4 enter Rodeo Queen contest

The Senior Queen of the 1977 Saints Roust Rodeo was determined last Friday, although no one except the judges will know who the winner is until after the rodeo July 4.

Mrs. Peggy Moore said that the entrants were judged on the basis of their horsemanship and the grooming of their horses.

Kim McAnear, far left, is the 15-year-old daughter of Don McAnear of Amarillo. Her hobbies are horsemanship, riding, swimming and basketball.

Kimbra Anderson, 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Peggy Moore, enjoys horsemanship and tennis.

Lisa Skelton, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Punk Skelton, likes horses, cooking, sewing and all sports.

Vanell Littlefield, on the far right, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dovie Littlefield. She loves rodeos, working with horses, playing varsity basketball, swimming, skiing and living in the country.

All of the contestants will ride in the parade July 4. To find out which will be declared Senior Rodeo Queen by the Outdoor Entertainment Assn. board of directors and which, judged by themselves, Miss Congeniality, come to the Saints Roust Rodeo the night of July 4. Photo by Bob Litton

Supports culture, industry

CCC works for Donley County

John Sarich, manager of the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce for the past 3 and a half years, said that Clarendon is becoming well known throughout the United States. "I receive more than a hundred letters a year from students of all ages requesting information about Clarendon and Donley County," he said.

Sarich has received letters from as far away as Oregon in the west and New England in the east. "I answer all of them," he said, "because by doing so I am not only helping the students, but I feel that it is one way of promoting tourism. Our local stores, cafes, gas stations, motels and businesses around the lake depend very much on tourist traffic."

The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce was responsible for putting up the Infoboards on highways 28 and 40. Sarich said that the Infoboards have been very helpful to tourists. One Infoboard is located on I-40 just west of Groom and the other is across from the Texas Tourist Bureau on 140 US287 in Amarillo.

The variety of questions people ask Sarich in their letters and phone calls is wide ranging. "Besides the usual inquiries about motels, camping areas and restaurants," he said, "I get requests for information about local history, family trees and where to buy hard to find items."

Of the non-tourist related requests he has received have been questions on where to find a certain brand of cattle, farm equipment, grave stones, grain and general stores. "Visitors have told me that Clarendon is one of the few places left where general stores are still interesting," Sarich said.

Every year the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce donates monies or prizes toward the July 4 Rodeo, the Clarendon College Rodeo, fishing rodeos, golf tournaments, Rodeo Queen contests, Clarendon College scholarships, the 4th of July parade, Shriners' barbecue, the Fiddlers' Contest and the Cleanup Poster Campaign.

The Chamber has also made several surveys, the latest being the sidewalk sales survey.

The Chamber has representatives on the Water Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and on the Agricultural and Ranching Committee. The Chamber is also a member of the Highway 287 Association.

The Chamber's main purpose, Sarich said, is to promote commerce, industry, agriculture, ranching and oil production as well as the educational and civic interests of Donley County residents.

"The Chamber works closely with the Industrial Foundation to bring in more industry. We had a part in encouraging Skinner Enterprises (Texas Saddlery) to locate here and they employ 30 persons. The fact that there are no business taxes, no industrial taxes and no state income taxes here should be a big inducement to any business to consider locating in Clarendon," he said.

The Chamber also looks after Donley County's interests in Austin, Texas.

September they presented a resolution to Gov. Briscoe and the 68th Legislature to provide adequate additional revenues to meet the basic highway needs of Texas.

"We are publishing brochures about Clarendon," Sarich said, "and we would appreciate it if every Donley County resident talked of the good things of our land, sports and mine."

DPS increases surveillance

Wilson E. Speir, Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reported today that the DPS Statistical Services estimates a large number of persons will die in traffic accidents during the upcoming Fourth of July holiday, Speir said. Deaths so far during 1977 are running higher than expected due to excessive use of alcohol and speed.

"Operation Motorcade" is designed to focus attention on the added dangers of death in holiday travel. Traffic fatalities will be counted by the DPS throughout the Fourth of July period. These totals will be announced in 10 times daily in order to keep safety uppermost in the minds of the drivers.

Major C. W. Bell, DPS

Region 5 Commander of Lubbock said. "Most traffic accidents are made more tragic by the fact that they could have been avoided. Too often the best driver lets his attention wander, and the result is a fatal accident."

The Texas Department of Public Safety's Region 5 will have all available uniformed officers on patrol during the Fourth of July holiday. There will be an increase in surveillance over the heavy holiday traffic with special emphasis on apprehension of the drinking drivers and speeders.

The most important effort in reducing traffic accidents must come from the individual driver, and the joys of a long and happy life are the rewards for safe holiday motoring, concluded Major Bell.

Area police chase speeder at 110 mph

Police officers from Amarillo to Memphis pursued a late model Chevrolet Malibu early Sunday evening as it ran speeds of up to 110 mph through six Panhandle precincts before one of its tires blew out near the compass on the southeast edge of Memphis.

The driver of the car, an unidentified man in his early twenties and his female companion of about the same age, drove through roadblocks in Claude, Clarendon and Hedley, Sheriff Truett Behrens said.

Behrens and two of his deputies, Ralph Hill and Shane Rieken, took up the chase along with three Department of Public Safety units after the allegedly stolen vehicle evaded the first two roadblocks by driving along the bar ditch.

Sheriff Behrens, looking tired and worried after his experience, said, "I wouldn't have believed this if I had seen it on TV."

"I've never seen anybody so lucky, not getting anybody killed. He jeopardized thousands of lives," Behrens said.

"And the worst part of it is that it will happen again. He'll be a hero to some young people. How are you going to stop them?" he said. "We aren't going to be this lucky again."

The sheriff said that officers involved could not as yet determine why the youth acted as he did. "He wasn't hopped up," Sheriff Behrens said, "even though he had a six pack and some marijuana in a shoe box."

As of late Sunday evening the police had determined that the car was reported as stolen in Lexington, Ky., and that the license plates were allegedly stolen Texas plates.

Deputy Rieken said the chase had begun in Amarillo after the suspect's car had been seen driving on the wrong side of Eastern St. at 110 mph. During much of the more than 90 mile chase the suspect continued to drive on the wrong side of Highway 287, passing through the centers of towns at high speeds, Rieken said.

The deputies said that during the chase the suspect sideswiped a telephone pole and at one point was driving almost vertically along the embankment of a railroad track.

"That was a fast car," Deputy Ralph Hill said. "I was going after them at 101 mph and that's all my little old car will do. There was no way I could have caught him."

The sheriff and his deputies all expressed concern about the limited effectiveness of roadblocks. "We didn't have time to set up a sure-fire roadblock," Rieken said.

"Even an airplane couldn't have stopped him," Hill said grimly. "Unless it had been a helicopter with a huge magnet."

"The problem is," said the sheriff, "how are you going to stop somebody like that before he kills other people without having to kill him. If he had hit somebody at 110 mph there wouldn't have been anything left."

Behrens said he did not know yet where the DPS would take the young man and the girl, who were still being held in Memphis Sunday night. "They can be charged with a felony in every precinct they passed through as well as in Lexington, Ky.," the sheriff said.

Speaking of the cooperation between the various sheriffs' offices involved and the DPS, Behrens said, "Everybody did his job from Amarillo to Memphis. You don't know what you can do until you have to get it together."

Earlier in the week local officials had told the Clarendon Press what steps they were taking to ensure safety and security for Donley County during the Saints Roust Celebration over the July 4 weekend.

"I talked to the highway patrol," Sheriff Behrens said, "and Sgt. Smith of Tulla said he would have two highway patrolmen in from Claude one day and the next day one from Memphis."

"I expect there'll be a pretty big crowd Friday night when Red Steagall will be here and most people don't have to work the next day."

the sheriff said.

"Also, there will probably be a large bunch here Saturday night to hear Tiny Lynn. I don't know for sure about Monday night, but I expect it will be kind of light," he said.

City Manager Bud Knorrpp said that, as usual this time of year, there will be no holiday for Clarendon police.

"We'll have one day patrolman and two men at night riding together," Knorrpp said.

"Then we'll have one on call, and I'll get out and ride with them some myself," he added.

At Greenbelt Lake, Lake Patrolman Troy Welty said he would be at his job as usual, also making sure everybody out in the boats wore life jackets, observed the safety rules and had their permits.

"There's an area out there buoyed off to keep out boats," Welty said, "and a sign saying people may swim at their own risk."

"But really, they may swim anywhere around the lake they want to. If we put up a 'swimming only' sign, we'd have to hire a lifeguard."

Helping Welty over the July 4 weekend will be Game Warden Gary Hunt and Homer Holman of the Clarendon Water Department.

Dust, weeds and distances

As I was driving around the Tulsa area, I noticed a lot of dust, weeds and distances. The dust is a result of the drought conditions that have been plaguing the area for some time. The weeds are a result of the lack of maintenance on many of the roads and highways. The distances are a result of the fact that many of the services and businesses that we need are located in other parts of the state, making it difficult to access them.

It is time for us to take action. We need to invest in our infrastructure, including roads and highways, to improve the quality of life in our state. We also need to encourage local businesses and services to stay in Tulsa, so that we can have everything we need right here.

That was in 1974, and as far as I know, Tulsa has not changed much since then. The dust, weeds and distances are still here, and it is time for us to take action again.

County commissioners to discuss jail question

More appointments developed this week regarding the proposed meeting of the Board of County Commissioners to discuss the jail question.

Besides the main business of determining responsibility for the existing jail, the commissioners will have a separate session to discuss the possibility of building a new jail.

Helpful hints on wildlife

The American farmer and rancher is striving to produce enough food and livestock to feed the world and he is doing a good job but these efforts many times encompass drastic land changes including destruction of natural wildlife habitat.

To help supplement this reduction in cover and food for native birds such as the quail, pheasant and prairie chicken, it is sometimes necessary to allot a fencerow or corner of the field to wildlife plants and cover.

Quail, for example, depend on three factors: cover, food, and weather. The adverse High Plains weather can be minimized if the food and cover conditions provide for winter survival and for spring nesting.

A strip of domestic grain along a wheat field will do wonders for upland birds and migratory birds such as dove. Most domestic grains are grown for early maturing seeds and the stocks are usually soft for ease of harvesting. These factors dictate a combination of domestic grain and wild plant food for wildlife.

Some of the more common wild plants that furnish seeds for upland birds include wild sunflower, Russian thistle, broomweed, ragweed, and smartweed. A few plants furnish both cover and food such as the Russian olive, aromatic sumac, and black locust.

Planting instructions for all wildlife food whether specialty seed such as the game bird pea, WGF sorghum, bob white soybean or domestic grain, such as corn and maize, should include good soil preparation.

On cultivated land, use normal plowing and seed bed preparation. On pasture sod, disc strips two or three times to break up the hard pan surface.

Since most birds eat insects in spring and summer till the first hard frost, the unnecessary use of insecticides should be eliminated. Consumption of these sick or dead insects by game birds will reduce the bird's natural ability to fight disease or escape from their enemies.

It is often difficult to convince a good farmer to plant only one-half the normal seed rate he would use for normal production crops. This lower seeding rate is important as birds need room to maneuver freely through a food strip. The underplanting will also allow weeds to reach maturity furnishing a variety of food-lasting through winter-until next spring.

Assistance from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is available by contacting Richard DeArment, Extension biologist, P.O. Box 122, Wheeler, Tx. 79096.

CONSUMER FOOD NEWS

Canned fruits and vegetables and fresh cantaloupe have attractive prices in many Texas grocery markets. Mrs. Gwendolyn Ciyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, reports.

In addition to canned produce specials, consumers can find low prices on pasta, grapefruit juice and sandwich buns.

In freezer chests, economical prices appear on meat pies, orange juice, potatoes and fish, although some fish prices are inching upward.

Cantaloupe quality is excellent at attractive prices, and plentiful watermelons have moderate prices. Texas honeydew melons reflect lower prices, but apricots, nectarines and plums are still relatively high priced. Varying prices appear on bananas, cherries, oranges, peaches and pineapples, so choose according to budget limitations.

Local truck farms producing top-quality, low-price produce make these items worth considering: yellow and zucchini squash, corn, cooking greens, purple hull peas, green beans, radishes and green onions.

Also look for economy buys on cabbage, carrots, cucumbers and green peppers.

Fryer chicken are a bit lower, and special prices appear on fryer parts.

Medium and large size eggs have reasonable prices, but jumbo and extra large are bringing "premium prices," since quantities are limited.

Look for specials on smoked picnics and sliced bacon. Frankfurter and pork liver prices are down. Good buys include rib and loin pork chops, semi-boneless and canned hams.

Look for reasonable prices on rib, sirloin and round steaks and features on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and beef liver.

CONSUMER WATCH WORDS: Although apricot prices are high, this is their peak season.

B. B. "Rabbit" Osburn had the $5,000 wooden awning over his furniture store's window taken down, June 23 and replaced with a metal one.

The new awning, a new 36-inch door and some metal basing altogether will cost him only $1,600, Osburn said.

"Hopefully, the new awning will cut out some of the rain, and I won't have to clean windows so often," Osburn said.

Of his wooden slat awning, Osburn said, "At first I thought they had simply forgotten to finish it, but the fellow told me it was designed to allow light into the store while at the same time eliminating the fading effects of the sun's rays."

Country Club News

Quite a few things have been going on at the club lately. Last week Kathryn Cain was hostess for Duplicate Bridge Club. Frances Skelton won high and Nell Barnhill and Billie Chauveaux tied for second place.

Saturday night a good time was had by all at the Summer Dance. Quite a few stayed for breakfast.

This weekend, July 2, 3 & 4, there will be a member blind partnership. Play anytime during the three days and turn in your score to Jerry. You will be given a blind partnership ball with handicap. Also, ask the Pro about National Golf Day Charity this weekend.

At 8:30 a.m. on July 7 Jerry will give a golf clinic on chipping and putting—$1.00 a person.

LADIES GOLF

The last few playdays we have had more people out but there is still room for more! We hope to be able to get Playday winners noted from now on. Last Thursdays were Championship flight: Dorothy Breedlove Medalist: Billie Chauveaux and Frances Skelton tied for Playday.

First flight: Kay Hayes - medalist, Maxine Hardin - Playday. Second flight: Thelma Clements Medalist: Avis Benson - Playday.

Our annual tournament scheduled for June 23 and 24 has been postponed until Aug. 4 and 5.

Note that before Playday Thursday July 7, Jerry is going to have a clinic on chipping and putting.

DPS Reports 4th deadliest 3-day weekend

The Fourth-of-July holiday period was the deadliest 3-day weekend of last year. Fifty-five traffic related deaths were recorded in Texas. Sixties also show July to be the heaviest traveled month of 1976.

Mrs. Florence Baker has returned from a two-week trip to her former home at Alvarado where she visited friends and relatives.

Farmers protest farm bill

Stating simply that "farmers are not going to be the whipping boy any longer," the Texas Farmers Union today officially positioned itself for serious protest action to begin in the next few months. Details of that action, possibly a strike or moratorium on supplies purchases as well as rallies and demonstrations, are being formulated at this time.

Official resolution came from the 9,000-member organization's Executive Board, which is asking first for floor rewrites of four-year general farm legislation now before Congress and expected to be finalized shortly after the Fourth of July recess. Second, if amendments are not made, they ask for a Presidential veto. Failing that, the organization promises some form of a strike or protest action.

The Farmers Union points its main opposition to the Farm Bill toward provisions which would provide low "floors" and precedent-setting "ceilings," also at low levels in order to keep prices, at a world level of trade in addition to preventing food inflation. Farmers claim, however, that they cannot deal with income set at a cheap world level while their own costs for equipment, supplies and labor are at inflationary domestic levels.

Highway department designs for safety

Master bridgebuilder describes complex task

Story and photos by Bob Litten

Did you ever wonder while driving under an overpass if such structures ever collapse?

"It's happened," said Don Clark of the Texas Highway Department, who is supervising the quality control for the overpasses at 140-Groom.

"One collapsed across the Canadian River in Oklahoma while two trucks were on it not long ago. They're still investigating who that happened," Clark said. "But many of the ones we're driving over now are as much as 60 years old."

William O. "Bill" Frost, owner of Frost Construction Co., Hydro, Okla., is the man in charge of the construction of the 140 overpasses. He has owned his company since 1946, but he has been working on bridges since he was 12 years old.

Frost received his bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from Oklahoma University in 1912.

Frost said that the highway department designs the overpasses and specifies the types of materials to be used in their construction.

"They pick the most direct route and the one they believe will create the least problems for businesses and homes in the area. But they have to hold public hearings, and you'd be surprised at the number of things environmentalists can take exception to. Sometimes an environmental impact hearing can take two or more years."

The most common complaints, however, are from people who live near a lake across which a bridge is being built or from parents when a highway is being constructed near their children's school," Frost said.

After the highway department's plans have been approved, Frost said, they accept bids from contractors. There were between eight and ten bidders for the 140 project, he said, although the average is between six and eight.

TWO OF FROST'S employes pour quality-controlled concrete into oil-lined steel "treemie" to create a pier.

affect the quality of the materials we use any."

Frost said that the highway department designs the overpasses with safety factors built in. The designs are based on the loads expected to be going over them.

When overpasses are opened to traffic, the highway department maintenance crews watch after them. "If some problem develops, they can usually fix it before it gets away from them," he said.

Frost is favorably impressed by the quality of the designs created by the engineers of the Texas Highway Department. "They keep up to date," he said.

Frost said that ideally he should be through with the 140 job by next spring or early summer. "If we don't get some more men, though, I don't know how long it will take. On this job we need 20 to 25 men. We're at about half that and, working 50 to 55 hours a week."

Before Frost's men can start drilling the sub-structure pier holes, a grading crew has to create two high embankments. The bridge-builders then drill down to a firm material that is deep enough to avoid "scour" problems. "Scour" is moving sand, a common problem when building over, or even simply near, a waterway.

"Here there's no scour at all, so the piers are being sunk to anywhere from 16 to 37 feet," Frost said.

The highway department, not Frost, determines where and at what depth the pier holes should be drilled. They test the bearing capacity of the soil before they make their designs," he said.

After the pier holes have been drilled, a cylindrical steel "treemie" is set into the pier holes and concrete poured into the treemie. An oil coating on the treemie helps prevent the concrete from adhering to it. To more readily stabilize the piers, the underground bases of the piers are flared out.

The highway department, meanwhile, continually checks the air content and consistency of the concrete. They also make two small test beams which they "cure" for seven days and then break.

After the two rows of piers are solid enough, a concrete "cap" is laid over each row. Then steel-reinforced beams, which have been constructed and pre-stressed at a plant in Amarillo, are laid across the two caps.

Next, a seven-and-a-half inch floor, also of reinforced steel but not pre-stressed, is placed across the beams.

Finally, the rails are added and, as far as Bill Frost is concerned, the overpass is completed.

CAUSE OF BITTER CUCUMBERS—Most Texas gardeners have problems with bitter cucumbers once the weather turns hot and dry. Any conditions that put plants in stress, such as low moisture, high temperature and low fertility, may be the cause. Maintaining favorable growing conditions for the plants is about the only way to help prevent bitter cucumbers, says a vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. If the fruit still remains bitter, peeling a little deeper may help since bitterness is generally associated with the skin.

Charcoal cooking

Charcoal fire is ready for outdoor cooking once it is a rosy bed of coals covered with grey ash—but if flames are still visible, the fire is not ready.

Achieving a good bed of coals for meal preparation depends on several basic steps, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Start the fire 30-60 minutes ahead of time so flames can die down and the coals turn gray.

To begin, stack briquettes in a pyramid, soak lightly with charcoal lighter fluid, let stand one minute, and then light. Never use fuel oil, kerosene or gasoline to start a fire—as they are highly flammable, and the smoke leaves an oily taste on the food.

Hickory chips add a distinctive flavor to charcoal meats, so if they are in the outdoor cooking plan, prepare them early by overnight soaking in water.

After the fire is lit, drain the chips and place a small mound of them in the fire center—a handful is sufficient.

Long-term cooking of larger meat cuts may require additional chips later.

To keep the fire burning, protect it from drafts that might cause overheating and "hot spots."

If more charcoal is needed, place new pieces at the fire edge and move them into the center once grey ash covers them. For quick extra heat, simply knock the accumulation of ash from the burning charcoal.

To control flames produced by fat dripping onto hot coals, keep a spray bottle of water handy—or a bit of baking soda.

HOW DEEP IS OUR RELIGION?

Religious activities are not always what they seem to be on the surface. We may "go to church" regularly, even a lifetime, and never really worship God "in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24). It is possible to make gifts to the church treasury, even liberal ones, and still never get around to practicing true self-denial and sacrificial giving as taught and exemplified by Christ (Luke 9:23).

How deep is our religion? Is it founded on rock or sand?

If our religion does not lead us to search diligently for truth in the Word of God, it is not deep enough.

If our religion does not inspire us to faithfully worship our Father in heaven, it is not deep enough.

If our religion has not converted us to the basic concept of honesty and fairness in all of our relationships, it is not deep enough.

If our religion has not cultivated within our hearts the spirit of humility, forgiveness, kindness, and love for God and man, it is not deep enough.

If our religion does not motivate us to keep the commands of Christ, it is not deep enough.

If our religion does not help us to cheerfully accept our God-given responsibilities in the home, in the church, and in the community, it is not deep enough.

Yes, we can piously express outward religious forms on Sunday morning and then deny God the power to transform our lives the remaining six days of the week (2 Timothy 1:7). In the practice of true Christianity, however, we cannot substitute a few hours worship and lip service for a week of godly, consecrated living.

It is a sobering thought, this matter of our religion — and its genuineness. It is purely personal. How deep have you dug? Have you found the rock, the Christ, on which to build a spiritual life that will outlast this world and its fleeting attractions?

Bagworm control

Bagworms damaging insect pests of evergreens and occasionally of broadleaf plants, are beginning to make their appearance.

Evergreens should be closely examined, advises County Agent Ronald Gooch, and if newly hatched bagworms are found, control measures should be applied. The worms immediately spin a bag of silk around themselves and attach bits of foliage to the outside of the bag as they feed. The larvae carry these bags wherever they go with only the front part of their bodies protruding for feeding and movement. The bags enlarge as the bagworms grow. A heavy infestation, warns the county agent, can completely strip the plant of its foliage. When this happens, the plant can be lost.

The effective "camouflage" presented by the bags makes the insects hard to detect and damage may be extensive before they are noticed. They are much easier to control while they are still young.

If bagworms were present on a particular plant last year and control measures were not applied, chances are very good, says Gooch, that an application of insecticide will soon be needed.

For the spray application, malathion, Sevin, toxaphene or lead arsenate insecticides are effective. These chemicals are available from feed and seed stores, nurseries and garden supply stores under several trade names.

Details on bagworm control are available from the county agent's office Gooch said.

TEEN LEADERSHIP LAB

Fifty eight 4-H'ers, and sponsors attended the District 1 Teen Leadership Lab conducted at Clarendon College June 21-23. The 4-H'ers were from 19 counties in District 1.

Under the leadership of Martha Couch, 4-H and Youth Specialist from Lubbock, ten staff members conducted sessions worked around the theme "All in the Family." The teen leaders were: Mike Adams - Potter Co.; Luann Kiser - Moore; Brad Hutton - Dallas; Sally Brainard - Gray; Steve Douglas - Deaf Smith; Lisa McAnear - Donley; Philip Moreman - Donley; Jill Pronger - Sherman; and Annette Flores - Sherman.

The purposes of the lab were: (1) To gain insight into yourself. (2) To learn ways to improve family communication. (3) To learn ways to enhance teen-parent relationships. (4) To discuss the types of families. (5) To learn about marriage. (6) To plan for families of the future.

Those attending the lab were divided into 5 groups by color classifications. Two staff members directed group activities in order to fulfill the purposes of the lab. The first session, "You in the Family" helped the 4-H'ers answer the question of "Who am I" and focused on building self-esteem. One-way-two way communication games were played to cover the importance of communication in the family.

Realizing that every family is universally unique, the 4-H'ers discussed different types of families. An exercise was done to discover areas which often create tension between teenagers and adults. Family problems are often caused by "Independence and Responsibility: A Two-Sided Coin."

Thursday morning, the final session covered marriage. 4-H'ers discussed readiness for marriage and the ten basic elements which help make most marriages successful. These are: Sharing, Understanding, Communication, Commitment, Effort, Skills, Satisfaction, Feelings of Self-Worth, Unity, and Love. Each group conducted a fake marriage ceremony to make them realize just how important the wedding vows are.

The Teen Leadership Lab was a great success. Fifty eight persons went away a better person because they developed more lasting friendships and learned more about themselves and how to cope with life now and in the future.

Donley County 4-H'ers attending the Leadership Lab were Lisa McAnear, Philip Moreman, Sherilyn Walker, and County Extension Agent, Cynthia Manning.

Leon Rausch & The Texas Panthers play dance

This is another over-night success story, that takes 25 years to tell. Leon could not resist the call of the fiddle and guitars ringing through the Ozark Mountains from his boyhood home south of Springfield, Missouri and from WSM's Grand Ole Opry Saturday nights, and later from the "Ozark Jubilee" hosted by the late and great Red Foley. Still another sound of the South was being heard through the Southwest. This time fiddles and guitars combined with drums and even horns with occasional "Ah-Ha's." Leon left for Tulsa in 1956, called by all this Western Swing, where the Wills and McAniffes were holding forth. Hank Thompson wasn't too far away at the time (Oklahoma City), and through a series of events ended up on Bob Wills' bandstand as vocalist and hold this position for about three years and then to brother Johnnie Lee Wills for another three. Next move, setting up headquarters for a new band called, "Leon Rausch and The Texas Playboys" after Bob Wills' failing health, forced him to limit his engagements, and this band stayed in the business until 1968. The record product of this association was to be "From the Heart of Texas" on the Kapp record label.

Then came Leon's fine tribute album to Bob Wills, "Do'it Bob's Way" on the Discus label. All the songs "are Wills' standards... Bob Wills' reply when he heard it was "Sounds just like us!"
