Abilene wagon tops cookoff

Top honors went to the JL Wagon from Abilene during the twelfth annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff last Saturday.

Under the direction of Johnny and Leonna Adkins, the JL Wagon won the Overall Cooking award after placing in three out of four food categories and had enough points to win the entire cookoff outright.

The cookoff, which benefits the Saints' Roost Museum, was hailed as a great success by museum board members.

Tickets for the authentic Chuckwagon supper sold out early; and just as happened the last four years, extra tickets were prepared and divided among the wagons along with additional food to meet the high demand.

An official estimate of attendance was not available, but more than 1,000 people typically attend the event. A total of 569 people went through the lines to enjoy the Chuckwagon meal, which was served at 1 p.m. instead of the traditional 5 p.m.

Breakfast and lunch concessions on the museum grounds were provided by Boy Scout Troop 433. A trade show was held throughout the day, and live entertainment was provided by local and area talent.

Museum tours were provided by the members of Clarendon High School's Junior Historians chapter.

Relatives of legendary cattleman and Chuckwagon inventor Charles Goodnight also were on hand for their annual family reunion.

For the prologue to the twelfth cookoff, 149 people enjoyed a delicious steak dinner Friday night on the museum grounds. The invitation-only event was held exclusively for Chuckwagon team members and members of the museum and their families.

Twelve wagons competed in this year's cookoff, and each served a menu of chicken fried steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, biscuits, beans, and cobbler. Prizes totaling more than $3,000 were paid out to the winners.

Complete results are as follows:

Overall Wagon & Cooking: 1) JL Wagon of Abilene, 2) Rocking K Chuckwagon of Southland, 3) J Bar D / Adamah Wagon of Amarillo, and 4) C Bar C Ranch of Hartley.

Overall Cooking: 1) JL Wagon, 2) C Bar C, 3) T Half Circle Wagon of Silverton, and 4) Rocking K.

Wagon Judges this year were Aaron Younger, Bob Sparks, and Nancy Sparks. Food Judges under the direction of Tashia Duncan were Melinda McAnear, Virginia Patten, Barbara Richter, Becky Lane, Terri Floyd, Lance Wood, Mark C. White, Landon Lambert, Tony Starnes, and Tom Garmon.

Among the other winners during Saturday's activities was Jim Kingston of Amarillo, who won a pair of James Owens handmade boots.

CC numbers mix of ups and downs

Enrollment figures at Clarendon College this semester are a mixed bag, according to CC President Myles Shelton.

Following the 12th class day on September 15, the total number of students at all CC locations is down slightly from 1,123 last fall to 1,105 this year, but more of those students are going to school fulltime.

"It's a mixed report but still a good report because contact hours are up," Shelton said.

Contact hours, on which the state bases funding for the college, is up from 248,000 last year to 267,000 this year. And the number of students who are labeled as "full time equivalent" rose from 948 last year to 991 this year.

Shelton also pointed out that enrollment on the home campus is up from 404 last year to 432 this year. Enrollment at the CC Pampa Center fell from 237 last year to 217 this year, and the biggest drop came in students who are incarcerated by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, whose numbers fell from 204 last year to 153 this year.

In other college news, the CC Board of Regents met in regular session last Thursday and adopted an ad valorem tax rate of $0.2065 per $100 valuation, which the exact same rate as last year's.

Three members of the Concerned Citizens of Donley County presented a petition calling on the board to eliminate the taxation of personal property. The board took no action.

The security contract with the Donley County Sheriff's Office for $21,500 was approved.

The board voted to purchase a pickup, a Suburban, and a sedan from Culberson-Stowers in Pampa for a total amount of $89,895.

The board approved purchasing multi-media equipment for the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Center from IT Advantage in the amount of $15,500.

Regents declared an emergency related to water damage on the floor of the Bulldog Gym. A proposal to repair the floor in an amount not to exceed $96,646 was accepted, and the work should be completed by November 10 so CC can host the National Junior College Athletic Association Region Five Volleyball Playoffs.

Polling places were set for the November 7 election to freeze taxes on the elderly and disabled. Early voting will take place on the college campus, and election day voting will be held in Clarendon and Hedley.

TxDOT issues reminder about signs in rights of way

CHILDRESS - TxDOT would like to remind Texans that under state law, it is a class C misdemeanor to place any sign on state highway right of way. The penalty for violating this law is a fine of up to $500 per sign.

Anyone running for office is reminded that it is illegal to put any sign, including garage sale and business signs, on state highway rights of way without authorization.

TxDOT's regulatory authority allows the immediate removal of a sign placed on state highway right of way without prior notice, if the sign is not authorized by state law or approved by TxDOT.

It is legal to place a campaign sign on private property with the owner's permission; however, they must meet some basic criteria. The sign must be made of lightweight material and can be up to 50 square feet in size. Signs may be placed as early as 90 days before an election, but no earlier. Signs must be removed within 10 days after the election.

The law does not just apply to campaign signs. It is illegal to put any sign, including garage sale and business signs, on state highway right of way without authorization.

For more information about this or any other TxDOT project, call Barbara Seal, TxDOT Public Information Officer at 940-937-7145.

GOP must get federal rules out of schools

By Neal McCluskey

For decades, conservatives stood against big-government intrusions into American education. They defended local control of schooling, championed parental choice, and pushed to abolish the federal Department of Education.

But then, tragedy struck: The Republicans took power in Washington, and conservatives suddenly learned to love big government. Indeed, some are now so enamored of it that they are proposing what was once unthinkable: having the federal government set curricular standards for every public school in America.

A few weeks ago, the Thomas B. Fordham Foundation, a leading conservative education group, launched a major campaign to get this done. In the report they released to kick off their initiative — titled "To Dream the Impossible Dream" — the Fordham folks pointed out that states have proven incapable of imposing high standards on themselves, and that the federal No Child Left Behind Act has precipitated a standards "race to the bottom." Fixing these problems, they argue, will require uniform federal standards.

Thursday, their idea got two huge endorsements. In a Washington Post op-ed, former U.S. secretaries of education William J. Bennett and Rod Paige seconded Fordham's call for national standards and tests, paradoxically arguing, like Fordham, that because current federal policy is broken, we need much more federal control.

Unfortunately, perhaps because they are desperate for change, Paige, Bennett, and Fordham are all wearing massive political blinders. Quite simply, national standards — or government-imposed education standards at any level — are at best doomed to mediocrity. The way government shapes policy preordains failure.

For one thing, the compromise demanded by democratic politics will always require that the nation's numerous ethnic, religious, pedagogical, and other groups be accommodated in the creation of standards. This is perhaps as it should be, but it inevitably pushes standards to lowest-common-denominator levels. Education historian Diane Ravitch — another conservative supporter of national standards — shows this brilliantly in her book The Language Police, which demonstrates how textbooks adopted by state governments are hopelessly politicized and, as a consequence, hopelessly banal.

Even more debilitating, however, is that government standards always have to pass through vested interests like teacher unions and education administrators, who have strong incentives — and heaps of political power — to keep standards weak. Indeed, if there's just one lesson that decades of failed big-government education should have taught conservatives, it's that groups like the National Education Association have almost endless time, money, and incentives to get their political way, while parents, children, and conservatives do not.

In light of that political reality, greater federal control over schooling is a hopeless solution to our education problems. Bennett and Paige almost admit as much in their Post piece, conceding that they are "painfully aware that national standards and tests are hard to get right — and even harder to get through Congress."

Perhaps that pain needs to become a little more acute, because no matter how much conservatives wish it weren't so, decades of monopolistic public schooling have proven that government will never provide desirable standards. Indeed, the numerous inherent problems of government are among the many reasons that the framers of the Constitution gave Washington no authority over education.

They are also good reasons why Paige and Bennett should not simply dismiss the Constitution, as they did in their op-ed, on the grounds that, even though "the Constitution says nothing about education, in a world of fierce competition we can't afford to pretend that the current system is getting us where we need to go."

Of course the current system isn't getting us where we need to go. But government control isn't the solution, it's the problem.

Thankfully, we can still get high standards, but to do that conservatives will have to give up on doing good through government, and return to fighting for the principles they once championed. School choice — giving parents the ability to take education money to schools that work, and away from those that don't — is the only hope. Only choice will obviate the need for constant political compromise, avert the gate-keeping power of special interests, and impose real accountability on schools by forcing them to attract and keep customers.

As Congress moves inexorably closer to next year's scheduled reauthorization of NCLB, conservatives must reject calls for federal standards and tests, and remember the principles that they once held dear. Politically compromised, big-government policies will simply never provide the education our children need and deserve. Only pulling government out of education, and empowering parents and families with school choice, will do that.

Neal McCluskey is a policy analyst at the Cato Institute's Center for Educational Freedom.

What's so special about casual Friday?

Casual Friday. Where I work, people look forward to it like it was Christmas. But I don't get it.

When I signed on to my very first full-time job in an office, I was handed a three-ring binder entitled "The Employee Handbook" with a 10 page section devoted to dress code.

I was under the impression that professional dress was very important to this office. So I went out and bought all these cute skirts and suits with tailored cuffs and fancy shoes.

It was my first job where I didn't have to wear a uniform, where comfortable shoes were not a necessity, where I could be fashionable and change my look every day and be a real grown up.

On my first day, I wore a pin-striped skirt with my starched white shirt and perfectly coordinated shoes and accessories.

My supervisor was wearing a faded pink t-shirt and an ill-fitting floral skirt she must have bought in the 80s. The HR director was wearing wrinkled khakis and a Polo with a missing button and an old spaghetti sauce stain shaped like the state of California.

It was Tuesday. That afternoon I got an email from the branch vice president: "Tomorrow is the big playoff game. Wear your t-shirt in support of your team!"

I didn't have a team, so I wore a black suit with a colorful shirt and perfectly coordinated shoes and accessories. Everyone else wore jeans and high school softball shirts.

That afternoon's email read: "The rest of the week is casual dress! Enjoy!" As far as I could tell, it already was casual dress.

What's the point in having Casual Friday when it starts on Thursday most of the time. Wednesday sometimes, and every once in a while lasts all week?

How can you look forward to Casual Friday when you only swap your formal t-shirt, khakis, and tennis shoes for your everyday t-shirt, jeans, and tennis shoes?

I've been living Casual Friday for four years of college. I wore my pajamas to life's lessons

 by Carrie Helms

class, never showered before noon, wore flip-flops everyday, and did laundry twice a month.

Now I'm supposed to be a grown up and dress like a grown up, and the grown ups are wearing the same thing I wore everyday as a dumb college kid.

Well, I'm not going to stand for it. I'm going to wear my suits and my perfectly coordinated outfits. If for no other reason than I paid for it and I'm going to get all the use out of it I can.

People at work are always saying, "You always look so cute with your little suits and your pointy shoes."

I tell them it's because I'm not really a grown up.

I tell them it's because I have nothing else in my life. I don't have kids to take the dentist so I've got money for clothes. I don't have an exciting job, but dressing up makes me feel important.

Besides rent and electricity, I don't have responsibilities. Dressing up every day is the only thing I have to worry about.

So forget Casual Friday or Thursday or Monday. That's for grown ups.

Parental involvement key to education

By US Sen. John Cornyn

Without a doubt, children whose parents take an active role in their education are far more likely to succeed in school than the children whose parents do not. No teacher, counselor, principal, or governmental program can provide a substitute for the loving interest of an actively engaged parent.

Primary education should be the responsibility of families and local school boards, first. The further away we get from local control of education, especially when influence reaches the federal level, the more opportunity for mischief is created.

Another key to successful education is to encourage parental involvement and support in local education. I've been involved in attempting to strengthen these provisions of our education policy.

Currently, students in schools that fail to meet state standards for at least three years are eligible to receive supplemental educational services, which includes tutoring and summer school classes. In addition, some eligible students are allowed to transfer from their low-performing school to a new school.

We now know that many parents in Texas and America are not aware of these opportunities for their children. In most cases, the key to triggering these provisions is for the parent to request them from their school district.

With Sen. Mel Martinez of Florida, I recently introduced a proposed law, the Raising Achievements through Improving Supplemental Education (RAISE) Act. It's a measure to strengthen a school's ability to embrace and allow children to more frequently take advantage of the benefits provided in current law.

Unfortunately, the legislation is badly needed in some areas. Authorities have documented extreme cases of schools failing to provide adequate notification for parents about the supplemental services that should be offered, such as tutoring or school choice. The RAISE Act would help schools better implement supplemental education programs and serve more students. It would also ensure that parents are properly notified about their options when their children's schools aren't making the grade.

But government can only do so much. In the final account, parents must get involved and make certain their children can take advantage of the school resources and improvement opportunities required under the law. I encourage all parents who believe their children may be eligible for these services to contact their school districts for more information.

It's a truism that our children are our nation's most valuable resource. I will continue working with my colleagues at the federal level to help local school districts prepare our young people for achievement and success. We will surely succeed together with parents who are there to encourage and challenge their children.

Tally of votes will determine tax freeze

"Don't you just love the way a vocal minority can really upset the apple cart?" THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE, Editor's Commentary, August 31, 2006.

I'm writing in response to the question above. Yes, I do love the way a small group can upset the apple cart. Thank God for small groups who are not afraid to draw attention to things in our society that to them are not right and should be improved or removed for the betterment of that society. I'm sure some people did not agree with Rosa Parks (a small minority of one) sitting in the front of the bus. However, by her act of courage, many wrongs of our society were changed. Many "qualified (and sometimes unqualified)" elected officials removed and banished books from our school and library shelves. It took a small group to stop this from happening. Now these books, which are considered the great works of literature, are available to anyone who cares to read them. Being of the female gender, my thanks goes especially to small groups of women led by Elizabeth Stanton, Susan Anthony, and others who demanded the right for women to own property and to not be treated as chattel. I admire their hard work and endurance to keep protesting year after year until the 19th amendment was finally ratified in 1920.

To suggest that older Americans "flit around in their RVs" is just plain silly. I would suggest that a majority of older Americans are flitting around finding all the help that organizations like AARP can offer them. I am one of those that the Social Security Administration has defined as disabled. I have worked for over 40 years supporting our country, paying taxes, and voicing my opinion by voting. I have never been afraid to voice my opinions if I felt that our elected officials were wrong. The most wonderful thing about our country is the right to disagree, to voice our opinions, and then to vote on issues that citizens, regardless of age, gender, or race, feel need to be changed or perhaps abolished. The tally of votes will determine the final actions to be taken.

I am not a citizen of Clarendon. I have been considering moving to Clarendon, but now I'm beginning to have doubts. When citizens are faulted for seeking change, to call attention to wrongs, that in their opinion should be corrected, it's a little scary to me. To suggest that anyone over 65 or disabled should not have the right to vote if what they have been trying to change becomes law is horrible, and goes against everything that our country stands for. I cannot understand anyone suggesting such a thing. I am proud of knowing that I can express my view go to my choice of worship, vote for whomever and whatever I deem right and have friends of all ages and ideas. I would never give up my voting rights nor suggest that these rights be taken away from anyone.

I would urge the Concerned Citizens of Donley County to continue working to improve the community and to voice your opinions. As I pointed out, the tally of all the votes (young, middle age, or older citizens) will determine the final actions to be taken.

Loretta Bell, Valley Center, Kan.

Editor's Response: With regards to denying people their rights, younger Americans have borne the brunt of that whip for years. If people over the age of 65 are to become immune to tax increases, why should they be allowed to hold positions on boards that set tax rates? That sounds like taxation without representation.

That's great if you want to move to Clarendon. Just be willing to help pay for city, county, and other services that our community provides when you get here.

Drought: TDA sets guidelines for assistance

producer must meet all the following criteria: Must have suffered livestock forage production losses because of drought conditions from March 7 through Aug. 31, 2006 (eligibility period); Must have a livestock operation that suffered forage production losses in one or more of the 216 Texas counties classified as D3 Drought-Extreme or D4 Drought-Exceptional during the eligibility period; and Must have raised eligible livestock for commercial use as part of a farming operation during the eligibility period.

Eligible livestock are adult beef cattle two years of age and older and sheep one year of age and older during the eligibility period. Livestock must have been owned by the producer for at least 30 days.

Forage production losses may include cost of lost forage, supplemental feeding costs, the costs incurred relocating livestock to new pastures, increased feed transportation costs and the cost of emergency water supplies.

Payments are limited to $10,000 per producer, and the amount of compensation may not exceed the amount of forage production losses. Producers who apply in multiple states cannot receive more than $10,000 in total compensation, and the same losses cannot be claimed in more than one state.

For general partnerships or joint ventures, payments will not exceed $10,000 for each member of the partnership or joint venture.

Because of the anticipated number of applicants and the amount of available funds, payments will be limited and may only cover partial forage production losses incurred by each producer. Of the $50 million USDA block grant for livestock assistance being distributed to 20 states, Texas' share was $16.1 million.

Funds will be paid on a per head basis. Per head payment rates will be determined by the total number of livestock claimed by all eligible applicants and will differ for cattle and sheep based on standard animal units.

The per head payment rate will be determined after all applications are received and processed.

Additional information about LAGP and the application process is available on TDA's Web site at www.agr.state.tx.us. Producers may also contact TDA's Governmental Affairs Division at 1-800-TELL-TDA (1-800-835-5832) or e-mail ga@agr.state.tx.us.

Park furniture on slow boat to Howardwick

Don't you hate to wait for a delivery, a service call, or a returned phone call? You know the ones that start with "you may expect this service between the hours of 8 a.m.-5 p.m. on Tuesday." You spend Tuesday at home, and maybe the delivery is made, the call comes in, or the refrigerator is repaired. But maybe not.

This is the situation facing us in regard to the delivery of the park benches and picnic table. We received a fax from the company last Wednesday stating the park items had been picked up and expected delivery would be Friday. The fax also said to have someone available to unload because that wasn't in the driver's job description.

Out here that means volunteers. I spent Thursday coordinating those volunteers with cell phone numbers on speed dial, and we were set for delivery. I hope we are still set because those park items have put in more miles than most people, and they are not here.

Thanks to the Internet, Jim has been tracking them, and they began this journey in St. Louis, spent the weekend in Memphis, Tenn., and had made it to Dallas Monday night. When will we get our benches and when will the volunteers get to put up the phones? Stay tuned.

Cora Bland's 34-year-old granddaughter is in BSA hospital with major medical problems. She is the daughter of Kelly and Cherry Bland and has three small children. They are waiting on test results for a final diagnosis and would like your prayers.

Jeff Cook had surgery on his shoulders and is home. Lee Ann says he is doing ok, but therapy is rough. I hope and pray for recovery of Jeff.

We went to the Chuckwagon Cook-off on the museum grounds last Saturday. If you have never been, you should go. Order your tickets for the meal early, or take your chances because you may be eating a hot dog with the Boy Scouts like we did. They had 12 wagons this year and 14 last year and also changed the eating time from evening to noon. They have added more to the museum, but old favorites remain, and it is fun to see.

The bridge is not opened, but you can see the progress. They even worked last Saturday. I will keep you posted.

Dickey Library to host exhibit on Latino WWII experiences

Images of Valor, a 12-panel exhibit produced by the U.S. Latino & Latina WWII Oral History Project at the University of Texas at Austin, will be on display at the Clarendon College Vera Dial Dickey Library from October 2 until October 27.

Through images and stories, the exhibit shows the great social and economic change that the U.S. experienced as a result of World War II. In addition to historical photographs from the Project's archives, Images of Valor incorporates contemporary photographs of men and women of the WWII generation, photographed by photojournalist Valentino Mauricio.

The exhibit also features excerpts from more than 500 oral history interviews that were part of the project. The exhibit focuses on individual stories that reveal larger themes such as citizenship and civil rights.

Describing an incident in which a commanding officer reprimanded him and other "American soldiers," Armando Flores from Mission offers deep insight into issues of identity.

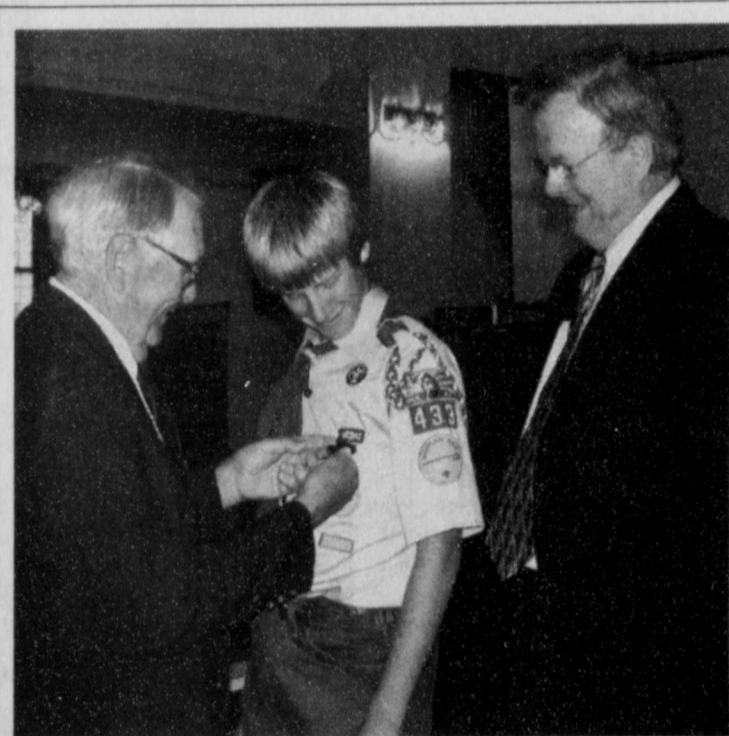

"Nobody had ever called me an American before that time" he said. "I'd been called a lot of things...that was the first time in my life I had been called an American."

Sponsored in part by a We the People grant from Humanities Texas, Images of Valor is now one of the more than fifty Humanities Texas traveling exhibits.

Humanities Texas is the state partner of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Clarendon College is proud to present Images of Valor, the first of three exhibits to be presented during the 2006-2007 school year.

Students, faculty, and the community will have the opportunity to view The Road To The Promised Land: Martin Luther King Jr. And The Civil Rights Movement in January and Citizens At Last: The Woman Suffrage Movement In Texas in March. Educational materials will be available with each exhibit.

For more information, please contact Ann Huey by phone at 874-3571, ext. 118 or by email at ann.huey@clarendoncollege.edu.

Note cards feature local landmarks on sale

I'm sure you remember the charming photographs of local scenes taken by many of our talented young people in our area during the past summer. One purpose of this activity, sponsored by Friends of the Library, was to utilize the photographs on attractive note cards. The project is now completed, and the note cards, with identification on the back, are packaged and currently on sale at Burton Memorial Library. They are really lovely. Thanks to Friends of the Library for providing the opportunity to the young talented participants who did such a great job.

How long has it been since you examined Burton Memorial Library's "New Books" section?

Fourteen of western writer Will James' most acclaimed short stories concerning horse behavior are contained in one of his newest books, Horses I've Known. "Meet buckers, tricksters, and trusted partners"; "A wise, cool-headed cross between a whirlwind and a ton of brick";

"Full of the old nick and plenty of snorts"; and "A seeing eye for a blind cowboy" are only a few of the author's descriptions to which readers will look forward and recognize the writing talent which has made James a favorite.

The Sinister Pig, one of popular Tony Hillerman's new novels, once again thrills fans with his style, combining western with mystery against an intriguing Navajo background.

Nicholas Evans, author of The Horse Whisperer, has written a new American West novel, The Loop, which takes place in a Rocky Mountain ranch town in Hope, Montana.

Plenty of mysteries are available from authors James Patterson, Jonathan Kellerman, Michael Crichton, Anne Perry, Mary Higgins Clark, Nicholas Sparks, and Nora Roberts among others.

Two informative paperback books which hold interest for many are entitled Beat Diabetes and Fight Cancer. These high-quality writings from Healing Gourmet Publications present "Power Foods That Help Regain Your Health". Medical, culinary, and nutritional experts across the nation joined the editors of Healing Gourmet in extensive research and development of tasteful and healthy recipes.

While exploring the library's new books, readers will find Wildlife Watching, an interesting illustrated "guide to sites in 50 states" compiled by National Geographic. It's great for vacation plans, or if you are just seeking information about various places and wildlife in our country.

I hope you won't miss four books on display directly across from the "new book" section. Fantastic photographs which resemble marvelous paintings including almost all elements of creation seem to dominate two of the books. In Between Heaven and Texas, talented photographer Wyman Meinzer's exceptional photographs and poems by Naomi Shihab Nye complement each other. In Texas Coast, author Joe Nick Patoski's interesting information is accompanied by more beautiful photographs from Lourencia Parest.

You who live jelly-making and decorating various items with your own creations will, truly, appreciate the other two books in the display previously mentioned. Wild Jam and Jellies by Joe Freitas and Salle Haberman provide 75 wild edible recipes. Kathryn Tidwell Bieber demonstrates all kinds of lovely "finishing touches" to sweaters, camisoles, bags, pillows, and many more items in her book, Ribbon Work. Directions and beautiful pictures illustrate the finished products. It's wonderful for holiday sewing or any other time.

Mastin

Venita Crocker Mastin, 84, died Saturday, September 16, 2006, in Clarendon.

Private burial was held at the Claude Cemetery on Monday, September 18, 2006.

Services were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

Venita was raised in a loving farm family in Godly, Texas. She had four sisters and one brother. As a young woman she moved to Dallas, Texas, married, and raised three children. In her retirement years, she moved to the Texas Panhandle. You may remember a silver-haired, blue eyed lady in a denim hat and red vest who could be seen at most garage sales for over 20 years.

Few knew she was an accomplished free lance writer with many published novels, magazine articles, newspaper columns in The Dallas Times Herald and wrote jokes for Phyllis Diller and Henny Youngman. She even appeared doing stand-up comedy in the Amarillo Little Theater.

She also worked for Sears and as a secretary for the Dallas County Agriculture Department.

She always had a smile on her face and a scripture to share on Bible prophecy. Being one of Jehovah's Witnesses and sharing her knowledge on the Bible was her favorite thing to do. So if you missed out on getting to know our mother, you missed out on a real treasure. We love her and miss her.

Survivors include two daughters, Sharlee Snail of Closter, New Jersey, and Cherle Mastin of Oklahoma City; one son, David Mastin of Claude.

Square House to exhibit fabrics

The Carson County Square House Museum is excited to host extraordinary fabric exhibits through the months of September and October.

Members of the Mayo and Gill families have quilts from five generations on display in the M.K. Brown Auditorium of the Hazelwood Education Building. In the Purvines Gallery of the Square House, Betty Biggs is exhibiting some of her "wearable art" and home accessories made with quilting.

All the artists have long-time connections with Carson County and the Texas Panhandle, and they influenced the theme for Homecoming/Museum Day - "Pieces of Heritage, Scraps of History."

Kay Mayo, her sister Lynn Flowers, her daughter Karla Howell, and granddaughter Jacie Howell have pieced and quilted beautiful quilts and wall hangings. To furnish the exhibit, quilts from grandmothers have been handed down and are displayed. Embellishments abound on many of the newer quilts in style with current fashion trends while others show the tradition pieced quilt patterns familiar in homes for the last century.

Betty Biggs has taken the concept of quilts and employed this in vests, coats, table runners, wall hangings and other decorative items for the home and special occasions. From neckties to multi-layered faux chenille, these items have a unique flair and reflect the unflappable personality of their creator.

A reception for the artists will be held at the Museum on Sunday, September 17, 2006 from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. to showcase these artists and their art. The galleries are open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Sundays from 1-5 p.m.

Clarendon FFA members place well at Tri-State Fair

By Courtney Wood
Clarendon FFA Reporter

Fifteen students from the Clarendon FFA competed in the Tri-State Fair Ag Mechanics Show on Saturday, September 16, which resulted in placing first in Chapter Sweepstakes for the second year in a row.

Clarendon exhibited eleven projects in various categories: livestock production, shop improvement, recreation and home convenience, small metal, small wood, and large wood.

The show has seen some major growth since 2002 when only 12 students participated. In 2005, student participation increased to 91 from 15 schools.

Clarendon FFA was well represented by the following exhibitors: Kaysea Green, Casey Phillips, Jill Cornell, Trisha Hewett, John Vaught, Wes Christopher, Martin Oliver, David Gordon, Aaron Gordon, Dalton Askew, Lance Ford, Nathan Gribble, Kiefer Burton, Randy Adams, and Paul Goetze.

"Without the contributions of prizes and scholarships totaling over $7,000, I don't think we would be seeing this steady increase of participation. I would like to thank J&W Lumber and Allen Lindsey for joining our group of donors," said Clarendon FFA Advisor Robin Wheelus.

USDA Rural Development funds Panhandle Community Services

AMARILLO – USDA Rural Development State Director Bryan Daniel this week announced Panhandle Community Services has been awarded a $188,674 Housing Preservation Grant (HPG).

USDA Rural Development Housing Programs are designed to strengthen the economy and infrastructure of rural areas. Through its support of the growth and development of communities, the agency works to improve the quality of life in rural America.

"USDA Rural Development is very pleased to be able to provide housing rehabilitation funding for rural Texans," said State Director, Bryan Daniel. "It is our goal to ensure rural residents are afforded an opportunity to live in decent housing that meets health and safety standards and provides the benefits of energy efficient features."

USDA Rural Development funds will be used to assist 30 very-low and low-income families who own and occupy homes that need repairs in 26 Panhandle counties. The repairs will correct health and safety hazards and improve living conditions of the homes of eligible applicants in Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler Counties.

In Fiscal Year 2005, a total of $637,982 in Housing Preservation Grants was obligated in Texas. The purpose of the HPG Program is to promote continued economic development in rural communities by making grants to sponsoring organizations for the repair or rehabilitation of low and very-low income housing. Grants are competitive and are made available in areas where there is a concentration of need.

For more information regarding USDA Rural Development Programs, contact the Amarillo Local Office at (806) 468-8600, Extension 4, or visit our website at <http://rurdev.usda.gov/tx/>.

Drugs in the News

Anti-Inflammatories May Help Prostate

Enlarged prostate is the most common prostate problem affecting one of every four men ages 40 to 50 and almost half of those over 70. As men age, they are more likely to develop this condition, also known as benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH). Doctors do not know exactly what causes BPH, but inflammation may be part of the process. Now, a new study published in the American Journal of Epidemiology reports that men who regularly take aspirin or similar anti-inflammatory drugs such as ibuprofen and naproxen may prevent or delay development of an enlarged prostate. The study followed 2447 men aged 40-79 for 12 years. The researchers found that men who reported taking anti-inflammatory drugs daily at the study's start were about 25% less likely to develop moderate to severe BPH symptoms.

Doctors are not advising men to start taking anti-inflammatory drugs for prostate health. Anti-inflammatory drugs come with their own risks, some that may be serious. Seek advice from your doctor or pharmacist about the risks and benefits of taking aspirin or other anti-inflammatory drugs.

Master Marketer program returns to Lubbock in 2007

LUBBOCK - Texas Cooperative Extension is now recruiting for its 2007 Master Marketer risk management education program at Lubbock. This in-depth, intensive program teaches participants how to identify and evaluate marketing opportunities, then design and follow through with sound marketing plans.

"We are looking for a few good ag marketers who want to hone their marketing skills to a finer edge," said Jackie Smith, Extension economist at Lubbock. "Participants will learn the skills necessary to execute a marketing plan and how to manage risk to improve their profitability."

"Master Marketer training pays direct dividends to the bottom line. A recent survey suggests past participants were able to increase their average annual gross revenues from three to 10 percent, or about $33,000 each, simply by applying their new-found marketing skills and knowledge."

Master Marketers learn from top industry and university professionals, who apply case studies and simulation exercises in the classroom. The 64-hour curriculum is offered in four, two-day sessions held every two weeks.

The first of four 2007 Master Marketer Program sessions begins January 3-4, 2007. Subsequent sessions are slated for January 17-18, January 31-February 1, and February, 14-15.

"Registration costs $250 per person," Smith said. "Statewide demand for this type of training continues to grow, which is why we are bringing the program back to Lubbock. We have close to 150 Master Marketer graduates in the Lubbock area alone."

"Those who enroll should have an intermediate to advanced knowledge of marketing. Anyone who feels they aren't quite there yet can attend a free futures and options leveling workshop set for Jan. 2, 2007 at Lubbock."

Checks or money orders for registration should be payable to the Texas Extension Education Foundation. Enrollment for the 2007 Master Marketer Program in Lubbock may be limited, so prompt registration is recommended, Smith said. The registration deadline is Dec. 20, 2006.

"This will likely be the last time we offer this program in Lubbock."

Registration fees pay only a small portion of the program's cost. Grants from the Texas Corn Producers Board, Texas Farm Bureau, the Cotton State Support Committee, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Risk Management Agency, and agribusiness also helps fund the training.

For more information by calling Smith at (806) 746-6101, or from their local Extension office.

Broncs beat hound out of Gruver

By Sandy Anderberg

Clarendon alumni Arlis Allison, who now calls Minnesota home, was in attendance at the 2006 Bronco Homecoming game as were many other former Broncos and Lady Broncos. Allison played in Broncho Stadium and scored his last touchdown on that field in 1941. It is a tradition that sticks with you long after graduation.

"Once you put on that maroon and white uniform, you're a Bronco forever," former Bronco and head coach Gary Jack said during Friday's pep rally.

And that is what made Friday night's win so great for the current Broncos. They are continuing a tradition that will last a lifetime.

The Broncos blasted the Gruver Greyhounds 34-14 to even their record at 2-2 before a huge crowd. The Broncos racked up 301 total yards of offense compared to only 194 for the Greyhounds.

"It was a good game for us," Jack said. "We did a lot of good things, and I am proud of the way they played. We had some little mistakes, but we took care of business for the most part."

Jack felt they didn't put their opponent away when they had the chance and let them get back into it somewhat in the beginning of the second half.

"We could have had them 35-0 fairly easily in the first half," Jack said. "We let them back into it by letting them score early in the third quarter. But we took care of business and scored again to go up by three scores."

"Nathan Gribble did a great job for us at quarterback, and he executed well," Jack said. "He is continuing to make good decisions on the field, and he hasn't let us down. He is young, but he's got a lot on his shoulders."

"Brad Sell also did a good job for us. He had 11 tackles, one fumble recovery, and one caused turnover. He scored two touchdowns for us on screen passes that turned into big plays for us. Our line did a good job of blocking for us, too."

"Devin Noble, who is a running back, stepped in and played on the line for us and played well with six tackles."

Jack also cited freshman Tre Brown with having a great game.

"Tre continues to do well for us," Jack said. "He has stepped up his play and recorded seven tackles and one fumble recovery. Scott Fowler, who usually plays tackle, did a good job at center filling in for his brother Stephen."

The Broncos will travel to Sunray Friday, September 29, to take on the Bobcats in their last pre-district game.

"It will be a good game for us," Jack said. "Sunray will be tough. They are not like they were last year, but they are a good little team. It will be a good challenge for us before we start District play in a couple of weeks."

Individual stats: Alton Gaines 8 tackles, 2 interceptions; David Gordon 7 tackles; Wes Christopher 7 tackles; John Vaught 6 tackles; Derrick Shelton 4 tackles; Glenn Weatherthorn 4 tackles; Johnny Ballard 4 tackles.

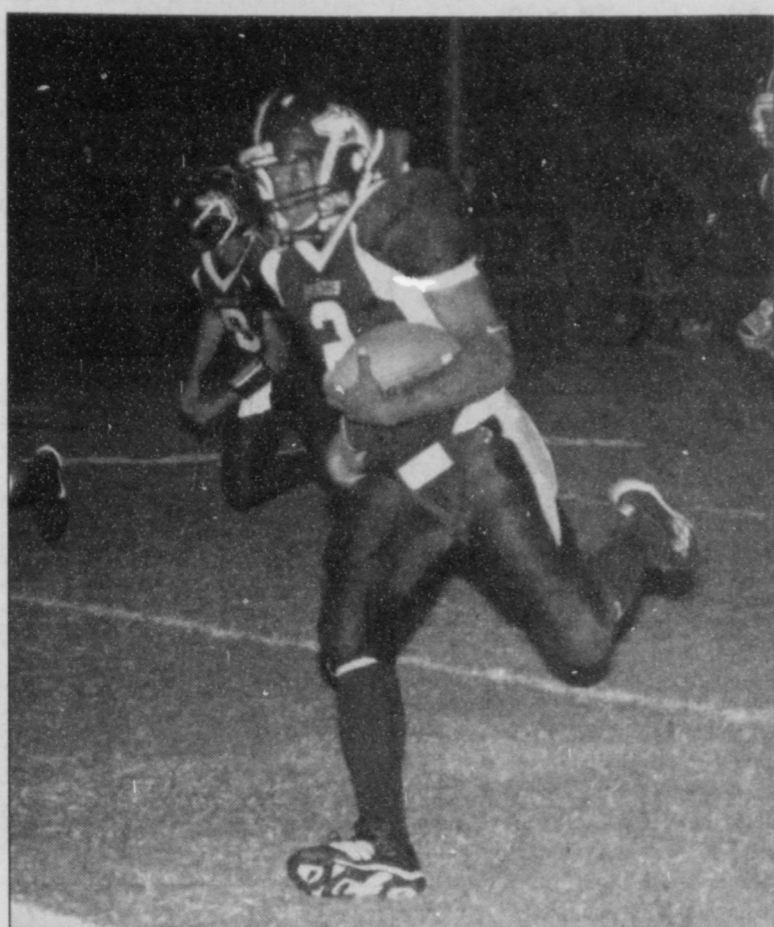

There will be no junior varsity game this week.

Watson runs sixth in Shamrock c-c meet

Senior runner Shelby Watson finished in sixth place at the Shamrock cross-country meet Saturday, September 23, with a time of 13:02 for the two-mile course. Amanda Mendez ran a time of 18:31 and finished 52nd.

Holly Phillips finished in 30th place with a time of 14:44 in the junior high girls' division, and Danielle Ford ran a 15:10 for 39th place. Trevela Dronzek came in 40th with a time of 15:20, and Ashlyn Tubbs ran a 15:30 for 43rd place. Kae Lea Hewitt finished in 58th place with a time of 18:52.

Johnny Gaines won first in the junior high boy's division with a time of 11:42. Monty Holland was 7th with a 13:00, and Daniel West's 14:49 was good enough for 13th place.

Alton Gaines runs a touchdown for the Broncos during Clarendon's Homecoming victory over the Gruver Greyhounds last Friday.

Colt teams stomp Wellington boys

The seventh and eighth grade Colts each played great games against the Fire Crackers at Wellington Thursday, September 21. The seventh grade played their opponent to a 12-12 tie, and the eighth grade earned a shut out at 16-0.

Devonte Hardaway put the first Colt points on the board in the seventh grade game when he scored on a kick-off return in the third quarter to put the Colts up by six. They then went scoreless until the last 25 seconds in the game when Michael Santos picked up a Wellington fumble, returning it 70 yards for another Colt score.

After playing to a 0-0 tie in the first period of play, the eighth grade Colts opened it up in the third period when Chris Crump ran it in for a touchdown, and Tyler Morris caught a two-point conversion from Johnny Gaines. Chris Crump scored again in the fourth quarter on a short drive, and Daniel West caught a Gaines pass for the extra point.

The Colts will travel to Claude Thursday, September 28, to take on the Mustangs beginning at 5:00 p.m. The game will be combined.

Lady Bulldogs to battle NMMI, Otero here

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldog volleyball team is in the middle of their 2006 season and is looking to improve on their 9-8 record.

They will play Midland College September 27 in Midland beginning at 7:00 pm and travel to Borger September 29-30 to participate in the Frank Phillips College Tournament. The Lady Bulldogs will take on New Mexico Military Institute on October 4 at 7:00 p.m. and Otero Junior College October 7 at 2:00 p.m. with both games being played in the Old CC Gym on the campus of Clarendon High School.

According to Coach Jonea Rima, several Lady Bulldogs have received national recognition.

"Right now I have six young ladies who have been recognized in the nation with their stats," Rima said.

Ashley McMullen (sophomore from Watauga) is 10th in the nation with digs, and Roni Mendoza (freshman from Odessa) is 13th in assists.

Keila Ah Mow (freshman from Honolulu) is 24th in service aces while Shealee Coulter (freshman from Briscoe) is 48th in the nation in service aces.

Thonya Joseph (freshman from Bridgetown, Barbados) is 24th in the nation with blocks, and Julie Kalama (sophomore from Kaneohe, Hawaii) is 39th in the nation with kills.

Other players on the roster are: Alex Jaramillo, Sara Wylie, and Bridgette Moore, all of Amarillo; Lucy Kauvaka of Laie, Hawaii; Kelly Fish of Melrose, New Mex.; Tauna Fetui of Honolulu; T.J. Kitchens of Denver City; and Jacinta Smith and Emmelinda Malaga of Pago Pago, American Samoa.

Hedley Owls defeat Ft. Elliott, 37-7

By Tangelia Copelin

The 2006 Hedley Owl team traveled to Ft. Elliott last week to take on the Cougars in six-man football.

The Owls came out strong and quickly scored with Will Verstuyft connecting to Brayden Bennett for a 17-yard TD pass. Isaias Ramirez's PAT was good, and the Owls continued to pound away at the Cougars with Jose Equia intercepting the ball and running it down the field. The Owls were in good field position, allowing Tyler Pepper the opportunity to score. The PAT by Ramirez was good, bringing the score 16 to 0. From there, Bennett sided to Ft. Elliott, and hard hitting by Jon Giffin caused the Cougars to fumble the ball. Equia recovered the fumble, and Seth Koetting capitalized on the turn over and scored for the Owls with Ramirez's PAT being good. The Owls' half time score was 24 to 0.

The second half had Coach Garza and Coach Montgomery changing up the offensive and defensive line in order to give the younger players an opportunity to get in the game. This strategy proved no less effective for the Owls.

The Cougars were able to score once, but that was all they managed. The Owls' defensive line pushed the Cougars all the way back to the Hedley goal line, and Verstuyft took advantage of the field position and pulled off a safety bringing the score to 26 to 7. Next, Seth Koetting ran in a TD, and Ramirez threw the ball to Dustin Thomas for the extra point. With the score 33 to 7, several of the younger players - R.J. Marshall, Danny Garcia, Dylan Pettit, and Archie Sharp - put pressure on the Cougars, which caused them to turn the ball over on downs.

The Owls continued to play tough; getting the ball down the field where Ramirez kicked a 22-yard field goal, and the game ended with the Owls winning 37 to 7.

The Owls will be out of action this week but will resume playing on Friday, October 6, at 7:30. As this is homecoming, we would like to encourage everyone to come out and enjoy the crowning of the 2006 homecoming queen before the game at 7:00 p.m.

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting September 26, 2006, with Boss Lion Jim Shelton in charge.

We had 21 members and no guests this week. Lion Tom Garmon delivered the invocation after complaining that he never gets to lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Boss Lion reminded the members to get out and sell the tickets for the Pancake Supper. The tickets are available from any Lion or at the ENTERPRISE office.

Plans for our annual Ladies' Night banquet on October 24 were also discussed.

Lion Mark C. White led a discussion about the potential for a doe hunt next month. The club voted in favor of proceeding with the doe hunt, and more details will be forthcoming.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.
