Vandalism Reported At Country Club

Sometime in the night this past Friday and Saturday, person or persons unknown trespassed onto the Clarendon Country Club golf course and proceeded tear up greens and causing general havoc on the course with golf carts and other motorized vehicles. The barn where some golf carts are stored was broken into and the carts were driven over greens and fairways causing damage. Most the greens were vandalized on this eighteen hole course, but the fifteenth green received the most damage when an automobile was driven onto it and killed the grass. According to Eddie Baker, the Country Club golf pro, this green will probably have to be reseeded. The grass, seaside bent grass, is grown especially for golf greens and costs quite a bit of money and labor to keep these greens playable. He estimated the damage to the golf course at about $2,000. The Country Club is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible. Please contact the Sheriff's Department in Clarendon if you have any information regarding this incident.

Panhandle Community Services Receives Grant

Panhandle Community Services has been awarded a grant in the amount of $122,712 by the Office of Community Services, Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, D.C. This grant establishes a "Demonstration Partnership Program" covering the 9 counties of the Texas Panhandle. Panhandle Community Services is one of 16 organizations in the nation and the only agency in the state of Texas to receive a DPP grant.

Johnny Raymond, Executive Director of Panhandle Community Services, states, "The grants' objective is to stimulate Community Action Agencies to develop new ideas for decreasing the dependency of the poor on welfare programs." Targeted goals are to take low income, single heads of households and provide short-term training in non-traditional occupations. Participants will then be placed in employment.

NEW=S, the project's name, symbolizes "Non-Traditional Employment For Women Equals Self-Sufficiency." Non-traditional jobs include truck driving, auto mechanic and servicing, meat processing, Page equipment rentals, etc. Non-traditional fields were chosen because they usually pay higher than normal wages and provide a more open field of training than typically received in "female" professions.

Project participants will receive a wide range of employment related services including: Vocational testing and assessment, Motivational testing, Literacy classes, Job Preparation and placement, Medical examinations, and On-the-job training.

In addition, Panhandle Community Services will draw upon every program available under the agency umbrella for support and counseling. Other community resources will be accessed according to participants' needs. The DPP flexibility will afford the opportunity to move rural area participants within closer proximity of training areas.

Mr. Raymond states that with the program's flexibility, all state, local, and other federal resources will be coordinated and utilized to enhance the one year pilot project. The resulting program has the potential to serve as a model pilot project to be duplicated throughout the nation.

PCS is required to match the grant funding in terms of monetary and "in-kind" donations from the local area. NEW=S is scheduled to begin later this month.

WRECK OF van carrying young church people to Colorado.

Accident Injures Four

A single-vehicle accident just east of Clarendon on Highway 287 injured several people. About 1:48 p.m. on June 19th, a tire blew out on a van, causing the vehicle to roll over about one and one-fourth times. One youth was thrown from the van and several others suffered injuries of varying seriousness. The accident broke several bones, but fortunately it did not kill anyone.

The driver of the van was Pamela S. Tucker, 47, of Lake Highlands Baptist Church in Dallas. She and her husband were taking five young people to a Baptist Youth Camp in Evergreen, Colorado when the tire blew out, probably due to heat and fatigue. All were transported to Dr. Gilkey's office, and then three youths and the adult passenger were taken to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Local law enforcement officials encourage area residents who will be traveling to have safety equipment (such as brakes and tires)

...OR THE BANKER?
Stock market investments can be very inviting. Everybody, it seems, knows "this guy" who knows "this other guy" who made a real killing in a big bull market. Of course, behind every Cinderella story there's another tale of uncertainty and vulnerability. Unfortunately, the stock market often takes a downward turn. The rampaging bull can become a lumbering bear, changing dreams of an easy "killing" into harsh reality. Not so at our bank. In addition to an impressive range of investments—such as our new money market accounts—we offer things that stocks and mutual funds can't. Like risk-free protection of principal. Assured rates of interest. And the soothing security of Federal Deposit Insurance by the FDIC. So, while we won't promise to make you rich overnight—we will place a risk-free guarantee on your tomorrow. That's the bare fact. With no bull BS. AMERICAN BANKERS ASSOCIATION.

On behalf of the residents of Howardwick, we are very grateful to our Sheriff Jimmy Thompson, Jim Cockerham, Ray Burch, Charles Blackburn, Jerry Morris and all the DPS Officers who worked so very hard to protect and guard us during the tornado that hit parts of Howardwick last Sunday.

It is very comforting to know that these men are faithful to their jobs and do their very best to protect us when needed.

We know that they did not get any sleep or rest for at least 48 hours or more and even then they were here guarding us.

We also know that they patrol our streets every night and we are extremely thankful for that.

John and Polly Sarich
Howardwick, Texas

Dear Editor,
I would like to take this means of saying "Thank You" to our sheriff, Jimmy Thompson, his deputies, all troopers and every volunteer who spent so many gruelling and tiresome hours assisting the residents of Howardwick before, during and following the damaging tornado which struck our little town last Sunday night. There is much to be thankful for, since no injuries were sustained and no lives were lost.

Mr. Thompson, I have never met you, but I shall always remember how calmly, efficiently, and tirelessly your entire crew worked for days.

Thank You,
Joyce Combs
Howardwick, Texas

Dear Editor,

There is some who still care, and while we were cleaning up our debris out at Howardwick after the tornado, we met such a person. Her name is Nell Derr. She worked diligently baking cakes, pies, cookies and making coffee, tea, and lemonade and bringing it to the crews, that were cleaning up.

Some of us are from Oklahoma, some from Colorado, and others from surrounding towns, but this little old lady, did what she could and we all shall always be thankful to her for the sunshine she brought to us.

In the time of sadness, it made us think of the scripture where it says, I was hungry and you feed me. Thirsty and you gave me drink.

Sincerely,
Three and Four of the Clean up crews from the tornado at Howardwick.

4-H Record Book Workshop

Donley County 4-H'ers, parents and leaders needing assistance with record books are encouraged to attend a 4-H Record Book Workshop on Monday, June 26, 1989. The workshop will be held at the Family Life Center in Clarendon, across from the Church of Christ. Workshop training will start at 6:30 p.m. Refreshments will be provided by the Donley County 4-H Council.

Lesia Fuston, former Donley County 4-H member and State 4-H Record Book finalist, will assist with the workshop. Record books will be judged after the workshop training.

What of Clarendon In The Year 2000?

Clarendon has the greatest potential of any small town between Dallas-Ft. Worth and Denver for becoming one of the most outstanding, progressive, popular and growing small communities in the Panhandle in the decade ahead. It has a rich heritage from the pioneers that established ranches, farms, and businesses and laid foundations on which the area was to grow, prosper, and be the hometown for many happy and responsible citizens.

Clarendon, the oldest incorporated town in the Panhandle, with its location, historical buildings, growing Saints Roost Museum, The Lowe House, modern Junior College buildings, attractive homes as well as many other assets, has the potential for being the "Sweetheart" town of the Panhandle. Such recognition could bring many benefits and encourage citizens to take greater pride in their hometown.

Careful planning, reasonable promotion, positive action, unselfish participation, "can do" attitudes, and community involvement and support could certainly bring about such recognition. Any promotional activities would naturally need to include all of Donley County and its many assets.

Clarendon has a most desirable location "just below the Caprock" where Highways 287 and 70 intersect. Travelers can continue West on 287 and have access to excellent roads that will take them into the Western Panhandle and beyond. If travelers turn North on 70, they have access to travel arteries that take them to the Central and North Panhandle and onto points of interest in every direction. Clarendon should consider adopting a slogan of being The Gateway To The Panhandle.

If travelers desire to see the South Plains, they can go south on Highway 70, then have the option of seeing the lower end of the Palo Duro Canyon as they ascend the Caprock and proceed to Silverton and other points on the South Plains. Or the traveler can go through Turkey and see the interesting ranching country that surrounds the area, then proceed on into South and Central Texas.

Developing long range plans should be a challenge! If the challenge is accepted and pursued as described above, this community should realize much of the potential that exists by the year 2000. When a lively, energetic, and enthusiastic group of people "put their shoulders to the wheel", things will happen!

The Clarendon-Donley County Chamber of Commerce leadership is giving a lot of thought to the future of Clarendon - to the Clarendon of the year 2000. If the citizens do a lot of real soul searching, they will find they do have a lot of love and appreciation for their hometown and area and are willing to put forth time and efforts to assure that it is a community in which one can say with great pride -- "Clarendon is my hometown!"

Control Parasites In Horses

The single most important item in a preventative medicine program for horses is internal parasite control.

By establishing a good parasite control program in conjunction with your veterinarian, including deworming and pasture management, damage from parasite infections in horses can be minimized.

A parasite control program should focus on eliminating parasites already existing in the horse and controlling the environment through effective management so that the horse will be reinfected with fewer parasites.

A veterinarian can set up a deworming program tailored to the needs of any horse. Such factors as the environment, health of the horse, and parasites naturally found in your area must be considered in devising a treatment that will insure that the medication is continually effective. Also, a veterinarian can advise on how medication should be administered and on the correct dosage.

An effective deworming program will call for treatments at two-to-four month intervals because of continuous reinfection pressure. Programs should be designed to have major effectiveness against large and small strongyles, pinworms, roundworms and bots.

Math And Science Grants Awarded

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board is accepting applications for more than $2.5 million in grant funds to improve the quality of precollege (K-12) instruction in mathematics and science in Texas. Grants are awarded for 12 months.

The grant funds, available to Texas under the new Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Education Act must be used to improve the teaching skills of K-12 teachers and increase student access to mathematics and science courses. The Eisenhower Act reauthorized the predecessor statute, Title II of the Education for Economic Security Act (EESA). Applications must be submitted to the Coordinating Board by August 1, 1989.

Thirty to forty (30 to 40) grants ranging from $25,000 to $65,000 each will be awarded to support cooperative teacher training programs between higher education institutions, local school districts, and regional service centers, said Nan Broussard, Coordinating Board Title II program director.

Another four to five grant awards above $100,000 will finance the development and/or implementation of demonstration models specifically designed to increase the access of the State's growing minority student population to mathematics and science education and careers.

The Coordinating Board will announce the grant awards at its October meeting. Projects funded under this grant application must be completed by October, 1990.

All public and private colleges and universities in Texas are eligible to participate. For more information, contact Nan Broussard at (512) 462-6463.

Eastern Star Has Installation

Thursday, June 15th was a very big night for the members of Clarendon Chapter #6. First a sumptuous meal was enjoyed, then the regular stated meeting, during which installation of all incoming officers was held.

A very unique gift was presented to our Outgoing Worthy Matron, Sister Frankie Henson, who has done a top notch job during hers and Redell's year as our Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron. It has been one of honor and class, and the members thank them for being such faithful ones.

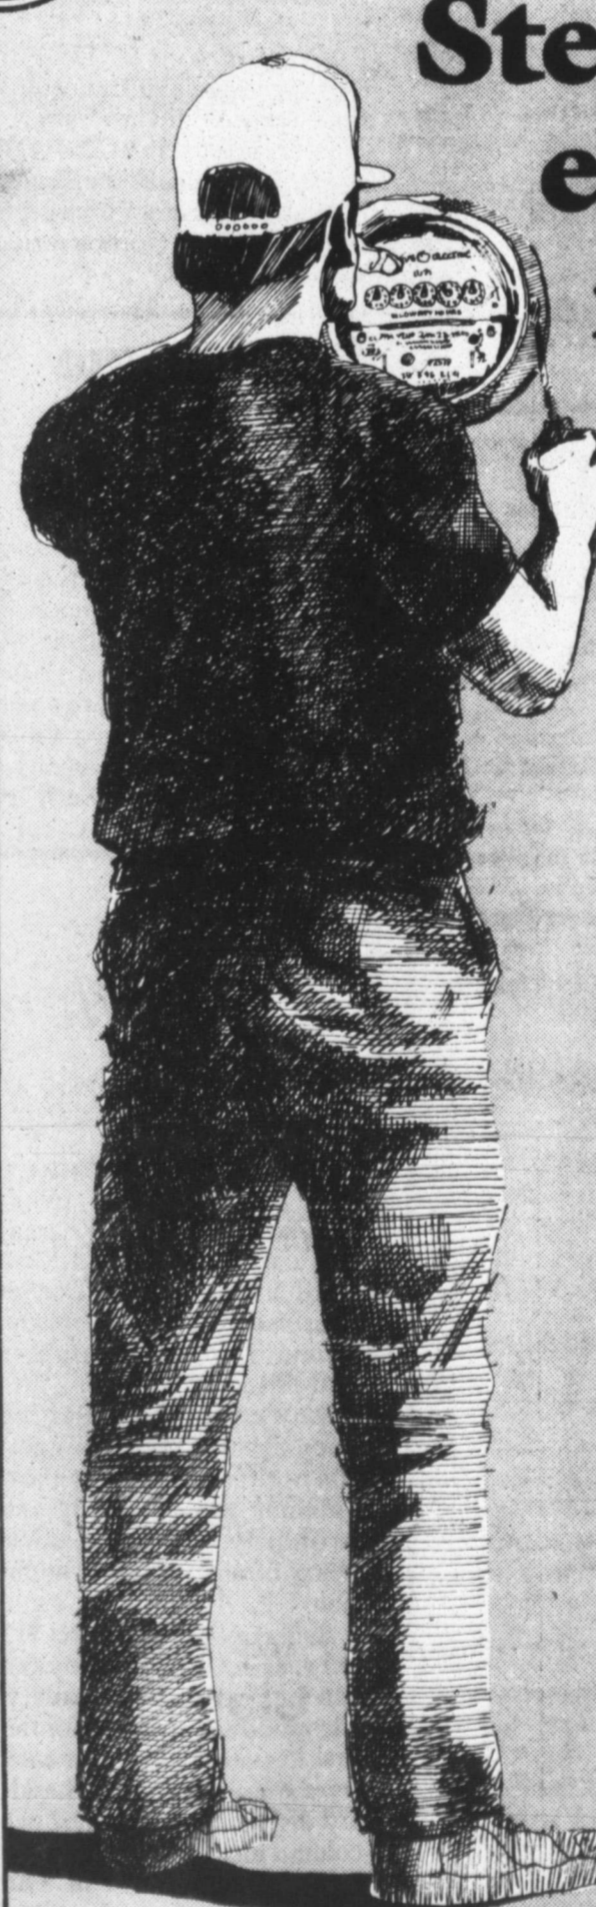

Visitors from Amarillo, Hedley, Wellington and Paducah were with us, and this makes for a much more exciting meeting.

Incoming Worthy Matron, Polly Sarich and incoming Worthy Patron, John Sarich were installed along with a full charge of officers. Installing Officer Sister Frankie Henson and Installing Marshal, Sister Opal Ramsey did a superb job of installation. Sister Gail Johnson and Sister Peggy Watt sang a song that they had written along with the music in honor of the Worthy Matron and Officers.

These two have been blessed with talents that they share to us and we are eternally grateful for their presence.

It was a lovely evening and night and made us glad that we have the opportunity to be Eastern Star members, thanks to the Masonic Order the world wide.

Stealing electricity is against the law!

Stealing electricity is a felony.

Some people tamper with their electric meters to avoid paying for the energy they use. Stealing electricity is a felony offense in the state of Texas and violators will be prosecuted. West Texas Utilities' Current Diversion Department is working hard to help combat the growing problem of energy theft.

Energy theft is dangerous.

Not only is service theft a crime, but it is also very dangerous. Serious injuries can result from meter tampering.

A crime against you!

When someone steals electricity, they are not only stealing from WTU — they are also stealing from you, as a rate-payer. Just as shoplifting increases the cost of items you buy in the store, power theft increases the cost of your electric service.

WTU will prosecute.

Because we are concerned about the dangers and costs resulting from meter tampering, West Texas Utilities will prosecute energy thieves.

TDH To Test School Water For Lead

In response to a new federal law meant to protect children from lead contamination, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) will begin in July to test water samples from all Texas schools and day care facilities.

The Lead Contamination Control Act, signed into law by President Reagan last October, requires that all U.S. schools, kindergartens, and day care centers ensure that drinking fountains are lead-free.

Anthony "Tony" Bennett, of the TDH Division of Water Hygiene, explained that many older water coolers were manufactured with lead-lined tanks, fittings, or lead soldered joints which contaminate the water. "Our lab will be responsible for testing samples from all drinking fountains known to contain lead, as well as some fountains believed to be lead free," he said.

Bennett said that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has compiled a list of the manufacturers and models of coolers that are not lead-free. By using the list and a document called "Lead in Schools' Drinking Water," school officials and day care operators can learn whether their drinking fountains contain lead components.

Since TDH has been named responsible for informing schools and day care centers of the testing requirements and procedures, the agency has received numerous telephone calls for more detail. "Some school and day care administrators have received their copies of the product list and guidance manual," Bennett said. "But anyone who hasn't should contact the TDH Division of Water Hygiene, at (512) 458-7497."

Bennett said that most of the other calls have been to confirm the following:

- * The TDH laboratory is the only EPA certified laboratory authorized to conduct lead analysis of water samples required by the new law.

- * The lab will begin accepting applications for analyses by July 1, pending approval of the Texas Board of Health.

- * The fee for each analysis will be $17.

- * Until testing can begin, school officials and day care operators should complete their inventories of the types of water coolers they have, to determine whether any contain lead components.

- * Any fountains found to have lead-lined tanks should immediately be removed from service.

- * Other coolers which are not known to be lead-free should be flushed for at least three minutes daily before buildings are open for children, to ensure the lowest lead content until testing is complete.

Bennett added that when all details about sampling and testing procedures are complete, TDH will notify schools through the Texas Education Agency and licensed day care centers through the Texas Department of Human Services.

Problem pasture have grass and weed regrowth after rains or irrigation and provide an excess of tryptophan amino acid which is converted to a toxic compound in the rumen of cattle. The toxin produced from the tryptophan is absorbed into the blood stream and affects the lungs.

Cattle with mild emphysema may go unnoticed and recover spontaneously within days. Cattle with severe emphysema show extensive respiratory distress with mouth-breathing, tongue extension and drooling of saliva. Drive or handle animals with caution to prevent immediate deaths. Remove all cattle from the pasture concerned, handle them quietly and have a veterinarian examine them for therapy. Up to 30 percent of the severely affected cattle will die. After a period of 10 to 14 days, the cattle may be reintroduced gradually to the pasture. As forage matures, it becomes safer because nutrient concentration decreases.

Pulmonary emphysema can best be prevented by not suddenly putting hungry adult cattle on lush pastures. Good options are to move cattle onto new pasture before it becomes lush, to strip-graze, to restrict grazing time, or to provide hay or grain. The change-over period is three weeks; the problem rarely occurs in cattle that have been on a field for more than that length of time.

If only lush pasture is available, the problem may be prevented by feeding monensin (a feed additive) prior to the pasture change and up to two weeks thereafter.

The problem of pulmonary emphysema has been widespread in Texas this spring, primarily due to sporadic rainfall. A similar problem can occur in the fall when rains occur following dry summer weather.

Growers Approved Potato Marketing

In a May 1-12 referendum, potato growers in 21 western Texas and 10 eastern New Mexico counties known as the "High Plains" favored a USDA recommendation for a federal marketing order for their potatoes.

J. Patrick Boyle, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said approximately 71 percent of those voting, accounting for about 78 percent of the potatoes grown by those voting, favored the order. Forty-two producers, or about 38 percent of those eligible to vote, cast valid ballots.

To pass, the order had to be approved by at least two-thirds of those voting, or by those voting who produced at least two-thirds of the potatoes grown in 1988 by all of those voting in the referendum.

The order would authorize grade, size, and maturity regulations, as well as specifications for containers and markings on containers. The order also would authorize research, promotion, and marketing projects, but not paid advertising.

USDA's decision to hold the referendum, published in the April 25, 1989, Federal Register, was based on the results of an April 1988 public hearing in Hereford, Texas.

The secretary of agriculture's formal decision regarding the order will be published in a future issue of the Federal Register.

Baseball Trying To Change Image

When Houston Astro baseman Glenn Davis asked last month that game announcers exclude him from the "this Bud's for you" toast used to hail home-run hitters, he was quoted as calling himself "a lone wolf on this."

But Davis' boycott of the plug for Budweiser beer is just one of many efforts undertaken in recent years to restore baseball's family-oriented image which many believe has been tarnished by the drinking that often surrounds the game.

Many measures have been taken by major league teams to control drunken fans given to brawling, belittling profanities and dowsing players with beer.

Most teams end beer sales after the seventh inning in addition to prohibiting fans from carrying alcoholic beverages out of the stadiums.

The San Francisco Giants have gone a step further by forbidding grandstand beer sales, assuming that fans will think twice before leaving their seats and missing a few at bats to wait in line at a concession stand for a beer.

While many teams provide alcohol-free seating, the California Angels have taken the lead in catering to non-drinking spectators by establishing a 2,600-seat family section where tickets are specially priced at $5, according to John Hayes, the team's Senior Vice President of Marketing.

The Angels also have recognized that while fans who drink too much during games are a problem, those tipsy before gametime may be even worse, Hayes says.

At the team's urging, its host city, Anaheim, squelched pre-game tailgate parties with stepped up enforcement of a law prohibiting drinking in Anaheim Stadium's parking lot.

Palo Duro Hospital and The CareUnit applauds these and other efforts as supporting responsible drinking behavior. "These changes indicate a healthy trend," said Bob Bybee, Hospital Administrator. "I hope these messages about responsible drinking get out, especially to the kids."

Other efforts to distance baseball from drinking include:

- * An effort by the Center for Science in the Public Interest to convince Major League Baseball to decrease alcohol sales during games and to limit sponsorship of events by alcohol manufacturers.

- * The involvement of the Players Association in producing a coloring book which urges children to "just say no" to drugs and alcohol.

- * A ban by San Diego Padres' owner Joan Kroc on post-game drinking in the team's locker room.

- * The Winfield Foundation named for Yankee right fielder Dave Winfield. The foundation sponsors nationwide youth and community outreach programs designed to prevent drug and alcohol abuse.

What does the Bible say...

JESUS DIED

SO YOU WON'T HAVE TO!

The one thing that makes Christianity so compelling is the fact that someone has actually laid down His life for me and for you. That "Someone" is Christ Jesus our Lord! You see, it is the eternal decree of God that, "The wages of sin is death!" - (ROMANS 6:23). It is a just and righteous decree, but it means that if we transgress the will of God, and we all do, then we deserve "death" and nothing more. This "death," as described in the Word of God is an "eternal destruction, away from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of His power" - (2 THESS. 1:9). But God loves us! And because He loves us so much "He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life!" - (JOHN 3:16). So Jesus came and lived a righteous life and died a sacrificial death for us, once and for all, so that we don't have to die, but rather, "...Have Life and have it abundantly!" - (JOHN 10:10)...

How then can we turn our backs and say "NO" to a Savior like that? How can we refuse to love and serve the very One who has given up His very life for us; And He would have given up His life even if you and I were the only ones who had ever committed a sin... He loves each of us that much!

Whatever your walk of life; Whatever your background; Say "YES" to the Lord and Savior Who loves you and who gave up His own life for you! Surrender your life to Him, become obedient to His word.....and live!

A message of hope and love from the church of Christ meeting in Clarendon... 3rd & Carhart

We would love to have you come worship & serve the Lord together with us!

Lush Pastures Can Cause Fog Fever In Cattle

Lush pastures at this time of the year should be a blessing for ranchers, but they also can be a potential problem, causing fog fever or acute pulmonary emphysema in cattle.

Fog Fever or pulmonary emphysema is a respiratory distress syndrome that may occur in adult cattle, 5 to 10 days after a change to a relatively lush, green pasture

Safe 4th Of July Means Firework Caution

Every year, the same story unfolds. A child setting off fireworks at the family's Fourth of July picnic is brought to the local hospital's emergency room for medical treatment. Numerous cases of hand or facial burns, eye injuries and even hearing loss will occur throughout Texas this summer as a result of unsupervised and careless handling of fireworks.

The most common case of injury is due to unsupervised children playing with fireworks. Dr. Rich Cole, emergency room physician at Scott and White in Temple, points out that fireworks can cause burns to the fingers and hands, ignite clothing, and cause possible loss of fingertips. These cases usually occur because the handler has not released the firework before it exploded or the firework has misfired.

Dr. Cole stresses that children should not play with fireworks. "These are not toys," he says. "Even children with sparklers should be supervised. Toddlers will grab at the lit sparkler, which is hot enough to burn someone."

Eye injury is another area of medical concern when it comes to firework safety. According to the American Academy of Ophthalmologists, close to 4,000 people will suffer eye injuries, with 1,000 resulting in permanent vision loss, due to faulty firework handling.

Dr. Richard D. Cunningham, director of the Division of Ophthalmology at Scott and White in Temple and professor at Texas A & M University College of Medicine, points out that bottle rockets are responsible for more than half of these injuries.

"I cannot describe the tragic feeling when we have to remove eyes from children or adults and know the injury was preventable. Wearing protective goggles or glasses will prevent most eye injuries," Dr. Cunningham says.

Children and people who have been drinking alcoholic beverages should never be allowed to handle or ignite explosive fireworks. Alcohol has been proven to slow down response time.

Nationwide, more than half the states have adopted a model law which limits the use of fireworks to licensed displays or relatively safe fireworks such as sparklers. A three-state study indicated that there were ten times more fireworks injuries where no model law was in effect.

"The best thing to do," Dr. Cole adds, "is watch a professional fireworks display from a distance."

If individuals plan to include fireworks in their festive Fourth celebration, they are urged to take the following precautions:

- * Always wear safety goggles or glasses when setting off fireworks.
- * Only adults should handle or ignite explosive fireworks.

* Adults should be present to supervise children during the use of the relatively safe fireworks such as sparklers.

* Do not use firecrackers in a bottle or tin can, or under a clay pot. When such object shatter, the fragments are often propelled into the eye, causing serious eye injury.

* Know what you are buying in terms of firepower and the appropriate safety measures for igniting the firework.

* Do not use fireworks near dry grassy fields or shrubbery. Firework sparks and hot Texas summers are the right combination for the wrong event - fires.

Control Bag Worms Now

Bagworms are one of the major pests of junipers and other trees and shrubs in Texas. Spring hatch began in early May on the South Plains this year. Hatching is usually completed in about three weeks. Insecticide control is most effective in late May and early June when bagworms are small, says County Extension Agent Tim Trimble.

In the spring, bagworm larvae emerge from hatching eggs inside, last year's bags and begin feeding on leaves. They soon begin to construct their own protective bag of silk, twigs and leaves making them camouflaged and hard to see. As the larvae and their bags continue to grow, control becomes more difficult.

Bagworms feed throughout the summer months, building their bags until the bags are about 1 1/2 inches long, Trimble adds. In the fall, the bagworms become adults, mate and the females lay eggs inside their bags. They then overwinter in these bags in trees and shrubs. Each overwintering female bag on a tree contains 500 to 1500 eggs.

"Since the bagworm only completes one generation a year and spreads very slowly from plant to plant, picking the bags off infested plants in the winter will help a lot toward controlling this pest," says Trimble. "But, if bagworms were present on the plant last year and control measures were not applied, chances are very good that an insecticide will be needed this spring."

Insecticides which can be used to control bagworms include sevin, dursban, diazinon, malathion, dylox and orthene. The biological insecticide Bacillus thuringiensis can also be used. To obtain effective control, thorough coverage of the foliage is important. The addition of a small amount of liquid soap or surfactant to the spray solution will improve control because it helps adhere the insecticide to the treated trees and shrubs. Always read and follow label instructions when applying insecticides.

Delta Kappa Gamma Celebrates 60 Years

Thelma Shields, President of the Gamma Kappa Chapter of Women Educators, accompanied by her husband, Arthur Shields, just returned from the Texas state organization of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International in Abilene.

Over a thousand members of the Texas State Organization of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met in Abilene June 15-17 to celebrate their sixtieth anniversary.

Dr. Barbara A. Baker, immediate past international president of Alexandria, Virginia, served as the official representative for the international organization and gave the keynote address during the final banquet Saturday night.

Miss Dorothy Stallings, state president, of Waco presided during the convention. During the executive board meeting of the 298 chapters in Texas Dr. Aleene Van de Grift of Dallas was elected president for the 1989-1991 biennium, effective July 1.

Other officers elected with her include Dr. Jane Knapik of Uvalde, vice president; Miss Sandy Whitney of El Paso, second vice president; Dr. Annette Keller of Fort Worth, recording secretary; and Mrs. Sheryl Minick of Richardson, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Kathryn Batek of Missouri City will serve as parliamentarian.

Five members earned the meritorious Alpha State, Texas, Achievement Award, presented to those members who have exhibited extra effort while working on the state level.

Members receiving the gold diamond-centered Texas shaped pin include Miss Evangeline George of Eta Mu Chapter, Beaumont; Mrs. Edith Hale of Beta Iota Chapter, Alpine; Mrs. Doris E. Raphael of Iota Beta Chapter, San Antonio; the late Mrs. Ozell Slayton of Zeta Chapter, Waco; and Mrs. Mary Alice Watts of Epsilon Chapter, Dallas.

Members joining over fifty years ago were honored along with honorary members during the birthday luncheon on Friday. Special recognition was given to members who have faithfully served the Society for a number of years.

A special presentation on Friday night featured the 298 Texas chapter presidents in a program entitled, "All Star Galaxy." The audio-visual presentation included slides of the stars, galaxies and constellations.

A special judged exhibit of Women in the Arts featured original works of art by members, with first place winning entries scheduled to be displayed at the Southwest Regional Conference of the Society in Houston in late July.

A series of committee and special interest workshops took place throughout the convention. A memorial service honored the memories of several hundred members who have died since the last convention.

The convention closed with a formal installation of officers and a dinner honoring the twelve Founders and chapter, state and international presidents on Saturday night.

A reception honored both retiring and incoming officers and committee chairmen and the 16 area

Delta Kappa coordinators took place on Sunday and Monday.

The international society of women educators was started in Austin on May 11, 1929 when Dr. Annie Webb Blanton invited eleven other teachers from all over Texas to join her in the new organization.

From the nucleus of a dozen members in Texas, the organization has grown to over 18,000 members in Texas and over 175,000 members in 3,075 chapters throughout each of the United States and seven provinces of Canada, as well as Norway, Sweden, Finland, Iceland, Great Britain, The Netherlands, Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Costa Rica, and Puerto Rico.

One of the main thrusts of the honorary society is the awarding of scholarships to members and world fellowships to teachers in non-member countries.

Lubbock area chapters will host the convention in 1990. A regional meeting of 17 chapters in the southwestern part of the United States, Mexico, Costa Rica, El Salvador, and Guatemala will take place this summer in Houston July 25-29, with several thousand expected to attend.

Deuteronomy 6:7-9

STILL ON THE SHELF

by Jon Leggett

The woman had an odd look about her—not an unpleasant look—she was tall, well-dressed, attractive—but an odd look nonetheless. It was mainly in her eye—a sleepy, dreamy, less-than-purposeful look. But she strode quite purposefully to the door of the clothing store on the north side of the town square, paused for a moment to look at the display in the window, then entered through the beautiful, old-fashioned doors with their leaded-glass panels.

She had driven about thirty miles from her home in a large city to this quiet little town on the outskirts of the metropolitan area. She stayed an hour or more in the store, but could hardly have been considered a bother to the clerk who waited on her. She tried on a number of dresses and decided to purchase four—perhaps six—of them. She had no shoes to match two of the dresses, so that was quickly taken care of. A purse and several other accessory items were added to her collection, and the shopping was done. She batted not an eye as she paid the nine-hundred-plus dollars required at the cash register, and asked a favor of the clerk:

"May I leave these things here for three or four days? I will be back in town shortly, and will pick them up then."

Having been assured that they would be glad to hold her purchases for her, she quietly exited.

Nearly two years later, those items, still unclaimed, rest on a shelf in the storeroom.

This is, at least in its major details, a true story which took place not so terribly far from here. Why did she not claim her new outfits? Why did she not at least demand a refund, or stop payment on her check? She has over nine hundred dollars credit. Why does she not possess that which is hers? Why are her clothes still on the shelf?

In the twenty-second chapter of Matthew, Jesus says that the Kingdom of Heaven is like a wedding banquet. Weddings were the happiest of times in that society—occasions one simply should not miss. And Jesus is saying in effect, "Don't miss God's glorious Kingdom!" But near the end of the parable, the king—the banquet host—finds one not suitably clothed, and has him thrown out. In our super-casual, do-your-owning world, this seems hard-hearted, but notice the implication of the story: "...The servants went out into the streets and gathered all the people they could find, . . . and the wedding hall was filled with guests" (Matthew 22:10, NIV). Having been so hastily invited from the streets, this crowd could not have been expected to be properly clothed, yet only one was ejected for lack of proper attire. Conclusion: the king supplied the needed garments. The lesson, then, is this: Don't miss God's banquet, but you must come His way.

Surely, during her strange shopping spree, the lady had at least some vague idea of where she might wear her beautiful new dresses. The blue one to the country club luncheon, perhaps? The pink stripe to the baby shower? Did she attend those affairs in something less suitable? Again, why are her clothes still on the shelf?

Surely, too, however vaguely, we long for the Kingdom. The Lord has instilled that longing in us, and we are invited. ". . . Everything is ready. Come to the wedding banquet" (verse 4). Are we ready? Are our beautiful garments, already paid for and washed white by the blood of the Lamb, still unclaimed?

"When He shall come with trumpet sound,

Oh, may I then in Him be found;

Dressed in His righteousness alone,

Faithless to stand before the throne.

On Christ the solid rock I stand."

Are YOUR clothes still on the shelf?

Former Hedley City Secretary M. O. Weatherly, left, and current City Secretary Mack Garrison are shown at the cutoff valves for Hedley's water tanks. The sixty-year-old tower was taken off line as the new two-hundred-thirty-five-thousand-gallon standpipe was placed into service. The other photograph shows the old tower, and the new standpipe, which stands a few feet to the south. The City began working on a plan to secure a new water storage facility while Mr. Weatherly was still in office, and those plans were completed a few days ago as Mr. Garrison and Greenbelt Water officials filled the new tank.

Hedley News

Hedley, like most communities in our area, continues to dry out following a week of wet, stormy weather. Farmers are extremely busy, and we wish them the best as they try to get their crops started. Last Wednesday evening, a small waterfall could still be seen pouring from a broken terrace, while soil in the very same field, powdered by heavy rains, was whipped up by the winds into a sandstorm. Only in West Texas!

Downtown Hedley continues to be spruced up a bit. Recently a picture was run in the Press showing the new front on the Lioness Club building. This past week, a somewhat similar, and very attractive awning was added to The Hayloft by owners Anthony and Vicki Knowles. Vicki said there was a little trim work left to be done, but the store is really looking nice. Next door, work continues on the building owned by Froggie and Louise Stewart. We are intrigued by the sign which says "Coming soon..." More about this later, we hope.

Around the corner, steelwork is going up on Hedley's new three-bay fire station. Work should really speed up on this project as soon as the last of the steel is erected.

Bobby Lesley was a weekend visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Weatherly and others. Bobby attended high school in Hedley in the late fifties, and is currently coaching at an El Paso high school. Edith Bain is recovering from a bad fall downtown last Friday. She was badly scratched and bruised, but fortunately no bones were broken. Edith was also thankful that her glasses were not broken.

Several young people in the fourth-through-sixth-grade age group left Monday for Panfork Baptist Encampment near Wellington. They will return Thursday afternoon. An older group from First Baptist Church will leave Wednesday afternoon for the Youth Evangelism Conference in Reunion Center in Dallas. They intend to be back Saturday afternoon.

Mack Garrison completed a Texas A & M water school in Amarillo recently, and received his Grade B Water Certificate. This is the next to the highest certification granted by the state for waterworks operators.

We see by a huge sign in a local store window that Rhonda Shaw had a birthday this week.

Hedley residents were treated to an unusual sight this past week. At least two Ringling Brothers circus trains headed west on the Burlington Northern railroad. Elephants' trunks were spotted in at least two cars just behind the locomotives, and circus performers and employees stood at almost every car door waving to the locals.

Remember! Leave news for this column at the Senior Citizens Center. It will be picked up around eleven o'clock Monday morning.

Notice To Residents

Beginning July, 1989 (the first month of the City's fiscal year) the City of Hedley will implement a raise in the water rate. This is only the second water rate hike since the City was incorporated.

Due in part to the City's low expenditures and to low inflation the City of Hedley has been able to offer the citizens with the lowest water rate of any incorporated city in the Texas Panhandle.

The decision to raise the water rate came after many hours of study and discussion. Therefore, based on the new costs that the City has been forced to bear, old failing equipment, and the rising cost of insurance plus the need for more coverage etc. the City of Hedley will implement a new water rate which will be realized on the July, 89 bill to be received August, 89.

The water rate will be changed from: $8.00 for 3000 gallons to $15.00 for 5000 gallons. This means that all minimum water bills will be $15.00 instead of $8.00, and every meter will be allowed to utilize 5000 gallons before any more is charged rather than 3000 gallons which is the allowed amount to be utilized at the present.

Again this will be noticed on the July, 89 bill to be sent out in August, 89. 25-2c

James Olson Blankenship

Funeral services were held Saturday, June 10, for James Olson Blankenship, who grew up, attended school and farmed in his early years with his family in and around Hedley.

Mr. Blankenship, 83, died June 8 in Bellflower, Calif., of a chronic leukemia condition that had recently become acute.

He was the oldest son of John and Mattie Blankenship, who were among the early settlers of Hedley.

Mr. Blankenship is survived by his son, James Jr; his daughter-in-law, Joellyn; and step-grandson, Ryan, of Kanoche, Hawaii.

Also surviving are his brother, Lionel, of Tucson, Ariz.; and his sister, Jeanne, of Long Beach, California.

The following eulogy was written by his son and read at the funeral services at Forest Lawn in Cypress, Calif., by the Rev. Dr. William J. McIlhenny:

EULOGY
James Olson Blankenship-- "Olson to his family, and "Jim" to his friends and neighbors in north Bellflower-- was a retired autoworker with Chrysler Corporation. He worked 22 years for Chrysler--from 1949 to 1971--never missing a day, except for the time a trailer tongue smashed down on his toe and sidelined him for a day or two.

Retirement came easy for Jim. he loved the serenity of his home and beautiful garden. Many a peaceful hour was spent working the soil, or just reclining in his favorite old chair.

Jim grew up with his brother and three sisters and his parents, John and Mattie, in a pioneer West Texas town (Hedley) that had made the transition from early cattle country to a struggling cotton-growing community. His outlook on life was shaped by the toil and uncertainty of farm life and the harshness of the Depression.

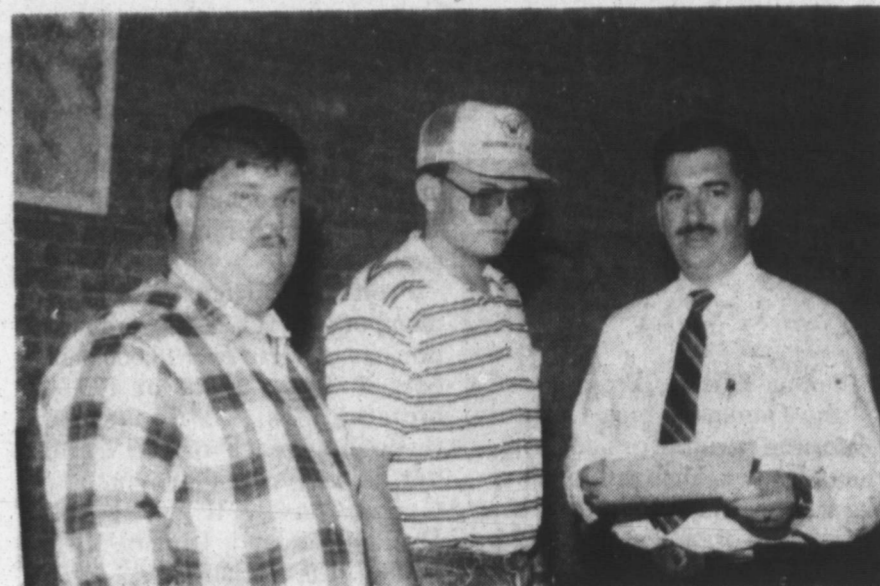

In 1928, Jim married Lorene Bales, his wife for 54 years. Their only son, Jim Jr. was born in 1937.

California beckoned the young family in 1940. Their travels eventually led to Long Beach and a home near the bustling military stations and the around-the-clock ship-building defense effort of World War II. Jim was among the phalanx of welders who assembled an untold number of liberty ships needed in that big war.

The family returned to Texas for a few years after the war. But, in the fall of 1948, California lured them back and they settled in the first of their two homes on Maplewood Street in Bellflower.

Jim's was a life that began in the twilight of the Old West in 1906 and ended in 1989 in an era when a hard-working man could find peace from his labor and harmony with his make--and his little bird friends--in just a backyard patch of green.

He was a man who asked little for himself in life, but a man who had so much to give on so many different ways.

Hedley Sends Teacher & Student to Symposium

Thirty-two outstanding high school students and teachers from West Texas Utilities' service area attended the 29th Annual Texas Energy Science Symposium at the University of Texas in Austin. The conference got underway Monday, June 12th and ended Thursday, June 15th.

Sponsored by WTU from Hedley were Hoss Pickard, teacher and Curtis Neeley, student, and Kit Horne, WTU representative.

A total of 500 students and teachers throughout the state attended the four day event. Participants had the opportunity to tour some of the finest scientific facilities available and attend lectures and workshops by leading professionals in the scientific field.

The Symposium was jointly sponsored by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the University of Texas. West Texas Utilities is one of the Foundation's sponsoring companies and paid for all expenses for the 32 students and teachers that attended from their service area.

The Foundation was founded for the primary purpose of conducting the world's first and largest privately financed research effort in the field of energy. The goal of the Foundation and WTU is not research alone, but also to broaden knowledge of energy science in Texas schools and to heighten awareness of the privileges and responsibilities that scientific discovery presents.

There are over 1,000 accredited senior high schools in the state of Texas, and Hedley can be proud for being chosen as one of the schools invited to send teachers and students to the Symposium.

Effectively Reduce Blood Pressure

Many of America's 60 million hypertensives take prescription medicines to help control their blood pressure. These medicines work in a variety of ways to keep the pressure at a reasonable level. Some medicines dilate blood vessels, causing a drop in the pressure. Other types inhibit special nerve receptors located in the brain. A third category includes medicines which reduce blood pressure by affecting either the amount of blood pumped out of the heart or the amount that is pumped back to the heart.

Another category of medicines that effectively reduce high blood pressure are called ACE inhibitors. These medicines prevent the formation of angiotensin, a substance which tends to raise the blood pressure. ACE inhibitors such as captopril and enalapril have received a lot of attention because of their high degree of effectiveness, especially when taken with diuretics. The overall low incidence of side effects for ACE inhibitors is low.

In a study of over 600 men with high blood pressure, those treated with an ACE inhibitor had significantly higher "quality-of-life" scores (e.g., work performance and general well being) than did those receiving other types of medicines.

Bradward on Classifieds 14

It is very sad, but reading skills in the USA continue to go down, down, down. About two-thirds of all adults cannot read with more than 8th grade skill. So why, then, make reading your classified ad needlessly difficult? Of the 500 most commonly used words of everyday English, each has an average of 28 dictionary definitions. Esteemed Friend, it is highly unlikely that anything is ever "perfectly clear." Here is an ad which allowed its creator to stop sleeping on streets (true) and now count his ten million dollar fortune (true) earned in very few years (true). "MAN WITH VAN, CALL ANYTIME. YOU CAN COUNT ON US. (800-0000)." Here's another classified. "CAN YOUR CAR PASS THE SMOG CHECK? LAST FOR 500,000 MILES WITH NO REPAIRS? FULL PAGE NEWSPAPER STORY TELLS HOW GET YOUR COPY FREE. (800-0000)." Everyone can read these. Everyone can understand these. Here is a fine idea for you. Try writing a 35 to 40 word classified using only one syllable words. Your simple EASY ENGLISH ad will outperform all those ads in college English. Guaranteed. Remember never to confuse reading skills or abilities with talents for making fortunes. Some of your classified readers can write checks for the purchase of your whole company but who never completed the 8th grade. Write to sell. Do not write to show how smart you are. Write to your friends and neighbors can read and understand. Will a classified of 35 one syllable words cost more than a two line classified? Yes. Worth it? Yes. But if you get the sales response you need from qualified buyers, nothing can top your classified written in EASY ENGLISH. And with all those earnings from your sales in classifieds, you can spend whole weekends enjoying Shakespeare to your heart's delight! □ □ □

Thank You
 The citizens of Clarendon and Howardwick would like to thank the Donley County Sheriff's Office, volunteers, EMS Unit, Department of Public Safety, Fire Department and all the people who helped with the tornado at Howardwick. These people stayed up all night long watching the weather to warn us of tornadoes and threatening weather. We appreciate all the time and effort put in to protecting and saving as many lives as possible. Every home was checked at Howardwick after the tornado hit there, and none stopped until they had made sure everyone was safe. We again say Thank You.

I would like to express my appreciation to all of the people of Howardwick for their cooperation and help after the tornado that hit their community. My thanks also to the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department who assisted us in every way they were asked, the Howardwick Volunteer Fire Department, the Firebelles who provided coffee and donuts which were greatly appreciated, Reserve Deputy Jim Cockerham, the EMS, the State Game Wardens, the Department of Public Safety the Hedley Volunteer Fire Department, Constable Blackie Johnson, Carson County Sheriff Terry Timmons, Memphis Chief of Police Mike Allen, Hall County Sheriff, Kenny Schull, GTE, Greenbelt Electric, West Texas Utilities, Jerry Green, Dan Sawyer and the State Highway Department for two days and nights of assistance during the threatening and sometime destructive weather. Thanks also to my deputies and dispatchers who had a hectic job during this two week period.

Again I would like to thank everyone for their cooperation and help. Due to the assistance of all these people my job was made one hundred percent easier. This once more proves that the people of Donley County are the best in the world.
 [Signed]
 William J. Thompson,
 Sheriff of Donley County
