The Farmers State Bank & Trust Co. Joins Credit System

The Farmers State Bank & Trust Company announces their new association to the largest bank credit card system in the world — MASTER CHARGE.

Emmett Simmons, President, says The Farmers State Bank & Trust Company joined the booming MASTER CHARGE Association to be in a position to setup all merchants in Clarendon and trade area to honor and welcome the MASTER CHARGE Bank Credit Card.

In a few weeks, The Farmers State Bank & Trust Company will mail the MASTER CHARGE Credit Cards to residents in Clarendon and the immediate trade area. In this given period of time, all merchants will be contacted, and given the opportunity to set up as members to honor the MASTER CHARGE Credit Card.

Mr. Simmons feels the Clarendon Merchants should be given the opportunity to honor MASTER CHARGE Credit Cards carried by area card holders, as well as visitors to Greenbelt Lake, Clarendon Junior College, and tourists on Highways 287 and 70. This should result in a fine increase in total dollar volume of business to our merchants. MASTER CHARGE has 18 million cardholders and growing 2 million cards per month.

MASTER CHARGE, The all purpose card, will be honored throughout the world — 10,000 of the finest hotels, restaurants, etc. of Europe, including, among other countries, the following: The British Isles, Sweden, Denmark, The Netherlands, Belgium, France, Spain, Italy, and West Germany.

Public To See Film Of Championship Basketball Games

Coach Carl Irlbeck and the Bronchos are inviting the public to come and see the film of the Clarendon-Ralls game at Lubbock and the Clarendon-Friendswood game at Austin. The two games will be shown Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the High School Cafeteria.

Coach Irlbeck, speaking for himself and the team, expressed their appreciation to all those who contributed to the film fund so these games could be filmed. They are quite valuable to the coach and team in being able to see the various mistakes made and the way their game strategy could be improved.

We just hope everyone can plan to be present and see the films, Irlbeck concluded.

HEDLEY SCHOOL BLDG. DAMAGED BY BLAST

The new Hedley school building received undetermined damage last Saturday night when their hot water heating system blew up. It was believed there was a malfunction in the safety devices regulating the gas which caused the explosion.

Several walls and ceilings were cracked and some bulged out. School was dismissed Monday in order to take safety precautions. A temporary heating unit was borrowed from Boy's Ranch and installed Tuesday so there would be heat in the building.

It is too early to place an exact figure on the amount of damage but it will be high, one school official reported.

First Baptist Church Dedicated Sunday

In spite of snow, mud, and sharp winds, the dedication of the First Baptist Church was observed last Sunday, March 16, for the most part as planned. The people disregarded the weather and filled the sanctuary for all three services. They came from Oklahoma City, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland and the surrounding area towns of Canyon, Amarillo, Dumas, Wellington, Memphis and points in between.

Mrs. H. C. Brumley, the church's senior member, attended also. She had seen the progress of the church during its seventy-nine years, from its one room structure to its present $250,000 plant. A painting of that first church was on display during the afternoon tea in Fellowship Hall.

At the afternoon dedication, Mr. O. C. Watson received a plaque from the church in appreciation of his service during construction of the building. He served as church chairman between the church and John Jones, contractor. The American National Bank of Amarillo asked permission to furnish the Memorial Board of donors for the church in appreciation of Emmett O. Simmons. The memorial board will be placed in the foyer of the church.

Former pastors were featured speakers at the services. L. A. Sartain who was in Lubbock visiting his son, was unable to fill his place on the afternoon program because of the heavy snowfall in the Lubbock area, but he made the evening service and brought greetings and congratulations. W. F. Vanderburg, pastor, 1955-59, spoke in the morning, and Howard Scott, pastor, 1952-53, brought the evening message. Mrs. Howard Scott played an organ recital at 6:30 p.m. She was church organist here while her husband was pastor of the church. Jake Arthur, music director when the Scots were here, directed the evening music and sang a solo.

Other musical highlights included Mrs. Joan Word, soloist from Canyon, the combined youth and adult choirs of the church and a man's quartet. Clarendon College opened its cafeteria to accommodate the guests at noon. It was the first opportunity for some of the local residents to see the splendid view from the dining room.

Tours of the church plant were conducted throughout the day.

Rev. W. R. Lawrence, pastor, invites the people of Clarendon to come by any time to see the church. It is open every day of the week, except Saturday afternoon.

Deadline For New Safety Stickers Near

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today reminded motorists that less than a month remains before the 1969 motor vehicle inspection deadline.

To date, an estimated 2.8 million vehicles have received the inspection required by state law. The Department of Public Safety said some 3.2 million additional vehicles remain to be inspected prior to midnight, April 15.

Speir said 42.2 per cent of the vehicles inspected so far required mechanical adjustments prior to issuance of an inspection sticker. The defect found most often has been misalignment of headlights.

The Department of Public Safety urged motorists to get the inspection soon to avoid long lines which will develop at inspection stations as the April 15 deadline approaches.

Texas has 5,466 licensed inspection stations. The required inspection fee is $1.75.

It has been a long seige of inclement weather with very little sunshine but the moisture received from the five different recent snows has been wonderful from the farmers and ranchers outlook.

Immediately following the big melt Sunday, the sun appeared on schedule Monday morning and the day along with Tuesday were typical Spring days . . . in fact, shirt sleeve weather.

Farmers say the moisture has met and preparation of land will get under way in earnest just as soon as it dries enough to pull the machinery into the fields. Ranchers are joining the farmers with broad smiles for the outlook for early grass is real good.

Since the snow and moisture has covered such a broad area, it is considered much more beneficial. The ground is soggy from the east and south plains into the Oklahoma Panhandle.

According to our official weather observers our total moisture for the month so far netted 1.63 inches and the total for the year now stands at 2.43 inches. On March 2nd we received .72 inch, March 5th .23, March 6th .13, March 10th .06, March 11th .01, March 15th .33 and March 16 .15 inches.

The first day of Spring will arrive Friday and fair weather is in the offing. Some of the Apricot trees are already beginning to blossom.

CORPSMEN ARE KEPT BUSY IN VIETNAM

An interesting clipping was sent home this week from Vietnam telling something of the work that is being done there. It was sent by Corpsman 2nd Class Shelby Bell.

Shelby is one of three medical corpsmen serving with Marine Supply Co. at Phu Bai. This trio treats 50 or more Vietnamese patients daily in addition to their normal work with the Marines. They average caring for roughly 4,500 patients monthly and on occasion have treated as many as 5,000 in a month's time.

In each village a Vietnamese girl is trained as a nurse to help the corpsmen in hopes that these women will continue the work when the team leaves.

Though these Marines had no training in Dentistry they have been forced to study a few books and with some dental instruments have started pulling teeth averaging about 25 each month.

Each month the corpsmen use approximately 48,000 aspirin, 10 gallons of cough medicine, and 600 feet of tape for bandages.

THE LEGISLATIVE LOFT

By Rep. Tom Christian

By the end of the first week in March, nearly 700 bills had been introduced in the Texas House of Representatives.

After a careful review of these bills it was discovered that a substantial proportion are aimed at special problems in local legislative districts. These bills are important. It's the only way local districts can receive proper attention.

There are three bills, however, that are important to all Texans. The following is a brief discussion of these bills.

The first bill, which was written by Rep. Harold Davis of Travis County and co-sponsored by myself, makes it unlawful for any person 21 years of age and over to provide any person under 21 years of age with any narcotic drugs.

The primary feature of the bill is a penalty calling for a five-year minimum sentence without probation. It is this feature that strengthens the existing laws.

Under present laws an adult can be convicted of selling narcotic drugs to Texas youths and then receive a probated sentence. This allows the person to be free the next day and selling narcotics again.

A bill written by Rep. Joe Shannon of Fort Worth prohibits disruptive activities on the campus of any public school or tax-supported institution of higher education. Unauthorized activity which obstructs passage in entrances or hallways, aims at taking control of buildings, prevents lawful assembly or disrupts lawful assembly by violence of threat of violence would be banned.

Rep. Shannon's bill protects the right of students to attend college while at the same time preserves the right of peaceful protests. It includes stiff fines and jail sentences. In addition, the student can lose the right to attend state colleges and forfeit scholarship funds.

While major threats to campuses in Texas are not now imminent, the law is needed to meet the danger if it should arise and more important it is needed to express a stand by the people of Texas. The bill has passed the House and Senate and is back in the House for review of Senate changes.

Within the last week the House approved a bill calling for a constitutional amendment to authorize $3.5 billion in bonds to carry out the Texas Water Plan. This has to be viewed as a major piece of legislation not only for the High Plains area, but also for any Texas area that has a water shortage.

The bill is designed to aid the comprehensive water plan based on Texas importing water from in state and out of state water sources. The amendment raises the amount of water development bonds the state can issue from the present $200 million limit to $3.5 billion, step away the four per cent interest ceiling on the bonds and broaden the Water Development Board's power to contract for water resources and facilities.

Texas' anticipated share of the $10 billion — cost of the entire project — program, will be covered by the $3.5 billion bond limit. The federal government will be asked to pay for most of the remaining $6.5 billion.

If approved by two-thirds vote in the House and Senate, the amendment will go to the voters for approval in November, 1970.

NEWS FROM

Congressman Bob Price 18th District, Texas

In a recent Washington Report on student disorders, I said that the Congress and the President have a clear responsibility to put "law and order" ahead of anything else and to enact and enforce stringent laws to deal with Communist conspiracies as well as the flagrant disregard of human rights.

Since then, U. S. Attorney General John N. Mitchell has said he expects to authorize criminal prosecution of "hard-line militants" who he says have been crossing state lines to incite riots by college students.

Last year, I and other Congressmen introduced anti-riot legislation which became part of the 1968 Civil Rights Act, and makes it a Federal offense to cross state lines with intent to incite, organize, encourage or take part in a riot.

These are encouraging words in view of the mounting mass of evidence of a national or international conspiracy behind the student unrest. The same faces appear at one disorder after another on campuses across the nation. The Attorney General appears to be convinced that a small group of people is making "almost a vocation" of starting trouble on the campus. "There is as distinction between the hard-liner with the militant approach and the young, innocent who likes to protest," he said. "We should break out the hard-liners and distinguish them from the others."

Governor Ronald Reagan at the National Governors Conference here recently proposed a Federal investigation to determine if there is a nationwide plan or organization behind the current outbreaks. Attorney General Mitchell said the Justice Department is already making such an investigation.

At the same time, President Nixon directed Vice President Agnew to discuss with the governors what action consistent with the traditional independence of American universities, might be taken at the state and Federal levels to cope with the growing lawlessness and violence on our campuses.

In a letter to the Reverend Theodore M. Hesburgh, President of Notre Dame, Nixon said that if the integrity of our universities is to be preserved, then certain principles must be re-established and certain basic rules enforced. "Intimidation and threats remain outlaw weapons in a free society," he wrote. In speaking of the student rebellions, George F. Kennan, diplomat, historian, and educator, said: "Universities are there for purposes of education. They are not supposed to be exercises in political democracy. The term democracy refers to the procedures of Government and defines the relationship between the individual citizens and those who hold the ultimate power of disposal over his person and property; it has no proper applicability to the administration of the educational process." "Higher education," Kennan said, "is not an absolute right nor is the enjoyment of it devoid of responsibilities. In an age when there are far more applicants for enrollment in our leading institutions than these institutions can handle, there is no reason anyone should be tolerated as a student on one of these campuses who is not prepared to give the university his respect and whose presence and activity there are disruptive of the educational progress of other students."

FERTILIZATION AND HARVEST TIMING VITAL IN HAY PRODUCTION

Hay quality in 1969 will depend, in the main, on two things — ample fertilization and early harvesting — reminds Dr. J. Neal Pratt, Extension agronomist at Texas A&M University.

Adequate rainfall last year caused many hay fields to draw heavily on plant nutrients in the soil and these must be replaced for high quality hay this year. Fertilizer should be applied early in the spring, or about the time the last frost is expected, he says.

A soil test is the only sure way to tell how much fertilizer and lime will be needed this year. Approximately 80-100 pounds of nitrogen should be supplied for the first cutting in addition to the phosphorus, potash, lime and other nutrients recommended by the soil test. The agronomist says hay should be topdressed immediately after each harvest for maximum quality as rainfall can be utilized more efficiently when hay crops have been adequately fertilized.

Harvesting before plants mature is of equal importance for high quality, and Pratt suggests about every 25-28 days for permanent type grasses such as Bermudagrass, Johnsongrass and hybrid sorghums should be harvested before seedheads emerge, he adds.

Most areas in the state have the potential for producing five tons or more of good quality hay per acre — but the amount and quality produced are largely determined by the amount of plant food and the stage of growth when the crops are harvested, Pratt adds.

A forage test is a good way to determine the quality of hay being produced this spring and county agents can supply information on this as well as soil tests.

Proper Chemical Application Key To Chinch Bug Control

The main factor in chinch bug control with chemicals is proper application, members of the 23rd annual Texas Turfgrass Conference learned recently.

Phil Harman, Extension Service entomologist at Texas A&M University, said there are a number of effective insecticides on the market, but none will do the job it is supposed to do if carelessly applied.

He described chinch bugs as "probably the biggest problem on home lawns and golf greens in southern regions of the United States."

Time of insecticide application is important. In the College Station area, peak build-ups of the bugs are in May and July. Tests last year showed that chemicals applied in mid-April and mid-July hit the pests about right.

Hamman said a thorough "good old fashioned irrigation" also is important after the chemical is put on the grass. This is necessary so that the material is washed down through the thatch to get at the bugs. Just sprinkling the chemical on top of the grass will do little if any good.

The current standard chinch bug control recommendation for Texas is ethion, trithion, diazinon or aspon, he said. Diazinon is recommended only in granular form.

Hamman pointed out that the bug prefers Saint Augustine grass, but it also has been found to attack centipede, zoysia, bahia and Bermuda grasses.

The entomologist added that tests in Florida have shown that heavy applications of nitrogen fertilizer to grass tend to favor chinch bug build-ups, probably because the grass becomes lusher and more attractive.

WEED CONTROL IN COTTON

Weed control is one of the most important considerations in getting a good stand of cotton in years of good moisture and in the high rainfall areas of the state, says Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist. Chemicals can be successfully used, he says, but all have some limitations. He suggests that cotton growers become familiar with the available chemicals and plan a program of weed control based on their weak and strong points. And, he adds, don't overlook the place of mechanical weed control methods.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM HELPS

If a three-year-old child walks up holding a tiny kitten, what will you say first? "Don't squeeze the kitten?"

So he will probably squeeze the kitten! Miss Jennie Kitching, Extension specialist in family life education, suggests talking to him in a positive way.

Focus on the do's and not the do not's she says. A child is still in the process of learning so give suggestions. If you say "don't" he knows what he can't do but does he know what he is supposed to do?

Constructive criticism will help a child to have a more positive outlook on life and give himself confidence, says Miss Kitching at Texas A&M University.

Gov. Preston Smith handed the 61st Legislature a $261.5 million new revenue program to balance his general revenue budget recommendations totalling more than $1.4 billion.

Reaction varied widely, though few expect the $148.8 million direct biennial tax bill submitted by the governor in his message to the joint session will pass as proposed.

Ninety per cent of $133 million in general fund spending which Smith recommended over the Legislative Budget Board's $1.1 billion appropriations bill would go to education. Teacher pay raises — $1,266 a year for B.A. teachers and $1,580 for M.A. holders—would take $220 million over next two years.

Smith's other revenue proposals are these:

An increase from 11 to 14 cents a package in taxes on cigarettes, to raise $15 million in two years.

An increase in the tax on other tobacco products, to raise $6 million.

Extension of the sales tax to cover services such as laundry, dry cleaning, repairs, parking and cable TV, to raise $48.8 million.

Extension of the sales tax to cover wine, beer and liquor, to raise $40 million.

Extension of the sales tax on the purchase of cars and other equipment bought for rental purposes, to raise $9 million.

Putting an additional state fine of $10 on all moving traffic violation cases, to raise $38.5 million.

Raise notary, corporation charter and uniform commercial code fees, to raise $2.6 million.

Increase fees paid to the Secretary of State, to raise $2.6 million.

Remainder of Smith's revenue would come from the $38.5 million surplus.

Governor urged the following for education, in addition to the teacher pay hike:

Vocational-technical education improvements totalling $25 million more than previously recommended; $12 million to hire more teacher aides; $16 million increase for special education of handicapped; $5 million to conduct a pilot eight-week optional summer school program; $3.3 million for teacher sick leave; $12 million more for junior colleges; $3 million to develop regional education closed circuit television systems; $3.3 million each for new medical schools in Houston and Lubbock; $7.3 million for new dental school in San Antonio; $600,000 to expand Baylor dental and medical units and $500,000 for studies measuring results of public education.

Governor thinks $11.7 million more is needed for medical assistance programs; $6.5 million for a 3.4 per cent state employee pay raise; $5 million more to pay employee group insurance premium; $2.2 million more for his own office; $1.8 million to implement water planning; $200,000 for Water Rights Commission; $200,000 each for urban studies at Arlington and Houston; $300,000 for Parks and Wildlife Commission and $300,000 for centralized services. Department of Public Safety would get $8.5 million more from special funds to hire more personnel, build additional facilities and improve communications.

But on one of the big issues of the legislative session, increased appropriations for higher education, Smith stood pat with the Legislative Budget Board recommendations. This is $73 million less on the seven "formula" terms. College presidents told the appropriations hearing that they simply cannot handle the flood of new students without the $73 million.

On the proposals of Gov. John Connally's Committee on Public School Education for consolidation and tax equalization, Governor Smith drew a middle ground. He advocated a state stamp tax on real estate transactions as a way of studying the variation in assessment bases for local school tax purposes. He referred to the rural school consolidation proposals in critical terms, but did not come out against it or suggest to the Legislature any decision on the recommendations for consolidation.

LEGISLATION MOVES ON — Governor Smith has signed into law bills to raise state employee retirement benefits an average 10 per cent and to raise from five to six and a half per cent the maximum interest rate on state and local bonds.

Senate passed 30-0 and sent to the House a compromise workmen's compensation reform bill, raising top benefits from $35 to $49 a week for injured or ill workers. Senate also passed a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize appropriations of funds for governors-elect between general election day and inauguration, bills to create separate boards of regents for East Texas State and West Texas State universities, authority for county commissioners to furnish free office space and telephones to legislators in their home districts and tax exemption for 500 non-profit rural water cooperatives and nursing homes.

House lagged far behind the Senate but did complete action on the bond interest bill, create a commission to operate the Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Museum in Fredericksburg and pass a bill to permit local libraries to join in a statewide network for exchange of books and service.

Liquor - by - the - drink constitutional amendments landed on Senate and House calendars with favorable committee reports and predictions of support by two-thirds of lawmakers. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes appeared to be taking a personal hand in steering the senate legislation.

Meanwhile, the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee unceremoniously killed another familiar measure — San Antonio Sen. V. E. (Red) Berry's proposal to legalize horse race gambling in Bexar and Harris counties.

Constitutional amendment to improve welfare ceiling has cleared Senate Committee.

Bill is pending in Senate to rename Corpus Christi State School for the late Sen. Bruce Reagan who handled legislation creating it.

ALLOWABLE BOOSTED — Texas Railroad Commission fixed oil allowable for March at 45.6 per cent of potential, compared with 42.8 per cent for February.

At the same time, Commission notified oil and gas officials it plans strengthened rules over offshore drilling to head off an incident like the oil leak off the California coast and the resulting pollution.

COURT SPEAKS — Texas Supreme Court has set a March 26 hearing on the suit challenging constitutionality of the state's Sunday closing law. Spartan's, Barker's, Shoppers World and Globe Stores won a verdict in San Antonio District court that the law is invalid.

High Court left in effect the decision of Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals that the "reasonable doubt" rule applying to adult criminal trials also must be adhered to in juvenile delinquency cases.

Supreme Court held that a district court jury or judge should pass on whether an Amarillo television broadcast improperly termed a Burger man a supermarket bandit. Suspect was freed before the broadcast on his arrest.

Electric company is not liable for punitive damages in the accidental electrocution of a young woman who was boating on Lake Jacksonville, Supreme Court concluded.

When board or commission has staggered terms, the legislature meant terms of members to begin on effective date of act. . . . But when law set up a single position and did not specify date of terms, term begins on the date first appointee took office.

In other recent opinions, Martin held that: Regulations for ambient air quality could not be the same or as strict in metropolitan areas as in an area with no industry, but emission of polluted matter into the air should be more rigidly controlled in a metropolitan area of industrial production than in an area where little pollution exists from emissions into air.

It is contrary to public policy for a member of board of trustees of a community center to be a stockholder of corporations contracting with the center, but there is no conflict of interest for mere employees of facilities in a contract between facilities and center.

Abandoned county road right-of-way property should be offered at private sale to adjoining or abutting property owners. If they don't want it, property can be sold at public auction after advertisement.

Governor Smith approved a contract by which Texas A&M and 11 other state agencies will make a four and a half year study of marine resources of the Gulf of Mexico.

Legislation dealing with peace officers and rebellious students are the dominant bills under consideration by the lawmakers.

Approved by the House was a measure that would provide criminal penalties for anyone involved in violent campus disruptions at both public and private schools throughout the state. Vote on the bill, by Rep. Joe Shannon of Fort Worth, was 135 to 12. It now goes to the Senate for action.

One of the two Negro members in the House, Rep. Curtis Graves of Houston, spoke against the bill saying it was "the kind of legislation that causes a backlash. If this passes, I predict this type of violence may come to our state, and each of us will regret passing it."

A clause in the bill outlawing disruptions by "loud or boisterous conduct" was deleted from the bill after some members said it was ambiguous and feared it might find the same fate as the state's disorderly conduct ordinance.

Last year a three judge panel in Waco ruled the disorderly conduct ordinance unconstitutional for not being specific enough. An appeal was made and the U. S. Supreme Court still is considering the measure.

Several amendments were added to the proposed bill, including one that would bar a student from attending a State-financed or assisted school for two years following three convictions for violation of the act. If a student were convicted twice under the act, he could not receive any State loans. Another amendment assures students taking part in demonstrations the right to peaceful protest.

A trespass bill by Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen is awaiting action. This bill would make it unlawful for anyone "with a malicious and mischievous intent" to trespass on the property of someone else, including campuses. It now is in the House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence.

Other bills were filed dealing with law enforcement.

Senate Youth Affairs Committee voted to report favorably to the Senate two bills designed to provide fairer hearings on juvenile offenders, which could include some of the demonstrators—especially at high schools.

One of the proposals would require the court to appoint an attorney to represent a juvenile offender, if the parents cannot afford one. If the judge determines that the parents can afford an attorney, he can require that they get one.

Both of the bills were proposed by Sen. Criss Cole of Houston, who is chairman of the committee.

Another measure would require the defense attorney in juvenile actions to furnish transcripts of the trial in case of an appeal.

Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon introduced a measure to help raise the standards of law enforcement officers.

This bill would give the Commission on Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Education the authority to certify persons as being qualified for police or other law enforcement jobs, and would set minimum standards. After Sept. 1, 1970, all appointive peace officers would be required to meet the educational, training, physical, mental and moral criteria set by the Commission. Elected officers, such as sheriffs and constables, would not have to qualify.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher viewed with "alarm" the governor's all - consumer - tax approach and said he had hoped for a "better balance" with business-consumer levies.

Mutscher outlined ideas for a meeting with his revenue and tax committee and predicted a tax bill "run" in the House about April 6.

A five-man sub-committee of the Higher Education Committee is studying a bill which would do away with the required six-hours of government or political science and six-hours of American or Texas history in Texas colleges. It is proposed by Rep. Don Cavness of Austin.

A proposal to create a statewide library system was sent to a sub-committee by the Senate Committee on State Affairs. Sen. A. M. Aldin of Paris and Senator Hightower are co-sponsors of the bill.

Rep. Joe Salem of Corpus Christi has introduced a resolution asking the House of Representatives to do something about poverty. His proposal calls for a five-man study committee made up of House members.

Senator Grover also has introduced a bill which would allow the state to aid cities in raising policemen's and firemen's salaries.

Soil Conservation District News

Grasses and legumes have established their place as one of the nation's major crops, thanks to farmers' and ranchers' profitable experience in growing improved varieties developed by SCS plant materials centers, agricultural research centers, and commercial seed growers.

Today, after a quarter of a century of conservation farming and ranching, the results of grassland husbandry are reflected in the economy of individual operators and that of communities and some entire regions. The job is not complete however, for much of our present cropland is unsuitable for cultivation and needs to return to grass.

Grasses and legumes have largely taken the place of cotton in many areas. Livestock operations thrive on improved pastures which were once in cultivation. In this area native grasses are protecting thousands of acres of soil which once blew in dust storms and are increasing livestock returns to farmers and ranchers. Expanded planting and profitable management of improved grasses and legumes result in higher hay yields and increased carrying capacities on pastures.

Most grassland farmers started by using grasses and legumes for erosion control. Then they realized that these crops were not only soil savers but were also improvers and moneymakers as well. Ranchers who realized that grass was the base of their livestock production learned to know their plants and to take care of them the same way they did their livestock. The new generations of conservation farmers and ranchers have come to manage grasses and legumes as primary crops on a par with the conventional row crops and small grains.

The stature of grass husbandry in American agriculture today is being reflected in the grass conservation practices being used throughout the country by co-operators in soil conservation districts.

This quarter century of progress in grassland agriculture is only a beginning. This area's potential of grass production has scarcely been topped and the grassland conservation job is barely a fourth done.

Texans Are Preparing For Increasing Leisure Time

Although an awareness exists for the need for money and medical care in older age, few realize the importance of leisure time activities.

Recent research at Texas A&M University studied how Texans are preparing for older age and retirement. Findings showed that many are not aware they should plan how they will use their increasing leisure time.

The problem concerns everyone, pointed out Dr. Alice Stubbs, acting head of the Department of Home Economics. It is everyone's responsibility. She stressed how people use their leisure has important social and economic implications.

Since the 1930's society has assumed increasing responsibility for the individual and the family, she explained.

The social group today must assume some responsibility for meeting the needs of its members. Only this will maintain economic and social stability for the total community and the nation, Dr. Stubbs said.

Social and economic changes and improved medical techniques place more and more people in the non-productive sector of society while they still are physically active.

Thus the retired need absorbing or interesting activities to replace occupational ones. But, pointed out Dr. Stubbs, purely recreational activities do not satisfy some people, especially those in rural areas.

Part time activities may not fill an after-retirement need because the individual needs an interest to which he can commit himself with the feeling that his time is well-spent.

Men have more problems than women with the worthwhile feelings, said the Texas A&M University researcher. Household-related activities, such as sewing, gardening and food preservation, do not stop in later years, while a retired husband tends to be separated from his occupational tasks.

The survey was taken with people 45 and 64 years old, the age period when they should be preparing for later years when more leisure time will be available.

It investigated the costs of leisure activities. The majority spent less than $35 for hobbies a year. Forty-eight per cent of the wives and 55 per cent of the husbands had no costs. The costs, pointed out Dr. Stubbs, included membership in clubs and organizations as well as costs of equipment or supplies.

Dr. Stubbs said respondents expected costs to remain static, and they found it hard to plan ahead on such activity costs. Most people live for today and trust the future to take care of itself.

The study indicated about half of the couples surveyed reported having a hobby. For wives, hobbies more often were gardening, handwork and sewing, while the husbands hunted or fished.

Travel proved an important leisure activity. As income increased, people traveled more for pleasure, Dr. Stubbs reported. When compared on a regional basis, Texas had the highest percentage of retired travelers and Alabama the lowest.

Ever hear of "beoigraphy?" Scientists are fishing up discarded Leer cans from the ocean depths to measure sediment. They call it "beoigraphy." They know the approximate dates the cans were manufactured, and can then tell how much sediment has accumulated from that date. (Wichita Falls Record News)

Food Today Not Like Grandma's

Food today is not like what Grandma used to make. She ate less—but she spent more of Grandpa's money for what she got.

Eating patterns, food prices and expenditures are changing. Why?

They follow a formula, explains Extension Consumer Marketing Specialist Gwendolyn Clyatt. Food demands, consumption and prices are related closely. When one varies, another is liable to change.

Recent U. S. Department of Agriculture research uncovered significant changes in the last half decade, the specialists report.

Researchers studied demands, consumption and prices of food in relation to changes in income and population. Studies help find how to keep down food prices and researchers consider problems in equity and income distribution.

America was built by men and women seeking independence and security. Our shelter, food and clothing all come from the soil. As the soil is lost so is our security and our freedom.
