Syd Blue Robbery Solved

The Donley County Sheriff's Office has arrested four suspects and charged them with the aggravated robbery of Syd Blue's convenience store on January 2nd. All were arrested between Monday and Wednesday of last week. They were arraigned on the afternoon of the 24th.

Alton Lee Gaines, 26, Johnny Gaines, 25, Marcus Smith, 20 and Danny McCampbell were charged with the crime. All are from Clarendon.

The men allegedly entered the store around 9:00 p.m. on January 2, robbed the attendant and struck her repeatedly in the head, possibly thinking that they had killed her. They then fled to Amarillo.

The stolen cash register was recovered a few days later. The man who found the cash register saw a notice in The Clarendon Press and contacted Sheriff Jimmy Thompson. Finger prints on the cash register were eventually matched to one of the suspects.

Aggravated robbery carries a sentence of five years to life imprisonment.

Officers participating in the arrest were Sheriff Jimmy Thompson, Mike Spier and Joe Neal Shadle.

In other law enforcement activities, on May 22nd the Sheriff's Office arrested Jimmy Reese of Clarendon on charges of sexually assaulting an Amarillo woman.

Deputies also arrested Robert Nicholson of Dallas on unauthorized use of a credit card, a 3rd degree felony, and for possession of drug paraphernalia. On May 24th, they arrested Martha Shaw of Mabank, Texas, for theft. Sheriff's deputies also confiscated five kegs and numerous cases of beer from teen-agers. Most of the youths were from Amarillo, White Deer, River Road and LeFors. In the last month the department has seized over $1,300 worth of beer from minors, a significant part of which was from Clarendon juveniles. Some of it was purchased in Memphis, which is supposedly dry.

Sheriff Thompson has high praise for his deputies. He said, "Many people do not realize how hard these officers work. Many days they may put in fourteen hours. The deputies are averaging about twelve hours per day. And there is a lot of stress."

The monthly report from the department will be issued about the middle of the month.

Clarendon League Baseball

The Senior League team played Saturday night in Panhandle. Clarendon was ahead until the 5th inning when Panhandle pulled ahead by one run. The final score was 9-10. Our pitcher for this game was Gabriel Menchaca. Keep up the good work, boys! The next two games are Tuesday night (5-30) in Skellytown and Friday night (6-2) in Hedley. Both games start at 7 p.m.

The Big League team played a doubleheader against Wellington on Sunday afternoon. The first game, Clarendon won with a score of 6-5. The winning pitcher was Jonathan Stewart. The second game was lost by Clarendon but considering some of these boys have not played baseball in at least 3 years, they made a very good showing. This is the first time Clarendon has had a Big League team for ages 16-18 year olds in ten years. The boys played exceptionally well and we look forward to a great season! The next game will be 7 p.m. on Wednesday in Wellington. The Big League team roster is: Chad Hommel, Randy Gaines, Jeffrey Henson, Nugget Bland, Jared Estes, Michael Shadle, Jonathan Stewart, Kenny Tolbert, Donnie Chambliss, Kevin Curly-Groom, Tx, Clem Weather-ton and Randy Allen. The coach is Norman Stewart and he is assisted by Arthur Harris.

Hotline Offered For Older Texans

Often, the people who need a lawyer the most can least afford one. A new service, the Legal Hotline for Older Texans, is now being offered to any Texan (60 years of age or older).

"We want this to be a first resort for older Texans when they have problems or questions about legal matter," said Randall Chapman,

Safe Boating Legislation Passed

Two significant positive developments will greet the 4.5 million Texans who enjoy recreational boating as they observe Texas Safe Boating Week June 4-10. During this period boaters are urged to "Know Before You Go," the reminder being promoted by the National Safe Boating Council and the Boating Trades Association of Texas (BTAT).

Boaters can learn proper planning and on-the-water procedures from a new video being produced by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department with a $10,000 grant from BTAT. The 15-minute production will soon be distributed to boat dealers and boater education teachers throughout the state. In addition more and more operator safety courses are becoming available statewide.

This year's emphasis on safety also will have new meaning due to recently passed legislation which gives law enforcement officers the tools necessary to properly enforce the existing law prohibiting persons from operating a boat while intoxicated. Although it has been illegal since 1959 to operate a boat while intoxicated, prosecutions have been scarce due to legal technicalities.

"We welcome this legislation as a positive step to help ensure that boating remains a safe and wholesome activity for the whole family," said Gene Schkade, BTAT president. "Those few irresponsible boaters who choose not to use alcohol wisely have no right to jeopardize the safety of the vast majority of boaters who use good judgment on the water."

Senate Bill 276 was authored by Sen. Carl Parker (D-Port Arthur) and sponsored in the Texas House by Rep. Barry Connelly (R-Houston). The new law will bring about the following improvements:

* Clearly make operation of a moving vessel while under the influence of alcohol over .10 blood alcohol a violation of the Water Safety Act.

* Provide for the enhancement of penalties in the case of more than one conviction for boating while intoxicated in a five-year period, or when the operator is involved in an accident in which severe injury or death occurred.

* Provide that the operator of a vessel is understood to have given their consent to take a breath, blood or other test if requested to by a law officer. There is no penalty for refusing to take such a test, but the refusal can be used against the operator in the courts.

The legislation does not:

* Prohibit open containers of alcoholic beverages on board any vessel.

* Prohibit the operator or passengers from consuming alcohol while on board or underway.

* Require mandatory jail time for offenders, although the court can impose jail time if desired.

* Apply to any vessel that is propelled solely by the water current. However, other provisions of the Water Safety Act do prevent anyone from operating any type of water craft in an unsafe or hazardous manner.

"We urge everyone who does enjoy alcoholic beverages while boating to use good judgement," Schkade said. "Boat operators should turn off the key if there is a question whether they have had too much to drink. That way, everyone can have a safe and fun-filled trip every time on the water."

The Boating Trades Association supported passage of the legislation from its inception. "We applaud the author, sponsors and members for taking this responsible action," Schkade said. "They have helped make our waterways safer for all Texans."

Letters To The Editor

As we approach the end of the 71st session of the Texas Legislature, more than 3 million Texas schoolchildren and a quarter of a million educators are patiently awaiting the answer to a common question: Will the Texas Legislature finally realize that education in Texas is in trouble, and the time to make the necessary financial commitment to quality education is now, not the next biennium or next century?

Why is it that Texas, a state ranked number 1 out of 50 in state pride, pays its teachers a below-national average salary? Why is it that Texas currently ranks 38 out of the 50 states in what it spends from state coffers on education? Why is it that when the Legislature does pass something of significance for education, it relies on the already severely overburdened local property tax system to pay for it?

The 50,000-member Association of Texas Professional Educators firmly believes that education is the most important commitment Texas will ever make to its citizens. Even more than a commitment, ATPE believes that education is an investment, and the rate of investment return depends on the wisdom used to make the investment and the resources dedicated. We have a strong heritage of commitment to public education in Texas, but apparently that commitment doesn't extend beyond the ballot box. Isn't it time to quit talking and start funding? Isn't it time to begin paying more than just lip service to education?

There are more than 3 million schoolchildren and a quarter of a million educators patiently awaiting an answer.

Sincerely,
Patty Ruth

VIVA! ORTEGA
Is this to be the call used in Clarendon? I was under the impression that a City Election was held the first of May. Was I wrong in thinking that? Didn't the people go to the polls and put on the ballot what they wanted? No, I guess that they did not. A man was removed from office. The people had expressed their desires. What happened? Our City Government ignored their wishes. He was put back into an office. Isn't this the same thing that happened in Panama?

We have people in City Government that ran for office just for their own selfish wants. After they got what they wanted, they wanted no more of the job and do not wish to run the City for the best interest of the people. This is not a job for someone just to be in but one for a person who wants to look out for the best interest of the people of Clarendon. Not to spend money on foolish things but to try and take care of the neglect that has transpired over the past few decades.

Our early City Fathers put down brick streets that with a minimum of care would last for generations. Look at them now. Look at the concrete repair job in front of the City Library. Was this done by someone who cares?

Now that George Bush is out of the country, do you know who is in charge?
Cleo Russell

On 6 May 1989 the citizens of Clarendon went to the polls to elect a mayor and two aldermen. As you are aware, the citizens elected a new mayor (Jim Sharrar). There was also an unexpired term on the Board of Aldermen that needed to be filled. The Board filled that vacancy on 23 May with the Ex-Mayor!

If the citizens had wanted the incumbent, they would have re-elected him to a second term. I do not understand how the Board-which is also elected by the people-could override the citizens wishes and fill the vacancy in this manner. Name withheld upon request

Private Sales Checked Off

The Texas Beef Industry Council recently enclosed a Monthly Report Form with its fiscal year 1987-1988 annual report that was mailed to 85,000 Texas cattle producers. In the country, some cattlemen assumed that, because the Beef Promotion Monthly Report Form was enclosed, they had to turn it in or were required to make an annual sales summary. This form was enclosed for private treaty transactions.

If you buy a bull in the country you are responsible for checking off $1 per head and remitting these funds to the Texas Beef Industry Council.

Some producers are confused over whether private treaty sales should be checked off. The answer is "Yes". All cattle sales must be checked off.

In private treaty sales, it is solely the buyer's responsibility to deduct the $1 per head. These checkoff funds and a Monthly Report Form must be received in TBIC offices by the 15th of the month following the sale. This form, when received in TBIC offices, fulfills the seller's obligation as well.

For more information contact the Texas Beef Industry Council at 8310 Capital of Texas Highway N., Suite 440, Austin, Texas 78731; (512) 345-3531.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Rangeland Grass Yields

Ranchers in the southeastern Texas Panhandle, battling the encroachment of goldaster over 350,000 acres of rolling rangeland, have found that effective control of the half-shrub more than doubles grass production.

Coordinated demonstrations in Gray, Donley and Wheeler counties during the last five years show that herbicide treatments can more than pay for themselves and that late April through May is the best time to treat these "range robbers", said Joe Van Zandt, Gray County Extension Agent.

Goldasters are highly competitive with native grasses. Where they occur in dense stands, goldasters substantially reduce forage production on ranges and pastures. Areas infested with goldasters often produce only a third the grass which is produced on similar areas free of these perennial half-shrubs of the sunflower family.

Results of demonstrations since 1985 on thirteen plots in the three counties shows that control of goldaster brought an average increase of 2.5 times the grass yield on untreated plots.

Testing was done in Donley County on the Chester Lambert and Fred Watt farms (1984-85, 87), the James Shaw and Joe Magee farms in Gray County (1985-88), and Sweetwater Creek Farms in Wheeler County (1985-87).

"On the Sweetwater Creek, Shaw and Magee farms, we have three years of grass production data from areas where we sprayed moderately thick stands of goldaster," Van Zandt said.

On those plots the treated areas, where nearly all weed growth has remained controlled, produced an average of 2,155 pounds of air dry grass per acre. Untreated plots yielded an average of 971 pounds per acre, for an average difference of 1,184 pounds an acre, or 222 percent.

Herbicides to control goldaster may cost from $6 to $11 an acre, Van Zandt said. But the increase in range grass production can more than offset that cost, he said.

Studies conducted since 1975 by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Extension Service show several herbicides or combinations which are effective in goldaster control. Proven most effective were:

- * 1 pound per acre of 2,4-D low volatile ester (1 quart per acre of 4-pounds per gallon material). This will cost about $6 per acre and in five separate demonstrations in Gray County it has provided 82 to 100 percent control.

- * 1 pound per acre of Grazon P+D (1:4 mixture of picloram and 2,4-D amine; 1.6 quarts per acre). Application cost is about $11 per acre.

- * 1 pound per acre tank mixture of 0.2 pound picloram plus 0.8 pound 2,4-D low volatile ester (12.8 ounces Grazon PC + 25.6 ounces 2,4-D low volatile ester per acre). Cost is about $11 per acre.

- * 1 pound per acre of Weedmaster (1:3 mixture of dicamba and 2,4-D amine; 1 quart per acre). Cost is $8-$9 an acre.

- * 1 pound per acre tank mixture of 0.25 pound dicamba plus 0.75 pound 2,4-D low volatile ester (half pint of Banvel + 1-1/2 pints of 2,4-D LVE per acre). Cost is $8-$9 an acre.

The studies show that tank mixtures using 2,4-D low volatile ester (LVE) have been more effective than using 2,4-D amine. Best results have been obtained when a diesel oil-water emulsion is used as the carrier rather than water alone.

Van Zandt said that in the last two years the three Panhandle County Agents and Extension Service Range and Brush Control Specialists have begun studying some new treatments with other herbicides, such as Ally. These need additional evaluation, he said.

Graduate Course Offered To Area Teachers

The West Texas Center for Economic Education will offer the special graduate credit course "Economics in the Social Sciences" July 17-August 1 on the West Texas State University campus in Canyon. The course, designed for kindergarten through sixth grade teachers, emphasizes the Texas essential elements and relevant basic concepts. Attention will be focused on the review, illustration and application of proven audio-visual and other resource materials for effectively teaching economic concepts in the elementary classroom.

The instructor is Dr. Clint Daniels, associate professor of economics and director of the West Texas Center for Economic Education at WTSU.

Classes will be conducted from 8:15 a.m.-noon Monday through Thursday, July 17-Aug. 1. The fee for the 10-class sessions is $26.50, including tuition and classroom support materials. The center is able to sponsor the course at this reduced fee because of a grant by the Amarillo Area Foundation with funds from its supporting organization, the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation.

Although the course may be taken without formal admission to the WTSU graduate program, it is encouraged for those who may want to apply credit toward a WTSU degree.

The course is limited to 20 participants, and applications will be accepted until July 10 on a first-come, first-served basis.

The West Texas Center for Economic Education will also offer the "Second Annual Panhandle Energy Institute for Educators," designed for junior, middle and high school teachers, June 5-23 and "Teaching the Economics of the Food and Fiber System," designed for kindergarten through sixth grade teachers, June 26-July 12.

"Our service will place a lot of emphasis on public benefits and health care. I believe our primary clients, elderly on low, fixed-incomes, are in dire need of these particular services."

O.P. (Bob) Bobbitt, executive director of the Texas Department on Aging, believes the Hotline will enhance the efforts of his department in providing legal services to the elderly. "This hotline will be a very useful resource to the elderly, especially the homebound and those who may be institutionalized. We are presently enhancing our efforts in the area of benefits counseling and legal services are certainly an integral part of it," he said.

The Legal Hotline for Older Texans is primarily supported by a grant from the American Association of Retired Persons, with additional in-kind support from the State Bar of Texas and the Texas Department on Aging.

The Legal Hotline for Older Texans toll-free statewide number is 1-800-444-9114. Austin residents may call 477-3950.

THE BULL,

THE BEAR

...OR THE BANKER?

Stock market investments can be very inviting. Everybody, it seems, knows "this guy" who knows "this other guy" who made a real killing in a big bull market. Of course, behind every Cinderella story there's another tale—of uncertainty and vulnerability.

Unfortunately, the stock market often takes a downward turn. The rampaging bull can become a lumbering bear, changing dreams of an easy "killing" into harsh reality.

Not so at our bank. In addition to an impressive range of investments—such as our new money market accounts—we offer things that stocks and mutual funds can't. Like risk-free protection of principal. Assured rates of interest. And the soothing security of Federal Deposit Insurance by the F.D.I.C.

So, while we won't promise to make you rich overnight—we will make a risk-free guarantee on your tomorrow.

That's the bare facts. With no bull. (© 1989 AMERICAN BANKERS ASSOCIATION)

Life in Clarendon

Parenting teen-agers is not terminal; it just feels that way sometimes. Perhaps that's why it feels so good when a fellow parent pulls off a good parenting episode with particular aplomb. A week or so ago a local parent accomplished a singular feat. His story follows. The names have been changed to protect the parent.

Douglas has a son who has reached the ripe old age of 15 years. Like most specimens with such vast experience in living, this son knows about everything there is to know about life. If you don't believe it, you won't have to ask. He'll tell you.

Now Douglas' son, Shadrach, is basically a good kid. He just has a disease called adolescence—a temporary form of manic/depressive compulsion. He has two friends: Meshach and Abendigo.

Now on the day in question, Douglas had been conned into taking Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo to Amarillo (that's not a fictional name—it's the new name for the place formerly called Ragtown, back before the railroads and the postmaster renamed everything). Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo wanted to go to the Mall. Since (at that time) they had not been unlicensed on the unsuspecting public with a driver's license, they had to persuade some parent to chauffeur them. By some cruel turn of fate, the lot fell on Douglas. And during the interminable hour between Clarendon and Ragtown, Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo insisted on listening to the radio.

"Listening" may not be the correct verb. Authorities on the subject contend that homo sapiens the age of Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo never listen, even to the radio. And the trio had turned up the speakers so high that there was some danger that passing locomotives might be vibrated off the Burlington Northern tracks that parallel the highway.

Now in months past, Douglas had tried all the traditional parental lectures on loud speakers. He had explained the fact that excessive sound levels lead to permanent hearing loss. He attempted to appeal to his offspring's compassion for the elderly. He even resorted to that last resort of distraught parents—authority. All his words fell on deaf ears.

Now old Douglas is pretty crafty, maybe even downright cunning. And he has a pretty good understanding of adolescent psychology. He decided on an indirect approach.

As they rolled along, Douglas started his plan. Banking on the power of the subconscious (teen-agers don't listen, remember?) he slyly remarked, "Boys, that music just moves me so, I'm just gonna hafta start dancin'!"

No response. A few miles down the road Douglas started waving his elbows and bouncing his shoulders. His passengers gave him a strange look, but didn't say anything.

He made a few more discrete comments and a few subtle moves. The passengers did not seem to notice, but Douglas grinned slyly. The plan was working.

Once at the Mall, Douglas watched for the perfect opportunity. It was not long in coming.

The local record shop had a line at the door. And the stereo turned up to seismic levels. The boys dutifully lined up in the que. And Douglas struck! With no warning he started dancing. Right there in the Mall, he started shaking his hands in the air, shuffling his feet and wiggling his body.

Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo were thunderstruck. Their mouths dropped open and their feet froze to the bricks.

Douglas turned around and said, "Come on, Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo, how can you resist that beat!"

Now Hell hath no torture more excruciating than adolescent embarrassment. Shadrach, Meshach and Abendigo disappeared from the face of the earth for an eternity, or at least thirty minutes.

Back at the car, they were unusually subdued.

On the way back, no one even tried to turn on the radio.

Miss Range Rider Pageant Open

More than $500 in prizes is up for grabs in this year's Miss Range Rider Rodeo Pageant, a competition conducted by the Will Rogers Range Riders to select a queen for the organization's annual July rodeo.

The Miss Range Rider Rodeo Pageant will be held Saturday, June 24, at the Will Rogers Range Rider Arena located on Business Highway 40 (Amarillo Boulevard West), near the Bell Street overpass. Contestants should be between the ages of 16 and 24 as of January 1, 1989. They must be single, never have been married, nor ever had children.

The judges will evaluate contestants during modeling, personal interviews and horsemanship competition to determine the top contestant overall in four categories: appearance, personality, horsemanship and knowledge of rodeo. A first runner-up also will be selected.

The Will Rogers Range Riders and several Amarillo merchants are sponsoring awards for the pageant, including a trophy buckle, hand-tooled breast collar, custom tiara, portrait package, clothing gift certificates and complimentary haircut.

Miss Range Rider Rodeo 1989 will be crowned during the first performance of the 51st Annual Will Rogers Range Rider Rodeo, Friday, June 30. She will reign over the Rodeo, June 30-July 3, appearing in each grand entry and meeting spectators. In addition, Miss Range Rider Rodeo will help promote next year's rodeo through personal appearances and radio and television interviews.

The Will Rogers Range Rider Rodeo is the third largest amateur rodeo in Texas. It traditionally draws cowboys and cowgirls from the five-state area and attracts spectators from across the United States.

The reigning Miss Range Rider Rodeo is Leslie Sowder of Amarillo. The 25-year-old blonde is the Coordinator of Information Services at the American Quarter Horse Association. Her parents are Bobby and Linda Sowder of Centerville, Iowa.

Interested applicants should contact Sowder at (806) 358-6392 or Travis Barker, the Miss Range Rider Rodeo Chairman, at (806) 622-1614. Deadline for entry is Friday, June 16.

"Global ReLeaf" Can Give Relief

The aim of Global ReLeaf is simple: plant a tree and cool the globe.

Global ReLeaf, a national tree-planting campaign by the American Forestry Association, is aimed at reducing high temperatures caused by too much carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

"Present global temperatures are the highest since records have been kept," said Dr. Michael J. Walterscheidt, forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This global warming, or "greenhouse effect," results when carbon traps the sun's rays, Walterscheidt said. This creates a global hothouse.

"Trees could help cool the globe because they use carbon dioxide to grow while producing life giving oxygen," said the forestry specialist.

But, instead, trees remain under attack.

Tropical zones are losing forests to agricultural conversion at an estimated rate of 27-28 million acres per year, and city expansions replace trees with acres of concrete every day. If present trends continue, scientists estimate the level of atmospheric carbon dioxide will double, raising U.S. temperatures 6 to 12 degrees F. in a few decades.

"Trees planted around homes and in communities would break up 'heat islands' by shading buildings and concrete, Walterscheidt said. "Three well-placed trees around a house can cut home air conditioning energy needs by 10-50 percent."

Global ReLeaf encourages Americans to plant and care for trees in yards and around towns. The program's goal is to get people to plant 100 million trees in communities by 1992.

These 100 million trees could offset America's carbon dioxide emissions by 18 million tons a year and at the same time save American consumers $4 billion annually in energy costs, according to American Forestry Association estimates.

Trees planted in rural forests could offset up to one-third of the current carbon dioxide produced by burning fossil fuel, said Walterscheidt.

"Global ReLeaf is designed to make Americans aware of 'missing trees' in their communities and how replacing these trees can help reduce carbon dioxide and global temperatures," he said.

The Way We Were

by Naoma Spann

This is the fifth and last article concerning the Goldston Community.

Rural life, USA, witnessed fast-paced changes with the beginning of World War II. There was a national pattern of migration from the farms to the towns and cities. The Goldston community was no exception. Even so, the farms took on a new look-- that of a growing prosperity. Conservation practices had been introduced in the late thirties and were now noticeably workable. The efficiency of modern farm equipment and machinery helped the work force that was now fighting the wars. The elements were kind to the community during those years, and farm prices were good. As the economy improved, the half-section farms increased in size, either by purchase of the land or by rental.

Clarendon had become the commercial center for the out-lining rural communities by the end of the war. However, Goldston held strong in the old tradition of communal living. There was a quilting club, and a baseball team was organized. Although the school house still held its position of prominence, Sunday School, church services and social activities were still held there. In 1957, however, a tornado destroyed the building. The last public monument of an unforgettable era of time was gone.

There is, however, an older and equally memorable monument that still exists. It is, ironically, one of the first dwellings of the Goldston community and was built by its founding namesake, J.J. ("Uncle Jack") Goldston.

The house was built in 1900 and is located about a quarter of a mile due south of the old country club (now Quivera Girl Scout Camp). The house and part of the land was inherited by a son, Walter. The Walter Goldstons occupied the house until they died. Walters's daughter Verna B. Goldston Blanks, now owns the property.

The original farm residence has been maintained, in mint condition, by Verna B. and her husband, Dee Blanks. An exception is that indoor plumbing was added around 1960; otherwise it is essentially the same as when it was built.

Although the land has been leased for many years, the Blanks, who live in Amarillo, always have a summer garden there and the comfortably furnished house is used as a weekend/vacation retreat.

Come join the Blanks and others in a first Goldston Community Reunion, July 15th, at the Clarendon Community Center, beginning at 10 a.m. and featuring a Pot Luck Luncheon at noon. Bring a dish or two to be served community style.

Hedley Gets New Reporter

Jon Leggett has been named the new reporter for the community of Hedley. Leggett is the son of the late publisher of The Hedley Informer. He is a teacher in the Hedley school system and a member of the First Baptist Church of Hedley.

Bob Williams, editor of The Clarendon Press, announced the appointment. "We're proud of this arrangement," said Williams, "We expect Jon to do a good job. Hedley citizens who want to get information into the newspaper can give it to Jon or leave it for him at Hedley Senior Citizens Center. We feel he has the confidence and respect of the community."

Leggett replaces Nina Riddespurger who had reported Hedley activities for several years. She resigned because her new business in Clarendon requires too much time to allow any other activities. "Nina did a good job," said editor Williams, "We hate to lose her, but we wish her well at The Donut Stop."

Leggett has contributed to the Doorpost column for some time.

Deuteronomy 6:7-9

THE BURDEN

by Mack Garrison

"Oh! Life is such a burden!" You hear people say. The weather is a burden, the financial situation of this country is a burden, and relationships are burdens. It seems everything associated with life and living tends to become burdens.

Our youth are growing up under what could be termed as the heaviest burden of all. How far can we go before we all experience the realization of that old saying: "That's the straw that broke the camel's back!" Is there an answer to life's steady pace of burden after burden? Jesus said, "YES."

"Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me for I am meek and lowly in heart and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy and my BURDEN is light."

--Jesus

Christ-- (Matt.11:28-30)

The word BURDEN, used in this quotation of Jesus, if it were written in the original Greek would look something like this: Phortion. The literal meaning of this word, translated in English as "burden", is to lay something of value on another. To carry something of great value for someone else. To bear an object of great price with honor. What a magnificent thing Jesus has said to us if we would but let it sink in!

In Genesis 22 we find a wonderful story of Abraham, God's man, and Isaac, the promised son. Abraham loved Isaac like no other father loved his son. He waited a very long lifetime for him and cherished him with great love. Then one day God told Abraham to take Isaac up to a place that God had chosen and sacrifice him there as a burnt offering. To make a long story short, he did what God commanded of him by faith. But God stayed the hand of Abraham from taking Isaac's life. And there completed this marvelous picture of our redemption. Abraham played the part of God the Father, Isaac played the part of Jesus the Son. But who played the part of you and me? Look in Gen.22:3 and you will find us. We are the donkey. You and I carried this load of wood as if some terrible burden of life to the mount, but there at the foot of the mount in verse 6 Abraham took the burden off our back and put it on his son. And I believe after the ordeal was over that Abraham being full of joy brought Isaac his son down from that old mountain and placed him (Phortion) on the back of the donkey for the ride home. Could you imagine a more joyous burden for the donkey to carry but the son.

Why can't we see that we too must meet Jesus at the foot of the old mountain with our burdens. And there give them to God to burn up like wood. Then there to be given the risen Son of the Most High God to carry for a burden of great price.

Psalm 38:4--"For mine iniquities are gone over mine head as a heavy burden, they are too heavy for me!"

Psalm 55:22--"Cast thy burden upon the Lord and he shall sustain thee. . .!"

I'm a grateful donkey! One day I knelt and let God have my burden of sin and took in its place the burden of His Son. Hallelujah!

Trail Ride

Five Clarendon men, made the Memorial trailride this year. The Panhandle Heritage Memorial Trialride was sponsored by the Randall County Sheriffs Posse of Canyon. The Chapter of The Texas Head Injury Foundation has worked tirelessly to bring to this area a greater awareness of the need for specially trained personal and designed equipment for the head-injury victims and their families.

To ride in the trailride you either must donate $135. to the Head Injury Foundation or have someone sponsor you. The ride starts with breakfast at the Tom Christian ranch, South of Claude, Saturday morning and goes to the Caprock State Park some 75 miles in length with overnight camp at Coon Creek.

This year, the trail was fought with problems of high winds, rattlesnakes and quicksand, but for the tough minded purists it was only a enjoyable week-end, and they are looking forward to making the trip next year.

The Clarendon men making the long ride were Ferrol Shelton, now from Austin, Jimmy Riley, Wayne Reynolds, Buster Gray, and Jim Formway.

Dr. Carl Hudson, met the group of eighteen, 16 men and 2 women at several points along the way with refreshments of lemonade and cookies.

Texas Bean Sprouts Leading Way To Healthier Diets

Consumers focusing on a more healthful diet will want to add bean sprouts to the menu.

Bean sprouts are packed with thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and ascorbic acid, are low in fat, and have no cholesterol. And it's a good bet that some of them were grown in Texas.

"Bean sprouts, thick and white and about 2 inches long, are produced from mungbean seeds that contain up to 29 percent protein. They fit right in with today's popularity of salad bars and stir-fry cookery," said Dr. Creighton Miller, a scientist in vegetable breeding with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University.

"Today's health-conscious consumer and the influx of Oriental people into the United States have brought on an increased demand for bean sprouts," he said.

"Bean sprouts can be used in a variety of ways in the home kitchen," Miller said. "For instance, they are excellent for various types of salads. Also, they are used in egg rolls, with Oriental stir-fry vegetables or stir-fried by themselves, and with fried rice. In addition, bean sprouts are excellent for use in potato cakes, chop suey, omelettes and egg foo yung. The possibilities are unlimited!"

"Bean sprouts are a cheap, healthful and pleasing addition to our common green vegetables," said Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They are excellent for use (either raw or cooked) in salads as well as in soups, stews and many other dishes."

If cooking bean sprouts, do so only briefly to avoid destroying their vitamin value, Cooksey said. Two minutes of boiling is sufficient. If they are to be served in stews and soups, it's best to add them shortly before cooking is complete. Bean sprouts are especially palatable lightly fried in good oil or butter, said the nutritionist.

Mungbeans--small, slick, shiny, dark-green beans--are grown in northwestern Texas and Oklahoma. After harvest, farmers ship the beans to a cleaning operation and then on to a sprouting plant--from where they go directly to supermarkets.

Texas currently has about 10 sprouting plants, Miller said. There are a number of sprouting plants on the West Coast to meet the demands of the large Asian American population. These plants sprout beans shipped from other countries.

Miller said a large portion of the bean sprouts consumed in this country are imported from China, Thailand and Australia because U.S. farmers aren't growing enough mungbeans to meet the expanding demand. Most of the Texas crop is grown in the Rolling Plains area around Vernon and ranges from 2,000 to 20,000 acres a year.

"I think we can produce a higher quality mungbean crop in the U.S. than what is produced in other countries," Miller said. "We are continuing to work on new varieties, such as TexSprout, that will produce more high quality beans. That will make the crop more profitable for growers and will provide markets with a more steady supply. Of course, the ultimate aim is to provide consumers with a better product."

Census Bureau Launches Address Checks

The Census Bureau will soon be sending 31,000 temporary workers into neighborhoods across the country to complete collection, checking and rechecking of housing unit addresses in preparation for the 1990 census.

Census Day is April 1, 1990. About 100 million questionnaires will be delivered to housing units nationwide by late March 1990. Accurate address lists are vital for prompt delivery and to monitor the return of completed census forms through and beyond Census Day.

In mid-May census employees begin working in selected large cities to verify residential address information and the number of housing units at each address. This operation will end in late June.

Another address check will begin in mid-June and last for about eight weeks. During this period, temporary census workers will visit small cities, towns, suburbs, and rural areas to list residential addresses for these areas.

Finally, a third operation, called Advanced Post Office Check Reconciliation, will be conducted in many small cities, towns, suburbs, and rural areas. In this operation, census workers go through neighborhoods verifying those addresses that were added or marked as duplicates or undeliverables during an earlier address listing check completed by the U.S. Postal Service. Census employees also will update the address list and check for any additional living quarters.

All Census Bureau workers will display official red, white, and blue identification badges. Residents are asked to cooperate with them. Public cooperation will mean a better, more accurate, and complete address list will be available for the delivery of the 1990 census questionnaires.

Here's a kitchen clean-up hint: To rid your cutting board of onion, garlic or fish smell, cut a lime or lemon in two and rub the surface with the cut side of the fruit. You can also make a paste of baking soda and water and apply generously. Rinse.

To clean a burnt or scorched pan, sprinkle liberally with baking soda, adding just enough water to moisten. Let stand for several hours. You can generally lift the burned portion right out of the pan.

Steroid Use High in Panhandle

Interest in and use of anabolic steroids and growth hormone among high school age males is a definite problem in the Texas Panhandle area, according to a pilot survey conducted by two Panhandle physicians.

Results of the survey published in the May 1989 issue of Texas Medicine, the official journal of the Texas Medical Association (TMA), showed 48.5 percent of Panhandle area physicians surveyed had received inquiries about anabolic steroid, 29 percent had seen patients they felt were taking steroids, and 15 percent had received inquiries about growth hormone. The survey was conducted by Drs. Paul S. Salva and George E. Bacon of the Department of Pediatrics, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, School of Medicine, Lubbock.

Anabolic steroids are compounds derived from testosterone, a hormone, or prepared synthetically to promote body growth. They are legitimately used in the treatment of certain types of anemia, leukemia and other conditions, but are taken by some athletes to increase their body strength and improve athletic performance. Synthetic growth hormone also promotes body growth. It is appropriately used in helping children with a family history of short stature achieve average height.

Salva and Bacon limited their survey to family physicians, general practitioners and pediatricians practicing in a 41-county area encompassing both Lubbock and Amarillo. Questionnaires were mailed to all members of the Panhandle District Medical Society who identified themselves as falling within those three practice categories. One hundred of 180 questionnaires were returned.

"The results of this pilot survey suggest that there is definite interest in and, more ominously, use of anabolic steroids among high school males," Salva and Bacon wrote. "Furthermore, interest in these substances apparently is not confined to people involved in organized athletics."

Forty-eight of the 100 respondents reported a total of 213 to 225 inquiries about anabolic steroids. All inquiries were made by or for males, all but five of whom were white. Twenty percent were considered serious.

Teenage males age 13 to 17 accounted for nearly half of the total. Teenagers overwhelmingly were interested in steroids to help them play football. Nearly all of the parental inquiries were for patients in this age group and involved football. Twelve percent, however, were for adolescents described as having a poor self-image and seeking steroids solely to improve their appearance.

Young adults (18-25 years of age) accounted for 48 percent of inquiries. Adults older than 25 accounted for only 4 percent.

While four young adults sought steroids to secure or retain athletic scholarships, most were for body building or weight lifting purposes rather than collegiate athletic competition. Likewise, 60 percent of those perceived as already using steroids were weight lifters or body builders.

The 52 report inquiries about growth hormone all were for white males, with 90 percent coming from parents. Fifty-six percent were considered to be

Hunger Increasing Among Texans

In modern America, where the abundance of food has created an entire industry aimed at helping overeaters to lose unwanted pounds, it is ironic to think that a growing number of people in Texas are actually going hungry.

But according to a 1988 survey by the Texas Department of Health, increasingly more women and children, even those receiving public assistance, are forced to eat less than they need, or to skip meals altogether.

The survey, compiled from 4,194 voluntary responses by public health clinic clients, confirmed results of similar surveys in 1984 and 1986, that hunger in Texas has risen sharply in this decade.

Nancy Robinett, director of the TDH Public Health Nutrition program, said, "Since the cause of hunger, more often than not, is insufficient income or a lack of other resources, the rise in the number of people going hungry is tied directly to the growing number of people in poverty."

Since 1980, Robinett said, the number of Texans living in poverty has increased by about 50 percent, from two million recorded in the 1980 census to three million estimated in 1987.

"For the purposes of the survey," Robinett explained, "we defined hunger as having to skip meals, or having to eat less because the family did not have enough food."

The survey reveals that:

- * In nearly one third (27.9 percent) of the 4,194 reporting families from 83 counties, the mother had skipped one or more meals, or had eaten less, in the previous month because the family lacked food. In 12.3 percent of these families, the children also had gone hungry.
- * The incidence of skipping meals and eating less increased as the families' incomes decreased. Some 32.5 percent of mothers and 15.3 percent of children in families with annual income less than $5,000 suffered hunger during the previous month.
- * While the 1988 federal poverty index was $11,650 a year for a family of four, some 58.8 percent of respondents to the TDH survey had family incomes less than $10,000, including 42.7 percent of respondents with incomes less than $5,000 for the family of four.

* Participation in food assistance programs, such as the federal Food Stamp program or the TDH's Supplement Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) did not eliminate the problems of hunger. Families in these programs include those with incomes too low to pay for needed food not provided by the government.

Robinett said, "This survey confirms not only that the less money you have, the more likely you are to have to go hungry—it shows that even with current government assistance, some people still have to go without food."

"Ultimately, these conditions all but guarantee future health problems for some of these low-income families," she added.

Pointers For Parents

all campground amenities and services. KOA promises hot showers, clean restrooms, laundry facilities, well-stocked convenience store, playground, pool, friendly hosts and fun.

To make your vacation planning easy, there's a KOA Directory, Road Atlas and Camping Guide that includes a complete Camping Kabin listing. To get a copy of the Guide, stop at any KOA Campground or send $3 to KOA Directory, P.O. Box 30163, Billings, MT 59114.

Concerned parents can appreciate camping out without roughing it, in comfortable cabins.

Camping out with the clan: It's a vacation that's easy on your budget and hard to resist, many families have found. Parents nationwide agree that camping is fun, affordable and educational, too. It's a great way to teach children about nature and self-reliance in the most enjoyable way possible. You can take youngsters on nature walks and let them help out with cooking, cleaning and other chores.

These days, just because you're camping out doesn't mean you have to pitch a tent and sleep on the hard ground! It's all thanks to Campgrounds of America (KOA) and the Camping Kabin. Camping Kabin are rustic log cabins that provide much of the comfort and convenience of sleeping in with all the fun, excitement and economy of camping out.

Conveniently located all across the country, these cabins each sleep at least four persons comfortably. Meal preparation is a snap—use the convenient outdoor grill or your own campstove if you prefer. Nearby picnic tables provide ample seating to enjoy a meal deliciously prepared and eaten in the great outdoors.

Cabin users have full access to Salva and Bacon plan to expand their study to include all major Texas metropolitan areas to determine whether levels and patterns of interest are different for urban and rural areas.

"While this investigation demonstrates a bona fide public interest in anabolic steroids and growth hormone, it quantified only those people who contacted physicians," the authors concluded. "What percentage of the total societal interest this represents is unknown."

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization with more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 80 percent of the state's physicians, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of its members.

Please Observe Deadlines

By Helen Woody

The Clarendon Press is asking the community of Clarendon to remember the newspaper's deadlines. We have always tried to get any article or ad into the current issue, regardless of how late it arrived. This has meant tearing up a couple of pages each week to make room for something that someone simply forgot to get in on time. And it has caused our employees to be late getting home—sometimes very late.

As of October 1, 1988, The Clarendon Press will strictly observe the deadline policy. Only obituaries will be exempt. Stories and ads must be in the newspaper office by 5:00 p.m. each Monday evening. In rare instances other material may be accepted, but only by prior arrangement.

As always, The Clarendon Press will be happy to take pictures of events and items of interest in the vicinity. However, pictures taken on Monday or Tuesday will not appear in the paper until the following week.

We appreciate your cooperation in this matter, and hope that among other things, the new policy will result in a better newspaper for Clarendon and Donley County.

Migraine Headache Relief

Over 40 million Americans seek the advice and care of physicians each year for the relief of headaches. Migraine headaches are one of the most common headache types, occurring in about 15 percent of persons over 40 years of age. Migraine headache occurs when blood vessels in the head enlarge and press on nerves, causing headache pain. The pain is reported to be severe and throbbing or pulsating, typically occurring on one side of the head but sometimes spreading to the opposite side of the head.

Although stress is the major factor triggering migraines, headaches can result from exposure to bright lights or a stuffy room to the ingestion of foods such as chocolate, aged cheese, nuts, and citrus which contain the blood vessel dilator tyramine.

Mild migraine headaches may respond to nonprescription medicines such as aspirin or acetaminophen. More severe attacks may require ergotamine, which constricts blood vessels. Some medicines can also be used to prevent migraine headaches. Propranolol, one of the most effective medicines against migraines, prevents blood vessel dilation. Other medicines which prevent migraines include amitriptyline, clonidine, and methysergide.

Parents Are Not Enough

Drugs, alcohol and sexually transmitted diseases grab headlines in the nation's largest cities and ruin lives in our smallest communities. Clarendon, Hedley and Howardwick are not immune. Each of us knows of tragedies that have ruined the lives of children or adolescents close to us.

Not all of these tragedies can be prevented, but many could. Surveys have shown that one of the most effective preventatives is family church attendance.

Attend church as a family. There's help there for all of us.

Vandalism destroys past

A young boy, at the impressionable age of eight or nine, shovels with practiced ease, working with his father. They are robbing a prehistoric grave.

Excited by the pots being uncovered, relic collectors destroy a centuries-old cemetery where prehistoric Indian villagers once buried their dead. The remains of the village have already been bulldozed into meaningless heaps of earth in the determined search for the "good stuff," the burials.

Ancient paintings, recounting the myths of long-vanished Indians, are spray-painted over with initials and obscenities. The graffiti are the calling card of a collector who came looking for something valuable to carry away and found only priceless art on the walls of a rock shelter.

Other relic hunters pursue more recent prey, digging where a Civil War soldier lies buried. They are looking for a handful of silver buttons.

Bronze monuments marking important places from our honored past are ripped away or stand scarred by rifle bullets.

Are these scenes from a novel about the breakdown of society's values? Are these emotional scare stories made up by some self-interested archeologist who just wants to save the sites for himself? Or are these actual scenes from everyday life, today, in Texas?

All of these are real stories, and we hear them recounted and visit the sites where they happen week after week, year after year. And these are only the stories that disturb us most, that stir our deepest feelings about the sacredness of final resting places and respect for the religious practices and beliefs of all peoples.

Other stories are casual, commonplace, daily occurrences of the disturbance of burials of a different kind. All we will ever know about thousands of years of the Texas past lies on and beneath the ground, in places called archeological sites. The history the sites will reveal has not yet been written in any book, is not yet known to any living person.

The thieves of this buried past strike by night and by day, and the activities of these casual collectors and commercial relic hunters take place with the unspoken and indifferent consent of their fellow Texans. The laws that protect a few sites—those on public lands—are openly ignored. Lack of understanding of the damage being done, indifference, and greed all play their part in the destruction of thousands of archeological and historic sites in Texas every year.

What can we do about the desecration of burials and the loss of irreplaceable information about the past? There are not enough law enforcement officers in Texas, big as it is, to solve the problem statewide. There are not, and never will be, enough preservationists, archeologists, or historians to solve the problem in even one region of the state. More laws can be written—and are needed—but only the consent of all Texans to abide by and enforce those laws can make the laws work.

There is only one solution to the problem of the careless destruction of our heritage. Each of us, native Texan and naturalized Texan alike, must care.

Each of us must show respect for human burial sites, regardless of whether those sites are isolated, unmarked burials or recognized cemeteries—and regardless of whose remains lie buried there. Each of us must be convinced that knowledge about the human past has a greater value than the price of a pot sold at an auction or a framed collection of arrow points hanging on a collector's wall. Each of us must act on these convictions, in whatever ways are appropriate, meaningful, or possible for us.

When we do this, the vandalism will stop. The heritage of Texas will then be honored as all Texans daily proclaim it is. Or else, the vandalism will be stopped in another way—there simply will be no more sites left to destroy.

(A message from the Texas Historical Commission.)

HAVE FUN at the Movies

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

You will have a wonderful time when you see a highly flawed, but very funny.

"MISS FIRECRACKER": Starring Holly Hunter, Tim Robbins, and Mary Steenburgen. Miss Firecracker is a film adaptation by SMU graduate Beth Henley of her play, The Miss Firecracker Contest.

The movie, Miss Firecracker, distorts the ways of small-town living—but only just; and if you bring your sense of humor with you, you'll enjoy these distortions—as well as the smugly condescending Southern dialogue. Holly Hunter, who is absolutely delightful in this film, plays Carnelle, a native of Yazoo City, Mississippi, trying to live down her reputation as the town's "Miss Hot Tamale". As a means of vying for respectability, she enters Yazoo City's "Miss Firecracker" contest. A coveted beauty contest that was won in an earlier year by her older cousin, Elain.

Elain (Mary Steenburgen) now living in Atlanta, Georgia, returns to help Carnelle—well not quite help. Carnelle's real ally in her attempt at acceptance by the townfolks is a sweet, simple seamstress named Popeye. The only really poor performance is turned in, oddly enough, by Tim Robbins. He overacts, and is therefore not too believable as Elain's demented brother, sentenced to a mental institution by his devious sister.

Thomas Schlamme, in his directorial debut, fails to find a real style for the film. He either does not understand his characters or does not have a feel for eccentric Southern life. But these are small faults in an otherwise very funny, very entertaining, movie. Miss Firecracker is a wonderful, charming movie with sentiment and glee. Rated PG. Three Boxes.

RENTAL MOVIES

After chucking through Miss Firecracker, you might enjoy another Beth Henley film; a superb adaptation, by Miss Henley, of her Pulitzer Prize-winning play...

"CRIMES OF THE HEART": (1984) Starring Diane Keaton, Jessica Lange, Sissy Spacek, Sam Shepherd, and Tess Harper. Crimes Of The Heart is a tangy movie treat—with the treats coming from the four bravado performances by Sissy Spacek, Diane Keaton (some of her best work), Jessica Lange and Tess Harper. These powerhouse stars, playing sisters from Hazlehurst, Mississippi, go at this movie with all-out acting gusto.

Crimes Of The Heart is about three off-center (way off-center) sisters and a cousin who stick together despite an onslaught of extraordinary problems. The performances of all four of these actresses are outstanding—well worth seeing. Beth Henley's script has biting humor and intelligence—with some measure of realism hidden in all its Southern madness. You'll care about these oddball people, you'll cheer them on and you'll be tickled by their antics. You'll also be moved by the heart in this film and you'll applaud four great, truly great, performances. Rated PG-13. Four Boxes.

BEST BETS IN NEW RENTAL MOVIE RELEASES

"MILES FROM HOME": (1988) Starring Richard Gere, Kevin Anderson and John Malkovich. Two brothers burn their foreclosed farm, then go on the run from the police. They find themselves cult heroes to financially depressed farmers. Rated R.

"DENVER, THE LAST DINOSAUR": (1989) Cartoon adventures of Denver the Dinosaur. Rated G.

"THE IRON TRIANGLE": (1989) Starring Beau Bridges. A different angle on the Vietnam War, examining the view of the North Vietnamese as well as that of the American Soldier. Rated R.

"DISTANT THUNDER": (1988) Starring John Lithgow and Ralph Macchio. Yet another Vietnam War story (Hollywood may stay in Vietnam longer than our soldiers did.) Lithgow portrays a self-exiled "bush vet" and Macchio is the son he hasn't seen in 15 years. The story is of their uneasy reunion. Rated R.

"ANOTHER WOMAN": (1988) Starring Gena Rowlands and Mia Farrow. Director Woody Allen takes a serious turn at the helm for this story about a college professor contemplating her life and her first affair at age 50. Rated PG.

"WE THINK THE WORLD OF YOU": (1988) Starring Alan Bates, Gary Oldman and Betsy the Dog. Frank has fallen in love with Evie, the girl his best friend left behind. And Evie's a real dog (we're talking four legs and a wet nose). It's a case of puppy love in a warm and funny film. Rated PG.

We'll cover these films in more detail in later columns. This list is just to keep you up-to-date and give you more video rental choices. Surveys show that a person goes to a video rental store on the average of four times before finding a first-run release. FOOTNOTES

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

"Extended Warranties" They may only extend your costs

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has received numerous complaints about "extended warranty" contracts on new and used cars. Complaints include the following:

* An "extended warranty" may cover only specific repairs. Without some coverage of major mechanical repairs, the policy may not be worth the cost.

Read The Fine Print.
* Does the extended warranty cover what the dealer promised? If not, do not sign it. Get all promises in writing.

● Slow service. Extended warranties often involve a "warranty company" that must approve claims for major repairs before the work is done. Sometimes it takes days for the claims representative to inspect the automobile.

* Many "extended warranties" are actually service contracts between you and your dealer. If the "warranty company" does not pay a valid claim you should look to your dealer for payment and repair.

● Claims denied for technical reasons. Claims have been denied because the repairs, although covered by the warranty, were completed before they were authorized by the warranty company's representative. In other cases, covered repairs have been refused because they were not reported within the time required by the contract.

* Extended warranties often have "deductible" amounts. Some have a charge for each service visit and may not completely cover towing or rental car expenses. There may be transfer and cancellation charges.

● Limited coverage. Some extended warranties cover only very limited parts or problems.

* There may be consumer requirements. Some dealers refuse to honor a contract if the car owner doesn't have receipts to prove the car had regular maintenance. Extended warranties will not pay claims caused by misuse and negligence.

Despite these problems, comprehensive extended warranties issued by reliable dealers can help make repair costs more predictable. Before buying an extended warranty or service contract, consumers should carefully consider the cost, what is covered, and how claims are paid.

* Some contracts require that all repairs and services be done by the dealer who sold the car. Consider the possibility that problems may develop while you are travelling or after you move from the area.

Buy What You Need.
* If the car comes with a warranty, an extended warranty or a service contract may involve a costly duplication of coverage. Carefully compare both contracts before buying a second one.

If you have a complaint about an extended warranty or any other consumer problem, call your nearest Consumer Protection Office in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, or San Antonio. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

* If you are buying a used car, watch out for a clause saying that only defective parts are covered. Chances are that all defective parts were replaced under the original warranty. To be worth much, the "extended warranty" must also cover the failure of non-defective parts.

Salesman Confesses

Claims newspaper is best salesman

On Monday, Jules Wintner, owner of a local retail establishment, confessed his job as a salesman was obsolete due to the impact of newspaper advertising. Wintner, in an exclusive interview, said sales were made in the local paper instead of in the store.

"Sure, we get a chance for additional sales," Wintner commented, "but the newspaper has become our best salesman." Wintner reported that consumers name the local newspaper as their usual source of "Best Buy" information, 10 times more than radio or television. This contrasts with a recent Consumer Data Service report that indicated 60% of the consumers seek "Best Buy" information from the newspaper versus only 6% for radio and 7% for television.

Wintner later remarked that because the newspaper is read by all Texans, regardless of income, his business was able to sell both upper end products as well as value priced items. "No matter what we're selling, we get good response in the newspaper," he said. "In fact, the more expensive the product, the better our response seems to be." This fact is substantiated in a survey by the Texas Newspaper Advertising Bureau that documented readership of the newspaper increases as income increases. In the survey, almost 75% of Texans with incomes exceeding $50,000 a year read

Salesman admits he "never had to sell anything" because of newspaper ads

"Our customers shop the newspaper. When they walk in the door, they already know what they want, they know the price and often have the ad with them."

the newspaper. "My job has become redundant," Wintner admitted. "Used to be I had to really sell each customer, but now I'm just an order taker." Asked what he intended to do now that the newspaper was doing most of the selling, he replied, "Spend more in newspaper advertising than last year."

BUYING GUIDE

Bradward on Classifieds 11

Business success is not a pie with a limited number of pieces to go around. Success can never be measured by what others accomplish. Successful people know it is only against themselves they compete. This is why Bradward frowns on mentioning your competitors in your classifieds.

Never say M tires are better than F or G tires. Nor K discount stores are superior to W discount stores. Never sing the praises of E gasoline at expense of T gasoline.

Test after test, for years on end, have absolutely proven that within hours of hearing such comparisons the public is inclined to remember the second product as the first.

Why invest your classified funds to confuse your readers?

To Caterpillar and its earth moving equipment, there is no competition. Quaker State and Pennzoil may be each other's best friend, but not in their ads. Does Macy's talk to Gimbel's? Better believe it. Every day. But not in their ads.

When you are writing your classifieds, only sing the praises of what you have to offer your friends and neighbors. Clap only your own hands, trumpet only your own glories, write only your own great offer.

If the public makes comparisons, so be it. But why help by confusing your reader? Doesn't that make good sense? (Say YES!) Your newspaper classified staff will absolutely confirm the best results come from not mentioning your competitors.

Tell your own story proudly. Give powerful reasons why a prospective purchaser needs and must have what you have to sell.

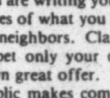

Never waste your investment in classifieds trying to make your product or services appear the greater or better at the expense of others.

Did not P.T. Barnum of Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus say, "I don't care what people say about me as long as they mention my name."

If others compare themselves and their products with you and yours, rejoice! But don't return the favor.

Classified Ads make you money. Use 'em.

History of the Class of 1989

Senior Class Remembers Outstanding Moments

History is a key factor in any culture. It gives a reference of past events in order to inform future generations and to keep them from making the same mistakes. Tonight we are going to tell you a little history of the Senior Class of 1989, so that future generations will learn from our mistakes and accomplishments. First of all we would like to recognize those students who started and finished school here together. They are:

- Tina Alexander
- Nugget Bland
- Linde Bowling
- Lisa Burch
- Roger Estlack
- Randy Gaines
- Richard Graham
- Stacy Graham
- Jason Green
- Kristal Hill
- Chad Hommel
- Jeffery Henson
- Trina Judd
- Jason Klinnert
- Stephanie Luttrell
- Todd McAnear
- Michael Moore
- Lori Roberson
- David Shaller

Tina- Remember last year when you tried to climb over the fence instead of going through the gate like a normal person, was that horrible fall caused by pain, clumsiness or was it something else?

Nugget- Do you remember what you were trying to do with a fish hook at Jason Green's house? You weren't fishing were you?

Lisa- Do you remember when we were in 7th grade in P.E. and you had that awful perspiration problem?

Donnie- Remember when you went to Mexico our freshman year? What did you do down there anyway?

Jenifer- Does Miss Piggy scare you? What about one morning not too long ago?

Anthony- Do you remember your "finger-licking" good time with your mom in the car with the cruise set on 60.

Brenda- Do remember the party at your house? Did the table get in your way a few times?

Cody- Do you remember your trip to Amarillo? Have you been hit by any moving reflectors lately?

Randy- We thought Allsup's was a convenience store not a motel!

Stacy- Do you remember the time you were supposedly going to stay with friends in Amarillo? Why were you seen going through Childress?

Richard- What happened to that girl from Hereford who was supposed to come down for the Prom? Do you really think she had something already planned? We don't.

Jason Green- What was the deal with you and Tonya Morris at the cemetery?

Brook- Do you remember one late night last year when your good buddy "Bill" chased you all over town? Just what did you do to make him so mad?!

Kristal- We always knew raincoats could stop the rain but we didn't know they could stop up the plumbing!

Jeff- Do you remember your nights with Cinnamon? Is it true all girls are made of sugar-spice?

Trina- Do you remember when you were out after dark? We don't.

Chad- Do you remember your acquaintance with that college girl Halloween night? Just what did you say to make her so mad?

Georgi- Remember when you weren't hurt? We don't.

Jason Klinnert- What did you do to make Jason Green so mad that he wouldn't sleep in his bed?

Stephanie- Remember those nights with Jeff King? Was your TV watching interrupted?

Bennett- Do you remember the Ag trip? What was that girl's name in room 127, it wasn't Oleta was it?

Jason May- Do you remember becoming acquainted with a horse a couple of years ago? Haven't you ever heard of the saying "Straight from the horse's mouth"?

Todd- Remember your useless trip to Kansas?

Myrtle- Do you remember when you were knee high? Oh, we forgot, you still are!

Michael- H.D. Moore remember swimming at the Hagey Ranch under the skin hardening sun?

Lori- In all the ruckus of New Year's 1987, what did you really see when an unexpected mom showed up? We know it wasn't jewels like you said, or was it?

David- Was there ever a time that you attended school three consecutive Mondays? Even in Junior High?

Tiffany- Do you remember when somebody wasn't doing you a favor? We don't.

Chris- What do the letters MIP mean to you?

Glenn- Do you remember a girl named Kari Burns and the night she "attacked" you? What was her favorite color...blue?

Linde- Do you remember any time that you were mean to anybody? I don't.

Jason Slavin- Do you remember when you weren't sweet, considerate and thoughtful of others? I don't.

Kristal, Stacy, Lori, and Lisa- Do ya'll remember Linde's birthday at the Fifth Season Inn? How come you all didn't end up staying there and why weren't ya'll alone?

Glenn, Donnie and Nugget- Do ya'll remember one dark stormy night a couple of years ago? Who's house did ya'll end up at anyway?!

Does the Senior Class recall the punishment that practically the whole band got just for watching Donnie and Nug fight in the band hall basement? It probably wasn't even worth it!

What about the grade school marriages under the big trees at the playground?

Also, let it be remembered always that the Senior Class of '89 was the first class to win the first annual Twerp Week Competition!

We hope all of you learned something from this rather unusual history lesson because we know that those of us who took part in it and were ridiculed by it sure did.

1989 Prophecy

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to be able to see into the future? Have you ever believed in witches? When the Seniors studied Macbeth, we decided with Mrs. Hayes' forceful but cheerful persuasion, to indulge in some research on the subject. We throw together a few things in a black kettle to see if our brew would possibly make us clairvoyant. The ingredients were simple: put in the Government book, a few research papers, a little H2SO4 from our ancient chemistry lab and lots of gallons of midnight oil. Jason and I decided to check it out, and we did. We suddenly began to see the future of our classmates. Just as qw were seeing the last of the futures, the mixture began to boil and finally bubbled over the edges, but before it did we saw four more futures and that was that in 10 years we see the Freshman owning their own Cherry orchard for reasons that need no explanation.

In two years we see the Sophomore class being voted as the most boring Sr. class of the year.

In five years we see the Junior class graduating from college with a degree in Horticulture. Was the degree in grass or weeds?

And finally, in three months we see the majority of our ambitious class attending CJC and still mooching off our parents.

In 3 years we see Richard becoming a famous music artist and dancer except this time everyone is doing the Harold.

In 5 years we see Stacy working for Bell telephone still trying to pay off her debts, but for some reason the debts are not in her name.

In 2 years we see Jason Green going into the linen dry cleaning business.

In 2 years we see Brook finally learning how to do all the things he claims to do professionally.

In 2 years we see Jeff filing for divorce on the grounds of physical cruelty.

In 10 years we see Georgi being admitted to Nwth recovering from all of her real injuries.

In 20 years we see Steph living in Matador practicing her javelin throwing and married to tarzan while being his jungle jane.

In 50 years we see Bennett reliving old memories by listening to the grass grow in his own yard. Instead of Wes' yard.

In 4 years we see Jason May eating his words about marriage. Is it Lisa, or was it Crystal, or maybe even April.

In 3 years we see Todd taking over Bedford Forests' job at KVII TV.

In 2 months we see Mike Moore being accepted to the Mr. America contest but refusing it because he is afraid Lisa will get an ulcer.

In 7 years we see Tina trying to out do her mother by having triplets instead of twins.

In 5 months we see Nugget writing a book entitled "Proven Ways To Make Stories More Interesting." Really Nug?

In 10 years we see Linde still trying to keep it in the family, which one is it now Lin, Josey?

In 6 months we see Lisa planning yet another wedding this one bigger than Prince Charles & Diana.

In 4 years we see Donnie qualifying for the olympics but refusing to attend because he didn't want to leave Jill.

In 1 year we see Anthony starring in a Michael Jackson video because of his infamous strut.

In 5 years we see Jenifer taking over a girls basketball program. We all know she has the experience.

In 17 years we see Roger campaigning for President of the U.S. but losing because he was "over-qualified"

In 1 year we see Cody rising in his fame from being youth of the year to youth of America.

In 5 years we see Brenda with her own TV show "Advice To Love Lorn High School Teenagers."

In 10 years we see Randy becoming Donley Co. sheriff and chasing criminals on the buildings of main street.

In 5 years we see Shanna starring in the sequel "The Incredible Shrinking Woman" because she is the only one short enough for the part.

In 10 years we hear Lori still complaining about the Senior party.

In 1 year we see David becoming a millionaire after his new invention of the ignite proof bar-b-que grill.

In 20 years we see Jason Slavin still confused on who to marry Cindy or Chrisy.

In 10 years we see Tiffany still trying to make up her mid-term exams.

In 10 years we see Chris as the next Oliver North and still claiming he is innocent.

In 2 years we see Glen and Trina getting married and taking over B and R Thriftway and changing the name to G and T.

We hope that no hard feelings were brought about because of any of this. Everything was all in fun. We would like to wish each of the Seniors a happy and prosperous life.

Drama

by Lisa Burch & Brook Grisham

The drama class of 1988-89 consists of the following seniors: Linde Bowling, Lisa Burch, Cody Fletcher, Brenda Ford, Richard Graham, Brook Grisham, Stacy Graham, Kristal Hill, Jason Klinnert, Stephanie Luttrell, Shanna Presley, Lori Roberson, David Shaller, Jason Slavin, and Tiffany Smith. The following Juniors are also in the class: Karen Hill, Becky Rattan and Paul Winters, and one Sophomore, Michael Shadle. We started this year off slow, but we finally picked out a three-act play called "Off the Track." We never got around to putting it on, but we spent many late nights on the old theater practicing for it. Mrs. Williams never let us slow down, and she tried her hardest to get the play out. Still, we have not got it done.

In January, the group picked the UIL one-act play. The play chosen was "Gammer Curton's needle." This play dealt with the comedy and tragedies of the loss of a needle. The cast was: Gammer Curton- Stacy Graham, Hodge - Jason Klinnert, Diacon - Michael Shadle, Dame Chat - Linde Bowling, Cocke- Jason Slavin, Doctor Rat - Cody Fletcher, Master Bailey - David Shaller, Doll - Brenda Ford, Tib - Stephanie Luttrell, Stage Manager - Kristal Hill, and most important, the stage crew of Brook Grisham, Richard Graham, Lisa Burch, Lori Roberson, and Karen Hill, who toiled and trudged over building the stage props. Our play got 3rd in the UIL competition with Jason Klinnert and Stacy Graham winning All Star Cast, and Linde Bowling and Michael Shadle winning Honorable Mention. They did a very good job and the crowd was very pleased with the performance...

We would like to thank Mrs. Williams for all the effort and long hours she spent helping each one of us.

Class of '89

GOOD LUCK

The Bronco Band

by Anthony Cole

The 1988-89 Bronco band, under the direction of Eddie Hankins, has had a spectacular year. They have improved greatly and strengthened in pride. The band has done a tremendous job in preparing for the spring concert. They will continue putting all their effort into their work while preparing for the spring band concert. The last year has been very hectic because of the temporary band hall which was set up in the old high school gym. However, next fall, the band will be moving into a new band hall and receiving new uniforms which will hopefully have them better organized and better prepared for the 1989 football season.

The 1988-89 band officers were president Roger Estlack, Vice Pres. Andrea Edwards, Sec. Tully Leffew, Reporter Becki Britten, Freshmen Rep. Kelly Edwards, and Student Council Rep. Lynn Wiggs. The drum major was Michelle Chambliss. The twirler was Suzette Henson, and the flag twirlers were Bridget Bland and Brandy Vargas.

The band would like to extend their appreciation to Mr. Hankins for his hard work and encouragement. They would also like to thank the band parents and all those who supported the band throughout the year.

1988-89 Bronco Cheerleaders..

Cheerleaders

Cheerleading is now considered to be a very active sport. It requires dedication, hard work, and determination.

Cheerleaders are elected to arouse spirit, fire up the players, and represent the school in the best way they can. The 1988-89 cheerleaders were: Head cheerleader Linde Bowling, Stacy Graham, Kristal Hill, Tammie Hommel, Audra Hoggard, Minde Hollar, mascot Tina Alexander, and sponsor Carrie Howell.

In June we went to camp at Oklahoma University in Norman. There were about 600 screaming cheerleaders who attended the camp, so it was very easy for us to rest our tired bodies in the back during cheerobics!!! We did do well at the camp. We won an Excellent and Outstanding Award for our performances.

We also received a Spirit Stick the last night. Our nights were filled with "pigging out" and helping Tammie and Minde with their lack of coordination!

Our fund raisers included: dunking booth during the Fourth of July festivities, a car wash in June, and a Jr. High cheerleading clinic in August. We also sponsored various dress-up days throughout the year. The cheerleaders were surprised at the end of the season with an early morning breakfast given by the Senior football players and parents. Minde, we loved your robe!!

Together we share many good memories. All of our nights spent dealing with "Texas-Size" mosquitos, small cheering crowds, and Sparky's unique dancing.

Good luck to next year's cheerleaders.

Student Council

by Cody Fletcher

The Student Council, and organization whose purpose is to encourage leadership and greater participation in our school's activities, is in its second year since its re-establishment last year.

The council's main policy this year was to increase the number of activities for the students. The policy held to be true. The Student Council established the first annual Bronco Spirit Week. The Spirit Week was enjoyed by all. The council also encouraged drug awareness by sponsoring a speaker to come and discuss the problems associated with drugs and their use. The council began the year with some great ideas, and although they were not all used the councils in the future have great potential.

At the beginning of the school year representatives were chosen from each class, organization, and sport. These members then campaigned for executive offices. The executive members were Jenifer Davis-Vice President, Andrea Edwards-Secretary, Tina Alexander-Treasurer, and Cody Fletcher-President. The other senior members were Jason Slavin, Stephanie Luttrell, Kristal Hill, Donnie Chambliss, Michael Moore, Brook Grisham, Roger Estlack, and Chris Ward. All of the Student Council did a great job this year and as seniors we would like to say "Thank You!"

We would also like to express our thanks to Mrs. Butts for her understanding, time, and never-ending work for the Student Council.

Lady Bronco Basketball-1989

by Jenifer Davis & Kristal Hill

The 1989 Lady Bronco Basketball team consisted of four seniors: Linde Bowling, Kristal Hill, Stacy Graham, and Jenifer Davis. Other members included: Karen Hill, Andrea Edwards, and Crystal Havens. The Managers were Lynn Wiggs, Kayla Hunt, and Tammie Hommel. This year the Lady Broncos were coached by Monty Chapman.

The year was a learning experience for both the team and the coach. We learned how to play together as a team, how to commit ourselves to the team, and most of all we learned the need to sacrifice more than a couple of hours of sweat each day.

The Lady Broncos proved not only to the fans, but to themselves that they are real winners. We did not win all of our games, but the games we did win were very important ones to the team.

There were two members of the team who were honored: Jenifer Davis was chosen for All-District and Linde Bowling received Honorable Mention.

We would like to extend a special thanks to Coach Chapman for believing in us and standing by us when the going got rough.

As we bring this year to a close, we would wish next years Lady Broncos and Coach Chapman Good Luck in all that they do.

National Honor Society

by Jenifer Davis & Linde Bowling

The National Honor Society is an organization that recognizes the students who excel in the following categories: scholarship, leadership, character, and service. A student must be enrolled in college bound courses, follow the academic program, maintain a 3.5 grade point, and be approved by the faculty before he or she can become a member.

There were members from the previous year: Linde Bowling-President, Roger Estlack-Vice-President, and Jenifer Davis-Secretary.

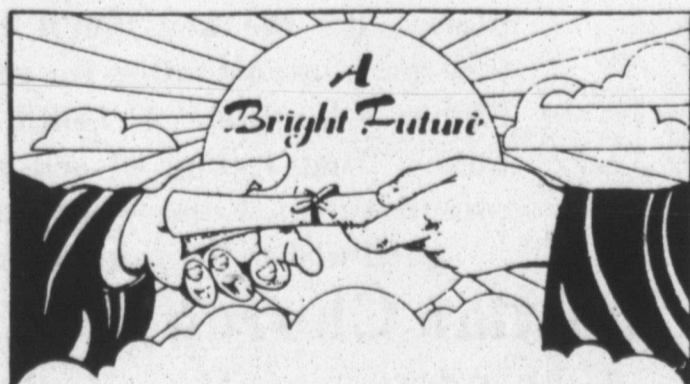

Secretary. new members were inducted at the Beauty and Brawn Pageant held on December 19, 1989. New members are: Tina Alexander, Cody Fletcher, Stacy Graham, Jason Slavin, Kristal Hill, Andrea Edwards, Jimmy Hobbs, Lynn Wiggs, and Kayla Hunt.

Also at the time NHS awards were given. Nominations and voting were done by the Senior class. Recipients were: Most Dependable-Tina Alexander and Roger Estlack; Most Humorous-Stephanie Luttrell and Brook Grisham; Most Friendly-Lori Roberson and Cody Fletcher; Most Talented-Trina Judd and Brook Grisham; Most Athletic-Jenifer Davis and Donnie Chambless Mr. and Miss Personality-Lori Roberson and Jason Slavin; Most Courteous-Lori Roberson and David Shaller; Most Studious-Tina Alexander and Roger Estlack; Most Spirited-Tina Alexander; Best Dressed-Stacy Graham and Michael Moore; Most Likely To Succeed-Linde Bowling and Roger Estlack; Mr. and Miss CHS-Lori Roberson and Cody Fletcher.

The National Honor Society travelled to Lubbock, May 8, and visited the DPS Drug Laboratory. We learned many interesting things about solving crime cases and drugs. We are certain that the Floydada Dairy Queen appreciates the hours and money we all spent there after our bus had a blow-out on the way home. We would like to thank Mr. Wayne Hardin for putting up with us on the trip.

Last year, a scholarship fund was established in memory of Scott Edwards. Members of NHS will be selling tickets on a portrait painted by James Ivy Edwards to raise money for this fund. A special thanks to Carrie Howell for sponsoring this organization.

Bronco Football

by Nugget Bland

The Clarendon Broncos started two-a-days this season with a new attitude toward working hard. Coach Hulon Kirkland and Coach Don Beck took the Broncos through a hot and humid two-a-days which brought the players closer together as a team and as friends. The Broncos had a season that was different than the seasons they have had in the past.

Even though the Broncos seasonal record was 0-10 the team, coaches and parents feel that the guys went 10-0. The Broncos non-district season opponents were Wheeler, Sunray, White Deer, Gruver and Vega. The Clarendon Broncos district games were Canadian, Wellington, Shamrock, Memphis and Quanah.

The seniors who played for the Clarendon Broncos were Nugget Bland, Michael Moore, Donnie Chambless, Chad Hommel, Jason Slavin, Randy Gaines, Cody Fletcher, Richard Graham, Brook Grisham and Jason May. The Clarendon Broncos team captains were Michael Moore, Nugget Bland, Chad Hommel, and Donnie Chambless.

The Broncos would like to thank the coaches, fans and especially the parents for their time and support. The team would also like to thank the managers and cheerleaders for their help during two-a-days and on through the season. The managers were Kayla Hunt, Jill Kidd, Will Burlin and Brent Graham. The cheerleaders were Linde Bowling, Stacy Graham, Kristal Hill, Tammie Hommel, Audra Hoggard and Minde Hollar.

The Senior Broncos would like to wish the Broncos of next year a very satisfying season and good luck.

CHS Lethal to UIL Contenders

by Linde Bowling and Roger Estlack

Clarendon High School has a long standing tradition of being well represented at University Interscholastic League literary meets. During the 1989 meet, CHS had 17 students participating at the district contest held at Clarendon. High achievements in these contests are not only the results of hard work by the students, but also the results of many hours of coaching by teachers.

Participants in the 1989 meet were as follows:

Grisham - Senior.

I believe the varsity boys owe it all to one man and I feel they will all agree that Coach Don Beck was the turning point for our track team this year. He was there when we needed him to give us advice and encouragement. We love and respect him greatly and remember his words, "If you ain't going to run just go home."

This year we ended up second in District. There were several of our boys who made it to regionals this year and they were; Randy Gaines, pole vaulting, Brook Grisham, 110 High Hurdles, Mike Moore, discus and 1600 meter relay; Jason Klinnert, 330 Hurdles, Donnie Chambliss, 800 and 1600 meter relay, Michael Adams, 1600 meter relay, Mark Auston, 1600 meter relay and 400.

We hope everyone is a proud of our accomplishments as we are. We would like to thank everyone who gave us support throughout the year.

This year's regional meet was held in Abilene on the campus of Abilene Christian University. After a well balanced breakfast from a state-of-the-art McDonalds and being ripped-off at "Skinny's Gas Station," the qualifiers set to work to make Clarendon proud. Three students placed at regional -- Jimmy Hobbs (2nd in News Writing), Roger Estlack (4th in Headline Writing), and Melissa Milhoan (6th in Editorials).

Jimmy Hobbs and Roger Estlack (1st alternate for Headlines) traveled to Austin for the state meet on May 5, with Mrs. Hayes. After one unscheduled stop outside of Abilene, they finally settled into their comfortable motel room in Austin. Early the next morning, they had their breakfast delivered via room service. While Jimmy sweated through his test, Roger and Mrs. Hayes took a nice tour of the city and a close examination of the local airport. Jimmy came through placing 7th on the Class AA level and is already preparing for a big win next year.

Golf and Tennis

This year's golf and tennis teams worked hard and it paid off. The tennis team had two meets before the District Tennis meet, and it appeared to help them tremendously. The tennis coach was Coach Chapman, and he played a major part in the success of the teams.

The golf team did the best that it has ever done in a couple of years. With the help of Bob Howell, the golf team placed fourth in the District Golf meet this year.

The members of the tennis teams were Jason Slavin, Michael Adams, Che Shadle, Jason Sharrar, Matt Mooring, Nathan Lowery, Jodi Kidd, Laney Douthit, Michelle Chambliss, Steven Bivens, and Danny Smith. The members of the golf team were: Nugget Bland, Jason Klinnert, Jason Slavin, and Matt Mooring.

Agriculture's Leading Edge: FFA

Clarendon FFA presented new qualities of leadership and dedication to the FFA which is the strongest youth organization in America.

The year started off with a booth at the Tri-State Fair for which we won a $100 in the judging of our booth. A calf fry and steak finger supper was held to improve motivation in our members. FFA Week was a busy time for the Clarendon Chapter. We talked to the 8th graders to improve membership. A cookout was held for the 8th graders, members, and their parents. A number of members participated in Leadership, Judging, and Show Teams. At the FFA banquet Buddy Howard was awarded Star Greenhand, Crystal Havens was awarded Star Chapter Farmer, Todd McAnear was awarded Star Lone Farmer, Anthony Cole was awarded the Scholarship pen, and Richard Graham was awarded the Leadership pen. This year's Honorary Chapter Farmer was Johnny Floyd. This year's Sweetheart was Crystal Havens who represented the Clarendon Chapter very well.

The 1988-89 officers were President-Jason Klinnert, Vice-President-Chris Ward, Secretary-Richard Graham, Treasurer-Crystal Havens, Reporter-Shane Hall, Sentinel-Justin Ham, Student Advisor-Todd McAnear, and Chaplain-Todd Stavenhagen.

FFA members and officers all shared the experience of learning how to apply themselves to an organization that shapes America's future.

Perro Club of Spanish Scholastics

The Spanish Club is an organization composed of all first and second year Spanish students. This club is sponsored by Mrs. Kay Hayes, and it serves to arouse student interest in the study of a foreign language.

Activities for this year included several fiestas and a Valentine's Day carnation sale. The Spanish Club also sponsored the Mr. & Miss Ugly Contest. In this contest, four people are picked from each class and are voted on by the student body for a penny a vote. This year's winners were Mr. Ugly Jason Sharrar and Miss Ugly Becki Britten. The proceeds from these fund raisers went to the Spanish Club fund where they will be used for a worthy cause.

The Spanish Club also created three mottos for itself. They were "Hable No Mas," "Sacar El Perro," and "Yo No Sabo Nada." The club also consisted of a covert "brain-trust" organization called the Third Reich. (No Nazi connections.) This trust was made up of a triumvirate of students who worked diligently towards the advancement of class scholarship.

Future Homemakers of America

by Stephanie Luttrell

The Clarendon chapters of Future Homemakers of America is an organization of students having been enrolled in some Home Economics course and wishing to participate in further activities. The group has high ideals all of which aid society.

The FHA's activities began with the selling of Tom Wat product by each member. Each member was required to sell a certain amount in order to meet the required amount for the Sweetheart Banquet. The Sweetheart Banquet was held on February 18, 1989. Several of the members began decorating the high school cafeteria the day before. This year's theme was "Hold on to the Night". The entertainment consisted of Shanna Presley and her father Larry Presley. The members chose a sweetheart, Lori Roberson and a beau, Stephen Bivens, and two princesses, Jenifer Davis and Stephanie Luttrell. A dance was held following the banquet.

Earlier in the year each girl participated in "Guardian Angel Week." Each girl selected a football boy, manager or coach. Throughout the week each girl secretly decorated the locker of her "angel" and gave him candy, etc. The angels were revealed at the last pep-rally and each girl presented her person with a cake.

On April 21st the FHA'ers traveled to Houston, Texas, for the State Convention. While there each member attended meetings of her choice to learn about the various topics: Designing People, Search for Tomorrow, Aids and Teenage Suicide. Everyone had a great time, and learned some new and interesting things.

Boys Varsity Basketball

by Chris Ward

The Bronco boys varsity basketball team was made up of nine dedicated players this year. The team consisted of four seniors, two juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman. The Seniors were David Shaller, a 6'2" post, Jason May, a 6'1" forward, Cody Fletcher, a 6'1" point guard, and Chris Ward, a 6'2" post.

The Junior players were Che Shadle, a 6'2" forward, and Michael Adams, another 6'2" forward. Jonathan Stewart, a 6'0" post, and Randy Allen, a 5'6" point guard were the sophomores on the team and 6'3" post Chance Fletcher was the lone freshman player on the team.

Chris Ward and Cody Fletcher were the two team captains for the 1988-1989 season.

The team was headed by Coach Hulon Kirkland, a graduate of San Angelo State.

The team did not have a good year as far as wins, but we never quit trying. We might not have won, but we gave everybody we played a run for the money. The main thing that happened this past season was that we became a family of close knit players.

Re-organized Staff Produces Quality Annual

by Roger A. Estlack,
Editor

Quality. That is what this year's Annual Staff (C.H.S.A.S.) decided early on that quality would be their top priority for the 1989 yearbook. In order to attain this goal, it was determined that each individual should have unique responsibilities.

The division of responsibility would not only give everyone a sense of belonging and having an important position, but it would also give the editors a chance to worry more about editing than other duties. Some positions were simply assumed while others were appointed.

The editors were named by Miss Betty Veach, C.H.S.A.S. (Advisor). They were chosen because of their experience and because they met other qualifications set by Miss Veach. Roger Estlack, a four year staffer, was named one of the two Editors-in-Chief. Roger also appointed himself to directing the responsibilities of the financial aspects of the staff. This made his complete title C.H.S.A.S.E.I.C.D.F.A. (Editor-in-chief & Director of Financial Affairs). He kept stock of supplies and worked with Miss Veach to set the prices at the football concession stand (sponsored by the staff). Roger also helped set the prices of the annuals, annual covers, and autograph sections. The other editor was Tina Alexander, a three year staffer. Tina also took on the secretarial duties of the organization. She kept track of the paper work such as contracts and ladder diagrams and kept a close eye on the calendar. Tina's title was C.H.S.A.S.E.I.C.S.O.S. (Editor-in-Chief & Secretary of Staff) With the editors' chairs filled, other positions were quickly created and taken.

Second year staffer Tully Leffew was given the esteemed position of helping Roger with the Financial Department. Later in the year, Tully was made an associate editor. His title was C.H.S.A.S.A.E.A.D.F.A. (Associate Editor & Assistant Director of Financial Affairs). Although his title may sound unimportant, Tully was an indispensable member of the staff when Roger or Tina was over-worked or absent.

Tammy Stegall was named as Tina's back up secretary.

her position was first held by Brenda Ford, but it was awarded to Tammy when Brenda had to leave for other activities. Tammy's title was C.H.S.A.S.V.S.O.S. (Vice-Secretary of Staff).

Suzzette Henson, C.H.S.A.S.D.O.A. (Director of Art), found herself rocketed into her position in a matter of seconds when Roger approved of the horse-shoes she designed to enclose page numbers.

Melissa Milhoan, C.H.S.A.S.W., was given her position as Wholesaler after her help with the annual sales campaign.

Jason Klinnert, an industrious and over-achieving first year staffer, assumed the title C.H.S.A.S.D.O.N. Fittingly, his title stands for Director of Nothing.

All of these fancy titles, however, could not have produced a quality annual without those people who had the simple title C.H.S.A.S.S.M. (Staff Member). These people remained dedicated to the end; even when meeting the standards set by the editors seemed tedious and resulted in having to do things over and over. They were Jimmy Hobbs, Carol Pace, and Brandy Vargas.

One of the first activities of the year was to pack up everything belonging to the Annual Staff, put a "Closed for Destruction" sign on the door of the Annual Staff Room in the old college building, and move out. This was a painful action for Tina and Roger because of the wonderful memories represented by the "colorful" walls of that room. The staff moved across the street to the girls' dressing room in the old gym. Everyone worked hard to set up shop. They even created a reception area for guests complete with a chair and magazines.

Everything seemed to be coming along nicely until the first day the girls Junior Varsity Basketball team worked out by "running" the bleachers. The vibrations loosened a rather unpleasant rat product lodged in the open ceiling of the new Staff Office. Most of this "product" seemed to fall on Editor Estlack's desk. Ever the example of fine leadership, he got only mildly irate. But after three or four workouts, the supply of the product was exhausted.

Another main activity was

the production of the 19th annual Beauty and Brawn Pageant. The staff held the pageant at the harned Sisters Fine Arts Building, December 19, 1988. Eight contestants were selected from each class to participate. Roger Estlack and Tully Leffew were the M.C.'s and Miss Veach provided entertainment during intermission. Jason Klinnert was crowned "Most Handsome," and for the third year Kristal Hill was named "Most Beautiful". With the help of every staffer and local FTA, the Beauty and Brawn was a big success.

Despite everyone's hard work on the annual, some deadlines were close. One deadline was delivered to the Post Office thirty seconds before they closed. (Honest!!) Miss Veach was absent for the week of one deadline; this placed total responsibility on Tina and Roger, but they, with the help of the rest of the staff, pulled it off. In order to help alleviate the stress of their jobs, the staff did various things to keep themselves laughing. Among the most memorable were the creation of a staff mascot, a rhinoceros named "Don Juan, C.H.S.A.S.M." and a secret slogan "THIFS." (The letters have been changed to keep it a secret.)

Despite some ignorant beliefs that the Annual Staff class is nothing more than a study hall, the staffers showed the school what can be done when something is worked for through teamwork, dedication, and a whole-hearted will to succeed. Nothing is more pleasing to a staffer than when someone says: "You did a good job on the annual." or "I really like this year's annual." At those words a sense of pride swells up inside them. A type of pride that few people will ever know. In the end everyone (including the student body) seemed pleased, and the goal of quality was attained.

Our past is filled with memories
Of which we'd like to tell
Most are easy to recollect
Though some won't ring a bell.

The past is rather comic
We laughed as we wrote it down.
You know how graduates are --
There's always lots of clowns.

We've had some really good times
Sprinkled with the bad.
We made the best of happy times
And overcame the sad.

In the past we've stuck together
And friends we'll always be.
We hope you'll all laugh with us
As we share our memories
