Mrs. Park Killed by Electric Wire at Canyon City

Mrs. Myrtle Cartwright-Park, wife of Cashier David Park of the First National Bank, Canyon City, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Cartwright of Amarillo, was instantly killed last night shortly before 9 o'clock, at her home by contact with a live electric wire. Remains reached here this afternoon at 4 o'clock and were conveyed to the home of her parents, No. 1816 Polk street, from which place funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Rev. O. F. Sensebaugh, pastor of the Polk Street Methodist Church, will lead in the officiation assisted by other ministers.

News of the sad event came last evening while the parents of Mrs. Park were attending religious services at the Polk Street Methodist church. Without loss of time Dr. and Mrs. Cartwright were hurried to Canyon City in an automobile, and accompanied the body home this afternoon.

From Mr. Park it is learned that he had attended to the milking, and his wife accompanied him to the cellar in which the milking utensils are kept. While he was engaged with his tasks, Mrs. Park had rinsed a vessel, and with her hands wet, grasped the electric bulb to turn on the light. The horrified husband saw his wife's body enveloped in a shroud of electrical flashes as it sank to the concrete floor. Mrs. Park's hand had closed upon the deadly bulb, and the wiring was dragged from the ceiling. Death came without a struggle.

An alarm was given and Dr. and Mrs. Cartwright notified by long distance telephone of the death of their daughter. Canyon City and Amarillo are deeply shocked and grieved by reason of the tragedy, as Miss Myrtle Cartwright, the dead woman, was a decided favorite in Amarillo. She was held in great esteem as a matron in Canyon City, and has friends in many parts of Texas. She has an aunt in Ft. Worth and one in California.

Mrs. Park leaves two little daughters in addition to the husband and other relatives.—Daily Panhandle, Saturday.

Complaint of a Convicted Forger

Amarillo, Texas, June 19.—"I have been victimized by the jury," exclaimed William H. Feeney, alias W. Fitzgerald this forenoon, when his motion for a new trial was overruled by Judge Browning, and a sentence of five years in the state penitentiary passed upon him for forgery.

"The jury was thinking more of getting through with the job than it was of doing justice in the case. I have been made a victim of the wrath of Sheriff Hughes' friends. There was feeling against me because I escaped from the train near Pueblo. For this reason I should have been permitted to have had a trial away from such influences."

Feeney is the man in whose case the Texas Bankers association took such interest and lent aid in the prosecution, it being alleged that he swindled the First National bank of this place.

After the Vags

The court proceedings in this precinct Wednesday were interesting, to say the least. The putting into force of a new law was tried, and enforcement of the law was the outcome. Earl Akin was convicted of vagrancy and fined twenty-five dollars and cost. Tom Hughes was convicted of this offense, his fine being fifty dollars and cost, and later an additional one hundred was adjudged against him for abusive language.—Shamrock Texan.

Officer Killed by Train Robbers

Muskogee, Ok., June 18.—Deputy Constable John Kirk was shot through the head and instantly killed, and Paul Williams, train robber, was wounded and captured in a pitched battle one mile east of Braggs, Ok., this morning, following an attempt to hold up and rob a crew of an Iron Mountain freight.

The crew had just received their pay when three masked men boarded the train and covered the engineer and fireman with revolvers.

Conductor Ashley and brakeman White, who were armed, opened fire on the robbers, who were put to flight. Constable Wicks and Deputy Kirk pursued the robbers, overtaking them, when Kirk was shot and killed.

Two robbers escaped. Sheriff Ramsey and a posse are in pursuit with bloodhounds.

Muskogee, Ok., June 18.—In a battle between officers and three train robbers who held up a St. Louis and Iron Mountain freight train near Bragg, Ok., early today Deputy Constable Johnson Kirk was killed.

Paul Williams, one of the robbers, was shot through the breast and captured.

Miami Claims an Oil Discovery

Word came from Miami the first of the week that oil had been reached at a depth of 980 feet. Just the exact condition of affairs is hard to get in this case as it is in all cases of this kind. As a matter of fact it was only a pocket that was struck and as such that it indicates that rich fluid lies hidden somewhere in that vicinity. In the matter of finding oil or gas the people have so often and so thoroughly been deceived that more or less discredit will naturally be placed on the report.

Last Tuesday the stockholders had a meeting and decided to go deeper and test the point thoroughly. If Miami has been so fortunate as to be the place where the first oil in the Panhandle has been reached we shall miss no opportunity to rejoice with her in the lucky find. By fire and wind the little village has suffered some severe blows but if possible that she is to be the center of the oil region, great will she rise.—Canadian Record.

Lightning Fires the Denison Shops

Denison, Texas, June 17.—During a terrific wind and rainstorm tonight, accompanied by a brilliant electrical display, the machine shops and planning mill of the car department of the Missouri, Kansas, & Texas railway here burst into flames. Before the fire could be gotten under control these buildings were entirely destroyed, together with much valuable machinery, including two electrical engines which had just been in stalled. The loss will reach $50,000 and about 100 men will be thrown out of employment until the shops can be rebuilt.

Fortunately, no one was hurt, but many had narrow escapes. Switching crews took desperate chances in hauling cars out of the way of the fire, but in spite of their efforts a number of box cars were burned. It is supposed the fire was started by a bolt of lightning.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont advises the suffragettes to adopt the battle cry, "No ballots, no marriage." Unmarried women will sniff and remark that this is easy enough to say, coming from a woman who already has a rich husband.—Kansas City Star.

Yes, but judging from the way the married in the Belmont class crowd the divorce courts, no telling how soon she will be without one of any kind.

Fire At Wylie

Wylie, Tex., June 18.—A very destructive fire broke out in the two-story building belonging to the Housewright company of this place and occupied by the Taylor-Birmingham company, dry goods and gents furnishings; Amis Brothers, groceries, and the Wylie Telephone company. Loss on building, $7,000; insurance, $4,000. The Taylor Birmingham company's loss is between $16,000 and $18,000, with an insurance of $12,000. Amis Brothers' loss is not known; insurance $300. The Wylie Telephone company's loss is not known; insurance, $300.

Good work was done by the bucket brigade in saving the First National Bank building and the building occupied by the postoffice, C. A. Moore's barber shop and J. J. Holloman's drug store.

It must be a great consolation to Victor Lyons, sleeping underneath eight feet of earth, to learn that he was killed in a "friendly sparring match" and not in a prize fight.—Wichita Times.

The devil tempts all other men, but idle men tempt the devil.—Turkish proverb.

High Price for Plains Hogs

Prices for hogs reached the high water mark Friday in Fort Worth and all previous records when W. A. Watson of Plainview sold 71 hogs, averaging 235 pounds at $7.75 per hundred.

The highest price for Texas hogs previously reached was $7.65, and this price was paid for an assorted lot. Mr. Watson's carload of porker's were shipped without discrimination or assortment. The price not only breaks the record for the Fort Worth market, but is higher than has ever been paid before in Texas or anywhere else for Texas hogs. For the entire lot Mr. Watson received $1,293.09 an average of $18.21 per hog.—Telegram.

It is reported that in some cases homes are being mortgaged so that owners may purchase motors. It takes a fast automobile to outrun a mortgage.—Shelbina, Kas., Democrat.

The Amarillo man who wants to pipe gas there from Petrolia needs not to. Amarillo is already supplied with hot air and pipe dreams in plenty.—Wichita Times.

Carload Panhandle Brooms Go to Dallas

A. J. Lundegreen, proprietor of the Amarillo Broom Factory, is in receipt of an order for a straight car of brooms from a concern in Dallas. Mr. Lundegreen feels complimented by reason of this order, in that he has not solicited the concern sending it. He has, however, sold many hundred dozens of brooms in that city and others in that section of Texas, showing the popularity of the Amarillo product.

The Amarillo factory is one of the few now being operated in Texas, many being closed from lack of stock. Mr. Lundegreen has his fine select stock only from one reason—he grew it. Mr. Lundegreen himself will plant more than five hundred acres this year, and next year he will cultivate fifteen hundred acres.—Daily Panhandle.

Sealed Glass Coffins

Baltimore, Md., June 18.—The newest thing in coffins is made of glass. The time has come when man's body may be laid away where moths and rust do not corrupt, and if any one doubts it, he may peep into the coffin when he pleases and see for himself. Dr. H. G. Becker of Beeville, Tex., who is here directing the casting of the coffin, is the inventor. The corpse is introduced into the affair feet first. The end is then tightly and hermetically sealed. The closing of the "breach" of the coffin opens a vial of strong chemicals, which take gaseous form and act as an extra preserving agent. Then an air pump is attached to the coffin and a vacuum is established, the pump disconnected and the casket permanently and forever sealed.

Road Building in Oklahoma

Lincoln county, Oklahoma, intends to have at least one good road. A road district has been formed and the voters have authorized the issuing of bonds to the amount of $200,000 to pay for the cost of building a road across the county. The great need for roads in Lincoln county made this possible. It will serve as a good example to the rest of the state. Another fine illustration of good work in road building is in Blaine county where public spirited citizens took hold about a year ago and built a piece of real road. A good road is an investment and not an expense. Going into debt for its construction is good business policy. Its cost will be quickly covered by the increased value of every farm reached over it. The annual saving in time, wagon repairs, and horseflesh will many times pay the cost of maintenance. Nearness to market is an important factor in the selling price of farms. Good roads bring farms nearer to market. Distance in time rather than in miles is the measure. A prospective purchaser will be more discouraged by a bad hill and a missing bridge than by a few dollars in taxes to pay interest on bonds. And you'll not be so inclined to sell if you have good roads and schools. Lack of them is what makes many good folks want to sell out. And the more who want to sell, the smaller price will each get.—Oklahoma Farm Journal.

In Ft. Worth Thursday night Fannie Wright fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in her mouth and when she awoke her garments and the bedding were on fire, and she was so badly burned about the face, neck and body that she died a short time later in great agony. You will find boys' wagons cheaper at Kerbow's than at any other place in town.

Exports Show Big Decrease. Washington, June 20.—According to the bureau of statistics "It is apparent that the exports from the United States in the fiscal year which ends with the present month will fall materially below those of 1908 and 1907, and slightly below those of 1906." The causes of this marked decline in the exports are ascribed to "practically those which have produced similar conditions in other parts of the world—a reduction in the general demand for merchandise and a material reduction in the prices of certain of the more important articles exported.

Welcomes the New Paper, But—

Mr. Thomas Durham, who has promoted several papers, has arranged to open up a new paper plant at Wellington. Mr. Durham's plan is to organize a joint stock company, and to promote a newspaper on a plan similar to the ones he has developed at several other places. We wish him success, but knowing the conditions as they are, we believe that it will be several years yet, even with a railroad, for the county to support two newspapers; yet we admire a man who has such implicit faith, and looks forward to future Wellington and Collingsworth county, for sustenance.

Well, Brother Durham, we welcome you in our midst, but if you have been misled on account of the sleekness of the editor of the Times we beg to inform you that we accumulated our fat and part of our gaul before we mounted the tripod of ye Wellington Times, we trust the same will serve us until Wellington quadruples her population, and unless you feel like your fat will sustain you, and especially your gaul, why within a few months don't look at us with that hungry look, for we will certainly say I told you so.—Wellington Times.

Real Lions Devour Maiden

In a suburb of Paris is a factory where cinematograph films are made. The company operating the business has a large tract of land fitted up as an amphitheater, within which are enacted the blood curdling scenes which delight American and other audiences in the moving picture shows.

Recently pictures were made depicting the death of a young Christian maiden in a den of lions. Vestal virgins, courtiers and knights marched around the arena and then took seats safely outside a huge cage. A young girl was strapped upon a cross within the cage and seventeen real lions were let loose. The lions were exceptionally hungry and made short work of the poor martyr. They had been borrowed from an animal show and had been kept without food for three or four days. They tore the maiden limb from limb and spilled her blood all over the cage, yet the maiden didn't even scream for help—her flesh was papier mache stuff with raw beefsteaks.—Popular Mechanics.

Suit has begun in Oklahoma to stop all railway companies from the transportation of intoxicating liquors.

Texas wheat farmers are receiving around $1.50 per bushel for their wheat at the threshers. This is an unlooked for price, and wheat farmers would have been in great luck this year had the crop only been an average one.

Mrs. Howard Gould says that she can't live decently on less than $120,000 annually. Judging from her escapades and the conduct of the "400" generally, the more money they have to blow in the more indecent the life they lead.

Those sections of Texas suited for wheat production should plan for a larger wheat acreage next fall. While wheat will hardly sell at present quotations next year, still prices are almost sure to be around the dollar mark.

Texas Should Grow More Potatoes

Farmers in Arostook county, Maine, cleared $12,000,000 on their potato crop, which put 15,000,000 bushels on the market. If prices hold good and weather conditions are favorable that county will come to the national market this year with 30,000,000 bushels calculated to pour $24,000,000 into this one community. With its two-crop climate it's about time experiment and effort unfurled the potato sack pennant in grand old Texas. The importation of potatoes from Europe to meet the demand of last winter and early spring has done much to boom potato culture. Get the two-crop climate and the tuber working in harmony with the hog that is all ham and the Texas farmer would be especially prosperous, thank you.—Ft. Worth Telegram.

Lamar county has been plunged into a perfectly senseless and altogether needless prohibition election by the anti. Lamar county has twice declared for prohibition by a large and increasing majority. Her best citizens are satisfied, Crime has been reduced. Drunkenness has almost become a thing of the past. Business has improved. Taxes have been reduced. Paris and Lamar county have greatly benefited under the reign of prohibition, and now for the liquor men, and a lot of shiftless neer-do-wells and negroes, misled by a handful of high-toned fellows who have some spite to wreak or some axe to grind, some house to rent or some friend to serve, to plunge the county into this needless, shameless, senseless campaign is an outrage. They are planning to put 130 or 140 saloons in Paris alone, and announce that it is for the moral and financial benefit of the city. Bosh! The highest ambition or aspiration of which they are capable is to debauch their town for money, or pander to a low and depraved appetite. Little they know or care for the moral or real welfare of Paris or Lamar county.—Home and State.

Town Young came in Saturday from Austin, after having graduated in the law department of the State University, and has again taken up his work with the Record as local editor. Mr. Young won honors in everything he had to do with the past year, among the more recent ones being an election to the presidency of the entire student body of the University, as well as an appointment to the position of Quiz-Master in the Law Department for next session. He intends taking a general literary course there next year.—Vernon Record.

Residence of W. M. Montgomery Burned

The residence of W. M. Montgomery burned Saturday morning about 9 o'clock. It is not known just how the fire started, but supposedly from a loose joint in the stove pipe. Mr. Montgomery had left but a short time before and Mrs. Montgomery was across the street at a neighbors. But little of the furniture was saved. It was out of reach of the water system and in a sparsely settled portion of town. Loss $4,000. Insurance $1,750 on house and $750 on furniture.

Tells of the Coal Prospect

To the Chronicle:
Mr. Brooks and myself went out on Carroll creek to look over the coal prospect and I was somewhat surprised to see indications so favorable. The find consists of lignite, and the vein, where it crops out, is about 16 inches thick, and had been uncovered some 20 feet, where it was 23 inches thick. Usually such veins increase as you follow them down to five, six or seven feet in thickness. But as to whether or not this one profitable to work, only tests will tell, and only tests will reveal the area of land underlain with lignite. Surface indications in many parts of the country are for coal. A fair test for fuel cannot be made from the surface samples, as all surface coal is inferior when compared with coal taken from a good depth. I am uninterested, and made this investigation to satisfy myself, having had years of experience in the coal fields of another state.

Respectfully,
W. A. RUSSELL.

Thanks Neighbors for Assistance

I desire to thank all parties who in any way assisted in saving part of my furniture, or in any other way aided us during the fire which destroyed our home. But for them the loss would have been complete.

Miss Aris Baldwin, a very popular young lady recently of Clarendon, fell from a step ladder in her father's home near Texline Friday and her back was broken, her injuries being so great that death soon resulted. The Tribute to the Paper Trust

Aldrich proves himself the boss of the senate on various occasions and did so when the tariff on paper was acted on. He simply asserted that the duty of $4 was necessary, and had a pile of papers in front of him which he tapped from time to time as authority for his statements. He would not detain the senate, however, he said, by reading them. So the evidence never was presented. Which is a little way the chairman of the finance committee has.

One feature of the reply was the insistence of Aldrich that virtually all the timber of the country was available for paper making, and that there was no occasion to go to Canada for timber for pulp.

"Doesn't the Senator know," Brown inquired, "that the timber he refers to is available only for chemically treated pulp—sulphite—and that it is impracticable to make print paper of sulphite alone?"

"The Senator is mistaken," Aldrich retorted. "Much of the print paper made in the United States today is made from sulphite."

Brown gasped at the assertion, which every person familiar with paper making knows is untrue. The sulphite is mixed with a much larger proportion of ground wood pulp. Then he challenged Aldrich to name an authority for his statement. But the Rhode Island senator evaded the challenge and got away with the assertion.

On the vote that sustained the committee, 44 to 32, only eight Republicans voted against the committee—Beveridge, Bristow, Burkett, Brown, Cummins, Dooliver, LaFollette and Smith of Michigan. It was gossip in the cloak rooms that New England had traded votes for a duty on hides with Western senators for votes to keep the print paper duty at $4.

Auto Race Denver to City of Mexico—2500 Miles

Amarillo, Texas, June 20.—The route of the flag-to-flag auto race has been changed so as to traverse Texas from Texline to Eagle Pass. This statement was made today by the promoter of the race, G. A. Wahlgreen, who is in Amarillo to confer with Secretary Carl Pool of the local auto association.

"Mr. Pool was largely instrumental in getting the route changed," said Mr. Wahlgreen, "so I will leave the exact route through this state to be fixed by him as to detail, but this much we have decided on: The cars will pass through Texline, Dalhart, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Big Springs, San Angelo, Kerrville, San Antonio and Eagle Pass. I am told by my representative, who was with the pathfinder car and who has the details of the race in charge, that there will be 100 entries in the contest. The start will be made from Denver Oct. 16. The length of the new route is 2,500 miles. There will be an auto show held at the Mexican capital the week following our arrival. President Diaz has promised us that the customs duties will be waived during the show. The president says he will have troops stationed along all that part of the route which traverses Mexican territory. A plan is also on foot to have the route lined with flags, placed at a distance of one mile apart. I am considering the idea of making the race a free-for-all dash from the border to the City of Mexico, but have not yet so decided. Great interest is being taken in Mexico in the coming race. Even the peons seem to understand all about the flag-to-flag event. Three banquets a day, with a grand ball in the evening, were given in honor of the pathfinders while they were in the Mexican capital."

Miss Minnie Lee Steele left Thursday accompanied by her mother for Clarendon, where they will go to Chillicothe and visit friends before returning home.—Tulla Standard.

A Wonderful Blind Man

If reports of him are true, Thomas M. Worrell of Dubach is the blind wonder of Louisiana. He can manipulate an intricate telephone switchboard with the accuracy of an expert. When the wires are in trouble he can climb poles and repair the trouble as quickly as a man with the keenest eyes. He runs across the street and boards a moving train without trouble. He has operated a typewriter repair plant and can write a letter as quickly and accurately as any typewriting. Worrell dances with ease and grace and has been a social favorite in Dubach for years, escorting young ladies to parties and entertainments. Tiring of his single life he wooed and won Miss Sallie Wentworth, a sightless girl of Dubach, also accomplished in many arts of life, and they are happily located in their own home.

What Killed Her

An obituary notice from the Atchison Globe: "What was the cause of death?" a reporter had occasion to ask a few weeks ago. "Death was due to popularity," said the friend who had brought the death notice in. "She was a very good woman and very popular with her friends and, when taken with a slight fever they felt that they couldn't do enough for her. They came early and stayed late; they brought flowers, fruit, delicacies and their babies, and out of the goodness of her heart she tried to entertain them and show her appreciation. She never knew an hour alone, and her fever was always higher when her friends left than when they came. The family, the nurse and her physician protested. 'It would never do to offend them,' she said, when told that she must not see them; that they were killing her. She kept up this force of trying to be sociable till the end, and died telling the seventh neighbor that day that the delicacy she had sent over was the best she had ever eaten, though I give my word she hadn't eaten a bite of anything in a week. The neighbors killed her and we can't say a word, but we would say a great deal, and even go to law if they had killed our chicken."

VISITING CARDS.

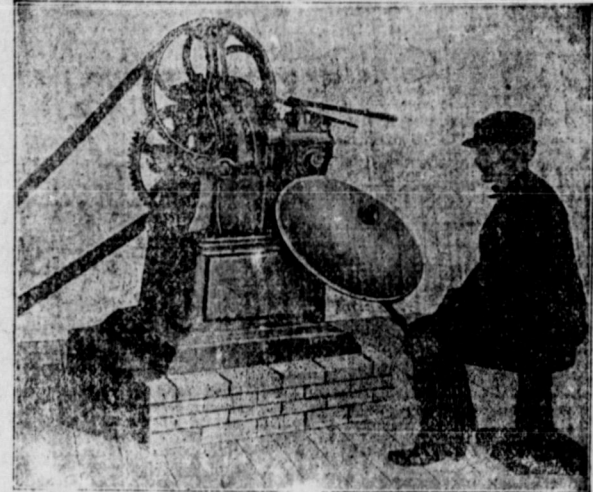

Names and Messages Used to Be Scribbled on Playing Cards.

It is somewhat curious that so useful an invention as the visiting card should have been unknown to society until comparatively recent times. Yet 150 years ago the carte de visite did not exist. The belles of the seventeenth century used nothing in the shape of a name card, or "ticket," as it was afterward called. Invitations to routs and dinners as well as names and addresses were written across the backs of playing cards, which in those days were made with a white reverse and innocent of the intricate pattern familiar to us in modern times.

Mary Wortley Montagu, a lady of ton, says the Comtesse would be apt to use a red playing card—a queen of hearts—for ordinary social purposes, while an amorous beauty inscribed his name and the most tender of inquiries on the back of a jack of spades. The great world of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries was a small world. It was rigidly exclusive. Living in the same quarter of the town, the quality sent each other scribbled messages by the hand of a favorite page. Society, in a word, was informal in the midst of stately formalities, and we have no difficulty in believing the Comtesse de Boigne when she tells us that in 1800 Lady Harrington used to trot up and down Bond street picking up guests for a party for the same night.

Cotton that Grows on Trees

Washington, June 12.—Special agent W. A. Graham, who is in Mexico investigating textile trade conditions, makes the following report on the progress being made there in growing the caravonica tree cotton.

Much has been written in the last few years in regard to the raising of caravonica cotton in Mexico and Australia. As yet everything has been in the nature of experiments, and caravonica cotton has not reached the commercial stage, but in the limited sections in which it can be grown it seems to be a prospect of good profits from its cultivation.

Caravonica is a tree cotton and was produced by the crossing of a fine long-stapled Mexican cotton with a coarse long-stapled Peruvian cotton. This hybridization was carried out in Queensland some ten years ago by an Italian scientist, Dr. David Thomatis, and since then seed from the resulting plants have been tried in all parts of the world. It is now being experimented with in Mexico, India, Egypt, French New Caledonia, and Congo. Experiments in upper Mexico and the United States have proved failures, but in lower Mexico the plant grows well. It has been demonstrated that the plant will grow only in a hot climate with not too much rainfall. The seed were introduced into Mexico in June, 1906, by Dr. Pehr Olsson-Saffer, who planted them at La Zalcuapa botanical station on the Pacific coast, and who, finding that climate suitable, has since planted seventy-five hectares (185 acres) and expects largely to increase the area later. He estimated that the land especially adapted to this plant in Mexico is some 100,000 hectares (247,140 acres) on the north and the Guatemalan border on the south. This land is now worth $5 to $10 gold an acre.

There is no gin in this section and the seed at present goes to a small roller gin at Puebla, but Dr. Olsson-Saffer will erect a gin next season. Caravonica cotton has black seed similar to that of the Egyptian cotton, and the seed comes out clean and flossless from the gin. Being long staple, only the roller gin is suitable for handling it. There are two varieties of the caravonica cotton, one known as "wool caravonica," which is adapted for mixing with wool, and the other, which is more valuable, known as "silk caravonica," which has long silky fiber of great length, that can be mixed without detection with some qualities of silk.

The advantages claimed for caravonica are its large production per acre, its large yield of lint, and the fact that it is a perennial. The caravonica tree, or rather bush, will grow to twenty feet or more in height, but is usually trimmed every year. It will begin to bear at seven or eight months after sowing, and will yield profitably without replanting for five to eight years. In starting a plantation the land has to be very carefully prepared, but after that it needs little cultivation beyond weeding under the trees.

Trees are planted in rows, seven feet apart each way, which gives about 800 trees to the acre. With 300 to 500 bolls, each tree bears from four to seven pounds seed cotton, or about 1 1/3 to 2 1/3 pounds clean lint. Under favorable circumstances it will produce 2366 pounds of seed cotton; from this have been obtained 1200 pounds clean lint per acre. The yield of lint in this cotton is remarkable, varying from 48 to 62 per cent. The cotton is gathered from January to May. Picking when the tree is full grown has to be done from stepladders. The bolls on large trees run about 50 to a pound, and this large size of boll diminishes the difficulty of picking from such high bushes.

The tree cotton has been found to be very healthy and highly resistant to pests of all kinds. In experimental lots of silk caravonica that have been shipped to Liverpool a slightly higher price than that paid for sea island has been obtained.

Students Trained for Marriage

Out in Minnesota there is a great coeducational school attended by some eight hundred young men and young women, who study books, work with their hands and make love, says William P. Kirkwood, in New Idea Woman's Magazine. Then when these young men and young women have finished with their books and school work, having paired off, they marry and go on studying, working and—there is no room to doubt it—loving. The postgraduate, post-nuptial histories of the lives of those who have gone out from the school are all records of contentment and happiness. A school which leads to such results may be in truth called a brilliant matchmaker.

There is another great school in Iowa like that in Minnesota, in South Dakota another, in North Dakota another, and in other western states still others.

There may be similar schools—not ordinary coeducational colleges—in the east, training young men and young women for their work in life and mating them at the same time; the writer hereof knoweth not to the contrary.

The authorities of these schools look upon the matchmaking tendencies of their system not with anxiety and alarm, but with approval, as something to be encouraged and not discouraged, and the experience of years has shown that in this they are very wise.

The schools referred to are agricultural schools. The young men who are graduated from them are versed, to the point of being experts, in the origin, formation and cultivation of soils; the movement and control of soil moisture, the selection and planning of farms, irrigation, road building, fencing, construction of farm buildings, water supply, wind-breaks, crop rotation, fertilizers, breeding, stock judging, seed selection, fruit and vegetable growing; in short, in everything pertaining to profitable farming and farm management.

The young women also acquire a large store of information and practice as to the general problems of farming, and, in addition, become skilled in the science of domestic economy as applied especially to the farm home. In the way of general culture also, along with the men they get some knowledge of drawing, music, literature, and the social graces.

Memphis.

There are rumors of another bank in Memphis, making the fourth one in the city. If the new bank is organized it will perhaps be a state bank under the new guarantee system.

The scholastic population of Hall county by the census just closed is 2300. This is a nice increase over last year. When the county shall reach 3000 scholastics the law makes it compulsory to elect a county superintendent of schools.

The territory around Estelline is said to be very badly torn up by hail. Some of the feed crops will come out but the cotton is all ruined. Farmers have been in the fields this week mudding in more cotton and it is still hoped the cotton crop may come on and make good. Farmers are not badly discouraged.

The county commissioners have been here this week equalizing taxes and setting values on the taxable property within the county. There is a general scaling up of values over previous years and some of the larger holders may wince somewhat when they go to pay the collector, but the county must have roads and other improvements.

Rev. J. W. Brice came in Monday night from Seymour and has been here several days this week. He was a very familiar figure here in the early history of the town, having been one of the townsite company and organized the Baptist church at this place. He was very much pleased and surprised at the great growth of Memphis in the past few years. He is a grand old man and has always been a great favorite here among the old pioneers.

Hedley Happenings.

L. A. Mason left this week for different parts of the Plains, where he has gone on business.

A. F. Page and wife, of Chilli-cothe, are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. R. E. Newman, this week.

J. W. Blankenship left last week for Jack county to be gone several weeks visiting friends and relatives.

The citizens of Hedley earnestly appreciate the liberal contribution we received from Clarendon towards the building of our pavilion.

The citizens of Hedley and vicinity deserve some credit for going down and raising a large bonus for the big pavilion. Hedley is right there on anything to her best interest, and we are glad the people of Hedley and surrounding country are alive to her welfare and great future.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

No Sale of Books.

"Yes, madam," said the agent, with a bland smile, as he opened his bag and extracted the volume; "I am sure that this book will prove of great value and help to you. You have children?"

"None," said the lady. "Exactly," said the agent. "The fact interested me at once, and I resolved to call. Here, said I, is a lady who more than any one else will find profit and pleasure in Miss Bosbyshell's great work. It is called 'How to Bring Up Children,' bound in leather, costing $9."

"It won't do for me, my dear sir," returned the good woman. "None of my children are bound in leather, and there isn't one of them that has cost less than $9. Here, Towser," she added, turning to the bulldog, "show the gentleman the short cut to the highway."

And the man and dog went out together, only the former led the way—Judge.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicine well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come up to prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve-tonic it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.
