

President Cleburne C. of C. Says Cisco Could Have Great Playground at Lake

W. S. Whaley, of Cleburne, was a recent visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard D'Spain, of Cisco. While here the Cleburne man, who is president of the Cleburne chamber of commerce, visited Lake Cisco and inspected the great dam. Mr. Whaley was greatly impressed with the lake as a conservator of water, but was of the opinion that one of the greatest assets of the big body of water is the possibilities opened up for a mammoth playground or park. He called attention to the fact that the tract of land just below the dam could easily be made into one of the most beautiful parks in this or any other state, and at a comparatively small financial outlay, since the overflow from the spillway would furnish all the water necessary to irrigate trees, plants and grass. The nearby swimming pool that is to be provided by the Cisco chamber of commerce would be easily accessible to park visitors.

In this connection the following article concerning the plans of the Texas Parks association is of especial interest locally:

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 26.—Continued bad weather in the various parts of Texas, where proposed state park sites are located, has caused postponement of the inspection trip by the newly created park board, from November until after the first of the new year. This action was decided upon by D. E. Colp of San Antonio, board member from district No. 2, and Fred M. Herndon of San Antonio, secretary of the Texas Parks association, after reports of twenty-seven inches of rainfall in the Panhandle section near Palo Duro Canyon park site recently, and heavy rains in other sections of the state.

Gov. Neff and Lieut. Gov. T. W. Davidson have expressed a desire to accompany the park board on the first trip of inspection of the proposed sites and the January schedule will be planned to meet the convenience of the board members and the state executives, as nearly as possible.

In addition to the ten larger park sites offered originally to the state, many similar smaller ones in various sections of Texas, ranging from a few acres to around 200 acres, are being offered, according to Mr. Herndon, who says several of the smaller towns in southwest Texas have interested themselves in donating former city parks and small sites near their towns to the state as state parks. These offers will be placed before the board at the January meeting in San Antonio, he stated.

The park board, composed of Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner of Claude, D. E. Colp of San Antonio, Hobart Key of Marshall, Mrs. W. C. Martin of Dallas and Mrs. James J. Welder of Victoria, is anxious that every county in Texas have at least one park, if no larger than a few acres, to preserve the natural beauty of the state and provide breathing spaces for its future generations.

HOW TO SELECT LAYING HENS.

Every farmer and poultryman should make it a point to cull his flock in the fall of each year. It is often possible to discard a third or more of your flock, thus reducing your feed bill without noticeably affecting your egg yields. The following proven facts should enable anyone to pick the best layers:

Hens that molt late and quickly are the best layers. By this it is meant that those that molt in October and November are much to be preferred to those that molt earlier. Some farmers make the mistake of selling those that molt late and keeping those that molt early. The 200 egg hens all molt in November.

Individual hens with pale colored shanks, in such breeds as the Rocks, Wyandottes, Reds, and Leghorns, are considered better layers than those with bright yellow shanks. This indication is true only when applied in the fall of the year, and only among those breeds with yellow shanks.

This principle applies also to the ear lobes in breeds that have yellow, creamy or white ear lobes. This applies more to many varieties of Leghorns than to others. Those that have the pale white ear lobes in the fall are sure to be better layers. In those that have red ear lobes, of course, this does not apply.

A bird that has a strong constitution and passes through the molting period quickly without developing all kinds of diseases, is much to be preferred.

Hens that show the least broodiness are better layers than those that are broody a large part of the time.

A bird with closely worn toe nails is considered a better layer than one with long nails.

A hen that goes into the molt with worn and ragged plumage is a better layer than the one that has no such marks of the hard work of the past season.

A hen first off the roost in the morning and last on in the evening is a better layer than the one that spends a large part of her time on the roost or stands humped up in a corner or basking in the sun.

A singing and working individual is always a better layer than the quiet or lazy kind.

Hens that go to bed with a full crop are good layers. A heavy eater is a good layer.

Hens must carry some fat in order to be in laying condition. A poor or lean hen can never be a good layer.

Pullets that mature early are better layers than those that mature late. You should keep the early pullets.

HAS GOOD EFFECT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—All this talk about upholding the constitution is bearing seed. People are becoming curious as to just what the constitution really says.

Requests came for more than 2,000 copies of the document during October at the headquarters here of the American Defense Society. This is taken as indicating "a comparative increase of interest on the part of the public in the government and institutions of the United States," the society declared.

The Old-Fashioned Thanksgiving
By EDGAR A. GUEST

It may be I am getting old and like too much to dwell Upon the days of bygone years, the days I loved so well; But thinking of them now I wish somehow that I could know A simple old Thanksgiving Day, like those of long ago, When all the family gathered round a table richly spread, With little Jamie at the foot and grandpa at the head, The youngest of us all to greet the oldest with a smile, With mother running in and out and laughing all the while.

I like the olden way the best, when relatives were glad To meet the way they used to do when I was but a lad; The old home was a rendezvous for all our kith and kin, And whether living far or near they all came trooping in With shouts of "Hello, daddy!" as they fairly stormed the place And made a rush for mother, who would stop to wipe her face Upon her gingham apron before she kissed them all, Hugging them proudly to her heart, the grown-ups and the small.

Then laughter rang throughout the home, and, oh, the jokes they told; From Boston, Frank brought new ones, but father sprang the old; All afternoon we chatted, telling what we hoped to do, The struggles we were making and the hardships we'd gone through; We gathered around the fireside. How fast the hours would fly— It seemed before we'd settled down 'twas time to say good-bye. Those were the glad Thanksgivings, the old-time families knew When relatives could still be friends and every heart was true. (Courtesy Reilly-Lee Publishing Co.)

States Could Prohibit Land-Owning by Aliens.—Aliens can be prohibited by states from owning land, provided there is no treaty stipulation to the contrary, the Supreme Court announced on November 12 in an opinion ending a legal controversy which for years had been an issue on the Pacific coast. The question has shared in importance with the controversy which was waged over the right of Japanese to citizenship until the court removed the latter by a decision last term. The issue reached the supreme court in two cases, one from Washington and the other from California. In declaring the alien land laws of California and Washington valid, the court analyzed all controverted points. It not only found the laws in harmony with all rights guaranteed under the constitution, but in their direct application to the Japanese, it discussed the treaty with Japan, concluding that it guaranteed the subjects of that empire no such right as that for which they contended in the matter of owning or leasing land.

The Parcel Post Service in the first ten years of its existence has brought into the post office department revenues totaling about $1,100,000,000 according to dispatches from Washington on October 6. In 1921 alone, department records show, 1,071,000,000 packages weighing from a few ounces to seventy pounds were carried in the mails as parcel post. In the first year, 1913, the total was 417,000,000. In 1913 parcel post revenues amounted to $40,038,163, and in 1921 had climbed to $139,605,717. Figures for the fiscal year of 1922 are not yet complete, but it is estimated the revenue will approximate $160,000,000.

The Cost of Living in the United States has gone down the fraction of a point in the past thirty days, and now stands at just a little above sixty per cent over the cost as of July, 1914, on the eve of the great war. The fraction of 1 per cent is not much, and few people will notice such small changes whether they go up or downward. There has been a big drop since the peak of prices in 1920. This peak was reached in July, 1920, when the percentage increase over July, 1914, stood at 104. This time three years ago the cost of living was almost exactly 100 per cent, or twice as much as that of the same month in 1914. There has been a reduction of 44 points from the maximum, or about one-fourth. Three thousand dollars will buy as much now as $4,000 bought three years ago. But $3,000 today will buy no more than $1,800 bought in July, 1914. The table given below will show the changes in the buying power of incomes in the years 1914, 1920 and 1923:

$ 1,000	$ 2,000	$ 1,600
2,000	4,000	3,200
3,000	6,000	4,400
5,000	10,000	8,000
10,000	20,000	16,000
20,000	40,000	32,000
50,000	100,000	80,000

Five Truck Loads of Gospels Shipped to Japan.—Five truck loads of Gospels printed in Japanese are being ing shipped by the American Bible Society to its representatives in Japan. More than 500,000 volumes of the Gospels have been printed in New York by photographic process to supply the unusual needs caused by the recent earthquake in Tokyo and Yokohama. Practically all of the Bible plates for twenty-five or more languages and dialects of the far East were totally destroyed, together with the printing plant, at which Bibles for Japan, China, Siam and the Philippine Islands were printed. The shipment made last week is the first of a series of books to be printed in this country until the society has secured funds for the replacement of its plates and the establishment of printing processes in Japan. Mr. Gilbert Darlington, treasurer, declared it is the largest single shipment of scripture portions ever made by the society.

Decrease in Tax Revenues in 1921.—The treasury collected income and profits taxes from 7,018,573 individuals and firms for the calendar year 1921, receipts from this source totalling $1,420,962,438. A statistical report made public last week by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, shows that such revenue decreased approximately $1,250,000,000 from 1920, while there was a reduction of about 600,000 in the number of persons and firms making returns. Of the total number of returns filed, 6,662,176 were by individuals. Reductions in the amount of taxes paid and the number of returns filed as compared with 1920 extend all along the line from the persons paying taxes on income of $1,000 to the maximum class of $1,000,000 or more. There were only twenty-one in the latter class in 1921, while in 1920, the records show, thirty-three persons admitted having incomes in the class of $1,000,000 and over.

THERE'S NO "BEST BREED" SAYS POULTRY SPECIALIST

Which is the best breed is a question often asked us. In answer we have to say that there is no best breed. You can find good and poor layers, large and small birds comparatively in every breed. It is the strain more than the breed that is really the more important thing to consider.

There are three recognized general classes of poultry, the small birds or so-called egg-producing class, the medium-sized bird, or the so-called dual-purpose class, and the extreme large or the meat class. There is no great distinction between the egg class or the dual so far as the egg production is concerned, for many of the medium meat breeds are good egg layers. And in the small-sized birds which are considered for egg laying only, there are oftentimes found individuals that will weigh from five to five-and-one-half pounds and these would make a fairly good meat bird.

In regard to the breed you would like to have, it is suggested that you decide upon whether you want eggs primarily, or whether you want general-purpose breeds. When you have made this decision, pick out the breed which you like best, because this is the breed with which you will get the best results. Then after you have picked the breed that you like best, buy your stock or eggs from a breeder whom you know has bred for the thing that you desire.

This may be egg production, or it may be show purposes, or it may be a combination. You can find many breeders who have bred for egg production, but their stock may not be worth very much for show purposes, and their show stock, in turn, may not be worth very much for egg production. You can find a small per cent of breeders who have combined these two qualities and of course their stock would naturally be worth more because of this combination.

Just as a parting caution, be sure you know the breeder from whom you are buying your stock and be sure that he has the strain of birds which have the qualities which you desire. — H. Embleton, Poultry Specialist, Colorado Agricultural College.

MAKING OF SAUSAGE.

The hams and bacon are by no means all the valuable part of a hog, the sausage, lard and other by-products coming in for a large part of attention. To make good sausage, trim so that about a third of it will be fat. There will usually be about that proportion in the meat trimmed that cannot be used in lard. In seasoning sausage, use for every fifty pounds of meat one pound of salt, two ounces sage, two ounces black pepper and a teaspoonful of cayenne or half a dozen pods of red pepper dried and pulverized. Cut the meat in pieces of a size convenient for grinding, mix in the seasoning and grind. The seasoning may be put in after grinding, but if added first it will be more uniformly mixed. For immediate use, the sausage may be put down in crocks or jars, or it may be stuffed in canvas bags and hung in a cool dry place, it will keep thus until warm weather. For keeping until summer, fry the sausage, pack in jars or tin buckets and cover with melted lard. Do not use the grease it is fried in for covering, since it will contain some water and will become strong.

CROSS PLAINS SCHOOL BOARD.

The school board in session Tuesday night, ordered an election for Saturday, Dec. 29, for the purpose of increasing the local school maintenance tax rate, not to exceed one dollar on the hundred. The board acted upon a petition which had been presented to them asking for said election. The rate is to be what is called a flexible rate, to be in accordance with the needs and each year's requirements of the school, but not to exceed $1 on the $100 valuation.—Cross Plains Review.

WEEKLY GUSHER

LET US BE GRATEFUL. Thanksgiving day is one of the oldest and one of the most characteristic observations of the American people.

Let us be grateful for our health and prosperity, for our successes, for our varied opportunities, for our comfortable homes, our plentiful tables, and our good harvests.

Y HOSPITALITY. GLADDENS GAY GUESTS. That the Hi-Y boys are charming, courteous, and "refreshing" hosts, very guest fortunate enough to be present at the Hi-Y picnic given on Saturday night at the Hi-Y cabin on Bacon farm, will most enthusiastically concede.

My gardener adores each flower Each bud he'll watch for many an hour. He loves to see each blossom ope And over each he broods with hope.

C. H. S. EX WINS HONOR AT BAYLOR.

Miss Lerma Baten, ex-student of C. H. S. and Freshman at Baylor College, tied for first honors in a poetry contest recently held at Baylor. The poem is given below.

MY GARDEN. I have a little garden plot, It's on a quiet, pleasant spot, I keep it with the tenderest care; And my reward is blossoms rare.

I have a little winding walk Which leads me to each tiny stalk, There's not a single stem of green That any time cannot be seen.

My garden adores each flower Each bud he'll watch for many an hour. He loves to see each blossom ope And over each he broods with hope.

One-Pound Baby Was Buried Under Flowers; Man Tried to Buy Body

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. — Funeral services for Marie Rogers, 20 days old, Houston's one-pound baby, who died Friday night, were held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Every florist in Houston sent flowers, dozens of interested persons in the city sent bouquets and the wee body went to Holy Cross cemetery under a mound of blossoms.

The child had been kept alive for nearly three weeks by imbibing drops of milk diluted with whisky from a medicine dropper. She was but fifteen inches long, and at her fattest stage barely tipped the scales at one pound. Her mother, Mrs. G. W. Rogers, is gravely ill. She is but 15 years old, and four months before the child's birth was ill with typhoid malaria.

A cloud lung over the little home, where Marie had just died Friday night, when a heavy knock came at the door.

Mrs. E. A. Blanc, grandmother of the child, opened the door to find a tall, heavy-set man standing there. He carried a suit case.

"Is this where that one-pound baby is?" he asked. The grandmother said, "yes, but she has just died."

"I want to buy the body," the stranger said.

"No," Mrs. Blanc, who speaks but little English, managed to say.

"I'll give you $1,000 for it," said the man. He repeated the offer as Mrs. Blanc seemed unable to understand.

She finally screamed and slammed the door in the man's face. When other members of the family came to her rescue the man had gone.

THE BUTTER INDUSTRY.

Charles F. Juno, vice-president of The Bank of America, has been making a study of the butter and cheese markets of the metropolis and also of the sources of supply. It will come as a surprise to nearly everybody to learn that the total value of the butter produced in the United States during the year 1921 exceeded the value of the cotton crop of that year, was nearly three times the value of the tobacco crop and was not very far from the value of the wheat crop. Mr. Juno finds that the amount of these various commodities were worth: butter, $649,475,331.00; cotton, $643,933,000; tobacco, $223,755,000; wheat, $737,068,000. In the northeastern part of the United States the production of market milk far exceeds the production of butter. The main source of New York City's butter supply is the great agricultural states of what is generally termed the Middle West. Minnesota is far in the lead with more than 80,000,000 pounds. Iowa is second with more than 43,000,000, Illinois, third, and Nebraska, fourth. Canada supplied less than 1,900,000 pounds and only 390,884 pounds came from other countries.—Holstein Breeders and Dairyman.

William Allen White, in the Emporia Gazette, says, "Until the farmer has learned the organization game, the game that fixes prices and gives up its independence for the right to prosper, the game that all the world has learned in the last 200 years, the farmer's cake is dough."

An immense dam is being thrown across the Dix River near Burgin, Kentucky, which when completed will be the highest dam east of the Rocky Mountains. Two auxiliaries are now under construction which will generate more than 125,000 turbine horse power.

Sassafras, harvested and manufactured into paper in Lake county, Florida, was used in a recent issue of the Leesburg Commercial, a local newspaper, which predicts great future for the industry. In view of the growing scarcity of pulpwood this is interesting.

Let Us be Thankful

More than three hundred years ago our Pilgrim Fathers saw fit to thank the Almighty Giver of all good blessings for their preservation through the storms and starvation that beset them during their sojourn in a new land. They thanked God for sparing their lives and for sending the blessings of a bountiful harvest, and so a feast was prepared and with all the fervor of their strong natures, they gave thanks.

And in commemoration of that spirit of thankfulness, we ask all our friends and patrons to join with us in a true feeling of thanksgiving for the innumerable blessings of our Creator during the past year.

Talk It Over With Him

Since the boy of today is the man of tomorrow, you owe it to him as well as to yourself to talk over the problems of life with him and give him the benefit of your experience.

One of the most vital lessons is that taught by the Bank Book. A marked step in your boy's life is recorded when you show him the value of a Savings Account.

We invite you to come here and have your talk where surroundings will give added weight to what you say.

Thanksgiving--Day

What is it and what does it mean to us?

The first Thanksgiving Day was in November, 1621, by the Pilgrim Fathers.

All down through the years since that date we have as a Christian Nation set aside this Autumn day as the end of Harvest Time to give thanks for the golden grain and the blessings that come with it as a Nation and as individuals.

How proud we are of this opportunity to give sincere thanks for the prosperity of Cisco and its community and we are truly thankful for the loyalty and confidence of Our Customers and friends.
