Two Injured in Wreck

James Fredrick "Rickey" Hayes, 28, and his three-year-old daughter Lauren Hayes, were injured about 4:35 p.m., Friday, July 5, in a grade-crossing accident. As of press time, Hayes was listed in critical condition at Northwest Texas Hospital. His daughter appears to be less seriously injured.

The collision occurred on Ayers street, near the Community Center. That is the same crossing where Althea Shaller was killed on October 31, 1988. The city, the Texas Department of Highways, and the Burlington Northern Railroad have tried for several years to install crossing signals there, but their efforts have been stymied by bureaucrats in the Federal Railroad Signal Program.

Hayes was northbound in a tan, 1983 Suburban. The westbound train consisted of four locomotives and 116 empty coal cars. Witnesses reported that they heard the train whistle before the impact. The Suburban was knocked down the track for a number of yards. Hayes was ejected from the vehicle and officers estimate that he was airborne for about 150 feet. He was not wearing a safety belt. According to reports, alcohol was apparently not a factor.

Deputies report that the train stopped in about 23 car lengths. Normal stopping distance is roughly equivalent to the length of the train.

Crossing Accidents Serious Menace in County

Accidents at railroad crossings are a major safety problem in Donley County. Not only are such accidents a leading cause of traffic deaths, they are also responsible for multiple-thousands of dollars of property damage each year. Here is a short chronology drawn from the files of The

College Extended $100,000 Grant

Clarendon College has been extended a $100,000 challenge grant for its proposed Ranch and Feedlot Operations facility by an anonymous donor. The college must raise an additional $410,000 by May 1, 1992. A significant portion of the challenge must by met by the community and former students.

The new building will allow the Clarendon College Ranch and Feedlot Operations program to expand from a current enrollment of 25 students to 40 students. The program, directed by Jack Moreman and assisted by Jerry Gage, offers students who are interested in a ranch or feedlot career the opportunities to gain new knowledge and technical skills to meet the needs of coping with today's complex agricultural problems. Extensive field work conducted on ranches and feedyards offers a practical approach to the problems in the ranch and feedlot industry.

Dr. Jerry Stockton, President, Clarendon College, said, "We are pleased to accept this generous challenge grant and the college will begin facility will enable us to better serve our students and the needs of the area."

4th Goes Bang!

Clarendon's annual 4th of July Celebration went over with a bang. Hundreds of people from all over the country returned Donley County to see the parade, go to the rodeo and visit with old friends and

The parade is traditionally one of the big events of the day. For 1991, the Khiva Shriners won first place with its $200 prize. The Bob Wills float won second place and a $100 award. Jim Robinson's Scud Missile Launcher won third and earned a trophy. His Honor Mayor Jim Sharrar was the announcer.

Many observers rated the parade as one of the best in years. Organizers were Kay Miller, "Miss Ellie" McKee, Terry Hill and Debbie Howard.

GARY WILLIAMS of Kress won the Old Fiddlers Contest.

The ol' time fiddlers contest attracted participants from all over the region. Gary Williams of Kress took the silver tray for first place. The prize was donated by J&W Lumber Company. Ray David of Clarendon was second and Forrest Denton was third. Sponsors included the First Bank & Trust, Frank Derrick, Deyhle Veterinary Clinic, The Donley County Sate Bank, Keown Ranch and Farm Supply and B&R Thriftway. In the guitar contest, Chad Stapp came in first and Jeremy Stapp second.

Dozens of booths decorated the courthouse lawn. Some offered goods for sale and some were fundraising projects for various organizations. There were quite a number of drawings, and the winners came from all over the United States. Marjorie Berrig of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, won an immediately to raise the necessary funds to meet the challenge. The new afghan. Ronnie Emanuel of Amarillo won the boat, while J.S. Shackleford of Rainbow won the tickets to the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas.

At noon, the Shriners sold barbecue on the square. Besides a good plate of barbecue, each person who purchased a ticket was given a chance to win a side of beef. Jerry Hicks (formerly of Clarendon) took home the meat.

Cowboys and cowgirls from all over rode and roped at the rodeos on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. A big crowd watched the events.

After the rodeo, many of the young folks--and some not so young-- danced on the slab by the rodeo ground. Others sat around and visited. The last event of the day usually ended in the early morning hours. Then shortly after 6:00 a.m. each morning, Clarendon's Explorer Scouts began cleaning up the mountain of trash that the celebrants left be-

Sunday morning was quiet. Folks from out-of-town started home. Some Clarendon residents went to church while others tried to sleep off the excesses of the previous night. July 4th was over for another year.

Holidays Not Happy for All

Ithough the holiday was a time of celebration and reunion for most Although the holiday was a time of coloration area residents, tragedy and disappointment touched several Donley County families over the July 4th Holidays

Martin Hernandez, 26, drowned at Greenbelt lake, despite prompt efforts by friends, family and emergency crews. Hernandez was very close to the location of an earlier drowning.

James Fredrick ["Rick"] Hayes was injured in a crossing accident on Ayers Street. [See story elsewhere in this issue.]

Other incidents we not accidents. Twenty-two people were arrested for driving-while-intoxicated, and 5 for public intoxication. One person was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon. One was arrested for Interference with a Peace Officer and resisting arrest. One person went to the calaboose for possession of marijuana. Local authorities hauled in one minor for possession of alcohol, and the Liquor Control Board nabbed many others.

Such cases of misconduct made a busy week for law enforcement

Dear Editor

As I criss-cross the nation, the depth of the concern and disagreement on Treasury Secretary Brady's Banking Bill is apparent. Last week in Washington, D.C., I met Congressmen, Senators, and Regulators to find some interesting Senators and Congressmen frankly appear to either be confused, ill informed, or misinformed as to what the Bush Administration's "New World Order of Banking" means. I asked Senator Warner of Virginia what he thought of the trend of bank consolidation and he said to the amazement of banking leaders listening "He'd never heard of the problem." Kelsey Meek, (the lead man for Henry Gonzales) of the House Banking Committee, told me just last week that the Independent Bankers were not against interstate banking. This was the same day I met with a group of several hundred independent bankers all opposed to interstate banking. Phil Gramm in an inconceivable combination of bad logic is taking a stand for deregulation (it worked well in the S & L industry, let's do it to banking) and for letting banks enter headlong into the securities business...(just what we need, bankers taking depositors money and investing in stocks and bonds...perhaps they will leverage the purchases into junk bond investments like Robert Clark Comptroller of the Currency has been doing). Others such as Dick Armey and Pete Geren simply don't have much to say on banking issues...which means they are probably testing the political winds. Certainly we get the impression that Pete Geren is on the right side, but a strong definitive statement would be helpful to bankers nationwide.

Then there are regulators. Undersecretary of the Treasury, Glauber just incurred the wrath of the House Committee of Banking when he and some other representatives of a few huge megabanks held secret meetings to "mold and push this bill" without inviting Congressional participation from the leadership of the House Banking Committee. In response the House Banking Committee's Subcommittee on Financial Institutions unanimously rejected a proposal to restructure the industry's regulatory system.

And still, this Administration is pulling out all the stops to get this bill passed. State regulators nationwide are concerned of the damage this banking bill can do to the industry, the nation's economy, and ultimately, the taxpayers.

Ken Littlefield, Texas Bank Commission recently told me, "This bill is bad for banking and bad for the economy." Sid Bailey, Commissioner of the Bureau of Financial Institutions of Virginia said, "It is hard to calculate the massive damage this bill could do to the banking industry."

But they aren't alone in their criticisms. A coalition of Governors has said the bill is bad for States. A coalition of over 30 consumer groups in Washington, D.C. has said the bill is bad for consumers. And bankers...let us not forget bankers from Massachusetts to Montana are alarmed. Joe Thares, C.E.O. of the Independent Bankers of Montana last week declared to me, "We can't believe what they (the people in Washington) are trying to do to banking, and the detrimental impact this bill could have on rural Cont'd on p.5

Letter To The Editor

To The People of Donley County:

This letter is to ask everyone in Donley County to join us and call or write your State Senator and State Representative about the railroad crossings that do not have lights and arms. Especially the one by the rodeo grounds. This has been a very tragic sight and will probably continue to be unless we all push to get something done there. We understand that the money for flashing lights and arms has already been approved for that particular site but at this time noth-

This has hit very close to home with us as our friend and classmate, and his daughter have been the last victims of this crossing. Please pray for Rick Hayes, his daughter Lauren and their family.

Please!

On March 8, 1990 and May 30, 1990 The Clarendon News printed an editorial (reproduced below) that pleaded with area citizens to write to elected officials to inform them about the foot-dragging at the Federal Signal Administration. How many wrote? Obviously not enough.

Now Clarendon has suffered another tragedy. Austin and Washington may or may not care.

Does Clarendon care? Will we each and every one finally

The editor maintains a policy of publishing editorials only on rare occasions. But this is one of those occasions. And the editor wishes that he could address each Donley County citizen personally, on a one-to-one basis. His plea is very simple: "Write or call Washington and Austin. Make your voice heard! We have had enough friends and neighbors injured on the tracks across Ayers Street."

Who's Next?

On October 31, 1988 a Burlington Northern train struck a car near the Community Center. Alta Shaller, the driver of the car, died a few hours later. As a result of that accident, the City of Clarendon, the State of Texas and the Burlington Northern Railroad began trying to get signals for the heavily traveled cross-

The City-through the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation--applied for funding under the Federal Railroad Signal Program. They were soon notified that the project would not be funded in fiscal 1989.

The application for a signal on the railroad crossing on Ayers Street was re-submitted for the 1990 fiscal year. Federal authorities again refused to fund the project. They reported that the projects were selected on the basis of a complicated formula. Clarendon's crossing was rated at a priority index of 301. The cut off point was 321.

Federal authorities encouraged the Highway Department (acting for the city) to reapply for fiscal year 1991. They were quick to point out that changes in the number of trains or the number of automobiles could change the formula. Another death would certainly increase the chance for funding! In essence the bureaucrats are saying, "Get somebody else killed there and then we'll make the crossing safer."

Donley County citizens who feel that safety should come before tragedy should write to their elected representatives, both State and Federal.

Minding Your Own Business: One Parable and Two Paragons By Don Taylor

Once upon a time, there was a certain man who sold hamburgers at a little corner cafe. He made the burgers from 100% ground beef and served them on the freshest buns. He topped the burgers with premium pickles, marvelous mustard and classic ketchup. He kept the little cafe spotlessly clean, and always greeted his customers courteously. Business

The man put some small ads in the newspaper and added a larger sign. Soon, the cafe became overcrowded at mealtimes, and the man moved into a larger store. Business was good.

The man opened a second store and soon a third. He made the ads bigger, the burgers better and kept the stores cleaner. The customers were treated like royalty. He opened more stores. Business was good.

As the number of stores grew, the burger entrepreneur felt he should take on a partner. He found a highly educated financial manager and brought him into the business.

The new partner was anxious to show hie expertise. "The economists says a recession is coming," he said. "We must be ready for it." The new partner slashed the advertising budget, reduced the size of the burgers and added a little filler. He kept the buns a little longer and purchased less expensive condiments. "We must reduce labor costs," said the partner and laid off part of the staff.

The service grew a little slower and the stores were not quit as spotless. However, the new partner proudly pointed to lower costs. If recession came, they were ready.

Gradually, business slowed down. "I knew it," said the partner. "The economists were right. Recession is coming." Business grew worse.

One at a time, the stores were closed until only one remained. The partner left the business to accept a good job with the government. The burger entrepreneur managed to keep a single store open. Every night, when he closed the store, the man was grateful that he had taken on a partner before the recession. Otherwise, he might have lost it all.

Obviously, the hamburger entrepreneur in the opening illustration didn't get good advice from his "educated" partner. We asked two local entrepreneurs how they would approach a recessive economy.

"I wouldn't cut the advertising," said Ron McVean. McVean is a 27-year-old McDonald's franchise owner/operator. His Amarillo store is one of the newest and best-managed in Texas. McVean added this thought on advertising. "The best time to express your message to the consumer is in a recession.'

Consistent and service are two words that McVean uses a lot. "My advice to other to other business owners is to be consistent in your operations, consistent in the quality of your products and consistent in providing good service. Service is the single most important aspect of our business

Don Carper agrees. Carper is the owner of Doodles Hamburger Stores, Inc. Doodles offers a nostalgic atmosphere to complement their Carper suggests that you keep cool when the economy slows. "Instead of getting panicky during a recession, you have to get positive," Carper said. "You must give good service, deliver a quality product and maintain a consistent image.

"It is certainly a challenge to keep your prices stable with the increasing cost of food products and labor," he added, "but quality, service and value are essential. We value our customers and we work hard to provide them with good food, good prices and a friendly, unhurried atmosphere."

Last week, I enjoyed lunch in these two restaurants. Although the two businesses are very different, there are many similarities. Both facilities are spotlessly clean, even during the peak rush hours. The crews are friendly and courteous, and the owners spend time "face-to-face" with their customers. Business is good.

BANKING- from p.3

Off the headlines there is another "wild card" development. The House Banking Committee, which consists of 52 members (31 Democrats, 20 Republicans, and 1 Socialist) has 18 new members. These members could be the swing vote in determining the direction of the The Banking Bill and thereby the future of banking in America. By and large the committee is according the Dick Armey 'splintered and divided worse than anything I have seen in my political life." But many of these 18 new members don't like the smell of "DEREGULATION."

While the BIF (Banking Insurance Funding) aspect has been sectioned off and is sure to pass, other aspects of this bill are in question. Meanwhile, the Bush Administration, through Treasury Secretary Brady, has put out the word to "push hard" the next few weeks to get it passed, before more opposition organizes.

We can hope and urge that our elected representatives take their heads out of the sand, and vote not to deregulate an already fragile and sick industry, but to concentrate on purging our banking system of all of the trendy "innovations" regulators and Congress have introduced which since the 1970's have de-stabilized the system. Rather than TOO BIG TO FALL VS TO SMALL TO SAVE our leaders need to be thinking about making our banks TOO SAFE TO FAIL. That means voting this bill down and getting back to the basics which served banking with a stable environment for 50 years, until they started tinkering with the system in the 1970's. Common sense, back to economic basics that will serve America far better than a bold new banking system dominated by a few giants on WALL STREET which would live to own everything...and everybody...at the expense of Main Street America.

Hedley News

by Earl

The Hedley News is abbreviated this week. Jon Leggitt has moved to Georgetown and an experienced replacement as Hedley News correspondent was not readily available.

Jon Leggitt was a leader in the Baptist Church and Math Teacher at Hedley High School. He was also Mayor of Hedley and presided over Hedley during a time when Hedley achieved several city improvements. The two largest were the new water system, of which the water pipe is the most obvious feature, and the new Fire Hall. Both of these projects required presentations at Amarillo to receive considerations for funding. Mr. Leggitt had to take off time from his teaching job to give these presentations, and put many hours into preparing them. Hedley will be hard pressed to find a more loyal and dedicated civil servant as his Tragic news in Hedley this week was the fire that destroyed Junior Gilchrest's house and all his possessions. According to fire officials, shortly after 4 a.m. on July 5th, Ronnie Hill noticed fire and smoke coming from Junior's house. He quickly drove the two blocks to the fire. Fearing Junior was still inside, Mr. Hill roused a neighbor, Danny Monroe, to help him get Mr. Gilchrest from the house. The fire and smoke was coming from the area of the bedroom. When the two men approached the house, Junior was on the front porch. Mr. Gilchrest tried to go back into the house, but heavy smoke poured out from the door when it was opened.

The Donley County Sheriff's office paged Hedley Volunteer Department, which responded with great dispatch. When there is an emergency, it seems to take forever for help to arrive, but these volunteers were there as quickly as possible. Professionals could not dress much faster, and there isn't a fire truck in Chicago that can make ninety miles an hour as some of these unpaid fire fighters were in responding to the fire call. The cause of the fire was not terminate, but cigarettes was suspected.

Danny Monroe, as one of the first on the scene was most responsible for keeping the flying embers from igniting the dry roof of the house only a few feet away from the burning building. He sprayed water from a garden hose on the roof while standing almost within reach of the leaping flames.

Hedley had all three trucks at the fire and had two hoses feed by the pumper truck which was hooked to the a fire hydrant. One too exciting moment came when the water from the hydrant first blew out and sprayed some bare

The Lions Tale by Gene Alderson

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, July 2, 1991, at the Lions Hall with 18 members in attendance. Lion Tamplen led the prayer. Following a delicious BBQ chicken dinner, Boss Lion Bernabe called the meeting to order and led the singing. Mrs. Dee Williams, our new Lion Sweetheart, accompanied us on the piano. Welcome Dee! Guests were introduced.

Our new Lions Club year of-ficially started today. Boss Lion Bernabe symbolically presented the gavel to our new Boss Lion Delbert Robertson. Also recognized were Lion Tamplen, our new 1st Vice-President in charge of mem-bership, Lion Chambliss, our new 2nd Vice-President in charge of activities and Lion Garland, our new 3rd Vice-President in charge of bingo. We are looking forward to great things from our new officers. As they start their new year, they will find all of the club's bills are paid and our operating and activity funds are in the black thanks to the work of a number of Lions and to the "prodding" and diligent management of outgoing Boss Lion Bernabe. Meeting adjourned.

SOLAR WATER PUMPING SYSTEMS

Proven water pumping systems for livestock home or small irrigation use. These pumps, solar panels, and control equipment are now available and in many applications less expensive than wind or fuel powered equipment by systems. They are very reliable and require very little or no maintainence. They have only one or two moving narts.

I have several systems in place now in Dorley County. If you are interested please give me a sall.
