a 3 to 1 vote, with one member not voting, of State Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald on charges of official misconduct, by a special house investigating committee, leaves the question of Mr. McDonald's record up to the people. The commissioner announced immediately he will seek reelection next year on his record.

The state highway department this week is working nights on some road-building plans that its engineers had almost forgotten how to draft. With gasoline tax funds and federal aid available, they have been concentrating on de luxe main highways. But Chairman Harry Hines and Highway Commissioner John Wood, burned some midnight oil studying the provisions of the famous $4,800,000,000 federal work-relief bill. They found that Texas is entitled to $23,000,000 additional federal funds which can be spent under supervision of the federal and state highway authorities. Half must go to grade crossing and grade separation projects. A minimum of 25 per cent of the remainder must be spent for rural farm-to-market roads. That means that some $4,000,000 worth of modest-cost hard-surface roads are going to be built in sections of Texas remote from the de luxe high-speed highways. Hines and Wood think if they concentrate on this work, do a good job without delay, and the contractors utilize considerable relief labor, the federal government may consider favorably additional allocations of funds. So they started their engineers mapping plans for the program. Work probably will be actually under way on some of these projects by Oct. 1, if present speed is maintained.

Wallace Hughston of McKinney, formerly state senator, who resigned to become northeast Texas district director for the Federal Housing administration, has taken to his federal job a fine ability which won the respect and admiration of his colleagues during his brief tenure in the senate. Recent reports show his district far ahead of all others in the southwest region in volume of FHA business done. Partly through his efforts, the F. H. A. is planning an elaborate and costly exhibit of model homes at the Texas Centennial in 1936.

Decision of the Centennial control commission last week to spend $50,000 for paid advertising with Texas newspapers (outside the metropolitan centers and the cities where Centennial celebrations are to be held) marks a victory for officials of the Texas Press association and others who have contended the small newspapers were entitled to some paid advertising. They have carried the burden of advance publicity for the Centennial for more than a year, and some advertising revenue will enable many smaller newspaper of Texas to continue their loyal support of the Centennial, which has been given without cost in the past. The decision is logical, since 60 per cent of the total attendance at the Centennial events will come from Texas, based on the attendance figures of other expositions.

There will be some unexpected political campaigning, particularly in the congressional races, in Texas this fall and early winter. Under the new system of congress convening in January, instead of December, adjournment is delayed until long after the usual quitting date in other years. Congressmen, facing re-election campaigns next year, expect to be tied up in Washington during the months in which they usually make their primary races next year. Therefore, many of them expect to do their political fence-building when they return to Texas immediately after adjournment of the present session of congress.

RABBIT CLUB WILL MEET

The directors of the Eastland County Rabbit club will meet Thursday night at the home of John A. Garrett, just off the Eastland highway in east Cisco. This meeting will be for the purpose of discussing final plans of the rabbit show to be held in connection with the Eastland county fair at Eastland September 25 to 26, Garrett stated.

was not in full possession of his normal faculties. He also found seven of the jurors who voted for the death penalty signed a petition asking commutation.

The task of deciding whether a condemned man should be put to death is the most unpleasant in the governor's long routine. It is one to which he devotes considerable time studying the records to determine the true facts and often ferretting out additional information that may have only an indirect bearing but which, in the aggregate, aids in finding a solution satisfactory to the executive conscience.

Governor Allred has depended more heavily on the recommendation of the pardon board than many past chief executives. He has consistently declined to act in clemency matters unless the matter has been presented first to the board. Governor Allred also advocated a constitutional amendment, to be voted on in November, 1936, that would restrict executive clemency only to those cases recommended by the board.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair Lambert of St. Louis, who are guests in the home of Mrs. Lambert's sister, Mrs. R. E. Grantham, left today for a visit with relatives in Brownwood.

Accidents in the home killed 245 Kansas residents the first half of 1935, while only 88 deaths were due to industrial accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Shepard spent Tuesday in Abilene.

Educated Fingers of Blind Man Can Detect All About Money Except Date

CROSS PLAINS, Aug. 14.—Blinded eyes have not dimmed B. F. Peevey's outlook on life. Apparently he has been able to sharpen his other senses to virtually offset this handicap, which overtook him 37 years ago.

As virtually all local people know, he travels the streets of Cross Plains often unassisted and is constantly aware of approaching climatic changes.

Whittling, an avocation of other years, has of late been made a vocation with him and hundreds of novelties, of varied types, have been dispensed to his admiring public.

In balmy days Mr. Peevey sold cigars, cigarettes, gum and etc. Never once was he shortchanged in a business transaction. His educated fingers can tell virtually everything but the date of a coin. Only once did he come close to getting shortchanged and that was 20 years ago at a picnic on the Dick Stoneplace near Cross Cut. A man handed him a coupon exactly the size of a dollar bill in payment for a cigar. Mr. Peevey returned 95 cents before sensing the discrepancy. "Hey", he shouted, "come back here, this isn't money." The wrong was rectified and the reputation of his fingers being able to distinguish money was maintained.

Being 13 years of age when the old settlers reunion was inaugurated, Mr. Peevey has attended every one and now it is no trouble for him to give his interesting stories of the first to take place.

He stated that 150 people constituted a large crowd for one of these first gatherings.

A lover of vaudeville shows is one of Mr. Peevey's means of pastime and seldom dies a show of this kind come here that he does not receive complimentary tickets to all performances.

R. E. Grantham is spending today in Abilene.

CENTENNIAL means 100th BIRTHDAY

The stout-hearted Texans who declared Independence on March 2, 1836, at Washington-on-the-Brazos would be filled with pride to know that their efforts have not gone unrequited. Texans, today, are stout-hearted! Today they prepare for a birthday of a hundred years of achievement on the battlefield and in peaceful achievement.

Texas is a land of romance, love and adventure; of progress and memories. This hundredth anniversary will link its airways, seaports, highways and railroads of today with the oleander and jasmine of old-world towns of yesterday!

Texas started on its road of independence at San Jacinto. She fought valiantly through the years for worldly recognition and now is going to give a birthday party for the world, whose respect she has earnestly desired and so courageously won!

All Americans everywhere revere the memory of the men who contributed to the growth of our common country. We invite them to join us in holding a fitting celebration of the one hundredth birthday of Texas.

Texas is the State it is! Because Texans have made it so! This is YOUR Celebration! It is YOUR State!
