Headlights: On The Beam
These footnotes about the history of headlights may be enlightening. THEN: The first electric automotive headlight was patented back in May of 1881. It was a lamp frame shaped like a polygon suspended in position by a series of opposing springs to neutralize jarring.

NOW: The first automotive headlamp to offer a lifetime warranty is the Wagner Halogen headlight. These are made to be 40 percent brighter and shine 200 feet further down the road than regular headlights. The lifetime warranty means that should one ever fail the company will replace it free, as long as you own your car.

Dear Parents and Teachers of the Clarendon Public Schools

The Board of Trustees will open bids on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 7:30 p.m. on a major building program. When I served as a member of the Board, I did some research into our needs as a school and the ways to improve our education. I do not feel that the current building project that is currently being planned and implemented addresses anything but the short range needs of our school. The Board did not take any long range needs into consideration when developing this plan.

I returned from Austin on Dec. 8th where I was in a meeting with Dr. Kirby who is the Commissioner of Education.

I have asked to be placed on the Board's agenda ahead of the bid opening to share with the Board the content of my meeting.

Those of you who are interested in bringing our school from the middle of the pack to one of the leaders in education, I urge you to attend this board meeting.

Thanks,
Ted Shaller

Relief from Allergy Symptoms

Allergic reactions can be so mild that they are hardly noticed or so severe that they become life threatening. Reactions can occur from exposure to things that we eat (milk, eggs, strawberries), inhale (molds, dust, plant pollen, feathers), ingest (some antibiotics), or contact (poison ivy, cosmetics, household detergents). Substances that penetrate the skin such as insect venom may also cause allergic reactions.

These substances, which are called allergens, cause the release of histamine and other chemicals in the body. Allergic symptoms often include a swollen, itchy, runny, or stopped up nose; tearing, red, swollen eyes; and, sometimes, coughing, wheezing, and sneezing.

Allergy relief begins with the avoidance of known allergens. Nonprescription medicines for allergy include the antihistamines and decongestants. Antihistamines, which block the effect of histamine, help reduce swelling and itching. They are usually more effective if taken before exposure to allergens. Decongestants cause a shrinkage of swollen nasal passages. Topical nasal decongestants (nose drops and sprays) should be used no longer than three or four days to avoid the possible occurrence of rebound congestion.

Hedley Sr. Citizens News

Weldon Petty, Creed Smith and Dee Williams provided our music and singing for our Musical on Monday night. There were 24 who attended. Tuesday night we had 4 tables playing 84.

Eight went on our Grocery Shopping Trip on Wednesday afternoon.

Due to the bad weather on Thursday, we only had 8 checked in our Blood Pressure Clinic. Again, due to the weather we had only one table playing 84 that evening.

On Saturday evening, a group went to Amarillo on the van. After a delicious meal at Grandy's, they toured Bishop Hills and different Amarillo to view the Christmas lights. If you have not viewed these lights in Amarillo, you are really missing a treat. They are beautiful! Those who went to see the lights were; Don Blanks, Tige Hill, Johnnie Hill, Edgel Tisdale, Audra Tisdale, Nell Land, Dorene Conatser, Lois Lair, Travis Bland, Inez Bland and Nina drove the van.

On Friday night, December 16, we will have a Gospel Singing at the Center. Everyone is invited to attend. We will also have some Christmas music.

Deuteronomy 6:7-9

Fool's Gold

by Mack Garrison

Gold! Since the California gold rush of 1849 this precious metal has been a hot item in America. It's the standard that the world uses to base wealth and trade on. But gold was of high value long before this country was founded. The Bible, as well as history, has much to say about this highly prized substance.

Many stories can be read of the brave and sometimes obsessed men who spent their entire lives sifting through earth and water in search of this treasure. Some would strike it rich! Some would not.

Gold was one of the gifts brought to baby Jesus by the Wise Men.

At this time of the year we see gold everywhere. The color gold is seen in streamers and ribbons hanging from buildings. It's wrapped about trees and hung as ornaments. This fascinating metal also makes very popular gifts. Many men, groups and nations hoard this precious metal for some unseen day.

James, the brother of Jesus, tells us, "Your gold and silver is cankered. And the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days." (James 5:3)

In Revelation 21:18 we find that the new City of God is made of Pure Gold like unto glass. Or is it Fool's Gold?

Paul tells us that the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness, but unto us which are saved it is the power of God. (I Cor. 1:18) He also says in I Cor. 4:10, "We are fools for Christ's sake..."

Fool's Gold, It's waiting in a crown.

Fool's Gold, In a City coming down.

I'll leave this world I can't afford
For the higher prize I'm searching for.

I'll preach the foolish cross of Christ.

And wait for my reward...Fool's Gold.

(Petra)

What kind of gold are you searching for? Are you a fool for Christ to the world?

When the crown of gold I'll lay before His feet, then the worthy Lamb of God is a treasure we will keep! Some may call me foolish, some may call me odd, but I'm rather be a fool in the eyes of man than a fool in the eyes of GOD!

Yes, I'm a fool. I'm waiting for the City of the Living God! But before it arrives, remember: "All that glitters is not gold."

Nothing fishy about it—one of the flounder's eyes travels to the other side of its head as the fish develops. The winter flounder's eyes are on its right side, while the summer flounder's eyes are on its left.

Psychology

After surgery, you may need to take time to heal your mind as well as your body, surgeons now know.

At the Shriners Hospitals for orthopaedic and burn injuries, doctors treat children from all types of backgrounds—and their families. The doctors know that when a child is in need of care that entails a great deal of time, patience and hardship, it becomes a family problem as well. Counseling is available for family members to help them deal with anxieties. Medical care at all Shriners Hospitals is provided without cost to the patients, their families or any third parties. The Shriners also believe that tending to a child's mind and spirit is of equal importance to the outstanding medical care they provide.

These three Tarleton State University coeds placed in the recent "Make it with Wool" sewing competition. From left are Jane Culpepper of Decatur who was third; Gina Spier of Clarendon who was second and Marci Dunham of Hurst who received an "Honorable Mention". The competition was sponsored by the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc. and the Women's Auxiliary of the National Wool Growers Association. All three made suits for the competition which was held in Denton on November 19.

There were over 60 entries in the District II competition including representatives for most of the major universities in the state. This was Tarleton's first year to participate.

Students were asked to select a pattern and wool fabric most flattering to their figures and all entries were to be made from loomed, knitted, or felted 100 percent wool fabric or fabric with at least a 60 percent wool content. The students were asked to model their entries and judging was based on coordination of fabric to pattern, poise and presentation, suitability of the garment to the contestant as well as construction skills.

The "Make It Yourself with Wool" competition is aimed at focusing attention on the beauty and versatility of wool and to encourage use of the fabric in sewing, knitting, crocheting, and fashion garments.

Prizes are awarded on the state and national level and the national finals in "Make It Yourself With Wool" competition will be held January 19 through 20 in Las Vegas.

Gina is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Billy Neal Spiers of Clarendon.

Host Families Needed for International Visitors

The International Education Forum is currently seeking families interested in hosting an international student for the second semester of this school year and for the coming school year, September 1989.

IEF is a non-profit organization, interested in promoting good will and peace through the exchange of high school students. The exchange student would stay in the host's home as part of their family. Their own families supply their spending money and full medical coverage. The host family supplies only a place to live, meals, and a chance for the student to become involved in their family life.

Boys and girls from all over Europe, Japan, and many other countries will arrive in January for 5 month, and ten month stays. Students chosen to participate in this program go through an intense screening process. They must speak english well, be between 14-18, years of age and have proven academic ability. These are kids who really want to come to America.

Please call me if you want to participate in this exciting program, or if you want more information, Rita Bryant, 372-3420 (Collect)

"Winterizing" Your Home

With winter fast approaching, it is time to prepare your home to resist those colder temperatures. A few simple energy-saving measures taken now can keep you warmer this winter, while saving money on your heating bill.

The first "winterizing" task is to be sure your insulation levels are adequate. The Texas Energy Extension Service recommends at least R18 insulation in the wall and at least R27 in the attic. Adding insulation to your walls is difficult and usually not cost effective, but increasing the level of insulation in the attic can be done by a do-it-yourselfer. Use a ruler to measure the thickness of your attic insulation. If you have less than 8 inches of batt insulation or loose-fill cellulose insulation or less than 10 inches of loose-fill glass fiber or mineral wool insulation, then you probably don't have R27 in your attic. By bringing your insulation up to the recommended levels, you can save significantly on your heating bills.

When checking your insulation level, also check to see if the attic is properly ventilated to avoid moisture buildup in the insulation. Putting plastic bags or other devices over turbine ventilators in the winter is not a good practice because it hinders attic ventilation and moisture control.

Remember, insulation is not just for walls and attics. By insulating your hot-water pipes, you keep the heat from escaping into the cooler air. This pipe insulation will cost about 20 cents per foot, but should be recovered in a short period of time through savings on your water-heating bill.

The second measure that should be taken is air leakage reduction. Air leakage in a typical house accounts for 25 to 30 percent of the home's heating and cooling costs. When this air loss is reduced your heater runs less, saving energy and money. Weatherstrip and caulk where you find leaks around doors and windows.

Also, check for leaks in some of the not-so-obvious places. To restrict air leakage around light switches and electrical outlets, gasket sealers are available to place between the wall and the cover plate. Insulate the backs of attic doors, and weatherstrip around the door frame. Stuff insulation in the gaps in floors and walls around plumbing lines that enter the house. Replace broken and cracked windows; seal small cracks in glass with duct tape if replacement is too expensive.

The third tip is to be sure your heating system is operating efficiently. Arrange for a maintenance inspection by a heating system specialist at the beginning of each heating season. For a small fee, the service person will check for any malfunctioning parts, which will ensure that your system is operating properly. Once the system is operating daily, be sure to change the filters once a month.

The last energy saving measure involves your winter lifestyle. You can lower the thermostat setting to 68 degrees F and keep yourself warm by wearing warm clothing. At night, you can set the thermostat back to 55 degrees F and use an electric blanket. An electric blanket can run all night for less than 10 cents. If possible, stay in the warm areas of the house. North walls and windows are typical cold spots.

When you're going to be in one particular room for along time, turn the thermostat way down on the main heating system. Use space heaters or a fireplace to heat the room you're in or use a lap blanket when you're going to be in one spot for a while.

A word of caution about fireplaces: they are not very efficient heating systems. When used while the normal heating system is operating, they often consume more energy than they save because air heated by the main system is drawn into the fireplace and escapes up the chimney. When used alone and with proper air control dampers, the fireplace can be a viable alternative to the normal heating system and can save significantly on the heating bill.

For more information on winterizing your home, call the Energy Hotline at 1-800-643-SAVE. Ask for the free publication "Save Energy in Winter" or the "Home Packet", a series of free fact sheets on residential energy conservation. The Energy Hotline is operated by the Texas Energy Extension Service, a public service program of the Governor's Energy Management Center and Texas A&M University's Center for Energy and Mineral Resources.

TSTA New Teenage Suicide An Increasing Problem

Teenage suicide rates have more than doubled in Texas over the past decade, making it the third leading cause of death among young people after accidents and homicide, according to the Texas State Teachers Association.

A recent spate of teen suicides in the Dallas, Austin and San Antonio areas has prompted TSTA to publish thousands of informational brochures for Texas parents as well as its 95,000 members. The brochures alert teachers and parents to warning signs exhibited by students who may be contemplating suicide.

TSTA President Charles Beard said three groups of Young people predisposed to suicide are those with conduct disorders, those with psychopathology, and those undergoing stress.

Beard said youth exhibiting conduct disorders, such as using drugs or alcohol or running away from home to escape pressures, may be self-destructive.

"These young people may engage in reckless driving or thrill-seeking acts as last-ditch attempts to gain attention," he added.

Youth with psychopathology, who may be clinically depressed, schizophrenic or paranoid, may be candidates for suicide.

Youth undergoing stress may appear to be well-adjusted on the surface but are often in inner turmoil over a perceived crisis in their lives. Many have experienced a deep, personal loss such as that of a parent through death or divorce and many fell overwhelmed by the pressures in their lives, such as coping with parental conflict, a family breakup, or more. Some feel ineffective in the face of an increasingly complex social environment.

"We have to remember that a teen's relative immaturity and lack of emotional experiences in dealing with harsh realities or failures make him especially vulnerable," Beard said. "It is important that he be taught early in life to cope with both failures and successes."

Most teens contemplating suicide give warnings, but in many cases, however, the signs go undetected or ignored. In fact, suicide attempts often come as a surprise to parents, peers, and physicians—possibly because they unconsciously blind themselves to the turbulence of adolescence.

Beard said that because teachers have the opportunity to develop trusting relationships with students, they can sometimes notice signs of trouble through the students' writings, art, drama, academic performance and conversation.

"We are telling our members to listen to students and to take any suicide threats seriously and to get immediate help," the president said. "Teachers and parents need to reach out to troubled youth—to all youth—to help them deal with their crises and to show them love and understanding."

TSTA is offering its brochures free to the public either in single or multiple copies for civic and church groups. For copies of the pamphlet listing teen suicide warning signs and what steps to take, write for "Teenage Suicide," TSTA Communications, 316 W. 12th St., Austin 78701

Faster Payment of Educational Benefits on Tap for Texas National Guard Members

Members of Texas Air and Army National Guard units will get educational assistance payments faster after Veterans Administration and National Guard officials sign an agreement at Camp Mabry Army National Guard Post in Austin today.

"We can do a better and faster job of paying Texas National Guard members and preventing over- or under-payments by handling Texas matters in Texas," Waco VA Regional Office Director Stephen L. Lemons said. "The VA and the National Guard are breaking the loop that went to Washington by signing an agreement to handle these matters in Texas."

The agreement standardizes working policies and procedures that will ensure the program is the recruitment and retention incentive it was intended to be. Officials signing the memorandum of agreement include Texas Adjutant General MG James T. Dennis, Houston VA Regional Office Director Ted W. Myatt, and Lemons.

All armed forces reservist including National Guard members, may be eligible for educational benefits under the new Montgomery GI Bill, which became law in 1985. The Department of Defense determines eligibility while the VA administers the program.

Members of the Texas Air and Army National Guard are encouraged to apply for their GI Bill educational benefits by contacting their National Guard units.

Thank you

We want to thank all the supporters of Christmas Cheer who turned out for the Xmas Tree Lighting in Hedley. The Lions Hall was full of joyful faces. At 7:30 everyone gathered around the tree. A prayer was said by brother Terry Tamplen and the lights were turned on. Cookies and hot punch were served and carols were sung by the children's choir. Many days of preparation have gone into this project. This is the first of an annual event. Thanks to everyone who had a hand in helping prepare this. Clarendon Volunteer Fire Dept. Warns Against Winter Fire Hazards

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department would like to remind all Donley County residents of some hazards that may exist in and around their homes since winter time and cold weather is once again upon us all.

First is the hazard of heating equipment. Homeowners should check and clean and inspect their heating equipment. Dirty air filters and cracks in the heat chambers of these units not only cause inefficient heating and high utility bills but are a fire hazard as well. Have your unit inspected by a qualified heating specialist if in doubt. If you have space heaters, make sure all grates and guards are in place. The biggest hazard with these units is the ones that are hooked up using rubber hoses. If you have rubber hoses, particularly if they are old, they can crack, letting gas escape before it reaches the appliance. This gas will ignite at the crack and burn the hose through causing a flame to come in contact with the floor. Also, having these too near combustible materials such as drapes, bedding, etc, as well as laying wet winter clothing and footwear near them to dry are the cause of many residential fires. Keep combustible materials far away from these units and replace any rubber hoses with flex lines immediately.

Second, there have been several incidents of dumpster fires in the past few weeks probably due to people dumping ashes from their fireplaces in these dumpsters. Fireplace ashes can stay sufficiently hot for up to 72 hours to start a dumpster fire. Dispose of fireplace ashes in some place other than a dumpster. A dumpster fire is not in itself dangerous but can reach a great enough proportion to ignite grass, nearby buildings, fences, etc and can spread.

Third, every winter there are several residential fires which can be attributed to icing of regulators for those homeowners who use LP gas. This is caused when ice from freezing rain/drizzle, or snow coats the regulator, the regulator ceases to function and allows high pressure gas to feed space heaters, water heaters, cookstoves, and other appliances causing a flame to blow out several feet around the appliance which will ignite carpet, walls, furniture, and anything else which is within an area of several feet around the appliance. To remedy this and keep the regulator vent from icing over, homeowners should assure that the regulator assembly has a cover and that the cover is always in place, particularly when there is a chance of freezing moisture falling. If you are an LP user and you have any questions, contact your LP gas supplier to find out if your regulator assembly is properly protected.

Fireplaces account for a fair number of residential fires in our area. Always burn the proper kind of wood in your fireplace and make sure the screen is in place and that the chimney is in good repair and far enough away from ceilings and roofs, especially those that have wooden shingles. Don't burn crosssties, paper, etc, which can cause a coating to build up on the inside of your chimney that could possibly ignite.

During the next few weeks, make sure your Christmas tree is sufficiently watered and moist and that any lights you have on the tree are in good repair. When you leave home, even for a few minutes and when you go to bed, always unplug your tree lights. Also, don't have trees too close to fireplaces or space heaters which can cause a dry tree to ignite very easily.

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department recommends that you have smoke detectors installed and that you test them and replace batteries regularly. Many homes that have smoke detectors have at least one that does not work. It is estimated that as many as 50% of all smoke detectors installed do not work because of being dirty, or having a battery down or missing. They should be cleaned regularly and tested at least once a month. Batteries should be replaced at least every 12 months even if you don't get a low battery warning.

Most deaths in fires occur at night and during the winter time. Doing everything possible to keep your family safe and make your home as fire safe as possible will reduce the chance of this happening to you. A few minutes spent now can mean the difference between life and death and can greatly reduce the chance of you losing everything you own in a fire. Don't put it off.

Improving Texas Economy Reflected in Veterans Home Loan Figures

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro on Thursday said the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program has doubled the dollar volume of loans to Texas veterans during the first quarter of fiscal year 1989 as compared to the same period of fiscal year 1988.

"The increased market activity reflected in these home loan figures is a welcome signal of a recovering Texas economy," said Mauro, who serves as chairman of the Texas Veterans Land Board.

Mauro released figures showing that the low-interest home loan program for Texas veterans made 388 loans totaling $7.7 million during the period, a 96 percent increase over the same quarter a year ago. The state fiscal year runs from September 1 to August 31.

The home loan program makes $20,000 fixed-rate, low-interest loans to qualified Texas veterans to apply towards the purchase of a new or existing home. The loan can be blended with a conventional or VA home loan to provide Texas veterans with a lower overall mortgage rate.

"This is also a clear indicator that Texas veterans know that the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program (VHAP) is far and away the best deal in Texas for veterans searching for affordable housing," Mauro said.

Mauro said the anticipated rise in mortgage rates brought about by this week's increase in the prime rate to 10 1/2 percent will make the savings offered to Texas veterans even greater if they finance their home by combining a Texas VHAP loan with a federal VA home loan. The blended rate will give them a lower monthly payment," Mauro said.

"Since there are no discount points charged on our portion of the loan, there's also an immediate savings that averages $5,800 over the life of the loan."

Mauro predicted that a continued rise in interest rates will have no immediate effect on the veterans home loan program since it is financed by stat bonds approved by the Texas voters.

"Since we still have $250 million to loan at 9 percent, the savings and competitiveness of the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program will only be greater," Mauro said.

The first receivers of telephone calls cried out "Aho-y-ahoy" rather than the later greeting of "hello."

Veterans Administration

Help Us Serve You

Dr. Stephen L. Lemons, Director of the VA Regional Office in Waco, Texas, states, "Veterans receiving monetary benefits from the VA can be a big help in getting their VA checks delivered promptly."

By promptly reporting a change of address to the regional office, you can help us get your check delivered to the new location in a timely manner. Veterans and dependents should realize that due to computer updating procedures, the check received after submission of the change of address will probably go to the old address. Therefore, Lemons reminds veterans and their dependents to, "Notify the post office of a change of address and provide them with a forwarding address. This will insure against the check being returned to the Treasury Department and suspension of the award."

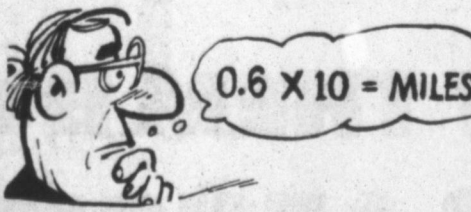

Veterans and dependents can also help the Veterans Administration in identifying their records by showing their VA claim number or social security number on the change of address form or notification submitted.

Lemons also stated, "I cannot over stress the importance of promptly reporting changes of address, notifying the post office of a forwarding address, and proper identification of your records. Veterans can make a big difference in whether or not they get their benefit check on time. Help us serve you."

You can report a change of address by mail or by calling the VA Regional Office in Waco using the toll-free number listed in your local telephone directory.
