THIS WEEK

- 2 Now is the time to start planning next year's celebration.
- 3 An erroneous public notice delays approval of the hospital district's budget.
- 6 Another scramble is in the works at the Clarendon Country Club.
- 8 And officers keep busy over the holiday weekend.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's outstanding edition!

SBA Economic Injury Loans deadline July 25

Businesses in some Texas counties have until July 25, 2005, to file applications for the low-interest disaster loans from the US Small Business Administration (SBA).

The SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loans are available for businesses dependent on farmers and ranchers sustaining crop losses due to excessive rain, hail, and high winds that occurred on August 12, 2004. Farmers and ranchers are not eligible for these SBA loans.

Businesses in the following counties are eligible to apply: Briscoe, Childress, Collingsworth, Cottle, Donley, Hall, and Motley.

Applications and further information can be obtained by calling the SBA toll-free at 1-800-366-6303 or TDD 817-267-4688 for the hearing impaired.

Meeting for potential foster parents is set

When abuse and neglect occur and children are no longer able to safely remain in their own homes, we are fortunate to have individuals willing to provide care and support to them in licensed foster homes.

There is an urgent need for more families to open their hearts and homes by becoming foster and adoptive parents. To learn more about fostering and adoption, attend an informational meeting on Tuesday, July 12, 2005, at 7:00 p.m. The meeting will be held at the CPS office located at 6200 I-40 West in Amarillo.

Meetings are held on the second Tuesday of every month. For more information, please call 354-6230.

State seeks to honor historic farms, ranches

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs announced that the Texas Department of Agriculture is seeking applications for the 2005 Family Land Heritage Program, which recognizes farms and ranches that have been in continuous agricultural operation by the same family for 100, 150, and 200 years.

Farms and ranches that qualify will be honored during a ceremony in Austin in March 2006. The history of the farm or ranch will be chronicled in the 2005 Family Land Heritage Registry. In addition, honorees can obtain historic farm or ranch signage for their property.

Program applications are available through TDA, county judges, and on TDA website at www.agr.state.tx.us. Applications are due by November 15.

For more information, contact Family Land Heritage Coordinator Melissa Blair, Texas Department of Agriculture, PO Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711, (512) 43-2631, or melissa.blair@agr.state.tx.us.

Ready for action

Celebration attendance down again

Although City Park seemed crowded last Saturday, indications are that participation was down again for the 127th anniversary Saints' Roost Celebration.

Early morning thunderstorms gave way to sunshine just before the celebration began, and folks enjoyed the cool weather that the rains brought.

The Kids' Parade got things started on Saturday with 13 entries, down from 47 entries last year. Division winners were Bradalyn Ellis, Hannah Flowers, and Shaydee Brown.

The annual Western Parade had 35 entries in four divisions this year which is down from last year's 61 entries. The Chamber of Commerce reports that Greenbelt Electric float won first place in the float division. The Clarendon High School Cheerleaders float placed second. In the Riding division, Logan Lorenzo won first place while the Shriner's Mule-skinners placed second.

In the Antique Vehicles division of the parade, Henry Like won first, and Wendell Luttrell placed second. The Clarendon Firebelles won first place in the Miscellaneous division, and the Sandell Drive-In placed second.

Judges for the parade were Hedley residents Colleen O'Connor, Betty Morgan, and LaRae Shaw.

The Al Morrah Shrine Club

served 794 plates of barbecue this year. In 2004, the Shriners served a little over 800 plates of barbecue, and they served over 1,000 in 2003.

Funds from the annual barbecue are used in conjunction with the Khiva Temple of the Shrine in Amarillo to help pay for transportation of kids to the Shriners' burns and crippled children's hospitals. A local Shrine Club official reported that they lost money on this year's barbecue.

The Old Settlers Reunion was held at the City Park directly following the parade. Muzzy Hayes Duffy traveled the greatest distance, 700 miles, to be there. Viola Barker Graham and George Shields were the oldest man and woman present. Viola Barker Graham was recognized as the person who has lived in Donley County the longest — 88 years.

There were two winners of the Lions Club Cow Patty Bingo — Helen Estlack and Thelma Shields.

At the annual Henson's Turtle Race, 181 turtles competed, which was down slightly from last year's 187 turtles. Jordan Evans won the 0-4 age division. Shayna Smith won first place in the 5-8 division. Adam Topper won the 9-14 age division.

Denise Bertrand was the lucky winner of the Las Vegas trip given away by the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce during Monday night's rodeo performance.

City aldermen okay paving contract

A divided Board of Aldermen gave the final green light to Clarendon's 2005 paving project when they met June 28.

Clarendon Economic Development Corporation Board President Jerry Woodard addressed the aldermen and sought the city's approval to amend the CEDC budget to allow $100,000 in economic development funds to be spent on the streets.

Woodard's request was approved 3-2 with Aldermen Tommy Hill and Michael Tibbets opposed to the measure.

The board then voted 3-2 to approve the paving contract with B&B Solvent with work to be completed within 180 days. Aldermen Tommy Hill and Michael Tibbets were again opposed.

Board members asked Hill and Tibbets about their opposition. They cited the cost of the project and expressed a desire to wait a year and bid again. Other board members noted the price of paving has continued to increase and would again next year. Woodard urged the board to act for the betterment of the city and noted that there will never be a time when everything is perfect in everybody's opinion.

"If we don't do anything, we'll be left behind," he said. "We're already 20 years behind. I want to see the town go forward. We cannot let the town continue to go backward."

Construction on the streets is expected to begin early this month after engineers hold a pre-construction meeting with the contractor.

In other city business, Dee Dee Autry addressed the board concerning her interest in the city annexing rural lodging establishments under the city's motel bed tax. The city cannot do this, but Autry said that the Bar H Dude Ranch and her Ace No. 8 Bed & Breakfast would be willing to voluntarily collect the tax in order to help promote tourism in Donley County.

Autry also represented the Texas Plains Trail which is preparing a regional tourism promotion. The board approved $500 from the motel bed tax fund for this project.

Donna Hicks presented her annual report for the Local Housing Authority to the board. The aldermen commended her and her staff for the work they do.

City Administrator Sean Pate discussed problems with one of the city's trash trucks, which needs a new engine. He also updated the board on the activities getting ready for the Fourth of July.

Turkey team wins top honors at ranch rodeo

A Turkey, Texas, team took top honors during the Clarendon Outdoor Entertainment Association's annual Ranch Rodeo last Friday and Saturday.

COEA officials say both ranch rodeo performances and the dances were well attended this year.

The Spade Ranch's scores beat out 20 other local and regional teams as working cowboys put their skills to the test as part of the 127th anniversary Saints' Roost Celebration. The team was made up of Wes Farley, Andy Falcom, John Bland, Tanner Johnson, and Dakota Falcon.

Finishing second was Clarendon Rafter S Ranch team of Joe Shadle, Brad Shadle, Wes Mason, Randy Crump, and Josey Shadle.

The Bit Ranch of Clarendon was third with the team of Danny Bennett, Teal Bennett, Tate Bennett, and Klay Waters; and Clarendon's Salt Ford Rounders was fourth with the team of Brandon Burton, Will Funderburg, Jr. Crump, Elwin McClesky, and Caleb Brumley.

The top Hand award was won by Tanner Johnson of the Spade Ranch

Team. Wes Mason of Clarendon took home the Top Horse award.

Event winners were as follows: Bronc Riding — Spade Ranch (Friday) and Bit Ranch (Saturday).

Sorting and Doctoring: Spade Ranch (Friday) and Bit Ranch (Saturday).

Cow Milking: Brent Ranch (Friday) and Salt Fork Rounders (Saturday).

Branding: Spade Ranch (Friday) and Rafter S (Saturday).

The Wild Mare Race winners from Friday night were Junior Watson, Will Funderburg, and Chris Downer. Saturday night's winners were Shawn Kennedy, Jerrod Proffit, and Gabe Hill.

Winners of Monday's Ranch Horse Competition were Pat Butler, first place with 150 points; Josh Crumpler, second place with 149 points; and a three way split for third place between Josh Halsell, Seth Chase, and Byron Fields. In the long go around, first place went to Pat Butler, and a split for second was between Josh Crumpler, Josh Halsell, and Nathan Gribble. In the short go around, Pat Butler and Josh Crumpler split first place while Byron Fields won third.

Junior Calf Riding was held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Chad Ferguson won the overall buckle in the event and took first place on Friday night. Parker Bain won Saturday's competition while Kade McClesky took first on Monday.

Clayton Shields was the overall winner of the Junior Steer Riding and took first place Friday and Monday night. Johnny Gaines was the first place winner on Saturday.

The overall Donkey Ride winner was Colton Kingston. Kingston took first place during the Saturday and Monday night performances. Blaine Ellis won the competition on Friday.

Friday night's Calf Scramble winners were Trevor Cobb, Colton Kingston, and Quincy Calloway. Pecos Williams, Jake Karnes, and Johnny Gaines won on Saturday; and Tyler Crump, Danielle Ford, and Billy Cenicerons won Monday.

Beef certificate winners for the three days of rodeo were Junior Hill, Wendy Kent, and Jiggs Mann.

Start planning now for 2006 celebration

The old celebration ain't what she used to be. There. It's out in the open. Now let's talk about it for a moment.

Putting on the Saints' Roost Celebration is no easy task. Several different groups each plan their own thing – sometimes with little communication between them – and somehow the whole thing comes together in the end. But something seems missing. It's just not the same anymore.

Most of us can remember how crowded the Courthouse Square used to be during the Fourth. But the days are long gone when literally thousands – sometimes 10,000 or more – would come to Clarendon for the Fourth.

The only accurate indicator we have for attendance is the barbecue. In 1997, the Al Morrah Shrine Club served more than 1,500 plates. But since the celebration was moved to the City Park in 2001, the number of plates served has topped 1,000 only once. Last year the Shrine Club struggled to break even, and this year it hit a new low of 794. They will likely lose money this year.

The Chamber of Commerce at least deserves some credit for trying to do something different this year. They took a lot of heat for changing the parade from the traditional 2 p.m. to 10 a.m., but there have been some positive comments made about it being cooler. But unfortunately, the move did disrupt other activities.

So what can we do to turn things around? Planning and communication seems to be the thing that is lacking the most. If we want to have a successful celebration next year, planning needs to start right away. We can start with three simple things.

First, and the ENTERPRISE is at least partly to blame for this one, we need to come to an agreement about which celebration we're having. This year was billed as the 127th annual celebration. But in point of fact, it was the 128th. Previously, we had been figuring this by taking the current year and subtracting 1878. That works great for anniversaries and birthdays, but in this case you have to add one because the first celebration was July 4, 1878. Next year, therefore, will properly be the 129th annual Saints' Roost Celebration.

Second, I don't see anything wrong with deciding now what the dates will be for the 2006 celebration? Heck, the Texas Press Association can tell you right now when and where every annual TPA convention will be through 2009. Surely, we can think a year into the future. Personally, I vote for July 4.

Sure, I know it's a radical idea to celebrate American independence on Independence Day, but I think it could work. Besides, we're all off work that day anyway. This year we could have started the celebration on Friday or Saturday and kept local motels full through Monday.

This idea that we have to have the celebration on a Saturday is just nonsense. The barbecue numbers don't show that Saturday is any better than any other day. Four years ago we held the celebration on the seventh of July just so it'd be on a Saturday. That's nuts.

And finally, I think it's way past time for the celebration to return to the Courthouse Square. The most successful celebration we've had in the last four years was in 2003 when we rededicated the Courthouse. Opening the building for tours could itself draw more people to the celebration. And also, when the county applied for the grant to restore the Courthouse, the tradition of the July Fourth celebration was given as an example of how important the building was and is to the community.

Those are my thoughts. What are yours? Maybe we need a central committee to put the thing on, maybe we need better marketing, or maybe we just need one gigantic fireworks display at the close of the July 4th rodeo. Send us your cards and letters. Tell us what you think of the Saints' Roost Celebration. What do you like or not like? What are your fondest memories of the celebration, and what do you miss the most?

Meanwhile...

"I keep thinking they'll tell me I'm too old and that they want a younger man on the door, but they haven't said that yet."

That was Willard Skelton during an interview in 2000 on his more than 50 years of service as an usher on the south door of Clarendon's First United Methodist Church. Nobody ever told Willard to stop, and he didn't. But this last Sunday he wasn't there. Now, the church will have to find a new man for that door.

In a world where so many things are transitory, Willard was a constant and reliable man. And he was faithful in all he did. I count myself as lucky for having known him and for having him as a friend.

Willard was a character to be sure. He had a good wit about him, and there was one thing I learned quickly while serving with him on the museum board. It didn't matter what time the meeting was going to be over; we might as well end it at 6:00 p.m. sharp because Willard was leaving for supper then.

Willard was a vault of local history, and he gladly opened that vault for anyone who was willing to listen. Perhaps that's what made him so devoted to the Saints' Roost Museum, its development, and its mission. How many school children did he take on tours? How many people's lives did he touch with his vast knowledge of our heritage? We will never know.

Clarendon is richer for having had Willard as one of its citizens. We are poorer now without him, but hopefully we can share his love for this community.

Cruise should keep his big mouth shut

This is an open letter to Tom Cruise. Dear Tom Cruise, what are you thinking?

For many, many years I have been a faithful fan and have loved you with all the love that I have in my heart. Even before your nose job I loved you.

You were an important part of my adolescence, the adolescence of an entire generation. You are an icon of American cinema. You're the only actor in history to star in five consecutive films grossing over $100 million in the USA.

You're rich. You're famous. You're gorgeous. Your girlfriend is gorgeous. So, why, why, why are you being an idiot?

I got upset about your criticizing Brooke Shields for taking medication for her post partum depression. For one thing, it was completely none of your business.

But what really chesed me off was your insisting upon referring to Ms. Shields by her first name. Are you related to Brooke Shields? Have you ever been in a movie with Brooke Shields? Did you sit by her on a plane once? What makes you an expert on her personal life, much less an expert on post partum depression?

The day you give birth and have to deal with the very real effects of post partum depression you might have an opinion on that score worth listening to. But until then, you don't.

I was willing to allow you to have your vastly unjust and uneducated opinion until you were mean to Matt Lauer on the Today Show.

Matt Lauer is arguably my favorite morning show personality. Do you remember when he did that segment, "Where in the World is Matt Lauer?" Every morning Matt would be in some random part of the globe – a natural hot spring in Iceland, a rain forest in South America, the World's Biggest Ball of Cheese in Wisconsin.

I would wake up and ask myself, "Where in the world is Matt Lauer?" genuinely worried that maybe he didn't make it to his destination. But there he'd be, morning after morning, jet-lagged but smiling and happy to see me.

How could you? You were on the show to talk about your movie War of the Worlds, but I don't recall hearing you say anything about it. Instead, you took that life's lessons

by carrie helms

chance to shake your head so condescendingly and say, "Matt, Matt, Matt, you don't know what you're talking about. I do."

Tom, Tom, Tom. You got your name in the papers (even THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE), and the whole world is talking about you. It has all the earmarks of an elaborate publicity stunt.

I know you're getting older. I saw Collateral with your gray hair. Your new relationship with starlet Katie Holmes is the perfect way to dust off the old man image and immediately appear younger.

Okay, so you're old, and you're girlfriend is taller than you. You don't have to go to all these lengths for publicity. I was going to see your movie before you opened your big mouth.

I know what's coming next. If your movie flops, you're going to say the world is persecuting you for your religious beliefs and that we're all so blinded by our own prejudices that we can't see the truth.

No, Tom. You are the one guilty of religious persecution. You're persecuting these people because they don't share your belief in the evils of psychiatry.

You want my advice? Wear taller shoes and stop being a jerkface, or I'm never watching Top Gun again.

Energy proposal fosters independence

With oil prices hovering around $60 a barrel, the price for petroleum is over 50 percent higher now than it was last year. Energy affects every part of an industrial economy, from manufacturing and transportation to services. Petroleum is also the source from which we create plastics, adhesives and light-weight composite materials.

High oil prices have occurred in large part because of a tightening supply and increasing demand. China and India alone account for the majority of the increase in world demand. Consumers in the United States are feeling the effect of higher energy prices worldwide because we are increasingly dependent upon imports. The American Petroleum Institute's latest data shows we depend on imports for 64.3 percent of our petroleum needs. In 1973, when an OPEC oil embargo hammered the U.S. economy, we were importing 28 percent of our oil.

Petroleum imports are rising because our domestic production is declining.

The importance of a comprehensive energy bill cannot be overstated. It provides a roadmap for greater energy independence which will make us less vulnerable to price swings. The bill encourages domestic production, improves conservation efforts and promotes renewable sources of energy. This is good for consumers, for businesses and for the environment.

To boost domestic production, the bill streamlines oil and gas development on existing federal lease sites to bring fuel to market sooner. It seeks to diversify our capitol comment

by sen. kay bailey hutchison

sources of energy to give us flexibility and adaptability. It does this by stimulating use of clean nuclear power, providing incentives for solar, wind and geothermal energy. The bill requires fuel manufacturers to use eight billion gallons of ethanol in gasoline by 2012.

An ambitious program to design and use clean coal burning technologies will help America use its 250-year supply of coal in environmentally safe power plants. A program researching the use of clean-burning hydrogen in cars is included in the legislation as well as provisions and mandates to encourage utilities to expand, modernize and improve the reliability of the electric power grid.

I have long argued that our nation needs a coherent energy policy. I am gratified that the Senate has, at long last, passed this important and necessary bill.

Values still mean something in Clarendon

I want to brag on our Community and the people in it. The Cherry family had their annual reunion on Father's Day at the Bar H Dude Ranch. Frank, Terri, and Deedee took such good care of us while we were guests there, and the food was delicious. However, their job did not stop after we had all departed. Frank, Terri, and Deedee retrieved lost cameras, glasses, and Tupperware and brought these to me so I could get them to each family member. The realities were so appreciative to have their possessions back and sent high praise for their stay at the Dude Ranch.

My aunt from Midland has special praise for Tina Hardy, Anne Thornton, and Ina Hardy at Allsups, as well as Barbara Hill at Clarendon Insurance. She left her billfold with credit cards, cash, driver's license, etc. at Allsups when they stopped for directions to the Dude Ranch. Tina immediately identified the wallet, and her boss Ann Thornton placed it in the safe until they could return it to the owner. Barbara Hill told them who my Aunt's relatives were here in Clarendon, and I was contacted, and Ina Hardy gave the billfold to me to mail to my aunt. My aunt responded upon receiving her billfold with there is still honest, caring young people in this world.

Next time you see these people, give them a pat on the back. Remember to thank God you live in a small town like Clarendon where values still mean something.

Reader remembers flood

I loved the 1934 pictures of the flood at Clarendon since I was there (five years old) with my grandfather and grandmother, Otie and Dovie Meador, and my sister, Geraldine Foster Holland. We had to climb on top of the car and watched as the chairs floated out of the church near the viaduct that runs thru town. I believe we were behind what is now Henson's.

Former resident wonders what's happened to home

Just a card to say how nice it was to see family and friends on our visit home to Clarendon.

I must comment how shocked I was to find Kearney Street very empty (My favorite pizza place closed.) although the college seems to be growing and expanding.

I really hope the community turns around. It was a real pain to go to Amarillo every time we needed something. What's happened to my hometown?

I thought it was great Stavenhagen was back on Kearney Street. Hopefully more will follow their example.

Supreme Court rules wrong on commandments case

I believe the Supreme Court's decision on the Ten Commandments on the Texas Capitol grounds is wrong. This monument is unconstitutional and unethical because it promotes a particular religion with its elitist statement, "I am the Lord thy God; thou shalt have no other God before me." That 6-foot granite is blocking the political and social progress this country desperately needs.

The Justices are obviously influenced by fundamentalist Republicans who are selfishly clinging to their power and backwards ideas. To me, the monument and the American flag symbolize the near-annihilation of Native Americans and the continuing ignorance and intolerance of others. We need an administration that is willing to deal with reality and not one that lives in a cozy rosy bubble.

Hospital district reschedules hearing on budget after public notice error

The Donley County Hospital District board approved a temporary spending motion last Friday after a public notice error prevented the adoption of the 2005-06 budget.

"We lacked a day having the proper notice given to hold the budget hearing," board president Alan Fletcher said. "We just counted wrong."

The district thought its notice in the Thursday, June 23, edition of THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE gave it the required ten-days notice to hold a hearing on July 1 since the paper came out on Wednesday, June 22. But the ENTERPRISE is legally a Thursday paper under its periodicals postage permit, and all public notices must be published according to that date.

The district rescheduled its budget hearing for its next regular board meeting on July 19.

In other district business during Friday's called meeting, the board accepted the resignation of board member Pat McAnear and appointed Gene Hommel to take her place.

The board approved Medical Center Nursing Home's having a poker run to raise funds to benefit the residents. The board also authorized several employee policy changes as presented by administrator in-training Vicky Robertson.

During the open forum, publisher Roger Estlack spoke concerning a legal opinion obtained by board president Alan Fletcher which has restricted the use of district funds for advertising and promotion.

"You can't keep the nursing home open if you don't keep the beds full," Estlack said, "and you can't fill the beds if you don't advertise and keep a positive image in the community."

Estlack said he had talked with another hospital district that said advertising is definitely legal and a reimbursable expense under Medicare. He encouraged the district to look at the issue again in light of its pending certification as a Medicare facility and said the board should consider getting an Attorney General's opinion on the matter.

Some board members said they felt advertising was important and proper. Fletcher said he would look into an Attorney General's opinion and said decreases in the promotion lines of the proposed budgets were not targeted at the newspaper but were rather an indication of how tight the district's finances are.

"We're in a catch 22 where we need to advertise, but the advertising cost may sink us," he said.

Child safety seat check available from DPS

Senior Trooper Daniel Hawthorne with the Safety Education and Public Information office of the Texas Highway Patrol will be offering child passenger safety training programs this summer at the DPS office in Childress by appointment.

Trooper Hawthorne is a certified child safety seat technician.

This service is provided by the State of Texas at no cost to the public. Appointments will take approximately one to one and a half hours. You will need to be driving the car that the car seat will be placed in. It is preferable that the child is with you so that the seat can be properly adjusted to the size of each individual child. It also helps to bring someone along that can keep the child occupied during the instruction.

Sunscreen protects against skin cancer

If you plan to spend even 20 minutes outdoors on any given day, you should apply sun screen. Make it a habit to apply sunscreen as part of your "beginning-of-the-day" ritual. When you're done applying your own sunscreen, apply it on your kids.

Children's skin is delicate and needs protection, and they need time outdoors being active. You don't have to keep your kids indoors, but you do need to apply sunscreen and try to keep them out of the sun during peak UV exposure hours (10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) when possible. Always be careful not to get sunscreen into the eyes during application, as this can cause irritation.

The only exception to wearing sunscreen is children under 6 months of age. Do not use sunscreen on children under 6 months of age. Sunscreen can irritate infant's skin.

When outdoors, try to keep children under 6 months of age in the shade, out of direct sunlight. Place them in light-weight, long sleeve shirts and pants to cover their skin, while avoiding over-heating. Cover their heads with a wide-brimmed hat, and use infant sunglasses with 99*100% UV protection because infant's developing eyes are particularly vulnerable.

One of the biggest mistakes we make when it comes to sunscreen use is that we don't use enough. To get the maximum protection from sunscreen, one ounce - one large handful or enough to fill a shot glass - is the amount needed to cover the exposed areas of the body properly.

Think about the areas of your body exposed to the sun. In the summertime, even more areas are exposed when wearing shorts, short sleeves, or bathing suits. Use sunscreen liberally, uniformly, and thickly to cover all exposed areas.

Pay special attention to covering the face, ears, neck, etc. so as not to miss a spot. A missed area can mean a patchy area of painful sunburn. Also, be sure to use a lip balm with sunscreen SPF 15 or higher to avoid damage to the lips.

Another crucial step in correct sunscreen use is reapplication. Sunscreen should be reapplied at least every 2 hours. If activities involve water or heavy perspiration, a water-resistant sunscreen is recommended. You will still need to reapply sunscreen every 2 hours or more often if you towel dry or rub off the sunscreen in any way.

When choosing a sunscreen, ideally it should be water-resistant so that it cannot be easily removed by sweating or swimming. These sun-screens stay on the skin longer even if they get wet, but they are not actually "waterproof" since no product is completely waterproof. Rather, they should be labeled as "water-resistant" or "very water-resistant." In testing procedures, "water-resistant" sunscreen retains its SPF after 40 minutes of sweating/perspiring or water activity; "very water-resistant" sunscreen retains its SPF after 80 minutes (1 1/2 hours) of sweating/perspiring or water activity. Like other types of sunscreen, water-resistant sunscreens still need to be reapplied often when sweating or swimming, and especially after towel drying when it can be rubbed off. Check the product label for reapplication directions.

Lemley to attend leadership summit in Washington, DC

Regan Lemley, a student at Clarendon High School, will join a select group of students representing their schools, communities, and states as People to People student leaders.

Lemley

Lemley has been accepted into the People to People Leadership Summit in Washington, DC on June 27-July 6, 2005.

All students accepted into a People to People program must meet rigorous academic and leadership requirements.

Lemley was nominated and accepted for the honor based on outstanding scholastic merit, civic involvement, and leadership potential.

The People to People Future Leaders Summits on law, medicine, leadership, theater, and the arts and international diplomacy bring together outstanding student leaders from around the globe to focus on leadership, team building, community service, college admissions, and professional aspirations. Students work on an action plan to make a difference in their communities, develop skills to help them lead tomorrow's world, and build their college resumes, while earning academic and service-learning credit.

Participants also gain insights to guide their educational and professional careers, and benefit from a strong focus on college admissions. Through workshops, presentations, excursions, and discussions, student leaders attain a clear advantage as they pursue and fine-tune their selected fields of interest.

Students will have the opportunity to meet with admissions officers and receive valuable advice for navigating the college application process. In some locations, students will be able to tour several area universities.

The 2005 People to People Future Leaders Summits will convene at Columbia University, Georgetown University, John Hopkins University, and University of California at Los Angeles.

Lemley is the daughter of Joe and Rose Lemley of Clarendon.

Harrington Cancer Center receives gift from Caldwell

The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center recently received a generous gift of $50,000 from Genevieve Caldwell of Amarillo. Designated for Supportive Care Services, it will help to insure the unique quality of the supportive care services programs.

Harrington Cancer Center's Supportive Care Services is one of the key reasons why this cancer center is unique to those that it serves throughout the High Plains. Often the diagnosis of cancer is a life changing event, not only on an emotional basis, but on a financial basis.

Supportive Care is a team of professionals that include social work, counseling and therapeutic services, nutritional programs, and volunteer services (composed of five highly trained and academically accredited individuals) who work one-on-one with patients and their families to address the psychosocial needs, such as coping and emotional needs, daily living needs, and financial concerns. Supportive Care makes a difference in the quality of life for their patients and their families.

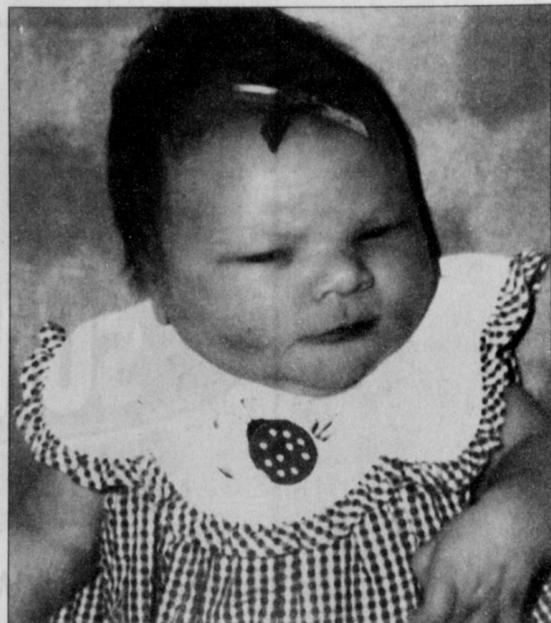

These special services are not reimbursed by Medicare, Medicaid, medical insurance programs, and plans, or other third-party payers.

"Due to the generosity of a number of donors, led by the important gift from Genevieve Caldwell, the Cancer Center is able to continue to provide such services to our patients and families of the High Plains," said JD Graham, Chair of the Cancer Center's External Relations Committee.

Born and reared on the Britt Ranch, east of Wheeler in the Eastern Texas Panhandle, Genevieve has been a passionate supporter of the Harrington Cancer Center, serving on the Board of Directors, the Board of Trustees, Chair of the "Stars at Night Gala," Chair of the Race for the Cure, as well as a long time volunteer, along with her husband T.M. "Red" Caldwell. Genevieve was recently recognized as one of the "Women who are making a difference in Philanthropy" through the Association of Fundraising Professionals, Texas Plains Chapter. A long time supporter of the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center, Southwestern University, and the cultural and performing arts, her philanthropy has been felt throughout the Texas Panhandle.

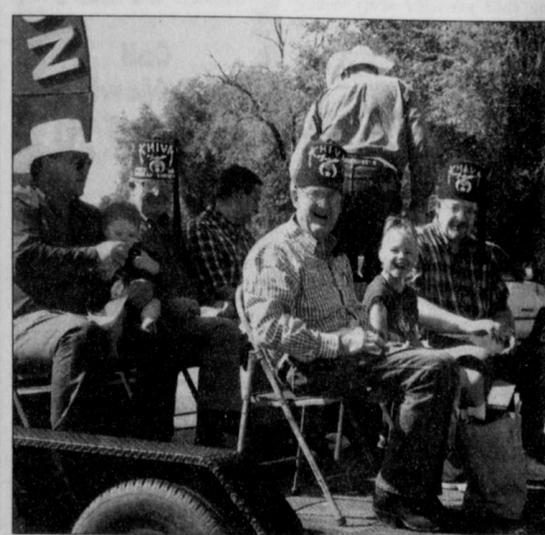

"Through leadership, volunteer commitment, and philanthropy, Genevieve's dedicated commitment insures exceptional compassionate care for our patients," said Joe Bill Sherrod, Chair of the Harrington Cancer Center Board.

Obituaries

Skelton

Funeral services for Willard H. Skelton, age 88, were held at 1:00 p.m. on Tuesday, July 5, 2005, in the First United Methodist Church with Rev. Terry Tamplen of Odessa, officiating. Burial was held at Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon with Masonic Graveside Rites by Clarendon Masonic Lodge #700. Arrangements were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

Mr. Skelton died Saturday, July 2, 2005, in Clarendon. He was born to Mamie and Luther Skelton on October 7, 1916. He married Frances Sanford on July 30, 1937. Willard served in the Medical Corps of the US Navy and was stationed in San Diego, California. After discharge, he traveled the Panhandle for 30 years for Bennets Printing Company of Dallas. He never forgot a customer and looked forward to seeing each of them. He loved people. Mr. Skelton joined the First United Methodist Church in 1924. He greeted everyone who entered the south door each Sunday, was an usher, and was appointed to many committees. He and his wife organized the Fellowship Sunday School Class in 1977 and it is still very active. Mr. Skelton was an election judge for 35 years and was active in local politics. He was a director of the Saints' Roost Museum for 20 years. He served on the school board, was a city commissioner, on the library board, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and was selected as Pioneer Man of the Year. He joined the Masonic Lodge at the age of 22, was Past Master, and served as secretary for 15 years. He had received the Golden Trowel Award. He loved to travel and play golf.

He was preceded in death by his parents; three brothers, Durwood, Cecil, and Fred; and one granddaughter, Graham Davidson of Vermont.

Survivors include his wife, Frances of Clarendon; two daughters, Paula Odom and husband Gene of Aledo and Candace Scarborough and husband Charles of Abilene; one son, Sanford K. Skelton of Austin; one brother, Bob Skelton of Amarillo; one nephew, Durwood Skelton of Midland; ten grandchildren; eleven great grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

The family suggests memorials be to the Saints' Roost Museum or the First United Methodist Church, both in Clarendon.

St. Mary's planning

Vacation Bible School

St. Mary's Catholic Church, located on the corner of Montgomery and McClelland in Clarendon, will hold Vacation Bible School on July 11-13 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

They would like to invite children from the ages of 5 to 10 years old to come and experience what God created under water through crafts, games, worship songs, and Bible lessons. They will provide food, fun, and fellowship for the children. Each child must have a signed permission slip which will be available at the Bible school.

For more information, call 336-0926 or 664-7962.

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting July 5, 2005, with Boss Lion-elect Mark C. White in charge.

We had 14 members and one guest - Ashlee Estlack, guest of Lion Roger Estlack.

With no business and small and dwindling audience (due to vacations and a pending funeral), the Boss Lion called for a quick motion to adjourn, which was made, seconded and approved.

Cow Patty Bingo winners were Helen Estlack and Thelma Shields. We appreciate everyone who helped with this fundraiser.

Tree book identifies 135 different trees

"What Tree Is That?," a pocket guide for identifying trees is now available from the National Arbor Day Foundation.

The 72-page guide will help you identify 135 different trees found in the eastern and central US.

Well-known trees are included: oaks, maples, spruces, and pines. Also species such as horsechestnut, mookernut hickory, sassafras, shadbush, persimmon, pawpaw, pagoda-tree, and pecan.

Dozens of drawings illustrate the trees' leaves or needles and their acorns, berries, seedpods, cones, and other identifying features. "What Tree Is That?" is organized to make it easy to identify trees in a simple step-by-step fashion.

"Helping people enjoy and appreciate trees is central to the educational mission of the Arbor Day Foundation," John Rose-now, the Foundation's president, said.

To obtain your tree ID guide, send your name and address and $3 to "What Tree Is That?," The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410. Or go online to arborday.org.

Researchers show how to settle the dust

AMARILLO – The merger of research and applied technology was demonstrated here this week during the quarterly meeting of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agriculture Air Quality Task Force.

Bruce Knight, Natural Resources Conservation Service chief and task force chair in Washington, D.C., said the Texas High Plains is the epicenter of air quality research. The task force came to see how this region's unique issues and priorities are being addressed, he said.

Created in 1996, the task force advises the Secretary of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency on air quality issues, science, and policy. Knight leads the 30-member team, which includes scientists and engineers from throughout the United States.

The task force witnesses air quality concerns around the country, Knight said. In this region, the challenge caused by dust stirred up in the evenings by cattle, coupled with reduced dispersion conditions, is of interest.

"We're looking for liveable, affordable controls of dust that allow feedlots to be a good neighbor to those downwind," Knight said. In the Midwest, odor around hog facilities is a major concern. California has a wide range of air quality issues, including diesel engines, pesticides, and livestock, he said, and the Northwest is concerned with emissions from grass burning.

Ben Weinheimer, Texas Cattle Feeders Association regulatory manager in Amarillo, said the task force is the "voice of sound science." By hosting the group here, he said, "we hope to give these scientists and engineers a better understanding of crop and livestock production here."

For example, he said, a proposed regulation for particulate matter – dust – could have far-reaching effects on the feed yard industry.

"If we end up with a PM (particulate matter) coarse standard not based on good data, potentially feed yards and other agriculture operations would be subject to violations and fines from regulatory agencies inappropriately," Weinheimer said.

"Our preference on managing air quality issues is to focus on appropriate best management practices," he said. "No one should expect zero emissions, only that the emissions would be minimized."

The importance of the task force is to be the voice to carry the message to the Secretary of Agriculture and to EPA, Weinheimer said.

"In many ways, this basket of air quality issues in 2005 is where water quality was 20 years ago and soil erosion was 70 years ago," Knight said. "It represents the changing priorities of society."

Both the industry and researchers are recognizing the impact some agricultural practices may have on communities and "are making real progress" in addressing those issues, he said. "What we're seeing is years and years of research being applied on the ground," Knight said.

The task force members toured three area feedlots, where they saw a water curtain, sprinkler systems, and frequent surface manure removal all being utilized for dust control. They also visited a recently built dairy and cotton gin to talk about air quality concerns.

Dr. John Sweeten, Texas A&M University System Agricultural

Research and Extension Center director of research here, said, "We've been trying to illustrate that concentrated animal feeding operations are being designed and managed in a manner that is consistent with air quality regulations."

The multi-agency, multi-disciplinary research is characterizing particulate and gaseous emissions, developing effective and economical abatement measures, and developing a scientific basis for emission factors that EPA can utilize, Sweeten said.

The tour, he said, demonstrated producer adoption of several NRCS Environmental Quality Incentives Program cost-share practices for feed yard dust abatement. These practices include solid-set sprinklers and/or frequent manure collection.

Viewing research and demonstrations allows the task force to better comprehend current and future air quality policy, and see management practices that allow producers to meet those policies, Sweeten said.

"We are making a difference," Knight said. "But it is important to realize it's one feedlot at a time, one farm at a time."

CCC plans Two-Man Scramble

By Sandy Aderberg

The Clarendon Country Club will be hosting a Two-Man Scramble July 9-10. The entry fee for the two-day tournament is $140 per team plus the price of a cart. Tee times will be at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday. Space is still available for the tournament, and you may enter by calling the Pro Shop.

The team of Jeff Duncan, Wanda Nazworth, Gary Bohr, and Bobby Dodson were six under par to win the Friday night scramble. Four other teams participated in the nine-hole event.

Ruth Jackson was the winner of the weekly women's game with a 67. Sherol Johnston and Quida Gage tied for second, shooting a 68. Bobby Dodson's 66 earned him first place in the weekly men's game, and Dan Ashford and George Washington tied for second with a 67. Ashford also shot his age on 18 holes with an 83.

The CCC is offering swimming memberships this summer at a price of $50 per family per month for the months of July and August and the pool and grill are open throughout the week.

A nine-hole scramble will be held each Friday night at 6:00 with no carry-overs, as the scramble will pay off each Friday night. Call the Pro Shop to enter before 5:30 p.m. on Friday.

All are encouraged to come out and participate in the scramble and be sure to take advantage of the Friday special that gives you free green fees with the purchase of a cart rental. For more information, call the Pro Shop at 874-2166.

Drugs in the News

Prescription Drug Approved: New Name for an Existing Drug

Last month, a popular prescription drug was approved for a new and different use. The new name for this drug is Revatio. The drug in the form of a white oral tablet, which is expected to be in pharmacies by this name soon, contains sildenafil citrate, the same active ingredient as is in Viagra, a popular drug used for erectile dysfunction.

The Food and Drug Administration approved Revatio for pulmonary arterial hypertension, a rare, but serious and usually life-shortening medical condition. The approval was largely based on results of a study involving 277 people. Study participants were given either Revatio or placebo (fake drug). Their ability to exercise was then measured. According to news releases about the study, those who received Revatio experienced significant improvements in their ability to complete the required six minute walk distance, a test given to all study participants.

They also experienced improvements in the blood pressure inside the pulmonary artery and also improved with regard to some measurements of heart function.
