Bronchos To Play Lefors Here In First Conference Game Friday Night

The Lefors Pirates will invade Broncho Stadium Friday night for the first conference game of the season for both teams. Game time will be 7:30.

The Pirates have a fast team and are expected to give the Bronchos a real battle of supremacy in District 2-A. The Pirates made about the same showing with Stinnett as the Bronchos being defeated 33-0 last Friday night. The Bronchos were defeated by Stinnett 35-6 in the first game of the season. Both teams have good defensive units and it will be up to the Bronchos to stop the faster Lefors backfield in order to come out on top, Coach Tom Jinks stated.

Jinks said the entire Broncho squad was in excellent shape for the game. If they play heads-up football all the way through without a let-up, we should be able to take this conference opener from the Pirates, Jinks added.

Fans are reminded that the Clarendon Band Sweetheart will be crowned in ceremonies at the game Friday night.

Come out and give the Bronchos your support Friday night.

Paymaster Gins First Bale Here Tuesday

W. O. Mooring brought in the first bale of cotton to be ginned in Clarendon Monday afternoon and the cotton was ginned free of charge Tuesday by the Paymaster Gin here. The cotton was grown on Mooring's place 8 miles northeast of town.

The seed cotton weighed 2,000 pounds and the finished bale weighed 522 pounds.

Due to the late planting season, cotton pulling is running much later this year than average and with the wet weather we are having, pulling in general is not expected to get under way for several days yet. If frost and freezing weather hold off, the cotton crop as a whole will be much better than anticipated but an early freeze could change this picture over night.

Professors Offer Tips On Studying

LUBBOCK — So you really want to learn more in school this year? Well, you're not alone. There are indications that American students are viewing their studies with more seriousness this fall — a growing awareness that education is inevitably tied to success in a technical age, a reaction to the seriousness of Communist youth and Communist advances. Because of this, two Texas

Tech staff members, Dr. Berlie Fallon and Harold Wilkinson, have come up with some tips on how to study. A most important step is to develop a definite study plan and stick with it, they report. Seek a good attitude toward your studies. Try to see reasons for taking every course. Create an interest in every subject. If you see no other reason for the course, set its mastery as a personal challenge. You probably will become interested.

Fallon emphasizes that good habits are necessary for proper study. Develop a study schedule and follow it religiously. When it is time to study a particular assignment, get to work on it immediately. The longer you put it off, the harder it will be to get on the job.

In making a study schedule, all subjects should not be given the same length of time. If you are studying material that requires the understanding of relationships, study for a relatively long period of time, about a half hour to an hour.

If you are studying new material, set aside part of every day to study, but make the study periods shorter, about an hour. In memorizing, study for a period of 15 to 30 minutes, then do something else. Come back to the memorizing if you haven't learned it the first time.

The two Tech researchers have some firm conclusions about the proper conditions for good study, too.

No one can do two things at one time, they point out. If you try to watch TV and study simultaneously, you will not master the subject and will spend more time on it than is necessary.

Most people cannot study well with any kind of outside interference, they conclude from their research, although some people can study while soft music without vocalization is playing in the background.

Distractions also are caused by photos, souvenirs, magazines and letters, Wilkinson says. Remove things of this sort from your desk or table before you begin to study. Have all the materials available that will be needed to do the job on which you are working.

Your own mind can cause distractions by wandering. Do not let this happen. Some of the most common things that cause the student's mind to wander are thoughts of recent dates, athletic achievements, future success or failure and future events.

On the positive side Dr. Fallon and Wilkinson make the following suggestions: Study where it is quiet, well lighted and the temperature is comfortable.

Study in a straight-backed chair at a desk or table. Lying in bed or sitting in a very soft chair can cause too much relaxation for proper learning.

Physical conditions should be satisfactory. Fatigue, illness, hunger or thirst can keep you from doing a good job of studying. But they also can be used as excuses for not studying. Above all, be sure your eyesight is good.

The Tech educators have some special suggestions for tackling that old bugaboo — the test.

Arrange a study schedule so cramming will not be necessary. Take a calm view of what you need to study. Don't waste time going over material you already know and don't let yourself become upset by insignificant details.

Plan your final intensive reviewing for the weeks prior to test week and relax the night before you are tested. If you study the night before a test, go to sleep immediately afterward.

Develop speed in answering questions. If you don't know what kind of test you will have, study as though you were going to have an essay test. Do something besides review during examination week. You need some recreation in order to function most efficiently. Keep yourself in good physical and mental condition during examination week. Get enough sleep.

If you follow these rules, the Tech researchers declare, you'll not only do a better job of studying, you'll actually have more time for the other things you like to do.

Fallon and Wilkinson compiled these and other study tips for the West Texas School Study Council, a cooperative agency with headquarters at Tech. The detailed results have been published in booklet form and distributed to member institutions of the Council.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ayers had as their visitors last Tuesday, their daughter and grandson, Mrs. Winnie Wester and Ricky.

Nogales, Ariz. Herald: "It's against the law for a candidate or his supporters to buy votes, but there's no law against his party voting in Congress to 'give' blocs of voters something out of the general tax pot. There's no law either, to keep Congress from giving away more than is in the pot — and leaving an I.O.U. to be paid off later by the very voters Congress is purported to 'help' — or by their children.

"Well, if 'help' is what we want 'help' is what we'll get. And more government control, more taxes, more debt and more inflation to go with it."

THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER

Our Deteriorating Textbooks

Russell Kirk writes in National Review: "Anyone who has bothered to save school and college textbooks over the past forty or fifty years — or who will go to the trouble of turning over such textbooks as have accumulated in the attics of an old house — can see for himself that there has been a dismaying deterioration of quality with the passing of the decades. The paper, binding, illustrations, and type-face all have improved; but in style and substance, the text itself, in nearly all disciplines, has been reduced to boring and deceptive generalizations. Really first-rate textbooks for high schools now are difficult to obtain: the educationist pressure-groups have persuaded every big publisher in the field to adapt his textbooks to 'progressive' and 'permissive' standards . . . there has crept into textbooks a sermonizing indoctrination in 'socially approved attitudes,' . . . zeal for promoting equality of economic condition, fondness for the centralized welfare state . . . federal aid to schools, and all that Until very recent years, sweet sympathy for the aims of the Soviet peoples was on this list of approved attitudes . . ."

HEDLEY NEWS Mabel Bridges

Hedley is putting on finishing touches for the Ninth Annual Cotton Festival to be held Oct. 14 and 15. Floats for the parade are ready. Program plans are completed for two big days of free entertainment for everybody. Old Settlers are ready to have a big day Friday for those who made it possible for Donley County to be what it is today. These pioneers are few and we want to make this a get-together they will enjoy. Everyone has a special invitation to come and join the Old Settlers for a good time.

Don't miss the Queen's Coronation Saturday night at the school auditorium.

Saturday will be filled with entertainment for young and old. The big parade will be Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. This alone will be worth a trip to Hedley for the Cotton Festival.

We hope our neighbors in other towns will join us in making our Festival one of the best. If we have fun together we will learn to appreciate each other more. Remember the quotation, "When

NEEDED: FACTS

Fred G. Clark and Richard Stanton Rimanoczy. in a leaflet published by the American Economic Foundation, describe some of the attitudes of high school students toward the American business system, as revealed by various polls.

Substantial numbers of these students - well over half in many cases - think that increasing productivity is not the way to improve national living standards; that better tools mean fewer jobs, even in the long run; that it is better for a worker not to produce more than the average of his fellow workers; that the profit motive is not essential to American business; that dividends are a burden on wages; that there is "practically no competition" in many basic industries.

So it goes, down a long and disheartening list of misconceptions. The authors observe that, "these misconceptions are not deep-rooted; they are based on wrong information, and are susceptible to simple truth." But these misconceptions, if left uncorrected, will breed a deep-seated feeling of suspicion against all private business and industry. It is frightening to think of this feeling being carried to the voting booths a few years from now. Realistic instruction in basic economics and presentation of the facts of business as they actually exist is critically overdue in our schools today.

ETTA HARNED TAKES TOUR OF NORTHEAST

Editors Note: Miss Etta Harned kindly consented to writing a condensed resume of the tour she took recently with the group headed by Garland "Cotton John" Smith to the northeast. We find her report very interesting and wish that some day we may be privileged to travel this same area.

The thirty-eight members of the tour met at KGNC, 20 Polk, for a meeting of introduction and a short program. Two former residents of Clarendon participated, Mrs. B. H. Peckenpaugh, nee Leona Smith, of Farnsworth, Texas, and Mrs. Essie Patton Rush of Mineral Wells, Texas.

Boarding the Braniff plane in mid-morning, we landed at Oklahoma City for lunch, to Chicago and the Conrad Hilton on Michigan Ave. for the night, by early Trans-Canada flight to Toronto, enjoyed a motor coach tour of greater Toronto and being guided through 98-room Casa Loma, replica of European castles requiring 3 years and several million dollars to build, with towering battlements, secret staircases, hidden panels, underground tunnels and empty wine cellars, fabulous mahogany trimmed stables, spacious lawns and terraces. A panoramic view of the city may be seen from the turrets. It was closed by prohibitive taxes and upkeep. It is now owned and sustained by the Province and used for charitable entertainments. Small admission fees are charged.

The Canadian National Exposition exhibits were many and varied. They hunt polar bears in northern Ontario and grow peaches and tobacco in the southern environs.

The crowning view was Niagara Falls. Its name means "great thunder of water" in the Indian language. Its mighty roar fills the beholder with awe as the rushing, swirling waters plunge ever onward over the great abyss. No picture is as colorful and impressive as the Falls of Niagara by night. Myriad colored lights play over the spray and the roaring, descending waters making a scene of fantasy and delight.

Montreal, Canada's metropolis, was next toured. French architecture is more in evidence and stone and brick construction predominate. Frame buildings are a fire hazard in the rigorous winters.

A leisurely boat cruise of 6 days and 5 night down the broadening St. Lawrence past small communities where horse drawn carriages met the boat. A country of antiquity where French-Canadian farmers till the fields with hand-wrought implements. Age hold spinning wheels and hand looms turn out blankets, scarves and clothes.

Landing at Quebec, called the "Gibraltar of North America," a walled city founded in 1608 by the French, falling to the British in 1759. The changing of the guard at the Citadel is still an impressive link with the past. The band plays "God Save the Queen." French and English are employed in all educational institutions. A bus tour of the city over the narrow, hilly streets was a breath-taking thrill. Our sojourn in the ancient and beautiful Chateau Frontenac was very pleasant.

Vermont and New Hampshire with many examples of continuous architecture, where house, woodshed, workshop, barn and silo are placed together so a man can walk from the parlor to the cow barn without having to shovel a path in winter. Cozy?

A visit to John Shelby's Maple Museum showed the process of manufacturing maple sap into syrup, sugar and candy. The maple trees are not tapped until they are fifty years old, for maximum production of sap, which is usually taken in early February and March.

The next bus stop was in the forest clad White Mountains at Franconia Notch, New Hampshire, a famous resort for summer vacations and winter skiing. An aerial tramway and ski lift took us to the summit 4077 feet for a visit to the "old man of the mountain," a huge face carved by the elements, and a superb view of Forrester Hills.

At Portland, Maine, the famous Boon's Restaurant, situated on the Custom House Wharf, under the same management since 1898, claimed our attention by serving lobsters and many other kinds of fish, fresh from the sea.

Arriving in Boston at the Parker House, claiming to be the originators of Parker House rolls. Next door to the oldest church, King's Chapel and a cemetery dating from 1630, burial place of several Massachusetts sett's governors. We walked through Paul Revere's home built about 1870. He lived there from 1770 to 1800 with his 16 children. From the doorway of this house he went forth on his famous midnight ride April 18, 1775.

We saw Boston's oldest church, built in 1723. History says the night of April 18, 1775, two lanterns were hung in its steeple signaling the actual start of the Revolutionary War. The original bell still hangs there.

We went aboard the U.S. Constitution (Old Ironsides). She first put to sea in 1798. Her cannons are still mounted.

In Cambridge, especially interesting was the Agassiz museum of glass flowers, so life-like and of every description. The secret of the making died with the originator.

The Christian Science establishment covering more than three full city blocks, home of the Christian Science Monitor. Several large buildings, a mapparium, a thirty foot glass globe, formed of 608 colorful fused glass panels set in a bronze frame. Visitors walked through this globe on a bridge of French structural glass. Lights shine through the glass panels giving a view of the whole world within. Electric clocks at the equator line give comparative time throughout the world.

Longfellow's home, as when he lived there. The study where he wrote his poems and welcomed visitors, served as General George Washington's office during 1775-1776, a pleasurable visit. The cemetery of the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." The Red Horse Tavern, the source of "Tales of the Wayside Inn." The little red school house of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

New York City! The 1472 ft. high, 102 story Empire State Building view of the city, Statue of Liberty, Grant's tomb, Radio City, United Nations' Buildings, Little Church Around the Corner, Greenwich Village with art exhibits on sidewalks all for sale, China Town with no juvenile delinquents by Police reports, many other famous public buildings requiring two days of bus tours, sightseeing.

Driving down the Hudson River around Bear Mountain to the home of F. D. Roosevelt and his grave. Library, museum and Saint James Episcopal Church at Hyde Park, N.Y., Now a National Historic Site to be administered by the National Park Service. We departed from the lobby of our Taft Hotel for the Flight on Braniff's Boeing Jet, arriving in Amarillo at mid-afternoon after a change of planes in Dallas. So happy to be home again. —Etta Harned.

Which Democratic Platform?

Which do you prefer: the socialistic, anti-Texas platform of Kennedy — or the Nixon Platform that more nearly conforms with Texas principles and ideals as expressed in the State Democratic platform?

The Kennedy platform is against nearly everything Texans are for—it is for nearly everything Texans are against.

What will be your choice? It is between a party label and the best interest of Texas and the Nation.

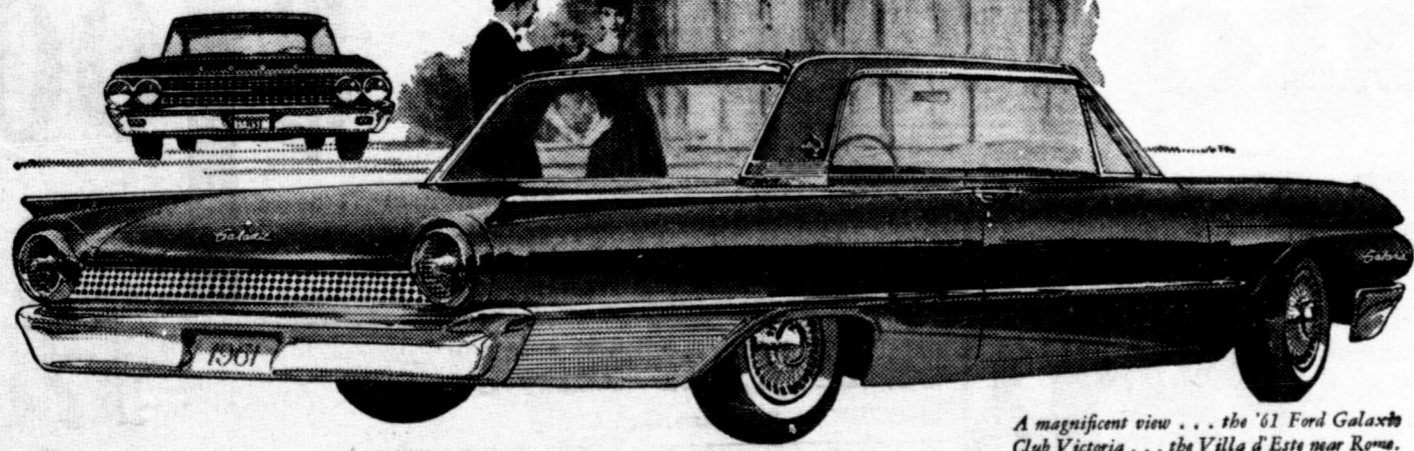

Allan Shivers says:

"I'LL TAKE TEXAS. I accept the Texas Democratic platform and will work for it. I repudiate the other—the Kennedy platform. I will join with my fellow Democrats to work and vote for men of maturity, experience, responsibility, and a fearless dedication to this country's best interests. "I will vote for Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge."

Broncs Defeat Claude Mustangs, 48-6

The Clarendon Broncs ran roughshod over the Claude Mustangs here last Friday night to rack up a 48-6 win over the visitors.

The Broncs scored easily and dominated the ball most of the game. Bronc reserves played a good portion of the last quarter at which time the visitors went over for their lone tally.

The Broncs scored once in the first quarter, three times in the second, a safety and two more touchdowns in the third quarter and one in the fourth. Jim Robinson scored the first 6 points, a pass to Abel accounted for the second and Eddie Tipton skirled left end for the third. Jim Robinson scored the fourth TD and Dwight McAnear carried over for the extra 2 points.

The second half started off with the Broncs getting a safety and this was followed with Jim Robinson running 51 yards for the counter and a pass to Bill Hermesmeier added the extra two points. Phillip Abel skirled right end for 30 yards and the next touchdown and the final score came when Leon Gibbs intercepted a Claude pass and ran 45 yards for the counter bringing the total to 48 points.

While all this scoring was going on, the Bronc line was holding the Mustangs in check or was opening the way for the Broncho backfield.

ENJOY TRIP TO EUROPE

Mrs. J. L. McMurtry of Clarendon and Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Boston of Amarillo returned home October 4 after a trip to Europe. They left New York on the liner United States for London on August 30. Among the scenic lands visited were England, The Netherlands, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. While in Italy they also visited the much publicized land of Monaco returning by plane via Dallas.

At each destination they were met by American Express and assisted with tours and entertainment. In commenting, Mrs. McMurtry stated that language barriers and money exchange created the greatest problems of the trip, however these were offset by the many wonderful experiences, the many beautiful sights, and the pleasures of every day.

The Donley County Farm Bureau met at the Lelia Lake school house on the night of the sixth of September and had a big chili supper. The chili was cooked by Pauline Roberts, Jewell Myers and Flip Breedlove. Approximately sixty attended.

Election of officers was held for 1961 and Holly Wood of Lelia Lake was re-elected president; Pete Land of Martin, first vice president; Glen Williams of Midway, third vice president. Sue Rhodes of Ashtola was elected secretary and treasurer. Mr. Wood gave a very interesting talk on his plans for the organization for the coming year.

The group voted to have a meeting at the Lelia Lake school house on the night of the 18th of October at seven p.m. to discuss resolutions to be sent to the state organization for their consideration in the coming state meeting. Everyone will bring a pie with them and the Farm Bureau will furnish the coffee. Be sure to be present on the night of the 18th as Mr. Woods states that this is a very important meeting.

Hagerstown, Md., Herald: "No American knows more about the threat of Communism to America than does J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director. Repeatedly he has warned that the leaders of international Communism consider the United States as the symbol of the free world and that they cannot achieve their goal of world domination until the Red flag flies over this nation."

"Mr. Hoover cannot understand why a people who approve a yearly expenditure of $40 billion for military defense against the Reds are so apathetic about Communism's infiltration into every segment of our American society."

"Getting made will seldom get you anything else." Even should we get our way it usually turns out that the decisions we make when we are mad are not for the best.

Hitting the ceiling is not the best way to go up in the world. People who blow up at the first opportunity, very often never get the second chance.

To cuss and swear seldom helps the matter either. It is generally conceded that swearing is only the effort of a feeble mind to express an idea forcibly.

We can't get rid of our temper by using it more often. It seems to work the other way around. When we over-use our temper we not only cultivate a worse disposition but also accumulate a lot of things to regret.

The right amount of temper is needed to make a piece of steel do the best job. A man will do a better work when he has the right temper.

If we can't hold our temper then by all means we should hold our tongue. Words spoken in anger often are the cause of our greatest danger.

Letting off steam is necessary at times for an engine, but it is usually done on the side-track. It is always better for anyone if they will take a little time off by themselves for cooling off. It will save blowing our stack on the main track.

Hot heads seldom come up with hot ideas. Calm and cool thinking is the best solution to any problem. A fellow who is always asking for trouble is usually heard. A person who is itching for a scrap is pretty apt to get scratched.

Our personality is likely the thing by which more people form their opinions about us. Many will judge us by our wealth. Still another group will place the most importance on our job or social position. But for the most part, the day after day test of the number of friends we have will be influenced very heavily by our personality.

If someone has that likeable personality we are going to become better acquainted with him. If he is friendly we will feel the urge to become his friend.

Several qualities are almost a must if we are to have a winning personality. Right off we think of several things which we look for in people. No doubt you can think of many more just as important.

To have a good personality a person must believe in himself. No one else would trust us unless we had faith in our own life. No one likes the cock-sure fellow but rather the one who has a deep and lasting confidence in the things he does and stands for.

We need to be able to listen if folks are to admire our personality. Talking too much and at the wrong time is about the easiest way to make a bad impression. Everybody likes to talk about the things they are the most interested in so we need to be willing to share talking time.

A kind word for someone or a bit of admiration for something they have done will always help folks to see our personality. To say something nice about their children when you are just busting in to talk about your own would be the final test of a good personality. Each little thing so easy to think about but often hard to do.

Talking with one's mouth full is considered very bad manners by most any group. Talking with an empty head on each subject is a most popular pastime by just about everyone.

It's not so bad for one to say what he thinks, provided he has spent some time thinking about what he is going to say. By the same token it's alright to be positive, if we are absolutely positive we are right.

We have heard folks who could talk all day and say nothing, and others who could say a mouthful with only a lifted eyebrow. A loaded truck makes less noise than an empty one. A fellow with nothing to say is usually hard to get stopped.

The third grader was explaining a problem to a first grader. Finally he said, "I'll explain it to you when I have more time."

"You mean it will take a long time just to explain that?"

"Yes, especially since I don't understand it myself."

Beware of a lengthy explanation, it might be an ignorance of the subject alibi.

"He who says what he likes, seldom likes what he hears."

"Blessed are those who have nothing to say and cannot be persuaded to say it."

"The fellow that thinketh by the inch and talketh by the yard should be kicketh by the foot."

The best way to have the last word is to apologize for the first word.

Even though the auto has replaced the horse, it's still a good idea for the driver to stay on the wagon.

Supermart Government
About the best remark made at a recent conference of state governors came from a federal official — Budget Bureau Director Maurice H. Stans. He said: "Government at all levels must cease trying to be supermarts for every imaginable public service, and instead concentrate on essentials."

A government, like a family, can only afford so much. And if a government continues a spending orgy long enough it, like a family, can go broke.

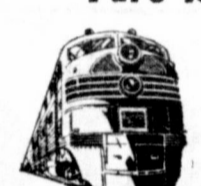

San Marino, Calif., Tribune: "Arizona's Senator Barry Goldwater, easily the dominating personality on today's political spectrum drew wild applause and a standing ovation in the packed auditorium of New York's Hunter College day after the summit collapse."

"I am not as worried about Russia," he said, "as the lack of moral might in this country of ours."

MEMBER OF FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION
MEMBER OF FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM
"IT PAYS TO DO BUSINESS WITH THE FARMERS STATE BANK"

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

The Fourth Branch of Government

Virtually all Americans are familiar with the triangular structure of their Federal government: legislative, executive, and judicial. We think of this famous separation of political power with the confidence and belief of seeing it benefit American democracy. It operates like a tripod, with each leg checking and balancing the other while supporting the whole. Yet about a century after this classic system was first established, a fourth element began to assert itself as a genuinely new force within the traditional government.

This force has gathered together the combined authority of legislation, administration, and adjudication. It lives, for the most part, outside the three old branches and exists in a sort of blurred world which often offends our taste for simplicity and clarity of movement. We have come to know this force simply as the independent agency, the creature of a complicated and abundant life.

The profound Constitutional questions which these agencies have raised are with us even today. I have no desire to deal with them in detail at this time. Whether the basic doctrine of separation of powers is threatened by these agencies is, in fact, an important but largely fruitless line of inquiry. Let me simply say that like so many other of man's efforts, both good and bad are bound up within them. Our first task — one which I intend to follow during the coming weeks — is to seek an understanding of this form of government.

First of all, it must be said that apparently no one has been able to devise a precise definition of the independent agency. Most of us think of such bodies as the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Communications Commission, or the Federal Trade Commission. Yet there are more than sixty other groups functioning with varying degrees of independent authority beneath the supervision of a department in the Executive Branch. The Veterans Administration would be an example of this type since they are answerable to the President. The present day Department of Health, Education and Welfare is made up of agencies which were previously of this sort. Finding the way among them all has given rise to a certain unpleasant legend concerning "bureaucracy" and reminds me of an old rhyme which goes like this:

The Walrus and the Carpenter
Were walking close at hand:
They wept like anything to see
Such quantities of sand:
"If this were only cleared away!"
They said, "it would be grand!"
"If seven maids with seven mops
Swept it for half a year,
Do you suppose," the Walrus said,
"That they could get it clear?"
"I doubt it," said the Carpenter, and wept a bitter tear.

Despite this certain amount of confusion, the independent agencies are almost always intended to provide order in a phase of American life which had previously baffled attention by each branch. It must be admitted, for example, that the media and television industries would be in utter chaos today were it not for the FCC. And this is true despite the rather obvious imperfections which have been seen in this agency from time to time.

For our purpose it is possible to distinguish between the agencies which regulate in major fields, such as the FCC, and the agencies which administer certain activities in the public interest, such as the Federal Reserve System. We will treat each of the major regulatory groups separately in later weeks, but we must first place these in some perspective with a brief and overall look at the agencies as a whole.

Total appropriations for independent offices this year total nearly 10.5 billion dollars, and a recent count shows that they employ almost 300,000 people. The Veterans Administration accounts for about half of both figures. The emphasis in a majority of agencies is upon the administration of a certain public affair, as with the Battle Monuments Commission; the performance of a service, as with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; or the protection of a public interest, such as the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. All these agencies differ in their degree of "independence," but all are similar in their tendency to expand. Their boundaries of jurisdiction are as clearly defined as the area they supervise, but also as changing and as intricate. And as we examine some of the more important ones in the next few weeks, I will attempt to point up examples of similarity and difference as they arise. At present it is probably sufficient to generalize by saying that the independent agency supposedly fulfills a need which government forever appears to be discovering and perpetuating. I cannot resist tracing for you the history of a body which has been variously known as the National Screw Thread Commission and the Interdepartmental Screw Thread Committee. This organization was founded in 1918, abolished in 1933, and resurrected in 1939. Today it operates within the Department of Commerce in what must be a constant effort to standardize the threads if the nation's screws.

GEORGE'S WIFE

By "Sarah"

The months of reckoning are at hand, my family size farmer friends. The tax bills are here, the notes coming due, and the wardrobe feels mighty thin these brisk fall mornings.

We kept wondering why the tension our way was so thick one could almost cut it with a knife. After doing a little research, we found the reason. We had our hay baled five weeks earlier last year than this, in fact some of it is not even mowed yet, much less in the bale. Also boll pulling was in full swing ten days from now, last year. The cotton patch looks like a green house, blooms and all at this time. Besides being late, the army worms are marching from the cotton patch into my late fall, special flowers that would be blooming soon. These fuzzy ones we have given the name of Castro, the boll worms we call Khrushchev, because they crawl out of those tender bolls as slick and innocent as the man himself, and proceed to weasel their way into the next one. There's too much cover for worms of all kinds, we were too late planting, had too much rain, and are not getting enough sunshine to mature them. The day light hours are growing shorter each day, but one morning soon now we will wake up and see the aftermath of the big freeze. In spite of all things that crawl or fall upon us, we will harvest a crop. We will see you, our creditors one month late this year.

In running the risk of being repetitious, we find a parallel here in this life and world diplomacy, from beginning to end. From tilling the soil, to the kind of seed you sow, the special care given the young and tender plants until they can take off on their own.

While George or I, have not endured with fortitude, calmness or quiet submission, it is a quality to be admired, to some extent, in all things. For the patience the farmer and his creditors endure up to and through the harvest time, we along with all America must pay for the storage to-boot, while the fruits of our labor mold and rot. It should not be so. Yes, we do think and strive for solutions and even understanding of why . . .

Meanwhile we will dust off the old ulcer diet, and hope this 'executive type' disease will go away without major surgery.

It is caused by those of us who ask for and support unnecessary spending by either the federal, state or local government. STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Neither Texas civilians nor the armed forces can afford the losses incurred through traffic accidents involving military personnel in the state.

On this note, the Texas Military-Civilian Traffic Safety Council was formed in Austin with a goal of reducing the accidents.

About 200 persons, civilian and military, attended the Council's first meeting, called at the behest of Gov. Price Daniel.

Servicemen have more auto accidents than any other population group in Texas, said Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety.

Last year servicemen drivers were involved in 103 fatal accidents in which 130 persons were killed.

A great many of the servicemen in Texas are in the 18 to 25-year-old age bracket, said Gen. Edward T. Williams, Fourth Army commander. People in this age bracket generally are the most inclined to have auto accidents.

Gen. Williams urged vigorous enforcement of traffic regulations so that the driver knows he will be caught and punished if he breaks the law.

Brad Smith, director of the Governor's Highway Safety Commission, outlined the five-point program recommended by the governor to improve highway safety.

1. Driver education for all high school students.

2. A law to permit chemical tests to determine if a driver is intoxicated.

3. At least 200 additional highway patrolmen.

4. Revision of the drivers license law.

5. A system of traffic courts.

WATER PROGRAM STUDIED — Texas' 7-man Water Development Board is considering whether to ask the next Legislature to expand and liberalize its program of lending financial aid to local water projects.

Decision is to be made at the Board's Oct. 28 meeting.

Board presently has authority to issue $100,000,000 in bonds and use the money to make loans to local governments for water conservation projects. Loans are limited to one-third the cost of the project and cannot be more than $5,000,000 for any one project.

Under study is whether to ask the Legislature to step up the program by authorizing the Board to lend as much as $15,000,000 per project and to issue another $100,000,000 in bonds to purchase water storage space in federal reservoirs.

When the Board was created, the law provided that another $100,000,000 in bonds could be authorized by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

DANIEL HONORED — Governor Daniel is the newly-elected chairman of the 16-state Southern Governors Conference.

He is the second Texan in a decade to head the group. Former Gov. Allan Shivers was chairman in 1951-52.

Conferences are devoted to the study of problems which the member states have in common. This year the protection of home industries against ruinous competition from imports has been a prime issue.

Governor Daniel said he felt much could be accomplished by the conferring governors "if we stand together."

HURRY-UP HOSPITALS — With a long, long waiting list of mentally retarded patients, the State Hospital Board is studying short cuts toward providing housing for them.

A contractor-member of the Board presented drawings of one possible approach — semi-permanent one-story, concrete block cottages. They would provide for 40 persons, cost $38,000 apiece and could be ready for occupancy in 20 months.

More than 1,000 children are now on the state homes' waiting list.

Board has authorized getting an estimate of the cost of putting an automatic sprinkling system in the Confederate Home in Austin, now used for mental patients. Home has been called a fire trap, but if it could be made safe, the cost of replacing it could be postponed.

Also voted by the Board was a policy of preventing tuberculosis patients, by force if necessary, from leaving state hospitals until they are well enough not to infect other people.

A recent attorney general's ruling held that the hospital system does have authority to make TB patients stay in the hospital until they are no longer contagious.

This was the theme at an Austin meeting of the members of governing boards of state colleges and universities. A series of regional meetings are planned during October and November to rally public support for better appropriations for state colleges.

Regrettably, the regents pegged Texas state-supported colleges as less than best. A survey was cited showing that 65 percent of the top jobs in Texas industry are held by graduates of out-of-state colleges. Texas is training the hired hands; other states are training the bosses, said Reagan Houston III of San Antonio.

Texans will pay, said John Newton of Beaumont, whether they ante up for good education or not. In an age of electronics automation and exotic fuels, good educational and research facilities are a prime attraction for new industries, said Newton.

"Cost of losing major opportunities for growth will be at least as great as the cost if providing what we really need," he said.

PRISON PROBLEMS CITED — Seventy-five per cent if the inmates of the Texas prison system are in "tanks" or dormitories which crowd impressionable young offenders in with hardened criminals, says the chairman of the Department of Corrections.

More housing to correct this situation is urgently needed, H. H. Coffield told an Austin audience. On the bright side, Coffield said the Texas system had pulled up from one of the worst to one of the best in the nation, in the past 10 years — a period when the prison population skyrocketed. Yet per-prisoner cost is far below the national average.

As an "ounce of prevention" Coffield urged citizen support of such local agencies as churches, Scouts and Salvation Army.

Be alert today and alive tomorrow.

DO YOU HAVE HOUSEHOLD INSECTS?

College Station — It is next to impossible to observe a home and its surroundings without finding some form of insect life. This is not strange because insects and related species constitute the largest number of animals found in the world.

Some insects feed on fabrics, contaminate food, attack dwellings, bite humans, carry diseases and make secondary infections and cause themselves generally obnoxious. On the other hand, some insects are very beneficial to mankind. But, generally, the control of insects in and around the household is a very real problem, says C. F. Garner, extension entomologist.

Certain pests may be found and controlled outside but some live entirely within the home. The only way to control these householders is to apply insecticides, either sprays or dusts, inside the home, Garner continues. Fumigation is seldom necessary, but in case it is, the home owner should rely on a professional exterminator.

Chemical control should be supplemented with sanitation and good housekeeping if it is to do its job properly. Insects live in cracks, under bits of wood and other debris, in the walls and beneath the floors of homes, and in almost any dark, quiet place. Hiding places such as these should be cleaned, but even the most spotless homes may occasionally become infested.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has prepared a leaflet, L-311 "Texas Guide for Controlling Household Insects," which contains the latest recommended controls for 24 pests. In addition to the controls, the leaflet contains a section on insecticidal formulation and one on equipment needed for application. A copy of this guide may be obtained from the local county agent.

Another important section of this leaflet is a list of cautions. Garner says that anyone using insecticides should read, learn and observe the do's and don'ts contained in this list.

"Remember, he concludes, "insecticides are poisonous to species other than insects."

Destroying Ourselves By Inches

Ralph T. Moore writes, in the Oregon Voter: "Our fondness for collectivism and its appurtenant togetherness serves the communist ambition well. For it weakens the sinews of our industrial power and tends to soften up the tone of our productive will. It also relieves the communist apparatus of much heavy expense since we voluntarily destroy ourselves by inches. The comrades have only to urge us on in the direction we seem to have chosen, that leading to the welfare-state."

"Let's face reality. Every U.S. taxpayer is Uncle Sam—his beneficence is out of our pockets. Uncle's wealth comes only from the toils of our labor. Let's tell that story to other peoples, let's preach it to ourselves. When Uncle wastes he wastes hours of work and sweat of U.S. citizens."
