Local Coyotes Eating Calves

Area ranchers are reporting growing problems with coyotes killing calves. Frequently the victims are newborn calves. But the scope of the problem is something new.

Coyotes have always lived in Donley County, and occasionally in the past, a coyote would develop a taste for yeal. But so few coyotes ate so few calves that many people claimed that coyotes do not normally eat beef.

In recent months however, that has changed. First one rancher and then another noticed coyotes killing calves. And these charges were not based on circumstantial evidence. Coyotes are opportunistic eaters, and often feed on carrion. Local ranchers are accustomed to seeing coyotes cleaning DOUG BURGESS PRESENTS up their pastures; in fact, one colorful local cattle raiser refers to expelled PAT KAISER, Developer for The bovine placentas as "coyote candy". As seasoned outdoorsmen, such ranchers are not fooled by a live coyote eating a dead calf. Death can have numerous "natural causes" in the world of baby calves.

What ranchers are seeing is aggressive hunting and killing. In a typical instance, a veteran cattleman moved a cow a few hundred yards to a corral for treatment. Within twenty minutes or less, the mother cow was back at the spot where her calf was hidden. But when the mother cow and rancher returned, they found a coyote dragging off the baby calf. The man gave chase and recovered the calf, but it was mortally wounded. The injuries Held were obviously and clearly inflicted by the coyote.

In other cases, the ranchers have observed the attack from the start. Some attacks are by individual coyotes; some are by packs. Wildlife personnel will be, Saturday, March 10, 1990 at have reported similar attacks on pronghorns (antelope).

Why have coyotes suddenly developed a taste for calves? Several speculations seem plausible. But the most likely is that an exploding coyote consists of mice, rats, grasshoppers, and birds with an occasional rabbit to round things out. But now there appear to be too many coyotes to eat just "normal" food. In fact, coyote numbers may well be the largest now that they have ever been.

There are several reasons for the increase. The introduction of agriculture to the area changed the habitat in a way that apparently favored coyotes, even as humans eliminated bears, mountain lions and wolves. In more recent times, the government banned the one effective tool for holding coyotes numbers in check--a caninespecific poison. [That move that may backfire; when deprived of legal means to regulate coyote numbers, people may resort to illegal means, and there is no possible way to police millions of acres of sparsely settled ranch country.] The ban is somewhat curious in that coyotes were never even remotely threatened, much less "endangered".

In the last year or so, prices for coyote pelts have fallen, so that it is no longer profitable for hunters or trappers to pursue covotes. Thus coyotes are left with no population controls of any kind--natural or human. Coyotes are as thick as Coyote depredations come at a very unfortunate time. Cattle raisers are on the high side of the market, after many years of depressed prices. Ranches need to be making as much as possible and putting it in savings against the inevitable down-turn that is a predictable part of the price cycle. Every coyote-eaten calf is a painful loss.

What can area cattle raisers do? First, ranchers and farmers need to visit with their county agent. He is

by Larry White

In last week's article we considered the future growth of the 65 and over age group in our society as well as Donley County. This article will deal with the issue of expansion of the Medical Center as it relates to Donley

Since before I came to the Medical Center as administrator, there has been a waiting list of individuals who have desired to be placed in our facility if the need ever presented itself. As of today's date, there is a total of 82 persons from Donley County and 47 persons from outside Donley County who have their names on our waiting list. While it is unrealistic to expect all of these persons to come to our facility, it does indicate that there is a great need to be considered. Our first priority will always be to consider the Donley County residents first when filling a vacancy. But what about those whose needs are unmet? With the expansion of the Medical Center, we could begin to see a diminishing of our Donley County waiting list and then begin admitting persons from outlying counties to our facility. Our nursing home is roughly one-half the size of the average nursing home in the state of Texas and if we want to be progressive and viable for the future the growth of our nursing home needs to be seriously considered. We only want the chance to more effectively meet the need of our community and county. The opportunity for growth would create more jobs and contribute to our local economy as well. The present and projected economic impact of our facility will be discussed in next week's article.

If you have any opinions, questions, or comments please come by and visit with me. I'm interested in hearing what the resident of the community are thinking.

The Importance of Windbreaks

In todays day and time being efficient is becoming most important, especially in the food and fiber industry and our private living. Windbreaks can help improve efficiency in the food and fiber industry by increasing crop production and protecting livestock. In our private living windbreaks can help reduce energy costs in the heating of our homes. Windbreaks can accomplish these feats by simply reducing the affects of wind.

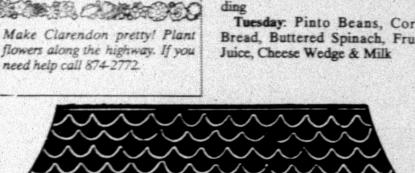

Crop production can be increased in the Great Plains region by protecting the crop during the growing season. A windbreak properly placed will reduce soil erosion by wind, which can damage leaves of growing crops, thus reducing subsequent growth and yield. Windbreaks also can save soil moisture by reducing wind velocity, which in turn reduces the drying affects of the wind.

Livestock efficiency can be improved with windbreaks by decreasing feed costs during cold extremes. Since wind velocity is reduced with windbreaks, an insulating effect is created around animals, this in turn, decreases mortality rates of young animals in addition to reducing the heat requirements of all actuals in general.

Windbreaks can improve efficiency in our private lives by decreasing fuel costs for heating during cold extremes. This is accomplished by decreasing the amount of cold infiltration. Heating costs in homes can be reduced as much as 10 to 40%.

If you have any questions about windbreaks, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

Hedley News

Hedley was saddened to learn of the death of two-month-old Joshua Andaverdi last Saturday evening. Much sympathy is extended to Jose and family. An obituary may be found elsewhere in this issue.

Kate Stone was taken to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo last week with pneumonia.

Homer Hill was in Childress Hospital last week. He, too, had a bout with pneumonia. He has since returned home, and is reported a bit better.

Annie Mae Sims was admitted to Memphis Convalescent Center last week, but was able to return home Saturday.

Roy Harris entered Saint Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo on February 27, had surgery the next day, and is back home again.

To each of these who have been ill, and to others of the community whose illnesses were not reported, we wish a speedy recovery and a rapid return to normal activities.

David Quesenbury and family from Felt, Oklahoma, visited this weekend in the home of the Roy Harrises, and with Clairece Wilkinson. David is Dorothy Harris' son and Clairece's brother. David was badly injured by a power saw several months ago, but is recovering nicely.

Hedley Junior High School girls will be hosting "Mother's Day Out" this Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the school gym. Mothers may leave one child during this time for $7, two children for $10, or three children for $12. If you would like to leave a child for a shorter period of time, the rate is $1 per hour per child. The money is to be used for track meet expenses.

Hedley School will host the district elementary University Interscholastic League literary competition this Thursday, March 8, beginning at 1:30 p.m. School will be dismissed at 12:50 p.m. so that classrooms may be used for the various contests. Spelling, picture memory, story telling, number sense, music memory, ready writing, and earth/life sciences are among the many events to be decided.

Hedley faculty members played high school students in a volleyball set last Friday afternoon at 2:30. Admission to the games was by donation. The money was used to help finance a baseball pitching machine. About $25 was raised. Everyone had a good time, especially the faculty, who soundly trounced the young whippersnappers!

Mr. and Mrs. James Potts, James Edward and Timber took James Lee to Brenham, Texas, to show his 4-H pig on February 23. He did not get sifted there, so they went on to the Houston Show. There his luck ran out, but it was a great experience for James Lee. They went to a rodeo, saw the Astrodome and the Oakridge Boys. Everyone reported a good trip.

Linda Dwight and new daughter Kristen Nicole came up on Sunday from Laguna Park, near Waco. They will visit her parents, the Hoyce Kennedys; Kirk's sister, Timber Lee Potts and family; and granny, Lois Lair. Kirk will come up on the weekend to take them back home.

The James Edward Potts and Lois Lair visited on Saturday night with Danny and Ginger Dwight, and their new daughter. Haley Dawn arrived at 6:00 p.m., February 25, at High Plains Baptist Hospital. The young lady weighed 7 1/2 pounds, and is 19 1/2 inches long.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgel Tisdale traveled to Amarillo this weekend to visit her brothers, Cody and Marvin Yandell; her niece, Wanda Kilgore; and her nephew, Windell Cumby.

The Chamber of Commerce has began to improve some of the business conditions in Clarendon. We have started a sign board program to reach some of the people who are in the 10,200 vehicles per day that pass through Clarendon on Hwy 287. The first evidence of these is on the west side of town. There will be a miniature version of the "Tucumcari Tonight" (Tucumcari New Mexico) program. If the Lord is willing that New Mexico town has established a tourism industry program in excess of 4,000,000 in sales annually. We owe a real debt of gratitude to some of the local businesses and to the "City of Clarendon", who had the foresight to contribute to that program before we had any fiscal evidence that we could provide what we were promising. For now, we at the Chamber say "Thanks" guys and ladies for your help. We will have a complete list of those contributors and a story on the signs later.

We have elected Jerry Chambliss as our President. Those of you who have known him in the recent years know that he is very progressive. He has been instrumental in helping with the completion of work on the community center, Lions Club, First Baptist, Fire Department, 4H and other projects around town. We will cover more on that later but for now it is sufficient to say that he is a kind and humble man in person but when Bob Williams, Maggie Stewart, Rhonda Aveni and Pam Denney at The Clarendon Press addressed letters and envelopes on the computer at no charge. Printing was done by Clarendon Office Supply. Thanks to the help of Kathy Knox and my wife Barbara Thompson, we have mailed 1,266 letters to tourist-oriented businesses in the four-state region. We are starting to get phone inquiries on our 800 line as a result of those letters. We will be sending about 800 more in the near future. It is our hope to attract business that compare to those in the old "downtown" areas of Albuquerque or Santa Fe or Silver Dollar City in Branson, Missouri.

We currently have about 20 buildings in the downtown area that could house gift shops, gallaries, and antique stores, if we are successful in building our sign board program and expanding east and west for about 60 miles with signs along 287 that tout Clarendon as a location for gifts, antiques and art.

Others in the Chamber are working on projects in other areas. Patsy Leffew is working on a color brochure for Clarendon and Donley County. Others are working on a brochure to guide history buffs to the various historical sights in Clarendon especially those that are in the National Registry. The museum has contributed to our projects and is considering expanding their hours of operation to help us attract tourists and entice them to "stay a little longer" in Clarendon.

ecutive director of the Texas Water Commission and a specialist in water law says it is a legal fiction. Frank Booth of Booth and Newsom attorneys in Austin predicted at a recent irrigation meeting that groundwater law in Texas will expand in the 1990's to increase regulation of groundwater use.

"I speculate that legislation will be enacted which will bring all areas of the state where groundwater has economic value beyond domestic and livestock watering usage under the regulatory jurisdiction of the Texas Water commission, unless a local underground water district is created by local vote. I predict that local regulation of groundwater pumpage through underground water districts and their rulemaking process will conflict with the Texas Water Commission's jurisdiction over surface water beyond the particular district's territorial boundary.

"This, in turn, will have catastrophic economic impacts on cities and industries which have acquired groundwater rights within the district area for transport and use outside the district. As a result, I speculate that legislation will be enacted requiring Texas Water Commission approval of all rules and regulations of underground water districts."

Booth made his predictions at the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference in Amarillo, presenting some sobering food for thought to producers who feel they own the water beneath their farmland.

He said that agricultural interests will be on the defensive over both groundwater and surface water in the 1990's. Playa lakes, unique to the farmlands of the High Plains, may also prove to be an area of contention.

"The 1990's will see continuous. efforts by environmental interests and the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department to consolidate and expand existing environmental requirements. One of the major assaults will be legislation to make environmental requirements applicable to new permits, retroactively applicable to existing water rights. This would especially impact reservoirs for water supply. I don't think we'll see any further surface water projects for irriga-

He predicted that the 1990's will also see increased permit jurisdiction in Texas by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protection Agency over wetlands and isolated bodies of surface water such as playa lakes.

"A controversial new interpretation of the federal agency definition of wetlands, which includes isolated bodies of surface water as jurisdictional waters of the United States, and U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service wetland mapping techniques have caused increasing concern and criticism by the Texas Water Commission and various state land management organizations. Whether the Corps may assert jurisdiction over isolated wetlands is particularly critical to farmers because 40 percent of all non-federal lands possessing wet soils are used for agriculture.'

Playa lakes have been a point of controversy between High Plains landowners and federal agencies in the past. In certain parts of the Panhandle, virtually every farm includes some acreage in a playa lake. Property owners in the area see any move by a federal agency to take control of the playas as a land grab of private property by the government, especially since they have paid property taxes on the acreage included in these playas for many years. "The matter of the playas may be one of the foremost issues affecting agriculture in the Texas High Plains in the 1990's,"Booth said. "A ing from Congress, is the safest bet on this issue, rather than allowing federal agencies to make the determination. Such a definition would prevent agencies from making an end run to take over farmland playas." A key battle over groundwater and its future in Texas has already been joined in the Edwards Aquifer region. The outcome of the case could have far-reaching ramifications for Texas agriculture.

A Local Wonder

In John 17, Jesus prayed that his followers might be one in order that the world might believe. Obviously, most people who claim to be followers of Jesus do not take his desires very seriously. Otherwise there would not be a dozen varieties of Christian in Donley County.

When Jesus prayed that his followers would be one, he recognized that the power of the Good News would be weakened to the extent that his followers separated. A mathematician might contend that evangelism diminished with the square of the number of parties. Two parties would have one-fourth the attraction of one. Thirteen sects would have 1/169th of the power of a united body. That is about the situation

But there is an amazing fact here. Despite the unholy weakening of the Gospel message, people are still attracted to Jesus. When the apostle Paul wrote that the Gospel was "the power of God for salvation", he did not understate the dynamic nature of the message.

If an abused and diluted Gospel can still attract occasional converts, what could an united message do?

Nora Leathers was surprised with a party in her honor on her 95th birthday on March 3rd in the Medical Center Nursing Home. The event was hosted by Allene and Katrina Leathers. The serving table was dressed with Nora's own lace tablecloth with centerpieces of beautiful floral arrangements from her granddaughter and nephew. Pictures of her history and family were arranged for all to enjoy. She received numerous cards and gifts. Nora and her twin, Ora, (the late Mrs. M.E. Whitfield of Hedley) were the youngest of 9 children in the family arriving in Donley County around 1910 from Hamlin. Nora and Ora along with their twin sisters, Dora and Cora attended the Old Bairfield School on the JA Ranch. Older brothers, Lee and Joe ran the old Holland Brothers Service Station one block east of

First Bank & Trust. Nora and Ora played on the Lelia Lake basketball team while attending Lelia Lake High School in 1913. She and her husband, the late B.J. Leathers, made their home east of Lelia Lake for more than 50 years. Medical Center has been her home since 1981 after an accident put her in the hospital with a cracked vertebra. She now carries her walking stick for safety.

Nora has four grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Also nurses and staff love her dearly.

There are improved varieties of thornless blackberries available, but none can match the combined quality and production of blackberries with thorns, according to Extension Service horticulturists. Yet the biggest rap against blackberries is their thorns. For new blackberry plantings, erect varieties (most of those grown in Texas are in this category), are simple to propagate. Simply dig or purchase root pieces--pencil size is ideal--or small plants and set them out tow to three feet apart in rows that are no closer to each other than 10 feet. A trellis is not needed to support erect varieties of black berries. Trailing varieties, on the other hand, must be started from rooted plants and do require support from a trellis. Blackberries do best in a slightly sandy, acid soil. Iron chlorosis which causes yellowing of leaves can be a serious problem in highly alkaline soils. Production in a good planting should average about one-half gallon per linear foot of row space.

Major pruning should be done in the spring and summer to shape the planting into a hedge from three to five feet tall and about two to four feet

Winter pruning should be done in moderation, if at all. Fruit buds are formed in the fall, thus winter pruning removes a portion of the upcoming ----

Shaping Up Easier Than Many Think

Getting in shape doesn't have to mean a rigorous exercise program of weightlifting, jogging or high-impact aerobics every day. There's an

Actually, for a fitness difference, all you need is four 30-minute workouts each week, said Dr. Bethann Witcher, nutritionist with the Texas Agricul-

Witcher said people who are too busy to include exercise in their schedule can get up 30 minutes earlier or go to bed 30 minutes later. If that sounds impossible, exercise at noon and eat a quick lunch afterwards at your desk. Or exercise at home while you watch a television program.

Start any exercise program slowly and gradually increase your pace and time, she advised. Be sure to include warm-up and cool-down periods to avoid unnecessary soreness and stiffness.

"If you feel you don't have enough stamina, remember that exercise ultimately gives you more energy both during and after workouts," she said

"You will feel less sluggish and discover a renewed sense of vitality." A simple exercise program combined with a proper diet will result in painless payoff, she said. "If you decrease your caloric intake by eating a high-fiber, low-fat diet and start an exercise program, you'll be slimmer by the first day of spring," Witcher said. "Not only will you look and feel better, but you also will increase your flexibility, build muscle strength and increase cardiovascular

Witcher said a creative approach to exercise shouldn't interfere with family time. In fact, a fitness activity is a great way to spend time together. Family bike rides, walks, and backyard basketball games are healthful and

She said varying activities will help you stay interested in an exercise program. Alternate walking, for example, with aero bics, swimming or an occasional volleyball game.

The important thing, Witcher said, is to find a way to stay physically active on a regular basis.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, March 6th, at the Lions Hall with 27 present. Following a very delicious chicken fried steak dinner, Lion Bently led the singing accompanied on the piano by Lion Sweetheart Jessie Adams. Vice-President Wilbert Bernabee called the meeting to order and Liontamer Henson introduced two regular guests. About this time our distinquished Boss Lion Todd Knorpp arrived, but Lion Bernabee graciously consented to continue to preside while Lion Knorpp enjoyed his lunch. Lion Bently gave a bingo report. landowners, municipal and industrial users, and surface water interests occurred in 1989 in a case filed by the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority entitled 'The Adjudication of Rights to Water in the Edwards Aquifer."GBRA contends that water in the Edwards Aquifer flows in a defined underground channel and is subject to laws governing surface water, rather than groundwater. If GBRA is successful in its case, pumpage of water for agriculture form the Edwards Aquifer will require a water right from the courts or the Texas Water Commission, and such rights will be adjudicated as surface water. Should the courts provide a broad definition, we can expect efforts to apply the broadened definition to other aquifers in the state with unknown potential for Texas Water Commission regulations of groundwater."

The GBRA case is being watched closely by irrigators and water districts in the High Plains. The landmark case could have great implications for the Ogallala aquifer region.

"The day could come when we may not own or control the groundwater beneath our own land," said Richard Bowers, derground Water District at Dumas. "Natural river channels are available which could one day serve to carry Ogallala waters from the high Plains to the metropolitan areas of tExas. This is cause for some sober thought. Taking underground water away from the people of the High Plains is not beyond the realm of possibility." Bowers said that creating water districts is a means of maintaining local control of groundwater, and a flurry of groundwater district organizations have occurred in the last year in the state.

Booth isn't optimistic about the future of irrigated agriculture interests in the Edwards Aquifer

"I speculate that either the courts will rule or the legislature will enact new laws which will result in the Edwards Aquifer being adjudicated in a manner similar to the Water Rights Adjudication Act of 1967, which cut off future claims of riparian irrigation rights.

Here, existing uses probably will be grandfathered and new uses will be by permit similar to surface water. A monumental lawsuit by landowners and allied interests will challenge constitutionality of any such legislation. When the dust settles, the Texas Supreme Court may find the adjudication legislation valid."

n the seventh chapter of Exodus, the Lord instructed Moses and Aaron to throw Aaron's rod at the feet of Pharaoh, where it became a snake (verse 10). God had already told them that Pharaoh would ask for a miracle, and this was to be a sign that the God of Israel had, indeed, sent them.

Pharaoh was not impressed. He summoned his magicians, who each did the same thing (verse 12).

Got any snakes in your church? Or, in keeping with the context, the question might better be phrased, You are cordially invited

"Got any fakes in your church?"

I hope you can answer with a truthful and resounding "No," but, unfortunately, snakes abound in church. In the latest issue of Christianity Today, a theologian striving to revitalize his moribund denomination had just described two other groups which had strayed from their Bible roots by saying that in those churches, "... There are two churches under the same umbrella." He was referring, of course, to those still faithful to the Word, and to those who saw the churches as left-leaning social organizations. But in his heartbreaking description of his own declining, far-left denomination, he said, " in [my church] there are different religions under the same umbrella, "--radical feminism, humanism, and universalism, among others, the author of the article added.

I managed to take a little--VERY little--comfort from the fact that there are no congregations of that denomination in our area, not even in Amarillo. But on the Religion page of Friday evening's Amarillo Globe-Times, the leader of a group very much among us said that his church, since an important conference in the early sixties, has moved from a view that the race is damned, to a perspective that mankind is "essentially a saved community from whom a few MAY be lost."

Sounds great, doesn't it? But remember the Garden of Eden. Snakes and fakes speak their lies as soothingly as syrup. The Eternal Word says, "...Narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it" (Matthew 7:14), and, "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables" (II Timothy 3:4-5). Don't let a fake snake take you in!

.But Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods" (Exodus 7:12b): Aaron's snake ate the fake snakes. Truth WILL prevail.

Got any snakes in your church? The "anything-goes" mentality of our society provides an excellent breeding ground for them. "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God," I John 4:1 tells us. John goes on to give some very specific instruction as to how we are to test any doctrine for its authenticity, then, in the fourth verse, sounds a note of victory: "...Greater is He that is in you, than he that is in the Texans will observe Arbor Day on April 27 this spring, rather than the traditional earlier winter date in late January.

For many groups, an "Arbor Season" will be observed from February through the April date.

Second, cattle raisers can experiment with some to the techniques that sheep and goat raisers have developed in Central Texas-- techniques such as guard dogs and female donkey guards. These may or may not work with cattle.

Third, ranchers may want to hunt coyotes and/or encourage coyote hunting on their land. There are problems with this approach. Most ranchers are too busy to add coyote hunting to their list of chores and with no market for pelts, there may not be enough incentive for others to hunt.

Finally, both ranchers and environmentalists need to support unbiased biological/ecologial studies of coyotes. Emotionalism will accomplish little that is constructive, whether one is a cattleman or an environmentalist (and many people are both). In all probability most reasonable folks agree on far more than they disagree about when the facts are all in. Most would agree that the present situation is artificial and unnatural. It may well be that there is a simple, agreeable solution to the coyote problem just waiting to be discovered.
