2 Citizens must participate for open government to function properly.

4 The Clarendon College Bulldogs are on a winning streak.

5 Dates have been set for this year's Walk Across Texas event.

7 And the Broncos beat the boys from Shamrock.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's educational edition.

Area Lions Clubs showcase exhibit

Few people have not been connected with a local Lions Club. Seeing the men and women in the bright gold vests with purple lettering at parades, pancake suppers, and other community gatherings is a common sight. Time has changed Lions Clubs some, but the Lions are still around promoting their communities and helping people.

Members from the Panhandle, Groom, and White Deer Clubs have gathered memorabilia and put together an exhibit designed to invoke memories of Lions.

The Panhandle Lions lost many of their memories in the War Memorial Fire including banners, flags, etc. Come and help identify your relatives in the surviving pictures.

Virginia Farrell and her sister, Imogene Geuther, have collected dolls all their lives. As adults, they both made dolls as gifts to others in the community. They are pleased to share a part of their collection with the community for the next two months.

The public is invited to a reception in Panhandle Sunday, March 16, 2008, from 2:30 to 4

Board answers questions about MCNH sale Hospital district to be debt free in 2011; Taxes will go down but not away

Tommy Hill and Chris Ford will be joined on the ballot by Jim R. Phillie, Billy Ray Johnston, and Kyle Davis in an election for three positions. Alderman Janice Knorpp did not file for re-election.

Two positions are available on the CISD Board of Trustees, and incumbents Weldon Sears and Lance Thornberry will be challenged by Travis Wilson.

Hedley ISD has three positions available on its Board of Trustees. Incumbents Kelly Patton, Blain Burton, and Rex Morris will be joined on the ballot by challengers James Potts, Bonnie Walsh, and Tonja Ruthardt.

Elections for city and school offices will be held Saturday, May 10.

The Donley County Hospital Board, which as been the subject of much talk recently, has four seats open this year but only drew two candidates. Incumbent Mark C. White will run again for his Place 6 position, and former nursing home administrator Vicky Robertson has filed for the Place 5 position. Incumbents Gene Hommel, Carolyn Moffet, and Bright Newhouse are not running for re-election.

The City of Howardwick is electing three aldermen, and has three candidates running - incumbents Lee Ann Cook and Rod Donaldson along with Tanis McMorries.

The Clarendon College District will choose three members for the Board of Regents, and incumbents John Howard, Bill Sansing, and Jack Moreman have filed for re-election.

The City of Hedley had only Mayor Janie Hill and Aldermen Leon Ward and Ricki Baker running for their current positions.

Local boards with unchallenged candidates will likely cancel this year's elections within the next few weeks.

Past time for MCNH complaints

The horse has left the barn on the sale of the Medical Center Nursing Home. The deal is practically done, a fait accompli if you will.

And now, suddenly, people are all a twitter. Why, they never wanted that nursing home sold; and if they did, they sure didn't want it sold for that cheap or under those terms or whatever reason they came up with after scouring a photocopy of a 26-page document they hadn't seen before last week.

Nearly two years ago, the hospital district held an open forum and laid out the financial editor's conditions of the nursing home commentary and resurrected the 1990s notion of selling it. "Could you by roger estlack look at some other options?"

was the result of that forum. So they did. They got a consultant, and ultimately came to the conclusion they needed to sell it.

The only response from the public then was the faint chirping of crickets.

So, a year ago, they tried to sell it. They even had a buyer.

Again crickets, with the faint ribbet of a bullfrog. But the deal fell through because of this thing or that. So the hospital district spent $90,000 on a new roof, put the home up for bids, accepted a bid, and started adding eight beds to the facility. All the while, this column practically begged for a response from the community. Ten years ago there would have been, but that was a different generation.

This time, our sleepy residents only yawned. It's still not clear what happened two or three weeks ago that piqued someone's interest. But it is very clear that Donley County needs a refresher on how our representative government works; and if you're someone thinking of tuning this column out right now, then you really need to read this.

Our local governments are run by representatives elected by the people. In the case of the hospital board, it's seven men and women working to do what they think is right. These representatives meet once a month and sometimes more often in meetings that are generally open to the public, and always after a public agenda is posted for at least 72 hours before hand. They can't take action about anything not on the agenda; and if they meet in closed session, they can only take action in public.

These boards take minutes, which are open to public inspection. The same minutes are generally obtained by your local newspaper, and we read them carefully, extract the news from them, and report to you the activities of your boards.

Additionally, when your local boards undertake

Free markets needed in housing

There is no greater symbol of the American Dream than home ownership. In a country that prizes freedom and economic independence, Americans' homes are a lifelong investment and, for many, their primary asset. However, in recent months, a decline in the U.S. housing market has threatened the financial security of many Americans and has placed the nation's economy at risk. As lawmakers scramble for a fix, it is preferable that solutions be guided by free market principles, rather than sweeping government intervention or taxpayerfinanced bailouts.

A fair assessment of the situation is the first step to an appropriate response.

During the final quarter of 2007, home prices declined 8.9 percent -- the largest year-to-year drop in the 20-year history of the index. In January, sales of existing homes dipped to a 10-year low. Though some are able to shoulder the burden of zero or negative equity, others can't afford their mortgage payments. This has led to a rise in foreclosures. Almost all homeowners have been affected because low home sales and foreclosures have created a housing surplus that has driven down home values. Falling home prices have placed many homeowners in the precarious position of owing more on their mortgages than their houses are worth.

Yet, there are some positive indicators that are often overlooked. The U.S. Census Bureau reported that homeownership rates were still near an all-time high at the end of 2007. Of the 51 million American households financing their homes, 93 percent pay their mortgages on time, with only two percent of these households in foreclosure. Further, according to the Mortgage Bankers

GOVERNMENT

PREPARES FOR THE 2008 OLYMPICS...

Association, foreclosures among prime loans and Federal Housing Authority (FHA) loans have remained comment stable since 2001. But it is the disproportionate rise in subprime adjustable rate mortgages that are in default and risk foreclosure that is cause for real concern. These loans are granted to borrowers who don't qualify for the best market interest rates. They are periodically adjusted to a range of market indexes, as opposed to a more stable fixed rate mortgage.

Only 13 percent of all outstanding mortgages are subprime, but defaults on these loans accounted for 50 percent of the foreclosure starts in the third quarter of 2007. These foreclosures negatively impact the overall economy and require a measured response to help prevent or combat recession.

In the last year, the Federal Reserve has implemented multiple interest rate reductions to avert recession and make adjustable rate mortgages more affordable. Congress enacted a law in 2007 that extends mortgage insurance premium deductibility and makes mortgage forgiveness non-taxable for three years. Last month, Congress passed, and President Bush signed into law, a broad stimulus package. The stimulus plan raises the loan limits for the FHA and government sponsored entities (GSE) Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. Congress now should quickly consider bipartisan legislation to modernize the FHA and been actively involved in efforts to help stabilize the market. They have begun streamlining the process of modifying subprime loans and making resources more available to borrowers facing foreclosure. HOPE NOW, an alliance of private sector businesses assisting struggling homeowners, recently announced that, since July, loan modifications or repayment plans have helped more than 1 million borrowers avoid foreclosure.

Responsibility also rests in the hands of homeowners. Many homeowners were tempted by low rates and rising real estate values, yet chose not to not to make careless investments. Stabilizing the housing market will improve their home values over time, and reward their efforts. Those who are underwater but are able to make their mortgage payments should fulfill their obligations. On the other hand, borrowers who legitimately cannot afford their mortgages must reach out for help and demonstrate that they want to keep their homes. In order for any government or private sector initiative to be effective, homeowners must be willing to learn about and use the resources made available to them.

There are some in Congress who would enact sweeping government intervention, but many of the tenets of such measures are unnecessary, costly, and counterproductive. Our approach to the housing downturn should provide responsible relief but fall short of a bailout. We must allow the market to correct itself, while lending aid to those at greatest risk.

certain activities - such as passing a tax rate, approving a budget, or say, selling a nursing home, they have to give you, the citizens, additional notice of those activities. This is typically done by buying advertising space in your local newspaper. And we typically will take the added step of extracting news from that "public notice" to further inform you of what's going on. Depending on the situation, your local board may have a public hearing on a certain topic. In other words, they will hold a meeting for the sole purpose of informing you of their plans on a subject and giving you the opportunity to question them, praise them, or condemn them.

And at any time, you are free to write a letter to the editor of your newspaper to air your concerns - or your praise - about how your elected representatives are doing their jobs.

Then, usually once a year (sometimes every other year depending on the board) your local boards will call for an election and a certain number of those representatives must stand before you, the voter, to continue to serve, or other concerned or well-intentioned citizens may run for that office if they choose.

In the case before us, the sale of the nursing home, the board and this newspaper did their jobs - serving and informing the citizens. But the citizens failed to do theirs by not getting involved until only recently. Over the course of the last year, hospital board members have repeatedly told me they were not contacted by any citizens, and certainly no one voiced any concerns during public comment opportunities at their board meetings. In fact, of the meetings I attended, I was usually the only member of the public there. And the one time a group of Concerned Citizens did show up, their only concern was not who would be taking care of granny but how soon their taxes were going down.

I can sympathize with people who did not want the nursing home to be sold. But this has not been done in secret. Where were you a year ago? Where were you six months ago? Why only now show up with your shorts in a twist?

Yes, you have right to know what's going on. But you also have a responsibility to get involved if you care about an issue before one of your local boards. Don't just criticize them. Read this newspaper; learn the facts about what's going on; and then if you have a problem, attend the board meeting and make your feelings known. And if you're really worried about it, step up and run for office.

Our form of government is the best and most open on the face of the planet. It is representative democracy that is close to the people. But it only works if the citizens get involved.

If you don't stay abreast of what your governments are doing, if you don't speak out or step up when you're concerned, if you don't vote, and if you don't really know the facts, then you really shouldn't complain. You had every opportunity to make a difference.

Texas supports America's military

I often say that "Texas defends America." That's a shorthand reference to our state's proud, ongoing contributions to the U.S. military and our national defense.

But in the years after Texas joined the Union in 1845, the equation was usually reversed. Mexico and three major Kiowa. Indian tribes were considered threats, so the federal government sent cavalry troops to protect Texas and its settlers.

Flirting With Sin By Mary Beth Nelson

As each summer approaches, I continue to remember how I enjoyed working my vard. Yesterday, I grinned when my thoughts returned to one morning when a stinging bee joined me right before I finished trimming trumpet vines. So near to completing my "project", I determined to trim the last few limbs, regardless of my enemy's close threat. "I can do this safely, and never get hurt" ... I thought! I guess we were headed for the same vine because the vicious insect quickly sent me toward the first-aid kit to relieve its uncomfortable sting.

Later that day, while contemplating the unnecessary encounter with the bee, I thought how easily the incident could have been avoided if I had only kept on the right track and refused to approach that which could harm me.

I think it must be that way in other phases of our lives. We want to stay on the "right track". We try to learn to act on God's truths and accept His promises. We never intend to disobey Him. However, we may convince ourselves it is okay to occasionally partake of some of former habits which were appealing to

WORSHIP OR ENTERTAINMENT

There has been a growing trend in the last 10 years or so with religion. It seems that the word of God and true worship doesn't appeal to many people. Many want a religion "better felt than told." People are approaching worship with the wrong idea. Worship is directed towards God; yet, so many are more concerned with: "What will I get out of it?" It is true we are to be uplifted and edified, but this has more to do with our attitude.

(Leviticus 10:1-3) Then Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, each took his censer and put fire in it, put incense on it, and offered profane fire before the LORD, which He had not commanded them. So fire went out from the LORD and devoured them, and they died before the LORD. And Moses said to Aaron, "This is what the LORD spoke, saying: 'By those who come near Me I must be regarded as holy; And before all the people I must be glorified." So Aaron held his peace.

Aaron's sons offered that which had not been commanded. They had made a change to the procedure and God was not pleased. The statement by God we should pay attention to is: "By those who come near Me, I must be regarded as holy." God doesn't just accept whatever we offer.

It is amazing at what the world tries to offer for worship. Clowns, pizza, plays, basically entertainment, anything to bring in the numbers. It is not the quantity of people that makes for acceptable worship, but sincere people following the Bible. If it takes more than the Bible to bring people to worship, it will take more than the Bible to keep them there.

Houdashell makes address

Hedley native and local American Legion member Ernie Houdashell was the keynote speaker last Saturday when the Traveling Vietnam Wall visited Perryton. The wall bears the names of 58,253 servicemen killed in Vietnam. Other displays represented the 4,600 Americans killed in Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom and 38,000 killed in Korea. Houdashell, who now serves as Randall County Judge, served two tours of duty in Vietnam as a helicopter gunner, and he wears a red bandana that was worn by the men serving in his helicopter unit. Also accompanying Houdashell in Perryton was Jack Moreman, commander of the Legion's Adamson-Lane Chapter in Hedley.

Broncos steal Irish luck, 20-1

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon Broncos jabbed Shamrock 20-1 in their first District win of the season on the road Monday, March 3. The win only took five innings with senior Austin Howard on the mound and Dalton Askew behind the plate.

The Broncos struck early and gained a three-run advantage in the first inning and added two more in the second. The big reward came in the next at bat when they turned up the heat to score 12 runs while leaving Shamrock without any hope. The Broncos had 12 hits and only two errors in the game.

"We played in very cold and windy conditions," coach Brad Elam said. "But the boys stepped up and did not let the cold affect them."

According to Elam, the Broncos got the early advantage on Shamrock.

"We jumped on them early and scored four in the first and two more in the second," Elam said. "We finished it off by scoring 12 in the third."

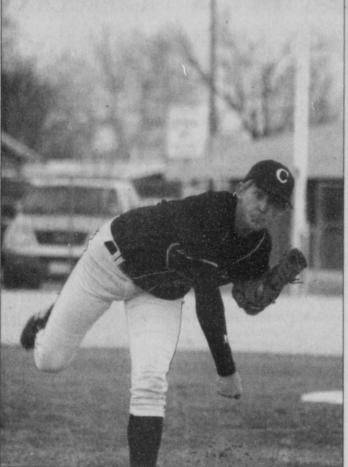

Devin Noble was 5 for 5 with two doubles and a triple and drove in four runs. Austin Howard went 3 for 5 with one homerun and four RBI and Dalton Askew had two hits including a double, scored four runs and drove in two.

"Austin pitched a good game and struck out 10 hitters," Elam said. "He did not have any walks and he only gave up two hits."

On March 7, the Broncos took on Wellington at home in another District match up and defeated them 18-0 to go 2-0 in District play.

According to Elam, the game began slowly as the Broncos walked the bases loaded in the first inning, but were able to get out of it unscathed. When the Broncos took their first bat, the momentum of the game changed drastically.

"First two of our batter struck out," Elam said. "But, we exploded for seven runs after tow outs and took a big lead. We rolled after that coring one, three, and eight in the fourth inning for the big win."

Brown shares district MVP

The Clarendon Enterprise • March 13, 2008

By Sandy Anderberg

Senior round baler T.J. Brown was named as the Co-MVP of the All-District Team for District 7:1A Div I by the participating District coaches.

T.J. led the Broncos to the Area Championship in the 2008 season. Several other Broncos were named to the first team as well: Senior Dalton Askew, Juniors Alton Gaines, Derrick Shelton, and freshman Johnny Gaines.

Honorable mentions were given to Tré Brown, Aaron Gordon, and Jadon Thornton.

Finishing out the All-District team was Co-MVP Cameron Swarb from White Deer and other WD players Parker Petty, Tyler Perryman, and Cragar Swarb; James Westbrook from Claude, Jared Messer, Jr. and Terry Menefield from Wheeler.

Congratulations to all those named to the All-District Team for 2008.

Drug Combination for Facial Acne in Women

According to the results of a study published recently in the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology, a diuretic called spironolactone combined with Yasmin, an oral contraceptive, may offer a safe and effective alternative for adult women with moderate to severe facial acne. At the end of the study, women with severe acne who got the diuretic/oral contraceptive combination experienced the following; 74% had excellent improvement, 11% were entirely clear of facial acne, 7.4% had only mild improvement, and 7.4% experienced no change. Side effects from the combination were not severe enough to cause any women to stop the therapy.

It has been known for some time that excess hormones can either trigger or prevent acne. For example, women who experience episodes of acne during their menstrual cycle are sometimes prescribed oral contraceptives. It is thought that hormones in oral contraceptives slow down overactive oil glands in a woman's skin. In addition, since androgens are known to stimulate these oil glands, researchers look for drugs like spironolactone that lower androgens in the skin.

Everyone contributed to the win by scoring at least one run in the game. Austin Howard got the win.

"Austin pitched all five innings and threw a no hitter," Elam said. "This is the first no hitter we have had since I have been here. He allowed only four base runners the entire game, had three walks, and one runner reached base on an error. We had a good defensive game as well, and David Roberts made two great plays at second to secure the no hitter."

Dalton Askew-3 runs, 2-run homerun, 4 RBI; David Roberts-4 for 4, 2 DBL, 3 runs, 2 RBI; Stephen Fowler-4 runs; Johnny Gaines-4 runs: Derrick Shelton-3 runs.

The Broncos will play Follett at home Friday, March 14 and travel to Booker March 18 at 4:30 p.m.

You're free to worship GOD, ALLAH, BUDDHA, JEHOVAH, VISHNU or MICHAEL JORDAN.

AMEN TO THAT.

Freedom of religion is so fundamentally important to the American way of life that the very first sentence of the Bill of Rights guarantees it explicitly. In 1776, that was a pretty radical concept. (Actually, in some parts of the world, it still is.) Some said that without state-sponsored religion we would become a Godless society with no moral fabric. Fortunately, quite the opposite has proven true. In America today we have more Christians than Italy, Germany, France and the United Kingdom combined. More Jews than Israel. More Muslims than the entire country of Jordan. And healthy communities of everyone from Buddhists to Zoroastrians, And, because we're free to find religion on our own terms (if we choose to at all), many of us are able to create a deeper, stronger and more personal relationship with our faith than would otherwise be possible. So whether you worship in a church, temple, mosque or courtside seats at the arena, take a moment to thank the deity of your choice for freedom.

FREEDOM. APPRECIATE IT. CHERISH IT. PROTECT IT.
