Bryan Drops Silver But Will Still "Discuss."

LONDON, July 13.—In discussing some of the questions which have been raised recently Hon. W. J. Bryan stated that in one sense he has always been conservative, but is ripe for reforms.

"I believe in bimetalism, and I believe that the restoration of silver would bring still further prosperity, besides restoring par in exchange between gold and silver using countries; but I recognize, as do all other bimetalists whom I have met abroad, that the unexpected and unprecedented increase in gold production has for the present removed the silver question as an issue."

Mr. Bryan stated that he would discuss the trust, tariff, railroad and labor questions, imperialism and other issues at length when he reached America.

Japan to Own All Her Railroads.

Hidero Kasuga, secretary of the financial department of Japan, and a government engineer are in this country studying American railroads. The Japanese government already owns one-third of her railroads and two months ago declared in favor of owning all. While in Denver, Mr. Kasuga, discussing the matter, said:

"My government believes in owning and operating all the big utilities on the theory of the greatest good to the greatest number. It means that the people are furnished better service and facilities for the least possible cost. Under private ownership the reverse seems to be true. It will require a larger amount of money to purchase the remaining two-thirds of private lines. However, the government will take them over, paying for them in bonds."

Dowie's Influence Lost.

John Alexander Dowie preached to those who would listen Sunday, while Voliva had several thousand people in his congregation at the Zion City tabernacle. Neither Voliva nor Dowie, in their addresses, even mentioned the fact that it was "Feast day."

Both Dowie and his followers and Voliva and his associates are waiting for the decision of Judge Landis as to the property rights in Zion City, which it is expected will be handed down this week.

Dowie makes some big claims in order to hold his adherents. He now claims he holds deeds to a tract of land in Africa aggregating about sixty thousand square miles. From this source he declares he expects to derive enough revenue to pay off all of Zion's indebtedness as soon as the "litigation before United States Judge Landis" has been straightened out. This information was contained in a letter written by Dowie himself.

Chrysanthemum smoking is the latest thing in England. Cigarettes made of chrysanthemum leaves and cascarilla bark have been found to give relief in cases of epilepsy, and one doctor recommends them as a substitute for tobacco.

Fort Worth Market.

Prices Monday were:
Steers from $2.75 to $4.25
Cows from $1.50 to $2.60
Calves from $2.75 to $4.25
Hogs $5.60 to $6.67.

Farmers and Ignorant Critics.

It is a very common thing to hear young men and old, sitting in comfortable chairs, in hotels and clubs—men who have never had a day's experience on a farm in their whole life—proclaim with much strength of conviction, that the farmer who does not make a comfortable living and a good per centage of clear profit on his farm, is a fool.

They regard the farmer as a special beneficiary of nature; they think the Almighty grows the crops for him and all he has to do is to put forth his hand pluck the fruits of the field and then lay back in the lap of luxury.

We need not say that these gentlemen do not know what they are talking about. The farmer can make money—lots of us do make money.

A failure to make a fair profit from a good farm is usually due to a mistake in judgment and management; goodness knows that the best of us make enough mistakes, but this is true.

As a class there are as many successful farmers in the world as of any other class.

This proportion of failures among farmers is no greater than among merchants or manufacturers, and not nearly so great as among professional men.

Few of us live up to our full opportunities, but we have never yet found any body of men who invariably do. The problems confronting the farmer, affecting the profit and loss of his operations, are as delicate, and require as careful consideration and as sound judgment as those affecting the merchant or the manufacturer.

In fact, it requires more brains to take $10,000 and invest it in a farm and equipments and show a good profit every year, than it requires to show the same profit from an equal investment in an ordinary mercantile or manufacturing business.

In the past decade there has arisen a new profession among business men—that of the expert "business systemizer"—men who go into an establishment, make a careful study of its method of operation, go into its costs and selling system and then make the business man or the company which owns the business, sit up and rub their eyes at the revelation of "extravagance, waste and loss, which might have been avoided by a more thorough system or a little prudence and foresight; by a little common sense and thought.

It is not one time in a thousand that a thorough expert of this kind fails to show the business man ways in which he has been losing money, unbeknown to himself or his bookkeepers.

This being true, it is high time that we hear less talk about the farmers' lack of judgment and enterprise.

The American farmer's methods will compare very favorably with those of any other American business man, and that is not all; the wide-awake American farmer is very keen to see improved methods and very ready to adopt them.

He does progress.—Ex.

Wynnewood, I. T., will have a $3,000 Farmers' Union warehouse,

Uncle Sam's Free Show.

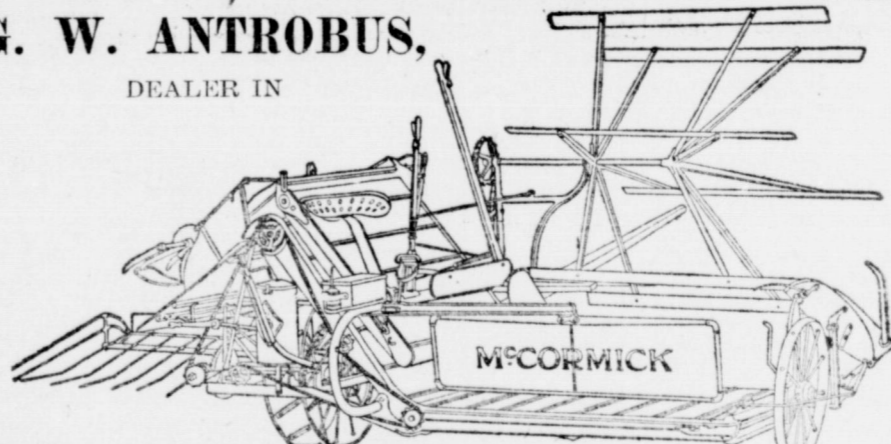

The value of free alcohol to the public can be better appreciated when the many uses of this product are known to the farmers of the country. Uncle Sam, being desirous of giving the public the full benefit of the opportunities in store, purposes to give an exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition, showing the development and uses of denaturalized alcohol, which is made from the products of the farm and garden. This exhibit will be in charge of competent government officials of the Experiment Station of the Department of Agriculture.

In connection with this government exhibit will be exhibits of various kinds of internal combustion engines using denaturalized alcohol for fuel. Farmers will learn at the Jamestown Exposition how to save labor in a thousand different ways. They will be shown how they can utilize machinery for sawing wood, chopping stock feed, pumping water and many other things. And the farmer's wife can employ machinery for doing her churning, washing, operating her sewing machine and in many other ways to save labor. Special machinery is already being made for utilizing this new and cheap fuel.

Uncle Sam will also show the public how to use denaturalized alcohol as a fuel for heating and cooking purposes at home and for lighting the houses and country roads.

The Jamestown Exposition, where Uncle Sam's new show will be given free to everybody, will open its gates to the public on the historic shores of Hampton Roads, near Norfolk, Virginia, April 26, 1907, and close November 30, 1907. It will be an international exposition, given in honor of the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent English settlement in America.

The Joy of Living.

Life is a short space between the cradle and a 3x8 hole in some graveyard. Along the way man encounters many obstacles, says an exchange, such as love, matrimony, high taxes, slow trains, measles, mumps, mothers-in-law, booze, boarding house hash, snake root bitters, tough steak, divorces and ladies' hats. Man, poor man; when old age overtakes him, all the comfort that comes to him is a gang of grandchildren to tramp on his corns, blow little tin horns in his ears, ask him for small change, and to read newspaper accounts of his children's marriages, funerals, hangings and of some terrible epidemic that has struck town. Oh the joy of living in such an age.

Published Twice-a-Week by

W. F. BLAKE, Editor and Proprietor.

Entered February 10, 1903, at Clarendon, Tex., as Second class matter, under Act of Congress March 3, 1879.

CLARENDON, TEX., JULY 15 1906.

Rev. E. M. Sweet, secretary of the Indian Territory federation for prohibition statehood, who recently visited Washington in the interest of prohibition, says, "The state of Oklahoma will, in my judgment, have the best prohibition law that has ever been drafted."

Throughout the Oklahoma division of the Rock Island railroad an advance of 45 cents on the daily wages of section hands become effective. The price to be paid is $1.40. The roadmaster believes this a step toward procuring better laborers and better services.

Since Tom Johnson, of Cleveland, O., has succeeded in getting through his measure providing for 3-cent lines of street cars, for which he has worked for several years, the old corporations of the present lines are begging for a further franchise and are promising fares reduced to seven for 25 cents and other concessions. We think Tom will stand pat for no compromise.

In an interview this week John Sharpe Williams, the minority leader in the house, gave it as his opinion that President Roosevelt would consent to run again. When the interview was shown to Mr. Loeb, the secretary to the president, he said: "The president meant exactly what he said on the night of his election, that he would not be a candidate again for office. That statement is irrevocable." It might be interesting to know what Mr. Roosevelt would do if nominated without his openly stating that he is a candidate.

The Bell Newspapers seem to have turned their batteries on Colonel Campbell. Has anything happened?—Denison Herald.

Yes, the big dailies first thought their constant boost in addition to the state house endorsement of Bell was all that would be needed. They would occasionally throw a spiteful thrust at Brooks, but now they see the boys from the forks of the creek and the country press coming up for Colonel Campbell and there is nothing too hard for these dailies and the official hangers-on to say of him. And there will be such a slim attendance at the primaries the Austin crowd, through their workers at the county seats, may win. They feel like it is almost treason for anyone else to ask for an office.

Packers Hard Hit.

The packers lost in June over $328,000 in exportation of canned beef alone, as compared with June last year, according to official statistics given out. The exportation of hams fell off more than 3,000,000, salted and pickled pork 2,000,000 pounds, lard nearly 5,000,000 pounds. There is an increase of 2,500,000 pounds in the exportation of fresh beef.

Those farmers who feed their surplus grain and forage products at home, if fed to the right kind of stock, generally receives more for his feed products than if otherwise marketed. If his surplus products fed to live stock do not bring him more than if marketed direct, still he is justified in feeding stock for the sake of land fertility.—Ex.

What "Coin" Harvey Now Says.

According to a press report, Harvey says W. J. Bryan will be nominated by the democrats for president of the United States, and if so, he stands a good chance for election. Should Mr. Roosevelt be nominated again by the republicans, which Mr. Harvey thinks is quite likely, the issues of the campaign will be confined solely between the two men, and in the election of either Mr. Harvey thinks the people will have a good administration.

"There is one thing certain," said Mr. Harvey, "the money power, the powers that have controlled elections heretofore, will not be a factor in the coming campaign. The investigations that have been prosecuted during the past two years; the exposures of the insurance companies and various other concerns that have always contributed largely to the campaign funds, have worked a wholesome benefit in this regard, and the campaign of 1908 will be conducted on different plans than previous."

"If Mr. Bryan is nominated by the democrats for president, will the money question enter into the campaign as it did in Mr. Bryan's previous efforts for the presidency?" was asked.

"The 'Metallic' money question is settled for the time being," said Mr. Harvey. "The campaign of education referred to in 1896, but which really began two years previous, was the greatest thing the world has ever known. Never before in the history of any government was there such agitation by the people over a question and never before were momentous issues settled so conclusively and apparently satisfactorily to the people as was the metallic money question brought up in the campaign of 1896. The outcome of that campaign of education is similar to what may be expected of the agitation of a shortage of a commodity in any other line of industry. For instance, if the people should come to the conclusion that there was not enough cotton being raised in the country, next year you would see every available piece of ground planted in cotton, and you would find the yield suddenly jump to amazing proportions plenty for every demand. Result? You will hear no more complaint about the shortage of it. Just the same as with the gold question in 1896. Previous and up to that time there was about $95,000,000 of gold produced. The agitation for free silver was started because there was not enough gold, or rather the metallic money. Ten men started out to produce it then, where one man had gone before. Now what was the result? To-day there is $350,000,000 of gold produced where previous to 1896 only $95,000,000 had been. After all, the old rule of supply and demand.

"In my opinion, if Mr. Bryan had not made a speech during the campaign he would have been elected president. As I say, the campaign of education started two years before the presidential campaign opened. People were being furnished literature on the money and other questions, although the former was the all-absorbing one. The people had had time to read and digest and form conclusions regarding the matter before Mr. Bryan said a word in the campaign. The movement to finally solve the great question had already begun before the election came around. In fact, the remedy which the agitation called for had already been applied and the people were beginning to see the result of the treatment before time for the election. Hence the question so far as metallic money was concerned solved itself and the people were satisfied. When Mr. Bryan toured the country, after his campaign for President began, his argument on the money question fell on listless ears, because it had been settled before, and that was practically the only issue of the campaign, or at least the paramount issue.

"This time it is different. The metallic money question will have no place in the campaign. It may be referred to, but only in a comparative way. As I said, I believe the real issues of the coming campaign will be Bryan and Roosevelt, if indeed these two men are nominated by their respective parties. And I also repeat that in the election of either, the people will have a good president and a good administration."

GET THIS BEAUTIFUL COLORED PICTURE FREE.
Splendid Reproduction, in Sixteen Tints, of a Celebrated Painting.
Every person who sends One Dollar for a year's subscription to THE TWICE-A-WEEK REPUBLIC of St. Louis, Mo., and FARM PROGRESS, will receive ABSOLUTELY FREE, a beautiful colored picture, 21 by 32 inches entitled "The Departure of the Bride from the Home Washington." This picture is a direct reproduction from the celebrated painting from Peris. Sixteen colors were employed in the process. It is on fine, heavy paper, and will make a magnificent ornament for the home. Aside from its genuine artistic merits, it possesses an uncommon interest to every American, as the central figure in it is George Washington, standing at the portal of his Virginia home, bidding adieu to the bride and bridegroom. The color work is highly ornate and correct in every detail.
THE TWICE-A-WEEK REPUBLIC is the oldest and best semi-weekly family paper in the country, and FARM PROGRESS, which is also published by The Republic, is the fastest-growing farm monthly in America. Remember, that you get both of these splendid journals an entire year, and the beautiful colored picture, all for ONE DOLLAR.
Present subscribers may take advantage of this offer, by sending a dollar and having their time marked up a year. The Republic hereby gives notice that this offer may be withdrawn at any time, and those wishing the picture should send in subscriptions AT ONCE.
Remit by Post-Office or express money order, registered letter or bank draft. Do not send personal checks. Write names and addresses plainly, and address:

Killed By Dipping.

Horrible barbarity in dipping cattle under federal supervision is reported from Carlsbad, N. M. Two weeks ago, two bunches of fine bulls, one belonging to the Benson estate and the other to the Turkey Track outfit, were dipped in the Carlsbad vat, in the presence of a representative of the United States bureau of animal industry and of the New Mexico cattle sanitary board. The dip was too strong with lime, so that the bulls were horribly burned, and out of forty twenty have already succumbed to their injuries, dying after frightful suffering. The hair was completely burned from the animals and in some places patches of the hide are peeling off. Cattlemen are much aroused, as this is said to be the first incident of the kind and some of the owners are more determined than ever to resist the order of federal government that the cattle must be dipped.

His Philosophy.

"I yeas tell, fum the specifications of the Cuhnels and Majubs and Jedges, dissembled down at the postoffice," ruminatingly remarked square-headed old Brother Quack-emboss, "dat de honorable gen'lemen in the Senate and de House o' Misrepresentatives streenyusly objects to peim' stigmatized ss grafters.' Umph-yas! I's noticed dat de blacker a nigger is de mo' volcanically he disrupts at bein' called a nigger; but I's also took note dat it don't exculpate him fum bein' a nigger dess de same!"—Watson's Magazine.

Lead has been discovered at Tulsa, I. T., of a superior quality and in a quantity which gives evidence of ore in paying quantities. The find was made at a depth of eighteen feet and within the city limits. Frequently in the last year evidences of lead ore have been discovered there.

A Memphis, Mo., man has discovered a new way to get rid of mosquitoes. He says to rub alum on your face and hands. When the mosquito takes a bite it puckers his buzzer so it can't sting. It sits down in a damp place, tries to dig the pucker loose, catches its death of cold, and dies of pneumonia.

At Sedalia, Mo., Rev. J. Murdy, pastor of the Christian church, began a crusade against the gambling dens, and with a constable raided the houses, took the furniture to the street and burned it in the presence of a big crowd.

Good servants are becoming so difficult to obtain that we really cannot blame the American lady who disinherited her son because he married her maid.—Punch.

A modern dude with narrow striped clothes, saddle colored shoes, a loud necktie, hair parted over his nose, and smoking a cigarette, addressed his best girl thus: If you was me and I was you, what would you do? She hesitatedly said with a smile: "I would take off that hideous tie, but that cigarette in the stove, part my hair on the side, then pray to God for brains."—Ex.

Woman's Privilege.

"What a strange looking house!"
"Yes; isn't it."
"The architect must have been crazy."
"He was, almost."
"I should think so."
"Yes; you see, the man who owns the house told his wife that it should be built just exactly as she wished it; and during its construction she changed the plans at least once a day."

Texas and Colorado Cattle Only Fit For Hides.

Nelson Morris had all kinds of hard things to say about the meat investigation while in Denver Saturday. He said:

"There is not a word of truth that all this cry about embalmed beef and the investigation of the packing companies ordered by the government will injure the country more than the San Francisco earthquake." Continuing, he said: "Our trade is vanishing away from us, and it will be taken by the Buenos Ayres and other South American states. South America will supply the canned meats that we have been supplying foreign nations. The west is being injured and will be one of the principal sufferers. The time is at hand when the west will have to raise cattle for hides. That is particularly true of Texas and Colorado. When we can't sell our canned meats it means a great loss, as much cattle is good for nothing but canning. There is nothing in the story of diseased meats. Anyone who knows anything at all about the packing business knows that the industry has been built upon its merit. You can't fool a man about what he eats. He knows whether it is good or not."

Rockefeller to Keep Out of Reach.

On account of the warrant being out for him, Rockefeller, according to a statement of his physician, will not spend the summer at home, in Cleveland, O., as is his custom.

She's A Wise Woman.

Who keeps in mind that a little credit is a dangerous thing.

Who is able to mend both her husband's clothes and his ways.

Who has learned the paradox that to have joy one must give it.

Who can tell the difference between her first child and a genius.

Who most admires those eyes which belong to a man who understands her.

Who acknowledges the allowance made her by her husband by making allowances for him.

Who appreciates that the largest room in any house is that left for self-improvement.

Who manages to keep not only her house and temper, but her servants and her figure as well.

Who realizes that two husbands of twenty-five years each are not necessarily as good as one of fifty.

Who can distinguish between the laugh of amusement and the one meant to show off a dimple.

Who gets off a trolley-car the right way—though she runs the risk of being arrested as a man in disguise.—Price in Watson's Magazine.

A Small Boy's Tears.

"What are you crying for, my poor little boy?"
"Boohoo! Pa fell downstairs."
"Don't take on so, my pet. He'll get better soon."
"Sister saw him fall all the way. I never saw nuffin! Boohoo!"—Sporting Times.

A Matter of Taste.

"Can any little boy," asked the new teacher, "tell me the difference between a lake and an ocean?"
"I can," replied Edward, whose wisdom had been learned from experience. "Lakes are much pleasanter to swallow when you fall in."

Picking a Way Across a Mountain.

Picking a way is good fun. You must first scout ahead in general. Then you determine more carefully just where each hoof is to fall. For instance, it is a question of whether you are to go above or below a certain ledge. You decide on going below because thus you will dodge a little climb and also a rather slippery looking rock slide. But on investigation you find, hidden by the bushes, a riven boulder. There is no way around it. So then retrace your steps to the place where you made your first choice. The upper route again offers you an alternative. You select one; it turns out well; forks again. But you discover both these forks utterly impracticable. So back you must hike to the very beginning to discover, if you can, perhaps a third and heretofore unconsidered chance. Then, if none are good, you must cast in review the features of all your little explorations in order to determine which best lends itself to expedients. This consumes time, but it is great fun.—Outing Magazine.

Milk Fed Kid.

"This is milk fed kid," said the leather merchant. "It is very soft and fine and pliable, isn't it?"

He smoothed the delicate white skin and went on:

"All first rate kid is milk fed. It comes to us from the French mountaineers. These men are superb goatherds. Their immense flocks supply the world's kid gloves. The goatherds of France are careful to keep their kids on an exclusive milk diet. They pen the little animals with their mothers in rocky inclosures, where there is no grass. At that the kids often escape, often manage to eat solid food, for, with almost human perversity, kids that shouldn't be weaned wean themselves early, whereas calves that should be weaned cling like grim death to milk. One meal of grass will spoil a kid's skin, will rob it of its softness and pliability, will harden and coarsen and stiffen it; hence, when you buy kid gloves always choose the milk fed kid."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Name Tuxedo.

The Tuxedo coat got its name from the fashionable colony at Tuxedo, and the original name of the place was Duck Cedar. Lots of the old natives still call it Duck Cedar. George Tidabech, one of the original settlers of the country, named the place. The lake was then much smaller than it is now and was simply known as the fish pond. One day old Tidabech and his sons had gone there to shoot game. The ducks were very plentiful; numerous cedar trees were growing out of the rocks along the shore.

"Let us give this place a name," said the old man. "Let us call it Duck Cedar."

So Duck Cedar it was and continued to be for many years until the name was changed to Tuxedo.

Mark Twain on Advertising.

Mark Twain in the midst of a panegyric on advertising told a remarkable story.

"There was a man," he said, "back Iowa way who was so pleased with an advertisement in the local paper that he wrote the following testimonial letter to the editor:

"Mr. Editor: Sir—After selling all I could, giving barrels away, stuffing my horse till they would eat no more, I still had last fall about 200 tons of big, juicy, fine flavored apples left on my hands. I inserted in your valuable paper an ad. that I was willing to send free a barrel of picked fruit, freight paid in advance by me, to any one who would apply, there being, of course, no charge for the barrel. You will hardly credit it, but that little forty cent ad. cleared out my whole stock of apples, and I could have disposed of five times the quantity on the same terms."

Drinking of Healths.

The drinking of healths in wine or liquor or other kinds originated in Britain at the time of the rule of the Danes, before Alfred the Great finally succeeded in driving them from the land. Owing to the assassination of Englishmen by the Danes, it became a custom to enter into compacts for the mutual preservation of health and security. These compacts were usually pledged in wine, and hence the custom of drinking healths.

Cure of the Eyes.

On rising in the morning the eyes should be bathed gently in cold water. Twenty passes are said to be decidedly strengthening. While using them closely they should be rested at intervals of an hour or two, for the strain of constant reading, etc., is like that of extending the arms at a certain height immovably. Imagine, then, the taxing of the eyes, which cannot complain save after years of irreparable neglect. When dust settles in the eyes warm water will soothe them of any inflammation.—Exchange.

Honors Easy.

"This silver dollar," began the cashier of the restaurant as he scrutinized the coin—

"Is bad, eh?" interrupted the sour looking patron.

"Well, it doesn't look very good."

"That so? Just bite it, and if it's anything like the dinner I had it'll taste even worse than it looks."—Philadelphia Press.

Watson's Magazine

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, Edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, the Father of Rural Free Delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "The Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's Party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is today heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas, electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick Biddle's money power in 1832; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away, they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air. Keep in touch with the movement.
