The returns on their face suggest that there may be run off races in the second primary election on Aug. 24 for five State offices, namely Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Court of Criminal Appeals, Comptroller and Railroad Commissioner, but there have been only two definite announcements by second candidates.

Mr. Hurdleston says that he will not be a candidate for Railroad Commissioner in the second primary. This assures the nomination of Mr. Gilmore.

Senator W. A. Johnson has said that he will be a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in the second primary election.

S. H. CONDRON IN BONHAM

The News is in receipt of a letter from Prof. S. A. Condron, stating that he has been settled in the "Y" work. He drove through from Clarendon to Dallas, where he was appointed by the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. a field secretary of the State Y. M. C. A. working force. He has been given Fannin County with his headquarters at Bonham. His work is to organize the Red Triangle League, which is a supplementary organization to the "Y," just as the Red Cross membership is supplementary to that organization. It is a splendid movement and is associated with a very prominent man of that section of the State and will no doubt enjoy the work, as well as possibly get some benefit from it. They began their campaign last Sunday, and will continue until school begins.

AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION

Registrants under the Donley County Local Board have this week received cards giving classification, of Agricultural and Industrial claims by the District Board this week. These classifications do not change the classification given by the Local Board on dependency, being only the class given on the occupational claim made by registrants and should not be a source of worry to registered men. The Local Board announces they have not as yet sent out reclassification cards, and will not do so for several days.

ANOTHER CLARENDON BOY WRITES FROM FRANCE

Private J. H. Hinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hinkle, has just arrived in France with the other boys, and writes a very interesting letter to his parents. The letter is as follows:

Dear Mama:

I will drop you a few lines to let you know that I am all O. K. My platoon has charged Lieutenants, and we are all satisfied with the new one. Everything over here is very odd. All so different from America. They have ox-teams or one horse to a wagon, and the people all live in villages, no country homes hardly at all. They raise lots of hay and also garden stuff. Sure are lots of pretty flowers. The houses and barns are all connected and built of stone. I haven't seen a single plank house. There is lots of good water, too. Springs most every where you go. The country is hilly and mountainous. We can hear the cannon from the front where we are. There sure are lots of trees here and in the woods the strawberries grow wild.

Did they have anything at Clarendon on the Fourth in the way of races? We drilled. I guess I will make a good housemaid when I get back. I will know how to wash dishes and scrub floors. I think we will get our mail next week. I hope so, anyway.

Well, I don't know much to write, so I will close. Write soon.

JIM.

ROY PALMER DROWNED AT LELIA LAKE

Yesterday afternoon the sad news was received here, that Roy Palmer, a popular Lelia Lake young man, was drowned in the lake at Lelia, near the school house. Several boys were swimming in the lake, and young Palmer undertook to swim across, a considerable distance. He having been in bad health for some time, and subject to cramps, the other boys warned him against such an undertaking, but he thought he was strong enough, so he started out, two or three other going with him. About half way across he gave out, and drowned before the others could get him out. Roy was one of Lelia Lake's most popular young people, and his death comes as a shock to a great many people. The News extends the deepest sympathy to the grief-stricken parents.

HENRY KILMAN WRITES FROM NEW YORK

W. Henry Kilman, a former Clarendon citizen, now in the service of Uncle Sam, writes the following letter from New York:

Dear Editor and friends:—
As I used to live near Clarendon and learned to know quite a few people in and near that place, I thought it would not be out of place if I wrote a short letter to your paper. But first let me identify myself to you. Some of you are personally acquainted with me, others will remember me as "Jim Parker," in a play once pulled off in the Opera House at Clarendon. I came to Clarendon from Dallas in October 1913, and the play, "A Daughter of the Desert" was given in February 1914, I believe. Quite a number of you Clarendon people will remember me as "Jim Parker." Well, it has been some time since I was at Clarendon, but I haven't forgotten the fine people there. I have had quite a bit of experience since I was with you, in fact, I would say some real experience. Some of you that know that I have been in the U. S. Navy for the last ten months, therefore you will not be surprised to hear a part of what I am going to tell you. But first, I will tell you about a very narrow escape I had, due to a severe attack of cerebro-spinal fever shortly after I enlisted in October 1917. I was in the hospital nine weeks altogether. First I had spinal, then just as I was recovering from that, one of the worst dreaded diseases on earth, I took mumps and measles both at once. The three diseases came near getting me. Then as I was getting most ready to start home for a few days' rest and regain my strength, I was taken with scarlet fever. I finally recovered and went home, rested a few days and regained some of my lost weight and strength, (for I had fallen off till I would weigh only 115 at best.) But I have since gained some, for now I weigh 172. You see, my friends, I will soon be a man if I keep growing. Well, my experience was not through with, for after I came back to duty, the doctor said my tonsils must come out. I readily permitted them to remove my tonsils, and as a result, I came near bleeding to death, but, of course, I am well now. Now, some of my experience on the sea. We started out one fine morning in May, 1918, and took the U. S. S. President Lincoln. We took our load to France, and there we stayed seven days, and of course we boys had the privilege of seeing France and some of her pretty scenery. We took in the city where we made port in France, and I saw many wonderful sights. Also some pretty French girls. France is a very picturesque country, and I would never tire of its beautiful scenery. Wild strawberries grow there in astonishing quantities, and of the very finest quality. Some of them are as large as hen eggs. All of the buildings are very ancient in their appearance. Rock walls that look as if they might be thousands of years old. The French people are very nice to us, and especially do the young ladies love the American sailors.

Well, I will try to tell you briefly how the "President Lincoln" was sunk. She was struck at three minutes of nine o'clock in the morning, and floated only twenty-seven minutes after she was torpedoed. I was at one of her six-inch guns as she was torpedoed. I saw the torpedo coming, but could not do anything of any benefit, and by the time I could shout the terrible news, she was hit, and soon began to sink. And of course, I being one of the ship's gunners, I was among the last to leave the ship, and therefore narrowly escaped with my life. I stepped off of the "President Lincoln's" upper deck onto a life raft, and was once in my life waist deep in the Atlantic Ocean. I was thus for eighteen long hours. It was between four and five the next morning when we were finally rescued. Then we were back to France. (For we had started back to the United States. When we were torpedoed, five hundred miles from land.) Well, we stayed in France just three days and nights when we started back to the United States again and since we arrived in New York

COLLEGE PROSPECTS FOR ANOTHER SESSION

I have been asked frequently, especially of late about the prospects for next school year. I am pleased that so many people are interested. The community has a right to know the situation hence I am writing this.

The indications are that we are going to have all of the out-of-town girls we can care for. It looked like we had somewhere between forty and fifty boys lined up, before the prospects for lowering the draft age. No one can tell what effect this is going to have on the attendance of boys. I have not worked on local attendance. However a number who have not patronized the College have volunteered to tell me that they purposed doing so this next session. My judgement is that if the school is to pay its expenses as usual that it will have to have a larger local patronage than usual. The local patronage has always been good, in fact the school would have had to close before now had it not been good.

A Critical Time Confronts Us.
It is a well known fact that all schools that have been depending on the patronage of young men face a very serious situation. This is not a distress call but the mere statement of facts. Numbers of such schools have closed for the duration of the war if not for ever. It has never entered the minds of the authorities of Clarendon College that it would ever close for anything. Still I would be untrue to those who have worked so long and done so much for the school, should I conceal the fact that the school is confronting a real emergency and is in one of the most critical times in its history.

No institution that is not endowed can run long that don't pay its expenses.

The Faculty
Taken as a whole the faculty will be practically as strong as last year. This has been maintained without any increase in the faculty budget. I consider this remarkable indeed under the present conditions. I am satisfied that at least $2,000.00 will have to be added to the budget another session in order to maintain a high standard of efficiency.

Business Course
I made an announcement about a business course last week. I am negotiating for a teacher. Only a few have indicated so far that they wanted the course. It will not be installed unless it is seen that its expenses will be cared for by those who want the course. The cost will be about like you pay at regular business colleges away from home. The News office has kindly consented to enroll names. If you want this course enroll your name at once as this will be the deciding factor as to whether it will be offered.

GEO. S. SLOVER.
J. W. Owens and son, Matthew, returned Monday evening from Dalhart, where they have been for the past few weeks.

City, I have simply been on one round of pleasure and sight-seeing all of the time. I have been down to Coney Island a number of times. I have been on the top of the tallest building in the city, the Woolworth, which by the way, I believe is the tallest in the world.

Well, I guess I had better quit, for I am afraid Mr. Editor will not want to print such a long letter. Come to Coney Island, boys, if you want to see some pretty girls and a good time. Friends, I have almost forgotten to tell you one sad thing in my life. I used to sing a little, and after my tonsils were removed I could not sing any more, and I have quit trying. All my life has been more or less unhappy, and now since my dearest treasure, my voice, is completely gone (although I could sing but little, no time was so happy to me as when I was singing.) And I have not so many friends maybe as I once had. Now I hope God will see fit to let me die fighting for my country. I am ready, in fact I have hoped I might die in the service of my country.

Good-bye, friend where ever and who ever you are. I am, I hope, your defender,
W. HENRY KILMAN,
U. S. S. President Lincoln.

A MORE URGENT CALL FOR RED CROSS NURSES

St. Louis, Aug. 12.—The American Red Cross has been asked by Surgeon General Gorgas of the United States Army to enroll 10,000 trained nurses in military hospitals at the rate of 1,000 a week for the next ten weeks.

The present allied drive in France in which the Americans are taking a prominent part is given as the reason for the immediate recruiting of the nurses.

The Red Cross also is enrolling 25,000 young women for training as nurses in hospitals. These young women will enter hospitals in order to release the trained nurse for military service.

STATE MEETING OF FARMERS' INSTITUTES

Commissioner of Agriculture, Fred W. Davis, has announced that the Annual Meeting of State Farmers' Institutes will be held at Waco, August 21st and 22nd.

As the matter of Cotton Picking will be subject for prime consideration at that meeting, it is expected that the meeting will be even greater than that of last year at Austin, and that was a record breaker.

TRYING TO PROTECT MORALE OF MEN

St. Louis, Aug. 12.—At a conference of Red Cross workers held in St. Louis a decided stand was taken against relatives going to cantonment towns to be near soldiers. It was pointed out that the practice injured the morale of the soldier, brought about impoverished conditions his family and in some instances created a condition that threatened to disrupt the family.

It was agreed at this meeting to ask chairmen of all Home Service Sections to warn relatives against visiting camps. This may best be done by telling men about to depart for camp the danger of having relatives visit them and asking that they advise relatives against it.

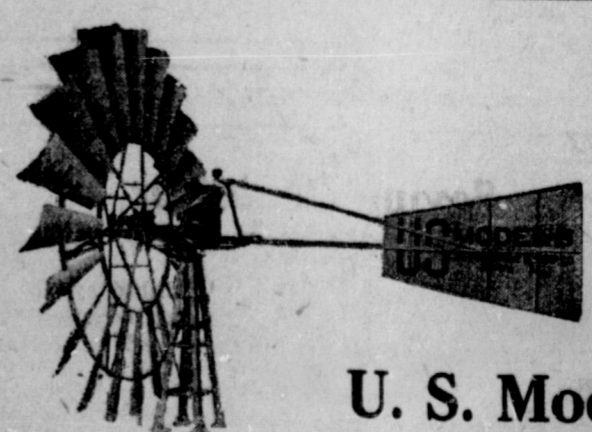

The Red Cross has been called on to aid thousands of stranded wives and mothers who left home and relatives to visit camps. The efforts thus expended by the Red Cross could be diverted to aiding dependents who remain at their homes.

CLARENDON, TEXAS

THE NEW EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The Star-Telegram makes the following clear exposition of the government's new employment service:

The ideal toward which the government is working in establishing the United States Employment Service, is to bring about a condition so that wherever war work may be affected no employer will hire help direct and no employe will apply for a job elsewhere than through the government's employment agency. It is proposed to reach this goal gradually, but it can be reached at all only with the full co-operation of the workmen and the employers of the country from the start.

The local branch offices of the United States Employment Service have been established now for some weeks. The Fort Worth office is at 115 East Fifteenth street, with W. H. Robb in charge. In this immediate territory there are offices at Dallas, Wichita Falls, Amarillo and San Angelo. At these offices all men seeking employment at unskilled labor and all employers seeking labor of this kind should apply. Gradually the system is being developed to include all kinds of labor, skilled and unskilled, but for the present chief attention is being given to unskilled labor. It will take a little time to build up the machinery to handle the entire labor problem, but the safe things to do when seeking work or seeking men, no matter of what character, is to consult the local office of the employment service.

This is no attempt to solve the "labor problem" as this phrase is usually understood. It is not designed to keep down wages or prevent strikes or to put up wages and prevent profiteering. So far as the government is dealing with these questions it is dealing with them through other agencies than the employment service. The purpose of the service is to insure a maximum production from the supply of labor which is at America's disposal during the war. It is designed to do away with idlers, with idling and with waste due to lack of system and haphazard distribution of labor. The ideal of the service is summed up under three heads: First everybody work, and work for the war--no idlers. Second, all workers work full time--no idling. Third, help plans for system in utilizing the nation's resources--no scrambling to get help.

With an increasing number of men being diverted from industry to the army and navy and with increasing demands being made by the government upon industry for purely war purposes, it is unnecessary to emphasize either to the worker or the employer the necessity of this. The battle line is as much at home as in the trenches, and any disorganization of industry at home will be equivalent to disorganization at the front. The government's plan is simple and easy to comply with. It is purely voluntary, just as our food conservation movement has been voluntary, but it is essential to carry it out. Not to cooperate is to be unpatriotic, and while this may not appear on its face at present the time will come when it will be universally recognized, especially with respect to employers.

Both to labor and to the employers it should be said that the government has given as much study and thought to this problem as it would be possible to give to it. The government is just as much concerned about avoiding disturbances of business as any employer could possibly be. It is just as much concerned about having satisfactory conditions of labor maintained as any worker could possibly be. But the government policy may be summed up in the words of Roger Babson when he said: "I know nothing of Labor and Capital. I know only honest Americans who all want to help in this great fight of the people against Kaiserism." And we may add with the government in a plan of this kind is so essential to winning the war.

In addition to the employment service, the government has also established what is known as the United States Public Service Reserve. This is made up of men already employed who will register and express their willingness to serve in war work. These men register for call at some indefinite future time and agree to go where the government may direct. While this is a branch of the employment service, the two should be kept separate in the minds of the workers. The employment service proper is that to which men wanting work and employers wanting men apply for immediate help. But information about the Public Service Reserve may be had at the local office of the employment service.

We call attention to this important phase of the government's far activity just now, because it is essential that both workers and employers should come to realize that it is to their interest as well as necessary to the proper conduct of the war that the industry and man power of the nation be systematized and mobilized. Let it not be said that the development of this new department of the government shall be hampered or delayed a single day because of lack of co-operation.

RED CROSS NEEDS MEN

St. Louis, Aug. 12.—The Bureau of the American Red Cross for the Southwestern Division with headquarters in the Railway Exchange Building, St. Louis, is seeking men for overseas service. Field and hospital directors, male clerks and stenographers, mechanics, casualty searchers, accountants and warehouse men especially are wanted. They must be beyond draft age. The Red Cross will furnish them transportation and equipment and pay a salary where necessary. The increased activity of the American Army in France has greatly increased the demands on the Red Cross. Applicants should write the Personnel Bureau, American Red Cross, 1250 Railway Exchange Building, St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Carrie Peebles and daughter, Fronell, of Dallas, are visiting Mrs. Peeble's sister, Mrs. J. H. Roberts, and brother-in-law, Mr. T. H. Peebles.

CAPTAIN HARRELL DECLARES HE HAS FOUND RIGHT THING

Daughter had Suffered all Her Life—Now in Splendid Health Troubles Gone and She Plays all the Time.

"You ought to see what a wonderful change Tanlac has made in my little girl, why, she's like a different child," said Captain T. M. Harrell, residing at Ingleside, Georgia, who was for twenty-five years a conductor on the Seaboard. "The child was never strong and had suffered ever since a baby," he continued. "She complained of headaches most all the time and her kidneys gave her no end of trouble. She had no appetite and what little she ate soured on her stomach and would put her in misery for hours, so that she could hardly sleep at night. She was weak and nervous and could not play like other children, although she wanted to. We gave her one thing after another, but nothing did her any good.

"I found the right for her, though, when I started giving her Tanlac. She began picking up right soon after she started taking it. Her strength has been built up wonderfully, her kidneys don't worry her like they did and she eats and sleeps like any other healthy youngster. Tanlac has given her health and happiness and she's now going to school and playing along with other children as if she'd never been sick at all."

Tanlac is sold in Clarendon by J. F. Tomlinson Drug Co., and in Jericho by O. C. Brown.

GET READY
Now is the time that your hens will moult or shed their feathers. This process is rather slow and Nature should be assisted. B. A. Thomas' Poultry Remedy will help your hens to moult causing them to shed earlier and be ready to lay when eggs are highest in the winter. If this remedy does not make good, we will. City Drug Store.

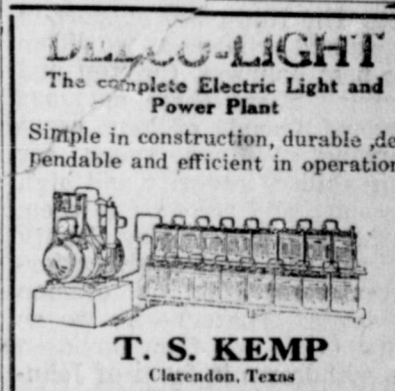

RED CROSS HOME SERVICE

The Home Service Section of the Donley County Red Cross has been thoroughly organized with an office at the Donley County State Bank, where Mrs. C. A. Burton, Executive Secretary, will be found every Saturday afternoon from 1:00 to 3:00 o'clock, ready to render any service which the Red Cross can give. If you need her at any other time phone her.

The Home Service Section is kept thoroughly informed about allotments, allowances, and insurance in the army and navy. Many perplexing questions in regard to these things and the numerous other problems of these war times may be helpfully settled by this section. The families and loved ones of the boys in khaki are urged to avail themselves of any assistance this section can give.

Our hearts are all bound together by the common tie of the boy in the service. This tie is a claim for sympathy and help of any kind. The Home Service is trying to answer the claim. Someone has very aptly said, "Home Service is not a mystical nor a technical thing. Home Service does not call for the expenditure of large sums of money. Home Service is not charity. Home Service is nothing more than sympathetic and encouragement understanding and decent human friendship." Let us show you this when you need us.

Does the whistle at 11:30 every morning cause you to halt in whatever you are doing, long enough to breathe up a prayer for God's protection over our boys and the entire allied armies? That's what the whistle is for—to remind us of our duty in this regard and none among us are too big or too busy to give it heed.

In the race for Railroad Commissioner, Hurdleston of Fort Worth has withdrawn from the second-primary, leaving the field to Clarence E. Gilmore of Van Zandt County, who lacked only a few votes of having a majority over both his opponents. This step assures the election of Mr. Gilmore and assures Texas as one of the fairest and most able members of the commission ever seated.

President Wilson was no doubt correct in his analysis of the Slayden case in Texas and the Hardwick case in Georgia, but The News believes that it is a dangerous precedent for the president to take active part in the politics of the states. It has never been done before and in the hands of less sincere and unselfish man than President Wilson, the practice will bring about evils hard to curb.

There will be a second primary, Saturday, August 24th, for majority nominations in three races for state offices, that of lieutenant governor, attorney general and comptroller. Davidson and Johnson will fight it out for lieutenant governor, Cureton and Woods for attorney general, and Terrell and Mayfield for comptroller. In these races The News will support in the second primary as we did in the first Johnson, Cureton and Terrell. These three men are personal friends of long years standing. We can vouch for their ability, integrity and high character and recommend them to the people of Donley County without the least equivocation, mental reservation or evasion whatever. (Later)—As we go to press we see that Davidson has withdrawn in favor of Johnson for Lieutenant Governor.

We want to see Hon. C. M. Cureton elected attorney-general of Texas in the second primary, because it is necessary for the protection of the interests of prohibition that he be retained at Austin. During the past few years he has rendered the cause of prohibition and civic righteousness great service as assistant to General Looney and his work in the brewery suits should assure him the vote of every wide-awake citizen who hates the saloon. He is a great lawyer, a man of the common people and it would be dangerous at this time to elect his opponent, John W. Woods, who two years ago had such vigorous support from anti-prohibition sources, even though he does claim to be a life-long pro. Cureton is a far more capable lawyer, and leaving out the question of security of our hard-won prohibition laws, deserves to be elected on the grounds of qualifications alone. The antis hate Cureton and will vote against him.

The State Democratic Convention will convene in Waco, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 3rd and 4th.

Donley County has, without boasting, the greatest crops in this section of Texas. Travelers from all directions testify to this fact and cause our hearts to swell with gratitude that we are thus blessed when others so near by are suffering for lack of rain. Year in and year out Donley County proves to Texas and the nation that this is the garden spot of the south. Real estate business is becoming active again as people from drought-stricken sections on all sides are seeking locations here, where there has been not a single crop failure in fourteen years—some say longer.

Louis Tracy, the brilliant British writer, summed up the results of the four years war on its anniversary, August 3rd, in a very interesting and comprehensive article. He knows America and England and is a strong advocate of the innate honesty of the English speaking races. The News is pleased to present to its readers the closing paragraph of his remarkable effort in which Mr. Tracy submits some startling statistics from which even the dullest can gain a new idea of the advantages of German "Kultur" and English democracy. The author says: "No review of our four year's fight can omit a brief reference to all ill-omened word "kultur." According to the Hun, the whole quarrel hinges on the refusal of the democracies of the world to accept kultur. Very well. What is kultur? What are the blessings it offers to all men and all women, since it claims that immense prerogative, and nothing less? Prof. Von Seyden, in the Frankfurter Zeitung during the first fine frenzy of the war, said: "The Germans are the elect people of the earth. They will accomplish their destiny which is to rule the world and to guide all other nations for their common happiness." Well, let us see what all this thunder means. I have here a table of the worst forms of crime committed in Germany and England during the ten years 1897-1907:

	Germany	England
Murder	350	97
Incest	573	56
Rapes	9,381	216
Unnatural crimes	841	290
Wounding	172,153	1,262
Damage to property	25,759	358
Arson	610	278
Total	209,667	2,557

People of America, you fathers and mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts of the men you have sent to France, I ask you to study that table. Kultur should be known by its results and, if benighted England can show such a case against enlightened Germany, is it not worth four years, or, if need be, forty years of war to keep your country and ours clear of the virus of kultur? The answer is being given today wherever the Hun stands up against our soldiers. It is being dinned into his ears by high explosives and driven into his carcass by keen bayonets. When he heeds he will quit, and not until he does heed—on his knees.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE PASTIME

Manager Mulkey of the Pastime Theatre believes correctly that this is not the time for cutting down of service and expenses but in line with the policy of the government that the people must be properly amused and is doing his full part to make the Pastime show house a place where the best service is given and where the best pictures are shown. Recently he installed a new motor driven Motograph machine, the same model as his other machine which for some time has been the envy of picture-show men of this section. This new machine allows smoother changes from reel to reel and saves delays. In pictures he has bought two new comedies for each week, the Sunshine and the Keystone. He has also booked for later release the famous Goldwin pictures featuring such stars as Mae Marsh, Madge Kennedy and Mable Normand. The very best programs are being presented at the Pastime and Manager Mulkey is entitled to the support of the people of this section, as he has cared for their taste rather than for his profits. Service always pays as the latter day advice says "He who serves best, profits most."

NO STATE FAIR AT DALLAS

The War Department through the Division of Aeronautics, having taken over Fair Park for continued use as an aviation concentration camp, the Board of Directors of the State Fair of Texas, in patriotic deference to war demands, and feeling that any sacrifice, no matter how great, should be made to co-operate in the speedy and successful winning of the war, have promptly acquiesced in every demand that has been made at all times.

For this reason, the Thirty-Third Annual Fair and Exposition announced for the dates of October 15-27, 1918, has of necessity, had to be abandoned.

While keenly appreciating that the abandonment of the Fair for 1918 is a supreme sacrifice by the citizenship of all Texas and the entire Southwest, the Board of Directors is confident that this action of co-operation with our government, will be unanimously commended.

Dream Pictures

Suddenly, in the glow of the evening lamp, a presence appears—a great artist, with violin in hand, who at our bidding, draws from the strings a sob of grief—a thrill of joy—a sigh of love. All thought of war and strife has fled from our minds and the burden of anxiety and sacrifice is lifted from our hearts.

Gradually the presence fades away and in its place we behold a masterpiece of the furniture designer's art, a beautiful cabinet from which the music actually is coming.

LIEUT. PATTERSON'S IMPRESSIONS OF ENGLAND

England, June 1918.

Dear Dad:
Am feeling fine and seeing lots of beautiful country. England is almost like a park. I passed through the length of it, and the whole distance was dotted with small villages, farm houses and trees.

Fences are nearly all of stone, have seen very few wire fences. The factory workers live in model houses—all exactly alike, very small, but neat brick and stone are used exclusively. I saw only one frame house here.

All along the fence rows and practically every available inch of ground is covered with either garden or flowers. Have seen only one real castle, it was quite interesting.

The railroads here differ greatly from ours. The equipment is light, the engines are smaller than the smallest we ever use. The freight cars are small—coal cars carry ten tons, cattle cars, eight to ten cattle. Everything else in proportion. The English don't use the word "freight"—they call it "goods." The passenger coaches are divided into compartments, which open on the side—can not go from one compartment to the next, even in the same car, without getting out on the ground.

We had quite a lot of fun getting accustomed to their money. But after a few days, we became quite adept at changing it. Their price on leather goods is high, while on some things it is very reasonable and on others it is lower than in America.

The weather is fine, wear winter clothes all the time. It gets cold enough at night for four heavy blankets.

Yesterday we saw soldiers of American, English, French, German (prisoners,) Serbian and Australian armies. The latter are husky boys—look like Texas cow-punchers.

There has been some loss of mail, to avoid it, my permanent address will be Lieut. Edwin B. Patterson, 315th, Engineers, care Cox and Co., Charing Cross London, S. W. 1.

Cox and Co., are allied with the British Government. They are bankers, but are handling officers mail, also. It is claimed by officers here that by sending mail in care of Cox and Co., we save from one week to two months time in getting mail.

Lots of love, Your Son
Edwin Patterson.

Since receiving this letter, two letters have come from Edwin, written in France.

SAM LITTLE WRITES FROM FIRING LINE IN FRANCE

T. M. Little, Jr., has received a letter from Sam Little, whom many Clarendon people will remember, he having lived in Clarendon several years. We copy the letter here:

Mr. T. M. Little, Jr., Clarendon, Dear T. M.—

Your letter dated June 7th, 1918 was received yesterday. So glad to get a word from you, one who used to be good pal and associate, and one who still is a very good friend, although recent years have brought us a long way apart.

No doubt you have received my long letter written several days ago, which I trust you will read closely. I wish you would send me some newspapers occasionally. Papers are rather scarce and consequently very little news comes to me outside of what is contained in letters, and these are not so many. You could as well send the Clarendon News every week, or make arrangements with the editor to have him send it to me. I would appreciate reading it so much.

Inasmuch as I mailed a letter some weeks ago addressed to your father, but which was, of course, intended for all the family, or to anyone who might wish to read it, I will not write much today. Tomorrow is the Fourth and we will have a holiday here, and of course you will have the usual celebrations at Clarendon as well.

Write me often and I will do the same by you. Be sure to have the Clarendon News sent to me. With lots of love to all, I am as ever, Yours very sincerely,

SAM J. LITTLE,
Army Field Clerk, AGO, A. P. O. 703, A. E. F., France, via New York City.

K. C. STOCK MARKET

Kansas City Stock Yards, Monday, Aug. 12, 1918.—Total cattle receipts dropped to 10,000 head today, lightest Monday run in two months, market 25 to 50 higher than Friday, 50 to $1.00 above low time last week, best steers here $18.15. Hogs today 7,000, market strong to 25 higher, top $19.60, bulk of sales $18 to $19.25. Sheep today 4,000, choice range lambs at $17.75, fat ewes $13.65.

Beef Cattle

Most of the strength since the middle of last week came from feeder buyers, although packers showed more interest today, and took all the fleshy steers. Good corn fed steers sold up to $18.15, with prime steers worth $18.50, best Kansas grass steers here $17.25. The Government has cut out meatless days, and requested that domestic consumption be restricted to light weight carcasses. Action is expected in Congress today on the proposition of reducing army beef carcass limit to 400 lbs, and if this is favorably considered, it will be a big boost for cattlemen everywhere. Cows have taken the full advance since last week. Prices on all grades are now getting a profit to most grazers and feeders.

Stockers and Feeders

Big shipments of stockers and feeders went to the country Wednesday and thereafter last week, including 100 car loads sent out Sunday. More buyers are here today than can get cattle, and they are remaining over till later in the week. Their presence raises the morale of the whole cattle market. Feeders sold up to $16.50, stockers mostly $8 to $12.

Hogs

Order buyers and speculators paid up to $19.60 on the early market, but packers were obstinate, and bought little before noon. However, they finally cleaned up the supply at strong to 25 higher prices, paying $19 to $19.25 for fair to good hogs. Considerable common stuff was included, and held over, hence the wide range in bulk of sales. Best light hogs sold at $19.10. Stock pigs sold 50 higher today, best at $17.75. Hog receipts are running light, and a strong advance in prices is expected this week.

Sheep and Lambs

The market had its first chance this season today to extend itself, when 3 cars of choice Colorado from Glenwood Springs came in, the fat lambs selling at $17.75, fat ewes $13.65. Best native lambs lack quality, and sell at $16.50 to $17.25, and fat native ewes sell up to $13. Feeding lambs have been selling at $16 to $17, with choice Westerns worth more than that.

IF I WERE YOU, MY BOY

I would learn to be polite to everybody.

I wouldn't let any other boy get ahead of me in my studies.

I wouldn't go in the company of bad boys who use bad language.

I would see if I couldn't get people to like me, by being civil to everybody.

I would never make fun of children because they were not dressed nicely.

I wouldn't abuse little boys who had no big brother to be afraid of.

I would keep my hands and face clean and hair brushed without being told to do so.

I wouldn't get sulky and pout whenever I couldn't have my way about everything.

I wouldn't conclude that I knew more than my father before I had been sixty miles from home.

I wouldn't be ashamed to do right anywhere. I wouldn't do anything that I would not be willing for everybody to know.

I would try to learn something useful every day; and whenever I saw anything made, I would watch and see how it was done.—Selected.

CHUCKS SUPPLIES TO HAUL WOUNDED

(By Clarence B. Kelland.)
Paris, Aug. 6.—“The finest carload of supplies that ever came up to me—and I had to abandon it,” said Karl Cate, Y. M. C. A. Secretary when he arrived in Paris the other day, dusty, worn, staggering from exertions and lack of sleep.

“Our station was close to the front, and we were directly in the path of the German advance. I just got my car unloaded when word came that we had to beat it. That car was loaded with American cookies and chocolate and cigarettes and writing paper and chewing gum and cigars. I had a camion and started to load with the idea of getting on board as many supplies as possible and saving them. I piled on just one box, and then it struck me that the Y. M. C. A. would look pretty rotten toting a camion load of supplies back from the front when the roads were full of refugees and there were wounded soldiers coming back in numbers. So I chucked off the box.”

He did chuck off the box and put in its place five wounded soldiers whom he picked up along the road. Every other available inch of space on his camion he jammed with women and children refugees from the invaded territory and set out for the rear.

“As I left I yelled to the American soldiers, ‘There's a carload of stuff. Go to it. Help yourselves! And believe me, they did.’”

Cate reached Paris with his camion two days later. He had driven constantly except for brief intervals of sleep taken in the ditch by the roadside.

“Get to bed,” he was ordered when he appeared in headquarters, but there was to be no bed for Cate.

“I'm going back. Have my camion loaded with what the soldiers need most while I eat, and then I start.”

So after a hasty meal, without a bath, without even a chance to dust and refresh himself, he started back to his job to carry what comforts he could to his section of American soldiers in the battle line.

SAVE THE STRAW

It has come to the State Agricultural Department, that in portions of the State where considerable acreage of small grain is grown, there is much waste of oat and wheat straw.

Considering the feed value of straw, along with the dire scarcity of feed everywhere, and especially in the Western portion of our State, this waste should not be permitted.

Where not needed upon the farms where grown, oat and wheat straw when baled, will find ready market if it has been properly protected from the weather.

Where in stack, if not carefully topped to protect from rain, this should be done before suffering damage, if possible.

Those having baled straw for sale, or those desiring to purchase same, will be aided to the extent possible by the Market Bureau of the State Agricultural Department. Address F. W. Davis, Commissioner of Agriculture, Austin, Texas.

FACING THE FIFTH YEAR

Although this country has been at war only a little more than a year, we are facing the fourth anniversary of warfare. For four years we have watched Death and Destruction march hand in hand through the war-swept lands. We have seen them go their ruthless way—sowing sorrow everywhere, save where the Red Cross, the Army of Faith and Hope, has barred the way. The fighting armies come and go. They increase and decrease. They destroy. But the army of the Red Cross grows always—it grows in power, in numbers, in character and in achievement. It rescues, it comforts, it restores, it rebuilds. It rebuilds that Belgium may live again—that France may be comforted. It rebuilds that the world may be freed from disease and despair—from cruelty and injustice. It rebuilds that the aged may find shelter, that the active may have at hand a means of livelihood, that the young may once again know the joy of living. It will rebuild as long as pain and poverty exact the toll of war.

As we enter the fifth year of the war, the Red Cross will call upon us for renewed efforts and renewed loyalty. No matter when the end of the war may come it will not mean the end of Red Cross service. We must strengthen the Red Cross not only for the present but for the future. We have built a mighty agency for relief. The Red Cross symbolizes and makes concrete the spirit of unselfishness—the spirit of democracy, the spirit of human brotherhood. It is the expression of our highest impulses.

Its deeds of love, of pity and of kindness shall form a Memorial for all time—a Memorial worthy of those who died that Freedom might live.

THE CALL TO COLLEGE

Shutting off all enlistment in either the army or the navy was the only course left open to the Government after it became apparent the draft age was to be lowered to eighteen years. Thousands of young men were already impatient about their college courses, desirous of leaving in the middle of their work and going into the army or the navy. Even those parents who had been able to prevail upon the young men to get their educations first were left without a shred of argument for delay when the Government asked that the draft age be lowered. But the Government has again come to the rescue of hard-pressed parental advice by leaving no course open to the young men but to go ahead with their education until they are called.

On his arrival at a college or university of the first class in Texas the young man will find military instruction under competent officers awaits him. He will find that the faculty is in league with the Government to report just what his special ability is. The young man in college is serving his Government. Only about 6 per cent of the men of draft age in the United States were college men under the first draft law, and yet that 6 per cent filled more than half of the quota of officers.

In selecting a course it is advisable to consider both the present and future needs of the Nation. The world is short of engineers of all kinds—civil, electrical, hydraulic, mining and all the rest; the world is short of chemists, doctors, surgeons and other specialists. Science is at premium today. Shortly the world is to be remade, politically. Study government!

The spirit of young America is impatient. Classrooms and books and professors seem relics of some forgotten age in these stirring times. Yet the young man on arriving at the University of Texas, for instance, will find numerous young professors who volunteered to serve their country and were put to work right there at the University. They are rendering valuable service. They are needed more urgently right there than on the firing line.—Dallas News.

Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable.
