Over and over most every week our heart is made glad by experiences like this one... We had heard so many frightening stories about the book publishing game. We haven't made very much money but we are rich in heart warming experiences... Bless you

LIBRARY NOTES

EDITH BARNES

A memorial gift has been given to the library to be dedicated to the memory of Mr. H. T. Burton.

Measles are always around but its peak comes in March, April and May. There is an article about measles, the after affects and the newest and so far best vaccine against them, in the library.

The following are some quotes from the article: "In the next 24 hours, 10,000 children in this country will come down with a disease popularly supposed to be only a trifle, as much a part of growing up as scraped elbows and banged shins."

"Yet at least one of these youngsters with measles will not live to grow up. Three, who recover, will never be the same again—their bodies paralyzed or brain permanently and seriously damaged."

Nor does this begin to tell the grim story. Today, a whole new story — of measles as one of the most underrated of all diseases, far more devastating and in far more ways than even doctors ever supposed — is being spelled out by medical research. Reinvestigations have shown that:

"Any child who gets measles has a one out of five chance of developing a serious complication.

"Almost 50 per cent of youngsters who get measles—even those who suffer no immediate severe complications—will for as long as 1 year tend to be in poor health, miss more school than other children, require 4 times as much medical care.

"In half of the cases, actually 51 per cent, there is subtle brain envelopment. The child doesn't show it, but mildly abnormal EEG (electroencephalograms, or brain recordings) do. Says Dr. Morton Andelman of the Chicago Board of Health: There is growing evidence that this disease, even in mild form, may play a significant role as a cause of mental retardation, learning difficulties and personality changes."

"Many public health authorities hope that these findings will jolt millions of parents. For measles today is an unnecessary disease."

"The Schwarz-strain vaccine is expected to be released by the government and to be in doctors' hands by the time you read this."

A memorial gift has been given to the library dedicated to the memory of Mr. William M. Patten, brother of Mrs. Heckle Stark.

TEXAS HIGHWAYS CONTINUE GROWTH

One day in 1965 Texans will have another item for their celebrated grab-bag of brags. On that day the Texas Highway Department will have built more miles of Interstate Highways than any other state even plans to build under the current Interstate program, excepting only California. To put it another way, Texas in 1965 will have attained as many Interstate miles in about half the time as any other state, save one, will build in the Interstate program's entire 15-year construction-span.

Texas will arrive at this point when, some time in 1965, it will have opened 1,623 miles of Interstate Highways to traffic. That's the number of miles to be built by 1973 by the state of Illinois, which ranks behind Texas and California in extent of its Interstate Highway system.

"In other words," says State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer, "It may be assumed that in 1965 Texas will have more miles of Interstate Highways open to traffic than any other state except California will build by 1973. And the Texas Highway Department will have achieved this mark eight years before the scheduled completion date of all the nation's Interstate highways."

Texas was pretty close to its new record at the end of 1964. On December 1, the Interstate Highway system under rubber in Texas totaled 1,372 miles. Of the total, 1036 miles were complete to full Interstate standards while 336 miles were complete to stages adequate for present traffic.

The Aggie Club met recently to choose an Aggie Queen. Miss Deanna Dean, freshman from Amarillo, was elected to this place of honor. Miss Dean is also serving as editor of the new College newspaper, The Bulldog Banner. She is a new student on campus, having enrolled at the beginning of the Spring semester.

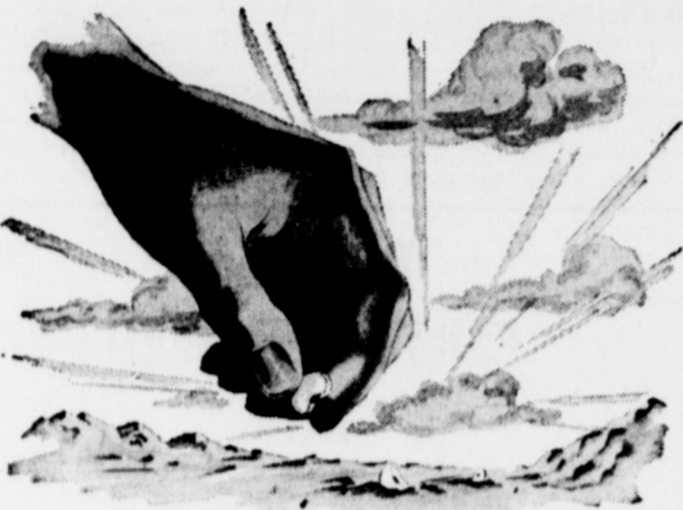

The Aggie Club is also reminding all readers of the rodeo which it is sponsoring on April 23 and 24. Three performances will be held—two night shows and one afternoon performance, at 8:00 and 2:00 P.M. respectively. There will be a full program of six events in each performance: bareback bronc riding, bull riding, tie-down, calf roping, ribbon roping, barrel racing, and pole bending. The rodeo will be open to high school and college participants only. A rodeo queen contest will also be held in connection with the rodeo. Any high school or college girl may enter. More about the contest rules later.

He was determined to keep it and was sneaking away. Just about that time Larry Gray slipped and grabbed at Ronnie for support, but got the magazine instead. It looked for a moment as if there was going to be a fight over it, so I solved the whole problem by taking the magazine and walking away. The moral of this fictional episode is: "For excitement, don't yell 'Fire! Fire!'; yell 'Playboy! Playboy!' A second moral is: "If a fire should break out while you're reading Playboy, throw the thing down and run! you're liable to get scorched otherwise. You're liable to get scorched anyway!"

Campus Chatter
by Steve Richerson

We had a little excitement up here on the hill the other day. Deanna Dean decided that life was too dull and took the liberty to walk out in the hall and scream, "Fire! Fire!" Unfortunately, at that moment, T'Rose Stepp was secretly reading a popular magazine. Deanna's screaming frightened her so much that she threw the magazine into the air and ran from the library. More unfortunate was the fact that Mr. Nutter was around to catch all the flying articles. Right before he could glance at the title, Punk Campbell dashed in and grabbed the magazine and rushed out again. Not looking where he was going he bumped into Jane Denny. She in turn fell against Dean Day, who was unsuccessfully trying to find out what the confusion was all about. During this commotion, the magazine went sailing to the feet of Mrs. Hamilton. Jack Hawkins made a wild dash for it, but grabbed her by mistake. The magazine came into Ronnie McAnear's posses-

Gamma Kappa-Delta Kappa Gamma Meets In Clarendon

Gamma Kappa Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met in Patching Club House Saturday afternoon, March 6, with Mrs. Velma Weaver, Miss Inez Blankenship, and Miss Edgar Mae Mongole serving as hostesses.

Meeting was opened with prayer followed by the business session presided over by the president, Miss Blankenship. Several committee reports were given and Miss Gertrude Watkins of Childress was initiated into the society in an impressive candle-lighting ceremony.

The program, "Nations of the Communist Bloc," was given in the form of a panel. Some worthwhile information in reference to the nations forming the block, failures of the United States in dealing with the Communists, and the social background of Communism were discussed. Two original poems were read as a tribute to Gamma Kappa Chapter on its 26th birthday.

A combination of the Saint Patrick and spring motifs were carried out in decoration. The table was centered with a miniature tree abloom with small spring hats. Cookies decorated in green, nuts, and green fruit punch were served. A three leaf clover was used as plate favors.

Twenty-two members were present from Childress, Collingsworth, Donley and Hall counties. Attending from Clarendon were Mesdames Hazel Brandon, Lucile Naylor, Velma Weaver, and Misses Inez Blankenship and Edgar Mae Mongole. —Rep.

GUIDE FOR INSECT CONTROL GIVEN

"The Texas Guide for Controlling Insects," L-218, has been revised to include the results of continuing research conducted throughout the state by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Entomology Research Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports County Agent Ronald Gooch.

He added that copies are now available from his office and urges all Donley County cotton producers to pick up a copy at their convenience.

The development of resistance to insecticides, deposit of harmful residues in the soil or on neighboring crops and destruction of beneficial insect parasites and predators dictate the judicious use of insecticides, explains the county agent. If possible, he says, their use should be restricted to actual need based on inspection.

The guide, in addition to listing the recommended control measures, points out many important factors involved in the overall problems of controlling cotton insects and the safe use of insecticides.

Oil insecticides are poisonous and the county agent emphasizes the need for using them in strict accordance with the manufacturer's labeled instructions.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

Gov. John Connally served notice on the U. S. Labor Department he doesn't like its directives that unskilled high school students in War on Poverty programs jobs must be paid more than some of their parents make.

Connally, needed by an unnamed Labor Department official, indignantly denied he is scuttling the new Neighborhood Youth Corps job project. But he made clear he won't approve applications of some 23 local school districts for participation in the program until he is sure they know what they are getting into.

NYC offers part-time jobs (10-15 hours a week) around schools and public agencies to youngsters 16-21 who are on the verge of becoming high school dropouts because of financial difficulties. Federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost and local participating units 10 per cent. But next year the cost will be shared 50-50.

Connally spoke out against the Labor Department ruling that students must be paid $1.25 per hour, the federal minimum wage. The 23 districts, before ruling was announced, proposed to pay rates ranging from 60 cents to $1.20 an hour. Originally, Labor Department had notified the districts wages "should be a little below the prevailing entry rates for inexperienced workers in similar occupations."

The $1.25 order came out after applications were filed.

"This action," protested Connally, "would place local school districts in the awkward and unrealistic position of paying inexperienced school age students of underprivileged families a rate or pay for casual chores that in many cases would exceed that of adult employees working in the same facility, the average earnings of their own parents, and the wages he himself might reasonably expect to earn the days immediately following school."

Furthermore, Connally noted, a directly parallel program for potential dropouts among college students administered by Department of Health, Education and Welfare pays 75 cents an hour upward.

House of Representatives applauded Connally's stand but specified it did not intend to criticize the President or his War on Poverty program.

COORDINATING BOARD APPROVED — Governor Connally's number one project of the session — creation of a powerful 18-member board to supervise all aspects of higher education in Texas — swept through both houses of the Legislature with the speed of a blue norther.

Legislators who opposed it — and there were only a few — had as much chance of stopping it as they would of forestalling a gathering storm.

After being guided through the House by Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria, the bill was picked up by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan in the Senate, where it went through without an amendment and was passed on to the governor for signing.

Connally has until September 1 to choose the 18 members of the board. They will replace the Texas Commission on Higher Education and will take on the task of directing all higher education from junior colleges through the university systems.

Board will decide what courses are to be offered by each institution. It was given the most far-reaching authority granted by the Legislature since the Railroad Commission was authorized to grant railroad permits. Present college boards of regents will continue to serve. But they will be responsible to the new overall coordinating board.

Another of the governor's education plans, to replace 12 separate boards of regents which govern the 22 state colleges and universities with three boards of university systems, had not yet been introduced when the coordinating board plan was adopted.

Some legislators feel the system board plan may have served to lessen the opposition to the coordinating board particularly among representatives from the colleges whose board would be abolished.

PESTICIDE PROTESTED — A cheap poison used against roaches and rats in many homes and in grain bins and warehouses can cause loss of hair and mental disturbances, physicians testified in a House committee hearing. In heavy doses, it can kill a person or leave him mentally incompetent, they said.

Doctors appeared at a public health committee hearing on a bill which would outlaw the sale, use or possession of poisons based on thallium compounds.

They said the poison can take effect upon even very brief exposures and that its symptoms are hard to diagnose. Some persons have been interned in mental hospitals before the real reason for their illness was discovered, they said. At present there is no known antidote to the poison except time.

MEDICAL AID PLANNED — Strategy designed to quickly pass a medical assistance bill as soon as Congress passes its expected new legislation has been announced by Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin. He is sponsor of a House bill to extend Kerr-Mills payments to elderly persons not on old-age pensions.

Wilson asked a House committee to report out his bill quickly so it could be passed on the floor and sent to the Senate. A Senate bill will not be considered until the federal legislation is enacted, he said. In this way, the Senate version can authorize participation in the new federal plans and the details can be worked out to the satisfaction of House members in a conference committee.

Old-age pensioners already are eligible for help on their medical bills through the federal-state program.

LIQUOR, RACING BILL HEARINGS SET — Horse racing and "small bottles" liquor bills are expected to turn out some of the biggest crowds at legislative hearings this month.

Bill by Rep. Maurice Pipkin of Brownsville to legalize parimutuel betting on horse racing will be heard by House State Affairs Committee on March 29.

Edinburg Sen. Jim Bates' bill to permit sale of two-ounce bottles of liquor by restaurants will get hearing before Senate jurisprudence committee on March 16.

San Antonio Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment of his own to legalize horse racing on a local option basis in Bexar, Cameron, Dallas, Hidalgo, Harris, Galveston, Midland, Tarrant and Webb counties.

Only teacher pay raises attract more mail to lawmakers than parimutuel wagering and liquor-by-the-drink legislation. This year, there's strong support on, as well as opposition to, both propositions.

"SPENDING" RULE ROW FLARES — Tightening of a joint House-Senate banning consideration of single-purpose spending measures ahead of the general appropriations bill may mean the difference in the type of pay raise teachers get this year.

Senators adopted 22-9 a "compromise" version of a stricter House-passed Joint Rule 9-A effective only during the first 120 days of the session. The House is expected to agree.

Opponents say the rule still will prevent even a committee hearing of teacher pay bills until last 20 days of the session—or until the budget is adopted and certified by the comptroller.

Teachers fear the delay will be used to gain support for Connally's long-range, graduated pay bill, which they claim gives them far less than their own 45-a-month across-the-board raise proposal.

CITIES ASK SALES TAX — Spokesmen for cities urged a legislative committee to recommend that cities be given authority to levy local sales taxes up to one per cent if citizens vote approval in special elections.

They said they have gone about as far as they can with raising property taxes and need additional sources of revenue to provide necessary services.

Union representatives argued there still is plenty mileage left in property tax. Also a local tax would hit little people harder and lighten the load on those most able to pay.

In House revenue and tax committee hearing at same time, tobacco industry spokesmen said a bill to raise the cigarette tax a penny a pack would be a serious blow to them.

Both bills went to sub-committee.

By Congressman Walter Rogers

TARGET: THE MAN BEHIND THE GUN

Crimes are committed by criminals—not by the guns they carry. In the clamor for legislation requiring citizens to register their firearms, this is the point so often minimized. The Constitution's second amendment assures to all U. S. citizens the right "to keep and bear arms." This right, declares the second amendment, "shall not be infringed." Over the years, I have been among those in Congress who have fought hard against repeated attempts to infringe upon this right, usually through legislation requiring registration in one form or another.

These proposals for firearms registration have been designed to suppress crime by making the acquisition of guns more difficult for persons bent on committing criminal acts. However, it is difficult to present a case supporting the contention that criminals would be in the slightest deterred from committing hold-ups or murders because the law requires that firearms be registered. The criminal would simply refuse to register his gun, while the good citizen—the sportsman and gun collectors—must put up with red tape and pay supporting taxes in what would be a complex and expensive-to-administer government program.

No one can be critical of well-intentioned efforts to suppress crime. Certainly an increasing rate of crime and delinquency is one of the very serious problems facing the United States. We all should be thinking about ways and means of accomplishing the objective of crime suppression. But I am convinced that enactment of proposed Federal firearms registration laws would accomplish nothing toward this end.

A member of the Texas Delegation, Congressman Bob Casey of Houston, Texas, has recently introduced a bill providing a mandatory 25-year penitentiary sentence for anyone using or carrying firearms during any robbery, assault, murder, rape, burglary, or kidnapping. Congressman Casey takes the position that this would aim the arrow of enforcement at the criminal rather than at the piece of steel he wields, yet would not be an infringement upon the Constitutional rights of citizens who employ firearms for legitimate purposes.

President Johnson, in his State of the Union address, called for a panel of "outstanding experts to search out answers to the national problems of crime and delinquency." The President is not asking for establishment of a national police force, having repeatedly stated that crime is basically a local problem to be combatted most effectively by local law enforcement. But by calling for national focus on the problem, the President seems to be hoping to arouse citizen interest in stimulating local efforts directed at crime prevention and control. The panel he will appoint will undoubtedly be comprised of law enforcement officers, judges, prosecutors, criminologists, and other experts in fields bearing on crime and its control. The President will ask their recommendations on specific ways to improve training of local law enforcement officers, to put the best techniques of modern science at their disposal, to discover the causes of crime and better ways to prevent it. In the latest year for which FBI figures are available, 1963, more than two-and-a-quarter million serious crimes were reported in the United States. The trend continues sharply upward, with crimes in the serious categories up 10 percent in 1963 over 1962. Crime is increasing five times faster than our population. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said recently, "If we are to reverse our national crime trend, the average citizen must have a better comprehension of its cost in human suffering and economic loss." Recent Visitors: Dr. James P. Cornette and Dr. Emmitt Smith of West Texas State University, Canyon; Pat Flynn Jr. of Amarillo; Tom Moran of Dumas; Dr. R. F. McCasland of Tulia; and Mrs. C. C. Bridgewater of Amarillo.

Blondie By Chic Young

ANNUAL ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATION TO BE HELD AT SHAMROCK

The Irish city of Shamrock is rolling out the green carpet for the 19th annual St. Patrick's Day celebration, March 17th, and J. C. McCleskey, general chairman of this year's festival, extends a warm welcome to the residents of this area to attend.

Committees have worked long hours arranging a day-long program jam-packed with Irish type entertainment. A pre-St. Patrick Day banquet is scheduled for Tuesday evening, March 16th, at the Armory at which time Attorney General Waggoner Carr will be guest speaker. The pomp and pageantry of Ould Ireland will be in evidence all day Wednesday, March 17th, highlighted by a parade at 11 a.m. built around more than 30 beautifully decorated floats and at least 20 marching bands.

Miss Irish Rose will be chosen from a bevy of 23 colleens from over the area and will be crowned in an impressive ceremony at the Armory during the afternoon. Western music, an old Fiddler's contest, and a carnival will also be a part of the program. Concluding the program will be four dances offering a variety of music styles to please the taste of everyone.

The famous Appian Way from Rome to Capua was wide enough to permit wagons to pass one another.

FARM NEWS

from County ASCS Committee

COTTON REAPPORTIONMENT

The final date to either release or request extra cotton was March 3. In our county 6,357 acres were requested by 363 producers and only 265.7 acres were released. This released cotton along with any we may get from the State Office will be apportioned within the next few days.

REVISING WHEAT INTENTIONS

Several farmers have revised their wheat diversion intentions from the way they were signed last fall. From now through March 26, is the only time you may revise your intentions either up or down. If you do not change your intention, performance will be determined according to the original signed form.

FEED GRAIN & WHEAT SUBSTITUTION

Some producers in our county have misunderstood the substitution provision of the 1965 Feed Grain Program. You must sign up to divert at least the minimum for both feed grain and wheat and then be overplanted on one of these commodities before the provision will apply. You do not sign up to substitute: it will be determined during performance.

FINAL DATES TO REMEMBER

- March 26 — To sign to participate in 1965 Feed Grain Program.
- March 26 — To sign to participate in 1965 Domestic Cotton Program.
- March 26 — To correct 1965 Wheat Intentions.
- March 15 — To request cotton premeasurement.
- March 31 — To redeem CCC Wheat & Grain Sorghum Loans.
- April 30 — To apply for CCC Price Support Loan on 1964 cotton.

To The Citizens Of Clarendon:

March 11, 1965
After careful consideration I have submitted an application to have my name placed before you as a candidate for Mayor of the City of Clarendon.

First, let me assure my patients that neither they nor my practice of medicine shall be neglected as a result of this decision. I shall continue my practice as in the past. In the event of my absence from the city on city business there will be medical assistance available as always.

Second, let me assure all citizens of Clarendon that I am sincere in my desire to serve as a representative of our city. With the aid of the City Administrator and our five aldermen I feel that I can faithfully discharge the duties as Mayor.

Third, I have been encouraged, by both patients and friends, to accept this obligation. It has been stressed that we, as a community, need to begin to work together for the betterment of Clarendon. Clarendon can be a progressive city, a good place to live, for young and old alike, with good schools, churches and businesses. With the help of the City Administrator, the aldermen, and you, the citizens of Clarendon, I will try my utmost to further this cause and will serve you as mayor to the best of my ability.

Thank you,
Richard L. Gilkey, M. D.

SAFETY INSPECTION DEADLINE APRIL 15

There will be no extension of the Motor Vehicle Safety Inspection deadline of April 15, 1965, announced Captain Alan Johnson of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, Texas Department of Public Safety, for this area.

"Only two million of the five and a quarter million registered vehicles in Texas have been inspected. This leaves over three million vehicles to be inspected in about five weeks," said Captain Johnson. Many thousands of vehicle owners can expect to wait in long lines in order to get their vehicles inspected by the April 15 deadline.

It is almost apparent now that many vehicle owners have waited too long for the inspection stations to safety inspect their vehicles by April 15. "Any driver operating a vehicle registered in Texas that is required to be inspected, on public roads after April 15 without a valid inspection sticker will be operating in violation of the law," stated the Captain.

The DPS supervisor said, "The purpose of the motor vehicle inspection program is to discover any maladjustment which might become a link in a cycle of events leading to an accident, and by removing the link, prevent the accident."
