Step-ins That Weren't Stepped In Baffle Arizona Sheriff's Searchers

She didn't have 'em on. Tuesday three Navajo Indians, two men and a woman, were apprehended by the Sheriff's office after L. D. Swartz, manager of the J. C. Penney Company had telephoned in a complaint of their shoplifting.

The articles reported missing were a ten gallon hat and a pair of ladies' well, shall we say "panties." The two bucks were searched by Undersheriff Clarence Houck and Deputy Sheriff George Woolford. A few articles that had been legally purchased were discovered, but not the hat or the "panties." It was then learned that the hat was in the truck outside.

But where, oh where were the "thingamajigs?" The Indian bucks had been stripped and searched. Maybe Navajo lady had them on.

"Clarence," said Sheriff Dan. Clarence flushed and stepped up. Orders were orders and if he had to, he'd find out for sure. Then in the nick of time Woolford found the "panties" in a box of groceries on the truck.

L. D. Swartz got his merchandise back. Judge McCloskey and Dean Nutting collected $10 for the state. And the "whatchamacallits" were discovered without further "inspection." Swartz, Divilless, Woolford, and Houck were greatly relieved.

FRUIT RESOURCES HELP IN FAMILY CONSERVATION

Through the cooperation of Donley County Farm Security Administration clients a nice exhibit of fruits and vegetables is being collected. This is to show us the surprising variety of vegetables that can be grown in Donley county.

Both wild and tame fruit has been plentiful this year and every housewife is filling her pantry to capacity. These thrifty homemakers will have no trouble in keeping the proverbial wolf from the door this winter.

Fall gardens are being planted to furnish the family with fresh vegetables a few months longer. The following are vegetables that will withstand light frosts: carrots, cabbage, beets, kohlrabi, lettuce, mustard, onions, radishes, Swiss chard, turnips. It takes 30 to 150 days to mature collards, kale, parsnips, rape, spinach, and onions but these vegetables will withstand heavy frosts.

For debutantes bustles are available in hues of Kelly green, for the dowager of ampler pygal equipment there is Pacific blue. Even wool coats will go in for aftward astrakhan. Altogether, it looks like an interesting winter."

CHILDHOOD MEMORIES

The tenderest visions
Returning today
Is not of a mansion - - -
Or place of display.
An old fashioned kitchen
With cookstove so warm.
I felt safe from all danger
Secure from all harm.
I always looked forward
At night, after tea
To mother, the old
Coffee grinder - - - and me.
I sat by the stove hearth
As embers burned low
And turned the old grinder
Now fast and now slow.
I'd give all I have
To feel that fire once more
And smell the aroma - - - of Arbuckles as of yore.
To sit with my dear ones
By lamplight, play games
To walk through the meadow
At sunset's last flames.
Modern things are just fine
For folks of today - - -
But memory oft takes me - - - to
The old fashioned way.

AUSTIN.—Administration of the new State Board of Public Welfare got off this week under auspicious circumstances with Adam R. Johnson, former relief director and former city manager of Austin, in charge as the executive director.

Johnson, one of the best administrators and a high-class man, in public life, has before him one tremendous job but he is a man capable of filling the place. Faced with the fact that the department will be very short of the necessary money, which the legislature failed to provide, there will be more people on the pension rolls.

Judge Beeman Strong of Beaumont was named chairman of the new board and will serve a four-year term. Marvin Leonard of Fort Worth will serve two years with Rev. M. E.

Sadler of Austin serving four years. The Board will have to start paying off a $2,300,000 loan in October, which will automatically cut down the pension payment. W. A. (Jack) Little, acting director of the old-age set-up for three years, was an unsuccessful applicant for the new job. While Director Johnson will make no drastic changes in personnel, he will pursue a policy of discharging those employees who fall down on the job. The public has full confidence in Adam R. Johnson.

The various sections of the board of public welfare will be moved soon to a state building at Camp Mabry, thus eliminating one of the highest rental payments in the history of the state, now being paid to an Austin newspaper. In this connection, the Texas Liquor Control Board headquarters, also housed in this newspaper building, will likely be moved to Camp Mabry as soon as the Board is reorganized following appointment of a new member of the board in October.

AAA CROP PAYMENTS TO BE REDUCED FOR 1939

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 4.—A reduction of 10 percent in AAA payments on cotton, rice and general crop acreage allotments for 1939 was announced here this week, as participation in this year's program was found to have reached the point where available funds would not go around at the rates announced last November.

"It's like having to spread the same amount of butter over more pieces of bread," George Slaughter, chairman of the State Agricultural Conservation Committee, explained.

The 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program Bulletin stated that rates of pay would be subject to either a decrease or increase of not more than 10 percent, depending upon actual participation. On the basis of similar provisions, 1937 rates of pay were increased 10 percent, while for 1938 no adjustments were found necessary.

The revised conservation payment rates for the crop affected are, cotton, 1.8 cents a pound; general soil-depleting crops, 99 cents an acre, adjusted for productivity of county and farm involved; and rice, 9 cents a hundredweight, or about 14.58 cents a barrel.

The rates apply to the number of pounds or acres, as the case may be, of the normal yield of the farm's 1939 acreage allotment for the given crop. In the case of cotton, average yields to be used in calculating the conservation payment are generally about 4 percent larger than the yield figures used last year.

Change in the conservation payment rates has no effect on the rates of 1939 price adjustment payments, Slaughter said.

TEMPLE OF TRUTH

By the Apostle

THE BATTLEFIELDS.

If this keeps up in Europe, they will get to killing as many people as are being slaughtered on Texas highways.

HOLD EVERYTHING!!

All that shooting, screaming and blood and thunder you hear over the radio is not a report from a European battlefield. It is likely to be a "play" staged during the "children's" hour. At the close of the play, you will hear something like this: "And if you are good little kiddies, you can tune in at this same time tomorrow and hear Sluggo Slooge get his brains bashed out!"

MAKE MONEY QUICKLY.

It would appear that the man "busy as a cranberry merchant" could make a "mint of money" were he disposed to be "selling hot cakes," provided his stock was as numerous as "Carter had oats."

CONSTERNATION!

When the war started Friday between Germany and Poland, a man allowed as how the world was going to pieces. Great guns! And you hear a lot of people say they would like to be sitting on top of the world.

THE SITUATION.

And all of this in the name of peace. Peace is prayed for but never paid for. High-sounding denunciations about international wrongs drip with nauseating frequency from the lips of dictators whose nations were founded within recent years upon immorality, ingratitude, deceit and blood.

OLD TIMER STUFF.

"Member way back when it took six men and a boy to raise a one-man top?"

PLACE OF WELCOME.

Large families may be considered a disgrace by some in this nit-wit age but merchants welcome them as they come trooping into his place of business.

THE TAX SCOURAGE.

You know the fellow who owns a nice little home is more inclined to let it run down and look cheap than he is to keep it up and make it look taxable. The whole town may look seedy and run down at the heel. And it's from these seedy, dreary towns that you and ambitious persons escape at the first opportunity. Any seedy looking burg you come to along the highway is regarded as being but a reflection of the tax rate. And don't forget it.

THE HOT SPOT.

Ma's wasp waist is said to be coming back, but Pa's pocketbook will feel the sting.

WHY THE CRAZY - - -

From a Georgia exchange of last week: "Rain! Rain! My, my, what rain! Thank the Good Lord the sun is shining again."

ELECTION STUFF.

If Roosevelt keeps on, Thanksgiving in 1940 will be celebrated the first Tuesday in November.

HIGHER PRICES COMING.

War profiteers are already upon us. Prices of practically everything we eat, wear and use has advanced the past two days. And all that before one ship load has been purchased for the warring nations. And it is not your local merchant that makes the higher prices. He is paying more and more every day. It is the fellow up at the head. The first fellows to sell get the high price. It is he who passes the price on down and the local merchant knows he can't sell as much with the prices advancing so rapidly. Higher prices mean less for the local merchant. The fellow who grows cotton will feel a slight raise. Cotton seed will sell for more. The packing prices will pay a little more and then in turn sell for a "lot" more. Wars mean high prices, but there is no occasion for a rise at this time. Will the federal government protect the citizens from the profiteer? It won't take us long to find out.

DEER SHOW WONDERFUL INCREASE IN 15 YEARS

AUSTIN.—The growth of deer herds in Colorado county from 125 in 1924 to approximately 7,800 fifteen years later despite the fact the big game animals had been hunted a great deal in that district is an excellent example of why Texas is one of the leading deer states in the country. The total for 1939 was determined by a recent survey made by Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Department officials.

Of the 7,800 deer now in Colorado county, 4,800 are adults and 3,000 are fawns. Of the adult total 1,500 are bucks and it is estimated by veteran game officials that 650 bucks can be killed in Colorado county next season without doing damage to the breeding stock.

Jessie Lott of Austin visited with Betty Jo Caraway Monday night also visited the school Tuesday.

DIMMITT TO ENTERTAIN LEGION MEMBERS

Castro County Post of the American Legion, Dimmitt, Texas, will be host to the other Posts in the most unique, the most unusual, meeting in the history of the 18th District Thursday night, September 14th. All Posts that have not already installed officers for the year of 1940, are asked to bring their newly elected officers for a mass installation for the District. Our newly elected State Department Commander, Lou Roberts, will do the honors of installation.

Aside from the mass installation, Castro County Post expects to do itself proud in its efforts at entertaining its guests at this meeting.

Mrs. W. S. McClung and daughter Mary Beth, Mary Evelyn Gough and Roy Reed and John Whiteside of Amarillo were guests in the C. C. Powell home Sunday.

METHODIST CIRCUIT NOTES

J. G. Walker, P. C.

We surely had a good meeting at Hudgins last week. Began Wednesday evening. Only evening services until Sunday which had morning and evening. Had a very fine attendance. As we expected found a very fine citizenship. Not any church organization there of any faith, but several faiths represented. Could not tell which each was until you asked. Seems to have a good Sunday school which is one of the greatest allies of the church, but no church organization. Some wanted to join church but no church to join. Understand that once they had a Methodist church there but let it go down. Wonder why? We guess somebody thought it was not big enough. "Who hath despised the day of small things?" Zec. 4:10. Jesus said "the Kingdom of Heaven (the church) is like a grain of mustard seed," yet it was big enough for him to give his life for. Yet some people think that if a church has not a large membership and financially able to pay a large sum that it is too little to try to maintain. The great Apostle Paul wrote his most loving letter to Philimon who had a church in his house. My idea is to maintain a church and then you have something to build to. Our mission Boards should look after places like this. The Baptist have a greater number out there than we, yet they have no organization. We do not know why? and we could not advise if we did; because that is their responsibility. We know they acted like Christians, and we love them all and pray for another opportunity to work with them. They remembered us with a nice offering and pray that the Lord will abundantly bless all who made or wanted to make a contribution.

PIGS SHOW DATES POSTPONED TILL OCTOBER

The third annual 4-H and F.F.A. Fall pig show has been postponed until Saturday, October 7th. The fact that the larger number of the pigs to be exhibited in the local show are to be taken to Dallas for the State Fair on the night of the 7th and that few local pigs will be exhibited in Amarillo was responsible for the changing of the dates. A hog judging contest will be held in connection with the pig show and invitations will be mailed to the high school students of approximately forty high schools.

The heavy pigs belonging to Herman Higgins, Bill Alexander, and Pete Morrow will be shown at Amarillo, and premium money for the top places on pigs in the local show will be awarded to the above boys. The weight division will be the same as for the State fair with pigs under 240 pounds in the lightweight division and those over 240 pounds in the heavy classification.

Feed Marketed On Four Feet

Panhandle Man

In talking with Farmers who are attending farm meetings with a view of bettering the farmers condition through various methods advocated by the Government agencies for increasing the income of the farmer, but none of these schemes have been appealing to me, Although I was officially connected with all kinds of farm organizations more than 20 years, the last one was the National Farmers Congress when I represented the State of Texas. I found that the best way for a farmer to help himself was not in raising feed and grain for marketing purposes, but to feed to young stock. I do not remember selling any grain in 50 years. In 1892 I had some wheat to sell or feed, and it being my first year in Texas, I took a sample of wheat to a mill at Claude to sell, but when I was offered 30 cents per bushel, I laughed in their face and said I did not raise that kind of wheat; It only tested 65 pounds to the bushel. I went home and started out to buy some shorts the next day. I bought what I thought could eat my wheat, I soaked the wheat for 24 to 36 hrs.

and when I sold the hogs I found that every bushel brought me $1.00 by selling the hogs at 6 cents per lb. I would not think of selling wheat at less than 90 cents per bushel. There is no chance to lose if a person will feed pigs, lambs or calves, because you get the growth and the fat you put upon them, and are not forced to market them any certain time, they will make you money every day you feed them, so you can take advantage of the market.

In 1896 and 97 I fed a car load of two and three year old steers from December 5th to in April when my feed was about all consumed; I shipped them to Kansas City where the steers topped the market. I fed them about four and one-half months on ground kaffir corn, Maize, corn and some cracked cake all ground together, and never had better results in feeding cattle.

The market for wheat and other grains would advance vary materially if the Farmers in the small grain growing states would feed a good portion of the grain at home besides reducing the surplus we hear so much about. One experiment will convince any farmer of the above recited facts.

Stars, Gags, Tunes In 'Naughty But Nice' at Pastime

"Naughty but Nice," the new Warner Bros. comedy which opens at the Saturday night Prevue, is a hilariously satirical disclosure of some of the skeletons in the closets of the denizens of Tin Pan Alley, both the composers and the publishers.

Since it is about the industry, art or profession of supplying America and most of the rest of the world with popular music, it has a good deal of music as well as comedy in it. In fact, even in the face of the suspicions it may engender about the efforts of some writers of popular songs, two of the best of them, Harry Warren and Johnny Mercer, have supplied it with five new tunes which they are willing to bet will resist analysis by tune detectives.

Sharing almost equally in the acting and singing burden are Ann Sheridan, Dick Powell and Gale Page. As to Ann, she is not only given the honor of introducing three of the new songs, but she is given the best role of her career to date, a part with plenty of opportunity to display the very individual type of charm which led to her recent designation as the "Oomph" girl.

'Oomph' girl at work in "Naughty But Nice." Need we say that the girl is Ann Sheridan—and the boy is Dick Powell.

pions a crew of swing happy youngsters, do their stuff in a big dance scene.

With side excursions into the matter of tune plagiarism and the even more diverting matter of the jitterbug craze, the screen play, written by Richard Macaulay and Jerry Wald, tells how, without intending to do so, a professor of classical music becomes the nation's foremost composer of hot swing tunes.

PREPARING FARM GRAINS FOR FATTENING HOGS

By Fred Hale, Chief
Division of Swine Husbandry

In the fattening of hogs, methods of preparing and feeding farm grains affect the net results about as much as does the kind of ration fed. We quite often receive letters relative to the method of feeding grain sorghum heads, threshed grain sorghum, wheat and barley to fattening hogs. Does it pay to soak grain sorghum heads, or threshed grain before feeding? Does it pay to grind these grains for fattening hogs? Still another question is, what other feeds should be fed with farm grains to make a balanced ration? The Texas Station has made an extensive study of these problems, and the findings are set forth briefly as follows: It does not pay to soak milo heads before feeding to fattening hogs. The pigs used in the Texas tests actually made greater gains when fed dry milo heads in self-feeders, free-choice, than did similar pigs fed soaked milo heads by hand three times daily. The labor involved in soaking and feeding the milo heads was about five times greater than that for the dry milo heads. The milo heads should be fed on a platform of some kind, however. In our experiments pigs gained 16 pounds more per head in 90 days and required 58 pounds less grain and 8 pounds less protein supplement per 100 pounds gain where the grain was fed on a platform instead of in the dirt.

According to our experiments it is not necessary to soak threshed whole milo for fattening hogs. The pigs gained as fast and as economically on the dry as on the soaked milo grain, and besides, it requires more labor to feed the soaked grain.

If the self-feeder is placed where dust can blow into the feed, or if the pigs are permitted to carry mud on their feet and nose to the grain in the feeder, one can not expect to get good results. In other words, the feed in the self-feeder must be kept clean and fresh for best results. Better returns can be expected where fresh grain is put in the self-feeder very three or four days. Pigs are more inclined to eat too much protein supplement where the grain is dirty and unpalatable.

All of these grains are deficient in protein and minerals. For best results, therefore, a protein supplement and a mineral mixture should be fed with these farm grains. A mixture of one-half tankage and one-half cottonseed meal by weight, provides a good protein supplement where green pasture is available. If green pasture is not available, use a mixture of 40 parts tankage, 40 parts cottonseed meal, and 20 parts of green alfalfa meal.

Buffalo Grass Seed Is Harvested With Common Lawn Mower

Buffalo grass seed were successfully harvested at the Temple Station this season during the last week in June, at the rate of about one pound per man hour cleaned unhulled weight. A lawn mower was prepared for the job by removing the cutter bar, taking off the roller, attaching an ordinary grass catcher, and placing a shield on top of the mower and up the handle to deflect the scattering seed into the catcher. This machine was used on a Buffalo grass lawn that had been mowed regularly and on a field area that had been cut with mowing machine immediately prior to the seed collecting operation. In both cases satisfactory amounts of seed were secured. On the lawn, earthworms had worked up considerable soil which was caught with the Buffalo grass seed. This soil was removed by placing the catch in a tub of water and skimming the seed from the top. By using this method of collecting seed, the amount of hay that is caught in addition to the seed is materially reduced by removing the cutter bar on the lawn mower. The separating process is thus simplified so that the coarser surplus hay is easily removed by hand. Fanning is then effective in the removal of the smaller trash particles. Neither the floating nor the fanning need be done if the seed are to be planted by the collector.

"EGG-PRODUCER increases your egg production. It Eradicates blue bugs, mites, lice and fleas. Removes worms. It must make and save you money or your money refunded. Sold by Thomas Feed Store exclusively in Clarendon."

This economical method of harvesting Buffalo grass seed will make possible the seeding of pastures to this grass, that has not been practicable because of the difficulty in securing the seed supply.

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Associate Editor
FARM and RANCH
Breeder-Feeder Association

Some of our readers already have trench silos, some others are perhaps tired of hearing about those ditches to bury feed in; and still others are just waiting until a "more convenient season" for trying out the idea. Those who are already using trench silos, or any other kind, need no convincing, and our apology for continually harping on the subject is that there are still too many "unconverted" who are missing the benefits to be had from feed stored in this manner.

There can't be anything seriously wrong with the trench silo idea when it has been adopted by thousands of farmers and ranchmen throughout the Southwest within a very few years, and we have yet to hear of one who would go back to the old way after using ensilage a season or two. Texas alone had 260 miles of these "ditches" in use the first of this year, and thousands more were dug to store the early feed crops during the past summer.

There's more truth than poetry in the jingle sent out last year by the Dallas office of F. S. A.

"Farmer Jim's nobody's fool, And though he didn't go to school, He learned a thing or two. The neighbors came for miles around To see Jim's silo in the ground— And now they've got 'em too!"

There's no mystery and no complex "figgerin'" about a trench silo. Here it is in the a-b-c's, from the FSA circular:

"Fix width and depth according to the number of livestock to be fed—length to suit the feeding period. Each cow needs four square feet of cross section area from which a six-inch slice is cut daily. For six head make a trench six feet deep averaging four feet wide, with properly sloped walls. Slope is needed to help settling and prevent caving. For 120 days feeding, the length should be sixty feet. Trench four feet by six feet by sixty feet will hold about twenty-five tons."

There is still a great deal of late feed which will be worth more in the silo than in any other form. Even lightly frosted grain sorghum can still be saved by cutting it promptly and ensiling it. If the trench is not already dug, cut the feed the day after frost and let it lie on the ground while the trench is being prepared. Then use plenty of water with the ensilage, whether cut or ensiled in whole bundles, pack closely cover with about a foot of dirt, and forget it until the ensilage is needed.

In the old days the silo was a skyscraper and filling it was both laborious and expensive. It was so costly that few farmers could afford one. Now many of those expensive, skyscraper structures stand empty while their owners use the trench silo. It is so cheap that anyone can have it. It is less laborious and expensive to fill, and the ensilage can be fed out with less labor and time.

If an ensilage cutter is available use it, and pack the cut ensilage thoroughly. Cut ensilage costs a little more to store, but is less wasteful, and takes less time and trouble to feed out. If no ensilage cutter is available, store whole stalks, lengthwise of the trench, lapping them shingle-fashion and reversing the heads and butts with each layer to keep level. If well watered and packed it will be just as good ensilage as if the stalks were cut, but it will have to be "cut out" from day to day with an axe or a special heavy tool made for the purpose.

Ensilage is the best substitute for green pasture, but of course is not a complete feed. To get the most from it some dry hay and cottonseed meal should be used. Don't build a trench silo with perpendicular walls. Sloped walls prevent the ensilage from shrinking away from the sides and causing spoilage.

FROM AN OLD NEWSPAPER

There is something fascinating about an old newspaper, and by "old" we mean those yellowed, creased and brittle issues of fifty, seventy-five, or a hundred years ago. These old papers with their quaint typography, find their way into the office now and then. Last week it was our good fortune to get hold of a real old relic. It was a copy of Atkinson's Saturday Evening Post, a four page, hand set newspaper. It bore the date of December 6, 1834, and like the newspapers of that and later periods it had a certain literary tone and we presume it took just pride in its freedom from typographical errors.

The chief feature of this particular issue, which no doubt accounts for its preservation through the years in a stamford attic, is an entire seven-column second page devoted exclusively to the message of the president, Andrew Jackson, to the Congress, Dec. 2, 1834. "Old Hickory" was then serving his second term.

Reading this old newspaper with its fine print, its high-class ballads and its trend to things romantic, is like re-living the period.

The previous year (1833) Captain Ross had returned from his voyage of discovery in search of a Northwest Passage, which should recall to patrons of the Stamford libraries the name of a recent best seller.

President Jackson was on the spot at the time for his action some months before in removing deposits of the United States, totaling $10,000,000, from the U. S. Bank. This laid the foundation for the financial panic of the next administration, that of Martin VanBuren, New York's first president, for whose memory the state is now planning to perpetuate the VanBuren home at Kinderhook, N. Y.

While the United States was on satisfactory terms with most foreign countries during Jackson's regime, this country was by the cars with France because of that country's broken promises and failure to pay indemnity. To quote President Jackson's message as published in the old Philadelphia newspaper:

"The history of the accumulated and unprovoked aggressions upon our commerce, committed by authority of the existing governments of France, between the years 1810 and 1817, has been rendered too painfully familiar to Americans to make its repetition either necessary or desirable. It will be sufficient here to remark, that there has, for many years, been scarcely in single administration of the French Government by whom the justice and legality of the claims of our citizens to indemnity, were not, to a very considerable extent, admitted; and yet near a quarter of a century has been wasted in ineffectual negotiations to secure it."

The "bill," "for unlawful seizures, captures, sequestrations, confiscations, or destructions of their vessels, cargoes, or other property", was twenty-five million francs, and in 1831 a treaty had been ratified, the terms of which provided for payment of the debt in six annual installments.

In his message to congress, Jackson expressed his regret that France, after having solemnly pledged payment of the long-deferred claims, had, up to three years later, made no legislative provision, nor was there any indication that any steps would be taken to square the account.

Then followed a communication which had been directed to France, as set forth in the President's message, which stated in the diplomatic language of the time that in case prompt execution of the treaty be longer delayed, the United States should "take redress into their own hands."

How strikingly similar are the French today, with respect to the war debt. They see all, know all—and pay nothing.

And just by way of contrast, wouldn't it be funny, were it not so tragic, to consider that while a shift of a mere $10,000,000 in the old days could cause a financial panic, today they leave a billion out in the yard for the boys to kick around, and no serious difficulty is experienced. They call it a "recession" now, but whether teed off by a Jackson or a Roosevelt, the effect is depressing.
