LOCAL FIRMS GET WARNING OF OPEN DOORS

NIGHT WATCHMAN CHECKS UP IN CARELESSNESS OF LOCAL CONCERNS.

Mayor H. W. Taylor brought to the attention of The News this morning a report of the city night watchman for the months of September and October, which sheds much light on the carelessness of many local business concerns in locking up their places of business at night.

In the month of September nine concerns in various parts of the city left front, side or back doors unlocked and sometimes standing open.

According to Mayor Taylor this sort of carelessness invites prowling and pilfering and he asks that more care be exercised in the matter of night closing.

The list of business houses whose doors were found open is in the hands of the Mayor and may be seen by all interested parties—except the crooks.

ENGINEER KILLED IN MEMPHIS WRECK

EXPRESS MAN INJURED AND PASSENGERS SHAKEN IN WED. NIGHT ACCIDENT.

Memphis, Oct. 30.—Frank M. Wire, 53, Amarillo engineer, was fatally scalded late today when the locomotive of the north bound Fort Worth and Denver passenger train No. 1 sidetracked a freight engine standing on a siding 300 yards from the local railroad station.

H. G. Saunders, Amarillo express messenger suffered severe injuries but no passengers were injured beyond being badly shaken.

Wire, veteran Fort Worth and Denver engineer, died on the way to a hospital after being taken from the engine cab by Fireman Allen and Sim Deeson, local carpenter.

When Allen and Deeson reached him, however, he was lying in scalding hot water. This caused his death, according to a physician who attended him.

Much of the track was damaged and it was believed tonight the track could not be opened before 9 or 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

PANHANDLE PRESS ASSOCIATION

OF WEST TEXAS, BY WEST TEXAS AND FOR WEST TEXAS

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its annual convention at El Paso last week discovered to itself and to the world that it is an organization of West Texas, by West Texas and for West Texas. An undercurrent of rumors following the resignation of its manager last June had effected an uneasiness about the permanency of the organization and some loss of confidence in its purpose and effectiveness, and the postponement of the annual convention from June to October had not counteracted these rumors; therefore the convention was one of greater seriousness and caution than any ever held in its decade of proud history.

The situation outlined above drew to El Paso hundreds of loyal citizens of West Texas intent on saving from disintegration the organization which for ten years has been regarded as the outstanding regional chamber of commerce in the world, and a body which has brought more benefits to this section than any other agency during its existence to the present time. There was a deficit in the treasury of the body of some twenty thousand dollars—quite a sum of money, but a mere bagatelle compared to the vast territory and resources of West Texas. One of the first problems of the directorate was the wiping out of this deficit which would herald to the world that the towns, cities and business interests of West Texas were unequivocally behind the organization and plans were laid accordingly.

When came the hour for consideration of the deficit, one city—Fort Worth—stood ready to pay the entire deficit, if necessary and there was from almost every town and city a rallying of forces and finance which said to Fort Worth its assistance was appreciated, but would be accepted only insofar as its just part might appear. In less than forty minutes the entire deficit was subscribed with some fifteen hundred dollars over, with three large towns yet to hear from, and much of the money was laid on the table then and there.

Following this example of confidence and faith in the utility and demand for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the directorate through its various committees mapped out what has been declared to be the most constructive program of work for the coming year, ever attempted by the body, and the convention closed amid great good feeling and unanimity of the leaders and delegates from over the territory.

W. B. Hamilton, the new president, is a popular and successful business man of Wichita Falls—a man of large means and imbued with the visions and energies of West Texas, and he is calling to his side men of like calibre and purposes. His election is indicative of the present temperament of the territory. The men of largest vision and highest ability, men of means and versed in the conduct of large affairs are behind the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and confidence shaken by idle rumors has been restored.

No, the "bally-hoo" gang was not at the El Paso meeting. It may never be at another West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, but the men of West Texas who envision her progress and her greatness were there and have decreed that the organization shall not cease to function, but that it shall exert greater and more practical efforts for the people of West Texas, and it shall be so.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is an organization of West Texas, by West Texas and for West Texas.

It is worth many times its cost to the towns and cities of West Texas and is worthy of our best thought and efforts.

Another act of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in convention at El Paso last week was the passage of a resolution endorsing and urging the creation of a State Park in the Palo Duro Canyon. This is a project very dear to the hearts of the Panhandle people and one which is certain of realization in the next few years. The coming of the motorcade to this section at this time points additional interest in the project and The News bespeaks for Mr. Colp and his party the very cordial reception his work in relation to our own Palo Duro Park entitles him to. The Palo Duro Park proposal is the most unselfish sectional project we know anything about. It is worthy of the unanimous support of all Panhandle people.

Directors of the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo announce plans for building two new buildings for increased accommodations at the 1930 fair. The 1929 fair turned in a neat profit and in accordance with the by-laws of the organization all profits go to the extension and up-building of the annual exposition. The Tri-State Fair is destined to be among the greatest fairs of the Southwest and is already being so recognized. Congratulations are due the official family of the Tri-State organization and to the whole Panhandle country.

Those hundreds of automobiles off in the ditch Sunday and Sunday night from the general rains in the Panhandle, no doubt carried thousands of passengers with whom little argument is necessary on the subject of paved highways.

Competent financial authorities say there is no cause for alarm as to general conditions of business suffering from the crash of stock prices in Wall Street. They point out that most businesses over the country are well financed, are not connected in any way with the stock juggling of the traders, and with fair conditions prevailing over the nation may expect a good business in the next six months or a year. So far as we see the stock situation was merely the logical result of pyramiding of the stock gamblers and since it is their profits they have kicked away, the country may continue its usual ration and volume of business. The experience may prove a valued lesson to all but the professional gamblers. Legitimate business will proceed.

SOME TOWNS WON'T TAKE TELLING

Not long ago the executive head of a town's leading civic organization, and the owner and publisher of the largest newspaper, had called to their attention the fact that among other such things, grass was growing in the sidewalks and curbs of their business district. They laughed and said, "well, I guess that won't keep any business out of towns."

In the same month the officials of another city were reminded that they had no parks or playgrounds for youngsters or grown-ups, and they replied, "Oh, that doesn't mean anything; we have plenty of other things and a place to play won't keep any factories from coming here."

About the same time another community was warned that lack of interest in their company, shown by so many citizens, might prove costly. They said, "Ha! ha! What has that to do with it as long as we have a Chamber of Commerce with plenty of money and pull."

Now I am told that city No. 1 was crossed off a list of seven towns selected as "possible" for a factory with a fifty thousand dollar monthly payroll, due to conditions reported "run down, seedy and unattractive appearance of the community in general."

A large industrial concern, in the final analysis of two accepted towns chose the other in preference to town No. 2, because the report on my desk shows said town had no recreational facilities for employees to whom five million dollars would be paid annually.

In this afternoon's mail there is evidence that because a survey of town No. 3 showed the population 72 per cent negative civically, the town was refused a donation of $250,000 which it had asked of a large foundation.

As long as citizens of a community refuse to profit by the experience of others—as long as they won't be told or appreciate the telling, just that long will those towns stay as they are, failing to get new business and allowing the business they have to go elsewhere.

"He didn't know the gun was loaded," "He didn't stop, look and listen," are famous epigrams. Now, as far as many towns are concerned, you can add, "We never thought about that."

Bronchos Hold Bear Cubs To Scoreless Tie In Hard Tussle Friday—Fifth Conference Game

Attended by a large delegation of fans the Broncho high school football team invaded the gridiron of the Estelline Cubs last Friday and held the enemy to a scoreless tie in one of the hardest fought battles that the locals have encountered this season. Hut-ton's aggregation expected that they had met their match in the beginning of the game and put into the affray all that they had in the knowledge of football. The game started off with an even matched team, the locals showing up to a better advantage in weights and veteran material. The Cubs had trained hard for the game and entered the field with a strong determination of holding the visitors to a low a score as possible. Hard fight, loyalty and plenty of pep were feature of the game. Backed by a large crowd of side line fans the teams had splendid support all through the game. Noble, Est-lack and Dillard were the stellar players for the locals. Noble was taken out of the game immediately after the half on account of an injury. Tucker was sent in and played like a veteran. This was the only substitution that was made on the local lineup. Estel-line only used two substitutions.

While the Estelline fans had predicted that the game would go to the Cubs by the score of 13-6, the supporters of the local team had hoped that the Bronchos would register a 6-0 victory. The pep squad and the municipal band under the direction of Bandmaster Stevenson was on the grounds and furnished music during the game. The following is the game re-corded play by play:

Sport 'o graph

The Bronchos 'kept the faith' with their supporters last Friday in one of the hardest fought bat-tles of the season. Many support-ers of the club attended the game and saw the locals hold the Es-telline Bear Cubs to a scoreless tie.

Individual honors certainly must go to Captain Noble who made many thrilling plays during the first half of the game. Noble was knocked out after a few min-utes of the second half but the 'old Broncho spirit still remained with him, and in spite of his in-juries he wanted to stay in for the finish. That is the spirit that makes championship material.

Clarendon Bronchos have played seven tie games in the last three years. Two of these have been played this season. There seems to be an epidemic of tie games making the rounds this season. It is well for the Mentors of the clubs to handle the disposition of these games, as local situations must play an important part in the schedule and circumstances that surround the teams.

If Estelline beats Childress this week when they go to Childress, it will raise the standing of the club in the conference. Estelline has a splendid lot of players and those who saw the Bronchos in action last Friday are backing the Estelline aggregation.

The Estelline players are all clean sportsmen and gave our boys a square deal and a hard fight. Every courtesy was extend-ed to Clarendon folk on the Estel-line gridiron at the game and when the players visit Clarendon they may be assured that this will be remembered.

Nothing is of more value to a town than athletics. Football seems to have taken the day and when a town has a good foot-ball club it may be assured that it will receive a lot of favorable publicity. All the towns in this conference, who have played at Clarendon boys this season will have the best feelings of the play-ers. Clarendon hopes to have made a favorable impression with the visitors who have followed the teams here this season.

The Memphis club easily won over the Quitaque club last Fri-day in a loosely contested game. The score was 45-0. The Memphis club has played a wonderful sea-son and are likely to be contend-ers for the district title.

The Childress Bobcats who are said to be the strongest players in the conference, stacked up a high score against the Wellington Rockets last Friday. Childress is slated to give some of the clubs a hard contest for the last few games of the conference.

Beef usually becomes more palatable and tender if allowed to ripen or age for two or three weeks before being cut up. The quarters or wholesale cuts are ordinarily aged in a dry cooler carrying a temperature around 36 degrees.

The ball goes over. A pass from Barcus to Curtis gains 16 yards. Estelline fails to complete two passes and is penalized 5 yards. Estelline fails to complete two more passes. The game ends with the ball on Estelline's 40 yard line. Score Estelline 0, Clarendon 0.

Texas Produces Big Lot Fuller Earth

Fuller's earth was produced in Texas during 1928 to the amount of 33,388 tons, valued at $338,050, according to statistics compiled by the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas. As compared to the preceding year, both production and value were slightly increased, the production of 1927 being 26,939 tons, valued at $283,400.

Cement was produced in Texas during 1928 to the amount of 6,345,604 barrels, valued at $10,938,646, according to statistics ob-tained by the Bureau in coopera-tion with the United States Bu-reau of Mines. Both production and sale of cement increased ma-terially during 1928 over 1927, ac-cording to Dr. E. H. Sellards, as-sociate director of the Bureau of Economic Geology. Production for 1927 totaled 5,655,835 barrels, val-ued at $10,332,908.

It's a good plan to examine regu-larly in fall and early in spring for signs of mouse injury. Mouse injury in orchards may be pre-vented in four ways: Removing cover around trees; treating trees with washes to repel mice; inclos-ing trees with mechanical protec-tors; and killing the rodents. Pison-bait stations are probably the best way of controlling mice in orchards, according to the Biologi-cal Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Tennis Favored By University Students

Tennis appears to be the most popular sport among the women students of the University of Tex-as, judging from the number of co-eds enrolled for physical train-ing classes. There are 203 girls registered in the various tennis classes, while the next largest classes are in interpretative dan-cing, in which there are 178 girls. A total of 141 co-eds are signed up for golf courses, while in arch-ery classes there are 73 and in swimming 44. Other sports offer-ed are clog dancing, fencing, rid-ing and tenokits.

Medical examinations were given to all new students at the beginning of the year, and those students not in good physical condition were placed in suitable physical training courses. There are 110 girls enrolled in classes in corrective physical training, fifteen are required to rest for an hour period instead of taking physical training, thirteen are spending their physical training hour in walking, and three are under doctor's supervision. There are 1,200 co-eds enrolled in some form of physical training. Three years of physical training are re-quired of women students.

Simmons University to Observe Dad's Day

The first annual Dad's Day to be held at Simmons University will be celebrated here Friday, November 1. Fathers of students of the university will be guests of the Athletic Association on that date and will be given tickets to the Simmons-Southwestern football game on Parramore field. A Dad's Club will also be organ-ized.

The occasion will become an an-nual affair, according to G. B. Sandefer, athletic manager. Inv-itations have been sent out to sev-eral hundred dads of Simmons students.

The Southwestern game is the first conference tilt of the year for the Cowboys and is expected to draw several thousand fans from over this section.

Turkey Feathers

Turkey feathers when properly prepared command good prices as potential feather dusters, feather beds, pillows, etc. The turkeys should be dry picked and the feathers spread out to aid and dry. While drying they should be turned frequently. The quill feath-ers should be separated from the others; sometimes it pays to sepa-rate the white feathers from the colored ones.

Pullets that are to lay well throughout the winter months should begin laying the middle of October or first of November.

Eighty-three game and bird re-servations are now administered by the Department of Agriculture for the conservation of wild life. One of the largest of these is the Upper Mississippi River Wild Life and Fish Refuge. Another important one was authorized by Congress in 1928, at Bear River Bay, Great Salt Lake, Utah. Im-portant breeding, feeding, and resting grounds for migratory birds are also provided at Big Lake, Ark., Malheur and Upper Klamath Lakes, Ore., and Tule Lake, California.

HOOVER TUNES IN ON THE WORLD

President Hoover should have no difficulty in "tuning in" on the world. He has the distinction among radio fans of possessing the longest radio aerial in Washington, perhaps the longest in the United States. From the roof of the White House to a tree at the west boundary of the surrounding plaza, a span of more than 400 feet, the new aerial spreads. It was ordered after the President had had some trouble in locating a distant program.

Three sets of radio serve the President. One is located in his private study at the White House one in an upstairs parlor, while the third gladdens Presidential parties over the week-end at the Rapidan fishing camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

HE WON'T CROSS THE OCEAN

If Senator Borah had accepted membership on the American delegation to the London Arms Conference it would have been the first time he ever crossed the ocean. Some time ago he told the news men informally that he had no intention of ever going to Europe, or, for that matter, outside of the United States. As he let the matter rest with the simple statement, there has been much conjecture as to why he has taken this position.

Some believe that he has a dread of sea sickness, and medical men, among them Dr. Charles S. Butler of the Navy Medical Corps, the author of the latest work on that disease, state that those who have an idiosyncrasy to that disease are in mortal terror of the sea. If Senator Borah is an unhappy victim of that predisposition, then his refusal to travel overseas is easily explained.

However, the happier explanation is this: Senator Borah is by and large the most important figure in the Federal Senate. He has reached a place of eminence by long service, by studious habits, by courageous independence and by right of upright character and great intellectual ability. He feels so his intimates frankly state, that the Senate is his field of operation, and that he would be misplaced in any other forum or position.

While he is a student of foreign affairs and one of the most potent voices in international politics, it is probable that he does not care to become involved too closely in them by actual contact, thinking that such a connection might lessen his influence in his larger plain of operations. He would rather deal with all such questions in the Senate, it seems, rather than have a part in formulating them.

OUR IMPORTANT WOMEN

Women are playing more and more a large part in the performance of the county has come to know as the National Government. Now and then one of them, like Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, gets a high executive position, and is in the spotlight continuously; but it is not of these important figures that this news note would sing. It is the women who are holding quiet, and more obscure secretarial positions.

It is rather remarkable that so many Senators and Representatives have women secretaries, most of them having come up through civil service from minor positions in which they have made good. The rather notable instance of this is the secretary to Vice President Curtis, who is the first woman to hold such an important position.

A Washington reporter went to one of the Departments the other day to get the background for an elaborate and important article on such an intricate business as the Government secret service and was referred to a maiden lady of elderly years, who had the whole picture in her mind, her fingers on the plexus of wires that ramified all through it, and the intimate details of every striking personality and of every detail of the organization on the tip of her tongue. She knew what the reporter wanted, and she knew how to tell him what he wanted, and then to reassure him in his knowledge she said: "I think I had better take you down to see so and so, who is at the head of this branch of the service and of that." This was just a kindly intentioned act to give confidence to the reporter in the strict integrity of his facts; and it developed nothing she had not already told him.

Washington women have learned how to keep a secret.

A MEMORIAL TO WASHINGTON

As you walk down Pennsylvania Avenue towards the Capitol on the East side of the street between Sixth and Seventh Streets you will see an immense foundation, covering a whole city block. At first you gain the impression that it is an uncompleted stadium the Government is erecting as a part of its great building program on the Mall. A closer inspection removes this suspicion from your mind, and your curiosity aroused, you ask a watchman:

"What building is going up here?"

"The George Washington Memorial," he replies.

"And sure enough, that is what it is; for on this spot will be erected before 1932 the great National Memorial that will commemorate the bi-centenary of the birth of the Father of this Country.

In order to get the ground for it and to retain it, the Memorial Association had to put down the foundation, and it first money was used for that purpose and to pay some of the architect's fees.

The women of the country are back of this Memorial, and are making drives everywhere for the money with which to erect it. They have before them the ghastly failure of the Washington Monument Association made of raising funds for the stately obelisk known to all the world as the Washington Monument, and they are working like beavers towards their goal.

This memorial will be a great national auditorium in which concentrations of every sort can assemble. There will be the most commodious hall in Washington, and from the plans approved by the government not the least beautiful one on the Mall.

POLITICS THIS WEEK

The word "internationalism" seems to have been deleted from Senator's vocabularies this special session by tacit consent. Probably proponents of the Smoot-Hawley school of thought feel that they have enough on their hands with combating national opposition without going into the question of foreign relations. It was interesting therefore, to observe how those relations were dragged in by a member of the inmost circle of protection last week.

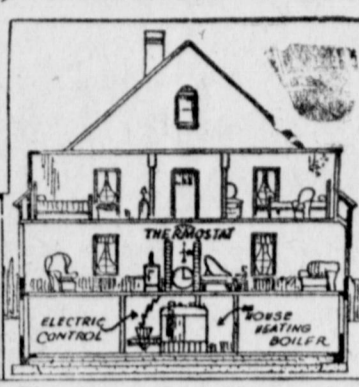

Senator Charles Waterman of Colorado offered an amendment to abrogate the reciprocity treaty between Cuba and the United States, which gives each nation favored treatment in the other's markets and includes a 20 per cent preferential in the duty on imports of Cuban sugar. He thought the arrangement an "injustice" to America. Other Senators, however, estimating Mr. Waterman's 100 per cent Americanism to be composed of at least 99 per cent Colorado beet sugar, felt otherwise, and the amendment was defeated by a vote of 60 to 14. In the course of the debate, Senator Harry Hawes of Missouri said that an expert had informed him that American consumers were saved some $30,000,000 annually by retention of this preferential. This amount, both he and Senator Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina agreed, was a "moderate estimate." Such solicitude for the consumer as well as for international relations is an excellent omen for further sanity when the rates in the bill come under process of revision.

A MILLION SANTA CLAUS STEEDS

Why in the world should a U. S. Commissioner of Education have jurisdiction over a herd of one million reindeer in Alaska? That's exactly how said Commissioner, William John Cooper, felt about it. He felt so strongly about it, in fact, that he submitted a recommendation to Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, that other officials take over the care of his novel charges. Secretary Wilbur acted on the recommendation and turned the herd over to the Governor of Alaska, effective November 1. In a statement headed "Commissioner of Education is no longer valet to Santa Claus," the Department of the Interior explained why

'Warm' Houses Often Too Cold For Children, Scientist Finds

LIKE many other things about the house," writes H. Vanderwoot Walsh, Assistant Professor of Architecture, Columbia University, in "The Parents' Magazine," "the heating equipment seems to have been designed more for grown-ups without children than for the whole is maintained mechanically and not by shoveling coal and turning on dampers. The gas-burner is the simplest and most automatic of the three, the oil-burner is mechanically more complicated and less fool-proof and the electric stoker is only semi-automatic.

The thermostat holds even heat

"If you must be satisfied with hand firing, then you ought to install a thermostat, which will mechanically open and shut the dampers on the fire, thereby controlling the temperature of the house automatically. When the temperature goes up above 70 degrees, the thermostat shuts off the fire in the boiler. Heat stops circulating and the radiators cool. When the temperature gets below 68 degrees, the thermostat starts the fire again. Within fifteen or twenty minutes heat begins to circulate through the radiators and to warm the house." (Reprinted from "The Parents' Magazine.")

The careful regulation of the home with growing children is a problem receiving more thought every day. According to a report of the United Hospital Fund, in the United States there are from 2,500,000 to 2,000,000 people ill in bed each day. At least half of these persons, the report continues, are probably ill because they caught cold. The kiddies form a large proportion of this group, many cases of which could be avoided through proper precaution. Proper heating and heat control, as pointed out by Mr. Walsh, is a major factor in prevention of colds.

On the Transcontinental Air Transport line, a seat like a pullman table. Stationery bearing the TAT trademark and a drawing of an airplane in fleecy clouds is also furnished by the company.

The popularity of aerial correspondence is attested by the report from one transport, line of a consumption of 6,000 sheets of note-paper and envelopes, and 9,000 postal cards in six months.

On days of low humidity and high winds, fires are easily started and hard to stop. This is a season when many persons take advantage of the drouth and slack times to burn off the accumulation of weeds, rubbish and bugs. A large number of woods fires are caused by allowing such rubbish fires to get beyond control and spread into the woods. Choose a cloudy or rainy day to burn rubbish, and watch the fire closely.

SOUTH TO SPEND QUARTER BILLION ON MOTORWAYS

By E. E. Duffy

One quarter billion dollars is the amount that thirteen southern states will expend in 1930 in highway construction and maintenance, according to a compilation recently made by the Industrial Index.

Of the total, $172,000,000 will be devoted to construction and $60,250,000 will be spent on upkeep.

South Carolina expects to build $21,000,000 worth of new roads and to spend $2,500,000 for maintenance. This large expenditure will be permitted by South Carolina's new bond issue for $65,000,000.

The additional gas tax recently passed by the Georgia State Legislature will enable that state to spend something like $16,000,000 of which $13,000,000 will go into new road building.

In Oklahoma $12,000,000 will probably be spent by the State Highway Commission while an additional $12,000,000 will be spent by county and township boards. Louisiana will be enabled to devote some $20,000,000 to roads in 1930 of which $16,000,000 will be for new construction.

Texas, the most populous of the southern states, will have her state roads bettered by some $41,000,000 of which $30,000,000 will be for new roads.

It is estimated that Alabama will spend $4,700,000; Arkansas, $21,000,000; Florida, $10,800,000; Kentucky, $11,000,000; Mississippi, $9,750,000; North Carolina, $10,500,000; Tennessee, $15,000,000; and Virginia $15,000,000.

Highway authorities point out that this increased highway activity in the South will have a direct bearing on future prosperity in that better roads reduce the amount of money that must go into upkeep and also reduce the cost of operating the car from as much as one to three cents a mile. Many sections of the South have really suffered from lack of transportation facilities for perishable produce. Further, farmers in many instances have been forced to truck their produce into market while the roads were good and the prices bad. Many are of the opinion that the envisioned 1930 highway program will lead to even more extensive highway construction in years following.

Clarendon Man Arrested Near Estelline Friday

Charges of possession of liquor has been filed in Hall County against C. W. Berry of this city, according to information learned here Monday.

Berry was arrested at Newlin Friday afternoon, after it is alleged, that Childress County officers had seen him hide two cases of whiskey in a sorghum patch. One of the officers held the man until an officer from Estelline was brought to complete the arrest. Berry was lodged in the Hall County jail. It was not learned if he has made bond.

Your Children

Perhaps they are just "half pint" size now—a care-free little chip off the old block.

But they are growing fast—so fast it sets you thinking sometime, and when a few short years have passed they will be ready for college.

When that time comes—will there be money available to put them through?

Whether you've had a college education or not, you want your children to have one. You want to give them every chance, every advantage to succeed in the keenly competitive struggle for a good living.

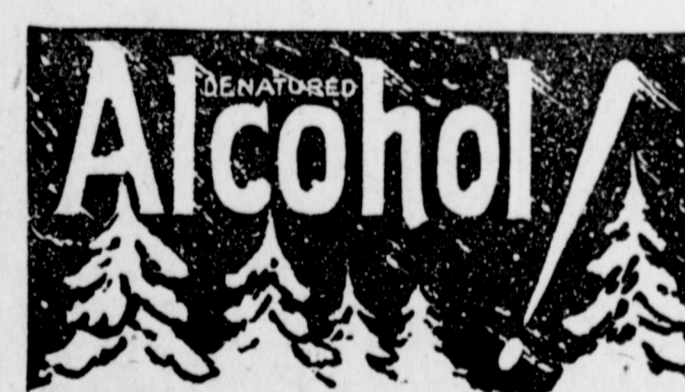

Only college education will give them that, cold figures tell us.

Perhaps you have already decided your children will go to college. But—what if you should be taken away before that time comes? What if misfortune should make it impossible to have the money on hand when needed? Have you done anything to make it a certainty?

Childrens Educational Policies serve to promote thrift, provide funds for an education or business, and to start the child out on an insurance program.

ed and the taste in my mouth was awful. I was so nervous that many a night I didn't sleep a wink. No medicines helped me for any length of time and I finally decided to try Sargon. I have finished my sixth bottle, eat anything I want, my indigestion is gone and I am strong and energetic! My nerves don't bother me now. I sleep fine and my friends all tell me how well I look. I was visiting my mother in Uvalde, Texas, and told her what Sargon had done for me. She said many people there were praising it too! Sargon pills ended my constipation and biliousness. I will always praise this wonderful treatment."—Mrs. Lillie List, 1300 Caldwell St., San Antonio.

THE C. H. S. BRONCHO Edited Weekly By Pupils of C. H. S.

CO-OPERATIVE SPIRIT The football boys and pep squad wish to express their kind appreciation to the business men of Clarendon, for their loyal co-operation and interest in supporting the good 'old team of Clarendon Senior high. The business men have been very faithful in backing the Bronchos and they appreciate it very much, but please keep the co-operative spirit going and help the Bronchos win the district championship. The Bronchos have played hard this season and have not lost a game. They have tied two, and lack one more conference game with Shamrock. Business men, do you realize that if the Bronchos beat Shamrock they have won this section of the district? No one can ride the Bronchos of Clarendon high with the loyal support of the town. The business men have already shown that they are proud of the team by closing their stores for the Memphis game, and furnishing their cars to take boosters from here to Estelline. By this loyal co-operation Clarendon is able to boost a much larger representation than Estelline at her own home game. The pep squad wish to thank the business men for their support in helping them secure adds for the paper. Every one seemed ready to do his part in helping the girls raise money. Business men, once more do we want to thank you for your loyal support and may it continue until the Bronchos buck over the top for district champions. Hurrah! for the Bronchos and thanks to the business men. Ruth Price.

THE SENIOR RINGS One of the proudest moments experienced by a senior is when he receives his class ring. Each believes his ring better than any other and fondly gazes upon it, the shining emblem of seniority. On comparing it with the rings of last year, he insists his is the finest, best, and out shines the other. Such is life. The rings are of the same design of the Junior pins last year and the senior rings. It was planned that we should set the standard and have a certain ring as the emblem of Clarendon high school, but from all reports, the juniors do not want to support this plan and have not decided on their pin. It is hoped they decide on the same patterns. The Broncho on the ring seems to have more pep, more life, than he had last year. He is the symbol of the Broncho football team that loyal, hard fighting squad that is working for the district championship. If one gazes at the little gold Broncho as a mystic mind reader gazes at unquenchable fire in the eyes of the Broncho that signifies the undying spirit of the Broncho football team. It seems to have been the failing of previous graduating classes to neglect the ordering of their rings until the latter part of school. No so with the Senior class of '30! Their order in early the prompt service of the engraving company and Mr. Goldston and the rings are here. The motto of the senior class seems to be—"Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today." No "last minute" hustle and bustle and flurry for them. They are prompt in all they do,—the Seniors. The Senior Class with pleasure accepts the invitation to the masquerade party given in their honor by the Juniors. This is an annual affair and offers much entertainment and amusement. Enthusiasm runs high and the party is expected to be a decided success. On Friday night, Nov. 1, the Seniors in full masquerade regalia, will join the juniors in the big dining room of the girls dormitory.

Sacajawea Camp Fire Girls Due to preparation for a play to be given in the near future, camp fire activities have been at a partial standstill. Because we wish to give the public the best that we are capable of, we have suspended other activities and are devoting our time to practice. We hope to secure the co-operation of the whole town in putting this play over in grand style for the main purpose of it is to make money to buy honor beads, and to help pay our dues for the next camp fire year. Come on, home folks! Back up as we do you and the project will be a success. Reporter.

A PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT Pauline Shelton Every town with a population as large as that of Clarendon should have a public park. This is not a luxury for a town but a necessity. A public park should not be merely a tract of land on which trees and shrubs are growing, but it should contain playground equipment. The playground equipment should be that builds up character and not that gives merely a thrill. There should be equipment for the older children as well as for the younger children, such as tennis courts, croquet grounds and swimming pools. In the park, there should be an office and a person to supervise the playing. In the summer if it is possible, there should be a story teller to tell the smaller children stories. The play in the park should be

ACTIVITIES OF THE PEP SQUAD The pep squad has done its part in helping the football team come through the preceding games successfully so far, and it hopes to be present at the rest of the games this year to help the team win by yelling for them. The entire pep squad aggregation wants the Bronchos of Clarendon high school to be district champions because the pep squad knows that if it does its part on the side line, the team will do it part on the field. Each Thursday night preceding the scheduled football games on Friday, the pep squad with other members of the student body, meets at the college for a pep rally. Old and new songs and yells are practiced, then the students go to the business section of town and give yells to show that they are backing the home town team. The members of the pep squad appreciate the backing of the business men and other citizens of the town for backing and sup-

The three exclusive sources of its sensible comfort are: the arch bridge, the flat inner sole, the metatarsal support. Comfort features obtainable in no other shoe. But Selby Arch Preserver comfort means more than just freedom from foot aches and troubles. Women who wear this shoe are pointed out for their free, flowing walk, their assured poise and their entrancingly curved instep. Support Best Motion Pictures, Dr. Jastrow Urges Psychologists; Sees Censorship As Ineffective

Dr. Joseph Jastrow, one of the principal speakers before the World Congress of Psychologists held recently at Yale University, stressed the importance of the motion picture as a medium of shaping human thought and urged cooperation with producers and theater owners to foster and arouse support for the better class of pictures.

"Censorship is a confession of fundamental weakness in our social structure," Dr. Jastrow said. "My principal quarrel with it is that it can never accomplish the desired end."

"The motion picture is here to stay. Nothing is more futile than to attempt its improvement by harassment. The only way to achieve constantly improving product is to organize public support for the best pictures."

"I am thoroughly convinced that those charged with the making of motion pictures in America earnestly desire the help and cooperation of leaders of thought toward a fine and psychologically useful product. We must not let the making of motion pictures degenerate into a game between the less scrupulous producers and the censors, with reiterated attempts to 'get by' with something. The community should constructively support the efforts of the responsible companies to make, and secure support for, better pictures."

R. JOSEPH JASTROW

Dr. Jastrow said that he was one of the psychologists who have studied pictures on the young. He criticized so-called censors.

"The normal adult," he said, "enjoys the conflict, the game element, involved in a good detective story. He does not identify himself with the crook but with the forces of law and order. The normal child reacts in the same way to a motion picture where the criminal, after an exciting chase and futile subterfuge, is run down and punished. To hold otherwise is to insult the basic nature of our children."

"With motion pictures there is even less danger of psychological harm from crime stories, because the producers of motion pictures take a great deal more care with the treatment of crime themes than does the average novelist."

Dr. Daniel C. Knowlton and Dr. J. W. Tilton of Yale University reported on extensive experiments in the use of motion pictures in teaching children. They found that pupils learned nineteen per cent more and remembered twelve per cent more when taught with motion pictures. They also found that children so taught read, without request by their teachers, forty per cent more of supplementary history.

During the entire conference confidence was expressed that the motion picture was a helpful development in the mental life of society and that the American motion picture as produced today had shown wholesome as well as rapid progress.

A 13-Hour Day for Hens

Increasing egg production by use of artificial lights in the late fall and winter should not be overdone. The hen's working day should not be longer than 12 or 13 hours for best results. While the use of lights keeps the laying stock in better condition and increases egg production, excessive use of them is harmful. Some poultrymen use lights only in the morning, and some in both morning and evening. When lights are used in the evening, a dimming device should be provided so that when the bright lights are turned off the hens can see to go to roost. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, a 40-watt lamp is a desirable unit. Lights should be about 10 feet apart, 6 feet above the floor and should be fitted with a reflector about 16 inches in diameter.

One of the rules to follow in figuring the dairy cow's ration is to allow 1 pound of grain each day for every pound of butterfat she produces in a week.

Hogs are supposed to be so constituted that they can not economically digest dry hay or fodder, but alfalfa is an exception. Hogs will not eat alfalfa hay readily at first, but after becoming accustomed to it they relish a limited quantity, especially hay made from plants cut at an early stage. Alfalfa hay added to the grain ration reduces the cost of gains and is good for the hogs. Alfalfa is especially good for brood sows.

NEW YORK-PARIS FASHIONS

ONE hears a lot about the off-the-face mode in new hats, but there is a tendency to exaggerate their use. The French way is to adapt the hat and mold it to the head of the wearer, for the day is past when one can just go to and buy a hat in a hurry. The little off-the-face models should be modified to suit the individual and worn with a suggestion of a jaunty tilt to one side to give them the truly Parisian air. And it is well to remember that the feminine clothes demand dressier hats.

One just couldn't think of wearing a plain felt with a velvet flock, while crepe lace inserts, feathers, or fur trimming have a way of dressing up a hat. The sketch at the top is of green felt with a crepe lace insert down the back of the crown to the nape of the neck. The felt brim has a slight gathered fullness at the sides to give the chic effect. The Agnes turban with a crown of chenille interwoven with silk has a felt brim which is smartly longer on one side. The new evening caps sponsored by Talbot are fashioned of lustrous crepe lace, or of maline. The illustration shows a maline turban, the crown the color of one's hair, while two tones of blonde or silver maline wrap the crown in a bandeau fashion.

University Uses Large Amount Paper

Publication of official papers, journals, bulletins and pamphlets of the University of Texas requires approximately 275,000 pounds of paper annually, according to A. C. Wright, manager of the University Press. Of this amount, some 125,000 pounds, or nearly three carloads, are used in printing the Daily Texan, student newspaper, issued six times each week during the long session and three times a week during the summer.

Student labor employed by the University Press during the past year cost $8,600 of the $39,000 spent for labor, Mr. Wright said. Student employees now working at the press include Leon Flatt of Cleburne, H. D. Edwards of Tyler, Grady Stiles of Austin, Clyde Lightfoot of San Antonio, Jack Atchley of Cleburne, Conoley Stiles of Taylor and Ralph Moore of Austin.

"I've tried it out and I know" he stated, "and I want to say right here and now that what five bottles of this Orgatone has done for me beats anything I ever saw in my life! I was so bilious that when I'd get up in the morning I would feel more tired and worn out than when I went to bed."

GALA PREMIERE OF TALKING PICTURES AT PASTIME THEATER REPRODUCED BY RCA PHOTOPHONE SYSTEM

LIFELIKE REPRODUCTION OF MUSIC AND SPEECH GIVEN BEFORE OPENING AUDIENCE WITH PLAYING OF THE COCOANUTS.

Sound flashed its magic across the screen of the Pastime Theatre Monday, thrilling a premiere audience gathered to see and hear the new entertainment marvel of the century, the talking picture. Audiences of Clarendon had demonstrated to them for the first time the new system of reproducing sound and talking pictures developed by RCA Photophone. The finest players of the stage, screen and opera will now be brought in almost living character before local audiences to sing, talk and play while they move.

The impressive clarity of music and speech at Monday's performance brought praise from critics, the public, and the many engineers and sound experts gathered to head the opening with sound of the Pastime Theatre. The voices of the players were transmitted to the audience without any of the sound defects that have hitherto marred talking motion pictures with all the volume and beauty of a human orchestra, delighting the ear with the tonal harmonies of the recorded instruments, now hadly distinguishable from the original.

Patrons of the Pastime Theatre discovered that they could hear with as much comfort in the rear of the theatre as in the front. This is because of the special "fan beam" method of projecting the sound into the auditorium in the RCA Photophone system. The electro-dynamic cone loudspeakers employed, a development of radio broadcasting, are so located about the screen that they transmit the reproduced speech and music to all corners of the house without loss of sound quality.

One of the noteworthy features of the installation at the Pastime Theatre is the maintenance of perfect synchronism between picture and sound throughout the performance. The lip movements of the characters on the screen conformed perfectly with the sound heard. In the musical sequences, the scoring of the selections played timed to suit the action on the screen. So accurate was the synchronization, in fact, that it was very nearly possible to forget that the characters on the screen were not real actors on the stage.

A congratulatory message was received from New York City by Mr. Mulkey manager of the Pastime Theatre, from E. E. Bucher, Executive Vice President of RCA Photophone, Inc., reading as follows:

"The installation of the RCA Photophone system in the Pastime Theatre marks, I firmly believe, a new era of entertainment for the people of Clarendon. You are to be congratulated on your vision. Sound reproduction, as developed by the leading factors in the electrical and radio industries of the United States, brings to the motion picture a wider field of dramatic action, to music a greater popular appeal, and to the audiences of the Pastime Theatre constantly growing enjoyment and diversion."

Engineering experts of RCA Photophone, and its allied technical affiliations, the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric Company and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, described the recording of a picture and its reproduction in the theatre as follows:

The photographing of sound waves caused by the speech of actors or soloists, and the many effects noises accompanying picture action, is accomplished, in the RCA Photophone system, by a highly sensitive electrical-optical system. When sound is produced on the set, it is picked up by delicate attuned microphones of the type used in high quality radio broadcasting. These microphones, actuated by the sound waves, cause a fluctuating electric current to flow in a circuit connected with a set of amplifiers similar to those used in radio receivers. The weak current is amplified many million times and is then passed into the sound recorder.

In the recorder, the current is sent into a system which vibrates mechanically according to the variations in current strength. This vibration is transmitted to a tiny mirror from which a high intensity beam of light is reflected. As the mirror vibrates back and forth, it causes the beam of light to vibrate with it. This vibrating light beam is passed through a hair-like slit and focussed on the film passing before it. Thus, a slit-like beam of light is made to paint its way back and forth across a width of film equal to the width of the sound track. On developing the film, the result is a photographic picture of the sound waves that entered the microphones.

Reproduction of sound from the film is accomplished through a reverse process. A beam of light, narrowed into a slit by a system similar to that in the recorder, is focussed on the track of the film as it passes through the picture projector. The beam passes through the sound track. In so doing, the amount of light coming through is changed by the progression of irregular black peaks on the traveling film. The action may be compared to that of a window shade being pulled up and down over a window, thereby changing the amount of light entering the room. After emerging from the sound track, this varying light is permitted to enter a photo-electric cell. This device is sensitive to changes in light intensity, and will vary the electric current in the circuit to which it is connected if a changing light beam is focussed on it. Thus the changes in light created by the photographic record on the sound track will vary an electric current through the medium of the photo-electric cell. This current is sent through a system of vacuum tube amplifiers which step up its value before it is fed into the loud speakers on the stage.

Winter Starting Problem Solved by Motor Mechanics

To many automobile owners, "cold weather driving" and "hard starting" are synonymous. It is true that an engine does not start as easily in winter as in summer, but a little care on part of the owner will go a long way toward minimizing the difficulty, Chevrolet Motor Company engineers point out.

Since the inception of the Chevrolet car more than eighteen years ago, company engineers have been applying themselves to the problem of easier starting.

Making use of the "cold room" facilities of the General Motors Research laboratories and working for hundreds of days in zero weather at the General Motors Proving Ground, Chevrolet technical men have been attacking the "cold motor" problem for many years.

In considering the case of the car that is difficult to start in cold weather, Chevrolet engineers call attention first to the rather obvious fact that an engine in good condition will perform all its functions, including starting more satisfactorily than one that is out of adjustment.

The principal parts which have a direct bearing on the starting of an engine are: Battery, starting motor, carburetor, spark plugs, ignition system and valves.

As the efficiency of the battery is materially reduced in cold weather, it should be given great consideration. If the electrical system is weak, complete combustion cannot be obtained, therefore, before the start of winter, it is good preventive insurance to have some reputable electrical service station check over the battery, spark plugs and entire ignition system. The starting motor very seldom causes trouble. The carburetor must be adjusted properly for the winter and choke and throttle controls connected properly.

The spark plugs are equipped with two electrodes set in such a manner that the electric current must jump across a small gap from one to the other. In making this jump, a spark occurs. It is this spark that ignites the mixture of gasoline and air in the combustion chamber of the cylinder. The size of the gap between the electrodes affects the type of spark produced. It is, therefore, important that this gap should be inspected for proper adjustment.

Obviously the spark plugs should be cleaned; and the terminals of the spark plug wires firmly attached. If the plugs have been in use 10,000 miles they should be replaced.

The ignition system, including all wiring and terminals should be checked at the beginning of winter, particular attention being paid to the distributor timing and to condition of the contact points. If the valves do not seat properly, a leakage of compression occurs resulting in incomplete combustion which hinders starting and also tends to foul the spark plugs.

Attention to these suggestions will eliminate your starting troubles this winter and cut down the wear and tear on your nerves as well, according to the Chevrolet engineering division.

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

Turkey growers apprehend that the recent agreement among produce dealers not to ship toms weighing less than 14 pounds or hens weighing less than nine may seriously reduce the Texas turkey shipments this year, as lack of good pasture, shortage of the feed crop and the long drought have impeded the growth of the young turkeys.

Otis Foster, farmer near Lytle, Wilson County, this year sold $6,000 worth of peanuts and peanut hay off 125 acres sown to that crop. The nuts brought $1.06 a bushel.

Griggs Canneries, Inc., Indiana concern has started work on the first unit of a cannery at Natalia, in the Medina district below San Antonio. Canning beans, okra and spinach, it will have a present daily capacity of 20,000 cans and will employ 100 workers. A modern citrus fruit packing plant is being built at Brownsville. The Atkinson Canning Co. at Longview is busy with the East Texas pickle crop. The Carnation Milk Co. plant at Schulenberg has begun operations with initial milk receipts far exceeding expectations.

Smithville Times, announcing construction of 200,000 gallon water work storage tanks, says present steam-driven equipment has been discontinued from service, and the entire plant is now driven by electric power from the Texas Public Service Co.

A $900,000 Chemistry Building, to take the place of one of the oldest buildings on the campus, is soon to be built by the University of Texas.

"The Eyes of Texas"

Kenneth Fink

Austin, Texas, Oct. 21, 1929—Austin witnessed with enthusiasm big league tennis Sunday, when John Van Ryn of Orange, New Jersey, and our own Wilmer Allison world doubles titlists, defeated Lewis White and Berkeley Bell of Austin, open finalists, in a thrilling four set match. Fans were surprised when Midge Gladman of Santa Monica, California, who ranks 7 in the U. S., defeated Edith Cross of San Francisco, who ranks 3 in the U. S. In the last match, Miss Gladman and Van Ryn defeated Miss Allison two out of three sets.

The campus looked like "the Deserted Village," Saturday after the exodus to the Texas-O. U. game at Dallas by auto, hitchhike, and train, Friday. Again the 21-0 score came as a surprise to Texas' fans and opponents.

University students are surrounded by an ever increasing circle of acquaintances, many of whom one would like to know better. In the several years a student is in a college, he meets many people each year with whom he is more or less in contact with for that year, and then perhaps in the later years he may hardly see any one of them. Peculiar, isn't it the way fate makes the lives of different people cross and recross from time to time? What a privilege it would be to be able to know well everyone whom you wished to.

In a journalism class which involved into a philosophy class, Saturday, one young lady brought out a salient truth. During the discussion of the value of a college education the benefit to be derived from various required courses and others who said:

"A college education may have little practical value in dollars and cents at the time it is being obtained, but later it makes you feel confident by making you think you know something whether you do or not. Why, even the boy or girl who has been in a university for only a year comes home changed more or less, sometimes for the worse—too true, but usually for the better."

Austin, Texas, October 27, 1929—Football fans witnessed the game yesterday in rain which soaked players, gridiron, and spectators. From the very beginning Texas scored and then consistently to the last. All the dope was upset in the games yesterday and Texas did her share to the tune of 39-0 over the Rice Owls. Texas is looking forward with eager anticipation to the conflict with S. M. U. at Dallas next week and with A. and M. Thanksgiving Day as Texas' chances for the championship become better and better.

The Students' Publication Board has put up a bulletin board on the west side of the campus on which scores of all the important games all over the United States are posted as soon as they are received. At night the board is electrically lighted.

The New Student Drive for $20,000 for erection of the Union Building, last of the three buildings, will begin Monday.

The following "short" appeared in the Daily Texan for Sunday: "When there are gray skies, we don't mind the gray skies," for red slickers, blue slickers, green slickers, yellow slickers, and plaid slickers keep the campus as gay as a summer flower garden even when the rain falls for a whole night and a whole day.

If it rained every day in the year, raincoat "ads" would put the newspaper advertising departments out of business. Everything from "hearts" to "exit signs" is brought before the public's eyes when fair maidens and gallant gentlemen step out in their rain apparel.

Eds and co-eds never fail to do their share of "brightening up" the world when Mr. Sun fails to do his duty.

Marriages Exceeds Divorces in County

There were 120 marriages in Donley County during 1928, according to a statement issued this week by the United States Census Bureau. Fourteen divorces were granted, the statement showed. During the year 1927, 119 marriage licenses were issued and twenty divorces were granted.

Harris county leads the state in marriages, 4,578 were reported for 1928. Dallas runs second with 4,219.

Following announcement that the Carnation Milk Co. will build a milk condenser at Sulphur Springs, the Southwest Dairy Co. gives out a statement that it will establish a modern milk plant there, giving the county two good-sized plants. Hopkins County has 23,700 milk cows according to a recent census, which helps to explain the desire of large companies to establish plants in that section.

In Batiste And Broadcloth

FABRIC designers continue to create patterns that are artistic and charmingly practical. The photograph at the right shows a new frock of cotton broadcloth which for simplicity and smartness reflects a decidedly Parisian air. The two-tone scarf collar, effectively done in this instance with blue and white contrasting materials, contributes a fine touch to this costume. The coat is of a cotton print colored nautical design and size, with the motif to match the frock. The other photograph shows a one-piece frock of printed batiste combined with white organdy. The scalloped yoke, cap sleeve pockets and hem band are edged with double rows of bias in colors that predominate in the print. Note the higher waistline, reflecting latest style trends.
