"A Paper Dedicated To Building A Better Future For Clarendon And All Of Donley County"

Poll on Medical Center: Sell it

The opinion poll has been tabulated, and the taxpayers are in favor of selling the Medical Center Nursing Home.

The announcement was made at Tuesday night's Hospital Board meeting regarding the results of a postcard poll of Donley County taxpayers.

Between 4,700 and 4,800 were mailed out according to board chairman Judi Synek. Only 1,080 of the postage paid postcards were returned to the district by the deadline. The results were 856 to sell and 224 not to sell the Medical Center Nursing Home. Results were tabulated by Rabbit Osburn and Dr. James Bell.

The poll is non-binding on the hospital board which is considering the fate of the Medical Center and ultimately the future of the Donley County Hospital District. Bonds issued to build the Medical Center will be paid off in 1999.

Chamber names Christal for Saints' Roost Award

Terri Floyd selected as Woman of the Year, Mutt Graham is Man of the Year

W.R. "Billie" Christal was named the 1997 Saints' Roost Award Winner when the Clarendon-Donley County Chamber of Commerce held its annual banquet last Saturday night.

The award recognizes individuals who have given a lifetime of service to the community.

Christal served Donley County for 27 years as county judge. In addition, he has donated his time to the Lions Club and the Masonic Lodge and was a member of the Clarendon College Board of Regents. Christal was also recognized for being a gentleman — always warm, pleasant, and friendly.

Delbert Robertson and Don Stone were also nominated for the Saints' Roost Award.

Terri Floyd was named the 1997 Woman of the Year.

Terri works very hard for the community through her roles with the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Association. She generously supports local organizations and always supports the school and college.

Also nominated for Woman of the Year were Onita Thomas and Cloe Ann Newhouse.

Mutt Graham was named the 1997 Man of the Year.

Mutt was selected for his commitment and dedication to the Clarendon

Volunteer Fire Department for 50 years and the Associated Ambulance Authority for 11 years. In addition, he is associated with the Saints' Roost Museum Board and the Local Housing Authority Board. Most of all, Mutt has a very big heart.

Also nominated for Man of the Year were Bright Newhouse and James Owens.

More than 170 people attended Saturday's Valentine's Banquet.

The event was catered by the Bar-H Dude Ranch, and a silent auction was held before the meal was served.

Joe Frank Wheeler of Borger was the featured speaker for the evening. His motivational talk stressed the importance of "community" and helping one another.

This year's banquet committee was comprised of Terri Floyd, Anna Gay Cenicerros, Cindy Shelton, Mary White, Julie Mulanax, and Claudia Elliott. The banquet was sponsored in large part by Lone Star Gas, West Texas Utilities, Greenbelt Electric Coop., and Gilbert Texas Construction.

Herring National Bank working to restore historic bank building

The Herring National Bank continues its construction project to restore the bank building to its historic beginnings.

The bank began the remodeling and construction project in October 1997 in an attempt to restore the bank to its historic appearance and provide improved banking services for our customers.

"We have gone to great lengths to find as much original information and materials as we could to restore the bank," bank spokesman David Magar said.

"Over the years, the bank building has been remodeled several times. We have located original plans from 1910 which provide many of the details that will be incorporated into the building," he said. "It has taken a great deal of time to try locate brick to match the original brick that is currently on the building."

According to Magar, brick suppliers have been unable to locate brick matching the original. The bank is having new brick made to match.

"As you can imagine, the search for the original plans, the architect preparing construction plans, as well as the search for the original brick has taken much longer than initially anticipated.

"The new brick is being made, and we should receive it by late March," Magar said. "In the meantime, we are going forward with as much of the remodeling as we can."

"We began construction on the drive up foundation on Monday. We also will begin changing out the windows soon. We hope to have the project finished by May," Magar said.

"The new drive up and other renovations further illustrate our commitment to provide improved banking services in Clarendon."

Workers continue to work this week on the new drive up tellers and ATM machines north of the Herring National Bank. Officials with the bank are also in the process of restoring the bank building's original 1910 facade.

More volunteers needed to help staff local Ambulances

The Associated Ambulance Authority met Monday afternoon in the Commissioners Courthouse of the Donley County Courthouse Annex.

At issue was the need for more volunteers to help staff the ambulances.

The Authority desperately needs additional volunteers to make ambulance runs — especially during the daytime — and to assist the paramedics.

Volunteers can be trained to help provide emergency assistance, but there is also a great need for people to drive the ambulance. To be a driver, simply passing CPR training is required.

This is a great opportunity for citizens to give something back to the community and help their neighbors.

Those interested in making the commitment to be a volunteer for the Authority are urged to call 874-3139.

Also, former EMS members are especially invited to the next board meeting on Monday, March 9, at 5 p.m.

Trustee candidate workshop offers information & insight

AMARILLO — Area school board candidates and interested citizens will have an opportunity to learn more about the challenges and rewards of trustee service at a school board candidate workshop, Thursday, February 26, 7-9 p.m. at the Region 16 Education Service Center (1601 South Cleveland, Amarillo).

The workshop will provide school board candidates and other interested citizens with a better understanding of what is involved in being elected and serving as a trustee. Experienced school board members will explain board members' key responsibilities and outline the qualities necessary for effective service.

Topics to be covered include the school board's duties and responsibilities, important ethical practices during board service, how board members are accountable for the education of students, and keys to responsible campaigns. Participants will also view A Call to Service, a Texas Association of School Boards' video highlighting many aspects of board service and featuring several experienced school trustees.

The workshop is open to all school board candidates, interested community members, and current school board members. Admission is free.

For more information, call Lisa Carothers at TASB, 512-467-0222 or 800-580-8272, extension 6161.

Reader urges citizens to write opposing proposed feedlot

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter to inform the citizens of Clarendon, Hedley, Memphis, Childress, Quanah, Crowell, and other small communities that could be affected of the potential danger to our fresh water source, Greenbelt Lake. I feel the citizens of Amarillo, Pampa, and anyone who enjoys Greenbelt as a recreation area should be informed, too.

A feedlot with the capacity to hold 6,500 head of cattle has applied for a permit to operate 1.5 miles from the west end of Greenbelt Lake. This feedlot sits on the watershed that feeds into Greenbelt! It is 100 to 300 feet from Kelly Creek which runs directly into the lake.

Can the communities who depend on this fresh water source from Greenbelt afford to lose it? Do those who enjoy this as a recreation area want to see it possibly ruined and perhaps suffer the same fate as Buffalo Lake? Considering the location of this feedlot, the potential of this happening is very real.

If anyone is under the impression that a permit to operate this facility has been issued... a permit has not been issued.

In talking with the TNRC (Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission) in Austin, AG Permitting Section, the "Application for Permit" to operate is there, waiting for review. This application was received in the early part of January.

Any opposition letters received concerning this feedlot will be dated and put into the TNRC database. These letters are reviewed at the same time as the application. Per the office of the Chief Clerk of the TNRC, opposition letters should be written now.

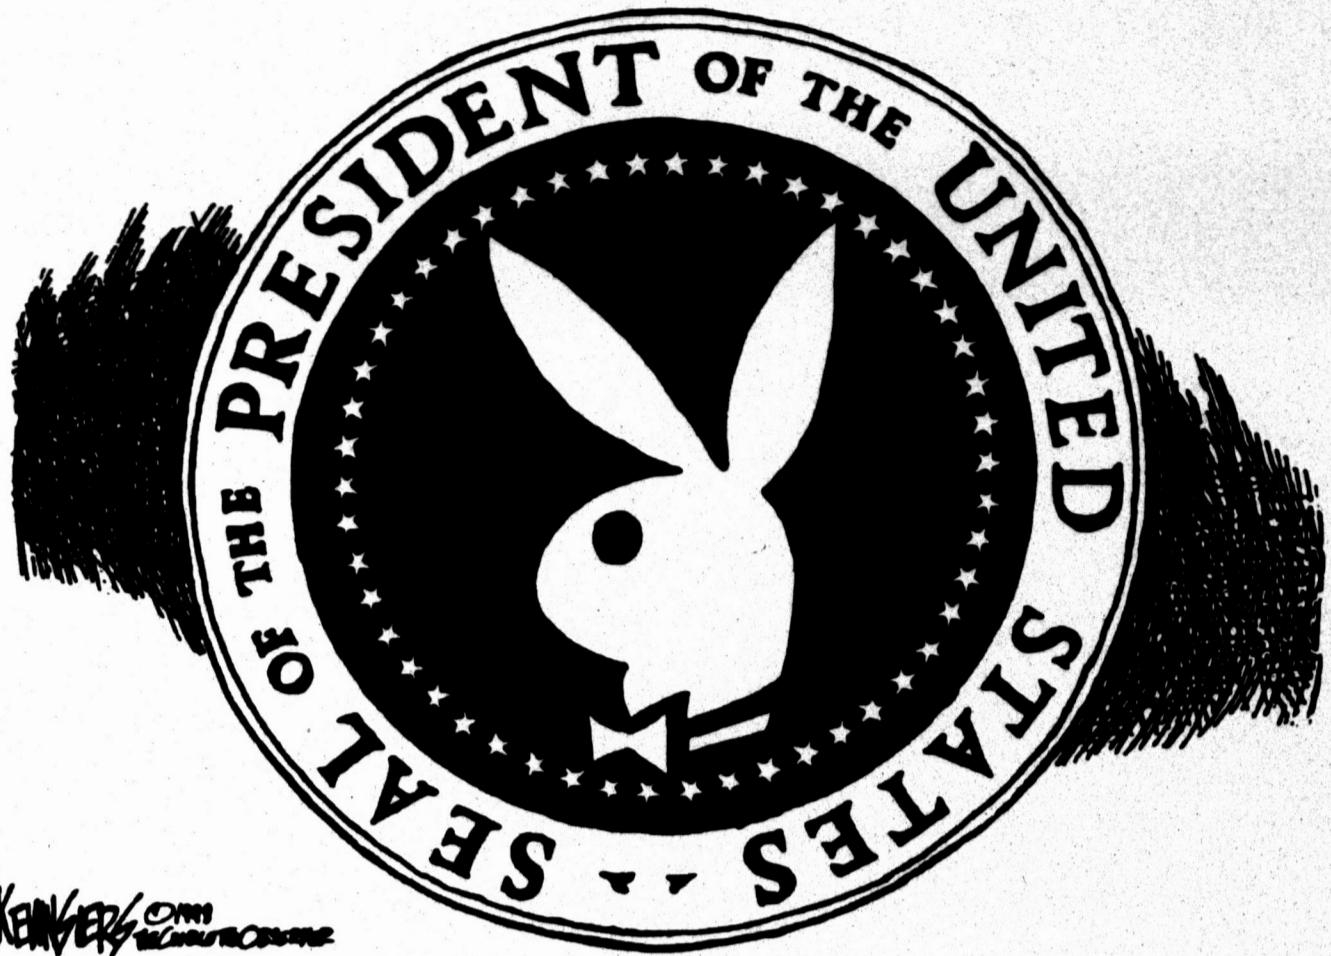

I urge everyone who can be affected by the operation of this feedlot to voice your oppositions or opinions in writing to: TNRC, Attn: Mr. Darrell Williams MC-158, AG Permitting Section, PO Box 13087, Austin, TX 78711-3087.

In your letters, refer to the "Application for Permit" submitted by the 3H Cattle Feeders, Donley County. Mimeograph your letter and also mail it to Governor George W. Bush, PO Box 12428, Austin, TX 78711, Attn: Environmental.

Also, contact the State Representatives from your district.

This may sound as if I am against the cattle industry. Please believe this is not the case. I am just a concerned citizen. I was born and raised here in the Panhandle. I love it here and wouldn't consider living anywhere else. I greatly admire the farmers and ranchers of this area and know how very much they contribute to the communities in which they live.

Where Have All The Morals Gone? America Shouldn't Condone President's Improper Behavior

Did most of America fall off the turnip truck yesterday? It seems that all of the sudden that morals and values are no longer a major concern for most citizens. When did this happen? Was there a vote on morals that I missed?

On The Mark with Christi Ross

With the recent hoopla regarding President Clinton and his adventures with several women, television, newspaper, and magazine reports are stating that a majority of Americans are not concerned with his alleged illicit behavior. Excuse me, but I have a question. "Just who are you interviewing and where do these so-called people live?"

All the sudden it seems to be okay if a man cheats on his wife, or lies just to save his own skin. What ever happened to common decency?

Okay, okay... I know what you're probably thinking. "President Clinton has just been accused, never found to be guilty of adultery or perjury." However, when several different women have accused the man over a wide span of time period, don't you start to become just a little bit suspicious?

Adultery in the White House is nothing new. Kennedy did it, Franklin D. Roosevelt did it, and others have had their little problems. But in an age of telephoto lenses and instant news reports, this behavior can no longer be hidden or tolerated.

If you found out that your husband was giving gifts to a 21-year-old, you'd know exactly what was going on! I'm willing to bet that ole' Bill is sleeping on the official White House couch.

The President of the United States is supposed to be the most powerful man in the world. How does it look to other world leaders if your elected official can't keep his pants on? Some ruler is surely having a good laugh with this one! What if our president caught a sexually transmitted disease, slept with a spy, or fathered an illegitimate child? How would the United States look then?

If Bill Clinton was your minister, banker, or your son's high school teacher, you would be up in arms over his reckless behavior. Shouldn't we be concerned about his actions as President of the United States?

Some say that Clinton's private actions are just that — private. I disagree. Clinton works for us and lives in the house we own. For each term elected, his time is our time. And anytime that his actions jeopardize our safety and well being, I believe Americans should be informed of his actions.

Doesn't the presidential contract have a moral turpitude clause? Most schools and companies do, so why not hold the president up to the same standards?

In my heart, I still believe that most Americans believe that marriage is a life-long contract, binding one man to woman forever, and that lying, cheating, and stealing are forbidden acts. Maybe Clinton, as well as the ones condoning his actions, need to study the Ten Commandments again.

500-year old Caddo Indian site excavated

AUSTIN — A team of Texas Historical Commission archeologists recently completed the excavation of a 500-year old Caddo Indian settlement discovered in a soon-to-be submerged reservoir near Gilmer, Texas, 60 miles east of Dallas.

A Caddo Indian assisted archeologists in rediscovering the rich heritage of the Caddo.

The excavation lasted four months and yielded an estimated 14,000 artifacts. Discoveries included the burial remains of a Caddo infant, numerous pieces of pottery, stone arrowheads and tools, and the location of a Caddo dwelling.

The excavation is expected to help archeologists determine what happened to the once-dominant Caddo Indian civilization. Researchers hope the excavation will help them return the tribe's rich heritage to the Caddo who remain today.

Brien Haumpo, a member of the Caddo tribe, worked with THC archeologists on the excavation. In addition to the hands-on excavation work, Haumpo performed a Caddo ceremony at the site to appease spirits and purify the ground once occupied by his ancestors.

For more information on the Gilmer site contact: Darci Sinclair, Marketing Division, Texas Historical Commission, 512-463-4565.

Texas historic sites atlas enters final phase

AUSTIN — The Texas Historical Commission's Texas Historic Sites Atlas Program is near the end of its final testing phase.

Launched in 1995, the Texas Historic Sites Atlas Program is an extensive database that includes information on 250,000 historic sites (markers, museums, and courthouses) in Texas.

The project is a revolutionary step forward in offering historical information to the public for professional, academic, and personal use. When complete, the Atlas will offer desktop delivery of historic site facts, figures, and photos to anyone interested in Texas history.

With holiday decorations safely packed away for another year, children back in school, and daily routines returning to normalcy, how about taking a well-deserved break with wonderful reading from a favorite author?

I suggest Burton Memorial Library's variety of enticing novels by Christian fiction writer Jane Peart. If you are not yet acquainted with Peart's writings, you are in for a special treat.

During a personal interview with Jane Peart, she revealed the importance in her writing to always depict a "strong, independent heroine, not picture-perfect, not always beautiful, but one who must search, even struggle for solutions; one who must dig into her inner self to find a core of strength." Young women of courage and faith are portrayed in all of Ms. Peart's series.

Runaway Heart, Promise of the Valley, Where Tomorrow Waits, and A District Dawn compile Western Dream Series, bringing to life adventure, romance, and spiritual challenges in the grit and breathtaking beauty of the Old West.

A 14 book series, Brides of Montclair, includes such titles as Sontor's Bride, Hero's Bride, Shadow Bride, Jubilee Bride, Folly's Bride, Mirror Bride. Ms. Peart told me one of her visits to Virginia inspired this unique series.

Mystery fans will delight with a "double dose" of suspense filled, romantic novels, Shadow of Fear and A Perilous Bargain, together in one beautiful hardback edition. These are part of Peart's Edgecliffe Manor Mysteries set in the late 1800's, the Victorian era of particular interest to this talented author. According to Peart, "I like pitting my heroine, usually a young woman of strong character and moral integrity, against forces that threaten her." This is well demonstrated in her mysteries.

Dreams of a Longing Heart, Homeward the Seeking Heart, and Quest for Lasting Love, previously reviewed in this column, collate the Orphan Train West Trilogy. Each book fictionally delves into adventures of three friends after their separation from the Orphan Train.

Peart's American Quilt Series, The Pattern, The Pledge, and The Promise, follow three generations of women, beginning in North Carolina mountains, through Civil War, across country to California, to 1880's Hawaii. Each story is centered on a traditional American quilt. Directions for making the quilt conclude the book.

Skillfully written, Jane Peart's novels offer entertaining, inspirational reading appealing to a variety of interests.

Clover Kids learn about ecosystems at meeting

More than 15 members of the Donley County 4-H Clover Kids met Jan. 26 at the Panhandle Community Services building to make terrariums.

Donley County Agent Leon Church explained to the children that in making a terrarium they were creating an ecosystem that could survive on its own.

The kindergarten, first and second graders filled their jars and fish bowls with gravel, potting charcoal, and potting soil before selecting plants to place inside their containers. The plants were misted with water before they were covered with plastic wrap.

Instructions on adding to the terrarium and caring for the ecosystem were distributed to the students before they dismissed for juice and cookies. The 4-H Clover Kids meet every month to familiarize children with the 4-H system.

Not too late to get your Girl Scout Cookies

If you haven't ordered your Girl Scout Cookies yet, it's not too late. Contact your favorite Girl Scout or call 874-3372 to order yours today.

The Texas Plains Girl Scout Council conducts the Girl Scout Cookie sale as a program activity for girls. After the bakery is paid, all proceeds from the sale remain in the Panhandle. Troops decide how to use their earnings for a variety of Girl Scout program activities, including troop trips, visiting local sights like the Discovery Center, Wonderland Park, or local museums. As girls learn to set goals and present themselves and their product, they gain not only valuable life skills but also self-esteem and a sense of responsibility that will stay with them for a lifetime.

"The important part of the Girl Scout Cookie sale is what girls learn, and that is what makes the sale possible. We don't think people buy cookies because of price, but rather because they want to support Girl Scouting in their community," said Suzy Compton, product sales manager.

Cookies are still $2.50 a box, and girls will deliver them February 24 through March.

CHS Financial Aid and College Night scheduled

On February 19, 1998, CHS will sponsor the third annual Financial Aid and College Night. It will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the CHS auditorium. Mr. Taylor, the CCISD counselor, will go over the general financial aid process including FAFSA, the Free Application for Federal Student Aid. Financial Aid officers from Clarendon College and Amarillo College will be on hand to answer specific questions from parents and students.

At 7:15 p.m. the College Night portion will begin in the CHS Cafeteria. Students and parents will have the opportunity to visit with representatives from area colleges and lending institutions to get information about admission policies, housing, and scholarships. Representatives from local banks will also be available to answer questions about loans and other financial aid and lending questions.

Why a Financial Aid and College Night? The application process that one must go through in order to be eligible for financial aid is somewhat complicated. We will discuss FAFSA, SAR, EFC, and other terms that are foreign to anyone not associated with college financial aid. Hopefully, students, and parents will leave knowing what steps to take to complete the process. Time is money.

Most grant aid is in block form. In other words, the college gets a "block" of money to distribute according to need. Once that "block" is gone, it is gone, regardless of the need of the student next in line. Therefore, it is imperative that student start early. The summer is really too late to start. If students stand their parents have their 1997 1040 tax form completed, they can begin now. Come to the Financial Aid and College Night to begin moving toward the end of a difficult process. If you are a parent of a junior, you will not actually start this process until this time next year, but you can gain valuable information to prepare you for next year.

Early decisions about where to attend college can help in a myriad of ways. If a high school junior has a good idea about where to attend, he can make sure that the student takes the necessary classes as a senior. College admissions is all about deadlines. Deadlines for admission, testing, financial aid, scholarships...the list goes on.

The sooner a student begins communicating with the school the student is interested in, the less stressful the application process will be. College Night can help by allowing students and parents to get to know about area schools. Recruiters will give you information you need, put you on their mailing list, and answer your questions.

The following Colleges and Universities plan to attend: Amarillo College/Amarillo Technical Center, Oklahoma Panhandle State, Clarendon College, Texas Tech University, Frank Phillips College, Wayland Baptist, South Plains College, West Texas A&M University, and Western Texas College.

The following lending institutions will be on hand: Herring National Bank, Donley County State Bank, Panhandle-Plains Higher Education Authority, and The Opportunity Plan.

Refreshments will be served, and some lucky students will win cash in a drawing.

If you have any questions about the Financial Aid and College Night, please call John Taylor at 874-3241.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Southwestern Bell) filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) to charge an additional 26 cents per month per line to recover costs for providing Expanded Local Calling service (ELC) to certain Texas Customers.

The 26 cents per month surcharge would not be billed to customers who receive ELC. However, customers who receive ELC and pay less than the maximum $3.50 a month residential ELC charge or less than the maximum $7 business ELC charge will have to pay the additional 26 cents per month charge.

Expanded Local Calling was created in 1993 by Texas legislation that requires telephone companies to provide toll-free calling between small towns that share a community of interest such as a school or hospital district. The legislation allows telephone companies to recover costs not paid through customer charges by applying a surcharge to all other customers in the state who do not receive the ELC service or who do not pay the maximum ELC rate. The maximum monthly ELC rate allowed under state law is $3.50 per line for residential customers and $7 per line for business customers.

Southwestern Bell estimates that the 26 cents per month per line charge will recover the $27 million annual cost of providing ELC service that is not recovered from ELC rates.

If approved by the PUC, the monthly statewide surcharge of 26 cents per line per month will begin with the April, 1998 billing cycles, with an agreement to refund all or part of the charge if the PUC does not approve it.

For questions about the reasons for the charge, please call the Southwestern Bell Business Office listed in your directory.

The PUC assigned Docket Number 18513 to this proceeding. The deadline for intervention in this matter is March 31, 1998. Persons who wish to intervene or comment in these proceedings should notify the PUC by March 31, 1998. All requests to intervene should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, TX, 78711-3326. For information intervening, please call the PUC at 1-888-782-8477 or at 512-936-7120.

AVISO PUBLICO

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Southwestern Bell) presentó una solicitud ante la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas (PUC) para cobrar 26 centavos más al mes por línea para recuperar los costos por el servicio de Llamadas Locales Ampliadas (ELC) a ciertos clientes en Texas.

El cargo de 26 centavos al mes no se cobrará a los clientes que reciben ELC. Sin embargo, los clientes que reciben ELC y pagan menos del máximo de $3.50 al mes por el servicio ELC residencial o menos del máximo de $7 por el servicio ELC comercial, tendrán que pagar 26 centavos adicionales a su pago mensual.

El servicio de Llamadas Locales Ampliadas (ELC) fue establecido en 1993 por la legislación del estado de Texas y requiere que las compañías prestadoras de servicios telefónicos ofrezcan llamadas de larga distancia gratuitas entre pequeñas poblaciones que comparten un interés común tales como distritos escolares y de hospitales. Esta ley permite que las compañías telefónicas recuperen los costos no pagados mediante cargos a clientes, a través de un cargo a todos los demás clientes en el estado que no reciben el servicio ELC o que no pagan la tarifa máxima del servicio ELC. La tarifa máxima mensual permitida por la ley estatal es $3.50 por línea para clientes con servicio residencial y $7 por línea para clientes con servicio comercial.

Southwestern Bell calcula que los 26 centavos al mes por línea cubrirán los $27 millones del costo anual del servicio ELC que no está cubierto por las tarifas de ELC.

Si la PUC autoriza el cargo mensual estatal de 26 centavos al mes por línea éste comenzará a partir de los ciclos de facturación de abril 1998, con el acuerdo de reembolsar todo o parte del cargo si la PUC no lo autoriza.

Para preguntas relacionadas con este cargo, por favor llame a la Oficina Local de Southwestern Bell listada en su directorio telefónico.

La PUC asignó el número de registro de 18513 a este procedimiento. El plazo de intervención sobre este asunto terminará el 31 de marzo de 1998. Las personas que deseen intervenir o hacer comentarios sobre este procedimiento deberán notificar a la PUC antes del 31 de marzo de 1998. Todas las solicitudes de intervención deberán enviarse por correo a Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, TX 78711-3326. Para mayor información sobre la intervención, por favor comuníquese con la PUC al 1-888-782-8477 o al 512-936-7120.

CC instructor to participate in high-level Ukrainian delegation at Texas Tech

Michael Tibbets, Clarendon College political science instructor, will participate in a high level Ukrainian delegation at Texas Tech, February 9-13.

This special session will include meeting with an Ukrainian Cabinet Member, according to Dr. Idris Traylor, Jr., Executive Director of Texas Tech's Office of International Affairs.

"I'm happy to be of assistance to promote international understanding between Texas and the Ukrainian republic," Tibbets said. "I think this reflects well upon Clarendon College that I've been asked to participate in this high level meeting."

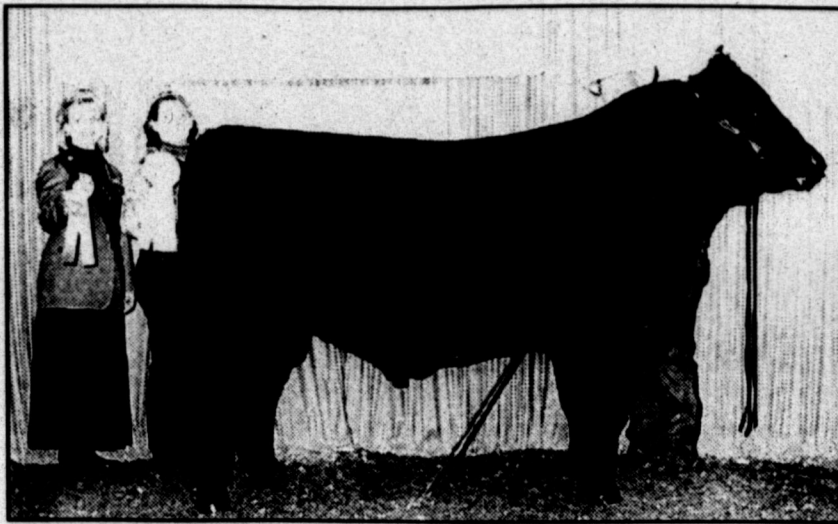

The meeting will also include dialogue about exchanging professors and medical doctors between the two countries and establishing applied research collaboration between the Ukraine and Texas. According to Tibbets, this will specifically cover the areas of scientific and medical cooperation, especially concerning the effects of Chernobyl on Ukraine's civilian population.

"No one else in the western world has the Ukraine's scientific data regarding Chernobyl. It is a possibility that they will want to turn it over to this Texas team," Tibbets said.

Tibbets has traveled extensively in the former-Soviet block countries. He has visited Ukraine eight times and has participated in high level meetings in Poland, Slovakia, Latvia, Lithuania, Ukraine, Turkmenistan, and East Germany.

For more information about the Ukrainian delegation, please contact Clarendon College at (806) 874-3571 or Texas Tech's Office of International Affairs at (806) 742-2974.

Lady Broncs fall to Panhandle, will play Memphis Friday

Panhandle's bench was too much for the Lady Broncs as Clarendon lost a hardfought 59-36 decision to the Pantherettes Friday in Panhandle.

Clarendon wraps up its district schedule with a 6:30 p.m. tilt with Memphis Friday in Clarendon.

The Lady Broncs (18-8, 6-2) trailed 19-11 in the first quarter but went on a 6-0 run that sparked the crowd and got the Broncs to within 19-17 before halftime. Panhandle scored a late bucket to bring it to 20-17 heading into the locker room. Kasi Ashcraft had all of her eight points in the first half and was plagued with foul trouble the second half before fouling out.

Clarendon scored seven points in the third quarter, and Panhandle rattled off 17 for a 37-24 lead entering the final period.

Shields, Shelley post impressive results in powerlift meet

Cael Shields and Jeremy Shelley posted impressive results at Saturday's Powerlifting meet at White Deer, improving their chances to earn a berth in the Regional meet March 14 in Colorado City

Their next meet is Saturday in Wellington. Their last qualifying meet for regional will be Feb 28 in Sundown.

Clarendon placed fourth behind Dumas, Memphis, and White Deer in the 10-team meet.

Shields finished first in the 148 lb. class, and Shelley, who normally lifts in the 132 lb. division but was 1/2 pound too heavy, competed in the 148 lb. and finished second.

"(Shelley) will qualify for regionals in the 132 lb. weight class, and we did it (competed in 148 lb.) for the competition," powerlifting coach Darryl Cash said. "(Shields) is lifting real well; he's liable to make regionals."

Hunter Spier and Parker Kerlee

also have shots to compete at the next level, he said. To qualify for regional, lifters must finish in the top 10 in the region in total weight lifted.

Cash said 77 schools competed in the region last year, and this year 90-100 schools are in the same region.

"We're in the largest region in the state," Cash said. "The sport is catching on up here in the Panhandle."

Those competing were Jeff Hearn, 6th, 181 lb.; Michael Lane, 5th, 114 lb.; Tyler Lane, 4th, 220 lb.;

Randy Sanchez, 3rd, 123 lb.; Shannon Martin, 2nd, 132 lb.; and Brandon Word, 2nd, 242 lb.

"The kids all lifted real well this meet," Cash said. "Nathan Floyd has improved his total weight 100 lbs. That's a pretty big jump and he's been working hard. All the kids work hard."

Booklet offers guidelines for historic cemetery preservation

AUSTIN — A booklet on preservation guidelines for historic Texas cemeteries is now available. Cemeteries are among the state's most valuable historic resources. They not only help identify settlement patterns, they also reveal information about historical events, religious practices, lifestyles and genealogy.

The booklet, published by the Texas Historical Commission (THC), gives an overview of cemetery laws and offers information on how to protect and restore historic cemeteries. The booklet also includes tips on cleaning, repairing and maintaining gravestones and cemetery grounds.

Experts recommend using the "mirror" method to read and photograph gravestones. Using a mirror to reflect sunlight onto the stone makes the letters easier to read. People should avoid using harsh substances with emollients, such as shaving cream, to reveal inscriptions; the oils from these products are not washed off by rain and can cause the stone to deteriorate.

The THC's cemetery staff is leading the charge to preserve cemeteries across the state. Program staff document the location of cemeteries throughout Texas and provide technical information to County Historical Commissions and the public. For more information, or to receive a copy of Texas Preservation Guidelines - Preserving Historic Cemeteries, contact: Gerron Hiite, Local History Programs Division, Texas Historical Commission, 512-475-4167.

Tiger Cubs meet Bronco players

Members of Clarendon's Tiger Cubs were treated Feb. 4 to an autograph session with the playoff-bound Clarendon Bronco team and also viewed one of their practices.

The Broncos displayed several of their practice drills, which included a "star" passing drill. Players travel the floor making a star outline while passing the ball. They also watched how the Broncos bring the ball down the court and score. Several of the Broncos showed the Tiger Cubs how they could dunk a basketball.

After practice ended, the Tiger Cubs asked for autographs on orange paper basketballs from the Broncos. The Tiger Cubs also put some of those skills they observed to work following practice by playing basketball among themselves before drinking juice and eating cookies.

Tiger Cubs participate in monthly meetings to earn badges. Past meetings included a visit in Amarillo for "Breakfast with Santa."

Tiger Cubs participating were J.T. Christopher, Zack Rattan, Derrick Shelton, Jace Avery, Billy Cenicerros, McCullough Roach, and Brett Strange. Tiger Cubs is open to all first graders and prepares young boys for Boy Scouts. For more information about joining, contact troop leader Annie Roach.

"The Smart Way To Operate!"

Cattle industry wins long-standing dispute with European Union

It's been a long and sometimes frustrating effort, but the United States and sound science both won a major victory in January when the World Trade Organization (WTO) upheld its ruling that the European Union (EU) ban on beef produced with growth promotants is a non-tariff trade barrier and does not comply with global trading rules.

The ruling was a long time coming. Here's a brief history: The EU first banned U.S. beef in 1989 because of the use of growth promotants. Knowing full well that scientific fact completely supported the safety and efficacy of the practice, the U.S. attempted for many years to negotiate an agreement with the European Union. The EU stonewalled at every turn, refusing to budge. Initially, from the U.S. perspective, the ban was put in place to allow the EU to whittle away at what was described as a mountain of beef sitting in freezers throughout Europe. European agriculture is heavily subsidized, and the result was more beef production than the EU had markets to sell its product. According to U.S. sources, the ban was simply an effort by the EU to stop beef from other countries from entering the EU and competing with their burdensome supply.

However, the EU isn't out of tricks yet. A spokesman said that the EU is very confident that it will be able to maintain the ban by providing a valid risk assessment in the next 15 months. An official with the U.S. Trade Representative Office said the U.S. and EU will meet in late February to discuss implementing the WTO ruling.

The Appellate Body's report was distributed to all parties on January 26. The EU has 30 days to explain what it intends to do to bring its policies and regulations into compliance, and the U.S. official said conducting a risk analysis will not constitute compliance.

One of the most important principles incorporated in the SPS Agreement is that each WTO member country may establish its own appropriate level of protection respecting sanitary risks, including those associated with food safety. However, while countries are free to implement levels of protection for human health that are different than those set forth in existing international standards, they cannot implement trade barriers disguised as health measurers.

That, according to Sims, is exactly what the EU tried to do back in 1989 when it first imposed the ban.

"The WTO ruling confirms that the U.S. beef industry has worked hard to set the international standard for safe and wholesome beef," Sims said. "We applaud the work of the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative and U.S. negotiators in maintaining sound science as the basis for international trade."

Parents should think twice before changing formulas

HOUSTON — Changing formulas is not necessarily the answer when dealing with a sick or fussy infant.

"Parents many times make the mistake of changing formulas, without consulting their pediatrician, when their infant develops any number of problems," says Dr. Kathleen Motil at the USDA/ARS Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Many parents will panic if their infants become irritable, spit up a lot or have diarrhea for an extended period of time."

The two most common formulas chosen by pediatricians are either a cow milk-based formula and soy-based formula. Many times parents think they are changing formulas, when all they are doing is changing name brands.

"One reason to change from a cow milk-based formula to a soy-based formula is if an infant has had a bad bout of infectious diarrhea that has damaged the intestinal tract," said

Motil, a Baylor assistant professor of pediatrics says. "Another reason is if they have a cow milk protein allergy."

Infants who are allergic to cow milk-based formula may suffer from diarrhea, vomiting, respiratory problems or rashes. It is always best to check with the child's pediatrician and let them choose an alternative formula.

Many parents also change formulas when their infant develops colic. "Colic is not a reaction to an infant formula, and there are no special formulas that make colic better," said Motil. "Parents will waste time and money blindly trying formulas looking for a magic cure."

It is important for parents to seek out their pediatrician before making any rash decisions regarding formula.

"If parents encounter any problems, they should call their pediatrician for guidance and direction," said Motil. "A pediatrician will recommend a formula that is safe and healthy for their infant."

Baylor studying gene therapy for ovarian cancer

HOUSTON — For the first time, gene therapy will be combined with surgery and chemotherapy in a clinical study for treatment of recurrent ovarian cancer.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently approved the study, which will take place at Baylor College of Medicine and the Methodist Hospital in Houston.

"Mice with ovarian tumors were cured through our approach to gene therapy, and we're hopeful that the combination of gene therapy with surgery and chemotherapy will improve current treatments for ovarian cancer in humans and decrease its recurrence," said Dr. Dirk Kieback, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Baylor and an attending physician at Methodist.

Participants in the study will undergo abdominal surgery to have recurrent ovarian cancer removed and to have two small catheters implanted. A solution containing a modified adenovirus will be poured through the catheters to coat ovarian cancer cells.

This adenovirus will carry a gene that makes cancer cells susceptible to acyclovir, a drug commonly used to combat herpes virus infections. Acyclovir will be given to patients intravenously for two weeks after they have received the solution containing the adenovirus.

Other studies with similar adenoviral vectors, or vehicles, to transport this gene for cancer treatment have used ganciclovir rather than acyclovir. The Baylor/Methodist study is using acyclovir because it is less toxic and might allow for a higher dose.

"With a higher dose of acyclovir, we can increase the intensity of gene therapy without exposing the patient to dangerous side effects," Kieback said. "We want to find the maximum dose of gene therapy that is safe, so we will monitor patients for signs of toxicity."

In combination with gene therapy, patients will receive the chemotherapy drug topotecan. "This drug has shown promise in the treatment of recurrent ovarian cancer and appears to be even more effective when used in combination with gene therapy," Kieback said.

Patients in the study will receive six treatments of topotecan over four-week intervals to minimize the risk of cancer recurring.

About 36,000 women die from ovarian cancer each year. The disease affects one in 75 women, but it accounts for more deaths than any other gynecological malignancy in women, Kieback said. Symptoms can include an expanding abdomen, a feeling of fullness in the pelvis, fluid in the stomach, and indigestion caused by bowel obstruction. The disease is often diagnosed late, resulting in poor survival rates.

About 30 percent of women with ovarian cancer survive for five years or more. A family history of breast or ovarian cancer can increase a woman's chances of getting the disease.

Twenty women are needed for the study, which is funded partially by Baylor College of Medicine and the Methodist Hospital. The standard treatment costs, including surgery and chemotherapy, must be paid by participants or their insurance company. Methodist will cover the costs of the gene-therapy treatment. To enroll, women with ovarian cancer should call (713) 798-7675 or have their physician call.

Our guests were Linda Williams and Smiley Johnson, guest of Lion Dr. Bell and Cennet Rhode, guest of Lion Jimmy Garland.

Our program was given by Lion Bell on the new after school project for kindergarten through second grade for at risk children. It was voted to allow the Lions Club building he used as temporary location for this program until a permanent location can be found.
