CC Bulldogs to open 96-97 season Friday

The Clarendon College Bulldogs will open their 1996-97 season boasting a line-up of homegrown talent with a tournament Friday and Saturday in the Clarendon College Gymnasium.

The Merchant's Classic will attract teams from Kilgore Junior College, North Lake Junior College in Dallas, and Wayland Baptist's Junior Varsity.

Clarendon will play North Lake Friday at 8 p.m. and Wayland Baptist at 8 p.m. on Saturday.

Returnees from last year's squad are Tony Clark, Marlon Green, Jason Kinney, Jamie Carter, and Bryan Shed.

Panhandle residents may find some familiar freshman faces on the team. Mondragon will suit up Josh Minkley from Claude, whose team made it to the 1996 regional tournament; Corey Fields from Clarendon, whose team made it to the 1994 regional finals; Kedrick Monson from Memphis, a Class 2A state track performer; and Antonio Williams from Tulia, whose team made the 1996 play-offs.

Also Sam McLeod, who graduated from Dalhart but played several years for Amarillo Highland Park, has high school playoff experience; and Steven Browning from Miami, whose 1996 squad advanced to the play-offs will play for Clarendon.

Fans will enjoy watching 6'7", 250 lb. Lawrence Bailey from San Antonio, who hasn't played in three years but has looked good in pre-season scrimmages, Mondragon said.

"We are real inexperienced," Mondragon said. "We really don't have a true starter from last year. We've got 18 kids. We're going to try and learn at every outing."

The Bulldogs will travel to the Gold Rush Classic Nov. 7 in Garden City, Kan., for a three-day tournament.

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs will kick off their season Nov. 7, 8 and 9 at the South Plains Classic in Levelland. They open up play against a Northern Oklahoma squad, head coach Joel Zehr said.

"It will be one of the better tournaments we'll play in this year," Zehr said.

Returners from the 1995-96 squad are Brandy Thomas from Wellington; Angie Kepley from Knox City; Jodi Card from Hart; Tiffani Wilcox from Dimmitt; and Moni Hernandez from El Paso.

"We're a better team than we were last year," Zehr said. "We've got a girl from Jamaica. We've got some pretty talented players. We got another girl from Dallas and one from Louisiana. She played Division I ball at Southern University in Baton Rouge. She's a pretty good player."

Broncos prepare for road game with Memphis Friday

Roy Williams' 3-yard plunge and ensuing two-point conversion with about a minute to play Oct. 25 pulled the Broncos within striking distance against Panhandle.

But the Broncos were unable to recover the onside kick for another chance to enter the end zone.

The Panthers eked past the Broncos, 18-16, for the win and to remain unbeaten in District 2-2A action.

Clarendon's loss moves their record to 2-6 and 1-2 in district play. Head Coach Tooter Draper said the hunt for a district play-off spot remains wide open at this point.

"If we win out and Panhandle beats Quanah, we've got a good chance of making the play-offs."

Memphis is 5-3 overall and 2-1 in District 2-2A. Quanah's district record also stands at 2-1.

Wellington remains tied with Clarendon at 1-2 in the district race. White Deer is 0-3.

Clarendon will fight for a play-off berth when the Broncos meet U.S. Highway 287 rival Memphis at 7:30 p.m. in Cyclone Stadium.

Senior fullback Richard McGuire, who rushed for 198 yard on 28 carries and four touchdowns during Memphis' 48-13 rout over Wellington Oct. 25, will be tough to stop, Draper said.

"We've gotta stop McGuire. He's big kid. We'll probably stick two guys on him. We're going to try to force them to throw it."

"They had a big win over Wellington, and they've got some momentum going."

District leader Panhandle appeared to have the game in hand Oct. 25 as time began running out in the first half. Corby Shadid rambled on a 29-yard TD, and running back Trent McKiernan bulldozed toward paydirt on a 16-yard touchdown en route to a 100-yard rushing night. Both TDs were in the second quarter.

But then Bronco QB Scotty

Elliott connected with Kareem Abdullah on a long third-down pass to get the Broncos close to the end zone.

Clarendon opted to throw a 14-yard TD pass to sophomore Blake Bass who had been ignored by the Panther defense during the first half.

"We ran a flag route, and we knew they'd be coming in to stop the run and hadn't been covering (Bass). They'd been concentrating on Roy (Williams) and Kareem (Abdullah)."

The Broncos trailed 12-6, and Elliott scampered for the important two-point conversion. Panhandle entered the locker room with a slim 12-8 lead.

Both teams were scoreless in the third quarter, and Panhandle struck first with a 13-yard pass from Kevin Brinkley to Zach Robinson. The Panthers, who were having trouble with their kicking game all evening, missed the PAT.

James Hoggatt blocked all-state punter Brinkley's first PAT in the second quarter.

CISD recognized for high level of performance by migrant students

Clarendon Independent School District is among 161 Texas public school districts being recognized for high levels of performance by migrant students, Superintendent Phil Barefield announced today.

CISD was commended for having an attendance rate of 94 percent or higher for migrant students and for having at least 80 percent of migrant students graduating from high school or being promoted to the next grade.

Criteria for the commendation were based on 1994-95 PEIMS data (Public Education Information Management System) with districts divided by migrant population into five categories: 1,000 migrant students or more, 501 to 999, 100 to 500, 25 to 100 and less than 25 migrant students.

In addition to district recognition, campuses were rated as exceptional, excellent, promising, or acknowledged, based on the number of migrant students taking the TAAS tests in grades three through eight and ten and their performance on the examination.

Texas has the second-largest migrant education program in the nation in numbers of students served. During the 1994-95 school year, more than 134,000 Texas students were educated through migrant education programs in 390 districts and the 20 regional education service centers. About one-third of these students migrated to 42 other states where they were able to continue their education.

Premium list mailed to exhibitors for Ft. Worth exposition & stock show

FT. WORTH — Premium Lists for the 1997 Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show, scheduled January 17 through February 2, 1997, have been mailed to 7,000 potential exhibitors, reports W. R. Watt Jr., president/manager.

"Stock Show 101 will reflect total premiums and prize money for our livestock exhibition and rodeo of over $750,000," he added, noting that the show will be host to four national cattle events.

The 74th annual National Polled Hereford Show is set for a two-day event, January 24 and 25, with $20,000 in premiums. The National Hereford Show, honoring Don C. January 23 will be show date for the National Piedmontese Show with $4,000 in premiums. Santa Gertrudis Breeders International will hold its National Show January 24, featuring $13,000 in premiums.

These national events will be coupled with other major shows for beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep, goats, horses, mules, donkeys, llamas, poultry, pigeons and rabbits. Junior Show entry deadlines will be December 1, while Open Show entries have until December 10. Pigeon exhibitors must enter by January 5, and poultry and rabbit exhibitors by January 10. The Stock Show annually hosts several purebred and commercial sales.

Dear Editor:

Good heavens! I just read the results of a poll that claims 53 percent of the electorate say that Clinton "shares their values." Unbelievable. That means that 53 percent adopt lying, infidelity, cowardice, immorality, and generally sleazy actions as their values. They equate themselves with the friends of Bill Clinton who have been found guilty of fraud, and also with Paula Jones, Jennifer Flowers, Travelgate, Whitewater, illegal use of FBI files, and whatever scandal-of-the-week shows up.

It is hard to believe that 53 percent of good old American voters think that poorly of themselves.

J.F. Howell

Dear Editor:

The 1996 Presidential race between the incumbent, Bill Clinton, and Bob Dole is fast coming to an end on Nov. 5.

This election may be decided on a more personal evaluation than those in the last 20 years. Character and honesty appear to be the primary issue.

Rich Bond, former Republican

Party Chairman, quoted Hillary Clinton from a speech she made at the Democrats' annual fund-raising dinner in Washington, as saying "Give Bill a second term, and Al Gore and I will be turned loose to do what we really want to do." When Mr. Don Fowler, the current Democratic Party Chairman was asked about this statement, he did not deny it.

Mr. Clinton came into office in 1992 with a long string of promises. He promised a reduction in taxes on over-burdened working families. He said he would work with Congress on problems that effect the nation. He promised to end gridlock. He promised to reinvent the Federal Government. He also promised to "end welfare as we know it."

Now what did he do? The first two years, he had a congress that did whatever he wanted. He did not keep any of those promises. He raised taxes on the working families; tried to saddle us with a huge government-run health system. He did not cooperate with the new 1994 Congress. Instead he worked actively against legislation he had promised to support, then vetoed those passed by Congress, even though during the 1992 campaign he had promised to support them. The simple truth is, Bill Clinton is a procrastinator. He has not and will not do anything within two years of his reelection bid that will alienate any block of voters, even things he has promised to do. Every speech he makes, he promises to give away millions and millions of our tax dollars.

I am sure you remember the famous train trip he made on the way to the Chicago Convention. At every whistle stop through several Midwest states, he reached for his bag of goodies to give to his audiences. It was estimated that trip cost us tax payers 12 million dollars per mile. I hope he doesn't make any more whistle stop campaign trips. He might have to raise our taxes again. That is if he gets re-elected.

The experts say we will have a very low turn-out. Assuming this is true, the election is up for grabs despite what the pollsters say. It will depend on which party can get their supporters to the polls.

CAPITOL COMMENT

By U.S. Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison

"Texans Target Defense Issues"

Make no mistake about it, the federal government's duty of "providing for the common defense," as the Constitution stipulates, is a top priority for a majority of Texans.

My annual questionnaire, which your newspaper so graciously published this past summer, posed this question to readers: "Congress has increased defense spending by $7 billion over the President's budget this year. Do you favor these increases?"

Sixty-four percent of you favored that increase, and an additional 7 percent favored some increase, if not that amount. Defense is the most important function of the federal government. We must have strong, functional armed forces," one reader commented on his questionnaire.

Another reader expressed an assumption that I believe most Texans share "That the United States should have the most powerful and best equipped military in the world is a given."

One writer worried, "The President has tried to cut our defenses to the point where it is unsafe for our country. I am very concerned about the downsizing of the military at the same time we have extensive troop deployments overseas."

But there also was some ambivalence about the immense sums we spend to keep our country secure: "I support this spending if it is necessary to defend our country. But I wonder about buying all those unnecessary planes." one woman wrote. "I would have increased it, but perhaps not by $7 billion," said another.

"I approve of this increase, but we have to try to cut the waste, and make defense acquisitions more efficient at the same time," one respondent wrote.

And some are resigned to a certain amount of inefficiency in the system: "I am a Navy veteran of World War II, and I can see no reason to cut defense spending. I do hate to see the stupid contracts drawn by the Pentagon, but apparently there is no help for this problem, as it has been going on for well over 50 years."

Many Texans who answered the questionnaire had specific priorities for defense spending: "This money should be spent on training and troop salaries, and needed weapons, not on pork projects."

"Money allocated to the Department of Defense should be identified specifically by purpose. All budgets should include adequate medical and dental support for military retirees and their dependents, as well as active duty personnel," another thoughtful reader wrote.

Several readers raised the question of preparing for missile attacks by rogue nations: "We spend all this money, yet the United States has no defense against a foreign missile threat. Our defense needs to be pro-active, not reactive. We shouldn't wait until Iraq and/or North Korea have missiles to try to cope with such a threat."

Many, many of you have strong opinions about where defense spending should be targeted: "America should not try to police the whole world," a reader wrote.

"If we are spending so much on defense, can we find better ways to use our military, such as fighting the war on drugs? I feel our president is not serious about drugs," another respondent wrote, expressing a frequent theme. Others wrote, "We should close our borders, bring home our troops from abroad and use them to defend our borders," and, "We have too much criminal drug activity here, on our own borders, to take care of. This is what the military is for—to protect U.S. borders."

Finally, several Texans wrote, "Don't put our military under U.N. commanders."

I was very impressed with the insights so many of you have into this important issue. My belief, like the large majority of yours, is that we have been the world's greatest superpower because we have been strong—and we have been prepared. Military readiness is one of the key responsibilities of the federal government. We must never allow our country to be weak militarily. It is my job to ensure that we are spending our defense dollars efficiently and wisely.

I will do everything possible to achieve peace through strength.

"Texans deserve choice in local telephone services"

By Rian Wren, AT&T vice president - local services for the Southwest Region

The flood of innovation in the telecommunications industry is giving Texans an exciting array of ways to get connected for business and pleasure. Just look in any corner of the house or office.

Cable and satellite services are dueling for customers in the home entertainment market.

Cellular, paging, and personal communication services offer a growing choice of wireless ways to be in touch with office or family.

Internet access providers, large and small, vie for the budding online market.

And, as we at AT&T are well aware, many companies provide long distance service at ever lower prices.

The Telecommunications Act of 1996, which became law in February, has mandated a completely competitive communications market in the United States. As the examples above suggest, competition is thriving in many markets, spurring innovation, quality, and lower prices. One sector of communications, though, is only on the threshold of competition - local telephone service. While the long distance market has become increasingly competitive over the past dozen years, local service largely remains a monopoly business.

This will change with the Telecommunications Act of 1996. Since its passage, state authorities and the Federal Communications Commission have been engaged in sorting through the complex issues associated with opening local service to the type of competition that has been such a boon to the long distance marketplace. Long distance prices have dropped as much as 66 percent since the breakup of the Bell System in 1984, and they continue to decline. New types of calling plans have responded to differing consumer needs. Network improvements such as the AT&T True Choice sound quality enhancement have made good service even better. When competitors continually try to best one another, as they do every day in the long distance market, consumers are the clear beneficiaries.

The Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) is now examining how and when the benefits of competition promised by the federal act will be implemented for Texas consumers. The PUC has a difficult, important task. Its decisions will determine whether the benefits of competition become a reality for Texas consumers or an empty promise.

Texas has a tremendous opportunity. It can pave the way for a choice in local service for the 83 percent of Texans who, in a survey this year, said they want it. It can give customers, both consumers and businesses, the option of one-stop shopping for all their telecommunications needs, or selectively bundling the services they choose. And it can help spur the development of new technologies, which will lead to even more new services.

We at AT&T urge Texas to decide in favor of competition, as California, Illinois, New York, and other states have done. These states are moving ahead with choice and innovation in telecommunications at flank speed.

Texas cannot afford to be left behind.

New farm bill gives Donley SWCD new responsibilities

"As a result of the 1996 Farm Bill, the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation district (SWCD) with headquarters in Clarendon, along with 3,000 other SWCD in the nation, has been given the charge to lead the way in developing programs and initiatives to improve soil and water resources at the local level," said Dick Bode, chairman of the SWCD.

"After years of applying top-down program management approaches in federal conservation programs, the new 1996 Farm Bill establishes a locally driven process, coordinated by conservation districts, to guide the state and nation's agricultural conservation efforts. It provides tremendous opportunities for local people to become involved in assessing local resource needs, Bode added.

According to Mr. Bode, the process deals with developing a list of concerns for a long range Farm Bill program for Fiscal Year 1998 and beyond.

To enact the Farm on the local level, the Donley County SWCD, in partnership with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, will conduct a work group meeting with its conservation partners and interested persons or organizations on Monday, Nov. 4, 1996, at 7 p.m. in the Courson RFO Center located at Clarendon College.

The purpose of the meeting is to conduct a local conservation needs assessment, and make program recommendations on what problems the SWCD should address in future years. Local recommendation will then flow to the state level where the district's technical issues, resource priority areas and program policies will be reviewed and integrated into a state, regional, and national program.

"We are really excited about the opportunities the new Farm Bill offers because Congress is seeking our leadership to assist our community in carrying out a cooperative, locally driven, incentive-based conservation program that wisely invests public resources to protect local natural resources," said Bode.

Improving cattle herd reproduction focus of extension programs

CORPUS CHRISTI — One of the major obstacles to profit in the beef cattle industry is the failure of every cow to bring a live calf into the weaning pen.

It has been determined that every open cow or heifer that fails to breed and wean a calf robs cattle producers of the profits of four that do. With annual cow costs ranging from $275 to $365 (or more with the high cost of feed due to drought conditions), this averages 75 cents to $1 per day per cow, said Dr. Joe Paschal, livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Coupled with low calf prices at the market, ranchers should only retain fertile cows and heifers and more importantly, manage for high fertility," Paschal said. With this in mind, county Extension agents and Extension specialists have teamed up with the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine, Texas Beef Cattle Veterinarians and Pfizer Animal Health to provide profitable and timely information to South Texas ranchers struggling to get their cow herds bred.

A series of six regional programs under the Beef Partners in Extension Program (Beef PEP) will be held in locations along the Gulf Coast and the South Texas brush country. Each program will focus on the factors affecting reproduction in the cow herd, including body condition, reproductive diseases, nutritional management, parasite control, replacement heifer management and calving difficulty.

Reservations are required. Directions to the specific locations can be obtained by calling Dr. Joe Paschal at (512) 265-9203.

CC names Wootten as student ambassador

Kimberly Wootten of Clarendon has been chosen to serve as a Student Ambassador for Clarendon College. Wootten is one of only fifteen outstanding students selected to assist the college in important and official duties.

Clarendon College's Student Ambassadors are known as PAW Pals (Peers Advising and Welcoming). Members of the 1996-97 PAW Pals are charter members of CC's ambassador program. The organization was created to ease new students' transition from high school to college and to assist in the recruiting of future students for Clarendon College.

"Our ambassadors provide new and future students with another support person," said Christi Ross, PAW Pal, adviser. "They are available to answer academic and student activity questions with first-hand experience."

Ross added that the students selected as PAW Pals were chosen on their academic progress, extracurricular involvement, attitude, and personality.

Kimberly is the daughter of Buddy and Regina Wootten.

Vitamin E has many benefits

Vitamin E has gained a reputation as perhaps one of the body's most important free radicals. When low-density lipoproteins breakdown, they are more likely to clog coronary arteries. Vitamin E's job is to help ensure this does not happen. This important vitamin also stops excessive muscle-cell formation in damaged arteries and keeps blood clotting in check.

The above claims are hard to prove and subject to debate.

Three American investigations and one Finnish study found that both men and women with higher Vitamin E consumption had a lower risk of heart disease.

One group of 2,000 men and women with heart disease (diagnosed by angiogram) took part in a British study where 1,000 took 400 to 800 IU of Vitamin E and the other 1,000 took a placebo. After 18 months, the participants who took Vitamin E had a 77% reduced risk of non-fatal heart disease.

This gives us some indication that Vitamin E may have some influence in preventing heart disease.

Taylor completes Navy basic training

Navy Seaman Recruit Robert E. Taylor, son of Kathy Taylor of Clarendon, recently completed US Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command in Great Lakes, Illinois.

During the eight-week program, Taylor completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness. In particular, Taylor learned naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety, and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

Taylor and other recruits also receive instruction on the Navy's core values of honor, courage, and commitment, and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct. Taylor joins 55,000 men and women who will enter the Navy this year from all over the country.

Taylor is a 1996 graduate of Clarendon High School. His wife, Meredith, is the daughter of Larry Watson of Clarendon.

Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District

ANNUAL REPORT

The directors of the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District represent five zones that cover all of Donley County. The district is currently in its 51st year of service to farmers and ranchers in Donley County.

Regular monthly meetings are held on the second Monday of each month at 7:00 p.m. at the Natural Resources Conservation Service office at 321 S. Sully in Clarendon. All meetings are open to the public.

The Donley County SWCD encompasses 597,344 acres. Land uses include: 83,626 acres of dryland cropland, 10,712 acres of irrigated cropland, 454,031 acres of rangeland, 19,000 acres of pasture and hayland, and 29,975 acres of other land which includes urban and water acres.

With technical assistance provided by the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, the District Board promotes wise use of our natural resources through sound soil and water conservation programs and activities on farm and ranch land within Donley County. The District Board also serves as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation and environmental matters and other issues affecting private property rights of land owners.

A high priority of the Donley County SWCD is the conservation tree program. Hundreds of trees are planted each year for windbreaks, wildlife plantings, and beautification through this annual program.

Brush Control, such as mesquite spraying pictured above, will improve productivity of range land.

Conservation practices such as wind strip cropping, the use of cover crops, crop rotations, and crop residue use have helped reduce the amount of wind erosion in recent years.

Clarendon Field Office Staff: James Lewis, Range Conservationist; Dana Monroe, District Technician; and Weldon Sears, District Conservationist.

Proper grazing use, planned grazing systems, and correct stocking rates are important management practices which will help to maintain the productivity of our native rangeland.

Pasture management on land formerly enrolled in CRP will ensure the productivity of these valuable grazing lands.

Terrace construction and maintenance is essential for water erosion control on sloping cropland in the county.

Texans want choice in local phone services

(NAPS)—Texans have always been the independent sort. So it's no surprise that more than eight of every 10 Lone Star State residents — 83 percent — want a choice between competing local telephone service companies, according to a recent statewide poll.

Texans have had few choices for local telephone service. Passage of the Telecommunications Act earlier this year may allow more services at better prices. The survey results include:

- More than 72 percent believe competition will bring lower rates.
- Seventy-three percent say it will improve customer service.

Three-quarters of the 800 residents questioned believe open competition will benefit all Texans, whether living in urban or rural communities.

The survey comes as the Texas Public Utility Commission begins hearings to clear the way for long distance phone companies, like AT&T, to begin offering local service throughout Texas. For more information, call (800) 429-5598.

Lady Broncos win cross country title

Clarissa Smith and Kala Holland paced the Lady Broncos to a District 2-2A Cross Country title Oct. 23 in White Deer, outdistancing Panhandle by two points.

Clarendon advances to the Region I meet Saturday at 11 a.m. in Mae Simmons Park in Lubbock.

"I would call it a fairly easy course," head coach Steve Schmidt said of the Lubbock trail. "It starts off with one steep hill."

Smith advanced to the regional meet in 1995 and placed in the top 30.

"(Smith) liked it," Schmidt said. "If she's positive, that's a good sign because for her to be excited about a course that's good for the other girls."

"She sets the pace and has leadership qualities, and since she's been there, all the girls have her word to go by. She was real nervous last year and was overwhelmed to be there in the first place without her teammates."

The top three teams and top 15 individual runners at the regional meet advance to the state meet Nov. 9 in Round Rock.

Traveling to the regional meet will be Smith, who finished 3, and a time of 13:36; Holland, 4, 13:37; Korey Knorpp, 8, 13:51; Kasi Ashcraft, 11, 14:02; Lolli Menchaca, 12, 14:02; Kathy Bryley, 14, 14:14; and Jenny Roberts, 27, 15:25.

America Santos, who finished 19th with a time of 17:05 in the junior varsity race, will probably replace Bryley at the regional meet, Schmidt said.

Bryley suffers from severe shin splints and needs to recuperate, he said.

"(Bryley) helped get us to district, and it was her first year in cross country, so I think she's real pleased, and so am I."

Even though Clarendon placed six of their seven runners in the top 15, Schmidt said they were unsure they won the district meet until the results were announced.

"We had five placed in the top 12, and I think Panhandle had three in the top 10. It wasn't a one-person or two-person race. It was just real close."

Schmidt had praise for his entire team but enjoyed the finish of Smith and Holland who nearly tied. "(Smith) barely held (Holland) off. And (Knorpp) really dug in hard at the end. All at the end of the race were totally exhausted."

Clarendon's junior high squad finished second in the district meet with five of the seven runners finishing in the top 15.

Jamie Sawyer paced the Lady Colts with a sixth place finish and a time of 14:22. Other finishers were Courtney Newhouse, 8, 14:52; Danielle Holden, 9, 14:58; April Bryley, 10, 15:03; Claire Rodriguez, 14, 15:46; Kelley Lemley, 16, 15:57; and Megan Roberts, 18, 16:03.

"They felt like it was a big race," Schmidt said. "They got a little bit nervous for it. Hopefully that year of experience will be good for them."

Eighth grade Colts wallop Panhandle

Clarendon's eighth graders whaloped visiting Panhandle, 40-14, Oct. 24 - a team that had previously beaten the Colts 14-6.

The win moves their record to 3-3-1 on the season.

The Colts host Memphis Thursday at 6 p.m.

The 4-2-1 seventh graders, who lost 18-0 to the Panthers, will play at 4:30 p.m. Kick-off for the Junior Varsity squad against the Cyclones is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The eighth graders were led by Dee Thompson's and Colt Floyd's two touchdowns apiece.

Thompson led off the charge on a 10-yard scamper, and Randy Sanchez charged 10 yards after recovering a Panhandle fumble for a 14-14 halftime score.

Floyd scored a 40-yard TD off an interception, and Thompson tacked on a 15-yard TD run.

It was all Floyd again as he scampered into the end zone on a bootleg, and Shannon Martin hit paydirt on a 70-yard touchdown to finish out the scorefest.

Clarendon's J.V. squad played a strong first quarter against Panhandle, who trampled Clarendon 44-0 during their last outing. Strong offensive gains by Wes Ritchie and the Bronco defense held the two teams scoreless until the Panthers threw Cael Shields for a safety.

Panhandle scored on the ensuing kick-off, but Ritchie smothered the runner on the two-point conversion.

Ritchie made the first down before halftime before Carey Thornberry was forced to punt to the 35-yard line. The Broncos held the Panthers and recovered the ball on the 44-yard line before the half ended.

Panhandle led, 8-0, at the half.

Brandon Word and Aaron Jeffers threw the Panther quarterback for a loss after half. Several plays later, Brock Holland stopped Panhandle on the 2-yard line, causing the fumble, and the ball rolled out of the end zone.

Panhandle held onto a slim 8-0 lead entering the fourth quarter, but the Panthers drove and scored their second TD. Shields tackled the runner holding off the two-point conversion.

Clarendon received the ball and soon was forced to punt. The punt was blocked, and Panhandle regained possession on the Clarendon 15-yard line.

Freshman Zach Butts broke up a Panther pass on the first down, but Panhandle ran nine yards for 6 points on third and fourth down. D.J. Edwards sacked the quarterback on the two-point conversion attempt.

Panhandle won 20-0.

How to handle stress as a caregiver

by Jeanene Sinclair, County Extension Agent

We all face stress, whether it's from the death of a loved one, finances, a new marriage, or just trying to cope with day-to-day rigors of living. That stress is multiplied when you are a caregiver — to a child, elderly parent or ailing spouse.

"We must be honest with ourselves and pay attention to our own needs."

"When we meet our own needs, we are better able to give care to others; and we become better persons all around."

Support from others is very helpful during times of crises. "We also need support in our everyday lives — from co-workers, from friends and family — in helping us to be the best person we can be."

Stress comes from emotional and biological responses to events and experiences. These may include both those events that are good and those that are bad.

Stress is something we need to function well. It's only when stress becomes excessive that it's a hazard to our health.

In his book, Mind as Healer, Mind as Slayer, Dr. Kenneth Pelletier said that stress affects everyone the same way, whether they're old or young or male or female. As teenagers, Pelletier said that people begin to accumulate the effects of psychological stress. By mid-life, they feel the toll it's taking; and stress disorders result from this buildup, he said.

It is important to know the difference between injurious and non-injurious stress.

Non-injurious stress occurs when someone knows what's causing the stress, can deal directly with the problem, and feel a sigh of relief as things get back to normal.

Injurious stress is stress that is not under a person's control or that occurs when several stressful things happen at the same time.

Although we cannot control injurious stress, we may need to balance it with things which give us pleasure. In fact, we must.

New room at TCU named for Matthews

Kade L. and Christine Craft Matthews of Amarillo are among 35 major donors whose gifts and pledges totaling $6 million funded the construction of the Dee J. Kelly Alumni and Visitors Center on the Texas Christian University campus.

The center was named for Dee J. Kelly, TCU class of '50, to honor his years of service to the University both as a member of the TCU Board of Trustees and as a distinguished alumnus.

Gifts and donations totaling $35 million were made by friends and clients of Dee J. Kelly and in his honor. In appreciation of the Matthews' gift towards the construction of the Kelly Center, the University has named the Matthews Frog Club Office in their honor. The Matthews are both TCU alumni. Kade is a member of the class of '81 and Christine, the class of '79. The Kelly Center was officially opened to the public with a dedication ceremony Saturday, Oct. 26.

The Kelly Center is a campus home for the approximately 56,000 alumni of TCU. It also houses meeting rooms and office space for alumni relations, and serves as a welcome center for campus visitors seeking information and directions as they arrive on campus.

Genealogical Society holds Fall Workshop

The Amarillo Genealogical Society will hold their annual Fall Workshop featuring Lloyd DeWitt Bockstruck, FNGS, on Saturday, November 2, 1996, at Boatmen's First National Bank Centennial Room located on 8th and Fillmore in Amarillo. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m., and the seminar begins at 10:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Their speaker returns to Amarillo for the second year to give them the benefit of his expertise. Mr. Bockstruck is the supervisor of the Dallas Public Library Genealogy Section. The morning lecture will be a discussion of his new book Revolutionary War Bounty Land Grants Awarded by State Governments, and how to trace your family through these obscure records. Readers have long had access to the records of Bounty Land Grants awarded by the Federal Government; now Mr. Bockstruck has compiled an alphabetical list of citizens and soldiers who received Bounty Land Grants from the nine states that rewarded men with land grants. This discussion will cover Connecticut, Georgia, Maryland, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and Virginia. In the afternoon, he will talk about research in Pennsylvania and Alabama.

A box lunch will be available from the Wooden Nickel Restaurant for $5.25 including beverage. This must be reserved in advance. You may also bring a sack lunch. Morning coffee, rolls, door prizes, vendor booths to browse and freebies are available.

For more information contact the Amarillo Genealogical Society, P.O. Box 2171, Amarillo, Texas 79189.

Old injuries can lead to new ones

Old injuries lead to new injuries. "Of the 30 million young people involved in organized sports, 10 percent of them will suffer a sports-related injury," said Dr. Albert C. Hergenroeder, head of adolescent and sports medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

According to Hergenroeder, many new injuries occur as a result of past injuries that are not detected or rehabilitated. Athletes often suffer loss of strength, flexibility, and endurance as a result of injuries that are ignored and not taken care of properly.

"The best way to prevent injuries is to rehabilitate old injuries," he said. "In addition, watch for the 'stars'. An athlete who is second in his district is more likely to return to competition before he is fully recovered."

- Hergenroeder recommends:
- Identifying conditions likely to be worsened by participation, ranging from unusual conditions such as cardiac disease to common muscular-skeletal injuries.
 - Learning proper techniques before moving on to the next level in a particular sport. This also requires good coaching.
 - Using safety equipment and checking it regularly.
 - Enforcing fair and safe rules of play by officials.
 - Having medical aid available for immediate treatment.
 - Getting an annual pre-sports medical evaluation.

About three million sports-related injuries are reported annually in children and adolescents at an estimated cost of $1.3 billion. The sports with the highest injuries include football, softball, track and field, wrestling, and gymnastics.

"Kids will always play sports, and injuries will always occur," Hergenroeder said. "The job of health care providers, parents, and coaches is to identify and implement ways of preventing injuries."

The pleasure of an afternoon nap is double that of sleep at night.

"Man's Best Friend"

As the trees give up their green for halos of yellow and red, it is time to pay special attention to man's best friend — the dog. Long ago, his ancestors exchanged the hardships of a cave, a warm fire, and scraps of food.

Unlike the pampered lap dogs, who only witness the changing seasons through an insulated picture window, the average hunting kingdom is the backyard. Bred to be a working dog, he looks forward to hunting season with a passion that time has not diminished.

His only demand is food, water, and shelter. Hunting dogs require a lot of calories. Not only do they use energy working the cover during long days afield, but they need additional calories just to maintain body temperatures during our harsh Panhandle winters.

Studies at the Ralston Purina Pet Care Center show that a hardworking adult bird dog needs 50% more calories than does his less active cousins. Add in a brutal cold day with a little ice and snow and a hard day of hunting can require 80% more calories per pound than during the summer months.

With most complete and balanced dog foods, these extra demands simply mean increased portions. Many hunters feed their dogs twice a day with a light meal in the morning (at least two hours before hunting), and a larger portion in the evening after the hunt. After several days of extended hunting, many bird dogs lose their appetites and prefer sleeping over eating. To insure your dog eats a full portion, try adding warm water or a spoonful of cooking oil/bacon grease over the food.

Always take plenty of water during the hunt, and make sure his water dish at home is clean and full.

All dogs need clean, dry bedding in a small, draft-free dog house. Since they drag mud or snow into the house (or haul the bedding outside), it is imperative to change the bedding frequently to keep it clean and dry.

Take good care of that dog. After all, who else is always glad to see you, never complains when you are late, and thinks you are the kindest, most wonderful person in the world?

Warning Warning Warning: All hunters planning on utilizing the public hunting at the Lake Meredith Recreation area need to check out the six "new" rules that supercede Texas Parks and Wildlife guidelines. Call (806) 857-3161.

Harrington String Quartet to begin season

The Harrington String Quartet will hold the first performance of their 1996-97 season on Saturday, Nov. 2, 1996, at 8:00 p.m. at Westminster Presbyterian Church at 2525 Wimberly Road in Amarillo.

Other concerts in this series take place on February 1 and April 5, 1997. Last season their concert series was located at Northern Hall at WTAMU and this season all concerts will take place in Amarillo at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Joining the permanent members of the Quartet on November 2 will be two guest artists, violinist Laura Park and pianist Jeananne Albee. The Harrington String Quartet is currently engaged in a search for two new members to replace violinists Dawn Harms and John Meisner who left the group earlier this summer. Amy Brandfonbrener, viola, and Emmanuel Lopez, cello, will join the guest artists for this performance.

Both are Principal players in the Amarillo Symphony and faculty members at WTAMU.

The concert will include Mozart's Piano Quartet in C minor, K. 478; William Bolcom's Capriccio for cello and piano; Bohuslav Martinu's Three Madrigals for violin and viola; and Brahms' Piano Quartet in C minor, Opus 60.

Jeananne Albee made her debut with the Buffalo Philharmonic at the age of twelve. She was a full scholarship student of Rosina Lhevinne at the Juilliard School where she received her Bachelor's and Master's degrees. She has won many national competitions and performed numerous times at the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC, and the Lincoln Center in New York. Her most recent recording was for the Capstone Label, featuring the works of American composer Elizabeth Austin.

Laura Park is currently on leave of absence from her position as Assistant Concertmaster of the Boston Symphony. This season she is Concertmaster of the Brooklyn Philharmonic. Park was a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra from 1984 to 1991, joining that orchestra when she was only 19 years old. She is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music and has performed chamber music at many festivals including Aspen, Taos, and Marlboro. She is a faculty member of the Boston Conservatory.

Season tickets for the Harrington String Quartet three concert series are $20. Single tickets for the November 2 concert are $7 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

For ticket information, please call the symphony office at 376-8782.

Valley dealers from Memphis learn latest technology

Kenneth Helms, Robert Helms, and Morris Davis of Red River Valley Irrigation in Memphis, Texas, learned about the latest trends in mechanized irrigation and control technology, as well as other aspects of irrigation service, at the Valmont Irrigation international sales meeting in Orlando, Florida.

"Remote control technology, 'smart computer' controls, advanced water conservation practices and increased profits for irrigators have given our industry some exciting news," notes Jim Eiting, vice president of sales at Valmont Irrigation. "Our team includes Valmont Irrigation and Valley products. But at the heart of the team is the local dealer, who delivers this information, technology and service to the producer. That is why Valmont has emphasized dealer training and why our dealers are the best-trained in the business."

Valmont Irrigation is the world's leading manufacturer of mechanized irrigation equipment. For more than 40 years, Valley products have been enhancing food production while conserving and protecting natural resources. Valmont has sold nearly 100,000 Valley center pivots and linear machines worldwide, irrigating roughly 10 million acres in more than 90 countries.
