Bridge work

TxDOT workers bore a hole for a new pylon at the Hwy 70 bridge over the Salt Fork of the Red River north of Clarendon last Thursday. The bridge was temporarily closed after one section dropped nearly two inches when a main support pylon was damaged.

TxDOT repairs load damage on Salt Fork bridge

Deck drops two inches, closes one lane

The State Hwy. 70 bridge over the Salt Fork of the Red River is now open for traffic after severe damage necessitated emergency repairs to the bridge last week.

Donley County TxDOT Maintenance Supervisor Steve Smith ordered the bridge partially closed at 3:30 p.m. last Tuesday after he discovered one section of the north-bound lane had dropped nearly two inches.

Inspection of the bridge, located below the Greenbelt Dam, revealed that three huge pieces of concrete were popped out of the fourth interior bent support from the north where it joined the I-beams of the bridge span. One beam on the east side of the bridge was actually twisted out of shape.

Officials with the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) say that a heavy load may have been what caused the damage and dropped that section 1 5/8".

All truck traffic between US 287 and I-40 was immediately diverted through Hedley, but one lane of the bridge remained open to passenger vehicles.

Early Thursday morning, TxDOT crews began repairs to the bridge by driving new pylons 18 feet into the ground on the east and west side of the damaged section. The bridge was then lifted and set back down on its new support.

Traffic was diverted to a temporary road through the riverbed as repairs were made.

The bridge reopened late Friday afternoon, according to TxDOT spokeswoman Barbara Seal.

The Salt Fork bridge was constructed in 1954, Smith said. The south end washed out in 1957. It was rebuilt and then lengthened some time later.

The support that failed was originally the north end of the bridge but is now located near the center.

TxDOT officials say long-range plans call for the bridge to be replaced with earthen fill because the existence of the Greenbelt Reservoir makes the bridge "hydrologically unnecessary."

City Aldermen put airport shooting range on hold

Plans for a shooting range at Clarendon Municipal Airport are on hold following last Tuesday's Board of Aldermen meeting.

The shooting range was approved at the May 28 meeting, but Alderman Janice Knorrp and City Secretary Linda Smith voiced liability concerns last week when Mark C. White sought the city's approval for a safety regulation sign to be posted at the new range.

Smith said she had contacted the Texas Municipal League (TML), which carries the city's insurance, and was told the city should get a contract from the county to absolve Clarendon of all liability at the range. The contract would have to be approved by both TML and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Knorrp also raised concerns about the safety of planes in the area. Alderman Michael Tibbets said the range is pointed away from the landing strip, but Knorrp said planes sometimes circle before they land.

Mayor Tex Selvidge said he had been concerned the shooting range might endanger a grant from the FAA to improve the airport in 2004.

The board discussed making the range in compliance with National Rifle Association recommendations and the formation of a club to oversee the range to mitigate the liability. The aldermen then voted to table the matter until a club could be formed.

But White says he is not really interested in forming a club.

"I'm a lifetime member of the club in Memphis," White told the ENTERPRISE. "By the time we charter a club, draw up by-laws, collect dues, and wait 16 months for TML and the FAA to approve it, I can load up a bunch of guys and make lots of road trips to Memphis."

White also said any club would want a long-term lease from the city, which the city did not appear willing to give at last week's meeting.

The plan was for the city to work with the Donley County Sheriff's Department to build the range. It would have been a 25-foot area south of the hangers with a 12-foot earthen berm. The sheriff's office would have furnished the pipe and cable, dug the holes to stand the pipe, and stretched the cable for the targets.

White said city crews had already completed the dirt work for the range.

New Farm Bill reauthorizes EQIP assistance

With passage of the 2002 Farm Bill, farmers and ranchers now have an opportunity to install needed conservation practices on their property with assistance from the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP).

EQIP was reauthorized when President George W. Bush signed the bill into law on May 13, 2002. EQIP is part of the Conservation Provisions section within the new legislation. Although reauthorized, EQIP has undergone a facelift to simplify the administrative concurrence process and improve delivery of the program.

Producers who request EQIP assistance will be able to use program funds in the first year of the conservation contract. Further the program increases total payment amounts to $450,000 per individual for the life of the new Farm Bill. Changes also include elimination of both the Geographic Priority Areas (GPA's) and "bidding down" process for cost share assistance.

The revised program emphasizes conservation practices relative to livestock production and eliminates animal unit caps on large confined livestock operations.

Of benefit to many producers is the cost share incentive for defined limited resource for beginning farmers and ranchers. Qualified producers may be eligible for up to 90 percent cost share for needed conservation practices. Final rules for qualified producers are pending.

USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) has administrative and technical responsibility for EQIP. According to Tomas Dominguez, Acting State Conservationist for NRCS in Texas, "EQIP is a voluntary USDA conservation program for farmers and ranchers to treat soil, water, and related natural resource concerns on eligible land. Passage of the new Farm Bill represents not only an agency commitment to conservation, but an opportunity for landowners across Texas to install needed conservation on their lands."

Interested landowners should contact their local representatives for NRCS located in their county USDA Service Center. Applications for the 2002 funding period are being accepted through June 28, 2002. Additional information is available on the USDA website at http://www.usda.gov/farmbill.

Mother of 'Typical American Family' passes away at age 100

Grace Mae Leathers passed away Friday at the age of 100 following a brief hospitalization in Clarendon, Texas.

She was born on September 6, 1901, in Clarksville, Tennessee to Zachariah and Mary Batson, and rode to Donley County in a covered wagon as an infant with her family, arriving in mid-1902. She lived within ten miles of where her family settled for the rest of her life.

Grace married DeVerdie Eugene Leathers on August 4, 1918, and established a family farm near Lelia Lake. The couple had two children, Johnny Eugene and Margaret Jean. The family held onto their farm through the "dustbowl" years and the Great Depression of the 1930s.

In 1966, Grace and DeVerdie moved into a new home in Clarendon but continued to operate the farm. They took their first trip to Colorado in 1919 and continued to tour the western states every year for the next eight decades.

In 1940 Grace and her family were chosen in a nationwide contest conducted by major metropolitan daily newspapers, including the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, as the "Typical American Family."

The Leathers were flown aboard a chartered American Airlines plane to Detroit, Michigan, where Henry Ford gave them a 1940 Super Deluxe sedan and entertained them at his private estate.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt invited them to the White House. Mr. Ford sent them to Washington, D.C., aboard a special train consisting of a locomotive, Mr.

Ford's private car, and a caboose.

U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT featured the Presidential visit, including a photograph of Grace and her family in the Oval Office with the President, who introduced them to reporters as "my family."

When asked by a reporter many years later about the selection process for the contest, Grace said "I just wrote out a few pages about how we lived. How we raised our own food, slaughtered our own hogs, made our own soap and survived the dirty '30s. I suppose they just liked the way we were plain folk."

Grace was living at home, by herself, until just a few weeks before her passing. She was keenly interested in visits to the farm at least once a week to "check up on things" and was still able to cook her own meals, do her own laundry, and take care of her own housekeeping at the age of 100.

Grace was a long-time member of the First Baptist Church of Clarendon.

On the occasion of her 100th birthday in 2001, she gave to each of her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren a leather-bound Biblical reference book with the inscription "May you 'Seek Ye First' the Lord and find Him 'Your Shepherd' as I have throughout my life. May God bless you."

Grace was preceded in death by DeVerdie in 1990 and by grandson Jay Williams in 1977.

She is survived by her son, Johnny Eugene Leathers of Clarendon; her daughter, Margaret Jean Williams of Dolores, Colorado; granddaughter Sharon McAnear of Durango, Colorado; grandsons David Leathers of Amarillo; Richard Leathers of Dodd City, Texas; Jan Williams of Denver, Colorado; and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday, June 17, 2002, at 3:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon with Rev. Truman Ledbetter, Pastor, and Rev. Richard Leathers, grandson, officiating. Interment was in Citizens Cemetery with arrangements under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

Casket bearers were Daniel Tate, David Leathers, Timothy Leathers, Jan Williams, Wayne Leathers, Clarence Murray, Jr., Ernest W. Barbee, Dave Croslin, Cecil McAfee, and Mac Devin.

Texas History should not be watered down

The blood of Texans should be boiling with the news coming out of the Houston Independent School District where educators are trying to tone down our history.

The problem, they say, is that the traditional Texas history lesson - which engrains "Remember the Alamo!" in all of us - is insensitive to the youth of our state's growing Hispanic population.

"We don't want our Hispanic kids, or any kids, to feel like we're teaching a biased approach," HISD social studies curriculum manager Angel Miller told Fox News.

HISD officials say they teach Texas Independence without the "us versus them" attitude.

Well, I'm sorry. But it was precisely an "us vs. them" situation, and any attempt to say otherwise is a disgrace to our heritage. "Them" being Santa Anna and the Mexicans who supported him.

There isn't enough space here to discuss all of the causes of the Texas Revolution, so let's summarize. First, Anglos were enticed to settle here under specific colonization laws, which the Mexican rulers observed or didn't observe as it suited their own needs.

Today at HISD, Miller and her supporters seem to subscribe to the notion that the Texas Revolution was driven by racism. But history does not bear that out.

Tejanos had plenty of cause to be upset, and many Tejanos knew tyranny and injustice when they saw it. Hence, the Texas Revolution - a battle for Independence and for Liberty.

Tejanos, while not as numerous as Texans, were involved in every aspect of the Texas Revolution from signing the Declaration of Independence to serving in the government of the Republic of Texas.

The first vice president of the Republic was a Hispanic. Lorenzo de Zavala was born in Mexico, and by 1807 he became a newspaperman, extolling the ideas of democracy.

Make your voice heard on city livestock

There is an extremely important City Aldermen meeting June 25. Each person who is opposed to their neighbor(s) having livestock in their backyards needs to be at this meeting.

We have elected Aldermen to enforce the City Ordinances, not rewrite them to appease a group citizens that do not want to abide by the rules.

So, what will the Aldermen do about this? Will they allow these citizens to just keep on doing what they have been doing for years, or will they enforce this Ordinance?

I venture to say that none of the Aldermen nor Mayor want these animals in their backyards; why should anyone else have to tolerate it?

Each Alderman knew at election time they were trying for an office without affection. They knew there would be no way to please everyone all the time. But to blatantly try to by granting permits and charge per head, then decide to have a Nuisance Ordinance, when we have an Ordinance already that only needs to be enforced.

Any Alderman that is having a problem coming to a decision on leaving the current Ordinance in place needs to take a ride around town, and when they find these livestock, park their vehicles, get out and find a place very nearby to sit, or at the very least, roll down all the windows, and stay for a few hours during the day and into the evening.

This truly is a no win situation if the Ordinance is removed, replaced with a Nuisance Ordinance, and neither one enforced. The Nuisance Law has been tried, verdict given, but no enforcement.

So, for those of us who are for the Ordinance banning livestock in town, and want the Ordinance enforced, please mark your calendar, June 25, 7:00 p.m. to attend the City Aldermen Meeting.

Years ago, the City contracted with the County and paid them to enforce the Ordinances. Why hasn't the Livestock Ordinance been enforced?

Tubbs does superb job during CC Elderhostel

I was one of twenty-two gracefully maturing students in the Clarendon College Elderhostel, June 2-8, 2002. We ranged in age from some whippersnappers of 55 to several of us at or approaching 80.

The classroom portion of this splendid study-tour program consisted of three 90-minute daily classes: "Cattle Ranching in the Texas Panhandle," taught by Clarendon College professor Laban Tubbs; "Country and Western Dancing," led by Clarendon College Elderhostel coordinator Nena Hunt; and Prehistoric Animals of Texas, led by WTAMU's Dr. Gerald Schultz.

All three courses were well taught and rated high marks from us curious and quick-learning oldsters. I rate the overall program among the top one-third of the many I've attended in the U.S. and in several other countries.

One course was truly superior in all respects. Clarendon College professor Laban Tubbs does superbly what all quality teachers attempt to do. He leads a student-learning class rather than a teacher-telling class.

As a retired teacher and a veteran of 75-80 one-week Elderhostels over the past twenty years, I join Clarendon College and the city of Clarendon in appreciation of this superb teacher and solid citizen. My highest mark: a Real McCoy!

Harrington Center seeks subjects for prostate cancer prevention trial

The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center has announced the beginning enrollment of a prostate cancer prevention trial on Thursday, June 20 at 2:00 p.m. at the Harrington Cancer Center Amphitheater, second floor, 1500 Wallace Blvd, Amarillo, Texas.

Healthy men age 55 and older are needed for the largest-ever prostate cancer prevention study, launched by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) and the Harrington Cancer Center, which is part of a network of research sites known as the Southwest Oncology Group (SWOG). The Selenium and Vitamin E Cancer Prevention Trial, or SELECT, seeks to learn if these two dietary supplements can protect against prostate cancer, the second most common form of cancer in men.

The primary objective of SELECT is to assess the effect of selenium and vitamin E on the incidence of prostate cancer diagnosed during routine clinical practice. Secondary objectives include assessing the impact of selenium and vitamin E on the incidence of lung and colon cancer and on cancer-specific survival and overall survival.

The trial lasts 12 years and will include a total of 32,400 men.

Men may be able to participate in SELECT if they are age 55 or older (age 50 or older for African-American men), have never had prostate cancer or any other cancer, except non-melanoma skin cancer, in the last five years and are in generally good health.

To enroll in the SELECT study or for more information, call the Department of Clinical Trials at the Harrington Cancer Center at 359-4673, ext. 228 or (800) 274-4673, ext. 228.

Road trip increases appreciation for home

Some of you faithful readers may have noticed that "Around Town" has been absent from its usual place in the ENTERPRISE's pages. This is not because nothing has been happening in Clarendon, but because your intrepid reporter has been intrepid clear across the country, most of it, anyway.

Not only was there intrepidity in venturing alone with only a faithful, 15-year-old companion at my side from Clarendon across (hold on, I have to count up states) six states and into a seventh, but I intrepidly survived sitting beside this 15-year-old permit-only driver through not one but two large cities. We're not talking large as in Amarillo or Lubbock. We're talking Pittsburgh (yes, the one in Pennsylvania) and Chicago (the one in Illinois). Super-extra-large-economy-sized cities.

I nearly had a heart attack or two, especially when those big trucks came barreling out-of-control down those steep Pennsylvania hills, but I didn't. The car that sped past us outside Chicago with an Indianapolis 500 varoom, the one that had to be doing at least 150 mph, went by too fast to react. By the time I realized what that sonic boom was, the car was gone, and I didn't have to worry about it any more.

We made the trip to help the daughter & spouse move from one city to the other. Mom was only necessary to transport the muscles of the little brother for carrying furniture, and to drive the spillover moving van (a.k.a. the Suburban). I've decided that everyone should make a cross-country trip like this (only without the moving part in the middle—that's too much work), just so they can realize exactly how big and grand and diverse our country is. And to appreciate how much better it is to live in Texas, especially in Clarendon.

We got back just in time to make the Open House of the new medical facilities out north on Highway 70. Of course, most members of the family have already visited the new Clarendon Family Medical Clinic with one ailment or another. It was nice to go by without anything wrong and tour the facilities. The new ambulance building is fabulous. I know the staff of all the facilities are just thrilled to have such a great place to train and work. Thanks for inviting us out to visit and for the lemonade and goodies, too.

Friday night, Saints Roost Museum had its second annual "thank you" dinner for those who've supported the museum over the past year. A large number of the folks in town came out to dine on barbecue and visit. I know everyone sees each other on a regular basis, but it never seems often enough, and occasions like these call for lots of visiting.

The FFA Leadership Conference is meeting at Clarendon College this week. Watch out for high school students carrying mattresses or whatever across the streets through campus. The college always enjoys having this group on campus.

Watch out for prairie dogs, too. They're on campus, and they're after buried fiber optic cables. They're not nearly as welcome as the FFA. Anybody know how to convince prairie dogs to take up residence elsewhere?

Corey Knorpp & Clint Conkin

Knorpp-Conkin plan June wedding

Todd and Donna Knorpp of Clarendon are proud to announce the engagement of their daughter, Corey Ann Knorpp of Lubbock, to Clint C. Conkin of Anton, Texas.

Clint is the son of Larry and Rita Conkin of Anton.

The couple plans to exchange vows on June 29, 2002, at the home of the bride's parents.

Corey will graduate from Texas Tech University on August 10, 2002, with a Bachelor of Science Degree.

Clint attended Texas Tech University and graduated December 2001 with a Bachelor of Science.

The couple will reside in Farwell where they have both accepted coaching and teaching positions.

Boles will become pastor of Hedley Methodists

We've had some very nice rains over the last few days. It rained about half an inch Thursday morning and about an inch and a half Saturday evening. The wind blew along with the rain Saturday. Some tree limbs blew down.

Ora Pearl Farris is home after spending almost three weeks in Wichita Falls with her daughter and son-in-law, Eram Lee and Don Young.

Buford and Jerry Holland had an ice cream party for some of their grandchildren and great-grandchildren. I can't remember their names, but Buford says the house was full.

I stopped by the City Hall a few days ago and met some nice ladies who were working on getting a list on the Internet of persons buried in Rowe Cemetery. They were JoAnn Brown and Paula Hancock.

Memphis and moved. I know Louise misses them.

Juanita Brown went to Amarillo with her daughter Helen Ford last week.

Guy has been here. He came Thursday and left about noon Sunday. I certainly enjoyed him. His friend Derek came with him.

Sunday was Neely Landrum's last Sunday as pastor of the Methodist Churches at Memphis and Hedley. He and his family are going to Lockney. We will welcome Gary Boles next week as our pastor. He and his wife will live in the parsonage in Memphis.

Daniel Bolin told me not to put it in the newspaper, so I won't. Everyone will have to wonder about it... or call Daniel and get him to tell all about it.

Reception honors contributions of former Clarendon Aldermen

A reception was held at City Hall last month to honor former Clarendon Aldermen Mac Stavenhagen and B.J. Land for their service to the community.

Stavenhagen has lived in Donley County most of his life, received his education here, and was in business in Clarendon for 23 years.

He was elected to the Board of Aldermen in 1992 and served for 10 years. He has served on the Clarendon Economic Development Board since 1998 and has previously been a member of the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

Stavenhagen has served on a variety of committees and helped with a number of fundraisers. He is now involved in raising Angus cattle on his farm in Lelia Lake and continues to reside in Clarendon.

Billy Jack Land has had an extensive record of community involvement. He assisted in organizing the first Little League programs here and has helped build backstops and install lights for the ball fields. He has been a Little League coach and served two years as president of the Little League.

Land was a member of the Lions Club for 11 years and the Volunteer Fire Department for 21 years, spending 13 years as Fire Chief. He is a member of the American Legion and the VFW. He worked in Boy Scouting and served as Scoutmaster of Troop 37 for about 10 years.

Land has been very active as a member of Clarendon Masonic Lodge #700, having served as Worshipful Master and as District Deputy Grand Master. He is a charter member of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in Lubbock and is a member of the Khiva Shrine Temple in Amarillo.

Land was named Man of the Year by the Jaycees when the organization was active in the 1950s, and he served six years on the Clarendon College/Public School Board. He was a city alderman for four years, and he currently belongs to the Senior Citizens and drives for Meals on Wheels.

Beat the heat with fluids

With summer here and the extreme temperatures, we need to make sure we get enough fluids in our body. Your body can dehydrate before you "feel thirsty". Is it better to drink water or sports drinks?

Water is a good source of fluid when exercising for less than 60 - 90 minutes. When activities last longer than that, sports drinks may be a better choice because they provide fuel for muscles, and the sodium and glucose in the beverage can help the body absorb the fluid.

What do you look for if purchasing a sport drink? It should contain 12-19 grams carbohydrates per 8 ounce serving. If it is too high in carbohydrates, the body may not absorb the fluids as well. It should not contain high amounts of fructose that could upset the stomach. They should contain sucrose and glucose and less fructose. There should be no carbonation, caffeine, or alcohol. It can be lightly flavored.

You can save money by making your own. Here is one recipe that family care Corner

COUNTY FCS AGENT

was shared with me.

Sports Drink
4 Tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup boiling water
3 3/4 cup cold water
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 Tablespoons lemon juice
In the bottom of a pitcher dissolve the sugar and salt in the boiling water. Add the juice and remaining water. Chill. Makes one quart. Each 8 ounce glass contains 12 grams of carbohydrates and 55 calories for 5 cents.

It is important to drink fluids when engaging in any type of physical activity, whether mowing the grass, playing a game of baseball or golf, or walking. Be sure to drink before, during, and after physical activities and continually if you are out in the heat all day.

Give your eyes a break with library's large print books

How about examining Burton Memorial Library's Large Print selections and giving your eyes a break? As always, this selection offers a variety of westerns, mysteries, romance, and biographies among other interests from some of your favorite authors.

Published by Reader's Digest Association, Inc. a dual biography consists of portraits of Henry and Clare Luce by Ralph G. Martin, and Kon-Tiki: Across the Pacific on a Raft. Martin's recount of the Luces' lives reveals how they became two of the most influential individuals in America. Henry, legendary founder of Time-Life magazine empire, and his famous wife, Clare Boothe Luce, writer, diplomat, and politician, helped shape events of their time.

Kon-Tiki has been called one of the greatest sea narratives of our day. Anthropologist, Thor Heyerdahl, describes his astounding 4,300 mile voyage, with five other courageous men, across the Pacific from Peru on a balsa-log raft with only wind and currents providing physical power.

In Great Lawmen of the West, Carl W. Brehm takes readers back to the frontier days with miners, farmers, cattlemen, outlaws, rustlers, professional gamblers, notorious gunslingers, and men who "were forced to be violent in a violent West, men who fought outlaws to the very end so that civilization might prosper on a new and growing frontier."

Gene Shelton, previously a working cowboy in West Texas before he began writing about the Old West, combines mystery and humor in Skull Creek as a Yankee and a Rebel form an unlikely partnership when they decide to go into business together.

Selections from Louis L'Amour and Larry McMurry are in large print as well as exciting novels of Rosamunde Pilcher, Barbara Micheals, Vanessa James, Belva Plain, Lillian Jackson Brauhn, and various others.

Billy Graham's Peace with God, written more than 30 years ago, is revised, expanded, and updated in paperback.

And who can resist Erma Bombeck's unique humor and "zingy one-liners" in her hysterical Family...the Ties That Bind...and Gag?

Some large print books remain permanently in the library. Others rotate through the Texas Panhandle Library System every three or four months. A new supply is expected in a couple of weeks and will remain in Burton Memorial Library throughout the summer.

Summer Reading Club, successfully in progress, will continue only through June. If your children are not participating, they are missing worthwhile activities. Only two more weeks left. Remember "time flies when you're having fun!" Encourage your kids to come join in.

Why not check it out?

Farm Bill makes LDPs available for non-contract farms

Bruce Ferguson, County Executive Director for the Farm Service Agency (FSA) in Donley County announced a special provision in the new farm bill which has removed the requirement prohibiting producers from receiving a Loan Deficiency Program (LDP) payment if they are not enrolled in the Production Flexibility Contract (PFC) program.

Farmers who grew eligible commodities during the 2001 crop year on non-participating farms can now apply for LDPs at their local FSA field office.

This exception also applies to farms that sold or fed crops produced on participating and non-participating farms before requesting an LDP or those who have farm-stored or warehouse-stores quantities in excess of the amount originally requested.

"Literally, hundreds of farmers will benefit from these LDP changes," Ferguson said. "Stagnant prices over the past few years have splashed a lot of red ink over farm balance sheets. Opening up the LDP program is another example of how this farm bill is extending a safety net to all producers."

As a result of low prices, the contract participation requirement was lifted once before in June 2000. During the 2000-crop year, Texas county offices processed 84,629 LDP applications for approximately $205,864,230. With the restriction in place for 2001, the offices paid just 34,952 applicants $186,045,134.

LDPs provide a price-floor for farmers during times of low market prices. Payments are issued when market rates fall below government established price levels for certain commodities. Payments to eligible producers under new provisions will be made as soon as national procedures are issued.

According to Ferguson, "a producer will be allowed to receive an LDP for commodities harvested during the 2001-crop year, even though the grower has already sold or fed the commodity."

LDP payments will be based on the date the producer marketed, fed, or used the commodity for seed. Farmers who retain control of the harvested 2001-crop will be given the rate in effect on the day the request is given at an FSA office.

Ferguson emphasized, farmers must submit acceptable production evidence, such as sales receipts, that indicate when the crop was sold. If the commodity was fed, documentation must indicate the amount and the days it was fed out.

The final date for submitting 2001-crop LDP applications has not yet been announced.

Farmers should contact their FSA office for more details or visit the national FSA website at www.fsa.usda.gov.

EQIP sign-up ends on June 28

John Fuston, State Executive Director for the Farm Service Agency (FSA), announced last week a second sign-up period for conservation funding under the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) that will run through June 28, 2002.

The 2002 Farm Bill signed into law on May 13 further extends USDA's allocation of monies targeted for conservation practice application on private lands.

"Interested producers are encouraged to act quickly if they wish to make application during this 'second chance' opportunity for federal financial and technical assistance provided through EQIP," said Fuston.

EQIP was established under the 1996 Farm Bill to address significant agricultural natural resource concerns through the application of select practices that were determined to be beneficial to the overall protection of the tract of land being treated. Participants entered into long-term contracts and agreed to treat all conservation issues identified by using a "whole farm" approach to planning.

According to Fuston, "EQIP now has a more flexible approach. Producers can treat specific resource concerns without locking their entire farm into a long-term contract. This gives them options to address new or unforeseen conservation problems as they arise."

EQIP remains a voluntary, competitive program. The new Farm Bill outlines significant changes in program provisions pertaining to length of contract and payment limitations. The Bill eliminates Geographic Priority Areas (GPAs) and the "bid-down" option that enabled producers to make their applications more competitive by shouldering a higher percentage of the total cost of practice implementation. For Texas, cost-share is set at 75 percent.

"To date, Texas FSA has allocated $60.2-million in cost-share assistance and incentive payments. Proactive producers statewide used these funds to treat the most environmentally sensitive farm and ranchland, voluntarily reducing soil erosion, improving water quality and quantity, preserving wildlife habitat, and insuring the sustainability of Texas agriculture," stated Fuston.

For more information regarding the EQIP application process, conservation practices and eligibility requirements, please contact your local USDA Service Center.

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE

On June 12, 2002, GreenLight Gas ("GreenLight"), in accordance with the Gas Utility Regulatory Act, filed an application with the Texas Railroad Commission to change GreenLight's city gate gas transportation rate for gas utility service to the following cities and nearby unincorporated areas: Clarendon, Dodson, Dozier, Estelline, Hedley, Lakeview, Lelia Lake, Lutie, Memphis, Newlin, Paducah, Samnorwood, and Wellington. The proposed increase of $0.63 per mcf is expected to increase GreenLight's revenue by about 7.8%. About 3,559 residential and 526 commercial customers would be affected. An average residential monthly bill (5.03 mcf) would see an increase of $3.17 per month. An average commercial monthly bill (17.34 mcf) would see an increase of $10.92 per month. This is the first rate change requested by GreenLight, which is organized as a not-for-profit company, and constitutes a major increase as defined by Section 104.101 of the Texas Utilities Code. The effective date of this proposed rate change is July 22, 2002. Information concerning the application may be obtained from GreenLight's main office at 116 South 6th Street, Memphis, TX 79245. Bankers say protect yourself against identity theft

It's becoming all too common. Your neighbors are suddenly getting bills from places they've never been. Your relatives are denied credit or quit receiving their monthly credit card or bank statements. Collection agencies begin trying to collect debts that do not belong to you.

It's called identity theft, and it is fast becoming one of the most prevalent and costly financial crimes in the country, affecting as many as 750,000 new victims each year and costing consumers, merchants, and financial institutions billions of dollars.

Carelessness while doing business over the Internet can mean that your Social Security numbers, credit card or PIN numbers can be "borrowed" and used to establish credit for others by using your identity to run up big bills or set up phony bank accounts that can ruin your good name and credit.

But, the Internet isn't the only place to exercise caution. The Independent Bankers Association of Texas (IBAT) its members ask that you take the following steps to protect yourself against Identity Theft:

- Never carry your Social Security number in your wallet or print it on your checks.
- Check your credit card statements carefully each month and report unauthorized purchases.
- Shred all credit card receipts and solicitations, cancelled checks, and financial documents before throwing them away.
- Never provide any personal, bank account, or credit card information to anyone who contacts you through a telephone solicitation.
- Never write down PIN numbers and passwords- memorize them and do not use any part of your Social Security number, mother's maiden name, your birthdate, or address.
- Never leave your purse or wallet in the car.
