Bylow's has joined IGA retailers

be a big day for Larry Mabry. He hung out an IGA sign indicating that his store is now a bonafide member of the Independent Grocers' Alliance.

Mabry joined IGA recently, but is was not until this week that he found the time to tell the world about his new status. The IGA sign of quality is known all across the nation. Mabry is justifiably proud that his neighborhood store is part of an alliance which accounts for sales of eight billion dollars annually across the country.

The Independent Grocers' Alliance has more than 3,300 members in 48 states -- all of them retailers who invest their own money and own and operate their own stores. For the most part, they've grown up in their communities and that's where they intend to stay Mabry is a good example. He works in the store himself every day, bagging groceries and greeting his customers.

"Our customers know that we're responsive to the needs and interests of our community," Mabry said. "We have the most up-todate equipment and the level of service is a source of pride

IGA supermarkets currently rank third in size among retail food groups in the United States.

The IGA organization was born in 1926, a grim year for independent grocers around the nation. At that time the independent was being described by food industry analysts as the newest 'Vanishing American.

The problem for indepen dent grocers was the fact that massive grocery chains with thousands of units were springing up everywhere. A&P, for example, proudly reported that year that it had 15,000 outlets firmly under its wing. The most devastating weapon of the chains, and one that IGA was designed to counter, was their ability to sell myriad items to customers cheaper than independent grocers. More importantly, he devised a plan under which they would not only compete with, but outdo, their more powerful competitors. A meeting was held in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., home base of W.T. Reynolds & Company, a major whole sale grocer. Reynolds was totally sold on the idea of organizing the food retailers and dedicated to working closely with them to their mutual benefit.

During that historic conclave, 69 retailers stood up proudly and defiantly and declared they would sign up with the new IGA organization. IGA was on its way.

The basic idea underlying the creation of IGA is still the group's major strength today. IGA retailers volunteer to affiliate with their IGA distribution centers. These centers function much like large corporate chain warehouses. They provide the same services, from retail counseling to store design and engineering.

But there is one all-important difference. IGA retailers invest their own money and own and operate their own stores

Almost as important is the fact that they're responsive to the needs and interests of the communities in which they operate. For the most part, they've grown up in their community, and that's where they intend to stay.

Today, many local IGA supermarket operations are being run by the second and third generations of the families that launched them.

The family business, however, has undergone a change. These days it may well encompass two or three or more separate stores, endowed with the most up-to-date equipment and

IGA retailers and their distribution center maintain and foster a strong working relationship. It's a "must" because the retailers lean heavily on their centers for

Meeting Common Challenges Together

Not long ago people thought the Texas Panhandle wasn't a fit place to live. But new technology, hard work and neighbor helping neighbor proved them wrong.

A few years ago we thought cancer was unbeatable, too. Now scientific advances, hard work and neighbor helping neighbor have proved that's not true anymore either. Today some three million Americans with a history of cancer have been cured.,

Bringing the finest cancer care to the spirit of partnership.

Working together we established the Don and Sybil Harrington

Cancer Center in 1981. Since then more than 2,000 cancer patients have been treated here. But the need is growing and we depend on your help.

Special Harrington Cancer Center endowment funds have been established in more than 60 banks throughout the High Plains. You can donate gifts of any size on any occasion to those accounts. The principal remains in your community helping it grow. The interest insures a strong future for the people of this region depends on that same Harrington Cancer Center. Together we'll make sure cancer patients receive the finest care close to home. Ask your banker for details.

From the Pen of Pastor Pinion

By GARY L. PINION

The first reason young Christians fail is that they feel they can be an effective Christian on their own. I always tell new converts when you cook with charcoal, you pile a number of charcoal briquettes together. When they get started, you spread them out and you can cook a feast fit for a king! But what can you do with one little coal all by itself? It hardly generates enough heat to warm a hot dog! Solo Christians accomplish very little. This is why the Bible warns us not to "forsake the assembling of ourselves together..." (Hebrews 10:25).

The second reason Christians fail is because they do not separate from the world. Most, if not all Christians who fall into sin have not heeded the Scriptures in regards to Godly separation from the world.

Finally, I teach every Christian that they must read their Bible every day, pray every day, and attend a Bible believing, Bible preaching Church every time the doors are open.

Jesus is coming. Let's not fail Him. Faithful attendance at Church, Christlike separation and Godly habits will keep a young Christian serving the Lord.

WHAT IS A HERNIA?

When an organ protrudes through an opening in the surrounding walls it is called a hernia. Most hernias are in the abdominal, groin area. This hernia weakness can be there at birth but it may be much later in life that it is discovered.

At one time having a hernia repaired surgically was a long drawn out process. Often the patient was out of commission for many, many weeks. Some preferred to wear a confining belt rather than have the operation. But today recovery, is much more rapid and it is more advisable and common to have it taken care of. If you suspect a hernia, see your physician.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service

Rhythm Band, therapy through music

Not only is Mrs. Mary Beth Nelson a gifted elementary school teacher in the Clarendon Public School System, she also has special interests and talents that lie elsewhere.

In November of last year, Mrs. Nelson organized a rhythm band at the Medical Center Nursing Home as a music therapy program. She assists them with the piano as the residents play their choice of various instruments including tamborines, bells, sticks and traingles. This idea provides eye-hand coordination skills and stregthens the sense of rhythm.

The first project for the band members, whose ages range from 66-94, was a presentation for their annual christmas party of which Activities Director, Vera Johnson says "Mary Beth worked up a beautiful Christmas program."

Mrs. Nelson states, "For me they are an inspiration. They leave me with a greater love for society. Music is a universal language which everyone knows. The greatest reward in this is seeing the joy the people receive from participating in the band."

Mrs. Nelson and her band participated in the Valentines Day program at which time they played such pieces as "Let Me Call You Sweetheart". The band will have a presentation in June on Parents Day, a special time where the parents are recognized by their children.

With the cooperation, understanding and patience of persons such as Mary Beth Nelson, programs of this nature provide a much needed feeling of acceptance and pride to the residents of the Clarendon Medical Center Nursing Home.

Local cancer society services available

The American Cancer Society in Donley County announced today that it has a variety of services available to cancer patients without charge.

"Many people are unaware of all the services we can provide right here in this town," said Redell Henson, Service Rehabilitation Chairman. "And all that is required in most cases is written permission from the patient's physician."

Loan equipment such as hospital beds, wheel chairs, commode chairs and walkers are available as well as expendable items including dressings, hospital gowns, bed pads, pillows and other otems.

"These are all in addition to our basic information and referral services," said Henson. "And, depending on location, we also have several rehabilitation programs including Reach To Recovery for mastectomees, esophageal speech lessons for laryngectomees, ostomy rehabilitation and related patient and family support groups."

The concept for these rehabilitation programs is the volunteer-to-patient relationship," added Henson. "We have many volunteers who are themselves former patients and who are specifically trained by the Society to help other patients and even their families adjust to living with cancer."

Mr. Henson cited that when most people think of the American Cancer Society, they relate the name to cancer research. "While it is true the ACS funds millions of dollars for cancer research, we are also a community-based organization providing many local services. These patient services as well as education materials of all types are just a few of the ways we can help."

"Since September, an estimated $945.00 worth of services to patients has been utilized in this town already this year, but even more could be done if more patients were referred to us," added Redell Henson.

Anyone needing more information on these services may call Henson at 874-3517 or Sandy St. John, in the Amarillo office, at 353-4306.

Peanut producers, handles urged to check contract

To give peanut producers and handlers more flexibility when they contract to sell additional peanuts -- those grown in excess of the farm's poundage quota -- the U.S. Department of Agriculture recently eliminated form CCC-1005, 'Handler Contract with Producers for Purchase of Additional Peanuts for Crushing or Export.' The contractual agreement now will be drawn up between the producer and the handler, according to Edwin Campbell, CED.

"The specific terms and conditions of individual contracts are entirely the responsibility of both parties," said Campbell, "and each one should check to see that the agreement is in their best interest."

Except for eliminating the form, the contracting procedure and the regulations governing additional peanut contracts have not been changed. Contracts submitted to ASCS for approval must still specify the price and quantity of peanuts sold, and contain the signatures of the parties.

"All contracts between producers and handlers must be filed at our office by April 14," he said.

The United States leads the world in the number of people suffering from low back problems. The current estimate is that eight out of ten people in this country will seek medical treatment for low back pain at least once in their lives. Some of them will have only slight muscle spasms; many others, however, will have serious, potentially disabling, problems.

The good news is that the problems, both large and small, can often be avoided. But it does require a bit of commitment and some good old common sense. The Institute for Low Back Care in Minneapolis offers some suggestions that can keep you from ending up in the doctor's office...or on the operating table.

 Excess weight and a sedentary lifestyle compose a perféct prescription for à low back problem. Get rid of the weight and get some physical exercise.

2. Some recommended forms of exercise are: walking, swimming, hiking, bicycling and cross-country skiing. Risky activities include: jogging, horseback riding, snowmobiling, rigorous calisthenics, golf and tennis.

3. It is far better to engage in physical activity in shorter dession a regular basis than to overdue it on a sporadic basis. even a healthy back can experience severe muscle trauma when over-worked.

Texas Tourism Industry

An up-to-date report on the Texas tourism industry has just been released by the people who see and serve more tourists than any other authority in the state, the State Department of Highways and Public Transporta-

From 12 Texas Tourist Bureaus operated by the Department, through a hundred thousand worldwide mailings of tempting Texas travel literature, and in the pages of Texas Highways magazine, the Department maintains a perpetual "Y'all come" campaign. And visitors do come . . . by the millions.

Where they come from, where they go to, how long they stay, and how much they spend are factors neatly averaged in the just-released Texas Visitor Industry statistical report.

For those not intimidated by columns of figures, some intriguing perspectives are in the report. Take "Winter Texans" for instance -refugees from the frigid Midwest who are right now overflowing the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Figures show they spend only half as much perday as do routine, shortterm summer travelers.

Cheapskates? Think again. Another column shows they stay, on the average, 11 times longer then their summertime counterparts. They spend an average of $2,122 per party during two and a-half months of leisure in the Texas tropics, thus benefitting their South Texas hosts by multiple millions of dollars.

It's not surprising that of all cities in Texas, McAllen tops the list for long-term visitors. Among the more numerous short-term visitors, Dallas heads the destination list. And which Texas city do foreign visitors like best? San Antonio. In fact, San Antonio is among the top three favorite destinations for all categories of visitors.

There's more. The erates how each Texas region shares the tourism pie. The report dissects tourism dollar-spending for food, lodging, transportation and entertainment.

The Texas Visitor Industry report is a by-product of the state's hospitality business. Highway department tourist three million travelers last year. At the conclusion of their trips, nearly 30,000 such travelers returned ques-tionnaires that formed the report's data base.

The highway department believes the business of sightseeing and suntan lotion, of hamburgers and roller coasters, of fishing and golf, is well worthwhile. They tabulate the details. In Washington, D.C., the U.S. Travel Data Center totes up the whole value -- more than $13 billion in Texas each

A free copy of the Texas Vistor Industry report is available from VIR, Box 5064, Austin 78767.

Futch meets with Secretary Block with Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block in Chicago, J. Lynn Futch, Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) State Director for Texas, said the most immediate challenge stressed by Block for 1984 "is to achieve heavy participation in the 1984 farm

State Directors for USDA's Farmers Home Administration and State Executive Directors for USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service from over the nation attended the meeting with the Secretary. Emphasis was placed on the benefits producers will receive by signing up for the commodity programs.

Block said that both government and private sector analysts are saying basically the same thing: It will prove advantageous for the average American farmer to participate in these 1984 farm programs. He said the programs will not only provided a needed conservation effort, but they will also offer producers a protection against serious downward price fluctuations.

"It's essential that agriculture show its willingness to do its part in maintaining the thrust of its own recovery," Block said. "These programs and our federal crop insurance could be two of the best tools producers can work with in 1984"

Block said the farm pro-

the federal crop insurance, will provide protection against the risks of drought, freeze, flood or other unanticipated acts of nature.

Frank Naylor, USDA Under Secretary for Small Community and Rural Development, told Futch that while federal crop insurance has existed since 1938, the expanded and improved.

"Today's program offers high coverage on more crops in more places," Naylor said. "The cost per unit of protection is also much lower. Most importantly, farmers today can obtain crop insurance protection that is custom tailored to individual circumstances."

Block emphasized that farmers who question the need for crop insurance should direct their questions toward those farmers who benefited from the coverage after the unanticipated weather of 1983. "I believe this insurance was the salvation for many of those farmers."

In a separate meeting with FmHA personnel, FmHA Administrator Charles W. Shuman said they will continue to work with farmers on a fair and business-like basis, "going the extra mile to help deserving farmers."

Shuman asked the state officials to explain to borrowers who are having trouble
