Thanksgiving Day Proclaimed by President With Nation Assured Peace and Prosperity

In the first document of this kind he has issued the President said assurances of peace at home and abroad had been strengthened, that the harvest had been abundant and that both capital and labor enjoyed "an exceptional prosperity."

The proclamation set Nov. 28 as the day of Thanksgiving. Its text follows: "By the President of the United States of America:

"A proclamation.

"At this season of the year, when the harvest has been gathered in, the thoughts of our forefathers turned toward God with thanksgiving for the blessings of plenty and provision against the needs of winter. They came by custom to look to the chief magistrate to set apart a day of prayer and praise whereon their thanks as a united people might be given with one voice in unison. God has greatly blessed us as a Nation in the year now drawing to a close. The earth has yielded an abundant harvest in most parts of our country. The fruits of industry have been of unexampled quantity and value. Both capital and labor have enjoyed an exceptional

Progress has been made in provision against preventable disasters from flood and pestilence. Enlightenment has grown apace in new revelations of scientific truth and in diffusion of knowledge. Educational opportunities have steadily enlarged. Enduring advances have been gained in the protection of the public health. Childhood is measurably more secure. New experience and new knowledge in many fields have been recorded from which a deeper wisdom may grow. We should accept these blessings with resolution to devote them to service of Almighty God.

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do appoint and set aside Thursday, the 28th day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving, and do recommend that all our people on that day rest from their daily work, that they should extend to others less fortunately placed a share in their abundance and that they gather at their accustomed places of worship, there to render up thanks to Almighty God for His many blessings upon them, for His forhearness and goodness.

Thanksgiving is here and Christmas is just around the corner. Our joy and personal satisfaction in this joyous time of the year is going to be measured in how much joy and happiness we bring to others. Let us have a most joyous season, then.

After a very wet, cold and disagreeable November there is some indication of open weather for a few weeks. The gins are humming again as the farmers are getting into the fields for the last half of the cotton crop and a happier and busier atmosphere is in evidence on every hand. Business is going to return to normal fall levels in De-

Our thanks are due the club women and Miss Thompson, Donley's very efficient demonstrator.

President Hoover has just concluded a series of conferences with leaders in industry and labor from all parts of the nation, the object of which was to ascertain just what program of development and progress might be relied on for 1930. It has been obvious from the day the great stock crash began that unless something was done the nation might suffer indirectly from the losses in stocks and legiti-mate business might be hampered in the New Year. But the president's plan of getting definite statements from great corporations and leading business executives of their building and expansion programs for 1930 has met with response, regardless of partisan politics, and we have every assurance now that 1930 will show an increase in building and employment over 1929. Through the federal reserve banks, loans to farmers on crops and land, and co-operative measures directed by the president the nation is rapidly throwing off the fear of panics and depressions. Business goes ahead with imperial confidence in 1930.

-000-EDUCATION IS NOT COMPLETED EARLY

Most of us have the idea that a man's education ought to be complete when he is about twenty. As a matter of fact, in all the more difficult callings, those in which sheer luck and low cunning are of least importance, and knowledge, power, and experience of the greatest, man is just out of school at sixty. This is true in the rarefied upper realms of business as anywhere else. The younger man who manages to attain to some showy second or third rank among financiers and business men is so remarkable that the cheer leaders of low literature write him up in the goan-get-'em weeklies and the sob sisters move down upon his abode in echelon formation.

The money and business power of the land is in the hands of old men. I am no cloudy optimist. I see life through no rosy glasses. I am not convinced that either the man or ness of being, the triumph of struggling, the color of the vast procession sweep aside all puny doubts and disconcertments.

To a man who can find beauty, glory, or tragedy in a grog-shop, a hovel, a slum, or the sinks under the piers, as readily and surely as in a mansion or a palace, there is no use of preaching the trials of existence. Every hour is too brief, every day too soon concluded, and life itself too pitifully short for the man who is doing something and taking joy in it.—George Luks in Red Book Magazine.

The safety campaign put on in Clarendon by the American Legion has been productive of much good in this community-just how much would be hard to determine. When there is a concerted effort among the automobile drivers and pedestrians to be mindful of the rights and safety of each other, accidents are always lessened. Then, too, the action of local business and professional men in keeping their personal cars off business streets on Saturdays and other peak days of traffic, has been of great advantage in allowing our farmers and tourists to have easy access to our places of business. It means better business and general good-will for our city, and safety for our citizenship. Let the safety campaign proceed.

PUNISHMENT FOR DRINKING SURE -BY NATURE IF NOT BY LAW

Some have charged that in the zeal of prohibitionists to cheer and bolster the eighteenth amendment they have neglected to preach temperance and the evils of strong drink. It is strange that this charge comes from those who tamper with whiskey, and not from those who are teetotalers, but nevertheless in order to keep our record absolutely straight—even to those who have forgotten good citizenship to the point of damage to their own stomachs and brains, we delight to quote a statement made last week by Dr. Alexander Garrett of Weatherford, Texas, one of the foremost physicians of that section of Texas.

Dr. Garrett says-"Knowing it to be an absolute fact that the drinking of whiskey is injurious to the human race, that it does not improve health or lengthen life, that it does not increase the intellectual capacity or make one wise, that it does not strengthen or benefit the moral nature, but that it does destroy one's morals and that no one for the Goodfellow work in this community. Get it on your mind and heart.

Solution for the Goodfellow work in this community. Get it on your lis helped financially by drinking whisky and that people who make and sell whisky unlawfully will, in all probability, sooner or later, take a course of training in the penitentiary behind walls and under the watchfulness of armed guards, reason would dictate to all who have reason to beware of whisky in all of its forms and forever let it alone and abstain from the use of it wholly, totally and entirely."

MOST PEOPLE ARE LIKE DUCKS

You read about "self-made" men. There is no such thing. No man ever made himself. Other people did it. The so-called "self-made" man was just smart enough to know that every time he did something for others, others would do more for him-and he did it.

thing for others, others would do more for him—and he did it.

You want to make money. You wouldn't be doing what you are doing if you didn't. Believe it or not, the fact remains you can not make money unless your neighbor does. Therefore, what you do to help him, helps you; and what he does to help you, helps him.

Your neighbor isn't just the man next door, but the man next door to him, and the man next door to everybody else in Clarendon. In other words, your neighbors are the people who make up your community.

Socially, the fellow who does not hold up his end is a poor sport, a short horse, a tight-wad and a moocher. You say, "He has fish hooks in his pockets," which is anything but complimentary and someting that you would not want said about you. In fact, you detest someting that you would not want said about you. In fact, you such people.

There really isn't a great difference between things social and things civic, except that there are more short horses entered in the latter event. Many of you who are good sports socially are moochers civically—not always intentionally so, but so, nevertheless.

Most of you are like ducks. Ducks are used to water—in fact, can't live without it. While they have it, they don't worry because of the lack of it; but if their pond dries up, they quack their heads off.

Others are working to keep the water in your pond—to insure continual existence, growth and prosperity of your town that you and your neighbors may live, work, play and make money. Recognize

Valuable Service

The most valuable feature of electric light and power is SERVICE.

CERVICE not only is that of placing a certain amount of electrical energy at the disposal of its customers; it is planning and building strong, aggressive and dependable electric power facilities so vital to the economic welfare of West Texas.

-This Company understands the significance of the responsibility which it bears to the people of this rapidly growing "Land of Opportunity." The ability of its cities and towns to grow industrially and commercially depends in a large measure upon the character of the electric power service which this Company renders.

-Looking to the future growth and development of this great land, the West Texas Utilities Company is ever building for the industrial and commercial needs of tomorrow.

-With three major generating stations, 15 auxiliary power plants and more than 2,000 miles of transmission lines, this Company places at the disposal of its customers an inexhaustible supply of electricity and a type of service not surpassed in the great metropolitan centers of the United States.

"The Eyes of Texas"

Austin, Texas, Nov. 17, 1929— The Student Union Drive to raise $20,000 closed Wednesday with a total of $12,372 in pledges. In-clement weather and football games seriously interfered with the campaign, according to the student workers.

The first of the three buildings in the Union project, the gymnasium-Auditorium, is growing rapidly, the second, the Women's gymnasium, will be started in the very near future. Construction will start on the third building, as soon as payment of pledges will warrant it. This building will be organization and social headquarters for the entire student body.

they were ready for a later market or for a starter on the next year's crop of money producers.

Mr. Combest states that no record was kept of the cost of raising this flock of birds, they being fed from the waste about the farm place which is two and one-half miles Northwest of Clarendon. The sum of $206.90 was realized from the sale of seventy-five birds that were sold on the market early this month and represents quite a nice little sum of money to be picked up when everything seems to be going dead erything seems to be going dead

Following the conversation con-cerning the price received from the sale of turkeys, Mr. Combest made the statement that there was no money in raising turkeys, even though he received the aforementioned figure for the birds sold. Mr. Combest further stated that he could hold no malice toward local dealers who had purchased his produce, but that he held the farmers themselves almost wholly to blame for lack of a better market situation for Donley County. He returned a short time past from a visit to Lamar, Colorado, and reported that producers in that section were receiving a much better price for their product than were the farmers in with stomach trouble that I simply felt like giving up. Nearly everything I ate disagreed with me; I had terrible pains in my right side; my color was bad and I was finally told that I needed an operation on my gall bladder.

Beef calves on the range that are weaned in late fall or winter should be fed liberally, as they make better use of the feed than when older. It is not usually ad-visable to feed yearling steers and heifers so liberally. Two-year-old steers must be wintered cheaply to insure profit in holding them until they are 3 years old. If steers come off the range in the fall fat enough, it may be more profitable to market them at that time. If they look for kill. time. If they lack flesh for killing and the feeder demand is strong, they may be profitably sold as feeders.

> Statement by HENRY L. STIMSON Secretary of State of the United States.

When the American Red Cross extends help to a foreign country stricken by a great calamity, it speaks for the mind and heart of the American people. Such beneficence, with the Red Cross representing the American public, has made for our country wide-spread good will over the world among peoples who have suffered. There are monuments and build ings and names of streets to commemorate this good will in many parts of the world.

During the last year, there were a number of instances of this sincere and generous help to countries protected by disease. tries prostrated by disasters. For this, the American Red Cross, has received warm expressions of gratitude from the sufferers.

To continue and expand these good deeds and to enlarge the ield to usefulness in our homeland, the American people should consider it a privilege and an op-portunity for service to belong to their national Red Cross.

Instead of using this national holiday for the purpose of celebrating alone, the city of Hedley has gone one better and put this day to a practical use, that of dedicating their fine new school building for the purpose which it is intended. Their services were held last Monday in the building, a full account of the exercises being found in the following story taken from the current edition of the Hedley Informer.

November 11, 1929, is a noted date in the history of Hedley Public School. A large crowd attended the Dedication Services at 10:30 a. m. W. A. Adams, Superintendent of Schools, Childress, Texas, was the principal speaker of the occasion. Mr. Adams stated that the proper education of our youth was one way of eliminating strife and conflict. He struck the keynote when he said that our beautiful building was constructed by men and women of the community who could never hope to use the building themselves—the only way they would be benefitted would be by seeing the boys and girls of the community provided with better opportunities and for with better opportunities and fa-cilities than they had. OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search ness prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today, this same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore

MRS. WATTS' PARENTS BURIED AT HUCKABY

An incident of especially striking tragedy is that one which has befallen the children of Mr. and Mrs. Carneal of Stephenville in the last two weeks. The mother of Mrs. Watts, stricken as she had been for the prest to work. had been for the past ten years, died at the family home in Ste-phenville November 5th. The Watts family left here and stayed in the home a short time, only to be called back by the serious illness of her father. Mr. Carneal died from the effects of an attack of pneumonia on November 16th and was buried just ten days fol-lowing the burial of his wife. Both these people were visitors in the Watts home here at odd in the Watts home here at odd times and were fairly well known here. The many friends of the bereaved family join in condolences at this time. The burial of both these people was had in the family burial plot at Huckaby, a small town in the country a short distance from Stephenville, where the home was had. A considerable family is left to mourn the passing of this couple.

Why pay two profits when one can be eliminated if the merchant buys direct from the Factory. If every one knew the quality of furniture there would be a lot more good furniture bought than at present. What does buying power mean to the customer? It means that he is going to get more quality and more style for his dollar. Why pay more than an article is worth? It is worth just what it is selling for elsewhere.

> More quality and style for less money is more than a motto with us. Let us explain our system of buying to you and you will see how we can sell for less.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Twenty or twenty-five years ago a young bookkeeper who lived in New Orleans decided that he would go to Central America to make his fortune. He got a position as bookkeeper for a very small electric company operating in Managua, the capitol of Nicaragua. The young man found aragua. The young man found that the business was not well managed and that, by making cer-tain improvements, the business could be built up to something very worth while. He therefore, very worth while. He therefore, approached the owners and asked to be permitted to buy the property, making the first payment out of his savings and paying for the balance over a period of time. They were glad enough to sell the property, and results proved that the young man was justified in his belief. in his belief.

The city increased to a popula-tion of 60,000, and just about two years ago this man sold the property to an American company the W. B. Foshay Company, re-ceiving in return many times the amount of money he had paid for the property, representing his ac-cumulated earnings of 20 years. Managua is a city of sharp contrasts, where one daily sees on the streets the modern motor car and the high wooden wheeled, ox drawn cart, each busily engaged in transportation. Well paved streets flank the adobe houses and iron shuttered stores, and the merchandise display store office of the electric company is practically the only modern, well lighted store front on the main street. However, this is changing and, while at the time the electric company began serving Managua it was limited to light service only, within sixty days additional only, within sixty days additional units for generating a greater amount of electricity were on board vessels at New Orleans, bound for Corinto, the port of entry on the west coast of Nicaragua.

NATIONAL ILLITERACY

One of the big oaks that someone of the big oaks that some-times suddenly develop from small and innocent acorns is the new Advisory Committee on Na-tional Illiteracy, just appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, "with the approval of President" work for less money.

One hot Sunday last summer a young Blue Ridge mountaineer "took his foot in hand" and strolled down to the President's camp. A man to man chat elicited the fact that education was scarce in that region. Somebody remembered that drafted soldiers during the war showed a shock-ing percentage of illiteracy in practically every state. A modest young newspaper man thought it over, and also "took his foot in hand" and went into the depths of the Blue Ridge to investigate. The result was a series of articles dealing with facts as he found them which sounded as if they might have been written on con-ditions in the well-known "back-ward nations" which the United which sounded as if they States often poses as leading into

EUROPEAN NAMES AND AMERICAN TOWNS

If our American pioneers had deliberately named their towns and cities with the purpose making future travelers from Europe feel at home, they could scarcely have succeeded any better searcely have succeeded any better than they have by distributing Old World namesakes to satisfy their own sentimentality. There are, for instance, no less than seven Venices in the United States, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic Society intricated. They are in the states just issued. They are in the states of California, Florida, Illinois, Louisiana, Missouri, Ohio and Utah. The real Italian name, Venezia, has been given to an Arizona community. Thirteen American cities are titled Naples, after Italy's Napoli, and six states claim a Belgrade, corresponding to the Jugoslavian capital, Belgrade.

change took place. Texas, the bulletin points out has a tendency to have to submit to the new Turketin points out, has a tendency to adopt the correct, original spell-ing of its European namesake towns, and harbors within its borders a Roma and a Milano. Wisconsin and Missouri have never settled a long mooted question as to whether the former's Belgium or the latter's Belgique is correct. If inhabitants of towns such as these actually become stirred up in a meticulous zeal for propriety, there will be end-less confusion and adjustments. Imagine, for instance, throwing off the map the comparatively simple Flushing, New York, for its proper Dutch original, Vlissin-

THE MULE STICKS STUBBORNLY BY

Many people uttered sentimentalities over the passing of the faithful horse, when the age of Henry Ford began to dawn over the land. Few, if any, evolved poetic farewells to the mule, though his gradual extinction, also, were phophesied. Now, from a government report we learn that farewells would have been wasted, for not only is the mule holding his own with the robot, but his tribe on the farms has increased by approximately 1,000,000 since his passing was predicted twenty-five years ago. There are more than 5,500,000 of these homely animals in the United States now, according to estimates.

The explanation of this surprising development is simple enough. Although tractors are most useful in certain types of farm work, the

WHERE THE PRESIDENT BUYS HIS MEAT

Another landmark of Washing-ton will be swept away next July 1, when Center Market, patronized by the White House and thousands of humbler households for 129 years, is abolished by Congress to make way for the huge gov-ernment building program. Here the meat for President Hoover's table is bought. Here Mrs. Gann, the Vice-President's sister, does her marketing two or three times a week. Hundreds of officials, including Senators and Federal ex-ecutives, eat daily the luscious wares offered at this historic spot strawberries from Maryland in November, watermelons from the Argentine in January, Casaba melons from Cuba, and vegetables the year around. Shiny Limousines are parked every morning near the old market place, while their richly dressed owners select the empting rations inside.

Distress in Capital kitchens at the market's passing will be deep, but there is another reason for mourning in Washington circles. Center Market is rated a $17,000,claim a Belgrade, corresponding to the Jugoslavian capital, Belgrad.

A queer complication regarding these cities has arisen since geographic boards in most European countries have made official decisions on the correctness of names. Strasburg, since France's ownership of Alsace, has become Strasbourg; must the eight Strasburgs in America insert an extra letter in their names? Coincidentally, our nine Smyrnas would dentally, our nine Smyrnas would dentally of the side of the indigestion and all the gas and the corresponding, the government an annual income of $115,000. Eight hundred people will be minus employment when this shopping center closes. With such a calamity portending, efforts are being made by some Washingtonians to have the old market supplanted with a larger more modern and conveniently located mart. It won't boast the handsome traditions of the old place, however—at least not for another 129 years.

Over a Billion Deadly Germs in a Single Drop of Water

Germs are so small that there may Germs are so small that there may be as many as one billion, seven hundred million of them in a drop of water. And just a few of these tiny germs, if they get into your blood through a cut in your skin, may make you so sick you will be in bed for weeks—may cause the loss of a limb through blood poisoning—may even infect you with that most dreadful and fatal of diseases, lockjaw.

Just because you can see no dirt in Just because you can see no dirt in a cut does not mean that it is clean. You cannot see germs. The only safe and sane thing to do, is to thoroughly wash every cut, no matter how small, with Liquid Borozone, to kill the germs, and then dust it with Borozone Powder, to hasten the healing. Liquid Borozone costs 30 costs 60 certs $1.20

A Plain Answer to a Reasonable Question

THE Germ Essence, imparted to highly refined paraffin base crude under a patented process exclusively owned by the Continental Oil Company for North America, actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a permanent, protective

No matter how long a motor stands idle or how cold it gets, this film is present and immediately lubricates the moving parts when the engine turns over.

It takes five to ten minutes-often longer-for the oil in the crankcase to fully flood the bearings in the starting operation. During this period, automotive engineers agree, from 40% to 60% of motor wear occurs. This wear is reduced to a minimum by the ready-and-waiting lubrication which the Germ Essence imparts to CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oils, retaining it on and in the surface pores.

CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil stands up under every condition of stress and strain. It will not break down or burn nor will it evaporate to any appreciable degree.

No other oil possesses these qualities.

So positive are we in our convictions, so positive have been our tests of this remarkable lubricant, that we are perfectly willing for you to select any operating condition-no matter how extreme -and we will meet it with CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil so satisfactorily that you will never consider using any other oil.

Go now to stations and dealers displaying the CONOCO Red Triangle—have your crankcase drained and begin immediately to profit through the use of this remarkable oil.
