City ordinance bans burning in Clarendon

City Hall reminds all citizens that a municipal ordinance makes it unlawful for any person to burn leaves, garbage, tree trimmings, or other refuse within the city limits of Clarendon without the prior written consent of the City Fire Marshall.

Under no circumstances should any person burn or cause to ignite the refuse contained in any garbage or refuse container provided by the City, or by any person or business entity which provides such containers.

Anyone burning within the City limits could be subject to a fine set by the Municipal Judge.

Citywide clean up still underway this week

This year's spring clean up continues this week with City Hall allowing Clarendon residents free dumping privileges now through April 30.

Fees at the city's recycling center are being waived except for refrigerators with compressors.

The center, located on Front Street across from the grain elevator, will be open during the clean up from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Now is the time to get your property cleaned up for 2007 by taking advantage of this opportunity.

Hedley Kindergarten Day to be held May 4

Hedley School will be having Kindergarten Visiting Day on Friday, May 4, from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Lunch will be provided for the children. If you are interested in sending your child to Hedley Kindergarten, this is a great opportunity for them to get to know future classmates and become familiar with the school.

If you are planning to attend, contact the school at 856-5323. Please bring Social Security card, birth certificate, and shot records.

Christian Men to meet for breakfast Thursday

The United Christian Men will meet Thursday morning, April 19, at 7:00 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

The message will be brought by Steve Cook of the Prayhouse Ministries of Clarendon.

Come and enjoy a good breakfast and fellowship plus a message from a great Christian minister. Ladies are welcome.

CC student reports being assaulted in dorm

A reported sexual assault of a Clarendon College student is being investigated by the Donley County Sheriff's Office this week, and officers are still looking for a suspect.

Sheriff Butch Blackburn said his office was alerted to the attack Sunday, April 15, at 6:15 p.m.

The 18-year-old female victim told officers that a man, who was dressed in dark clothing and wearing gloves and a ski mask, entered her room in Knorpp Hall, revealed a gun, forced her to have sex, and left.

The young woman was examined at Northwest Texas Hospital, and Blackburn said all physical evidence available has been gathered in a manner that could be matched to a suspect.

But at press time a suspect had not been identified, and Blackburn was asking the public for help.

"If anyone has any information — no matter how small, please contact us," he said.

CC President Myles Shelton said the college has taken steps to secure its residence halls since the attack and that no visitors are being permitted in the dormitories at this time.

"We want our students to be safe and secure," Shelton said.

The attack, which came one day before a gunman at Virginia Tech murdered 33 students, is causing Clarendon College to review all of its safety procedures, the president said.

"Whether it's the University of Texas in the 1960s or Virginia Tech or Clarendon College today, these things can happen any time, any where if we are not diligent in safety and security measures," Shelton said.

College officials met with all residence hall students Monday and reviewed security measures and the steps CC is taking to provide security. The reaction among students has been mixed, Shelton said.

"Some are obviously very concerned for their safety and for the victim, and some are in a state of disbelief."

CC contracts with the sheriff's office to provide general campus security. The college does not have video surveillance of any residence halls, but Shelton said that option has been discussed in the past and may be brought up again.

Clarendon College does have emergency plans and crisis management procedures, but all of those policies will now be reviewed, Shelton said. Any revised policies could be in place by next school year, and the president could not say how long the new "no visitors" policy will be enforce.

I found it!

One-year-old Harrison Howard, son of Markeeta and Donnie Howard, shows off his egg during the Community Wide Easter Egg Hunt this past Saturday. The hunt was rescheduled from April 7 after snowy weather hit the area. Around 35 hunters and their families gathered at City Park amid frigid temperatures to hunt the 2,000 eggs that were donated by area churches.

Celebration plans for July shaping up

The tradition will continue at Clarendon's 129th anniversary Saints' Roost Celebration.

The celebration will once again be held at the courthouse square with activities planned for the entire family July 4, 5, 6, and 7.

The arts and crafts fair will kick things off Wednesday, July 4, at 10 a.m. with the Shriner's barbecue starting at 11 a.m. Proceeds from the meal go to fund area children's transportation to Shriner's Hospitals.

The kid's parade will be at 1:30 p.m. starting at the Post Office with the parade starting at 2 p.m. at City Park.

COEA will hold an Open Ranch Bronc Ride on Wednesday night, July 4, with a Jr. Ranch Rodeo for cowboys and cowgirls ages 16 and under on Thursday night, July 5. No dance is planned for those two nights.

COEA will hold its annual ranch rodeo Friday and Saturday, July 6 and 7. Dances will be held both nights.

Books for the rodeo will open May 1 at 7 p.m., and Boy Scout Troop 433 will provide concessions for all four nights of rodeo activities.

Other activities will be a blood drive at Stanley Chevrolet Clarendon on Friday, June 29, the Baptist Church's Depression Lunch on Friday, July 6, at 11 a.m. downtown, and the annual Henson's Turtle Race on Friday, July 6, at 3 p.m., which will draw a typically large crowd on its own and add to any sales and activities planned that day by downtown merchants.

For this year, the County Extension Office will be sending mail outs to prospective vendors, and the Chamber of Commerce will begin sending information to potential parade participants.

The Chamber will hold a planning meeting on Thursday, April 26, at 7 p.m. at the Chamber office, and all are invited to attend.

Those who plan to host other activities in conjunction with the Saints' Roost Celebration are asked to call the Chamber office at 874-2421 to get on the calendar.

City sales tax receipts up

AUSTIN — Texas Comptroller Susan Combs said last week the state received $1.53 billion in sales tax revenue in March, up 11.9 percent compared to March 2006.

Clarendon's sales tax figures climbed again with a total allocation of $20,256.10, up 7.4 percent compared to the same time last year.

The city's year-to-date sales tax revenue figure edged up 2.17 percent to $92,622.41.

Howardwick's figures were also up with an allocation this month of $1,063.19, reflecting an increase of 21.29 percent and pushing that city's total for the year up 9.7 percent to $3,845.60.

The monthly allocation was down, however, for the City of Hedley, which fell 37.5 percent to $332.28. Hedley is down more than 18 percent to $2,460.94 for the year-to-date.

"The national economy is showing signs of a slowdown, particularly in the housing sector, but we are still seeing healthy growth in the Texas economy and a corresponding growth in state sales tax revenue," Combs said.

Comptroller Combs sent April sales tax allocations of $272.4 million to Texas cities statewide, up 9.3 percent compared to April 2006. Calendar year-to-date, city sales tax allocations are running 7.1 percent higher than last year.

State sales tax revenue for March, and April payments made to local governments last week, represent sales that occurred in February.

Hedley sending five to state academic meet

What used to be a rarity for Hedley High School is now becoming a common thing.

For a school-record tenth straight year, Hedley High students have qualified for the UIL State Academic Meet.

This year the Calculator Applications team won regional for the first time in school history. Ruth Anne Howard won the individual gold medal. She has placed first in five of the last six academic meets in which she has competed.

Betty Cruz, Skyler Conatser, and Justin Kellas complete the Calculator

Applications team; and each member stepped up to the challenge at the regional meet, which was held last Friday in Levelland.

Hedley outscored Plains, a traditional math powerhouse, to take the championship.

The Science team placed third at regional, and Jonathan Edmonson placed third overall and won the regional chemistry championship. He will go to Austin with the Calculator team.

Hedley ISD's UIL contest sponsors are very proud of their students, who have worked diligently to prepare for competition at the highest levels.

"When you tell a student that there are only four regional champions in the whole state of Texas at the 1A level and they are one of the four, it's an awesome statement," said Hedley science coach Bruce Howard.

"The students should be extremely proud of their accomplishments and remember them for a lifetime."

The state academic meet is May 4-5 in Austin at the University of Texas.

Jonathan Edmonson, Skyler Conatser, Betty Cruz, Ruth Anne Howard, and Justin Kellas are Austin-bound for Hedley High School.

Comparing
Bush, Clinton economies

By Alan Reynolds, Cato Institute

A recent Gallup poll found only 41 percent of respondents approved of President Bush's handling of the economy; 55 percent who disapproved. Such a question would make sense, of course, only if the United States were a centrally planned dictatorship. In a free society, the less the president handles the economy the better off we are.

Because polls reflect perception rather than reality, the suspicion arises that many people wrongly believe the U.S. economy is in bad shape because that is what they keep hearing on TV or reading in the newspapers. And because a presidential election looms, partisans are sure to exaggerate the economic performance of the Clinton years to stir up discontent with the present.

Politics being what it is (a spectator sport), partisans can't resist attributing economic outcomes to the White House, rather than to the efforts of millions of business managers, workers and investors responding to incentives. In this spirit, Bill Sammon, a frequent guest on Fox News, set up a provocative duel at examiner.com between White House spokesman Tony Fratto and Gene Sperling, former economic adviser to President Bill Clinton and current adviser to Hillary Rodham Clinton. As might be expected, both contestants were not entirely candid.

What years should we compare? It would be dishonest to include the 2001 recession in this duel, because Mr. Clinton's first term began two years after a recession had ended. Yet the Clinton Camp does just that by boasting that "under Clinton, the economy created three times more jobs after 74 months than it did over the same period of time under Bush."

The umpire calls a foul. A recession that began in March 2001 had nothing to do with Mr. Bush taking office the previous month, but it had a lot to do with job growth in 2001 and 2002. President Clinton took office two years after the previous recession ended in February 1991. The economy grew 3.2 percent in 1992.

The Bush Camp boasts that "since the first quarter of 2001, productivity growth has averaged 2.8 percent." Starting with early 2001 is still unfair, regardless of which camp does it. Cyclical weakness in employment growth from 2001 through mid-2003 resulted in more output relative to the few hours worked, otherwise known as increased productivity.

Were it not for the political spin, it would be more reasonable to compare the first year of recovery in 2002 with the first year of recovery in 1992. Mr. Fratto thus compared "this point in the Clinton expansion" to a period that began 60 months ago - in early 2002. But such a comparable starting point in the Clinton expansion would actually have begun in late 1991, when Mr. Clinton was not in office.

In terms of equivalent starting points, it makes sense to compare 1993-1996 with 2003-2006 - two cyclically similar periods of equal duration.

Growth of real gross domestic product (GDP) in those periods was identical, at 3.23 percent a year. That's a tie. Nearly all other measures favor the last four years over Mr. Clinton's first term. Unemployment was 5.3 percent from 2003 to 2006, but 6 percent from 1993 to 1996. Mr. Sperling mentioned business investment to avoid mentioning housing investment. Yet business fixed investment was 10.9 percent of GDP from 2003 to 2006, compared with 9.2 percent of GDP from 1993 to 1996.

On inflation, Mr. Bush faced a huge increase in worldwide oil prices that Mr. Clinton did not. In the consumer price index that excludes energy prices, inflation averaged 2.1 percent in the last four years, down from 2.9 percent in 1993-96.

When calculating real incomes, however, nominal increases in wages and benefits are reduced by total inflation, including higher energy prices. This would seem to put the last four years at a big disadvantage, given the spike in energy prices. Yet it turns out "wage growth" in the first Clinton term was nothing to brag about.

Even after including benefits, real compensation per hour fell by 0.5 percent in 1993, by 0.4 percent in 1994 and by another 0.3 percent in 1995. Real hourly wages and benefits increased by 1.2 percent a year from 2003 to 2006, but fell by 0.1 percent a year from 1993 to 1996.

The Clinton Camp should be as reluctant to mention poverty rates as it was foolish to mention wage growth. Yet its dueling data point dares to say: "During the Bush years, the number of Americans below the poverty line has increased by 5.37 million, while under Clinton the number fell by 7.68 million." That blames Mr. Bush for the 2001 recession, compares eight years with six and measures poverty in terms of change rather than levels. Despite such tricks, it still doesn't work.

The percentage of families below the poverty line was reduced from 12.3 percent in 1993 to 11 percent in 1996 - progress of sorts. Yet fewer than 10 percent of families were poor from 2002 to 2005 (the latest available). Unless more poverty is better than less, this was another massochistic debating point.

The economy during the Clinton years became much stronger after 1997, when Al Gore or Netscape invented the Internet and the president signed a cut in the capital gains tax. Trying to use Mr. Clinton's first four years to denigrate the last four years is a foolhardy game. People who live in glass houses should be more careful when tossing around big, bad economics statistics.

Whitman's words follow course of life

Graduate students lead extremely boring lives. I can't decide whether to write about Melville and pirates or dyslexic students or the influence of Walt Whitman's free-verse catalogs on modern prose.

Do any of those topics offer you any hope of entertainment or promise me a life lesson at the end?

I don't know that I've learned any life lessons from Whitman, but he sure helped me get through some tough times.

Like when I was a sophomore in love with a senior that my parents would not let me date, Whitman echoed the thoughts of my heart. "What is it between us? What is the count of the scores or hundreds of years between us?"

And when he went to college, and I was crushed: "It avails not - time nor place - distance it avails not."

And when I got over it: "I am satisfied - I see, dance, laugh, sing."

Whitman helped me leave home and go to college myself. He helped me find my own voice and trust my intuition.

"From this hour I ordain myself loosed of limits and imaginary lines. / Going where I list, my own master total and absolute."

And when I set out at 5 a.m. on a road trip to Las Vegas with two other friends, it was Whitman whose words came to mind: "Afoot and light hearted I take to the open road. / Healthy, free, the world before me."

And when I was, yet again, in love with a guy I could not possibly have, it was good to know Whitman had been there, too. "Sometimes with the one I love I fill myself with rage for fear I effuse unreturned love..."

But for Whitman, even unreturned love was worth it. Out of it, he wrote the poems that changed my life. Out of my heartache, I'm sure I wrote a couple of pretty entertaining e-mails.

My first serious boyfriend wrote a Whitman poem in my Valentine's Day card. "You whom I often and silently come where you are that I may be with you... little you know the subtle electric fire that for your sake is burning within me."

The poem bought him two extra weeks

Lower taxes make for sound policies

It is tax time again. President Ronald Reagan fittingly described the taxpayer as "someone who works for the federal government but doesn't have to take the civil service examination." Some people have also noticed that when you combine the words "THE" and "IRS," it spells "THEIRS." I have always supported a limited role of government and worked to ensure that more of what you earn remains "YOURS."

In the last six years, tax cuts have spurred job growth, and families have been able to keep more of their money. Measures enacted include increasing the child tax credit from $600 to $1,000 per child, eliminating the unfair marriage penalty that discriminated against married couples who file jointly, and my legislation creating the Homemaker IRA, which allows spouses who do not work outside the home to save for retirement through an individual retirement account.

I have also supported lowering all individual tax rates, which has been critical to stimulating the economy.

I have also continually pushed for legislation to allow Texans to deduct their state sales taxes. Residents in states where revenue is collected through state income taxes have long been allowed to deduct those taxes on their federal tax returns, and I believe it is a matter of equity that eight states with no income tax have the same deductions of sales taxes. This January, on the first day of the 110th Congress, I introduced a bill to make this deduction permanent, and when the Senate considered the 2008 Budget Resolution, I offered an amendment to permanently secure the deduction. I will not relent until a permanent sales tax deduction is signed into law.

Back in 2001, even before 9/11, the U.S. economy was contracting, unemployment was rising, and tax revenues were falling. Budget surpluses were turning into deficits. To jump-start our economy, Congress passed one of the largest tax cuts in American history. Then, we followed that with additional targeted tax cuts in 2003.

Thankfully, tax relief enacted in 2001 and 2003 has stimulated our economy, fueled growth, and significantly reduced the deficit. Since the tax cuts took full effect, we have created 7.8 million jobs (more than in all the other major industrialized countries combined), and collected record tax revenue. As a result of the accelerating pace of tax revenue, we expect to eliminate the deficit as soon as 2012. This tax relief has clearly charged our economy, and now I'm working with others in the Senate to make it permanent.

However, many of these provisions are set to expire in the next few years. If this is allowed to happen, the American people will be hit with a massive tax increase, which will jeopardize the gains of the past several years and severely threaten our economy. Estimates show that allowing this relief to expire would result in over 75,000 Texans losing their jobs and our state suffering an $8.3 billion hit to its economy. The average tax increase per Texan would be $2,755.

The tax cuts of 2001 and 2003 have been incredibly successful, and both taxpayers and the federal government continue to reap the benefits of sound fiscal policy. Faithful stewardship of your taxpayer money is one of Congress' most important duties. We are reminded of the importance of spending your tax dollars wisely and frugally every April.

US should assist those who sacrifice

By U.S. Sen. John Cornyn

Texans enthusiastically support the men and women who serve our country in the U.S. armed forces. So we were dismayed to hear news reports earlier this year of substandard facilities at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington used by wounded soldiers returning from Iraq and Afghanistan.

The reports prompted numerous questions, even in Texas. Did those unacceptable conditions extend to other military health care sites? Are our injured soldiers given the best care? Is adequate assistance available as they navigate the complicated military/veterans health care and benefits system?

Last week I introduced Senate legislation that would provide immediate assistance to wounded service members and their families by correcting inequities and strengthening current law.

The bill would help burn victims obtain housing and automobile assistance and ensure that other wounded service members and veterans with specific needs receive housing and other grants. As the injured await their final Veterans Administration disability rating—a process that can take months—it would make certain they have suitable housing.

These adjustments are the direct result of my conversations with soldiers, family members and veterans support group volunteers. The bill has been greeted enthusiastically by key Senators. I'm optimistic it will become law soon.

The Walter Reed controversy, an unhappy episode, has reminded me of several important lessons. One is that scandal, if addressed in the proper spirit, can lead to needed reforms that might otherwise be overlooked.

Another reminder concerns the way those of us in public life receive information. In Washington, particularly, there are thousands of lobbyists, interest groups, trade associations and other interested parties pressing a particular point of view.

Yet as is often the case, the best insights my staff and I received on this issue came from Texans who live and deal with these concerns every day. I especially learned from Christy Patton, a mother of five whose husband was severely burned in Iraq, and Rosie Babin, whose injured son will require her loving care for many years to come.

I also got invaluable help from the "thousand points of light," including volunteers from the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, American G.I. Forum, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Military Officers Association of America.

I believe this legislation, while not a major departure from policy, will provide needed clarity and assistance for many wounded soldiers, veterans, and their families. It is a small step toward meeting our national obligation to those who have sacrificed to protect our freedoms.

Filing exemptions can save on property tax bill

Exemptions may lower property taxes, according to information from the Donley County Appraisal District.

A homestead exemption lowers the school property taxes on your home by lowering its taxable value. If your home is valued at $50,000 and you receive a $15,000 homestead exemption, your home will be taxed as if it were worth $35,000.

Anyone who owned a home on January 1st (and used it as a primary residence on that date) is entitled to a $15,000 homestead exemption to lower his or her school taxes this year.

If you became 65 or disabled during 2006 you may qualify for an additional $10,000 school property tax exemption on your homestead. And if you qualify for the over-65 exemption, you are also entitled to a permanent, locked-in "ceiling" on the school property taxes on your home.

If you had a homestead exemption on your home in 2006, you will not need to reapply for 2007. However, if you have not received an exemption on your present home – or if you have moved to a new home – you will need to file for a new homestead exemption.

Applications should be filed by April 30 and are available at the Appraisal District Office at 307 S. Sully.

Further details about the property tax system in Texas and how it works for you are contained in a pamphlet by the Property Tax Division of the Comptroller's office called "Texas Property Taxes: Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies & Responsibilities."

Get a free copy of this pamphlet at the Donley County Appraisal District Office.

Howardwick Aldermen cancel spring election

The Howardwick Board of Aldermen canceled its May election during its April 10 regular meeting after certifying that all candidates were unopposed.

Gene Rogers was the only candidate to run for alderman, and no one filed to run for the other alderman's seat or for mayor.

In other city business, Stan Couch gave the fire department report and said there were two calls in March, one of which was because of severe weather on March 28.

The board accepted a bids on tax delinquent property as presented by the Donley County Appraisal District.

It was reported that Doc Holaday has been hired for the city's maintenance department.

Health fair participants save $66.9k in services

By MaryRuth Peacock, County FCS Agent
 Good Health, Much Wealth, Your Choice Health Fair 2007 was a great success. With over 220 participants at this year's fair, the Bairfield Activity Center was a beehive of activity.

Associated Ambulance Authority and Clarendon Family Medical Center had plenty of help with Clarendon College nursing students taking blood pressures and helping draw blood for the various testing for which Northwest Texas Health Care System had agreed to pay.

A total of $13,918 was saved from the cost of the blood testing. Approximately $4,000 was saved by participants going through the bone density testing provided by Clarendon Family Medical Center and Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center.

Shepard's Crook Home Health, Odyssey Home Care, Accolade, and Vit Alert, Hospice Care of the Southwest, all offered various medical testing from blood pressure and pulse check, glucose testing, oxygen testing, basic cholesterol testing, and carbon dioxide testing.

Overall Donley county citizens saved approximately $66,918.

The following services were provided: Med-link Services Acro-care Home Health Medical Equipment, and Open Road Mobility had a listing of mobility supplies, Harrington Cancer Center provided breast cancer information, and Genesis House offered substance abuse education. Texas Tech University and Clarendon Family Medical Center performed Bone Density Testing, and BSA Home Care and Hospice and Odyssey Healthcare had information on Hospice services.

The key to volunteering was offered by RSVP. Northwest Texas Healthcare System offered balance testing, and Roadrunner Homecare helped by doing glucose testing as well as blood pressure checks.

Advanced Hearing offered testing for hearing and information on how to get a free amplified phone. A total of 15 free phones were distributed.

Also available was basic information from Mannatech, Cyberwise, Better Way Health Group, Craig Methodist Retirement had information on their facility, and County Agent Leicia Armstrong from Armstrong County had information about tobacco use and the body.

Donley County Extension volunteer Francis Smith signed up participants for the Walk Across Texas program. Robertson Funeral Home offered information on preparing for the future and how to support families in their time of need.

National Weather Service had a very interesting demonstration on severe weather and helped set weather radios for several senior citizens. A new display by Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District helped fair participants see the need for water conservation and how our water supply is being affected through sale of our current water supply.

Outreach Health Services and WIC provided much needed information on the safety and care of our children and a new exhibit this year was provided by The Bridge, which is a child advocacy organization. Texas MHMR center along with TPMHMR-Star program helped give participants information on support to our teenagers.

Panhandle MAMAs was a new participant offering information on the use of drugs. Specifically their goal is to significantly reduce methamphetamine use in the Texas Panhandle through community action. The National MS Society was well represented along with Thomas Marketing, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the Texas Department of Transportation.

Another new exhibitor this year was Optimal Skin Care. This is a new product which offers natural skin care.

Overall the Health Fair was very successful and participants gained a lot in both education and medical services. Panhandle Community Services provided transportation to our elderly citizens, and PCS Director Lori Mayes helped Donley County Extension furnish the noon meal for exhibitors.

Walk Across Texas program has four teams who began walking Thursday evening after the health fair. The teams are Lowe's Mileage Makers, Burton Bustles, First Steps, and The Walk-a-holics, and several individual walkers. Members of the group have received pedometers and will receive t-shirts this week.

Watch the ENTERPRISE and Texas maps posted at the library, Extension office, and other facilities to see how far the teams have gotten in their walk.

For more information or to participate in next year's health fair, contact MaryRuth at Donley County Extension Office 874-2141.

Harrington to hold free skin cancer screening

May is Skin Cancer Awareness Month, and The Don & Sybil Harrington Cancer Center will be holding a free Melanoma/Skin Cancer Screening Clinic Saturday, April 21, from 9:00-11:00 a.m. at the main campus of Harrington Cancer Center.

Board certified dermatologists will be available to check moles and other spots for signs of cancer and to determine if further analysis is necessary. No appointments are necessary.

The Skin Cancer Screening Clinic is sponsored by the American Academy of Dermatology and is part of a national campaign to encourage early detection and teach prevention of skin cancer. Last year over 300 patients were screened, and over 60 biopsies were recommended because of those biopsies. Early detection is critical for Skin Cancer; if caught in the initial stages; skin cancer has a high survival rate.

Skin Cancer is the most common form of cancer in the U.S. One in five Americans will get skin cancer over the course of a lifetime. Nationally, there are more new cases of skin cancer than breast, prostate, lung and colon cancers combined. Skin cancer is highly preventable, more than 90 percent of all skin cancers are caused by sun or tanning bed exposure, yet fewer than 33 percent of people routinely use sun protection.

Dickey Library presents Holocaust exhibit

The Clarendon College Vera Dial Dickey Library is pleased to present an exhibit representing the 11 million individuals who died in the Holocaust during World War II.

Civilians suffer in every war, but the Holocaust was different. The Holocaust is the term used to refer to the period from 1933 to 1945, before and during World War II, when Adolph Hitler and the Nazis systematically persecuted and murdered nearly six million Jews.

More than one third of World

Jewry, as well as another five million non-Jews throughout Europe, were killed during this period. This included up to 500,000 Gypsies, 50,000 homosexuals, as well as handicapped and mentally retarded people and members of various Slav groups. The genocide, or what the Nazis dubbed "The Final Solution," occurred mainly at six death camps located in Poland.

The Dickey Library will also share its many resources on the subject of the Holocaust and its aftermath. Read about the unsung heroes: thousands of individuals throughout Europe who risked their own lives to save the Jews from the Nazis. Read, in their own words, how pre-war life changed to a life of persecution and how these men, women, and children struggled to survive.

The exhibit will be available for viewing through April during regular library hours: Monday through Thursday 7:45 a.m. to 8 p.m., Friday 7:45 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Keeping the light of life

By Mary Beth Nelson

What is the first thing for which you look when entering a dark room? A light switch? While walking through a dark hallway, isn't it comforting to have lights along the way to help lead us to the correct destination? After a wonderful night's rest, isn't it great to view God's marvelous sunrise, promising light for another new day? To avoid weakening, houseplants need light in order to remain healthy and beautiful.

In several Old and New Testament Scriptures (Psalm 27: 1; Isaiah 60: 19-20; John 9: 5; John 12: 35-36; among others), our Lord is referred to as "The Light". In Psalm 119: 105, David declares, "Your word is a lamp to my feet, and a light for my path." Jesus claims, "I am the Light of the world" (John 8: 12). He emphasizes the importance of our remaining in His light for guidance and salvation. He promises those who follow Him shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. Why, then, are Jesus' words often ignored?

Satan constantly places many worldly desires in our path, eagerly hoping he can tempt us enough to turn away from Jesus' light. He knows that our "giving in" to selfish desires instead of seeking God's righteousness will quickly destroy our own lives. Do we want that to be our choice?

Bible Thought: "When Jesus spoke again to the people, He said, "I am the Light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." (John 8: 12, NIV)

Mary Beth Nelson is an inspirational writer who has been published in numerous books and publications.

Broncos improve to 6-1 in district

By Sandy Anderberg

After a big scare from Follett early in the game, the Broncos refocused and earned a 13-10 win last week.

The Broncos got on top early but watched as their 2-0 lead turned into a 2-9 deficit.

"We came into the game on a roll but thinking all we had to do was show up and win," coach Brad Elam said. "But we got a wake up call that was much needed, and it happened in the third inning."

The Broncos committed seven errors in that third inning and allowed nine runs.

"I looked into the players' eyes and saw returned focus," Elam said. "We scored three quick runs to close the gap."

According to Elam, Trevor Leeper doubled and scored on a David Gordon single, and then Gordon scored on a passed ball. Catcher Dalton Askew was able to add a tally on a Jon McGlaun single.

"In the fourth inning, Askew cranked a long three-run homerun to cut the score to 8-9 going into the fifth," Elam said.

Alton Gaines was then able to score on a passed ball after hitting a double, and Clint Watson and McGlaun were on base with one out. Gordon then stepped up to the plate and connected on a massive three-run homer for the lead.

"David had a great day at the plate," Elam said. "He drove in six runs for us. Devin Noble came in in the third inning and held Follett to one run for his seventh win."

The Broncos will play Wellington at home April 21 at 1:00 p.m. They will play West Texas at home Tuesday, April 24, at 4:00 p.m. to close out the regular season.

Hedley athletes to advance to region

By Tangela Copelin

Three Hedley High School students advanced to regionals from the Area meet held in Panhandle on April 11.

Junior Tyler Pepper placed third in the 110 meter hurdles, Junior Brandon Montgomery placed 4th in the 1600 meter run, and Senior Jaci Copelin placed 3rd in the triple jump, 1st in the long jump, 2nd in the 100 meter hurdles and 2nd in the 300 meter hurdles.

All three of these young athletes will be traveling to Levelland to run in the Regional Track meet on April the 27th and 28th.

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting April 17, 2007, with Boss Lion Jim Shelton in charge.

We had 18 members and one guest this week: Ashlee Estlack, guest of Lion Roger Estlack.

Lions Roger and Russell Estlack reported the ductwork had been installed in the Lions Hall with the assistance of Ashlee and Benjamin Estlack. The club voted to waive the charges for Ashlee's meal for her efforts on that job.

The club voted to make a donation to the PEAK Scholarship program in memory of Lion A.R. Henson.

A raffle, called the "Westhoughton Hustle," was won by Lion Richard Sheppard, who was privileged to take home a defective eight-track recording of "The Best of Redd Foxx" from 1972 that was found in the attic of the club.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

CHS athletes headed to regional meet

By Sandy Anderberg

Three Bronco seniors will finish off their high school track career with an appearance at the Regional track meet with hopes of one more stop at the state meet.

Brad Sell is the current state champion in the pole vault and will look to repeat this year. LaDez Captain will compete in the triple jump, and David Gordon will take on the high jump. The top four qualifiers in each event earned the right to advance.

Sell finished way ahead of the field with his winning jump of 13', and Gordon took fourth in the high jump at 6'. Captain was third in the triple jump with a leap of 40'9 1/2".

Glenn Weatherton finished sixth in the 100-meter dash with a time of 11.4 and was fifth in the long jump with a leap of 19'9". Alton Gaines was sixth in the long jump at 19'4". The 800-meter relay was fifth with a time of 1:37.95. Members of the relay were Weatherton, Captain, Gaines, and Sell.

"We finished eighth as a team with 29 points," coach Johnny Nino said. "All of the athletes that participated in the area meet are to be congratulated for their efforts."

The Lady Broncos will be sending four athletes to the Regional meet.

Senior Katie Askew qualified in two events placing first in the shot put, and Katie got second place in Discus with 101'9". She had a distance of 34'6" in the shot.

Erin Holland was third in the pole vault at 7'6", and Jill Cornell was second in the long jump with a leap of 33'2 1/2".

Freshman Kia Bryley will be making her first trip to the Regional meet in the 100-meter and 200-meter dash. She finished second in both events with times of 13.1 and 27.3 respectively.

Jessi Howard also competed in the meet but finished one place out of advancing with a 4'10" height in the high jump.

"Four out of our five girls qualified for the Regional Meet," coach Steve Myatt said. "I am very proud of them as we competed very well."

The Broncos and Lady Broncos will participate in a qualifier's meet to be held Friday, April 20, at Panhandle at 3:00 p.m.

The Regional Track Meet will be held April 27-28 on the campus of South Plains College in Levelland.

Study Supports Aspirin Benefit in Women
Aspirin is thought to prevent cardiovascular problems such as heart attacks and strokes by blocking the clumping together of platelets to form blood clots. Some physicians prescribe daily baby-size aspirin (81 milligrams) for those who have previously experienced heart attacks or strokes. A long running study involving nearly 80,000 women confirms what health care experts already know; namely that aspirin in low to moderate doses is good for women. Results of the study, called the Nurses Healthy Study, were published in the Archives of Internal Medicine. They suggest that aspirin may lower the risk of death, especially in older women who are likely to develop heart disease. Women who took aspirin lowered their overall risk of death by 25% compared to women who never took aspirin. The reduction in risk of death related to cardiovascular disease was even greater, at 38%. Researchers connected with the study are being cautious with the results, indicating that it may be difficult to establish a cause-and-effect relationship between heart disease problems and aspirin use in all women at this time.

The contest is to be of local area landmarks, such as the museum, wild flowers, windmills, cows, trains, homes, or any thing of that nature. Winners will receive monetary awards of First Prize $50, Second Prize $35, and Third Prize $25. The photographer's name and the picture location will be added to the back of the note card.

All photos will be displayed at the library, and the public will be invited to view photos from May 14-July 5. No photos can be larger than 8x10 inches, and all photos are to be posted on foam core board or poster board no larger than 11x14. Frames are not required or requested. Entry deadline is May 9 at the Burton Memorial Library, and the contest is open to all Donley County youth. For information, call Jerri Shields at 874-3685 or MaryRuth Peacock at 874-2141.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

TTU recruiting subjects for Alzheimer's research

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center researchers are recruiting 125 people with Alzheimer's disease to participate in state-funded research. The research, which is a part of the Texas Alzheimer's Research Consortium, will explore how genetics and inflammatory changes in the blood affect the onset of this disease.

Randolph Schiffer, M.D., chair of the Department of Neuropsychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at TTUHSC, said it is exciting to be only one-of-four institutions in the state involved in the consortium but most importantly, contribute to the possible research that will find answers to Alzheimer's disease.

More than 200,000 Texans and their families are coping with Alzheimer's disease today. That number is projected to more than double to about 500,000 cases by 2025.

"Participating subjects in this research will benefit from having some of the nation's top Alzheimer's researchers, from our institution and the three other member institutions of the Texas Alzheimer's Research Consortium, using their genetic and blood data to help answer research questions about onset, triggers and progression of Alzheimer's disease," Schiffer said.

Other member institutions of the Consortium are Baylor College of Medicine, The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, and University of North Texas Health Science Center.

Persons interested in participating in this study should contact Merena Tindall, R.N., at 1-806-743-2935 or merena.tindall@ttuhsc.edu.
