YARD OF THE WEEK for this week belongs to Bronnie McNabb. The yard is located at 417 W. 5th. The nomination was submitted by Dr. Zelle SoRelle.

Nominations Sought For Top Rural Minister

The rural minister might be considered an "unsung hero" by many Texans, and where that's the case, they have an opportunity to bring some special recognition to that individual.

The search has begun for Texas' most outstanding rural minister for 1989.

The award is presented each year by the Progressive Farmer magazine at the annual Town and Country Church Conference at Texas A & M University. This year's conference will be Oct. 2 through 3.

The conference is an educational program for rural and small town ministers and lay leaders and is conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Rural ministers have a high calling and must deal with a wide range of challenges," said Dr. David Ruesink, a sociologist with the Extension Service and church conference coordinator. "Many of these ministers must deal with a variety of cultures and certain issues and concerns unique to small communities."

"For example, much of rural Texas has been hard hit by the farm recession the past few years," Ruesink said. "Rural ministers have played a key role in helping families in these communities learn to cope and to survive."

County Extension Service offices have details on how to submit nominations for the Rural Minister of the Year Award, Ruesink said. Nominations must include a record book that tells the story of what the minister has done for his congregation as well as the entire community.

"It's important to focus on the impact that the minister has had within his congregation and the community as a whole," Ruesink said. "How has he made a difference? How have the people benefitted from his efforts? How has he molded the people together to fulfill their religious as well as their community needs?"

To be eligible for the award, a minister must serve a congregation in a rural community or town of less than 10,000 population, and he must have served that congregation at least two years.

Nominations must be submitted by August 15 to the Texas Rural Minister of the Year Committee, Dept. of Rural Sociology, Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2125.

Need a Grant?

What's the most important step in gaining a college grant? You must apply. But where should you apply? You should apply where there is less competition and more favoritism.

To make such information available to Texas residents Student College Aid researched and published "Texas Scholarships Foundation Sources". In this booklet are listed approximately 100 granting foundation sources just for Texans. SCA is a nationwide, computerized scholarship locator service established in 1980.

The booklet tells you when, how and where to apply for these grants. The money is out there waiting to be claimed. But you must apply to be eligible to receive an award. Deadline application dates vary, so the sooner you apply the less likely you are to miss the deadlines.

If you're a Texan, this booklet will also tell you how to save hundreds or thousands of dollars on a college education. Whether you are rich, poor or in between you will probably borrow money for a college education. You need to know where to borrow at lower than commercial rates with a ten year payback. The where and how are explained in this book.

The price of this booklet is $10.00 including $1.75 postage and handling. Satisfaction is guaranteed or your purchase price is refunded. To order or request more information write SCA, 2525 Murworth Suite 207, Houston 77054 or phone (713)668-7899.

church of Christ To Host "Bible Times Extravaganza"

This Saturday, August 5th, a new and unique concept in religious education will be used by the church of Christ in Clarendon. The traditional Vacation Bible School is being replaced by a one day Bible Times Extravaganza. There will be no graded classes, books, papers or pencils used. The learning will be created through total experiential activities.

Children, between the ages of 4 and 12, will be grouped into the various "Tribes of Israel" and each given their own Bible costume to wear for the day. They will then be transported back in time, more than 4,000 years. There they will discover life as it was for God's people in the Old Testament. More than 70 Bible characters in complete wardrobe will help guide them through "The Life and Times of Moses" as they learn about the great power of our Almighty God. They will see God's people in Egyptian captivity and witness the

Weather Takes Toll On Texas Cotton

From the High Plains to the Coastal Bend, unfavorable weather is taking a heavy toll on the Texas cotton crop.

In some areas, it's a matter of too little rainfall, while in others it's too much moisture, hail or wind which is causing the problem for the state's $1.3 billion cash crop.

Parts of the state have been spared--up to now--from the erratic weather. Among these areas are the "pima pocket" around El Paso, parts of the Rolling Plains and Central Texas Blacklands and some of the Rio Grande Valley.

But the high production areas of the High Plains and West Texas, which annually account for more than half of the state's cotton crop, literally have taken a beating, report county agents and crop specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The 25 High Plains counties around Lubbock, in which some 2.7 million acres have been planted to cotton, have lost an estimated 200,000 acres to thunderstorms, hail and winds in the last few weeks. Hale County alone lost 100,000 acres of the 190,000 planted a month ago.

Not only the severity, but the timing of recent heavy rains and hail across much of the state has cotton farmers in a squeeze, according to Extension Service cotton specialists.

It is too late to replant cotton and expect it to mature and provide a profitable yield in many of the storm-ravaged areas of the High Plains, said Dr. James Supak, cotton agronomist at Lubbock. Yield expectations decline sharply when cotton plantings are delayed beyond the optimum planting periods. For this reason, farmers participating in federal crop insurance programs aren't required to plant cotton after pre-determined cutoff dates.

On the High Plains, for example, the cutoff dates for counties in the northern sector were June 1-5; those in the central portion were June 5-10, and southern counties had until June 10-15. "Planting cotton after those dates is extremely risky. Farmers who do so are going to be giving up considerable yield potential," Supak said.

Further complicating the producer's plight is a scarcity of potential alternate crops to replace the lost cotton. In many areas, soybeans, mung beans, sesame, sunflower, guar, pinto or blackeyed peas can be grown in the remaining season, but producers need to find a market before committing to those crops, Extension Service specialists said.

In the Rolling Plains, producers had until June 20 to replant and are hoping the storms abate and fields dry out enough to get back in with shorter season cotton varieties, said U.U. Alexander, Extension Service agronomist at Vernon.

In the Coastal Bend and Rio Grande Valley, the problem has been extreme drought. Irrigated fields are in generally fine shape in these areas. But normally high-yielding dryland fields will be lucky to produce half their customary lint, say Dr. John Bremer, Extension Service weed specialist at Corpus Christi, and John W. Norman, Jr., Extension Agent - entomology at Weslaco.

By regions, the Texas cotton situation looks like this:

High Plains--Estimated 200,000 acres of the 2.7 million planted has been lost to heavy rains, severe hail and high winds. Some areas have just gotten enough rain for proper planting or to ensure germination, reported Supak. Acceptable planting dates expired between June 1-15. Possible alternate crops include sesame, soybeans, grain sorghum, sunflower, pintos and blackeyed peas but contracts are limited and some seed of preferred varieties is in short supply.

Rolling Plains--At optimum planting date, May 20-25, much of

Make One Of The Locals Famous

Country magazine has launched a search for "America's No. 1 Country Character", and has contacted The Clarendon Press to request our staff's assistance in this national search.

Our staff is turning this assignment over to you, our readers. We're asking your help in nominating someone from this area for the title.

The national winner will receive a 30 day unlimited ticket on Greyhound or Amtrak, allowing him or her to travel anywhere in the U.S. for a full month to see rural America up close!

And the person who nominated that winner will receive the same, allowing unlimited free travel by train or bus throughout the U.S. for 30 days! Or, the winner or nominator can accept $1,000.00 in cash instead.

A quick read-through of Country's description of the kind of "character" it's looking for in this search leads our staff to believe we may have a few viable candidates right here in our community.

To nominate one of the locals, Country simply requests some details on why you feel this person is "America's No. 1 Country Character", and asks you to enclose a photo of your candidate if at all possible.

You're to enclose a self-addressed, postage-paid return envelope so the editors can get back to you quickly to get more details or to return your material later.

All entries and photos become property of Country magazine, which will feature many of the runners-up in future issues before announcing the national winner at the end of the year.

Send your nomination to: "America's No. 1 Country Character Contest" Country magazine, Box 643, Milwaukee, WI 53201. A sample copy of the magazine is available for $1.

Senior Citizens News

We had a good group at Dance Practice on Monday, July 24th, it was hot, but everyone seem to have a good time.

Tuesday, July 25th we had our July Birthday/Anniversary Party. Forty eight were present to enjoy a delicious pot luck meal and lots of fellowship. Shirley Pitts opened our evening of entertainment with a prayer. Birthday people present were: Thelma Behrens, Bill Meador, Don Wooten, Annie Wooten, Dorothy Pitts and Carl Zyback. Mr. Zyback enjoyed his 92nd birthday on Monday, July 24th. Glynn Helton got the door prize. Fun prizes went to Frank Reid, Dorothy Pitts and Jack Edwards. There was no scheduled program so Jean discussed a letter the Center had received from the State Board of Insurance regarding mailouts designed to obtain sales leads for insurance companies and agents. Following are some inserts from the letter. Senior Citizens, in particular, have been targeted for mailings designed to identify consumers who might respond to sales pitches for medicare supplement, long-term care, life insurance, annuity and certain accident and health insurance policies. "Older Texans should be aware that if they return a card to one of these outfits" "for more information", the next telephone call they receive might very well be from an insurance agent" Wrotenbery said. None of these entities are associated with, endorsed by or are in any way related to Medicare, the Social Security Administration or any federal or state agency. The State Board prepared the list of organizational names used in lead card mailouts primarily from materials submitted to the agencies Advertising Division by consumers and other complainants. This list is on the bulletin board at the Senior Citizens Center.

Another good Musical Jam session on Friday, July 28th. Musicians were Forrest Denton, Maxine Denton, Hugh Neuhaus, Nova Neuhaus, Bill Meador, Lucille Swain and Fred Fortenberry. Travis Griffin is visiting from Globe, Arizona and came by to enjoy the evening with us. We enjoy Travis coming by each summer.

the area was too dry; since then, much of area has been too wet to plant, reported Alexander. About half of planned 600,000 acres was planted on time; some 100,000 acres had to be replanted because of hard rains and hail. Alternate crops include guar, mung beans, sunflower and soybeans, "but we have a problem raising soybeans because of our heat," Alexander said. Much replanting will be done with shorter season cotton varieties.

West Texas--About 50 percent of acreage was lost to severe hail. Dryland areas around Mitchell, Howard, Midland and Nolan counties just got enough rain for planting. Much planting and replanting was occurring at cutoff date.

Cotton around San Angelo escaped hail and looks good; soil profile in that area is full of water, says Charles Stichler, Extension Service agronomist at Ft. Stockton. Alfred Gonzalez, El Paso County Extension agent, said that cotton in that area--all irrigated--has escaped hail damage and is probably five to seven days ahead of schedule; planting there is estimated at 2,500-3,000 acres of short staple and 20,000-30,000 acres of pima.

Blacklands--Most of the 200,000-acre crop is "pretty well on time" and growing well, although rains have caused some replanting, reported Dr. Robert Metzger, Extension Service cotton agronomist at College Station. Hail has been scattered, but some fields in the Dallas area may be under water and be lost. "What's lost won't go back to cotton," Metzger said. Entomologists are concerned about mounting insect pressures.

Winter Garden--The area's 30,000-40,000 acres of cotton, all irrigated and almost all pima, looks good, said Dr. Noble Kearney, Extension Service agronomist at Uvalde. Hot days have the crop progressing well. Hail has been minor. "We're starting to get insect pressure earlier than we thought we would," Kearney said.

Rio Grande Valley--The irrigated crop looks exceptionally good, but dryland acreage is very poor, said John Norman, Extension agent - entomology at Weslaco. The area has some 400,000 acres planted. This is about 200,000 fewer than last year; 125,000 acres is due to planned reduction, with 75,000 due to the extreme drought. Plants are compact and fruit load is good in irrigated fields. Yield is projected at about half last year's 465,000 bales.

Coastal Bend--Prolonged drought in this dryland production area is taking a heavy toll. Farmers are looking at about half their normal production of lint, said Dr. John Bremer, Extension Service weed specialist at Corpus Christi. "Rain now would probably do more harm than good," said Dr. Robert Metzger, Extension Service cotton agronomist at College Station. He said it would cause the plants to throw off young squares and develop new growth at the top, costing producers more to protect the plants from insects than the crop would be worth.

Emergency Loans Available From FmHA

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers or aquaculture operators are available through county offices of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), Marvin Crabtree, FmHA County Supervisor, said today.

Crabtree asked that those who need farm credit as a result of damages and losses caused by tornadoes, flooding, severe storms which began May 4, 1989, make their needs known at the Farmers Home Administration office at 321 South Sully, Clarendon.

Applications for assistance in the disaster stricken counties will be accepted by Farmers Home until February 26, 1990 for physical and production losses.

FmHA loans covering actual physical and production losses may be used to replace installations, equipment or buildings (including homes) lost through this disaster. Funds may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to meet interest and depreciation payments on current real estate and chattel debts.

"Funds can be used for essential operating and living costs," Crabtree said.

Applicants that certify that other credit is not available may receive loans covering actual losses at an interest rate of 4.5 percent and are scheduled for repayment as rapidly as feasible consistent with the applicant's ability to pay.

To be eligible for an emergency loan, an applicant must have suffered losses from the disaster.

nishing Material & Supplies; Special Lighting and Sound Effects; Painting; Art Work; etc...all in an effort to make Extravaganza as authentic as possible.

All of the teaching done by the story tellers, drama players, shop keepers and craftsmen will be completely non-denominational in content. Says Phil Stroud, minister of the church, "We only want to share God's Word, the Bible, with people in a meaningful way. We are not interested in teaching church tradition!" The Education Ministry of the church is striving to make this kind of teaching, total experiential involvement, a regular feature in its teaching program throughout the year.

All children in Clarendon and Donley County are invited to come participate in this exciting learning experience. Extravaganza starts at 9 a.m. and will end at 3 p.m. It is free of charge and a lunch, as well as refreshments throughout the day, will be furnished. All children who attend Extravaganza on Saturday are invited to bring their parents to a Special Extravaganza Open House on Sunday Morning at 9:30 a.m. to share with them all that they learned and experienced!

Deuteronomy 6:7-9

Family Secrets by Mack Garrison

The five of them sat down at the dinner table. Dad took the head seat. Mom cozied in at the other end. The two sisters took their places with their backs to the wall. The one little boy crooked his body in his chair sideways then backward and finally pushing his feet out in front, with a little help from Mom, chinned up to the cloth covered wooden bench covered with deliciously filled dishes. "What's for supper Mom!?", spouted the little boy.

"Open your eyes and see!" returned the youngest of the sisters.

"That's enough", growled Dad. "Let's pray."

And the daily family ritual took place once again.

What odd things would a stranger see and hear if he were to spend one day in your house with your family? What would a foreigner think if he were to observe the happenings of an American family for one day? Or how would it feel to be a total outsider sitting among a family you didn't know at all? It's hard and sometimes painful being a stranger. Not knowing anyone around you and feeling left out.

Every family has its own secrets. The things that only the daughter tells the Mother and the things that only the son tells the Father. These things are hidden from the stranger. These things would probably seem very odd indeed to the outsider.

Do you feel like a stranger when you go to church? Do you often wonder just what's going on? Do you sometimes think there is a secret floating around that no one is willing to share with you?

A stranger is denied a share in the little familiarities and secrets of a family. No one in the family is willing to take him into the delightful confidence of its innermost secrets. In the same manner, the unregenerate are excluded from the sweet, inner experiences and knowledge of the secrets of God which He entrusts to the members of His household. Ps.25:14 declares that "the secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him; and He will show them His covenant" Truly, therefore, there are secrets that only the children of God know and have the capacity of grasping or understanding the deep things of God. I Cor.2:14 states, "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

When the spiritual things are talked about among God's people and you feel aloof, as a man forced to look in through a window while the warm, tender fellowship unfolds inside, maybe it would be worth asking yourself: "Am I really a member of God's family? Do I understand the secret things of God or do I even care?" Being a member of a church or organization never brought salvation to anyone but Jesus Christ does.

Picture if you will a magnificent golden table. At the head is the only true Ancient of Days. The Lord God Almighty. At His right hand is the Son lifted up with glory and honor. And across from Him is the daughter of Zion, the bride of Christ adorned as on her wedding day, sitting with her back against a wall of massive angels. Now picture if you will seeing this from outside through a window. Alone, you can see them but they can't see you.

You weep. Trust in Jesus now. In His shed blood and become a true member of the family of God. And when you do, Jesus Himself will bend down to your heart and whisper in your ear "the family secrets."

Thursday, August 3, 1989

Hedley News

Mrs. Ola Eppers was taken to the Childress Hospital Saturday by her daughter, Jonnie Wilson. Jonnie reported that she was slightly improved Monday morning.

Little Rachael Lackey has been quite ill lately. She was also in the Childress hospital. We are happy to report that she is home and feeling much better.

Visiting in Katy Stone's home July 17-26 were Mrs. Elva Lisenbee and daughter June Lisenbee from Waco. Mrs. Lisenbee's husband Cecil was pastor of First Baptist Church, Hedley, from 1948 to 1951. Bro. Lisenbee had a severe stroke while in the pulpit at Hedley. He was taken to the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Amarillo, then transferred to a Waco hospital, where he passed away on October 15, 1958. During his long illness, he was named Pastor Emeritus of the Hedley church. Mrs. Lisenbee and June have lived in Waco since his death, but like to come back to Hedley, attend church, and visit friends. The Lisenbees and Katy were invited to Otis and Esther Owens' home for lunch. They also lunched with them one day at the Senior Citizens Center. A meal with Annie Mae Sims at Big Mom's Cafe was enjoyed. On Monday night, Billie Hunsucker hosted the group, along with Joyce Boliver. They visited in Billie's beautiful backyard. Connie Solis prepared enchiladas one evening. Linda Hoover brought food during the visit, and Opal Murray brought drinking water from her well and visited for a while. Dot Messer also visited in Katy's home. Several others the Lisenbees wanted to visit were out of town. They hope to be able to come back next year. All the good food and the fellowship were certainly enjoyed.

After Katy's company left for Waco, she was surprised by a visit from her great-nephew Huston Leach, wife Billie, and their granddaughter from Coshatta, Mississippi. Huston is a retired Alaska Airlines captain. He visited Hedley in 1952 while stationed in Amarillo.

Several youth from First Baptist Church returned from Panfork Encampment on Thursday. Attending camp were Pastor Rob Lackey, Amanda Ward, Kevin Johnson, Angie Longan, Stephen Carson, David Neeley, and Jamie Fry.

Pauline Leggett spent last week in Arlington with her cousin Georgia Wright. They visited with Georgia's mother, Maggie Keeton. Mrs. Keeton is the last living family member of Agnes Boliver, Pauline's mother. Mrs. Keeton is ninety-four years old, and is in remarkable physical and mental condition.

The Hedley Senior Citizens News

We've had a successful month. Our attendance has been good for both our meal program and our social program. I want to thank all those who have taken part. We are especially thankful for our volunteers, our staff who volunteers extra hours, the ones who pick-up tables, van machanic, van drivers, night and day host, ones who take blood pressure, ones that help to maintain building, etc. It takes everyone's help to have a successful program.

We have had a number of sick ones this week. Our thoughts and prayers are with Homer Hill and Frank Reger. We've just heard that Mrs. Ola Eppers has had a stroke and is in Childress Hospital, we hope for her speedy recovery.

Nina Riddlespurger took the Seniors to see Texas last Monday Night. They said it was the best one ever. They had a picnic in the canyon before the play and from what everyone said it was a very enjoyable trip. Those going were Opal Murray, Helen and Waters Fain, Woodrow and Ora Pearl Farris, Floy Barrow, Pete Barbee, Pauline Kaufman, Loyd and Nina Riddlespurger.

"One Of Us"

In Luke 9:49 John was upset because a man was doing miracles in Jesus name, but in John's eyes that man was "not one of us". But Jesus rebuked John for his bad attitude.

Most Christians have been plagued by a "one-of-us" mentality ever since. That attitude is, in fact, the root of all sectarian or denominational divisiveness.

Gradually, in the last few years, many Christian have begun to realize how much our Lord hates such division. Now the fad is for every group to claim to be "non-denominational". Yet one wonders what some mean by that term.

How can a group be "non-denominational" that will not permit anyone to speak in the assembly unless he is (from their viewpoint) "one of us"? How can a group that demands adherence to their creed be "non-denominational"? Such attitudes are not only denominational, they are sectarian in nature.

Yet the "non-denominational" impulse springs from legitimate roots. Anyone who reads John 17 must realize that Jesus despises alienation among Christians.

The whole concept of rejecting those who disagree is based on depraved human tradition rather than Jesus' teaching. The emphasis in the New Testament is upon acceptance. Romans 14:1 through 15:13 teaches about such mutual acceptance. And Romans 15:7 implies that a Christian's acceptance by God may be dependent on his accepting other believers.

The believers who worship at Third and Gorst are trying to live up to God's will. We may not yet be perfectly "non-denominational", but we are trying. And we invite you to join us in our pursuit of God. For we believe that with his help we can grow to be more nearly what he wants us to be.

Teysha Cellars Wins Gold In San Francisco

Teysha Cellars again made an impressive showing capturing medals in the top categories for its 1988 Gewurztraminer, Sauvignon Blanc, Johannisberg Riesling and Chenin Blanc in two recent wine competitions.

Of the 1,620 entries in the annual

San Francisco National Wine Competition, one of the country's largest and most prestigious national wine competitions, Teysha Cellars Gewurztraminer was named as one of the 52 gold medal finalists, Teysha President Dan Griffis announced. It was the only Texas wine to be recognized with a gold medal.

Also, the Johannisberg Riesling and Sauvignon Blanc took top honors with gold medals and the Gewurztraminer and Chenin Blanc won bronze medals at the Third Annual Texas Wine Classic in Houston. The Texas competition is sponsored by the Texas Restaurant Association and the Club Managers Association of America and directed by Restaurant Wine magazine.

Earlier this year, the Gewurztraminer, a somewhat spicy and distinctive table wine, was the first Texas wine to capture a gold medal in The Dallas Morning News' National Wine Competition. Teysha Cellars began its first crush in August 1988, bottled its first wine in December then captured its first gold medal in its initial wine competition.

The Gewurztraminer is produced from the nine-year-old vines of the Casa Nueva Vineyard, Lynn County, owned by Dr. Richard Wright.

"The Gewurztraminer grape is traditionally grown in France and Germany, but is well adapted to West Texas growing conditions," said Teysha winemaker Dr. Roy Mitchell. "The 1988 Teysha Gewurztraminer has a smell and taste similar to cinnamon or cloves. This strong character allows the wine to compliment many types of foods."

Wong explained that the judges panel was made up of 32 wine experts from around the country and that each wine in the competition was examined by four individuals. He noted that the four who selected the Gewurztraminer for a gold medal included, Lester Hardy of Cain Cellars in California; Earl Singer, Publisher of Connoisseur Guide Magazine; Tom Elliot, a Wine Distributor for Northwest Wines, Ltd.; and Linda Chaucey the Fine Wine Manager of Quality Wine Co. of Iowa.

The first award-winning crush produced some 60,000 gallons of wine at the facility which has a production capacity of 120,000 gallons. The first product to be sold included a blush, Chenin Blanc and a Johannisberg Riesling as well as the Gewurztraminer.

In addition to winning the gold medals, the Gewurztraminer and Teysha's Johannisberg Riesling this year won acclaim in both the Southwestern Wine Competition in Santa Fe, N.M., and the prestigious National Wine Judging Competition at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino, California.

The winery adopted a Southwestern theme in its design and development. "Teysha" is a Caddo Indian word meaning "friendly" or "ally". The Caddo Indian confederations called each other "Teyshas" and spread that name to the early Spaniards in the region. From there the word changed from "Teysha" to "Tejas" and ultimately the region was named "Texas".

Teysha is the first and only publicly-owned winery in the state and the fourth in the nation. It was incorporated in 1986 under the ownership of Texas Winery Products, Inc. The public is encouraged to visit the 1,500-square-foot wine tasting room and tour the wine production facility at Lubbock. Griffis said. For further information call 806-863-2704.

Customer Relations Important To Local Businesses

Consumer relations and how shoppers feel about the city or town where they spend money helps determine the success of businesses in those locations.

Customer relations, therefore, are a prime concern to many Texas areas.

Business leaders and others at Mason, in West Central Texas, wanted to improve their economic community and provide for its future expansion.

Debbie J. Christian, Extension home economist serving Mason, Irion, Callahan and Sterling counties, said the Mason Home Economics Advisory Council pinpointed the area of customer relations as critical for keeping shoppers close to home.

"Leaders are concerned with keeping business in Mason," said Christian. "The town's relative proximity to larger metropolitan areas puts it at a distinct disadvantage. People just don't always stay home to shop."

She said Mason's business leaders are actively trying to improve their city and bring in more customers. The town's efforts have included extensive downtown restoration and longer business hours.

Two real successes were a pair of back-to-back seminars held earlier this year. The educational seminars conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Chamber of Commerce have since spawned a third, with others possible in the future.

Christian said the seminars dealt with many facets of customer relations. Each session included general discussions and demonstrated principles of approved practices.

"We expected about 20 people to attend the seminars, but ended up with more than 90 business owners, sales clerks and other interested citizens. People really want to see their community expand. The successes we've had are strictly due to the merchants' willingness to do something positive," she said.

Christian said good customer relations directly affect increased sales.

"Good relations are critical to any business. It is important to enjoy the customer and the business," she said.

Surveys have shown that the greatest number of shoppers, 58 percent, quit buying from a store or business because of an indifferent attitude by sales people.

"The real secret of good customer relations is to sincerely care about people and show it," Christian said.

Chewable Tablets May Cause Dental Problems

People who attempt to ward off the common cold by munching on chewable vitamin C tablets could be damaging their teeth, said a Texas Agricultural Extension Service expert.

Dr. Dymple Cooksey, an Extension Service nutrition specialist, said the ascorbic acid in vitamin C has been associated with dental erosion in the past, but the problem has become more acute with increased sales of extremely high levels of the vitamin in chewable tablet form.

"The chewable vitamin C tablets that contain mega-dose levels of the vitamin may present possible dental health problems according to latest research," the specialist said.

She said a recent American Dental Association report indicated that the acidic level of three 500-milligram chewable vitamin C tablets, when dissolved in distilled water, about equals that of stomach acid.

"While saliva has a certain buffering effect, it can provide only limited protection when there is daily direct contact between ascorbic acid and teeth," Cooksey said.

Cooksey said when people attempt to chase the common cold, vitamin C cough syrup which clings to the teeth also is not recommended, since it may cause dental problems.

The specialist recommended that persons who use chewable vitamin C tablets on a regular basis should check with a dentist for any signs of dental problems.

front of the Coliseum and on the high walking traffic areas of the food midways has also been done this year in preparation for the fair. Also some twenty picnic tables have been purchased and will be available to fair patrons for eating and resting.

Some $32,000 has been spent by the Fair Association for these improvements. An extra effort will also be made to keep the grounds as clean as possible throughout the fair. "The main purpose of these improvements is to make a visit to the fair more enjoyable and pleasant to the fair-goers," says Ron Blackwell, Fair President.

Notice of Effective Tax Rate

1989 Property Tax Rates in Donley County

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for Donley County. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

T for TEXAS

by T. Lindsay Baker
"Gunplay at Fastrill"

What's left from the Fastrill ghost town is gradually crumbling away around the edges of the Arthur Temple, Sr., Research Center operated by the Texas Forest Service. The townsite lies near the intersection of Texas Highway 294 and Farm to Market Road 23 about a dozen miles west from Alto in the East Texas piney woods.

In its heyday Fastrill boomed as a logging center on the Neches River serving Cherokee and Anderson counties. Founded by the Southern Pine Lumber company in 1922, by the end of the decade it boasted having 600 residents, a four-teacher school with a hundred students, two churches, a company commissary and a post office. Many of its houses, built from pine cut in the company sawmill at Diboll, fronted on a long main street lined with sycamore trees.

Fastrill remained an active lumbering center for a decade and a half, but logging camps by their nature are temporary. By the late 1930's the timber resources in the area served by Fastrill had been depleted, and the company began moving its employees to other camps. By 1940 the town had only 30 residents, and soon they too departed. A decade later the Arthur Temple, Sr., Research Center was established at the site of the former town.

Life at Fastrill was generally peaceable, but there were exceptions to the rule. Former resident Jacob D. Burris remembered one instance in 1926 of a recourse to arm involving one of his co-workers.

Burris had come to Fastrill to work for the Texas Southeastern Railroad, which connected the camp with the lumber company sawmill 40 miles away at Diboll. As common labor for the railway, he worked on a crew laying track into areas from which timber was being removed.

"The steel gang was laying track upriver on the Anderson County side. They came in at 11 a.m. for lunch," Burris recalled. One of the members of the crew, according to Burris, "was a little Mexican who lived in a house in Fastrill."

While the track laying crew took its lunch break, a tall spaniard appeared on the scene looking for the Mexican. "He was waiting ... down by the tracks."

As the Mexican approached the Spaniard, the latter began shooting at him with an automatic pistol. Dodging the bullets, the Mexican retreated toward his house. One of the shots came so close that it knocked his hat to the ground. "He was dodging and running for dear life," Burris said.

Reaching his home, the Mexican quickly armed himself with his own gun and then came out shooting. Then the Spaniard in his turn began retreating. His course led him directly down the railway track beside which the steel laying crew was nooning.

"Our foreman, Robert Red, yelled for us to get down behind piles of crossties beside the track," Burris said. "The spaniard was running down that road straight toward us. Bullets were whining all around us."

All the work crew took shelter except for its oldest member, Dad Carter. "He stood there in the middle of the track yelling, 'quit shooting this way.'"

Totally oblivious to the nearby steel crew, the two men ran past, the Mexican still shooting. "The Spaniard kept running, with the bullets flying," Burris reported.

"I don't know whether he was hit. He kept on running past us and on

Thursday, August 3, 1989
 down that road," Burris commented.
 "And nobody there ever saw or heard of him again."

CLASSIFIED BUYING GUIDE

Bradward on Classifieds 20

Establishing confidence with your readers is a bigger problem than all outdoors.

Consider a Southern jewelry company, in business 32 years. They have met weekly payrolls 1,664 times. They understand the South, love the South, know the South.

Their jewelry is always exactly as advertised. Gold filled is gold filled; gold plated is gold plated. Their diamonds were made by God, not by Union Carbide.

What is the problem?

Not once do their classifieds let their readers know they don't operate out of the back-seat of a "hot" car or from a corner of a bedroom.

They say nothing. The prospective customer never knows this is an extremely legitimate and very established company.

They could say: "Serving the South for 32 years," or "Serving your neighbors for 32 years," or "A family business for 3 generations," or "Established 1957," or "More than 15,000 satisfied customers," or "Member Chamber of Commerce."

They could, but they don't. So how are the classified readers to know?

Then there is the matter of a guarantee.

Best Bradward has ever seen is Land's End, famous Wisconsin company. They announce their guarantee in a straight forward most reassuring way: "Here's our guarantee. No ifs, no and's, no but's. GUARANTEED. Period."

You need neither brag nor boast, but people have a right to know and you have an obligation to let them know your company is Eagle Scout straight-arrow straight.

Few things in America are sold in the absence of trust. It is your obligation and opportunity to let your classified readers know they can trust you.

Emphasize this matter of trust so as to bring peace-of-mind to your readers.

Will such reasons ever require more words in your classified? Yes. Worth it? Yes, or "Forget most classifieds are 'look alike.' If you devote attention to establishing confidence with your classified readers, your ad will tower over all others.

Aid to think you can accomplish this with classifieds!
