Plant a Tree!

Most crises around the world are little influenced by events in Clarendon. But in at least one area, local residents can make a difference. Since the middle 1900's western nations have been burning fossil fuels, mainly coal, petroleum and natural gas. Only lately have scientists begun to realize that the released by fossil fuels were altering the atmosphere of the planet and disrupting the way in which nature operates. As more CO<sub>2</sub> accumulates in the atmosphere it traps more heat from the sun—somewhat like the way a greenhouse works. Hence the nickname "the greenhouse effect". In the last few years, this has been aggravated by the destruction of tropical rain forests.

The accumulation of carbon dioxide may also have local repercussions. In the latest issue of the Texas Farmer Stockman there is new report on a scientist at A&M who postulates that increased CO<sub>2</sub>—along with other factors—may be responsible for the pernicious invasion of mesquite into former grasslands, an all-too-familiar phenomenon in Donley County.

Now Donley County residents cannot do much about the wanton destruction of forests on the Amazon River or in the Congo. But local citizens can plant trees here. Each tree that is planted is a potential scrubbing machine, removing a bit of pollution from the air.

Whether or not one is concerned about the greenhouse effect, there is ample reward for planting new trees. Who doesn't enjoy the cool shade of a pecan tree in summer or enjoy the green of a pine in an otherwise drab winter scene. Is there anything prettier than a flowering plum in springtime, or the bright golden leaves of an autumn cottonwood?

Earth Day Proclaimed

Almost twenty years ago, more than twenty million Americans joined together on the first Earth Day in a demonstration for the environment. Their collective action contributed to the passage of sweeping new laws protecting our air, water and land.

Despite much progress, nineteen years later we find ourselves confronted by even more serious threats to the health of our environment. Global climate change, ozone depletion, tropical deforestation, water pollution, toxic and radioactive waste disposal and desertification are among the grave challenges that require the attention and action of all sectors of society.

Earth Day 1990 is a national and international call to action for all citizens to join a global effort to save the planet. Earth Day 1990 activities—such as tree plantings and recycling events—will educate citizens of the importance of adopting more ecologically sound lifestyles.

Texas citizens, business leaders and governments at all levels are now recognizing environmental protection and resource conservation as essential prerequisites to sustainable prosperity and economic development. Earth Day provides a fitting occasion for us all to renew our commitment to live more gently on the earth.

Therefore, I, William P. Clements, Jr., Governor of Texas, do hereby designate April 22nd, 1990 as Earth Day in Texas and urge the appropriate recognition thereof.

In official recognition whereof I hereby affix my signature this

16th day of February 1990

W.P. Clements, Jr.
Governor of Texas

Coyote Control Training Set

The Donley County Extension Service, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Agriculture, will be sponsoring a coyote control meeting on May 1, 1990, at Clarendon College in Room 102 of the Classroom Building. The meeting will start at 5:00 p.m.

The meeting will start with a Texas Animal Damage Control Service representative demonstrating the proper use of control devices such as traps, snares, etc. Following this demonstration, ranchers will have an opportunity to become a certified M-44 applicator by attending the three hour training session presented by the Texas Department of Agriculture. The M-44 training should start around 6:00 p.m. for those that can't make the first part of the training.

Ranchers attending the training will become certified M-44 applicators, which will allow them to use the very effective M-44 device.

Without this training, ranchers can not purchase the toxicant that is used in the M-44.

For more information, contact the Donley County Extension office at 874-2141.

Important Meeting Set

Water District Contemplated

On Monday April 9th, the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District and other interested people met with the Commissioners' Court to discuss the possibility of creating a water district for Donley County. After the meeting, a steering committee was formed. This committee will start the research needed to determine the need of a Water District for Donley County. This committee will look at both the positive and negative effects of a water district and also try to determine whether a water district would be better as a single or a multicounty district.

If there are any people who drink, bath, flush, or use water in any other way that would be interested in helping gather information, please call the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District Secretary, Genie Barbee, at 3576 and leave your name and phone number.

The preliminary steering committee members are Bob White, Earl Shields, Jim Taylor, Carrol and Renee Duncan, Jack Moreman, Jenks Boston, Harold White, Dick Bode, John Morrow, Jim Shelton, Tim Trimble, and Ted Shaller. These people may also be contacted for additional information.

Local Vets Recognized

Bad-eyed cattle, lame horses and sick dogs are part of the Clarendon veterinarian practice of Drs. Charles Deyhle Sr. and Jr.

But the two say the major focus of their business is communicating with people.

Charles "Chuck" Deyhle began practicing in Clarendon right out of school in 1951. His home office is still in Clarendon. Aircraft are used for transportation to the various feed yards.

Deyhle started out as a large animal veterinarian with a ranch type practice, he said. From 1951 to 1961 his practice was aimed at single-animal treatment.

That started to change with the coming of the 1960's when preventative medicine seemed the way to go, he said. He became more involved in the management aspect of veterinary medicine from 1961 to 1971, doing a lot of equine work.

But this was also the golden era for the cattle feeding industry, which came booming into the Texas Panhandle and changed the scope of Deyhle's practice.

He started acting as a consultant for feed yards in the late 1950's, doing his early work at the Hereford Feedyard. Another early associate was the Sugarland Feedyard, which was originally a division of Holly Sugar.

His son, joined the practice in 1977 and today they consult with 25 feed yards and are licensed to work in Australia.

Accomplishments in the practice of feedlot medicine, competency of veterinary service and contributions to organized veterinary medicine and the beef cattle industry recently won the father/son team the 1989 Consultant of the Year Award by the Academy of Veterinarian Consultants.

The two make flights all the way from the Rio Grande Valley up into Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

An Editorial:

Good Planets Are Hard to Find

The Clarendon News has a firm policy against running editorials. The paper tries to report the news in a fair and impartial manner. It tries to build up our community, to work out a consensus that benefits everyone. But there are times when the rational course is to make an exception to what is otherwise normal policy. This is such an exception.

Governor William Clements has issued a special proclamation naming April 22 as Earth Day in Texas. In doing this, he joined millions of others around the world who are concerned about their home planet. Earth Day is not a partisan political celebration. Democrats and Republicans, conservatives and liberals, people of all faiths, all races and all nations are concerned about this planet. That concern is well justified. Since industrialization, mankind has done so much to our globe, yet even now the best informed experts know relatively little about the results of our actions.

Several years ago American astronauts landed on the moon. Perhaps the most valuable legacy from lunar exploration is a photograph. That photograph shows the earth from the perspective of our nearest neighbor. It looks small, frail and infinitely vulnerable. Now all of us are beginning to realize that our planet is delicate and easily damaged.

During the lifetime of this generation, astronomers have expanded our knowledge of the universe by large multiplication factor. Mankind has seen farther into space, discovered more galaxies and more stars than ever before. Yet no one has found another spot in the universe that will support life of any sort, much less humans. Some one has remarked that "Good planets are hard to find." Buckminster Fuller called the planet "Spaceship Earth". Both should remind us how precarious our living space really is.

The Clarendon News is primarily concerned with local news. But "local" is a relative term. From the next galaxy, our entire solar system is rather "local". And global problems like the greenhouse effect and increased ultraviolet radiation have immediate local results. The latter will aggravate existing local problems with skin cancer, while the former will increase local temperatures and reduce precipitation.

On the positive side, Donley County residents can do something to help alleviate some of the global problems. Most of us can plant trees. All of us can protect bats. Each of us can waste a little less and learn a little more about how to help our planet recover. Ultimately our survival depends on willing individual action by each resident in our local solar system. We are all neighbors.

Our world was once filled with the animals and birds of God's creation, but throughout the ages some species have fallen by the wayside while others have managed to remain viable despite all the storms, floods, droughts and earthquakes that nature could inflict upon them. However, our increasing demands for progress and recreation have encroached upon the wilderness areas, putting our wildlife in greater jeopardy than from all the natural disasters combined. Even those hardy survivors may not be able to withstand the cruel or unthinking actions of human beings. We must act humanely toward them, and by example teach our children to do likewise. The denizens of the wild, as well as the family pets, are all God's creatures, so let's treat them with all due respect and kindness.

Bats Are Important to Donley County

Bats may well be the most misunderstood creatures in North America. Centuries of superstition and ignorant myth picture the little creatures as dirty and evil. Yet biologist have learned that virtually everything people "know" about bats is false.

Bats do not fly into women's hair (although it might live up things around town if they did once in a while!). Bats are not particularly dirty and are not destructive. They do not chew on wires or track in sewerage the way that rodents do (and bats are not rodents.) Bats seldom become rabid (less than one-half of one percent--household dogs pose a greater threat than bats). Whether healthy or ailing, bats are shy and retiring. They do not attack humans.

But bats are not simply harmless flying mammals. In fact they are among the most beneficial animals in the Panhandle.

Bats have a very high rate of metabolism. They are always hungry. And the only thing that local bats eat is insects. A single bat may eat 3,000 or more insects in a single night. A large colony-- like some in central Texas--may consume a quarter of a million pounds of insects. Since Austin began protecting its bats, the city has become virtually mosquito-free.

What can Clarendon residents do to conserve such a valuable natural resource as bats?

First, people need to stop killing the harmless creatures. If bats are getting into an area where they are not welcome, the solution is not to kill them, but to seal them out. If a bat strays into a house or business, call someone who is willing to capture the little creature and release it outdoors. If no one else is available, call The Clarendon News.

Second, bats need additional housing. This issue of the paper contains drawings of simple bat houses. Put up a bat house and the furry little fliers will reward you by eating mosquitoes.

Finally, join with others in protecting bats. For more information and membership applications write:

FUN AFTER FIFTY Club members wore unique Easter bonnets to the April meeting to help everyone to get in the holiday spirit.

Program Presented to Club

The Fun After Fifty Club met Saturday, April 7, at the Senior Citizens Center for the monthly meeting. Guests were presented Easter name tags and registered for door prizes.

Jane Kerr and Ganon Rhinehart entertained the group with musical renditions from the electric Casio keyboard and piano.

Table decorations featured an Easter motif. Door prizes, handmade by Ellie Wilkinson, were won by Mr and Mrs. Frank Stopal.

A short business meeting was held. Club minutes and treasurer's report were given by Helen Welch, Secretary. Several humorous readings and a poem, "April's Arrival" by T. Hutchinson, were read by Carolyn Hamilton, President.

Unique Easter bonnets and caps were worn by the group. Winners for the most original ones were: Verdie Tipton, who received a spring hat, and Fred Russell, who was winner of a fishing cap, courtesy of The Canteen in Howardwick. A report of the recent Style Show presented at the Kingston Hotel in Amarillo was given by Dorothy Pitts.

Table blessing was given by Fred Fortenberry prior to a covered dish luncheon.

Plans for following meetings were discussed. Fun After Fifty Club welcomes new members. Meetings are held on the first Saturday of each month.

Did You Know? Clarendon has been included in a story to be published in Texas Highways Magazine, with three other Panhandle towns.

Semi-Optimist

by James Ivey Edwards

Clarendon is very lucky to have practitioners of one of the prime rules of keeping a viable successful town. Since I've become semi-optimistic, I've made an unofficial and unscientific study of the application of that rule in Clarendon and other surrounding towns.

Simply stated the rule, written somewhere in the great book of rules, is to put on the facia if not the actual demeanor of caring. My country friend "Lake Fork Sam" puts it more succinctly. "People in a town have to at least act like they give a d---!"

Many of the towns I've been to lately have the look of a wounded animal. There is a certain amount of desperation involved in the look of a street with more empty buildings than occupied and trash that was there in the same spot last year.

When we moved to Clarendon years ago, many of our friends expressed concern that we might be moving to a town that could allow itself to slide into the description used in our cities of "dirty little West Texas town". Every time I hear that term, I see the scenes from "The Last Picture Show", a picture about a town in the throes of losing its last vestige of community.

Any of a dozen Panhandle towns I've been in lately could be used for that movie. Fortunately, Clarendon does not and has not ever fit that description. A good many businesses in Clarendon have always shown pride in their appearances. That pride will nearly always manifest itself in good service and decent treatment. Customers from the highway will respond to the clean lines and the look of a business.

The same will hold true for a town. If we want to capitalize on the "mobile gold mine" that the highway represents then we have to continue showing the world that we care. Chamberlains, the Dairy Queen, and Sam Hill's come to mind immediately when you think of well cared for businesses.

There can be no dirtier business than a gin. If you haven't driven out that way lately you should. Mr. Luttrell and company have done a "bang up" job on the yard. The trailers are parked in neat rows and the junk pile on the back side has been cleaned up.

I know that a clean, well cared for town will recover any costs in many different kinds of dividends. Here's hoping we can move from the semi-clean to the wholly-clean.

The Lions Tale

by Gene Alderson

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, April 17th, at the Lions Hall with 31 present. Following the meal, Boss Lion Knorpp led the Pledge to the Flag followed by prayer by Lion Bernabe.

Lion Smith handed out assignment sheets for the members who will be helping with the Lions Broome Sale next Tuesday. Our program was brought by Lezlie Cooper with the Texas Department of Health on the requirements for septic tanks. Meeting adjourned.

The Power of Positive Thanking

by Perry Mack Garrison

Doesn't it just scald your scalp when someone takes something you've given them or done for them for granted. Does this sound familiar: "Well...at least they could have said, 'thank you' for all I've done!"?

Wow! What a cheap price to pay; to just say "thanks!". I wonder why we always need a 'thank you' instead of demanding... PAYMENT!!? Or compensation of some sort? Wouldn't it be nice to pull into a filling-station, fill your car, put in a quart of oil, put a gallon of antifreeze in the trunk, and get drinks and just walk up to cashier and say, "Thanks so much. See you next time." Then have the attendant say, "You bet, anything you need, you just help yourself, but remember to say 'thank you'." What a world it would be!

But like, "please," "excuse me," or "I'm sorry," "thank you" is just a cheap phrase used to kill or calm a situation. It's hardly used, and when used, is almost never meant.

This, I believe is one of the most tragic of our national sins. We Americans have lost the ability to be thankful to each other and especially to the true God above.

What do you think would happen if one morning you walked through a check-out counter at a store or walked up to a bank teller at your local bank and looked them in the eye and told them that you really appreciated them and were very thankful for them and their dedication to their jobs? They would probably faint, dead away!

Paul demanded in Romans 1:20 that no one has an excuse to ignore God and further states in verses 21-22: "Because that, when they knew God, they glorified Him not as God, neither were THANKFUL; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools..." Sounds like the good ole U.S. of A.

We have an awesome tendency to drum out the King Kong rhythm on our chests and shout, "Look what I've done! I'm a magnificent creature!" All without realizing that the borrowed breath that just expanded our lungs was delivered to us, free of charge, by the CREATOR.

The most marvelous thing happens when God turns a man's heart from stone to flesh. He comes to life in many different fashions. And one of these is a thankful attitude.

Of all people on this shrinking planet we Americans should be the most thankful. And of all Americans, Christians should be the most thankful of all. But the contrary is most often the norm.

King David wrote these wonderful words in Psalms 116:7-8 and 17, "Return unto thy rest, O my soul; for the Lord hath dealt bountifully with thee. For thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling...I will offer to thee the sacrifice of thanksgiving, and will call upon the name of the Lord."

When we realize that we are nothing and can do nothing apart from the Lord of our Salvation, then we will truly have the power of positive thanking.

Treatment for Scalp Psoriasis
Psoriasis is a skin condition characterized by reddish, raised, flat patches of skin with silvery coverings called "plaques." According to the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, psoriasis accounts for one out of 20 visits to skin specialists in the United States. It is estimated that seven million Americans have some form of psoriasis. Involvement of the scalp occurs in about half of all cases. While no cure for psoriasis exists, the relief of symptoms is important.
Keeping the hair and skin clean is essential to preventing skin infection. The goal in treating scalp psoriasis is to remove the scales. This is accomplished through regular applications of topical medicines. Because of the difficulty of applying creams and ointments to the scalp, many specialists recommend topical liquids. Medicated shampoos containing coal tar are frequently prescribed. Certain prescription shampoos contain ingredients which soften thick scalp scales. Nonprescription shampoos containing selenium sulfide and zinc pyrithione may also help remove the scales.
Topical steroid solutions (prescription only) relieve redness and may be required if medicated shampoos are not effective.

Amtrak Seeks End to Subsidy

Amtrak, the nation's intercity rail passenger carrier, has committed itself to a goal no passenger railroad in the world presently is achieving. The company intends to eliminate its need for any federal operating support by the year 2000. Critical to its effort will be the availability of sufficient capital to purchase new state-of-the-art, high capacity passenger cars and to reduce travel times on crowded routes.

In a statement to the House Ways and Means Committee regarding the use of the federal tax system to improve the environment, Amtrak has proposed that a small portion of any new revenues generated by a future increase in the federal gasoline tax could be used to help provide this capital assistance, a proposal supported by key environmental groups. Congressional action in the next year regarding use of gasoline tax revenues will impact the national transportation system for the rest of this century and beyond.

Since 1981, Amtrak has increased the share of its budget covered by its own revenues from 48 percent to nearly 75 percent for the present year. But improving that to 100 percent will not be easy.

Amtrak critically needs new cars and locomotives to meet current demand and to expand its service to the millions of potential passengers now being turned away for lack of space on trains. Projects to permit significantly higher speeds on key Amtrak routes also can reduce airport and highway congestion and thereby benefit the nation's energy and environmental concerns. Capital funding for rail passenger projects during the 1980s was too erratic and far too little to enable Amtrak to acquire new cars or undertake high-speed rail projects.

The use of new gasoline tax revenues to fund energy-efficient and environmentally-benign transportation alternatives is strongly supported by a number of key environmental organizations, and was a key component in the Blueprint For The Environment, submitted by environmentalists to the Bush Administration last year.

Investing just one cent of any new gasoline tax revenues in Amtrak's equipment and other capital needs would enable the railroad to eliminate its need for taxpayer operating support by the end of this decade, to expand its service, and to play an even more important role in the nation's transportation system—a role with many environmental, safety and energy-efficiency benefits.

Mrs. Donna Burton, council president, and member of the Program committee, would like to invite any past member—including board members, girl members, leaders and other adults to join in the fun and help celebrate with the present members.

The event will begin at 10 a.m. with flag ceremony and will be followed by an all-day display of activities by girls. There will be songs, games, exhibitions and skill demonstrations throughout the day until 3 p.m.

Quivira council was put together in 1960 from among the northernmost counties of the Texas panhandle. The geographic area covers Gray, Hutchinson, Carson (except the city of Panhandle), Donley, Collingsworth, Hall, Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler and Armstrong counties, the city of Higgins and at one time Ellis county Oklahoma.

for her Puccini and Donizetti roles.

"This remarkable event will feature world-class performers in concert together of the first time—anywhere," revealed Jason Byce, a leading baritone soloist with several international and national opera companies. Mr. Byce, who was the featured guest at last year's Gold Nail Awards presentation, decided to help put "Celebrating Opera Amarillo" together, drawing on his personal friends throughout the world of opera, in part because he was impressed with the level of talent and appreciation of all the arts in this area. "While I was here last spring, I attended a rehearsal for the Amarillo Opera production of "Carmen," directed by Mila Gibson-Burkhard. Not only was it apparent that the enthusiasm for opera was strong among the grass-root supporters, but I also discovered from the people I talked to, that there was fine support for the other art entities as well. Mila asked me then if perhaps I would return, when my schedule allowed, to participate in a benefit for Amarillo Opera. Such an evening has been on my mind ever since and I am thrilled to return to Amarillo for this occasion."

Co-chairing the event is Francie Whittenburg Klein, who, with her committee, is planning several outstanding opportunities for music lovers to enjoy the concert and meet the celebrities in person. Patrons will be treated to an exclusive brunch with the stars, front orchestra tickets to the gala performance, and preferred seating at the dinner dance which will follow.

Regular tickets to this once-in-a-lifetime production of "Celebrating Opera Amarillo" will be priced at $10 and $20. Tickets will go on sale beginning April 30 at the Amarillo Civic Center.

For more information, contact Jason Byce in Amarillo, or Marion Stroup, area Liaison, 665-5734 in Pampa.

Life Hurts.

We were never promised that life wouldn't hurt. But God gives us ways to deal with the pain—whether it's spiritual, emotional or physical. We may not be able to make the pain go away, but with God's help, we can find ways to live with it. If you're hurting, come see us. We're United Methodists.

DEYHLE-Cont'd From P. 1

The Deyhles call on each of the yards at least monthly and, if the problems are serious, the visits are more frequent. Each visit can take from four to eight hours, depending on how big the yard is and what type of condition it is in.

Deyhle Sr. generally stays around the clinic in the mornings to take care of the necessary work and treatments there. The practice still includes a lot of work with horses and ranch work.

As feed yard consultants however, they leave their "working" gloves in Clarendon. The duties of a consultant are primarily aimed at preventative medicine, Deyhle said: helping recognize problem areas; giving treatment advice; providing medicine for yard personnel; and making sure records are kept and in order.

"Because the cattle come from so many diverse areas, we're totally interested in how they are processed off the truck; the techniques and vaccination procedures used," he said.

"It's much cheaper to prevent the disease than treat it after it occurs."

And that's where the major focus of their work comes in: communicating with cattle handlers, from the feed yard manager to the hourly worker.

"We're in the personal business," Deyhle said. (With all the technology available, we're still dependent on that hourly wage earner to be motivated enough to pull the sick cattle and treat them properly and on a timely basis.")

Ninety percent of the problems in a feed yard are respiratory, he said. Most of the consultant time is spent in training personnel and making concrete recommendations on treatment.

That's the difference between performance in one yard and another, he said, the personnel and how well they're trained to do their job. Most yards in an area have the same weather and get their cattle from the same general areas, and therefore suffer the same kind of problems.

"The key to the whole thing is a man being able to recognize sickness at an early stage and getting it pulled for treatment," Deyhle said. "No amount of vaccine or drugs can help when the sickness progresses too far."
