Work To Begin Aug. 17 on Jericho Cemetery Road

Jericho, Texas, a place almost forgotten, will have a new road passing through the old town going to the 76-year-old cemetery that has 67 graves at this time.

The need of 1.2 miles of all-weather road in Donley County is being made possible by people who want to help other people. Two counties are volunteering their equipment. They are Gray County, Precinct 3, and Donley County. Farmers and businessmen are sending trucks to help with the hauling of caliche. Banks, merchants and neighbors from Groom, Clarendon, Pampa, White Deer, Gruver and other communities have donated cash to the Jericho Cemetery Fund to help pay for the gasoline to be used in the trucks.

According to Curtis Schaffer, work will begin on the cemetery road August 17.

It is good to know that community togetherness and spirit is still evident in our local area.

Final Reporting Date

August 17 is the final date to file the feed grain, cotton, and diverted acre reports for this year. As of this date there are several producers who have not made this final report. You are reminded that failure to file this report will make you ineligible for any benefits from the program.

Haying and Grazing

This office is now asking applications for emergency haying and grazing of CAP and diverted acres. This provision of the feed grain and wheat programs was authorized because of the present drought conditions. This provision is intended to provide pasture and roughage to supplement the normal supply and prevent undue liquidation of basic herds. Charges for grazing privileges may not be prorated for a part of a month unless only a part of a month remains at the end of the grazing period. If you are interested in grazing or harvesting hay from your CAP or diverted acreages, you should contact this office for details.

Acre Maintenance

Proper maintenance of this acreage is a must in order for you to earn full program benefits. In addition, remember that sweet sorghums (cape, etc.) is not an approved cover on diverted acres this year. Spot checks are now being made on diverted acre and acreage certification accuracy. Please remember that once you certify, NO acreage adjustment is permitted.

I am sorry I couldn't get more news. Some of the phones were out of order.

Dear God the great and holy one it is to thee we pray. We ask forgiveness for our sin and courage for the day.

A crooked politician has what it takes to take what he wants.

A statesman has something to say; a politician has to say something.

To say we are not interested in politics is about like a drowning saying that he doesn't care when it stops raining. Politics has become an ugly word but our whole system of public service is tied in with politics. Our forefathers were persuaded to leave their homes and places of business and serve their country. Nowadays the pay is a little more tempting but the need for real public servants is still just as needful.

We will cross the ocean to fight for our country and then so very often refuse to cross the street in order to vote for the best man to serve our country.

Most of the political platforms will bear the candidates weight if no one gives it a tiny push. So much of the time they won't stand much looking into.

Politics is a lot like courtship—about 90% promises and 10% I Do's.

I guess the politician has a right to living in the world, but a statesman tries to give the world the right kind of living.

Political grafters are not like pigs in one respect—a pig knows when he has had enough.

period.

Drouth, he notes, is no stranger to the southwest but many livestock men base their operations on the longtime average or the exceptionally good rainfall years.

The first step to follow in a drouth situation is the reduction of grazing pressure on rangeland. This can be accomplished by culling the low and non-producers from a herd. This practice reduces the grazing pressure, and offers an opportunity to improve the productive capability of the herd. Many times total production is greater after the low producers are removed, says Gooch.

During a prolonged drouth, supplemental feeding becomes necessary in order to keep a breeding herd intact. This might best be done by putting the herd in dry lot or in a small trap rather than letting the whole range be damaged. Supplemental pastures can help furnish needed grazing in critical periods, explains the county agent.

Preventive steps include maintaining reserve forage. A well planned and executed deferred-rotation grazing program can provide one good source of reserve forage. An emergency feed supply should be also maintained. It's best to buy when feedstuffs are abundant and prices are most favorable.

Act now to overcome present drouth problems and make plans for those ahead, advises Gooch.

Protection Against Range Forage

Many things can be done to alleviate shortage of range forage from drouth. Some steps can be taken immediately, points out County Agent Ronald Gooch, while others can be taken as insurance against the next drouth

PUBLIC NOTICE Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (HJR30) General Election Nov. 3, 1970. BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Subsections (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (11), (12), and (13), Section 1-a, Article V, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended to read as follows: (5) The Commission may hold its meetings, hearings and other proceedings at such times and places as it shall determine but shall meet at Austin at least once each year. It shall annually select one of its members as Chairman. A quorum shall consist of five (5) members. Proceedings shall be by majority vote of those present, except that recommendations for retirement, censure, or removal of any person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section shall be by affirmative vote of at least five (5) members. (6) A. Any Justice or Judge of the Appellate Courts and District and Criminal District Courts, any County Judge, and any Judge of a County Court at Law, a Court of Domestic Relations, a Juvenile Court, a Probate Court, or a Corporation or Municipal Court, and any Justice or presiding officer of any special court created by the Legislature as provided in Section 1, Article V, of this Constitution, may, subject to the other provisions hereof, be removed from office for willful or persistent conduct, which is clearly inconsistent with the proper performance of his said duties or casts public discredit upon the judiciary or administration of justice; or any person holding such office may be censured, in lieu of removal from office, under procedures provided for by the Legislature. (7) Any person holding an office named in Paragraph A of this subsection who is eligible for retirement benefits under the laws of this state providing for judicial retirement may be involuntarily retired, and any person holding an office named in that paragraph who is not eligible for retirement benefits under such laws may be removed from office, for disability seriously interfering with the performance of his duties, which is likely to become permanent in nature. (8) The Commission shall keep itself informed as fully as may be of circumstances relating to the misconduct or disability of particular persons holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section, receive complaints or reports, formal or informal, from any source in this behalf and make such preliminary investigations as it may determine. Its orders for the attendance or testimony of witnesses or for the production of documents at any hearing or investigation shall be enforceable by contempt proceedings in the District Court. (9) After such investigation as it deems necessary, the Commission may in its discretion issue a private reprimand, or if the Commission determines that the situation merits such action, it may order a hearing to be held before it concerning the removal, or retirement of a person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section, or it may in its discretion request the Supreme Court to appoint an active or retired District Judge or Justice of a Court of Civil Appeals as a Master to hear and take evidence in any such matter, and to report thereon to the Commission. If, after hearing, or after considering the record and report of a Master, the Commission finds good cause therefor, it shall issue an order of public censure or it shall recommend to the Supreme Court the removal, or retirement, as the case may be, of the person in question holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section. (10) The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1970, at which election the ballots shall be printed to provide for voting for or against the proposition: "The constitutional amendment relating to the removal, retirement, or censure of Justices, Judges, and Justices of Peace under prescribed circumstances."

Such rule shall afford to any person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section, against whom a proceeding is instituted to cause his retirement or removal, due process of law for the procedure before the Commission, Masters and the Supreme Court in the same manner that any person whose property rights are in jeopardy in an adjudicatory proceeding is entitled to due process of law, regardless of whether or not the interest of the person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section in remaining in active status is considered to be a right or a privilege. Due process shall include the right to notice, counsel, hearing, confrontation of his accusers, and all such other incidents of due process as are ordinarily available in proceedings whether or not misfeasance is charged, upon proof of which a penalty may be imposed. (12) No person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section shall sit as a member of the Commission or Supreme Court in any proceeding involving his own retirement or removal. (13) This Section 1-a is alternative to and cumulative of, the methods of removal of persons holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section provided elsewhere in this Constitution. ## Accent On Health

It's often been called the "near-perfect food", and rightly so, because milk contains more life-giving properties than almost any other food. But this very fact makes the control of the sanitation and quality of milk and dairy products a constant concern of the Texas State Department of Health.

In Texas, the Legislature has given the Commissioner of Health Dr. J. E. Peavy, the authority to set up specifications and requirements for the control of sanitation of milk and milk products. In passing the Texas Milk Law, they also gave city health departments the authority to adopt regulations in conformance with those released by the Commissioner.

"Proper handling" as interpreted by these health departments means the production of clean milk from cows which are tested and proven to be in good health. As a continuing safeguard, the milk must be handled under rigidly enforced sanitary conditions to prevent its being contaminated from the time of its production until it reaches the processing plant. It is likewise maintained at temperatures which inhibit bacterial growth.

After the milk arrives at the plant, its sanitation continues to be rigidly maintained through proper pasteurization and packaging in sanitary containers. With all of the safeguards which are routinely and continuously applied, the possibility of milk becoming a carrier of pathogenic disease is virtually eliminated.

The Milk and Dairy Products Division of the State Health Department is responsible for public health protection by regulating milk and dairy products, including butter, ice cream, cheese, and the like, produced, processed, and consumed in Texas. The division also has the responsibility of inspecting Grade A producer dairies, milk processing plants, receiving stations, and other by-products that ship milk and dairy products into the state of Texas.

Approximately 3,867 inspections in seven states other than Texas have been made by Health Department personnel during the first five months of this year. Permits have been issued to about 200 over-the-road tankers.

Here in Texas, local health departments join with the state agency in maintaining frequent inspections of the 4,178 producer dairies, 77 processing plants, 13 receiving stations, 79 transfer stations, 68 manufacturing plants, 10 single service plants, and 197 trucks and vans in operation within the state. Frequent samples are taken and checked at several regional health laboratories, as well as the state lab, for sanitation, bacteria count, and butterfat content.

Best Food Buys of Week Suggested

Fryers remain a bargain in most retail meat departments, and Grade A large and medium eggs are nip and tuck in offering the most in quality and economy for the egg dollar. Gwenlodyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, reports.

"Look for the best beef values on round steaks, chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, boneless rolled roast and liver," Mrs. Clyatt said. "A few of the popular steak cuts are offered at moderate prices. These usually include sirloin and T-bone steaks."

Best pork values, according to Mrs. Clyatt, include hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, end-cut loin roasts and chops and all kinds of lunch meat.

Fresh fruit items in good supply at the most economical prices include nectarines, apricots, bananas, peaches, cantaloupes, watermelons and plums, Mrs. Clyatt said.

"Purple hull and blackeye peas, corn, carrots, squash, dry yellow onions, celery, potatoes, head lettuce, cabbage, okra, cucumbers, radishes, green onion and tomatoes are also in good supply and are available at economical prices," she said.

Scholarship Program At A&M Aids Many

One hundred and seventy-one undergraduate students in the Texas A&M University College of Agriculture received various scholarships during the 1969-70 school year.

Dr. H. O. Kunkel, dean of the College of Agriculture, said the awards totaled $75,126.

Forty percent of all freshmen in the college received some financial assistance from scholarships, he said.

The dean pointed out that faculty members, former students and other supporters of the college were among the most active contributors of funds. Other help came from agricultural industries.

Kunkel said the A&M College of Agriculture Scholarship Program was started in October, 1968 to attract outstanding young men and women into agricultural careers, to involve faculty and staff members and other interested groups, and to foster a closer student - professor relationship.

Scholarships are granted on the basis of academic performance, leadership and activities while in high school. Values of the awards vary from $200 to $500 per academic year, with financial need a factor in determining the amount.

For the 1969-70 academic year, more than $9,000 was contributed to the scholarship fund. The College of Agriculture Scholarship Committee awarded 21 scholarships representing nine departments in the college.

"At the end of the fall semester, 1969, these students compiled an enviable academic record with a grade point average of 3.1 on a 4-point grading scale. Two of the students made perfect records in their course work, Kunkel said.

Help Fight Pollution

Increasing numbers of companies and associations are joining to help fight pollution, and among the latest to announce stepped-up research programs to protect the environment is the National Canners Association (NCA), according to Tom Longbrake, Area Extension Vegetable Specialist at Weslaco.

The NCA, financed by the food processing and associated industries, has made substantial progress over the years in assisting canneries in waste disposal systems and methods, Longbrake noted, adding that NCA's Executive Vice President Milan Smith has emphasized that NCA laboratories in Washington have been working on waste disposal since 1910.

A major thrust in the area of pollution abatement was initiated by the National Canners Association in 1967 with the formation of a Management Committee and Advisory Technical Committee on Environmental Quality, Longbrake said.

Among recent developments is a continuous process, developed by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists, for obtaining celery oil from parts of the plant now discarded as waste. Another device has been put into use that will grind waste glass so fine that it may be used as an aggregate in road building, Longbrake said.

"The citrus industry now uses a system of drying the formerly discarded citrus pulp for cattle feed," the Extension specialist said. "A large part of solid wastes of other canneries is being used for cattle feed, either in fresh or silage state."

Each person should remember that everyone is involved in the pollution problem and all must help to solve it, Longbrake said.

Tips Aid In Recovery Of Stolen Cars

Car owners who become the victims of auto theft can assist in the recovery of their car by being able to provide investigators two small but vital pieces of information. These items can be the key factors in how soon a stolen automobile is recovered—and time is crucial if the car is to be returned to its owner in reasonably good shape, according to the National Automobile Theft Bureau (NATB).

C. C. Benson manager of the southwestern division of the NATB, says that if every car owner would have available his auto license number and vehicle identification number, he would have a much better chance of getting his car back if it is stolen.

"Using modern law enforcement techniques now available, the police can feed this data into an auto theft computer within minutes after the theft is reported," said Mr. Benson, "and this computer will distribute the information on the stolen car to local, state and national authorities within five minutes.

"However, if the owner doesn't have this information readily available, the recovery operation becomes more difficult and chances of recovery lessen."

Mr. Benson also called attention to anti-theft devices that have been built into many 1969 model cars, most 1970's and that will be included on all future models.

"The locking steering column and other anti-theft devices have been built in by the manufacturers to reduce the number of thefts by making the thief's job more difficult — if not nearly impossible," Mr. Benson commented. "It is amazing that people pay for these innovations and then render them ineffective by leaving their cars parked unlocked and with the keys in the ignition."

The NATB official urged that all car owners record, in a place that makes them easily and readily available, their auto license number and their vehicle identification number in order to aid authorities if their car is stolen.

"But," Mr. Benson concluded, "in order to prevent theft in the first place, car owners should always lock their autos and take the keys with them when ever they leave them unattended — even in their own driveways."

Landowners Could Profit From Imagination, Initiative

Landowners could increase the economic base of their operations by taking advantage of research done by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in the management of their ranches, according to Bob Carlisle, administrator of technical programs for the Department.

In a recent speech before the Texas Association of Land Managers and Appraisers, Carlisle said the Texas deer population is grossly under harvested in many areas, causing overpopulation, deterioration of rangeland, low fawn production, low fawn survival and, in bad years, heavy die-offs.

This is a tremendous waste since "many forms of wildlife can be considered as a marketable resource, just as in the case of wheat or livestock," he said.

"In order to capitalize on this opportunity, landowners and managers must employ new progressive and imaginative management practices conducive to profitable multiple use of their lands," said Carlisle.

Carlisle used the antlerless deer permit as an example of how findings of biologists went unheeded, resulting in an under harvest. "Last year 191,000 antlerless and/or doe deer permits were issued in the State. Of this amount only 74,400 antlerless deer were killed. This leaves 116,600 permits unused. Assuming that each permit is worth $15 in lease fees, this means $1,750,000 was lost which could have ended up in the landowner's pocket."

Carrying the example further, Carlisle said that each of the animals consumes about five pounds of green forage per day, amounting to about 150 pounds per month.

Over a period of a year, each adult animal consumes about 1,800 pounds of feed; therefore, all of the 191,000 surplus deer (doe permits were issued on the basis that the does were surplus animals) consume about 340 million pounds of green forage annually.

When converted to bales of hay, this amounts to 5,730,000 bales valued at approximately $5,157,000 to support these deer for one year.

Carlisle said ranchers might be interested in what one rancher was able to accomplish with a little imagination and initiative even though his deer range was marginal.

He said the 14,000-acre ranch hosted 20 hunters at $150 per gun in 1968, netting the rancher $3,000. "The owner wasn't satisfied with the results nor was he satisfied with the income which resulted, and he began to question his harvest operation."

After evaluating his resources the rancher found that in addition to an adequate deer population he had quail, squirrel, turkey and some wild hogs on his property, all of which would be of interest to hunters.

He also had an excellent landing strip and some living quarters. After some figuring, he estimated he could handle as many as 140 hunters, about 20 per week. Through advertising, the man attracted 10 hunters, charging them $200 per week for everything they needed in the way of food, lodging and a place to hunt.

After paying his expenses, including those for food and extra help, he found he had netted $12,000, an increase of $9,000 over the previous year.

On a Statewide basis, Carlisle pointed out that Texas had a deer population of approximately 3.2 million and only 297,000 were harvested, approximately 10 per cent of the herd.

Another 15 per cent, or 500,000 animals could be harvested each year. "That's potentially another $25,000,000 into the landowners' pockets, assuming each deer is worth $50 in lease fees, plus savings of another $13,500,000 on the feed bill," Carlisle said.

This would also provide thousands of additional hunting days for the Texas deer hunter.

News From City Hall

Paving is the talk around City Hall this past week and will be for the next several weeks. Several blocks on the East side have gotten together and wanted paving. We are in the process of putting a base on Carhart which will be the first street to be paved. With the blocks that are in and the blocks that they say that they have put together, the City will be busy for some time to come getting these paved.

The City has started to dig their trench at the Dump Grounds for the Sanitary Land Fill. It won't be too long before fences will be changed and new roads made to the new area for dumping trash.

There has been some worry about the water rates being raised. This is wrong. The Water Rates are not going to be raised. They are too high now, we don't need to cause any more problems for ourselves.

Don't forget the Sales and Use Tax election the 29th. of August. Talk it up. The City needs everyone's help and this is a good way to get it.

Accent on Health

The crippling, contagious disease of polio has struck the State of Texas once again. Following an epidemic of the disease in South Texas, state, local, and federal health officials have mounted a state-wide immunization campaign to protect all young children against this disease. By the end of June, the Texas State Department of Health had received reports of fourteen possible cases of the disease. Of these, only three have been confirmed as polio. One case was diagnosed as ECHO virus, and then others remain under observation. One death has been attributed to polio, and the disease is suspect in one other fatality.

Dr. M. S. Dickerson, chief of the Communicable Disease Services section of the State Health Department, reports the paralytic polio outbreak in Texas has become an epidemic under the definition of the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices of the U. S. Public Health Service. Their guidelines say an outbreak will be considered an epidemic when there are two or more confirmed cases of the disease caused by the same type of virus during a four week period in a specific area. The three confirmed cases are of Type I polio virus, and all three were diagnosed in Hidalgo County.

The virus is attacking primarily children under one year of age, with the oldest reported case only three years old. These reported cases are coming out of families who have failed to take their children to a doctor or their local health department for immunization against the crippling disease. None of the children under observation by health officials had received any polio vaccine. All cases have some degree of paralysis.

Dr. Dickerson says health officials have mounted a massive polio immunization campaign. Some 40,000 doses of the Trivalent Oral Polio Vaccine were distributed in the last weekend of June to residents in the epidemic locality. But Dr. Dickerson stresses the need for a state-wide vigilance, and urges all parents to get their children immunized as soon as possible.

Polio immunization is carried out in five steps. The first dose of the Trivalent vaccine is recommended for the child of two months of age, when the protective antibodies the child received from his parents are beginning to diminish. A second dose is required at the age of four months. A third dose follows at six months of age, a fourth dose at eighteen months of age, and the fifth and final dose is recommended just prior to the child's admission to school. All doses are necessary for full immunization.

OUTDOORS in TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Although Texas has about the finest outdoors playground to be found anywhere, there are times when a fellow wants to see what's on the other side of the mountain. Anyway, that's the way we felt last summer when L. A. Wilke, another outdoors writer, and I teamed up for a flying trip to the Jackson Hole country.

It indeed was a flying trip. We boarded a Frontier jet Monday noon in Dallas and by 6 p.m. deplaned at Jackson, Wyo. after having spent a couple hours visiting a fishing tackle plant in Denver. It would have required three days driving to get where we flew in only a matter of a few hours.

At Jackson, we were met by two great guides, Jim Marcel and Deke Hedrick of High Country Outfitters and made ready for a float trip on the famous Green River. We put in near Pinedale, where our journey ordinarily requires three-days but we took only one day of a trip which customarily covers 120 miles. Water was beautiful and loaded with fish, especially fighting rainbows and hefty German trout.

We went down the fast moving river in inflatable rafts operated by these two excellent boatmen. Mind you, this is not a white-water trip. We found no rapids, but the velocity of the stream was such that we were constantly moving unless we beached at a turn to take pictures or just admire the scenery.

After a day of that, we boarded Frontier again and flew into Billings, Mont. This flight took a little more than an hour. Here we got one of those second-best rental cars and drove to Lovell, Wyo., a distance of about 90 miles.

Next day, accompanied by a group of Lovell businessmen and park and game officials, we went to Bighorn Reservoir. This is a new impoundment on the Bighorn River, created by the Yellowstone Dam, located downstream in Montana. This river, flowing north, is one of the most unusual streams in America. We went for 46 miles between high canyon walls. Sometimes as we looked up we estimated the height as 2,000 feet.

Scenery was fantastic. High walls of weathered sandstone, towering upward on both sides, were estimated to be millions of years old.

This is still Indian country and much of the land on both sides of the river is reservation, with no trespassing permitted. However, there were no places to get off. When you get on this reservoir and pass the half-way mark, you must continue.

For that 46 miles there was no gas pump. Our boat was equipped with three six-gallon tanks and we used most of the gas on the way down. We fished very little that first day, just sightseeing.

Although there is a recreational tract of nearly 70,000 acres set aside in the area, it is not developed as yet and everything is still very primitive. This summer there will be some additional facilities, however, perhaps including rental boats. Also the Indians are installing a marina near the dam and it should be ready before summer ends.

Next day we went fishing. Bighorn Reservoir has been stocked with several species of trout, walleye and perch. Although our fishing party did come up with a good string by any standards, including a four-pound walleye.

Information on this impoundment is available from the Chamber of Commerce at either Lovell, Wyo., or Hardin, Mont.

After driving back to Billings we took the Frontier jet to Bozeman, Mont., got a rental car and motored overland 30 miles to Livingston and Yellowstone River. There we were guests of Paul McAdams, who spends his winters in Texas and his summers on the banks of the Yellowstone River. He raises trout for catch-out ponds on western guest ranches and we got a sample of some of the finest rainbow fishing any person could ever want.

Although this is perhaps the favorite fly-fishing spot in the United States, we used spinning and spin casting tackle with best results. Small spinner lures were most tempting to the rainbows and brown trout.

After a day at McAdams Jumping Rainbow Ranch we returned to Bozeman for the night, boarded the jet for home next morning and were back in Austin by mid-afternoon.

Now that's what I call a flying fishing trip.

MORE CATTLE ON FEED IN TEXAS — The number of cattle being fed for slaughter market in Texas in July was 13 percent above the number of a year ago. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reported the July 1 total at 1,353,000 head. In the 22 major beef feeding states the increase was only 2%. Cattle placed on feed in Texas from April to July increased 10 percent over a year earlier. Cattle marketed for the same period were up by 23 percent.

A landslide in April, 1958 caused a wave 1,800 feet in height to surge along the shore of Litya Bay, Alaska.
