THIS WEEK

- 2 A new and unsuspected life lesson confronts Carrie Helms.
- 5 The Bronco Band begins preparations to dazzle local fans.
- 6 The Hedley Owls have just one thing in mind this season - the playoffs.
- 8 And activities just keep coming at the country club.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's summertime edition!

CC to start registering students for fall 2006

Those students not yet registered for the fall 2006 semester at Clarendon College will have several opportunities to do so in the coming weeks.

Registration in Clarendon will be on Monday, August 28, and Tuesday, August 29 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Monday, August 28 from 6 to 8 p.m.

The CC Pampa Center will hold registration August 23, 24, 28, and 29, from 6 to 8 p.m. and on Friday, August 25, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Registration will be held at the CC Childress Center from 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, August 23, and on Thursday, August 24, in Wellington from 6 to 8 p.m.

Classes and late registration begin Wednesday, August 30.

For more information, contact Sharon Hannon at 874-3571.

Clarendon ISD to hold registration August 14

Clarendon CISD will be holding registration in the cafeteria from 6:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. on August 14 and 15, 2006.

Students will receive classroom assignments and schedules. The student's parent must be present to complete the registration.

It is important that all parents complete the federal lunch form. For those that qualify, students may receive free or reduced priced lunches. All parents are asked to complete the form regardless of qualification. This program helps determine funding for the district.

New students should come to the school office between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on August 16. Bring records from your previous school, a copy of the student's birth certificate and Social Security card, and a copy of immunization records.

Senior Health Fair to be next Thursday

Roadrunner HomeCare will be hosting "Senior Health Fair" benefiting Donley County Senior Citizens next Thursday, August 17 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

This event will be held at the Donley County Senior Citizens, and the following organizations will be represented at the Health Fair: Roadrunner HomeCare; Northwest Texas Hospital; Senior Care; Panhandle Eye Institute; Clarendon Outpost Pharmacy; Advance Hearing Aids of Amarillo.

Mark your calendar and come by and support your local senior citizens. Door prizes will be given, and lunch will be served.

Martin, Ashtola to hold reunion this Saturday

The Martin and Ashtola Reunion will be held Saturday, August 12, at the Donley County Senior Citizens. Registration starts at 9:00 a.m. Drinks and paper goods will be provided.

Discolored water could have many causes

The cause of discolored water appearing at some residences in Clarendon is not easily explained and could have a variety of causes, but it is safe to drink.

That's according to city officials and Greenbelt Water Authority, who say they don't really know what is causing the trouble that has been appearing in the south parts of town, some of which has been going on for several months.

John Molder with the City of Clarendon said the problem first appeared on South Parks Street and in the southeast part of the city and then moved west. Most recently, city workers opened a fire hydrant at Seventh and Collinson Streets on Monday and let it run for 20 minutes before it ran clear.

"It's rust in the lines," Molder said, "and the problem seems to be mostly at the ends of the lines."

Molder also has his own personal theory about what's causing rusty color to appear.

"I think when Greenbelt changed their formula at the filter plant, it shocked the system and caused the stuff to turn loose," he said.

But Greenbelt General Manager Bobbie Kidd said that while it's possible the new treatment method might have had an effect, it doesn't make a lot of sense because the same problem isn't being seen in other cities using Greenbelt water.

"I would think I would be hearing from Childress and Quanah and Crowell," he said, "but I'm not."

Timing is also a problem for Kidd. The water authority changed its treatment process from a chlorine method to a new system with chloramines, which uses both chlorine and ammonia about three years ago.

Kidd said several other things could cause the water to be discolored, including any damage and repairs made to the waterworks during the street paving, any big leaks, and just the fact that many of Clarendon's waterlines are old and need to be replaced.

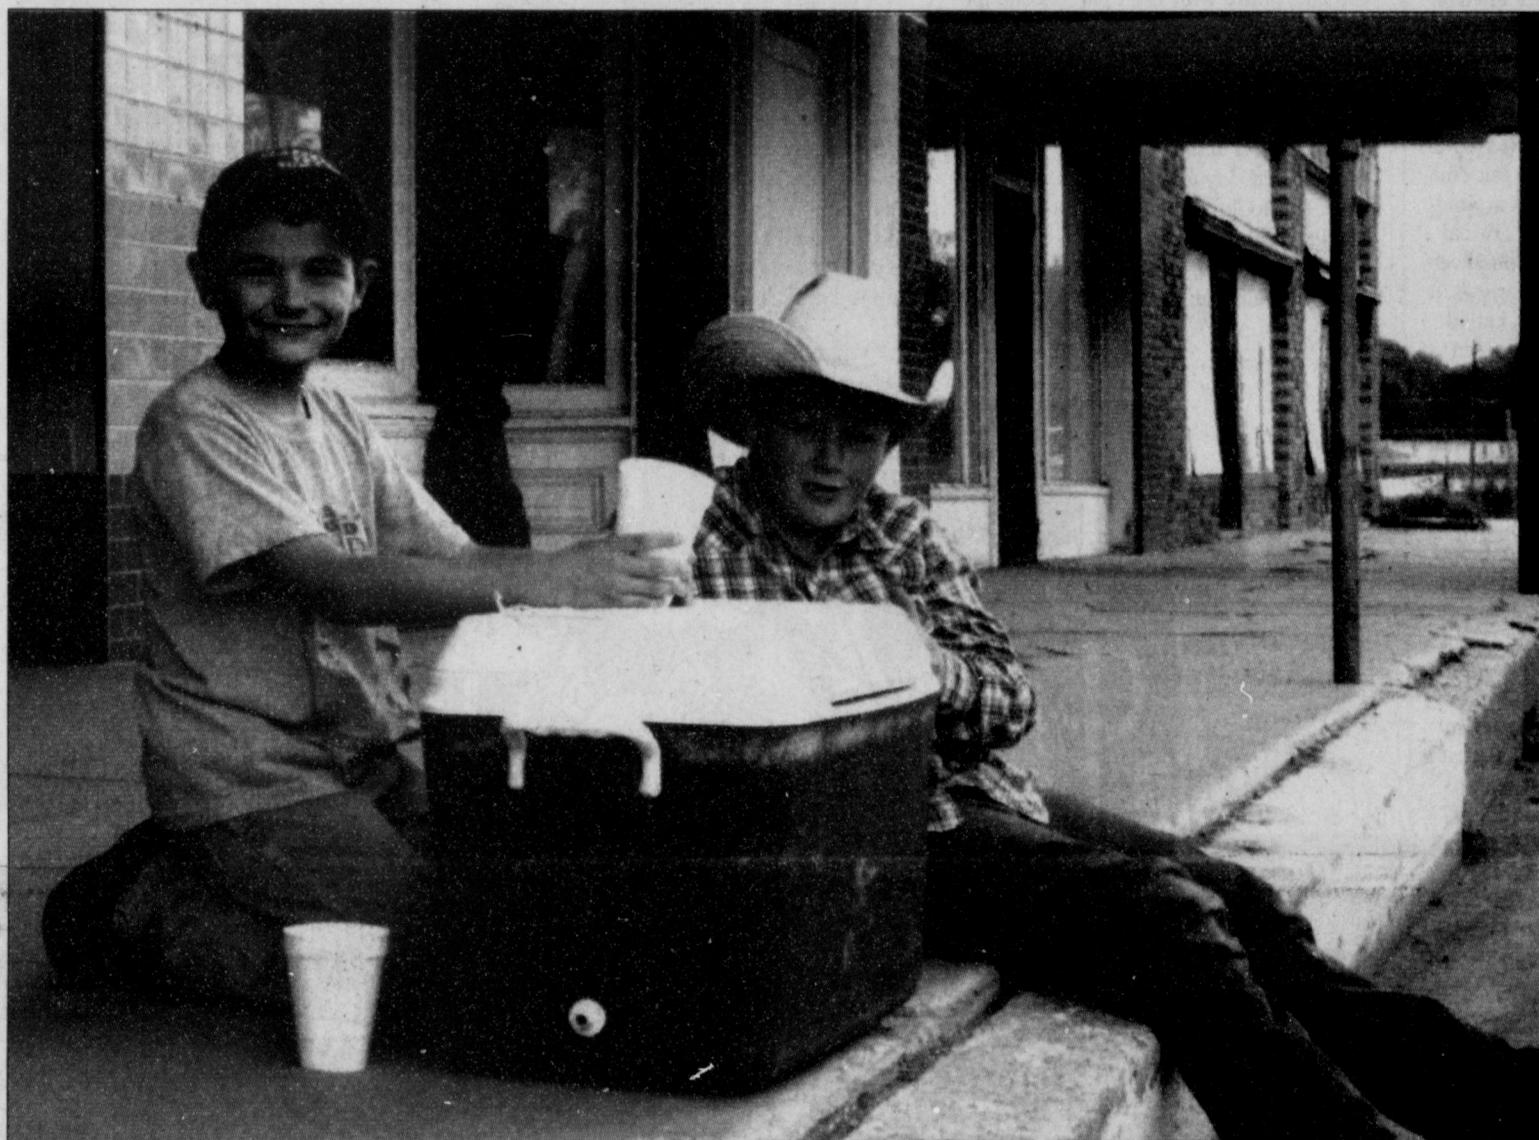

"Flushing the lines can sometimes fix the problem, but it can also sometimes stir up the water and cause the problem," he said.

The low level of Lake Greenbelt is not part of the problem, Kidd says, because water leaving the filter plant is "perfectly clear." But he does think the higher temperature of the water could be a contributing factor.

"The water is probably 80 degrees coming out of your faucet," he said.

While the discolored water is safe to drink and cook with, it can stain white clothes in the laundry. Kidd recommends never washing whites first, and running a garden hose to help clear the line if you see that your water is affected.

Fill 'er up

Downtown Clarendon had a new business Monday afternoon when Jake Owens and David Johnston opened up their lemonade stand in front of the Mulkey Theatre. The young entrepreneurs offered refreshment at the bargain prices of 25-cents per glass and also sold iced tea - both sweet and unsweet.

Summer annual forages require planning

LUBBOCK - Producers who want to try their hand with summer annual forages should do some planning beforehand, according to a Texas Cooperative Extension agronomist.

"Summer annual forages can be a productive and profitable crop here on the Texas Plains," said Dr. Calvin Trostle, Extension agronomist based at Lubbock. "But they require some planning. Fertility, irrigation, seeding rates, planting and harvest equipment, and harvest timing should be part of any production plan.

"Your choice of forages is also part of the equation. Conventional or brown midrib (BMR) hybrid sorghum sudans, hybrid pearl millet, forage sorghum, and photoperiod sensitive forages do well here. In our irrigated trials, these forages can produce more than 20 tons per acre on average."

A soil test can help producers set a realistic yield-goal, based on available soil nutrients and their fertilizer strategy, he said.

"A 5 ton per acre dry weight yield will remove about 160 pounds of nitrogen, 30 pounds of phosphorus and 120 pounds of potassium from the soil," Trostle said. "Pretty similar to an irrigated grain sorghum yield of 8,000 pounds per acre. So your baseline fertility plan should be close to what you would use for 8,000-pound grain sorghum."

"A good rule of thumb is to plan on applying 7 to 10 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre for each ton in your wet-weight yield-goal. Split applications of nitrogen are also a good idea."

Dryland summer forage production is possible, though poor stands and drought can take their toll, Trostle said. Fortunately, irrigated forage sorghum, for example, typically requires 15 percent to 20 percent less water than corn silage, he added.

"Seeding rates for irrigated land are roughly one and one-half to two times higher than dryland seeding rates," he said. "If you plan to graze it and cut it for hay or silage, you should plan to seed a little heavier than you would for dryland produc-

Workshop focuses on factors impacting production of beef

AUSTIN - Texas cattle producers are invited to attend Beef 706-College Station, a Beef Check-off-funded program hosted by Texas A&M University, the Texas Cooperative Extension Service and the Texas Beef Council (TBC). This free, two and half day workshop focuses on various factors impacting the safety and quality of beef in an effort to improve producer's bottom line.

Taking place in College Station September 18 - 20, Beef 706 is an educational hands-on course for beef producers to learn about safety and quality issues affecting their product. Beef 706-College Station will reach Texas cattle producers with information enabling them to perform sound management practices that will increase consumer confidence in beef as a safe and wholesome product.

Cattlemen will learn what factors affect beef's palatability, as well as gain information on utilizing their herd's genetics, feedyard performance and carcass characteristics.

Beef 706-College Station is limited to forty attendees and is available on a first-come basis. Participants will receive beef quality assurance credits and veterinarians will receive continuing education hours. Participants interested in this free program must register by September 11 by phone or email. Contact Lori Sleeper at (800) 846.4113.

For more information on this and other beef quality programs, visit www.texasbeef.org.

CISD earns recognized TEA rating

State accountability ratings released August 1 by the Texas Education Agency show that Clarendon ISD has earned a Recognized school district rating for the second year in a row.

The ratings are partly based on Texas Assessment of Knowledge & Skills (TAKS) scores.

"I'm very pleased with the results this year," Monty Hysinger, CISD Superintendent said.

On the TAKS, Clarendon had 93 percent of students pass the reading portion, the same as last year; 94 percent in writing, up from 89 percent; 86 percent in social studies, down from 93 percent; 79 percent in math, up from 74 percent; and 82 percent in science, down from 84 percent in 2005.

Hysinger said that math is still the area the district is focusing on improving, and that follows a trend across the state.

"We've made gains and we're still working."

Clarendon campuses were also rated individually with Clarendon High School and Elementary being named Recognized for the third year and Clarendon Junior High being named Academically Acceptable for the second year.

"We're very proud of our teachers and students," Hysinger said. "We're looking forward to a great year."

Clarendon TAKS results are as follows: Third grade - reading, 100 percent, math 92 percent; Fourth grade - writing 97 percent, reading 94 percent, math 94 percent; Fifth grade - reading 90 percent, math 93 percent, science 93 percent; Sixth grade - reading 93 percent, math 90 percent; Seventh grade - writing 93 percent, reading 85 percent, math 67 percent; Eighth grade - reading 95 percent, math 64 percent, social studies 81 percent, science 60 percent; Ninth grade - reading 97 percent, math 72 percent; Tenth grade - English/language arts 86 percent, social studies 80 percent, math 64 percent, science 66 percent; and Eleventh grade - English/language arts 100 percent, social studies 100 percent, math 79 percent, and science 87 percent.

Statewide, 3,380 Texas public schools earned the Exemplary or Recognized rating because of their students' strong academic performance, compared to 2,213 campuses that earned one of these top two ratings in 2005.

The accountability standards for Exemplary and Recognized ratings are unchanged from 2005.

At least 70 percent of students passing TAKS and State-Developed Alternative Assessment II (SDAA II); a high school completion rate of 85.0 percent; and an annual dropout rate of 0.7 percent or less are required to earn a Recognized rating.

Requirements needed to earn an Academically Acceptable rating increased substantially this year.

Passing rates for all students and each student group of 60 percent or

Melting myth behind global warming hype

By Patrick J. Michaels

The last weeks of July are normally the hottest of the year, so it's no surprise that we're being deluged with public-service announcements about the horrors of global warming. Radio and television stations are compelled to transmit these announcements at no charge because of a long-standing policy that they must provide "public good." "Don't Litter" and "Fasten Seat Belts" come to mind. Now the notion has been expanded to "Fight Global Warming."

By defining it as something we all should fight, these announcements tell us warming must be bad — something no comprehensive treatise on the science and economics of climate change has ever demonstrated.

Ogilvy and Mather, a prestigious public-relations firm whose for-profit clients include IBM and Motorola, produced the global-warming ads for free on behalf of Environmental Defense, a major environmental nonprofit that clearly advocates certain types of global-warming legislation.

Like their ads for Motorola, Ogilvy and Mather's global-warming announcements are clearly targeted towards sullen youth — a brilliant idea, considering the appallingly low level of scientific knowledge our children have in comparison to their counterparts around the world. But scientific exploration requires critical skepticism, and these ads are full of unquestioned certainties.

Perhaps the most egregious is a radio ad, called "The Gift." It mentions dying coral reefs, rising sea levels, melting ice caps, devastating floods, and hurricanes, and accuses us of leaving them all to our children.

The ads ignore facts that are widely accepted in the scientific community. Take hurricanes. The frequency of category 4 and 5 storms — the really destructive ones — has increased as the planet warmed. Good sound bite, with only one problem: It's back to where it was in the 1940s and 1950s, long before human beings started warming things up.

In fact, as late as the 1970s, scientists were more concerned with planetary cooling, as revealed in the 1974 CIA report, "Potential implications of trends in world population, food production, and climate," that presented cooling-related food shortages as a major strategic threat. The report first appeared in public in THE NEW YORK TIMES on May Day, 1976. Soon, global cooling abruptly reversed into global warming. Crop yields rose.

The public-service announcements are all similarly big on melting polar ice caps and consequent rises in sea level. The Arctic cap loses ice in the summer, but no one bothers to mention that we only began collecting data on it in 1979, at the end of the second-coldest period in the Arctic in a century. The ice had to be abnormally expanded then.

It's also floating ice, and melting it and doesn't change sea level at all. And, for all the headlines about loss of ice in Greenland, which does contribute to rising sea levels, the mean temperature there was much higher from 1910 through 1940. Between then and the late 1990s, temperatures in southern Greenland — the region where ice is melting — declined sharply. One has to presume that Environmental Defense knows this.

Around the world, in Antarctica, for the last few decades, average temperatures across the continent have been going down. Snowfall has increased, resulting in more continental ice. In fact, every modern computer simulation of 21st century climate has Antarctica continuing to accrete ice.

Ogilvy and Mather marketed their public-service announcements through the Ad Council, whose website says that "reversing the global warming trend is possible."

This suggests that humans have the power to turn planetary warming into cooling — a scientific absurdity. We have neither the technology, the means, the money, nor the political will to do this.

Consider the Kyoto Protocol, a "baby step" in the fight against global warming. It "requires" the U.S. to reduce its emissions of carbon dioxide to seven percent below 1990 levels by 2008-2012. Requirements vary by a percent or so for most other signatories such as Canada and the EU nations. Yet if every nation of the world met its Kyoto targets, the amount of warming that would be prevented is .07 degrees Celsius per half-century — an amount too small to even measure, as average surface temperatures fluctuate by about twice that much from year to year.

Neither the U.S. nor the EU nor virtually anyone else will be able to fulfill the Kyoto targets. EU emissions rose last year, while U.S. emissions remained unchanged. "Reversing" warming would require reducing carbon-dioxide emissions by 60-80 percent, which is simply impossible. The world economy would implode.

Ogilvy and Mather's corporate website feature a quote from founder David Ogilvy: "We pursue knowledge the way a pig pursues truffles." But what about knowledge on hurricanes, ice caps, and the real possibilities with respect to global warming?

The best course is one in which we continue to use our economic wherewithal to invest in successful companies, which are generally those that produce things efficiently or produce efficient things. Stating that would be a public service. The ads you're seeing and hearing are not.

Patrick J. Michaels is senior fellow in environmental studies at the Cato Institute and author of Meltdown: The Predictable Distortion of Global Warming by Scientists, Politicians, and the Media, (2004).

Dinner, a romantic pause, and then...

Prepare yourselves, ladies and gentlemen, for an announcement that will blow your minds.

I am engaged. What? Shocked? You're having an open-mouthed, head shaking reaction? Yeah. Me, too.

It all happened very suddenly. One night I was home alone thinking about this whole Jay and Carrie thing. He's working on graduate school applications, planning out the rest of his life, and I hadn't been invited yet.

I didn't know if I was ever going to be invited. I didn't know if I really wanted to hang around listening to someone making plans for a party I'd ever be allowed to attend.

I sat down on the edge of my bed with my head in my hands. What would he say? If he proposed, what would it be like?

I honestly could not imagine what that moment would look like. I usually have a highly overactive imagination, but I could not come up with a thing. To my brain, it seemed so impossible.

We had been planning a trip back to the lake house with Jay's parents and his brother and sister-in-law that weekend. I wasn't suspicious because we'd done the same thing just weeks before.

We got there in time for dinner Friday night. After a delicious meal, everyone else went to bed. Jay and I went out onto the deck overlooking the lake to look at the stars and relax.

I was holding his hand and leaning on his shoulder thinking how perfect was this moment. All my worrying and trying to force this pattern on us was ridiculous. I could date this guy forever if that's what I had to do. I could wait as long as it took.

Luckily, that was about three seconds.

I squeezed his hand and whispered, "I love you," and kissed his cheek.

"Question," he says, knowing that I hate it when a person prefaces a question with the word "Question." In English, we only need intonation to distinguish a question from a statement.

Still, "Question," he says, I make a "hmm" sound and let it slide. "Would you marry me?"

All I can say is, "Would I what?" He clears his throat and takes the ring out of his pocket. "Like now or like someday?" I ask, but don't wait for the answer. "Yes, I would. You know I would."

At that very moment, fireworks burst over the lake to the west. Not that kind of fireworks. Actual real ones.

As we sat there holding each other, one tear came down my cheek, and I sighed one moment of absolute unsullied happiness. Then it hit me all at once, "Oh, no. We have to get married now, don't we?"

I spent the last six months convincing myself that marriage was an impossibility and to think of a wedding in any realistic terms would be ludicrous. It's much easier to deal with disappointment when you plan ahead for it.

This method, however, leaves you completely unprepared for good news.

"You busy next weekend?" I ask. He said he was working. Sorry.

All I could think about was how many weddings I'd been in and been to and how horrible my attitude had been towards the whole thing. For six months or more, I had been a walking "methinks thou dost protest too much." I better get some salt and pepper because I was about to eat my words.

In order to avoid the crowd dinner and the inevitable gushing of the family and the head on collision with the reality of wedding planning, I suggested we keep this to ourselves for a while.

I needed a little while to let it sink in. The human brain sets up incredible illusions to fool itself. It takes some time to separate what is illusion and what is real. When you get to the end of that process and see that your thinking has taken a complete 180, you have to go through the process again to be sure. This takes at least two completely sleepless nights and one and a half quiet afternoons.

By Sunday afternoon, I had sorted it out. For the first time in my life, I felt like I could take off all my armor, and I had knocked down all of the barriers I had built to "protect" myself. On the drive back from the lake, we had our first true, real, honest conversation. I was completely vulnerable and perfectly safe. I've never been happier.

Senate marks 2006 accomplishments

I always look forward to August because it affords me an opportunity to travel across the state to meet with Texans and listen to their concerns. This allows me to share with Texans what has been accomplished this year in Washington, D.C., and what I will be working to achieve in the fall when Congress reconvenes.

The Senate authorized funds to support and supply the men and women of the armed forces defending our country in the War on Terror. Despite efforts by some members of Congress to prematurely abandon our mission, I stood resolutely with 85 other senators and sent a message to our troops and our allies that we will never abandon them. As recent events in the Middle East demonstrate, our foe is tenacious and determined to destroy democracy all over the world.

Economic reforms approved by the Senate have sustained the strength of our economy. Tax cuts passed by Congress and signed into law by President Bush have created over 5 million jobs in the past three years, while cutting taxes by $70 billion. We cut entitlement spending by $100 billion over 10 years and froze non-defense, non-homeland security spending. The tax cuts once again demonstrated that lowering the tax burden on working families can spur the economy, as tax receipts have increased nearly 35 percent since 2003. Lower taxes mean more growth. Taxpayers use the extra money in their pockets to invest, pocket, and save. Economic growth has produced increased federal revenues, thus reducing the deficit at a faster than expected rate. We are now ahead of schedule to meet the President's 2004 goal of cutting the budget deficit in half by 2009.

Americans suffering from the rising cost of energy will benefit from the Gulf of Mexico Energy Security Act of 2006, legislation I co-sponsored that recently passed the Senate. By opening 8.3 million acres in the Gulf of Mexico for oil and gas production, we will further protect our national and economic security by reducing our dependence on foreign sources of oil. This legislation further benefits Texas by providing our state with royalties from newly opened areas. Texas has financed and supported extensive Gulf Coast oil and gas exploration and refining, and these royalties will help preserve our environment while creating jobs related to increased exploration and production.

by sen. kay bailey hutchison

Enhancing educational opportunities has been a priority. By increasing Pell Grants, the Senate provided additional aid to students. Congress authorized more than $4.5 billion over five years in bonus grants available to Pell-qualified students studying math, science or foreign languages determined to be critical for our national security. In addition, the Senate provided $100 million for a new Teacher Incentive Fund to provide additional compensation to teachers who make a measurable impact on student achievement.

Finally, I made sure that Texans affected by Hurricane Rita were treated fairly by the federal government by introducing and passing an amendment to the Senate Emergency Supplemental bill. My amendment raised the federal reimbursement rate for Hurricane Rita damage claims in Texas to a 90 percent federal, 10 percent state rate. The new reimbursement rate will save hard-hit Texas counties nearly $200 million. This bill also provided Texas with $235 million for education costs associated with Hurricane Katrina victims who relocated to our state.

Much has been accomplished in the Senate this year, but there is much more to do this fall on behalf of Texas and the nation. I look forward to discussing these issues with many of you this month.

Reader praises Clarendon's Fourth of July

I just want to say that the July 4th celebration was enjoyable for me. I try to come back for different events during the year. One will be the Lelia Lake reunion in October, and the other is always on the Fourth of July. I enjoy all the columns written for the paper.

I was glad it was back on the square and not in the park. It was so much more like the old days. For the people who put out a lot of work on it — I want to tell you "thanks." The parade was a lot of fun.

But, with a school the size of Clarendon, where were the band, the ball players, etc.? I know they were probably at the lake, but surely the school could get some together. They wouldn't have to march. They could play from a wagon or pickup. Also, football and basketball players could have ridden on a wagon filled with the young people.

I hope some will be there next year. Also, all the rest that were in the parade this year, I will be looking for you all next year.

tion." For example, a good drilled seeding rate for dryland sorghum-sudans is about 15 pounds per acre. A good rate for a similar irrigated field is about 25 pounds per acre. With hybrid pearl millet, a producer could seed dryland ground at 10 pounds per acre and irrigated land at 15 pounds per acre, the agronomist said.

Seed size can affect seeding rates, and may also affect a producer's choice of planting equipment, he said.

Choosing when to turn the cattle in to graze can also affect yields and performance, he said.

"It's a good idea to let hybrid pearl millet get 18 to 20 inches tall, and sorghum-sudans about 24 inches tall, before you turn the cattle in for early grazing," Trostle said. "You'll want to wait a bit longer if you're using photoperiod sensitive forages."

"You also need to leave adequate stubble for regrowth whether you are cutting it for hay or ensilage, or letting cattle do the harvest. For good regrowth, we recommend leaving 6-inch-high stubble with sorghum-sudans and 8-inch-high stubble with hybrid pearl millet."

When to harvest should also be part of a production plan for summer annual forages.

"Forage quality and energy level declines with maturity," Trostle said. "Use it when it's young. If you want quality forage for grazing or hay, don't let the forage head out even though it will cost you some tonnage."

"The decline in quality is rapid once a forage matures past the boot stage. On the other hand, optimum tonnage (yield) and quality for most forages grown for silage occurs in the soft dough stage. If you want quality, particularly for grazing or baling, you should harvest these forages prior to heading."

Producers can access several Extension publications on summer annual forages - including variety trials, recommended production practices, and quality standards - online at: <http://lubbock.tamu.edu/othercrops/forage.php>.

Dog days of summer take toll on column

Sorry, folks. Last week my mind seemed to go "on hold." No one called me with news, and I had to skip my column.

My daughter and grandson, Colleen and Ryan Fross, were here; and we began discussing the "brain freeze," which she said was caused by the "dog days of summer." What are dog days of summer? Colleen says it's when the weather is so hot it saps all your strength and all you hear are the cicadas. Norm Hagood says when it's so hot the dog won't move from the shade. We are all in agreement it's during the hottest days of July and August and humans are filled with lethargy. I decided to go to the Internet and find the true meaning of "dog days of summer".

Webster defines dog days as the period between early July and early September when hot sultry weather occurs with a period of stagnation or inactivity. OK, I now know when, the next question is why this particular name? In ancient times groups of people drew images in the sky by connecting stars and gave them names such as bears, a bull, dippers, and many others including dogs in Canis Major and Canis Minor, which we now call constellations.

The brightest star in Canis Major (the big dog) is Sirius, which happens to be the brightest star in the night sky. In the summer Sirius rises and sets with the sun, and the ancients thought it gave off its heat to add to the heat of the sun, thus creating the hot, sultry weather. And that, my friend, is where the phrase "dog days of summer" comes from.

Oh yes, there is a Dog-Day cicada which appears yearly in mid summer. Now we all know what it means. We just have to live through it and pray for rain.

Some great news from the homes of our injured firemen, Jeff Cook and Joey Garcia. Joey is doing well and will probably return to work next month. Jeff Cook has healed well enough to have his cervical collar removed and is scheduled for surgery on his knee Tuesday. The neck had to

Burton Library offers wide youth selections

In another week, children and teachers are going back to the classroom. What an exciting time for both! I know...been there, done that...and loved every minute of all 30 years!

Even though Clarendon's excellent schools are well equipped with exceptional Elementary and High School libraries, Burton Memorial Library hopes you will include its assistance in supplementing regular classroom needs.

Pre-school, kindergarten, and first grade teachers, a beautiful geography readiness book is Lynne Cherry's The Armadillo from Amarillo. A "Veggiecational Book" from Big Ideas Production of Veggie Tales by Phil Vischer entertainingly introduces numbers, colors, shapes, and letters. Veggie Tales videos are also available. Viewers will notice subtly surfacing worthwhile values revealed throughout the stories with animated characters.

Each 30-minute video focuses on various subjects of Truth, Obedience, Love Thy Neighbor, Self-Esteem, Handling Fear, and Power of Words.

Another Bill Lund's Native Peoples series, predominately written on second and third grade levels, introduces students to various Indian tribes. Each book includes map, fast facts, culture and practices, a legend of that particular tribe, and Indian game, words to know, additional references addresses, internet sites, and index. Internet sites will also benefit older age groups.

Older students will recognize authors Cleary, Blume, Erickson, Stine, and Gipson, among numerous others. Christian writer, Max Lucado, and Western writer, Will James, perhaps better known for adult writings, have authored wonderfully appealing books for children.

Familiar Bluebonnet Books offer humorous fiction, interesting biographies, intriguing ghost stories, and fascinating science. In this collection, Joe Hayes entitled his folk tales Watch Out For Cleaver Women. With coinciding English and Spanish pages, Hayes' unique book is especially interesting to readers of both languages.

To meet needs of inevitable social studies, science, and book reports, Burton Memorial Library's Youth Section offers large variety. In addition to easy-to-understand encyclopedias, Hello USA from Lerner Publication, a beautifully illustrated set of informative books offering tours of history, people, environment of each individual state, charmingly introduces children to our nation.

Twenty-five volumes of Disney's Wonderful World of Knowledge, published by Danbury Press, offer enticing information concerning animals, natural wonders, science, technology, myths, legends, and various other subjects. Lovely photography is complemented by illustrations of lively Disney characters, which add extra pleasure to the wealth of learning material included in this set.

I am especially impressed with an individual reference selection entitled 356 Things to Make and Do. It is full of "interesting information with inspirational ideas for projects" such as handcrafted models, toys, useful gifts, and games accompanied by instructional and attractive illustrations.

This outstanding Miles Kelly Publication is not only great for school beginning, but throughout the entire year. Teachers, parents, as well as students will appreciate its ideas and enjoyment offered in original creativeness.

Best wishes for a successful, productive school year from Burton Memorial Library, a great asset to Clarendon and surrounding areas. Why not check it out?

Senior Citizens reinstate monthly pot luck dinner

By Lyndia Meaker

On the 25 of July, 2006, the Donley County Senior Citizens reinstated their monthly Birthday/Anniversary Pot Luck at the center. There were 46 in attendance at this month's party.

Lots of good food was consumed, and we all had a wonderful fellowship with each other. The Saints' Roost Band played for the enjoyment of all; and several people sang as well as Bud White and other members of the band. Those who also sang to the enjoyment of everyone were: Betty White, Vada Morrison, Jewel Judd, and Rose Lee Watson. There were 6 who had celebrated a birthday during the month, and they were: Denise Trevino, Nancy Rossell, Lyndia Meaker, Max Hennigh, Merle Kramer, and Velma Strawbridge.

Next month the Birthday/Anniversary Dinner will be on August 29. We sincerely hope that you will come and join us for fellowship and some more entertainment.

August is upon us, and the little ones will be going back to school very soon. I am sure that most of you have enjoyed your grandchildren this summer. I know that I have. It is so wonderful to be close to my children and grandchildren so that I can see them grow up.

I am looking forward to football starting, for I have two grandsons that play on the Bronco team, and I am hereby wishing them a wonderful season. I plan on being at most of their games to watch them play. This is one of the wonders of having grandchildren.

I hope that everyone has had a good summer even though it has been a hot one. The little bit of rain that we have gotten in the last few weeks is good, but of course, Lord, we need more, and I know that You will provide.

It has been a little slow here at the center with people traveling to see loved ones and so on, but I hope that things will pick up again soon. Even the exercise people are having a hard time. They are way down on the numbers that have been attending. So if you are back and need a little exercise, come in on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings and join them. They would love to have you.

Just to remind you that the center is raffling off a ½ beef the end of September. If you have not gotten your chances, check with one of the board members, or come by the center as we have them here as well.

Be sure and put August 29 on your calendar for the Birthday/Anniversary supper. Hope we have a large crowd for it. Everyone truly enjoyed July's. So bring a dish and join us, and we will have some kind of entertainment to finish off the evening as well as fellowship.

McElroy

Ailene Rhodes McElroy, 89 died August 4, 2006 in Clarendon.

Services were at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, August 8, 2006, in the First Baptist Church in Clarendon with Rev. Kent McElroy, son, and Rev. Larry White, of Amarillo, officiating. Burial followed in Citizens Cemetery. Services were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

McElroy

Ailene "Neenie" was born November 6, 1916, in Brice, Texas to John Wesley Rhodes and Oda Pearl Lewis Rhodes. She was the fourth of eight daughters. She graduated from Clarendon High School in 1935. She married Arlington Wayne McElroy on July 19, 1941, at Junction City, Kansas. She had been a resident of Clarendon and Donley County all of her life. She graduated from Amarillo Beauty College and worked as a beautician for 30 years before working along side her husband at Heath's Furniture store. She then worked as the Women's Ready to Wear Manager for Green's Dry Goods for 27 years until her retirement in 1991. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Clarendon and Joy Fidelius Sunday School Class. She was a lover of Christ and a lover of people.

Mrs. McElroy was preceded in death by her parents; her husband on June 25, 1982; and four sisters, Mattie Chamberlain, Ruth Riley, Dorothy Adamson, and Irene Jones.

She is survived by 3 sons: Jack McElroy and wife Sheila of Longview, Jimmy McElroy of Amarillo, and Rev. Kent McElroy and wife Elizabeth of Colorado Springs, CO; 3 sisters: Jewell Stewart and Betty McElroy of Amarillo, and Johnnie Adamson of Bakersfield, California; 1 grandchild Ashley McElroy Parsons and husband Jeremy; 2 step-grandchildren: Tom Lowe and wife Cindy and Hollie Glover and husband Joey; 2 great grandsons: Micah and Tyler Parsons; 2 step-great grandchildren: Joanna Glover and Sean Lowe; many nieces and nephews and one close family friend, Priscilla Boone of Clarendon.

The family requests memorials be to the First Baptist Church in Clarendon or to the Citizens Cemetery Association.

Brunson

M.E. Bagwell Brunson, 88, died Sunday, July 30, 2006 in Claude.

Services were at 10:00 a.m. on Thursday, August 3, 2006, in the Church of Christ in Claude with Kent Watson, Minister, officiating. Burial was in Claude Cemetery. Services were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

Mrs. Brunson was born May 23, 1918, in Clarendon to Martha Frances James Bagwell and Carl Rosco Bagwell. She married Warner Brunson on May 14, 1939, at Groom. She was a member of the Le Temps Club and the American Ex Prisoner of War Organization, where she served as secretary in 1984 and 1994. She had been a resident of Claude and Armstrong County most of her life. She was a homemaker and a member of the Church of Christ in Claude.

Mrs. Brunson is preceded in death by her parents and one grandson, Billy George.

She is survived by her husband, Warner of Claude; one daughter, Mariene George and husband Phillip of Las Vegas, NV; one sister, Melva Miller of Spokane, WA; one grandson, Philip George II and wife Mychele of Amarillo; three great grandchildren: Garrett George, Grace George, and Gaige George all of Amarillo; and many nieces and nephews.

The family requests memorials be to the Claude EMS, Claude Volunteer Fire Department., or to a favorite charity.

Bronco Band to hold summer rehearsals

The Bronco Band soon will be gearing up for the upcoming year with summer meetings, equipment checkout, and rehearsals.

There will be a leadership meeting at Todd Baker's house on Monday, August 14, at 7:30 p.m. All student leaders, seniors, and flags are invited. Students should bring their own drinks. On Tuesday, August 15, from 6 to 8 p.m. the juniors and seniors will have equipment checkout, and the freshmen and sophomores will check out equipment on Wednesday, August 16, from 5 to 6 p.m.

There will be a freshmen and new student meeting on Thursday, August 17, at 6 p.m. At 8 p.m., there will be a full band rehearsal. Another full band rehearsal will be held on Friday, August 18, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Students should make sure they get their equipment checked out on the correct day. Rehearsals on Thursday and Friday will require you have your equipment. Be at least 30 minutes early if you missed your time to check equipment.

the lion's tale by Roger Estlack

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting August 8, 2006, with Boss Lion James Shelton in charge.

Had 18 members and one guest - Ashlee Estlack, guest of Lion Roger Estlack.

Lion Don Smith reported on possible funding ideas for a new heating and cooling system, and the Boss Lion appointed a committee of Lions: Smith, Roger Estlack, and Steve Hall to come up with a recommendation for how to proceed on that idea.

The Boss Lion also said that a full report on the club's catering options will be presented next week.

Lion Monty Hysinger reported 27 young men have reported two-day workouts at Bronco Stadium this week and said the public school will start classes August 21, and Lion Myles Shelton said the college will start classes on August 30.

Owl cheerleaders attend camp

By Tangeia Copelin
The Hedley Owl cheerleaders attended McMurry University NCA cheerleading camp this summer.

The girls received superior cheer squad awards on all their cheers and chants. The girls also had three girls nominated for the All American Cheer Squad. Betty Cruz was nominated for her outstanding leadership skills, Jaci Copelin was nominated for outstanding jumps, and Alex

Sharp was nominated for dance. During tryouts, Copelin was chosen to the All American Cheerleading squad and is eligible to attend the Rose Bowl in Hawaii or the Orange Bowl in Florida and cheer with other young ladies across the country.

Mascot Katie Gregory was also nominated as an All-American Mascot and received a trophy as the most improved mascot of the camp and was chosen to the All-American Mascot squad for her character Ollie the Owl.

Cheerleading sponsor Cheryl Koetting stated she was really excited about this year's squad as she felt she had a group of girls who truly represented the Hedley School well.

Hedley Owls gearing up for football season

By Tangeia Copelin
Coach Ruben Garza, the new head football coach for the Hedley Owls, began weeks ago preparing for the 2006 football season.

Coach Garza said, "It is going to be a memorable year for the town of Hedley as far as football is concerned; the kids have worked hard all summer and are ready to go."

Coach Garza along with defensive coordinator Mark Montgomery handed out equipment to the football boys, preparing them for Two-a-days beginning on Monday at 7:30 a.m. The boys will be practicing all week with Midnight Madness beginning at one minute past midnight on Thursday night the August 10. This will be the first official workout with pads.

The Owl team will be sporting several returning players, including six seniors. And as Senior Dustin Thomas said, "With six returning seniors, this is going to be the year when others are going to step up and take notice of the Hedley Owl football program."

Coach Montgomery wanted everyone to be sure to turn out for Midnight Madness to help support the team and prepare them mentally for the upcoming football season.

The teams' first scrimmage will be on Saturday, August 19, at 9 a.m. in Miami with five teams scrimmaging that day.

Everyone needs to be sure to support these young athletes in their endeavors as they strive for the teams' motto. "One Team, One Dream, Playoffs."

Ashford, Johnston shoot age at CCC

By Sandy Anderberg
 Golfers Dan Ashford and Slick Johnston enjoyed their week of golf at the Clarendon Country Club and turned in great scores as they each shot their age on Wednesday during the men's game.
 Ashford, who is 86, shot an 86 for the round; and Johnston shot under his 78 years with a 77. Tom Stauder turned in a 64 to take the top spot, and Johnston and Don Hinton tied for second place with a 66.
 Wanda Nazworth shot a 66 to earn first place in the women's game on Thursday, and Sherol Johnston finished second with a 70. Maxine McLaughlin and Quida Gage tied for third place, shooting a 71.
 Three teams participated in the Friday night scramble; and the team of Jerry Gage, Chase Thornberry, Jeff Hatley, and Bobby Dodson completed the nine holes at seven under par to take the win. The other teams came in at six under and two under par.

 The Jack and Jill (one man and one woman) tournament will be held August 12-13 at a cost of $140 per team plus the price of a cart, which includes a meal on Saturday night. Tee times are at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. each day. You may call the Pro Shop to enter the tournament.
 The CCC will be having a pool party August 19 from 7:00 p.m. until midnight. Live music will be featured and steaks and baked potatoes will be served. You may call 874-2863 for reservations and prices.
 The Friday night scrambles begin at 6:00 p.m., and the club is offering free green fees on Friday with the paid price of a cart. For more information on all of the happenings at the CCC, you may call the Pro Shop at 874-2166.

Memphis fundraiser to benefit Meals on Wheels August 13

The Memphis Meals on Wheels Program is having a fundraiser dinner on Sunday, August 13, 2006, at the Memphis Convention Center from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m. or when the food runs out.
 Each plate is $6.00, and will consist of chicken fried steak and gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, tossed salad, rolls, peach cobbler, coffee, tea, or water.

Drug For Alzheimer's Tested In a Skin Patch
 Still in clinical testing is a skin patch version of a drug that is used to treat Alzheimer's disease. The drug is Exelon (rivastigmine tartrate), a drug already on the market in the form of oral capsules and an oral solution. If approved by the FDA, the patch form of Exelon would be applied to the skin once a day. As a transdermal skin patch drug, it would make its way through the skin and into the blood stream, bypassing the liver. Researchers feel that this approach may help minimize side effects of the drug and help maintain a consistent daylong dose level. Recently, information about this form of Exelon was presented at an international Alzheimer's meeting. Patients who were taking it by mouth were compared to those who got it in a lower dose skin patch. Those who got the patch had less nausea and scored better on cognition tests than those taking the oral form of Exelon.
 Alzheimer's disease, the most common form of dementia, now affects more than 4 million Americans. Health officials are encouraging research that will lead to more effective ways of managing this condition.
