Hero of Iwo Jima to be keynote speaker at Vet Memorial Dedication

Lakeview native and World War II hero Lt. Keith Wells will be the keynote speaker at the Donley County Veterans Memorial Dedication Ceremony next Thursday, July 4.

Wells, who now resides in Abilene, participated in one of the most memorable victories of the war: the raising of the American flag on Iwo Jima. The scene was immortalized in a picture by Joe Rosenthal and is the subject of a monument in Washington, DC.

For his actions in leading his 45 men into assaults against Japanese emplacements on Iwo Jima, Wells was awarded the Purple Heart, the Navy Cross, and a Regimental Citation.

Wells retired from the Marine Corps in 1959 with an honorary commission of major.

He has received numerous awards and given several speeches to various groups. In September 1994,

No stick rockets or missiles to be sold at stands this year

Due to the extremely dry conditions that many Texas counties are experiencing, the Texas Pyrotechnics Association has unanimously voted to remove all stick rockets and missiles from this year's stock.

According to information provided by Kathleen Yankie, under no circumstances will any stick rockets or missiles be sold at any fireworks dealer. This decision was made as a gesture of cooperation on the part of the fireworks industry to express their concern for the dry conditions.

Wells was honored by the Marine Corps Retired Officers Association by having a plaque designated the "John Keith Wells Award."

He has also written a book, Give Me Fifty Marines Not Afraid To Die, about his role in the actions at Iwo Jima.

The Donley County Veterans Memorial by the courthouse will be dedicated on July 4, 1996, after the parade (at approximately 3:30 p.m.). US Rep. Mac Thornberry will also be on hand for the ceremony.

Ellerbrook nominated for National Award

Louis Ellerbrook of Clarendon was one of five people from Texas nominated for a 1996 National Caring Award.

The National Caring Awards were established to identify particularly caring Americans and reinforce their activities. The purpose of this program is to recognize the contributions these exceptional human beings have made which create role models that raise the standard of social responsibility. Nominations for the National Caring Awards are solicited annually from thousands of eminent Americans, in addition to the general public.

Ten adults and ten young adults are chosen each year to be honored with a National Caring Award. This year, the ceremony will be held in Washington, DC on November 23, 1996. Selection will be made in October of 1996 by the Caring Institute's distinguished Board of Directors, which is chaired by former Senator Frank E. Moss.

The Caring Institute was created in 1985 to promote selflessness and teach the value of caring. The Institute sponsors a variety of programs designed to encourage the public to consider the importance of caring and community. These include, but are not limited to, Art of Caring poster, essay, and photography contests, Caring Ambassadors, and Youth CAN. The Institute also provides internships and fellowships for students and maintains a permanent memorial to the National Caring Award recipients in the Hall of Fame for Caring Americans.

Gramm to fill vacant Senate Ag Committee seat

The announcement that US Sen. Phil Gramm (R-Tex.) will fill the Senate Agriculture Committee seat vacated by former US Sen. Bob Dole is great news for Texas farmers and ranchers, according to the president of the state's largest general farm organization.

"We are facing some of the worst agriculture problems related to drought that his state has faced in a long time - maybe the worst problems ever," Texas Farm Bureau President Bob Stallman said. "And it's going

Three area ranches compete in All Ranch Rodeo recently

By Amy Auker

Three teams from the Clarendon and Hedley area participated in the Coors Outfit All Ranch Rodeo the weekend of June 14 and 15. The rodeo consisted of ranch events including team penning, ranch saddle bronc riding, wild cow milking, steer doctoring, and branding.

The High Card Ranch won fourth place in the competition. Elwin McClesky won the ranch saddle bronc riding. This Clarendon team also won the wild cow milking. Team captain was Jerry Hodge, and other members included Morris Crump, Ray Crump, Elwin McClesky, Chris Halsel, Heath Hodge, Linda McClesky-Crump, and Randy Crump.

The JA Ranch came in fifth. The team captain was Billy Hollowell, and other team members were Carroll Jack Lewis, Powder Horn, Andrew Bivins, Steve Lewis, and Ike O'Neil.

The XL Ranch of Masterson, Texas, included two members from the JJO'B Ranch of Hedley. The team captain was Alan Tapp, and other members were Gary Lewis, Kelly Lapshaw, Chris Harrison, Jason Sargent, Tull Bailey, and Teel Bivins. This team got eighth place in the competition.

CC student to compete for Miss Texas title next week

For Clarendon College student Mickala Murrell, she's close to reaching the dream that she has been chasing since she was a toddler. A lifelong beauty contestant, the Kress, Texas, resident will be one of 130 competitors in the Miss Texas Pageant July 1 at Padre Island.

Murrell qualified for the pageant by winning the Miss Panhandle Area USA title in Amarillo on March 13.

Mixing sequined gown and crowns with books isn't an easy task, according to Murrell. "I participated in 14 pageants this year, from Miss Permian Basin to Miss Crowley," she said. "That's a lot of time on the road and away from my classes and just the day-to-day activities of college life."

When she's on campus, Murrell is a chameleon. She easily fades into the crowd as she opts the tiara and heels for a sweatshirt, short, and a cap. "When I'm at school, I'm just Mickala, not a beauty queen, or anything like that. Some people find that funny that you can compete and be down-to-earth at the same time."

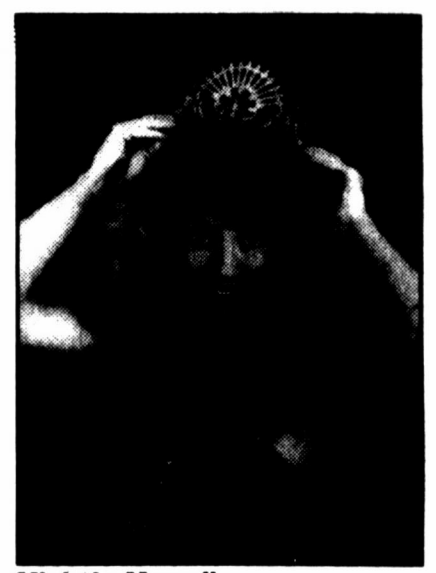

As a Music Education major, Mickala has chosen the flute as her talent entry. According to Murrell, her talent is quite unusual for pageant competitions. "In all the pageants I've been to and competed in, there's only been one other woman who plays the flute. And she was a Top 10 finalist at the Miss Texas Pageant last year. Most of the women are dancers and singers, so maybe, cross your fingers, this will allow me to stand out from the others."

Murrell has more than luck on her side. As a member of the Clarendon College choir and jazz band, she practices a great deal. "Same goes for being a CC cheerleader," she said with a laugh. "Working with the girls at basketball games, I get a lot of my exercise there. Doesn't feel like work, either."

Mickala's humor reminds you that she's a product of West Texas which gives her the ability to look at each situation in a unique way. "Does anyone really walk around in heels while wearing a swimsuit? I know I don't normally do that, do you?" she said laughing.

Exercise and physical fitness will play a factor in the crowning of the next Miss Texas. Swimsuit competition counts for 15 percent, evening wear 15 percent, talent 30 percent, and interview 40 percent. For the interview session, each competitor must have a prepared subject in which they discuss. The effects of secondhand smoke will be

Quilt created to raise money for CC Exes

Thousand upon thousand of tiny stitches. Weathered, but experienced, hands make sure they are even and accurate. Extra care is taken with this quilt as it is signed with affection by the faculty, staff, and regents of Clarendon College.

The brain child of Jo Shaller and Christi Whitten, the quilt will be used to raise scholarship money for the Ex-Students Association.

The CC Ex-Students Association is a non-profit organization which annually presents scholarships to needy CC students.

"The idea of a signature quilt is not an original one," Whitten said. "During the 1800s, it was quite common for members of a community, church, or school to sign a block and have it sewn into a Friendship Quilt."

To further the theme of a college quilt, the makers decided to add a reproduction of the college seal which was hand-drawn and painted by CC librarian Annis Stavenhagen.

The CC Ex-Students' Quilt was stitched by the members of the Martin Quilting Club. The club had the top completed in less than four hours.

Tickets for the quilt are $1 each and will be available in mid-July. Proceeds from the quilt will benefit the CC Ex Students Association Scholarship Fund. For more information on the quilt or raffle tickets, please contact Christi Whitten, CC Public Information and Market Coordinator at (806) 874-3571.

to be very important to have an advocate for Texas agriculture in Washington, D.C., and appropriately placed on the Senate Ag Committee to help us out."

Gramm said his first and most critical mission on the Agriculture Committee will be to make certain drought-stricken "Texas agricultural producers have every bit of assistance that the US Department of Agriculture is capable of providing." He said the current drought represents the largest threat to the state's agriculture industry since he's served in the Senate.

"I believe this new committee assignment will help me help farmers and ranchers in Texas," Gramm said.

Stallman noted that Texas' excellent representation on the House Agriculture Committee will only be enhanced by Gramm's appointment on the Senate side.

"Obviously it takes bills passing both the Senate and the House in Washington to get things done," he said. "And now we will have a strong advocate on the Senate Agriculture Committee."

Miss Texas contest:

Mickala's topic. "I've been working and revising my platform all year long, so I feel comfortable with my topic."

Being a Miss Texas USA contestant doesn't come cheap. The entry fee alone is $1,100 and then the outfits, accessories, and travel must be figured into the picture, as well. Murrell sought out sponsorships to assist in the cost of the contest. "So many wonderful individuals and businesses have supported me and my dream of being Miss Texas. I want them all to know that I thank them dearly for their encouragement."

From being Miss Littlefield at age two to competing in the Miss Texas USA pageant, Murrell is just moments away from achieving her dream of becoming Miss Texas on July 1. "Of course I want to win, but even if I don't, I'll keep competing." The pageant will be aired on KAMR-Channel 4 (NBC). Check your local listing for exact air time.

By Scott Elliott
"A Tip on Nippon"

Some years ago I attended a heated school board meeting in Florida during which the learned panel debated the merits of corporal punishment in secondary institutions.

An innocent bystander, I was nodding in the back of the room when one of the board members suddenly blurted, "Dr. Elliott, do you favor corporal punishment?"

Well, I could have just about fallen out of my doggone chair.

"(Gulp!) How in the Sam Hill am I going to get myself out of this one?" I panicked, instantly. "If I say I'm in favor of corporal punishment, I'll be branded a child molester by the liberals, and if I say I'm against it, I'll be viewed as an atheist weak sister by the conservatives. And, Geez Louise, all I came here for tonight was to find out how much my taxes are going to be raised."

Gathering myself, I finally produced a $1.25 answer to a dime question.

"I favor effectiveness," I said.

"Effectiveness?" one board member quizzed, scratching his dandruff-infested noggin. "What do you mean, effectiveness?"

I favor methodologies that will result in behavior modification, if not attitude adjustment," I continued, in my best scholarly fashion.

"Could you please say something in English?" the board member pressed.

Having exhausted my best Fred Astaire, I finally confessed to the board member that while I really had nothing against a good old fashioned, properly administered spanking, I didn't think it was the most effective deterrent in all cases.

"What's better than a spanking?" the member demanded.

"Washing windows," I replied.

"Huh?" the member responded.

"Given the choice, as a student, between washing windows and a few licks," I explained, "I would take the latter every time - in a New York second."

The conversation ensued for a while longer, and the board member never really did embrace my shaky position. But I genuinely believed what I was saying. To me, a whuppin' represents short-term pain soon forgotten and puts the administration at risk in an era when one can be sued for sneezing downwind. Washing windows, on the other hand, is a grueling, salt mines kind of deterrent that might cause the most hardened of offenders to think twice.

Irrespective of the discipline issue, I believe that America would be well-served to incorporate the upkeep of our schools into the curriculum. That model has long existed in Japan, where students are assigned daily custodial duties - washing windows, mopping floors, cleaning blackboards, emptying trash cans, etc.

The Japanese believe that such student involvement instills discipline and exhibits respect for the privilege of an education. In addition to custodial duties, Japanese students are charged with other responsibilities, such as working in their school cafeterias. Students rotate in shifts with one class serving another.

Having studied the Japanese model rather extensively as a doctoral student, I must admit to being favorably impressed with some other elements of that system. For instance, the study of foreign language is a mandatory component of the curriculum at the elementary school level. There is also an early and intense focus on higher mathematics and sciences. The West Germans, who have likewise kicked us economically in recent generations, basically employ the same model.

Personally, I think that's pretty proactive and insightful stuff. First, the older we become, the less pliable our minds. Second, we live in an inarguably global economy in which the understanding of other cultures and the ability to communicate with same will be more and more central to our success or lack thereof.

The study of any foreign language has great merit. But in the Deep South, Southeast, Southwest, and Far West regions, I believe the study of Spanish has particular, pragmatic value. The ability of our students to effectively interface with Hispanic populations will be an invaluable resource for industrial leaders of tomorrow in the aforementioned regions. It's a tool that young people would be well-served to bring to the table when they apply for many jobs of the future.

As a case in point, I was conversing the other day with an agriculture teacher who told me that a young man or woman in the meats industry who can speak Spanish can simply fill out his/her own contract these days. Name their own price, as it were.

Well, now that I've successfully alienated all the French and German teachers of the world and drifted far, far from the original premise of this column, permit me to conclude by saying that there is much to be learned from the study of other cultures and systems, not only in terms of discipline, but also in assessing outcomes.

By the way, the Japanese don't just study any old foreign language. They learn English. Draw your own conclusions.

In Latin it might be said, fas est et ab hoste doceri or "it is right to learn - even from an adversary."

Dr. Scott Elliott is the president of Clarendon College.

Museum Messenger

By Saints' Rooster

Dinner and a Rodeo

Television may have its popular show "Dinner and a Movie," but on July 6th Saints' Roost Museum will feature Dinner and a Rodeo! Dinner will be served on the lawn under the trees at the museum. After feasting on homemade sloppy joes and enjoying a bowl of ice cream for dessert, you can make it to the rodeo grounds in time to get a good seat.

The "open house" dinner will begin at 5 p.m. There will be tubs of ice cream, chips, and good fellowship. There will even be time for a quick visit to the "air conditioned" museum to see what's new in the "old" department including a vintage photo display honoring Donley County veterans.

Guests

Ten days before the end of the month, 140 guests had called at the museum including out of state folks from Alabama, New Mexico, Colorado, California, Arkansas, Arizona, Florida, Wyoming, Louisiana, and Nevada. There was also a young guest from Austria, who was in the southwest filming a documentary on severe weather.

Among the guests were Richard Johnson and Paula Wingo who were born in Adair Hospital. Fifteen volunteers from the Hutchinson County Museum in Borger dropped by as did many of those participating in the Texas Archaeology Society dig at Greenbelt Lake. Fifteen residents of the Clarendon nursing home also toured the museum.

Bylaws and Elections

The Saints' Roost Museum Board of Directors passed, by unanimous vote, a new set of bylaws governing museum policy and operations. The new bylaws are the result of long hours of work and reflect the new proactive attitude of the board. Look for some new exhibits in the upcoming months as we bring more of our time treasures out of hiding and put them on display.

Interim elections will be held in August to fill some newly created committee positions.

Photo Exhibit

Zell and Sara SoRelle have loaned a fantastic collection of photographs by Robert Conley, a gifted amateur photographer, who drowned in a diving accident off Hawaii. The photos are hung in the main north/south corridor.

Conley was not only a computer wizard but also an adventurer who climbed mountains, hiked, and backpacked all over the world. He was Zell's nephew and is buried in Clarendon. His photographs reflect an eclectic's view the beauty in our natural world. It's worth the short trip to Saints' Roost just to see the collection. The highlighted shot of King Tut is a prize winner.

Chuckwagons Are Rolling

Plans for the second annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff and Camp Gathering are nearing the nail biting stage for planners who report bigger and better for everything from entertainment to the lunch menu. Be sure to put a happy face on your calendar for August 28 when the real west of bygone years rolls into Clarendon.

Changes made in the XIT Rodeo

The 60th Annual XIT Rodeo and Reunion proudly announces a major change in the rodeo. This year's rodeo will be a PRCA event. They hope to offer their spectators the best of the best. There will be a rodeo performance on August 1-3 at 7:00 p.m. and a slack performance at 8:00 a.m. on August 3.

The XIT Reunion will still offer the excitement of Pony Express Races on August 3, US Numbered Roping on July 27 and 28, and PRCA Steer Roping Slack on July 31. The rodeo will be produced by Broken Arrow Rodeo, Inc.

The XIT always does their best to keep all their visitors happy with a full stomach by treating them to free stew on August 1, free watermelon on August 2, and free barbecue on August 3.

This photograph was taken in 1962 of the original Ranch House in Cee Vee. The residents of Cee Vee have applied for the placement of a historical marker at the location of the original CV Ranch House, which dates back prior to the turn of the century. Standing beside the building are Jerry Barlow and Tracey Evans.

Cee Vee anticipates historical marker

Cee Vee residents have applied to the Cottle County Historical Commission and the Texas Historical Commission for placement of a historical marker at the location of the original CV Ranch House, which dates back prior to the turn of the century. The 27"x42" marker on an aluminum pole will depict the history of the CV and Mill Iron Ranches and the community of Cee Vee.

The proposed marker will be located on the right-of-way on the south side of FM 1440 at the site of the original Cee Vee Mercantile Store. The Tracy and Bennie Evans family has agreed to permit the use of the land where the original Cee Vee store was built for development of the Tracy Evans Memorial Park. They have also agreed to donate rock from the remains of the Cee Vee Store for landscaping the project.

Signs are planned on Highway 83 at Cee Vee road 1440 and at the Northfield crossing on the North Pease River to direct travelers to the Cee Vee Historical Marker.

The Texas Historical Commission requires $850 at the time the application is submitted to forge the marker. A "Cee Vee Historical Marker Fund" has been established at Guaranty Federal Savings and Loan in Childress to raise funds for the marker. Anyone wishing to donate to this project may make checks payable to the "Cee Vee Historical Marker Fund" c/o Lorene Newman Raines, 1104 Avenue F - NW, Childress, TX 79201. Any money received which is not used for the marker project will be donated to the Cee Vee Cemetery Association for maintenance of the cemetery.

USDA's Rural Development to participate in President's Homeownership Initiative

"President Clinton has made homeownership a priority for this Administration," said Sherie Hinton, Acting State Director for Rural Development, formerly known as the Farmers Home Administration. "The Homeownership initiative provides USDA with the chance to build on our existing homeownership opportunities in rural communities across America."

Last year, the President called for a national effort to lift America's homeownership rate. As a result, a partnership was formed between 56 private industries, national non-profit organizations, non-profit community groups, and Federal, State, and local governments to meet the President's challenge to bring the homeownership rate in America to an all-time high by the end of the century. USDA's Rural Development mission, through the Rural Housing Service (RHS), is taking the lead in implementing this initiative in rural America.

USDA's Rural Housing Service has already taken steps to increase the level of homeownership in rural America. Through reinvention, RHS has redesigned program delivery of the single family direct loan program, making it more accessible to rural families and creating significant savings to tax payers.

The Department of Agriculture's Rural Development mission area recently participated in the National Homeownership Summit. President Clinton held a town meeting forum on homeownership on June 6. Participants included federal agencies, state and local partnerships, local affiliates of national organizations, and national housing leaders. The Summit was a showcase of the successes of public/private partnerships since the President's kick-off of the National Homeownership Initiative in June of 1995.

A signing ceremony was held on June 7 to kick-off the Rural Home Loan Partnership Initiative. This initiative joins the three partners, RHS, the Federal Housing Finance Board, and the Rural Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC), to increase the availability of mortgage credit in rural areas through a leveraged single family mortgage product for low-income families. The ceremony included Secretary Glickman; Paul Grogan, President of the LISC; and former Representative Bruce Morrison, Chairman of the Federal Housing Finance Board.

The timing of Homeownership Summit was significant in that June is designated as National Homeownership Month.

If you are interested in the Homeownership Initiative and would like to find out more information, contact the Rural Development office nearest you or call the State Office Rural Housing Service in Temple at 817-774-1305 for more information.

Two JA cowboys struck by lightning in 1885

During a round-up on the JA Ranch in November of 1885, Bob Christina and Warrener Reed were killed by lightning. The following poem was written by Miss Gillia Boren and was published in the Tulia paper in 1935. The paper was found in the keepsakes of Mrs. S.V. Rice after she had passed away. The poem is as follows:

November 1895

by Miss Gillia Boren

*'Twas a misty November morning
The black clouds came and went,
While the restless lowing of cattle
On the cold, gray day was sent.*

*On the Burnham Hill in Swisher,
What year I do not know,
But the cowboys at the roundup
Rode swiftly to and fro.*

*This was the greatest roundup
I had ever seen before.
The herd covered an area
Of five hundred yards or more.*

*There must have been seventy-five men
Ranchmen, and "nesters" all.
All laughing, happy and merry,
At the roundups that come in the fall.*

*With their slickers all dripping with rain,
Their horses all wet and cold,
The hardships of the patient cowboy
Is a story that never grows old.*

*This was a JA roundup,
They were cutting back steers that
day,
Intending to ship the largest,
As the small ones would not pay.*

*Bob Bishop was boss of the
roundup,
They were cutting back steers that
day,
Intending to ship the largest,
As the smaller ones would not pay.*

*Bob Bishop was boss of the
roundup;
No cowman more skilled on the* *plains.

But cold and dreary was today's work
On Burnham Hill in the rain.*

*Bob Christina and Warrener Reed
Were holding the "cuts" close by,
When a vivid flash of lightning
Lit the earth and angry sky.*

*The red streak quickly vanished,
Like a crimson, fleet-winged bird,
And down fell the boys of the JA
Who were holding the "cuts" of the herd.*

*The horses and men fell together,
Ten cattle around them lay still.
The two cowboys from the JA Ranch
Lay dead on the Burnham Hill.*

*That one flash of fiery lightning
Was the only one seen that day,
But it took two cowboys to heaven
From the range of the wide JA*

*Side by side they fell together, Side by side in some grave they sleep.
Many comrades of the JA cowboys
Were left to sorrowfully weep.*

*Ah, surely in heaven's bright acres
There's cow ranches, long and wide,
Where cowboys, on fleet-footed horses,
Ride the roundups, side by side.*

*If in Heaven there be large ranches
Where winds scatter wild flower seed,
There we'll find the two JA cowboys,
Bob Christian and Warrener Reed.*

Ashel Cross was one of the young cowboys that was working with this round-up that day. At the time this was known as the Tule Ranch. The JA at that time had many acres in Armstrong, Swisher, Brisco, Donley, Hall, and Floyd counties. They also leased some land and grazed some unleased.

Ashel had four brothers and they at one time were all working for the ranch. They were James (Jimmy), William Marion II, John, and Joe. Ashel was the youngest. He worked 19 years for the ranch, much of this time he was roping. He married Mary Heckman and they later purchased the ranch of their own near Silvertown, Texas. They had two sons, Gary and Van. They still live on the ranch. The above information was provided by Mamie Cross.

SUMMERTIME HINTS

Summertime is officially here, and the aggressive largemouth bass that were so easily fooled during April and May have done their annual disappearing act. Many bass have disappeared after being cooked in hot grease and consumed by anglers who could have concentrated on catching tasty walleye and crappie.

However, a huge number of largemouth bass are still swimming in our local lakes. They have changed their daily feeding patterns, and anglers who fail to adapt to these new circumstances are doomed to long days with few bites.

Early, late, and night fishing are the keys to catching bass in the heat of summer. Early and late refer to those twilight hours of each day when many largemouths leave their deep water sanctuaries and prowl the shallows in search of an easy meal.

My favorite lure for catching "twilight" bass is a topwater buzzbait worked near the edge of any available mossbeds or flooded bushes. After several decades of trial and error, my personal logs confirm that a standard white-skirted 3/8 oz. buzzbait will out produce the larger 1/2 oz. buzzbaits. During our normal windy days, it is much easier to accurately cast a 3/8 oz. lure than the 1/4 or 1/8 oz. versions. If, however, you happen to be at the lake on one of those rare windless West Texas days, even the smallest buzzbait will catch the biggest bass.

One of the biggest aggravations of fishing with a buzzbait occurs when a bass blows up on your lure but is not hooked. (Never set the hook on a buzzbait until you feel the fish.) Repeated casts will sometimes cause a bass to again strike your buzzbait, but my favorite "come back lure" is a weightless, black lizard. Whenever fishing conditions call for a buzzbait, it is a wise angler who will rig a floating lizard ready for instant access.

Free Fishing Seminars: If you are taking the kids to Amarillo for the big fireworks display on the 4th of July, plan on arriving a little early and stop by the Grand Street Walmart Super Store. Several local fishing experts will join me to present a series of free fishing seminars through out the day at the casting tank located near the main entrance.

Stop by, I look forward to meeting you. Until next week, Good Luck and Good Fishing.

Drought Alert:

Water Efficient Practices for Saving Your Landscape

What Is Xeriscape?

This year's drought has affected not only area farmers and ranchers, but also homeowners. Many homeowners are seeing their landscapes wither due to lack of rainfall and summer heat. Some homeowners are seeing their water bills skyrocket, and several communities have asked homeowners to conserve water through water rationing.

To help alleviate landscape water problems this summer and in the future, civic leaders in several Texas cities are promoting Xeriscape landscaping. Xeriscape, a term coined in Denver, Colorado, is quality landscaping that conserves water and protects the environment.

Xeriscape, which comes from the Greek word Xeros, meaning dry, is considered a viable alternative to the conventional high water requirement landscapes. For the past several years, residential and commercial landscapes have utilized more than 25 percent of the total water consumption in urban areas of Texas. This percentage can be reduced to extend the water supplies of Texas. By incorporating Xeriscape principles into home or commercial landscapes, it is estimated that water usage can be cut in half.

Xeriscape landscapes are not cactus and rock gardens. They can be cool, green landscapes full of beautiful plants which are maintained with water efficient practices. The same green, Texas-style landscapes which we are accustomed to can be achieved and still conserve water.

Xeriscape landscaping incorporates seven basic principles which lead to water savings:

- Planning and design
  - Soil analysis and improvement
  - Appropriate plant selection
  - Practical turf areas
  - Efficient irrigation
  - Use of mulches
  - Appropriate maintenance
- By using these seven principles, you can help preserve our most precious natural resource — water.

Landowners should be aware of archaeological looting

Landowners in the area are being cautioned that individuals claiming to be professional archeologists and offering to do an archeological assessment of the landowner's property may in fact be relic hunters and not archeologists at all. This caution comes from Brett Cruse, formerly of Turkey and now an archeologist with the Texas Historical Commission, and from Anna Jean Taylor who grew up in Quitaqua and is now an archeologist with the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. "It has come to our attention that several landowners in the area have recently been approached by individuals who claim they are archeologists and want access to the landowner's property. In exchange for gaining access to the property, these individuals say they will provide the landowner with a report that details the locations of archeological sites on the property," says Cruse who works in the Texas Historical Commission's Office of the State Archeologist in Austin.

According to Cruse, "These individuals are not archeologists. We have reason to believe that they are intentionally misrepresenting themselves to landowners in order to gain access to archeological sites where they will collect and dig in search of artifacts. Often, relic collectors will sell the artifacts they find on the antiquities market."

"When we allow uncontrolled digging at archeological sites, we are allowing ourselves to be robbed of the very cultural legacy that Texans are so proud of and hold so dear," says Taylor, Curator of Archeology at the Canyon museum.

According to Cruse and Taylor, all we will ever know about thousands of years of the Texas past lies on and beneath the ground, in archeological sites. The history of the sites will reveal what has not yet been written in any book, or is not yet known to any living person. Once an archeological site is damaged, looted, or destroyed, the historical and scientific information that site contained is lost forever.

Landowners should verify the credentials of any archeologist seeking entry to their land. Professional archeologists support this policy of verification to prevent looting of sites by collectors misrepresenting themselves as archeologists. Contact the Office of the State Archeologist at the Texas Historical Commission, P.O. Box 12276, Austin, Texas 78711, (512) 463-6090 for assistance.

The Texas Historical Commission is the state agency for historic preservation. The agency administers a variety of programs to preserve the archeological, historical, and cultural resources of Texas.

Electronics Technology graduates in demand

Clarendon College programs pave way for job placement

Worried about finding a job after college? Clarendon College Electronic Technology students are having no problems finding jobs in today's difficult job market.

"An Electronic Technology graduate has many choices for employment," Lee Jackson, CC division chair of Electronic Technology said.

"Our program is strong and provides that valuable one-on-one teacher attention," Jackson said. "With our small classes and hands-on experience, CC Electronic Technology graduates easily find jobs."

According to a recent Job Outlook '96 report, published by the National Association of Colleges and Employers, employers will hire nearly 24 percent more graduates from 1995-96 graduating class than were hired from the last year's class.

"We have seen a demand for our students much more than some technological colleges," Jackson said. "Good communication skills, problem-solving skills, and the ability to apply higher-level thinking is what is wanted by employers."

With the modern workplace relying on computers and telecommunications, more technology-based jobs have been created. This explosion in advanced technology has offered a variety of career choices, often generating more jobs than can be filled.

"The great demand for a degree in a technology field is recognized here at CC," Jackson said. "Our classes aren't easy. It is a combination between classroom and fieldwork. We repair televisions for the public, upgrade and repair computers, and that's only the tip of the iceberg."

Following the national trend, CC Electronic Technology graduates have a high rate of job placement. by the year 2000, computer occupations are predicted to provide jobs for nearly two million people, with 350,000 jobs created especially for electronics technicians and engineers.

Electronic Technology students know that their degree from Clarendon College will provide them with the necessary technical skills, as well as extra dollars to their paycheck.

For more information about CC's Electronic Technology program, please write Clarendon College, Attention Mr. Lee Jackson, P.O. Box 968, Clarendon, Texas 79226, or call (806) 874-3571.

Snider asks motorists to plan ahead to make summer vacation driving safe

It's summertime and time to start planning our vacation trips. Trooper L.B. Snider, Public Information Officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety, says safe vacation travel is as basic as one, two, three. First, prepare the vehicle; second, prepare the driver; and third, when traveling, use your best attitude and skills.

Basic vehicle preparation includes checking belts, hoses, radiator coolant, motor oil, transmission oil, power steering fluid, brake fluid, and windshield solution. Replace wiper blades if needed and check the tires for wear and correct air pressure. Clean air and fuel filters can save roadside distress, also. Trooper Snider also urges drivers to be sure all the lights are functioning properly.

Driver preparation calls for adequate pretrip rest and free of alcohol and/or other drug impairment, which includes medications that may affect safe driving. The driver(s) should be familiar with route plans and weather forecasts as well as possible alternate routes. Trooper Snider recommends travelers to share travel plans with a family member or friend who would know how to contact the travelers should contact be needed.

Snider encourages all riders to make proper use of safety belts when traveling. "Proper use of safety belts is as fundamental as a baseball catcher's protective gear, greatly increasing our ability to survive a collision," states Snider. Drivers are requested to use headlights during daytime travel as well as at night. This helps other drivers to see us and ourselves to see others better and often quicker, thus helping avoid many daytime collisions and near misses. Additional travel tips Snider offers are: allowing for occasional stops to enhance driver alertness, drivers keeping their eyes moving to avoid "highway hypnosis," and to keeping alert to changes to traffic, road conditions, and the area environment.

Trooper Snider adds that motorists with mobile/cellular phones needing help or to get help for others may call toll free 1-800-525-5555 for DPS assistance. When using this number be prepared to give good location information such as road number/name, distance from a town (estimate), and the type of help needed. However, if urgent help is needed, motorists may need to use 911.

"The Texas Department of Public Safety believes that proper preparation along with alert defensive driving skills and a safe driving attitude go far toward safe traveling whether it be for summer vacation or just around the block," says Trooper Snider.
