Activity Center Dedicated

The Bairfield Activity Center was officially opened on Sunday, September 29th, as Clarendon College dedicated the new building on the campus.

The 14,000-square foot facility houses four lounge areas, a game room, study hall, book store, counseling office, financial aid office, a lunchroom for commuter students and a VIP meeting room.

The banquet area can seat 350 people and the facility can serve the needs of all students on campus as well as community organizations.

College president Jerry Stockton, at the dedication, recognized members of the Bairfield family from Fort Worth, Frankston and Clarendon, former students of Old Clarendon College, the board of regents and faculty, and architect Larry C. Donham from Andrews.

Clarendon resident Charles Bairfield and his wife, Thelma, initiated the two-year project with an undisclosed donation. Additional funds were generated by a revenue bond program.

Although the Bairfields did not live to see the activity center completed, Charles Bairfield attended the groundbreaking ceremony in January 1991.

Director of development Royce Bodiford paid tribute to the pioneer Bairfield family and the value they placed on education.

Charles and Thelma Bairfield were teachers when they married in 1928. Clarendon's original school house was built on the Bairfield ranch. It has since been moved to the Texas Heritage Center in Lubbock.

Centenarian Celebrates Birthday

On September 21, 1991, Jessie Adams and Glen King hosted a birthday party at the Medical Center honoring their mother, Stella King, in recognition of her 102nd birthday.

The room was decorated with multicolored balloons and flower arrangements, which lent an air of festivity to the occasion.

The guests were registered by Barbara Cospet, granddaughter of the honoree, at a table enhanced by pink carnations in a crystal bud vase.

The refreshment table was laid with a white linen cloth, centering the table was an arrangement of gerbera daisies, yellow spider mums and gold pom poms and accented with autumn leaves. Attached to the centerpiece was a "Happy Birthday" balloon. Punch was served by Mary Lee Miller and the birthday cake was served by Jeanie Formway, from the Medical Center.

During the course of the afternoon, a group of girls from the church of Christ entertained with several songs, accompanied by Mary Beth Nelson at the piano. They then led the crowd in singing "Happy Birthday" to Stella. Then by popular request, Glen King, and Jessie Adams played several selections on the piano.

Mrs. King declared that this was the happiest birthday ever!

Clarendonites who attended were: Vivian Allen, Nora Hartwick, Barbara Cospet and Chancey Floyd, Renee Betts, Brandi and Will, Nadine Bobbitt, Susie Shields, Mrs. Travis Finch, Mr. & Mrs. Jack Edwards, Janie & Laura Finch, Chloe Ann Newhouse, Nancy Newhouse and children, Hazel Campbell, Marie Hill, Emma Shannon, Ruby Thompson, Allene Leathers, Truman Ledbetter, Jeanie Formway & Mary Lee Miller of Medical Center, Lee Welch, also of Medical Center staff, Mary Beth Nelson, Naveta Browning, Bernice O'Neal, Peggy Cockerham and Vera Johnson of Medical Center.

911 Makes Numbers Magic

Clarendon is now part of the nation-wide system that allows a person to dial 911 in the event of emergency. It does not matter where the person is nor what the emergency is, 911 is the number to call.

But emergency personnel need to be able to find the right house. That makes house numbers and street signs vital. The traditional system has been, "Oh I live next door to Old Lady Jones!", but not everyone knows which house is the Joneses'. Put up your house number!

Recommendations For Cottonseed in Cattle Diets

Beef producers should be aware of the proper amount of cottonseed products that can be fed safely depending on the type of animal.

Cottonseed products have been used for more than 100 years as nutritional supplements to improve cattle production. Millions of tons of cottonseed products are fed annually to U. S. livestock.

Concern about cottonseed stems from its level of gossypol, a naturally occurring substance that can be toxic to some animals.

"Ruminant animals can tolerate much greater quantities of free gossypol than can monogastric animals. Pre-ruminant calves, under 8 weeks of age, should not be fed gossypol-containing products," says a report just released at Texas A & M University.

The source of gossypol and type of diet also affect the levels of gossypol tolerated by cattle.

Gossypol has been widely studied for its toxicity to some animals. But gossypol may also affect reproductive capabilities in cattle. These are the recommendations for feeding cattle:

Beef cows and range bulls: 2 pounds per head per day of direct solvent extracted; 4 pounds/head/day of expander processed; 4 pounds/head/day of screw-press processed meal; or 4-6 pounds/head/day of whole cottonseed.

-Young bulls being grown or developed for breeding: Whole cottonseed should be limited to 15 percent to 20 percent of the total diet for most cattle and to 10 percent or less for young developing bulls. High free gossypol meal (0.3 percent or 3,000 parts per million) should be limited to 5 percent of the total diet. Screw press and expander process meal containing less than 0.1 percent or 1,000 parts per million can be used at up to 15 percent of the total diet.

Over the years, Clarendon citizens have developed a careless attitude toward house numbers. In some cases, one utility company has one number on its records for a certain house, while another utility company designates that house with a slightly different number. City Hall says that they do not have an official designation, and the abstract company reportedly says the same. Perhaps for the sake of uniformity, residents should use the house number recognized by the telephone company.

The important thing, however, is not which number is used, but that the number be clearly posted on the house and match the number given to the emergency dispatcher. Call the dispatcher and give him an address of "105 S. Kearney" and the building has "105" posted above the door, then the ambulance or fire truck will probably find the door.

From stockbrokers to retailers, from credit unions to insurance men, to savings and loans, they all seem to be saying, "You don't need a banker, we'll do just as well." Oh, no they won't. ### CATTLE - from p.1

If using a mixture of cotton products, the combined concentration of gossypol will need to be considered.

Embryo transfer: Producers with embryo transfer programs in which large sums of money are involved per animal may wish to use a conservative approach since other protein sources are available.

Pre-ruminant calves (under 8 weeks to be safe): These animals, especially dairy calves, should not be fed gossypol containing products until ongoing research establishes safe feeding levels.

Cattle raisers also should know that the method of oil extraction used on the cottonseed impacts the gossypol levels in the product. The expander process exposes the cottonseed to greater heat which in turn reduces the amount of free gossypol content to about one-third of the level in the old direct solvent method. More than 95 percent of the cottonseed processed in Texas and Oklahoma today are from expander or screw-press operations.

Also, with high roughage or forage diets where slower passage takes place, cattle may be able to tolerate higher levels of gossypol. Cottonseed hull-based diets may be an exception, however, because of their rapid rate of passage.

TOURISM A VISION OF AMERICA

When Americans head out on the open road, we appreciate how great America really is, and our freedom to travel. Now, more than ever in the past, people from the world over can visit America.

Foreign visitors strengthen our global relations and in 1989, they added $43 billion* to our economy. As our number one export, tourism improves the USA's balance of trade with other nations.

Tourism Works For America... and for you.

A Nose and a Tale

Willie didn't live in Donley County, but folks in the adjacent county still tell about the time that ..., well perhaps a little explanation is in order.

Fifty years ago, farming was not quite the same as it is today. Farms were smaller, more diversified and still sold some products for local consumption. Butter and eggs provided a significant part of the income for many families. Nobody had air conditioning and almost no one had central heat.

When cold weather came a union suit felt pretty comfortable most of the time. And for those young folks who do not know what a union suit is, now is the time to complete your liberal education. A union suit was a form of underwear; warm, with long legs and arms. And there was a conveniently located flap that followed the wearer around. At night the union suit could substitute for pajamas.

One cold night Willie was sleeping peacefully, when he heard a ruckus in the henhouse. Since eggs brought in year-round revenue, a fox or skunk or coon in the chicken coop was a serious matter.

Willie eased out of bed, grabbed his old double-barreled shotgun and started toward the disturbance, clad only in his union suit. As he crossed the back yard, Faithful Dog fell into formation behind him. The cavalry was on the way to the rescue!

But wise cavalry commanders do not go charging in until they have reconnoitered the situation (if you don't believe that, as General Custer.) Nobody wants to charge in on the firing-end of a skunk. So Willie opened the henhouse door and eased into the squat building. He shined the flashlight around, but saw no sign of a trespassing varmint.

Meanwhile, the enlisted troops were waiting in on the action. Faithful Dog couldn't see what was happening! He tried to peep around on Willie's right, but the door was in the way. He tried to look around on the left, but couldn't see that way either. Then, just as Willie got to the center of the dirt floor, Faithful Dog got impatient. There in front of him was a gap in flap of the union suit.

Now Willie was concentrating on finding The Trespasser. His nerves were taut. His left hand had a firm grasp on the flashlight. His other hand held the shotgun, with a finger on the trigger. And he was totally unprepared for a cold nose poking him in the fanny. But that is just what Faithful Dog did.

Willie jumped about four feet straight up. Involuntarily, his finger jerked both triggers. That blew the lid off of the chicken house, and made Faithful Dog start howling. The chickens squawked and flapped and began running every direction, and Willie suddenly realized that he was freezing cold. But fortunately for Faithful Dog, the shotgun was empty.

Someone told the story at the the coffee shop, and it has been around ever since. The chicken house was torn down years ago. The housemovers took the house to town, and the old homestead is now a plowed field. But, a half-century later, the story of that cold nose still brings chuckles.

Feed A Garden, Starve A Landfill

Stop dumping on America. That's the message for the '90s as the country faces the greatest environmental crisis in its history. Nearly one-third of the existing municipal landfills will be full within the next five to seven years. What's more, some states, including New Jersey, Florida and Minnesota, have already banned the disposal of leaves and other yard waste in landfills or incinerators.

So, how does the country spell relief? C-O-M-P-O-S-T-I-N-G.

It's not just another dirty word. Composting is the process of turning organic materials—grass clippings, leaves and twigs, as well as coffee grinds, vegetable scraps and egg shells—into humus, a rich soil nutrient.

Finished compost or humus is one of the best soil conditioners around. A healthy dose of humus enables sandy soil to retain water and nutrients, and helps clay soil drain and "breathe" properly. It also releases nutrients slowly but steadily, so they do not burn or harm plants. And humus stimulates the spread of beneficial microorganisms in the soil, which are constantly at work improving soil structure and fighting disease-bearing bacteria.

Even novice gardeners can produce useful compost throughout the year. For best results, follow these simple guidelines to convert big piles of refuse into little piles of compost:

- Start with the pile. A compost pile can be located on the ground, or contained in a simple enclosure or in a 30-55 gallon plastic bag. Be sure to place bins on a well-drained site that is shaded from direct sunlight. If the pile or bin is uncovered, put a sheet of plastic on top to keep out excess moisture, which slows decomposition. When using a plastic bag, shake or invert it. Also, punch holes to allow air to enter, and keep the top of the bag open.

- Feed it a balanced diet. Use mostly plant matter, and don't add meats, fats or dairy waste, all of which actually slow composting. Your goal is to achieve a mixture of four parts carbon-based plant material (including leaves, sawdust and even Spanish moss) to one part nitrogen-based plant material, such as grass clippings and vegetable peelings.

- Shred material before composting. Chop materials or put them through a shredder. Shredded material creates more surface area for hungry microorganisms to feed on.

- Layer your pile. Build your compost pile in layers, watering each as it is completed. Start with two or three inches of coarse materials, such as cornstalks, twigs or straw to let air reach the bottom of the pile. Next, add three to six inches of organic materials. Continue layering the pile until you reach a height of 30 inches.

- Measure the temperature. Ideally, the compost should "cook" at 140 to 160 degrees for the first few days, high enough to destroy weed seeds and disease organisms. Special thermometers are available to keep track of compost temperatures.

- Turn the pile. Composting requires air, so don't forget to turn the pile every two to seven days. The process of turning the pile provides an opportunity to add more shredded green and dry matter.

- Keep the pile moist. But not soggy. A handful of compost feels about the same as a squeezed-out sponge. If you keep the pile damp and turn it every few days, you'll have compost ready to use in six to eight weeks.

Gardeners who compost are safely returning kitchen debris and yard waste to the soil. It's an easy, safe and environmentally-wise alternative to sending garbage to overflowing landfills. In addition, composted soil is a much healthier place for your plants to grow.

Breast Cancer Clinic Set

The Breast Cancer Screening Program of the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital of Amarillo will continue community outreach clinics for early detection of breast cancer.

Funding is available through the Texas Cancer Council for screening mammography for Texas residents qualifying for financial assistance.

Early detection of breast cancer is the major goal of cancer control for each woman seen in the clinic. The clinic provides low cost screening which includes a breast exam by a Registered Nurse trained in breast cancer detection, teaching of breast self examination, and a mammogram.

Currently, the most effective method known to win the battle against breast cancer is early detection. Early detection is best done by following the guidelines recommended by the American Cancer Society for breast cancer screening for women who have no signs or symptoms of breast cancer. The guidelines are:

1. Learn and perform breast self examinations every month.
2. Have a physical examination every year.
3. Have a mammogram according to the recommendations by age.

Age 35-40 - One baseline mammogram; 40-50 - A mammogram every 1 to 2 years; Over 50 - Yearly mammograms.

A clinic will be held in Clarendon on Monday, November 11, 1991, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Clarendon Medical Center Clinic. Exams are done by appointment only. For information about the clinic or to make an appointment, please call the Harrington Cancer Center at our toll free number 1-800-272-HOPE (4673). Locally for more information, contact the Medical Center Clinic at 874-3760.

Beneficiaries Reminded To Update Earnings Reports

Social Security beneficiaries can work and still receive all their benefit checks up to an annual earnings limit. However, when earning goes over the limit, a portion of the check may be withheld, according to Jim Talbot, District Manager of the Amarillo Social Security Office. The amount withheld depends on the age of the beneficiary.

Social Security beneficiaries who are under 65 can earn up to $7,080 and get all their benefit checks. If earnings go over that limit, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 in earnings. Beneficiaries who are 65-69 can earn up to $9,720 and still get all their checks. If earnings are over the amount, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $3 in earnings. Beneficiaries who are age 70 and older are not subject to the annual earnings limits. And different rules apply to people who get disability benefits and go to work.

Questionnaires go out this month to about 1 million working Social Security beneficiaries nationwide asking them to update their earnings information on Social Security's records. The purpose of the questionnaire is to get current earnings estimates in order to prevent overpayment due to work.

The questionnaires sent this month ask for estimated 1991 earnings. Beneficiaries who earn over the exempt amount and receive some benefits are required by law to file an Annual Report of Earnings by April 15th of the year after the year in which they earned over the exempt amount. A penalty can be imposed for failure to file this report on time.

The questionnaires are sent out each year to beneficiaries who earlier estimated that they would earn over the exempt amount during the current year and those who earned over the exempt amount the past year. Some beneficiaries receive questionnaires even though they haven't provided a current year estimate.

SSA officials have estimated that similar reminders sent in the past 2 years have saved the Social Security trust funds as much as $55.9 million. While most of the overpayment that were prevented would have been detected eventually, officials estimate a saving of almost 11 cents in interest and administrative costs for every dollar in overpayment avoided.

For help in making an earnings estimate, call Social Security at 376-2241 or visit the Amarillo office.

National Immunization Week

by Secretary Louis W. Sullivan, M.D.,
Department of Health and Human Services

After taking giant steps forward in virtually eradicating contagious childhood diseases, America recently slipped backwards as evidenced in a nationwide measles epidemic of at least 45,000 cases and 120 deaths reported during 1989 and 1990.

While 70-80 percent of American children routinely receive their immunizations on schedule, only 50 percent of the children in some inner-city and rural areas are vaccinated by their second birthday. Medical experts agree that children must begin the immunization process at two months old in order to be protected when they are most vulnerable to disease.

We have the nurses, the vaccines and the programs to inoculate all our children as demonstrated by the fact that more than 95 percent of children are vaccinated before they enter school. While free and local health care is affordable and available, these services have not always been utilized by all at-risk groups to obtain the recommended immunizations.

I am issuing a call for local volunteers to lead in the immunization cause. I have been pleased at the overwhelming response from people across our country, but it will take an all-out effort from many more to turn the situation around.

The single most crucial component of the immunization campaign is to educate and involve parents. Many parents are unfamiliar with the possible fatal complications of measles. And, with single-parent families so prevalent and with more women working outside the home, many mothers are so consumed with everyday survival, they are losing their grip on the long-term aspects of child care.

In other instances, too many parents are so submerged in problems such as drug and alcohol abuse, AIDS, homelessness that their children's immunizations are neglected. For some immigrant parents, language and cultural differences stand in the way of their children getting adequate immunizations.

The second vital component is to make the vaccine accessible to preschool children. All 50 states and the District of Columbia have immunization laws or requirements for school entry and almost all require immunization for children attending day-care centers.

But, since vaccines may not be readily accessible to all preschoolers, extraordinary efforts must be taken to ensure that the children get their vaccinations at an early-enough age.

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) is experimenting with a variety of approaches -- "express lanes" for vaccinations in public clinics, making vaccinations available in emergency rooms, and making vaccinations a service available through the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

States and Cities, with federal assistance, have approached the measles crisis with creative and aggressive public immunization programs. For instance, vaccinating all unvaccinated infants starting at six months of age whenever they are brought into public clinics for any reason, sponsoring Kids care Fairs where children are immunized and screened for health problems, and mobilizing well-baby clinics to give inoculations.

Extraordinary measures are also being used to help entice parents. Some clinics are extending their hours for working parents or they are setting up outposts in local churches, schools, and housing projects.

To supplement personal involvement, the Bush Administration has launched an unprecedented Immunization Initiative. The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) Immunization budget has more than doubled from over $98 million in 1988 to a current budget of $218 million. President Bush has also requested an additional increase of $40 million for FY 1992 for the immunization program.

Included in the Administration's plan is a focus on Immunization Action Meetings to facilitate the development of local plans to immunize at least 90 percent of the Nation's infants before their second birthday.

I am encouraged by what our communities are doing. The Rotary Clubs of Pittsburgh have begun an immunization drive called "Operation Kidshot," a two-year program co-sponsored by the Jewish Healthcare Foundation. A privately-sponsored National Immunization Campaign, with corporate and celebrity public service announcements, is utilizing the theme, "Before it's too late. Vaccinate."

These local, community-wide efforts combined with our federal initiative have a chance at reaching our most "unreachable" children, but their effectiveness depends on our involvement! Let me paraphrase the National Immunization Campaign theme, "Before it's too late. Participate!"

Tourism Creates Economic Prosperity

New tourism research shows the positive economic impact of the state's tourism promotional efforts in attracting travelers to Texas. The advertising campaign to attract Texas tourists is a $6-million program of the Texas Department of Commerce.

"Our advertising campaign nationally and internationally is paying off. More tourists are coming to Texas and are staying longer and spending more money. New data shows that almost 42 percent of all those who requested information on Texas because of our ads in 1990 actually traveled to the state. That's excellent news because the more tourism we can bring in, the more jobs we create," said Cathy Bonner, Interim Director of Commerce.

Individuals inquire about Texas travel through the 1-800-888-TEX information line, coupons and reader service cards that are promoted through television, radio and the print media.

While visiting Texas, travelers spent an average of $653 per trip last year, an increase of 12 percent over 1989. The average stay in Texas also lengthened. In 1989, visitors stayed in Texas on average 5.6 nights; in 1990 they stayed 6.4 nights.

Data also showed that 9 percent of the visitors who came to Texas based their decision on the advertising and the promotional material provided by Commerce. The survey was conducted for Commerce by Telesurveys of Texas, Inc., a Houston-based research firm.

A separate July 1991 report issued by members of the Texas tourism industry also demonstrates the success of the Commerce Department's tourism promotional campaign. There has been a dramatic increase in the number of inquiries Texas travel information. More than 880,000 inquiries were made in fiscal year 1990. That's up more than 675,000 inquiries from fiscal year 1987.

The industry-wide report also showed equally dramatic increase in the amount of tax revenues collected by Texas hotels and motels. In fiscal year 1987, hotel/motel tax revenues amounted to $62.5 million; in 1990, the tax revenues skyrocketed to $114.9 million.

Commerce's advertising campaign into surrounding state shows that Texas is receiving more and more repeat visitors. For example, 83 percent of travelers from Albuquerque and New Orleans had previously visited Texas, while nearly 90 percent of Oklahoma City and Baton Rouge visitors were here for at least their second visit.

"Once you've seen Texas, the data proves you keep coming back. We hope to build on the successes of our advertising campaign and we hope to bring even more tourism to Texas next year," said Dr. Dianne Mendoza Freeman, Texas Department of Commerce Tourism Director.

The report was compiled by the Texas Association of Campground Owners, the Texas Association of Convention and Visitors Bureaus, the Texas Hotel and Motel Association, the Texas Restaurant Association and the Texas Travel Industry Association.

GOAL POWER - from p. 8

It happens on the football field. The team that is down 14-0 at the half comes tearing out in the third quarter and puts 21 unanswered points on the scoreboard.

It happens on main street when a struggling merchant discovers how to turn a business around. It happens in the classroom when a failing student suddenly becomes interested and blows the top out of the grading curve.

Everyone reacts to a challenge. Some may respond negatively, but most react positively. For any challenge to be successful, there must be a clearly defined, reachable and measurable goal. Finally, there must be adequate reward or incentive.

In the example I used earlier, the challenge became the goal - to get the hay in the barn before it rained. The goal was measurable and the incentive was free food.

THE POWER PROCESS

Hundreds of successful people tout the power of setting goals. yet, the whole process remains a mystery to many people. They never learn to use goals and motivation to get what they want. Best-selling author and master motivator, Zig Ziglar, stresses the importance of the goal-setting process. In his book, See You at the Top, Ziglar says that a man or woman without a goal is like a ship without a rudder. He implies that they will simply drift aimlessly and may end up at a destination of their choosing.

I believe there are four keys to making the goal-setting process work for you. First, you must begin. Set a new goal for yourself today. I dare you to accept the challenge. Second, make your goal specific and achievable. Put it in writing, such as "I want to lose 20 pounds by August 1, 1991." Third, make certain your goal is measurable. Weigh yourself now and chart your progress. Finally, make sure the incentive is adequate. Promise yourself a reward when you reach your goal.

The goal-setting process is a great way to unlock your potential. Start today and give yourself some goal power.

SOLAR WATER PUMPING SYSTEMS

Proven water pumping systems for livestock, home, or small irrigation use. These pumps, solar panels, and control equipment are now available and in many applications less expensive than wind or fuel powered equipment & systems. They are very reliable and require very little or no maintenance. They have only one or two moving parts.

I have several systems in place now in Donley County. If you are interested please give me a call.
