"CROSS PLAINS IS ONE OF THE WONDERS"

—H. J. Cureton.

H. J. Cureton was in town this week in the interest of matters pertaining to the townsite company and in discussing the future of Cross Plains had the following to say to the Editor:

"The growth of Cross Plains is one of the wonders of the many wonders of the rapidly growing southwest. Less than three months ago the first town lots were sold. At that time this townsite was but a landscape consisting of fields and patches of beautiful oak trees. Now it is the scene of the greatest town building in all this state today. I believe that it is well without the truth to say that its growth in so short a time is without parallel in the way of substantial growth. Fifteen and more brick buildings nearing completion, modern in every way a credit to any town in Texas. Over twenty thousand feet of water mains reaching the entire limits of the townsite. A sixty thousand gallon reservoir nearing completion, resting upon its 75 foot steel tower, massive in every way, something unique and grand at the very beginning of the town. I think the records can be safely defied to bring forth a single instance in all the great and growing southwest, where the business district of any town sprang into existence with solid rows of bricks at its very beginning; and where complete waterworks of this character and substantialness were constructed at the very beginning.

I also understand that thousands of feet of cement sidewalks are contracted to be laid, covering practically the entire business district. I have just finished a drive over apart of the great trade area of Cross Plains. It is without an equal and the outlook is splendid for 1911. Infact could not be rosier. The townsite company is making its word good to the very letter in all things and the people who have purchased property here are doing likewise. Together we will build a great city. I notice that we are to vote for bonds for a fine brick public school building second to none in surrounding cities of this section of the state. Nobody is going to come here and buy this land of yours and mine without we have the school facilities. The townsite company will be by far the greatest taxpayer and we say hurrah for it.

Will Cross Plains remain the terminus of the Texas Central? I think the circumstances point to this in uncontroverted terms. When the Katy bought the Texas Central, it had the right to accept the company's contracts with all the towns from De Leon to Abilene. After the purchase it very promptly vetoed all contracts west of Cross Plains. Why? It should be perfectly apparent that the Katy is interested only in this branch of the Texas Central as feeder to its main lines. If it should build on to Abilene, it would there have to share the rich local tonnage of this section with the trunk lines that enter Abilene. As it is, it shares with none of them, but gets to haul every ton of freight that originates on the branch, clear to Waco thence via its main line to points north and south. It would be folly for it to build on up to Abilene and cut its own nose off. Ending at Cross Plains, it gets all the rich tonnage originating between the T & P on the north and the Santa Fe on the south, just the same as if it went on to Abilene; then why make the little stretch on up to Abilene and give part of it to the T & P and the Burlington, or by the A & S to the Santa Fe? Did the great Katy system cancel the contract west of Cross Plains because it did not have the money to build it at this time? Who is foolish enough to believe that? Could it not have been built on to Abilene cheaper now than it ever can? Its building force was organized. The Katy management saw the strategy of stopping at Cross Plains, and stopped it there immediately after the purchase. The same reason does not exist in favor of the Katy with its main line at Waco as existed with the Texas Central as an independent line. Consequently the Katy adopted a different policy and stopped the branch at Cross Plains for the reasons stated. It will remain the terminus in my judgement indefinitely."

The School trustees have ordered an election for April 29, for the purpose of voting bonds to the amount of $15,000 to build a school building in Cross Plains adequate and suitable for our needs next year. Let's all turn out and show the world that we believe in education.

Citation by Publication.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Callahan County—Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon Lula D. McQueen by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 42nd Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 42nd Judicial District, to appear at the regular term of the District Court of Callahan County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Baird, Texas, on the Second Monday in May A. D. 1911, the same being the 8th day of May A. D. 1911, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 13th day of March A. D. 1911 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No 1074, wherein I. Q. McQueen is plaintiff, and Lula D. McQueen is defendant and said petition alleging.

That the residence of the defendant is unknown, and that plaintiff is a actual bonafied inhabitant of the state of Texas, and has resided in Callahan County for more than one year next preceeding the filing of this suit.

That on or about the ninth day of June, 1899, plaintiff and defendant were legally married in Brown County, Texas, and continued to live together as husband and wife in said Brown County, Texas, until on or about the 16th day of January 1909 when defendant, voluntarily without cause or consent of plaintiff, abandoned the said plaintiff.

That plaintiff and defendant, during the time that they lived and cohabited together, had three children born to them to-wit; Laura, a girl about ten years of age, Blanche, a girl about seven years of age and Fred, a boy, four years of age.

That during all of said time plaintiff conducted himself with propriety, and always treated his said wife with kindness and forbearance, but that defendant, disregarding the solemnity of her marriage vows and her obligations to treat plaintiff with kindness and attention, treated plaintiff and his children very cruelly by abandoning them for the purpose of living in adultery with one George Norman.

That defendant in the spring of 1909 left Brown County in company with her said paramour and about one year afterwards sent back for her household goods and had said goods sent her under an assumed name. Said defendant took with her her little boy Fred but left in Brown County, Texas, her two little girls Laura and Blanche.

At defendants' cruel and outrageous treatment towards plaintiff as herein alleged renders their further living together as husband and wife insupportable. That said marriage still exists.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited in terms of law to answer this petition, and that he have judgement that the marriage between him and defendant be dissolved and that plaintiff have the custody, control and education of said children, Laura and Blanche.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have before said Court, as it's aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have excused the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court, at office in Baird, Texas this the 22nd day of March A. D. 1911.

J. R. Black, Clerk.
District Court, Callahan County.

THIS HORSETHIEF IS ABOUT RIGHT ABOUT IT

From the Rocky Mountain News.

Yesterday the News published a story of a prisoner in the Kansas penitentiary, Jerry Chouteau. Jerry is a horsethief. He admits it; he makes no complaint of the way the law treats either himself or most of his fellows. "But," he says "how about those we've left behind us, those wives and babies? We're scoundrels, or we wouldn't be here. But those we left behind were not guilty; and they're the ones who have to do the suffering."

And Jerry Chouteau, convicted confessed horsethief, is working with all his poor power to get the state to provide a home for the wives and children of those who are sent to prison.

It seems to us that Jerry has got the stick by the right end. He wants the convicts to be paid some little wages for the work they do, and have these wages devoted to the support of the convicts' wives and children.

"The state pays us 12 cents a day in the binder twine factory." He says, "Why can't it pay us 50 cents and put it into the support of a home for those wives and babies?" Why, indeed? And for that matter, why should not the state pay whatever the work is worth? If a man is sent to prison for theft, is that any reason why the state should set him a thief's example by stealing his wages?

As things stand today, our criminal system is rather less than half a forecast of the civilization that lies before, and rather more than half a relic of the barbarism that lies not so very far behind. The old idea of revenge still prevails. The state does not say to any offender: "You have proven yourself unfit to run at large. You must be restrained until there is good evidence that you have become a law abiding citizen, and until you have done as much as may be to right the harm done by your crime. Aside from the restrictions necessary to safeguard your fellows and reimburse those you have wronged, you are as free as before. You must earn your own living; and having earned it, you will receive it. No one will be allowed to cheat you. No one will flog you to labor or steal the products of your industry. If you have a wife and children, your earnings will be turned over to them. As soon as you have proven yourself fit for liberty, liberty is yours."

Ah, no. The state says nothing of the sort. The state says: "Hal hal I've caught you! Steal, will you? I'll show you how little you know about that business. I'll steal your time. I'll steal your reason and ambition with idleness; or maybe I'll work you and steal your wages. Either way, you lose; and there's no use in raising a disturbance. You're my property, my slave, my forfeited pawn in the game of the law; and by the time I'm through with you you'll know so much of thieving and so little of anything else that I can tell your trade for the rest of your life without witnesses."

That is what the state says now. And that is why we wish this horsethief down at Lansing could get a chance to appear before the Kansas Legislature and give it a little instruction in the ethics and common sense.

We heard of a man, at Rising Star, the other day who was so crooked that he had to screw his boots on with a monkey wrench. This same man said Cross Plains would never amount to anything, only a Boom etc. Well Brother Bootscrew it is about the most substantial Boom we ever witnessed. 18 Brick buildings, two of them two stories high, and a $10,000 water works system, all in two months is going just a little. Watch us later.

Remember "Down on the Farm" a rural play in three acts at the Air Dome Saturday night.

See those new hats, at Mrs. Stewarts.

It was evident in his swagger that he was a scion of the British aristocracy, and the most casual observer could not have failed to note that he was a stranger to the city. He touched a well dressed, auburn haired young man who was lolling in front of a Broadway hotel on the shoulder.

"Pardon me, me dear man but could I trouble you for a match?" After lighting his cigar, he continued; "Bah Jove, this is a remarkable city. This is me first visit to New York, d'ye know? I'm a deuced stranger, but on the other side I'm a person of importance. I am Sir Francis Daffy, Knight of the Garter, Knight of the Bath, Knight of the Double Eagle, Knight of the Golden Fleece, Knight of the Iron Cross. D, ye mind telling me your name, me dear man?"

Replied he of the auburn hair, in a deep, rich burgue;

"Me name is Michael Murphy, night before last, night before that, last night, tonight, and every dam night—Michael Murphy!"

Stamford will let the contract within the next few days for six blocks of paving, giving the city a total of thirty-four blocks of permanent street pavement.

From the beginning the farmer has been the biggest man in history, not excepting the man on the throne and the man behind the spear and gun, and it is a hopeful sign that this fact is now recognized by the best thinkers in the world.

Farming is becoming a science in Texas. It is being conducted on a business basis for the purpose of making money, not purely for scratching from the soil a bare existence. As a result the percentage of agricultural failures are becoming less and the proportion of success is taking rank with other lines of industry.

The Secretary of the Commercial Club has received a letter from a Laundry man at Colorado, Texas, inquiring about the location of a Laundry at Cross Plains. The gentleman states that he has investigated nearly every town in West Texas and that Cross Plains is more promising than any of the others. All of us know what a good laundry means for a town. The gentleman says if he puts in a laundry here, that it will employ about twelve people to start with, and of course they will all spend their money in Cross Plains.

The Commercial Club should get busy at once and secure this Laundry if possible.

The following is said to have been the production of a printer after having imbibed to a limited degree on boot-leg hydrant water.

He had been given the account of a wedding to set up which he got mixed with a sale bill as follows:

PUBLIC SALE.—William O. Jones, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Jones, was disposed of at public auction to Miss Lucy Anderson on my farm 1 mile east of Leonardville in the presence of several guests, including the following to-wit: 7 mules, 12 head of cattle, Rev. Jackson tied the knot, weight 1200 pounds on foot. The beautiful home of the bride was tastily decorated with one John Deer plow, 1 sulky hay rake 1 feed grinder 1 set double harness, and just before the ceremony was pronounced Mendelsohns wedding march was given by 1 muly cow, 1 Jersey cow to be fresh in April carrying a large bouquet of flowers wearing a gown of 300 shocks of corn 9 stacks of hay, 40 acres of wheat and a lot of other feed stuff.

The groom is a young man of good character and always stood well in society circles with 12 Berkshire pigs and 6 Durocks, while the bride is an accomplished and talented teacher of a splendid sheep' including one ram with pedigree.

Among the beautiful wedding presents were a beautiful set of spoons, 2 sets of knives and forks, one steam engine and thrasher, 1 reaper and mower, a wheelbarrow, 1 go-cart and o'her articals to numerous to mention.

The bridal couple left yesterday for an extended honeymoon trip. Terms 9 months. Lunch will be served after which Mr. and Mrs. Jones will be at home to their many friends in their new home at the corner of Water street, Colonel L. B. Bran auctioneer.

The Tom |Cat.

A strange, weird beast of dingy gray, he goes his silent lonely way. Domestic joys are not for him; he wanders where the lights are dim; the fireside, where the Tabbies dream, to Tom does not alluring seem; no childish hands to him be-deck, he wears no ribbon on his neck. He bears the marks of many scraps wherein he battled well, perhaps, and there are hummocks on his side, where buckshot mingled with his hide, and he has spaces here and there where bootjacks rubbed away the hair. He looks up with his yellow eyes so calm, inscrutable and wise, and takes a handout at my door, then goes, and comes again no more. He has no home, nor would have one; he has no friend, and asks for none. He wants no inglenook nor wife; adventure is his spice of life. For him the fierce and warlike screech, for him the imminent deadly breach, the midnight fray in the slums with other martial feline bums. And if a mellow mood should start in his old tough and wayward heart he'll sing a song so sad and strange that every blunderbuss in range will send a pound or two of shot to cheer his harsh and irksome lot. And thus he goes his friendless way, 'til at the dawning of some day, we find him in the alley dead, all cluttered up with bricks and lead.—Walt Mason.

The Beaumont Enterprise is published down in the rice belt of Texas and its editor is a sensible fellow and a loyal citizen of his country. He is advocating the placing of rice on the bill of fare of the army. He calls attention to the fact that rice is a healthful food, that it can be obtained at reasonable figures and urges the authorities to try it as a regular army diet. The Enterprise is to be commended upon its efforts to have the products of its home properly recognized.—Abilene Reporter.

That's the idea. While they are in Texas make 'em eat Texas grub. It isn't necessary to limit the bill of fare to rice. There's Corpus cabbage, Laredo onions, Beeville honey Denison peanuts, Honey Grove buttermilk and other things to numerous to mention.—Beaumont Enterprise.

An enthusiastic farmer in the Miles country sees his farm white with cotton which he expects to plant and bring to maturity this fall. He has even gone to the trouble to inquire for the price of newspaper space in which to advertise for cotton pickers. A man like that, so rich in imagination, ought to take a page by the year and tell the newspaper man to fix the price as high as he pleased.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Good for the optimistic agriculturist. Optimism is not an exaggerated virtue in the farming man. Ordinarily the man of husbandry is inclined to gloom. There is too much rain or too little, too early a frost or too late, too many insects or not enough cotton choppers, too much grass in the corn or too little in the pasture. Things are never just right on the farm. But they are never just right anywhere. And as long as the Texan can get fifteen cents a pound for his cotton and twenty-five dollars a ton for cotton seed he will take an occasional peep at the silver lining behind his own particular cloud.—Dallas News.

WILL NOT LAY DOWN ARMS

El Paso Texas, April 4.—"We will not lay down our arms until Diaz is out," was the declaration made this morning by members of the insurrecto junta which has headquarters here. Despite the resignation of the cabinet of President Diaz it is said that Madero, the leader of the insurrectos will continue to stop railroad and telegraph communication throughout northern Mexico, and will make a strong effort to capture other towns as fast as he can get to them. The junta here expresses it as their opinion that the resignation of the cabinet means the ultimate end of the present political regime.

KILLED AT ROBERT LEE

As a result of a caving in of the river bank near Robert Lee four men were buried alive at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and died before aid could reach them. The dead: Frank Casey, age 23; Jim Rushing, age 18; B. Morrow, age 18 and Morrin Hall, age 20.

The victims were engaged in digging a hole at the foot of an embankment 15 feet high on the south side of the Colorado river for a bridge pillar and had reached a depth of 6 feet, when, without the slightest warning, the bank above, loosened by a half inch rain, gave way and toppled over on the laborers, covering them with three tons of dirt. Only about 12 inches of dirt separated Rushing from the surface, indicating that he had made a desperate effort to extricate himself and would have succeeded had he been one moment quicker. The other men were buried under six feet of dirt.

Roy Quinton, age 23, who was working nearer the surface than his companions, was buried to his waist and was extricated from his perilous position by Tom Goss who used his hands in digging the young man out. Immediately after freeing Quinton, which required only a few moments Goss, who was superintending the job of repairing the bridge, ran to a phone, one half mile away, and reported the terrible catastrophe to the phone operator at Robert Lee.

The news spread with lightning quickness throughout Robert Lee and soon 100 citizens with picks and shovels were removing dirt from above their unfortunate townsmen. Owing to the distance that Mr. Goss had to run to reach a phone, it was thirty minutes after the men were buried before the rescuing party reached the scene, and it required fully a half hour or longer to remove the immense lot of dirt packed into the hole where the victims were working.—San Angelo Standard.

SWAT THE FLIES

Now that spring is here and the fly has begun to hum it is time to wage a fight on the pest that will keep in tact the health of the community, and by beginning now while the cool nights still are with us we can handle the fly with all ease.

Dig deep pits for the closets and use plenty lime and Blue Stone and you will not be bothered with the flies. Take the old sprinkler and place in it a quarter of a pound of Blue Stone and sprinkle the garbage and you will not be bothered with flies.

Lime is cheap and will insure health and will keep them down.

The medical profession tells us that Typhoid is scattered by flies and dust, but that the majority of the cases are carried from place to place by the flies.

Now is the time to screen and begin to fight this pest and the longer we put it off the more we have to fight.

Clean up and keep clean is the only sure remedy as the fly is bred in filth, and his first visit to your place may as likely as not take you a case of fever, so now is the time to stop him while he is young and times are good. It has been truly said: "In time of peace prepare for war."

Easter is coming. See my new line of hats and ladies wear. Mrs. Stewart.

ALL ON BOARD LOST

Victoria, British Columbia March 25.—With thirty-nine passengers and crew on board, the steamer Sechelt, a small shelter dock steamer operated between Victoria and Sooke by the British Columbia Shipping Company, capsized off Beachy Head late yesterday. It is believed all on board were lost.

The Sechelt left yesterday afternoon with the laborers who were bound to the Canadian Northern railroad construction camp at Peddar Bay. She carried a crew of four men with Capt. H. B. James, manager of the company, in command. This morning a boy arrived at Esquimalt in a gasoline launch, from William Head quarantine station, with news that the steamer had capsized. All that the boy knew was that the vessel had capsized and he believed all were drowned.

The tug William Jolliffe was sent to the relief of the Sechelt. Not until news is received from the tug will it be known what was the fate of those on board the capsized steamer.

The Sechelt was eighty-two feet in length with a gross register of seventy-three tons.

Pawhusks Ok., March 28.—Capt Ernest Woodsack, an eccentric socialist of Lincoln county, has been prospecting in this locality. Mr. Woodsack's extensive pastures are matted with Japanese clover, and his ten-acre vineyard is no doubt the best kept grapeery in the state.

Mr. Woodsack is somewhat of a rustic philosopher. He claims to have solved the riddle. "What makes roosters crow?" He says that the lurid combs on the fowls' heads are attractors of electricity, and that when sufficient electricity has been accumulated in the bird, the rooster crows.

Pottsville, Pa. March 30—Joseph Christock who was hanged today for the murder of Mrs. Richards declined the proffered assistance of a priest and deputy sheriff and ran lightly up the gallows steps.

About the gallows stood 1500 people, to whom Christock waved his hand. Then he reached up grasped the noose and placed it around his neck. "Good bye, all" he said smilingly.

Christock made a complete confession, declaring that he shot the woman when he was detected by her attempting to mistreat her daughter. He joked of death to the very end and said he deserved to be hanged.

LORIMER CASE TO BE RE-OPENED

Washington, April 3.—Senator La Follette is credited here with inspiring the movement to reopen the William Lorimer election case before the bar of the United States senate as a result of a declaration by H. H. Kohlsaat, Chicago publisher, at the Springfield inquiry, that he was informed $100,000 was raised to elect the junior senator from Illinois. All that is required to reopen the investigation is the ability to show that new and vital evidence has been unearthed. Regarding the case, the Washington Times prints the following.

"The Lorimer case will be reopened soon after congress convenes next Tuesday. This prediction was made by a member of the United States senate who has made a close study of the Lorimer case.

"Immediately after the senate convenes this senator will introduce a resolution similar in terms to the one introduced at the last session by Senator Beveridge of Indiana, declaring Lorimer's seat vacant.

To Get the Facts Now. "Sensational developments are expected in the Lorimer case in the next few days. The Illinois legislature is investigating. A United States senator who led in the fight on Lorimer said:

We expect that specific testimony will come within the next few days telling who furnished the money said to have been used to buy the Lorimer votes, who took it to Springfield, and who got it.

"The facts in this matter were known in the last days of the late session, but the legal proof could not be commanded in time for employment.

"We know that a man in Chicago expecting that we might make a sudden move to force his testimony kept his bag packed for days ready to start for Canada the instant we should move.

Bowman, the tall Polytechnic pitcher who is slated for a trial with the Panthers, is sick with the mumps and will hardly be able to participate in any more of the college games. His absence was felt in Thursday's game with the Texas Christian University.

Ellis Hardy, it is understood, has been negotiating with several of the T. C. U. players offering them attractive propositions to report to him as soon as the college schedule is completed. Among the number are Halship and Dodd.

Purtell, who figured in the famous Red Sox-White Sox trade last summer, is playing second base for Boston in the absence of Gardner, who is out of the game because of injuries. Purtell himself isn't in the best of condition because of a sore arm.

A large delegation of Hill county people attended the ball game in Dallas yesterday to see Tris Speaker perform. The grandstand is said to have obtained at least 100 visitors from Hubbard City, Hillsboro and nearby points.

Eddie Karger, the other Texas boy with the Red Sox, is now with regular division. He is pitching for the Colt division, which took the northern route home from California.

Muskogee tried to get into Fort Worth Saturday and Sunday, but Morris turned the offer down, preferring to take on the Cleburne team.

Owner James Weaver of the Panthers and Fred Nossworthy of Waxahachie are in the city today to see the last of the big league games.

Carrigan, the star catcher of the Boston team, and Bradley, who is touted to be Stahl's successor on first base, are both slightly injured and will be unable to play here this afternoon. Stahl, the star first sacker, quit the game to engage in the banking business in Chicago.

The Red Sox did well in Abilene. Their share of the receipts was more than $300. Patsy Donovan is tickled to death with his visit to the West Texas city.

Walter Morris pays a high compliment to Joe Gardner's team. "They look mighty good," commented the Panther owner Thursday after watching them play against the Red Sox in a 4 to 0 game.

Several members of the Cleburne team, which plays in Fort Worth Saturday and Sunday, came in last night and will witness the Panther Red Sox game today.

Janvrin, who graduated last spring from a high school in Boston, is playing third base for the Red Sox Regulars. He is only 18 years of age.

Leidy's Bronchos will play Southwestern University at Georgetown Saturday. Santone will face perhaps the strongest college team in the state in the Methodist. Last week they defeated Austin in one game and tied the Senators in an eleven-inning contest.

Assuming your land is sufficiently drained and has fertility enough to justify you in planting it with crops, then only four things on your part are needed for a good yield.

First—Careful and deep preparation. Deep plowing and harrowings, if well done, will give this.

Second—Selection of good seed. This means not only seed of good varieties, but also seed of strong vitality, so that you will be reasonably sure that seed you plant will germinate and grow into strong stalks. Care in seed selection is very important with every crop you plant.

Third—Spacing of plants. Proper spacing by width between plants in rows, should be in accord with the soil you cultivate. This requires close attention, as a slight difference in strength of soil will make quite a difference in spacing.

Fourth—Careful and shallow cultivation. Cultivation should be shallow and rapid. Shallow, because deep plowing cuts and breaks the young roots and seriously injures the crop: If you do not know how the roots of cotton and corn grow, then find out, and you will agree on shallow cultivation. When your neighbor has plowed deep and still made a fair yield, this was in spite of deep cultivation and had he plowed shallow and so protected roots, the yield would have been larger. Rapid cultivation, because the more you plow your crop the better the yield, also rapid cultivation enables you to get over crop when soil is in the best condition and thus you hasten growth.

Don't wait for grass to grow. Do your full duty before grass grows and you can keep crop clean. Every sprig of grass and every weed takes moisture and substance from the soil that should be used by your crops, and by proper cultivation you can prevent this.

In the game of farming we must use our heads. Think out why you do this or that on your farm, and in this way you will soon know the reason for things and then you will know just what is best for your soil. —Commercial Appeal.

Champ Says "Go South."

Chicago, March 15—"Go south, my boy, go South," says Champ Clark of Missouri, the speaker of next national house. Congressman Clarke spoke upon a number of other things in an interview with representatives of the press, but he talked most about the South—even more than running for President.

"The South is the place and my advice is to go there," said Mr. Clark. "You won't eat as much as you do here in the North. If you do you'll die. Your clothing must be lighter, and therefore less expensive. You won't have to buy fuel to speak of and you can allow your horses and cattle to graze out of doors the year around.

"Believe me, the South is the poor man's land, and you'll live to see the day when the South is going to be the richest part of the United States.

"Why, say, I know a man who made $15,000 in one year off three acres of lettuce. Sounds fishy, doesn't it? True, though, for I took the pains to find out. It's a great country, boys and if you want a tip follow my advice. That is, go early to the Southland and grow up with its progress."

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact. Yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

A rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to show, But none the less most roosters have enough good sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beast, has a persistent way Of letting people know he's around by his insistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz, bulls bellow and cows moo, Watch-dogs bark, ganders quack, doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squawks, pigs squeal and robins sing, and even serpents know enough to hiss before they sting.

But man, the greatest masterpiece that nature could devise. Will often stop and hesitate before he'll ADVERTISE.

NEW COTTON PEST.

Austin, Tex. April 4.—The Department of Agriculture has received a report from Goliad County of the discovery of a new cotton pest which has just made its appearance in that section of the state. The pest is described as a jointed worm which jumps like a flea. A. Delagarza, a Goliad County farmer, reports 400 acres destroyed in one night, and 600 additional acres threatened. The worm has thus far not made its appearance during daytime but is active at night.

State Entomologist, Professor Ernest Scholl, will leave for Goliad County tomorrow night to make an investigation of the pest with a view of applying some relief. While in that section Prof. Scholl will also make an investigation of reported maldigoma, the plant disease, and the phylloxera pest recently reported as having done great damage to citrus trees and grapevines.

A ten-year-old child, who was a junior member of the Christian church, came home from a union meeting in a most indignant frame of mind. "The minister asked all the children that were Christians to please rise," she cried, "and what do you think? All those pesky little Methodists stood up!"

It is thought by some that W. J. Bryan will again be the Democratic candidate for the President in 1912.

If Bryan pops up again as a candidate for the Presidency, he will, under confronting circumstances, have the support of politicians not heretofore identified with his party. Some of the insurgent Republicans in Congress, notably some of the insurgent Senators are casting anchors to windward, and by windward in this connection is meant the Democratic side. Half open threats have been made that if Taft be renominated by the Republicans they will support the Democratic nominee for Presidency, providing he be a man to their liking. Such a man might be Wilson, and it might also be Bryan.

"Yes?" drawled the Westerner, with some show of interest, "So does a woodpecker."
