Ministerial Alliance Outlines Its Program

The Donley County Ministerial Alliance met in its regular June meeting and had one called meeting. Items on the agenda were as follows:

The caring of transits was discussed. Clarendon has a lot of transit people passing through. Some of these people become stranded in Clarendon. The Alliance cares for needy transit people through a fund, the money of which is collected at the community Easter and Thanksgiving services sponsored by the Alliance.

The Ministerial Alliance discussed a spiritual emphasis week for Clarendon. A committee of ministers was appointed to consider and propose ways that all of our churches and citizens can participate together in our great religious heritage. The called meeting was to hear a report from this committee.

The Alliance voted to set up a booth at the Bicentennial Celebration - Country Fair 74, to emphasize the Christian heritage of Donley County. The Spiritual Emphasis Committee commented on the long Christian heritage of Clarendon and the long standing of many of our churches in the community. The committee recommended that each church display at the celebration a 12 x 12 charcoal sketch of its church building along with a brief history of that church. Each church can contact Mrs. Pettigrew Hamilton, wife of the Minister of St. John The Baptist Episcopal Church, to have their sketch made.

Two ministers will be on duty in the Alliance booth throughout the day of July 4 to greet you. An edition of the Holman illustrated Living Bible will be given away through a drawing. For this reason, you will be asked to register as you enter the booth.

The Ministerial Alliance discussed the possibility of a chaplain program for the Clarendon Medical Center. It is hoped that in the near future a minister can be on 24 hour call at the Medical Center, each minister of the city taking turns of a week's duration.

The Alliance is participating once again along with local business men and citizens in the annual Salvation Army drive for our area.

The Ministerial Alliance respectfully accepted the resignation of its President, the Rev. R. L. Leeder, Pastor of the Assembly of God Church. We wish to take this opportunity of expressing to Rev. Leeder our sincere appreciation for a year of leadership that has resulted in one of the best years for the Donley County Ministerial Alliance. We wish Bro. Leeder and his family God-speed.

Correspondence can be received at Box 790, Clarendon. Submitted by the Donley County Ministerial Alliance

Burglars At Work In Clarendon Wednesday Night, June 19

It was a busy night in Clarendon last Wednesday, June 19 when a number of businesses were broken into. Sheriff Frank Lindsey reported that the apparent motive for the break-ins was money. The break-ins netted the would be robbers very little in the way of cash but considerable damage was done to property.

A window was broken out at the Coca Cola Plant. The North front door at Greene Dry Goods was broken but entry there was unsuccessful. A glass cutter was used to gain entry to the Donley County Leader where the entry was made from the front door on Main Street, the Cash drawer splintered and the lock pried out. Barbara's Fabrics was entered through the back door which was barred. However facings were splintered out to gain entry.

Investigation continues. A closer watch is being maintained by both law enforcement and property owners. We have heard words to the effect that action may be taken and questions asked later.

State Capitol Highlights and Sidelights

A flood of Mexican aliens, estimated at more than a million a year, is pouring into Texas, according to a new Texas Good Neighbor Commission report. More than half the illegal entrants cross the Rio Grande into Texas. Good Neighbor Commission said the number of such entries is greater than the total number of immigrants who entered the U. S. legally from all the countries of the world. Last year, the GNC noted, 757,000 deportable Mexican aliens were found in the U. S., and immigration officials figure one escapes for every one apprehended. Sophisticated smuggling techniques aid the crossings. Immigrations have a social and economic impact in virtually all regions, since the aliens move on to metropolitan areas all over the U. S. in search of better jobs and safety from arrests. Top AFL-CIO officials promptly called for tough new state laws making it an offense to hire illegal aliens, punishable by stiff fines or prison terms. DEMOCRATS TO DELAY - Democrats are still in a dither about whether they should "recess" their September 17 state convention until September 19 to avoid a conflict with a high Jewish holy day. A rules change to allow the delay will be aired at a special meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee in Austin July 16. If hotel rooms can be made available September 19, SDEC will consider the change (to keep the convention from falling on

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year. But a three-fourth majority is necessary to order the rules amendment. APPOINTMENTS - Clyde Johnson of Bulverde and San Antonio was named by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to the Texas Water Quality Board, succeeding the late Gordon Fulcher of Atlanta. Briscoe also named E. Carl Dillard of Pearsall to the State Judicial Qualifications Commission. He reappointed five State Health Advisory Committee members and appointed as new Committee members Mrs. Edd Henard of Wellington, Mrs. Emma Nugent of Orange, Mrs. H. L. Long of Kilgore, Mrs. Marie Bynum of Longview, Rogers Wilson of Austin, W. W. Manley of Terrell, Rev. Claude Black of San Antonio, Domingo Pena of Corpus Christi, Ernest Coker Jr. of Conroe, Ronnie Boules of Pecos and Ed Baker of Arlington. AG OPINIONS - Atty. Gen. John Hill held a newspaper's donating free space to an official's column when he is a candidate for reelection is not a campaign contribution under the law. In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: A county commissioner may not be paid for serving as appointed lawyer for an indigent defendant. Texas Water Development Board has a duty to approve or disapprove plans for proposed levees along any stream subject to floods or overflows. An appointed attorney who represents both an indigent criminal defendant in district court and a juvenile in juvenile court the same day may not receive more than one fee. WELFARE ROLLS DECLINE - Fewer Texans got welfare benefits last year, the Department of Public Welfare reported. The department's annual report showed Old Age Assistance was down from an average of

210,000 monthly in 1972 to 182,000 in 1973. Aid to Families with Dependent Children declined from a peak of 121,588 in February 1973 to 118,681 families in July. COURTS SPEAK - The State Supreme Court held unconstitutional a new state law regulating juke boxes and other coin-operated amusement machines. Attorney General Hill called on the U. S. Supreme Court to accelerate a Texas case challenging impoundment of water pollution funds by President Nixon. Austin, San Antonio and Lower Colorado River Authority called on the Third Court of Civil Appeals to require the Texas Railroad Commission to force Lo Vaca Gathering Company to live up to its gas supply contracts. The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a life sentence given a Dallas man for assault to murder a police officer. A hearing was set in the Supreme Court for July 17 on whether two elderly sisters can get back $100,000 and 7,500 acres of land they gave to the Stephens County Museum, Inc. The high court ordered the Dallas Court of Civil Appeals to take another look at adequacy of a $4,146 damage award given a Van Zandt County man who was bitten on the hand by a neighbor's hog. OIL ALLOWABLE SET - The statewide oil allowable for July was fixed by the Railroad Commission, for the 28th straight month, a 100 percent level. Major crude oil buyers asked for 3,843,362 barrels of oil daily in July, a decrease of 36,087 from June. Commission Chairman Jim Langdon pointed out that the U. S. still imports 1.5 billion barrels of crude annually - a "very long way" from self-sufficiency. Exceptions to the 100 per cent order were East Texas and Kelly - Snyder fields which were restricted to 68 per cent production. BEAUTIFICATION AWARDS MADE - Seven cities received Governor's Community Achievement Awards for outstanding community beautification projects during the last year. Winning cities were Stanton (under 2,500); Eastland (2,401-5,000); Athens and Jacksonville (5,001 - 10,000); Lufkin (10,001-20,000); New Brunfels (20,001-60,000) and San Antonio (over 60,000). Social Security

By Travis C. Briggs
Q-For several years I have received notices that my retirement amount has been increased because of my work. I am now 69 years old and still working. Will I get any extra credit under the recent social security changes since I never have received any social security payments?
A-Yes. The notices of increases you have received in past years refers to increases due you because of your continued earnings. You will also receive additional credits called "delayed retirement credits" for each month from age 65 up to the time you start receiving credits or to age 72 whichever comes first. This extra increase will amount to 1% (1 1/2) of 1% per month for each year. No credit can be given for any month before January 1971. If you are 69 now, you were 65 in 1969. Since no credit can be given for months before January 1971 you earned 36 months extra credit by the end of 1973.

Q-My state has no burial space for veterans in its national cemetery. In such cases, will the Veterans Administration pay anything toward the cost of a burial plot in a private cemetery?
A-Yes. In addition to the basic burial allowance of up to $250, payments of up to $150 in plot and interment costs are authorized for eligible veterans not buried in national cemeteries.
Q-As an eligible veteran, would I have to make a downpayment on a Veterans Administration GI home loan?
A-The Veterans Administration does not require a downpayment, but the lender may require one.
Q-I'm a disabled veteran who received a $2,800 auto grant from the Veterans Administration. Will VA help out on engine repair?

a five year old child through the county adoption agency. She was an orphan and received social security benefits on her father's social security number. These checks stopped when we adopted her two years ago. I heard that a change in the law would help our adopted daughter. Is this true?
A-Yes. Effective in January 1973, children's benefits do not terminate because of adoption. Children whose benefits were previously stopped because of adoption can be entitled to monthly benefits. You should contact your nearest social security office to reapply for your adopted daughter's benefits.

130 Million Pounds of Meat Harvested in Texas Last Year

By What Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game officials call a "conservative" estimate, state hunters and sport and commercial fishermen harvested some 130 million pounds of meat last year. Tom Moore of the department's Wildlife staff said that Texas hunters bagged some 21 million pounds of edible meat during last year with the 13 million pounds of white-tailed deer venison heading the list. Another nine million pounds of freshwater fish were taken by sport anglers with commercial fishermen contributing 570,000 pounds. "Commercial saltwater fishermen harvested the largest recorded amount of protein food," said Moore. "The Gulf of Mexico yielded almost 100 million pounds of fin and shell fish. "We also estimate that sport saltwater fishermen landed an equal amount of poundage but until an ongoing creel survey is completed we can only guess." Moore said that the 130-million-pound figure represented boneless meat. The first vacation Bible school for youngsters was opened in 1901 in New York City by Dr. Robert Boville of the Baptist City Mission.

WHAT IS A TAX SHELTERED ANNUITY?
A Modern Annuity can pay you a rate of interest that is equal to an 8% to 12% return on a normal investment. The actual effective net yield depends on your income tax bracket. To encourage people to save for part of their retirement, Internal Revenue allows interest to accumulate in an Annuity Policy with no taxes due on the interest until it is withdrawn. Under present law, a single person over age 65 can have up to $2,800 per year of reportable income with no taxes due; the amount for a couple is $4,300 and these amounts are expected to be further liberalized. In the Modern Annuity, one can at any time, withdraw up to the amount that he has deposited with no taxes due and leave the interest in the account to continue compounding at over 6.50% interest until he chooses to start withdrawing it. This feature is an additional big tax shelter that further increases the effective yield of your deposits. The Modern Annuity has been designed to also give a person all of the advantages of a savings account. 1. The insured safety of your account. 2. Social Security
By Travis C. Briggs
Q-What is the amount of the Supplemental Security Income payment?
-The basic SSI amount is $140 a month for an individual and $210 a month for a couple. But the monthly payment can be as little as $1. The payments will vary according to the amount of other income a person receives.
Q-Will the SSI payment be added to the social security check?
A-No. Since social security and Supplemental Security are two separate and distinct programs, separate payments must be made. A person who qualifies for both SSI and social security will receive two monthly checks.
Q-Will social security taxes be used to pay Supplemental Security Income checks?
A-No. Social security taxes will receive two monthly checks.
Q-Will social security taxes be used to pay Supplemental Security Income checks?
A-No. Social security taxes will not be used to pay SSI benefits. This payment will be financed out of general revenues.
Q-Will social security trust fund money be used to administer the SSI program?
A-No. The cost of SSI benefits and of administering the program will be paid from general revenues.
Q-Will the payment of Supplemental Security Income benefits cause an increase in social security taxes or a reduction in the amount of future social security benefit increases.
A-No. Since SSI benefits are not financed by social security tax contributions, such payments will not affect the social security tax rate or social security benefit payments in any way.

Making Small Spaces Look Larger

A common problem of making a small space appear larger can be overcome with a few basic principles, according to one housing and home furnishings specialist.

"First study the space carefully and define traffic lanes—'people paths' from doorway to doorway," says Anna Marie Gottschalk, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Her suggestions for creating space where there really isn't any include the following:

Make the backgrounds—walls, ceiling and floor—seem to expand. Make the walls lighter than the floor, and make the ceiling lighter than the walls. Mirrored walls help create a feeling of spaciousness.

Choose small-size furniture for small spaces. Keep lines and styles of the pieces clean-cut and simple. Chairs with see-through backs and without arms, upholstered pieces without skirts, and easel pieces with small legs make the room look less crowded.

Hanging consoles, desks and storage pieces frees the perimeter of the room, just above the floor, creating a more spacious look.

In arranging furniture, try to leave the center of the room as free as possible.

Use enough light to eliminate harsh and definite shadows. A few simple, functional accessories add to the style of the room—too many destroy the spaciousness.

"The feeling of space you create in a small room will be worth the effort in terms of enjoyment and pleasure," Miss Gottschalk concluded.

New In Christ

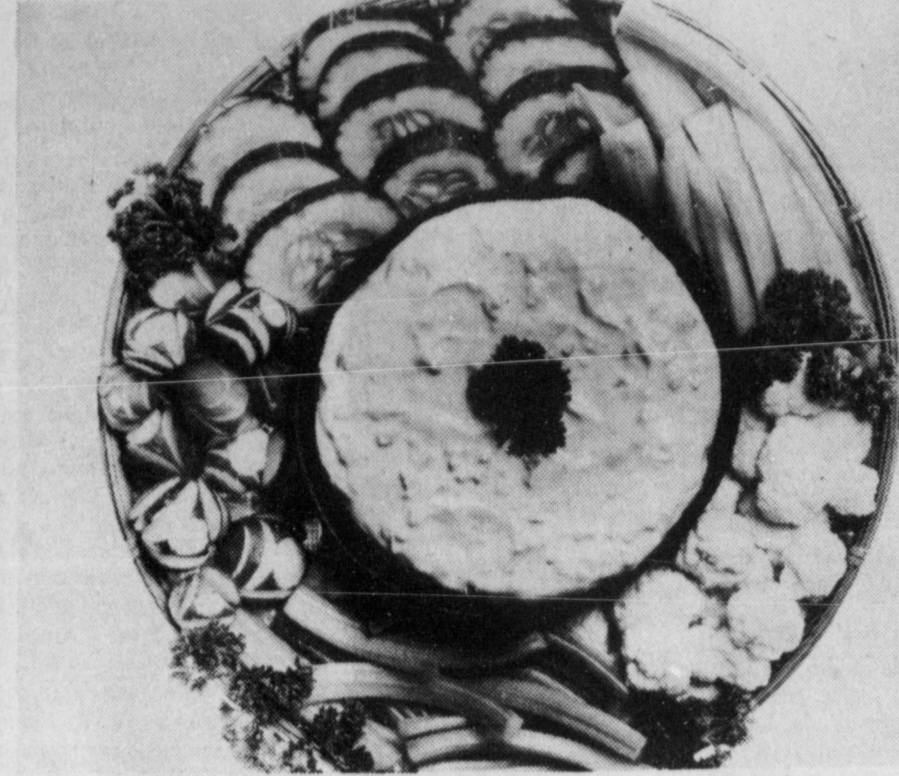

By: Weldon Rives, Pastor
First United Methodist Church

II Corinthians 5:17 — "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature."

I recently received an interesting book from Tidings entitled ISSUE ONE: EVANGELISM, edited by Rueben P. Job and Harold K. Bates. The Article "Rethinking the Great Commission in An Age of Revolution" by Elmer George Homrighausen, Professor of Pastoral Theology at Princeton Theological Seminary has held my attention for several days now. The section of the article labeled "Crucial Experience" says beautifully what I've tried to say in the church pulpit, Church School Classes, study groups, individuals and in some of the articles in this paper. I am only sorry that it will not be possible to elaborate extensively on this section; perhaps what is said will be sufficient to stir up your spirits.

Dr. Homrighausen says that in understanding what it means to be a disciple of Christ we must understand what Paul meant in his phrase "in Christ" as it involved being related 1) to Christ Jesus, 2) to his church, and 3) to his mission in and for humanity. Thus, anyone who is not involved in any one of these is not a true disciple. These three Dr. Homrighausen states, show that to be "in Christ" as a faithful disciple we must be involved by our "intelligence, affections, and will of the whole human being" because "the Christian is to be a committed, intelligent, and responsible disciple." This must evolve from a process which "is never completed or perfected; being a disciple of Jesus Christ is a perennial 'dying of the old man' and the putting on of the new man in Christ. The guilt of sin may be forgiven, and the power of sin may be broken, but the 'sanctification' or whole-making process goes on until life's end. Conversion cannot be pinned down to a moment; it is a long term process." (Page 27).

Some years ago I remember studying that if it had not been for the church all knowledge of God and Christ Jesus might have been lost and that the scripture might not have been preserved for it was the priest of the church which continued to teach and study and copy the scriptures. Well, if it had not been for the church all these years, there would be no awakening of men to the necessity of repentance, and without repentance there would be no conversion, and without conversion there would be no disciples "in Christ"; and without disciples there would be no witnesses to do the work of God in the world, and with no witnesses there would be no awakening of men to the necessity of repentance. Thus, persons become disciples "in Christ" only in the church and nowhere else. Thus, Dr.

Homrighausen concluded this section of his article appropriately by saying: "the crucial issue is whether they keep the major objectives in the New Testament in view: the making of the disciple, the new man in Jesus Christ in all his potential manhood or womanhood which conversion to the gospel creates." (page 29).

Farmers Need Good Records For '74 Farm Census Reports

Farmers and ranchers, get ready for the 1974 Census of Agriculture! Keep good records of your farming operations this year! This is the request of the Bureau of the Census, the Federal agency that will conduct the 20th nationwide Census of Agriculture during the first part of 1975. The Bureau is part of the U. S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

Farmers will receive their report forms by mail early in January. They should fill them out and mail them back promptly. Having accurate and detailed records will make it easy for farmers to do this. Questions will be much like those in the last previous agriculture census which covered farming and ranching during 1969.

Questions will ask for acreage of cropland harvested; quantity and market value of major crops produced; acres irrigated and means of irrigation; acreage treated with pesticides, lime and other chemicals; acreage fertilized by kind of fertilizer (dry, liquid, gas).

Questions on livestock and poultry will cover the number of each kind on the farm as well as the number sold and the sales value. Quantities and sales value of their products will be sought.

Details will be requested about farm products produced or marketed under contract. A few questions will be included about hired and contract labor, the number of workers and cash wages paid; also about any injuries to workers. Further expenditure questions will cover amounts spent for feed, fertilizer, pesticides, lime, gasoline and other farm fuels, machine hire, and livestock and poultry purchases.

There will be questions about the various types and uses of land, such as cropland not harvested, other pasture and woodland, and about the value of land and buildings on the farm.

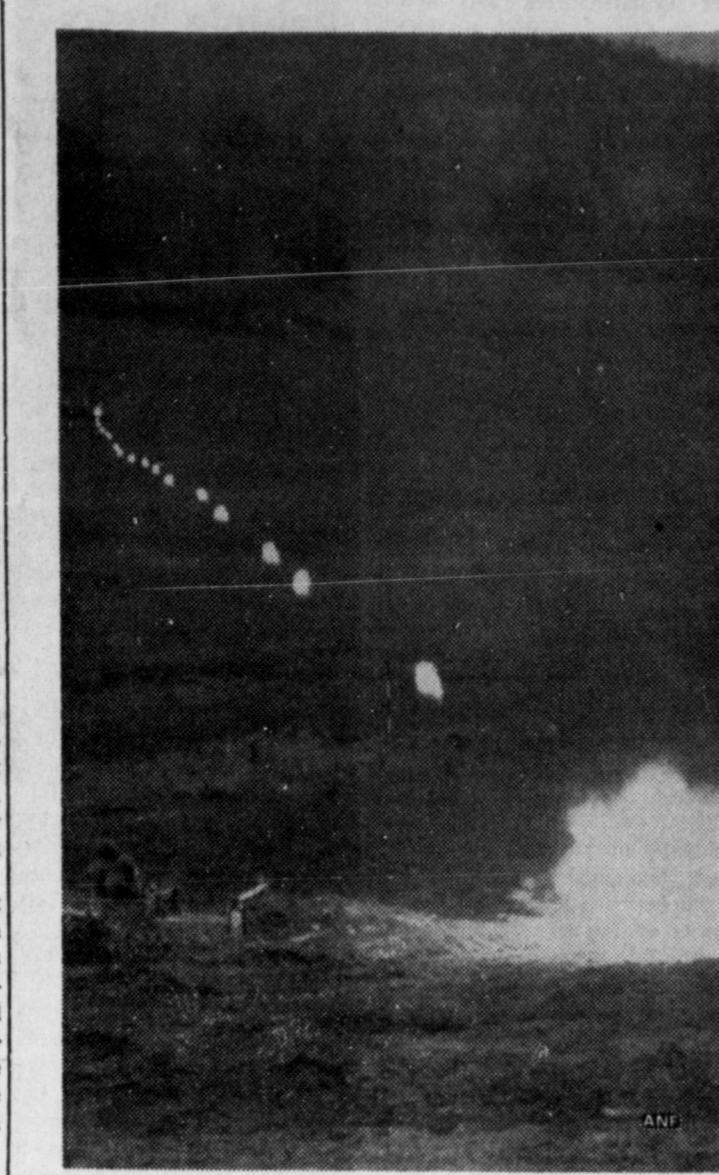

Operators will be asked about farm related income such as recreational services, custom-work provided other farmers, or payments for participation in Government farm programs.

Two types of report forms are being prepared: one for farms with sales of $2500 or more, and another less detailed form for places with sales of less than $2500. No matter which form a farmer receives, he need answer only those questions that apply to his operation. He should skip questions that apply only to other types of agricultural operations.

By Federal law, every report is confidential. It may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical purposes. The mail method reinforces confidentiality. It also allows the farmer to complete the report at his convenience with accurate information from his records.

Tuberculosis Is Still A Menace

People think tuberculosis is conquered — but in Texas the first five months of 1974 show all forms of tuberculosis increased nearly 45 per cent over a similar period last year, according to one authority. She's Dr. Barbara Sears, health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "This figure could be drastically lowered if Texans would take advantage of the tuberculosis control services offered by the State Health Department," the specialist noted.

For free TB testing, persons should visit their county health department, the county health officer, or the regional health office. If they can't find the testing locations, they should contact the county judge, Dr. Sears added.

Texas' tuberculosis control services program has three aims: (1) detect cases of tuberculosis infection, active or non-symptomatic; (2) treat persons with active disease; and (3) prevent spread of the disease, the specialist explained.

"In Texas, tuberculosis is most common and most difficult to control among low-income populations and among people who fail to seek regular medical attention," Dr. Sears said.

"Statistics also show a relationship between tuberculosis and cases of diabetes, alcoholism and other chronic diseases," she said. Also, persistence of obsolete ideas, fears and myths about tuberculosis — such as curing it with a diet of skunk meat — continues to hamper the fight against tuberculosis," Dr. Sears pointed out.

"Constant, thorough care is the only way to reduce tuberculosis — from its present status as a continual public health problem to the level of a relatively rare disease," the specialist concluded.

The United States had an average of 50.5 persons per square mile of land at the end of the 1960 census.

Rains, Warmer Weather Increase Screwworm Threat

Screwworm cases are increasing their northward trek across Texas, and producers are reminded to re-double their efforts against the costly livestock pest. "Texas has just recorded 590 positive cases in May, or 67 per cent of the total cases it has experienced this year to date," warns Dr. M. E. Meadows, Jr., veterinarian in charge of the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program at Mission.

"With rains received over a number of areas recently, the moisture is expected to increase the opportunities for more worm cases, unless producers really watch their animal and treat all wounds," Meadows says.

Until the beginning of May, only 282 of the flesh-eating worm cases had been identified in the Lone Star State.

Only 54 positive cases were reported by the Mission Lab in May, 1973. Within the past several weeks, Cottle County, in the Rolling Plains area near the Oklahoma line, recorded the screwworm cases, first for the season there. New cases also have been confirmed recently in El Paso, Reagan, Reeves and Crane Counties in the Trans-Pecos and Far West Texas areas.

"Earlier, cases had moved north from the Hill Country to Concho, Runnels, and Haskell Counties, which probably accounts for the cases now occurring in Cottle," says Meadows.

Non-screwworm samples submitted by producers dipped somewhat in May. "With the Gulf Coast ticks expected to create additional worm problems, especially in the southern portion of Texas, all producers should join in the battle against screwworms," adds Meadows. To make the battle more effective, producers should carefully check animals regularly for wounds, submit samples from worms found in wounds, treat all wounds, and spray or dip livestock on a regular basis.

Boaters Are Not Complying With Laws

Unwittingly or not, many recreational boaters are violating the law by failing to carry the prescribed personal flotation devices (PFD's), according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department law enforcement officials.

"Although new PFD requirements went into effect October 1, 1973, it appears that many boaters failed to get the word," said officials.

"Game wardens will vigorously enforce all water safety laws in an effort to reduce the number of drownings in Texas. Even before the boating season got into full swing, some 165 citations were issued during April for failure to have the proper number of PFD's on board." Length of the boat determines what types of personal flotation devices are required, with the exception that children 12 years of age and under must wear a life preserver while aboard any boat less than 26 feet long while the vessel is underway.

PFD's fall into three categories: Types I, II, III and IV. Types I, II and III are wearable and Type IV is a throwable device such as the familiar buoyant cushion.

On boats less than 16 feet long, any type of U. S. Coast Guard - approved PFD may be used, either wearable or throwable, as long as there is one PFD for each occupant.

On boats 16 feet and longer, there must be a Type I, II, or III PFD on board for each occupant. In addition to the wearable PFD's one Type IV must be on board to cope with emergencies such as falls overboard. The throwable device does not have to have a line attached.

Social Security

Q—I recently hired a woman to come in one day a week to clean house at $4.00 a day. I thought that social security was only for regular employees, but a friend says I will have to report this part time work. Is this correct?

A—Yes it is. An employee in your home must be reported if the wages amount to as much as $50.00 in a calendar quarter. At $5.00 a week, your employee will receive wages of $65.00 in a calendar quarter.

Q—Last year, in October, I received notice that my benefit rate had been increased due to my 1971 earnings. I continued to work through 1972 but have not received notice of any increase. Should I do anything about this now?

A—No, you don't need to do anything. Benefit rates are recalculated automatically each year. These recomputations are processed in groups and continue for several months. If you are due an increase in payments, you will receive notice.

reasons for the selection. The use of the computers was soon found to be a step in the right direction, since it saved time and provided greater uniformity in the initial selection of returns for audit. However, this initial system of criteria developed from examiner experience still did not ensure that IRS audit manpower was being spent on those returns with the greatest need for examination based on the probability of change in the tax reported.

After considerable research the IRS found it could determine the relative importance of each significant return characteristic as it related to the frequency of tax error. Eventually, this study led to assigning weights to these return items and their inter-relationships. That is the basis for DIF.

The DIF system today weighs the relationships of all of the key return items and produces a score for each taxpayer's return. Those returns having a high score are identified as having the greatest probability of tax errors.

In other words, under DIF, relationships between return characteristics and past results of audits of similar types of returns are what count. Whether or not items reported are higher or lower than average amounts is of no consequence. How the items go together to make up the overall picture and whether that composite tax return image looks error prone are what tips the scales. Screening by IRS classifiers determines whether returns selected by the computer really need auditing. For example, DIF, which is a nationwide system, cannot take into account unique local conditions. Screeners can identify local variations such as when a state's real estate taxes are high.

Returns found to need audit by both the computer and humans are ultimately selected for examination. In addition, returns not selected for audit by DIF may be selected at random, as a means of checking the system. Or returns may be examined because they are related to returns already undergoing examination, such as those of partners in a business. Some returns are identified for audit when IRS matches associated documents, such as Forms W-2 and 1099 with information reported on the 1040.

But whatever the means for selecting your return for audit, the purpose remains the same — to correct those returns with apparent errors so that only the tax due is paid the government.

Last year, according to the IRS, 1.8-million audits ended with $5.1-billion in additional revenue for the government, and $275.7-million in reduced taxes or increased refunds for taxpayers.

Social Security To Increase Benefits

The second part of a two-step increase in monthly social security benefits will be included in checks delivered in July, according to Travis C. Briggs, social security manager in Amarillo, Texas.

The overall increase will amount to 11 percent for most people getting social security payments. A 7-percent increase was included in checks starting in April.

The increase will enhance the financial security of about 30 million people who get social security benefits. People getting social security checks don't have to do anything to get the higher payments. The increase will be added automatically.

Starting in July, average social security retirement payments will go from $161 to $181 a month. Average social security disability payments will go from $184 to $206 a month. Average survivors payments to a widowed mother with two children in her care will go from $418 to $435 a month.

For 1974 the amount of yearly earnings subject to social security deductions has been increased from the first $10,800 to the first $13,200, but there is no increase in the contribution rate. Employees and employers will continue to pay 5.8 per cent each on covered earnings, and the rate for self-employed people drops to 7.9 per cent.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The Amarillo social security office is at 317 East Third St. The phone number is 896-376-2241.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

What do most people complain about to our Consumer Protection Division? Car repair problems.

Other attorneys general say that's the case in other states as well. And reports from the White House Office of Consumer Affairs bear this out. Car repair complaints to that agency have outnumbered by about four to one any other category of consumer problem.

Americans spend an incredible $25 to $30 billion a year on auto repairs and maintenance, according to Virginia Knauer, Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs.

Much of this is for faulty repair work or for repairs that were not even made, she claims.

Although most repair shops provide honest service for every dollar they charge, the few who don't can give the industry a black eye. That's why reputable repairmen are eager to alert consumers to certain questionable tactics.

While individual grievances vary widely, they say certain unethical practices seem to turn up more frequently than others nationwide. These include:

Selling customers unneeded repair work or parts:

Charging customers for repairs that were never performed;

Quoting customers a low price for repairs, when actual charges turn out to be substantially higher;

Making unauthorized repairs and requiring customers to pay for them before releasing their cars;

Not allowing customers to view work being done on their cars and not showing replaced parts upon request;

Advertising special low prices on repairs, then urging customers who respond to purchase more expensive repairs and services (a tactic known as "bait and switch"); and Advertising "sale" prices that actually are standard prices.

In some instances, manufacturers have complained that a few of their authorized dealerships have prepared false repair orders, added unperformed service or repair charges to repair orders, submitted fictitious warranty repair orders for repayment, and falsely claimed that warranted repair work had been repeatedly performed on the same vehicle.

Recently, Dallas became the first city in the State to set up guidelines for car repair shops and require them to be licensed under a revised city consumer affairs ordinance. Many of those guidelines coincide with the following safeguards recommended by attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division:

1. Avoid unnecessary repair work by keeping your car properly maintained and serviced.

2. If the need for major repairs arises, get estimates in writing from at least three repairmen. Make sure the estimates cover the maximum charge, cost of actual work to be done, and when the repairs are to be completed.

3. If more work is necessary and the cost will exceed the estimate, make sure the repairman will notify you and get your approval before proceeding.

4. When you have a major repair, ask for an itemized list of parts and repair costs. Then, if you should have the same difficulty just a short time later, the shop would be unlikely to charge you again for the same work or parts.

5. If you receive unsatisfactory service at a factory-authorized dealership, write to the manufacturer.

If you have a question about car repair problems, consult the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Accent On Health

J. E. Peavy, M.D.,
Commissioner of Health

Early detection is one of the best weapons in the hands of medical personnel for combating short-term or possible long-term illness.

For this reason, screening services play a vital role in State Health Department services. Screening turns up diseases in persons who are unaware of any difficulty, as well as reassuring those in good health. One of the biggest screening efforts both in Texas and the nation now is for hypertension — or high blood pressure — which can produce severe problems. Another sinister disease which can be found by screening is diabetes. The Health Department's Chronic Disease Division provides diabetes screening services to local health departments, various regional offices and special projects where adequate nursing services can provide follow-up services on suspected cases.

Diabetes was the fifth leading cause of death in Texas in 1972 and second cause of blindness. Therefore, the value of screening can be clearly shown, since early detection plays an important role in the future of diabetes victims.

Screening services are channeled to those at high risk of getting the disease. Experience has shown those at high risk to be close blood relatives of diabetes victims, those persons more than 45 years of age, the obese and the parents of a nine-pound-plus baby when the parents reach age 45.

In diabetes screening, a blood sample is taken and deposited in a vial which contains a preservative to protect the blood sugar. The sample then is sent to a Health Department laboratory for analysis. If blood sugar exceeds a certain level the individual is re-checked with a follow-up examination.

Screening services are provided for other diseases by other divisions of the State Health Department. Among these are the PKU program for newborn; dental and medical screening through the Title XIX programs for children on the Welfare Department's Aid to Families of Dependent Children roles; hearing, sight and dental screening in the school system; screening of females for cancer; tuberculosis testing; and screening for general disease. Screening goes hand in hand with prevention.

It is difficult to measure the effects of preventive medicine, and this difficulty adds to the lack of understanding in expanding its role.

Preventive services may be classed as primary — averting the occurrence of the disease; secondary — prevention controlling progression of a disease from its early stage to a more severe stage; and tertiary — prevention which involves rehabilitation, as in the case of a stroke victim.

Providers of preventive medical services include such major groups as doctors, dentists, veterinarians and other professionals.

One of the easiest preventive services to recognize is in the field of immunization. A look at the State Health Department's morbidity reports emphasizes the drop in such diseases as diphtheria, measles, rubella, polio, pertussis — diseases which in the past came to be expected as natural risks. Last year, for the first time, not a single case of paralytic polio was reported in Texas. Compulsory immunization of school children, plus emphasis on pre-schoolers, helped produce this record.

There has been another change in the health field in the direction of prevention. This is in the field of epidemiology. To the layman, an epidemiologist can best be described as a disease detective. Major concerns of epidemiology are discovery of factors essential to or contributing to disease occurrence, and developments of methods for disease prevention.

Historically, epidemiology had its birth in relation to the study of the great epidemic diseases such as cholera, plague, smallpox, yellow fever and typhus. Until the 20th Century, these epidemic diseases were the most important threat to human life and health.

The so-called new epidemiology has extended the concept of public health control to encompass all causes of illness, disability and death. The Health Department's Divisions of Occupational Safety and Occupational Health and Radiation Control are, in a large sense, practicing preventive medicine by finding and eliminating circumstances which effect the health of workers in Texas.

So it is that the State Health

TYLER—Frank P. Horlock, left, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Pearl Brewing Company of San Antonio, and Ted L. Clark, Director, Wildlife Division, Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, inspect mallard ducklings at the TP&WD Management and Research Station here. The ducklings, purchased with funds provided by Pearl to the Texas Conservation Foundation, will remain at the station for three weeks before being released at selected sites throughout the state by the Wildlife Department. Purpose of the program is to establish a nesting population of mallards in Texas.

Pearl Provides Funds for Mallard Duck Program

SAN ANTONIO—Pearl Brewing Company is taking its interest in the Texas environment another step further by providing funds for the purchase of 20,000 mallard ducklings in an effort to establish a nesting population of mallards in Texas. Pearl contributed $10,000 to the Texas Conservation Foundation for the purchase of the birds from Frost Game Farm in Coloma, Wis. The ducklings will be reared and released at specially selected nesting sites by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Frank P. Horlock, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Pearl, said that the company "has been vitally interested in the Texas environment for some time. "Through the statewide aluminum beverage can collection network, we have removed more than 50 million cans from Texas' solid waste stream for recycling," Horlock said. "The mallard program gives us a chance to put something back into the Texas environment."

Mallards were selected for the program because they readily adapt to new environments, because they are fairly productive birds, and because they are readily available. In addition, they are good table birds and much sought after by hunters. They also are beautiful birds to be watched by environmentalists.

Although wild mallards do migrate to Texas and many of them winter in the Panhandle area as well as East Texas, there never has been a nesting population in the state. TP&WD game biologists hope to establish a nesting population through this program.

The ducklings are being shipped from Wisconsin to the TP&WD Management and Research Station in Tyler, Texas, in increments of 2,000. They will be held at the station for three weeks, before being released at some 28 sites selected by the Wildlife Department. The first ducklings are scheduled for release on June 10, with the final release scheduled for August 12.

Department, through its many different offices, is taking the lead in helping prevent disease and disability in Texas.

P&W Information Programs Honored

For the fourth consecutive year, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's public information efforts during 1973 have been cited as outstanding among conservation agencies in the United States and Canada by the American Association for Conservation Information.

Three first place awards were won: for the department's news service; for "Texas Parks and Wildlife" magazine, and for a special information program on water safety education.

Second-place honors went to the Caddo Lake State Park interpretive center, in the exhibit category, and for the radio program "Texas Outdoors with Ernest Marsh", a Houston area broadcast feature.

It was the fifth time in seven years that the department magazine has been singled out as the top periodical published by a state natural resources agency. The news service has won three first places and a second in four years.

The awards were announced at the AACI annual conference in Annapolis, Md., earlier this mon-
