From all over the country is coming the wail that the boys will not learn a trade—that they are devoid of ambition to prepare for the coming years. Like the economic problem, this is a question too much for the man of average intelligence to solve. The only thing in evidence is the lack of available men for the different trades, and with the passing of the years this shortage becomes more noticeable. The State is growing all the time; new towns are being formed every week, and as a natural consequence with the establishment of the various lines of industry men are needed to run them. But the question always pops up, "where are the men to be found?" That is the eternal interrogation, and the one that the average mortal can not solve.—Paducah Post.

One of the most disgusting things seen in print today, is the pre-convention campaign report of money expended by the different seekers after the presidential nomination. Some of them have spent over a million dollars in attempting to land the nomination alone. If this much cash is squandered in the first instance in the name of common sense how much will it take to be elected after the nomination has been handed over? And another thing the thinking public is asking, what will it profit the lucky one who does repose in the big chair at the White House? It seems that the country is sadly in need of a business administration, and it is certainly not a business principle to spend several times what a job pays in the getting of it merely to say that the plum fell into certain outstretched hands. The political skein appears to be hopelessly tangled, and it will take "some" man to find the end and get it into shape again.—Paducah Post.

REALITIES OF LIFE

After a war people are always disposed to play rather than work. The strain is at an end—or so they think; they are tired; they have, many of them, more money to spend than ever before, and they determine to compensate themselves for the privations and trials and sorrows of the war by having a good time. The frivolity in dress, in entertainment, in expenditure that characterizes life in France and England. Complaints come from Paris that "never have women worn more jewels and more furs; never have men worked harder to dress them, perfume them and bewilder them than now when men are scarce and needed more for other work."

Presently people will awaken to the fact that they are pursuing a false idea of happiness. The reaction will probably not carry them to a puritanical extreme, but it is bound to come; it will be forced by economic conditions if not by moral considerations.

What are the fundamental realities of life? Only after people have answered that question can they hope to find the true satisfactions of life. People of course need food, clothing, shelter; they want education for themselves and for their children. These are the primary requisites for living. When they are attained in a reasonable measure, what further is needed to give men and women satisfaction and contentment? To make to create, to produce, is the most urgent impulse of the human spirit. To acquire a secondary and comparatively unimportant impulse; the desire originates because acquisition of some sort is necessary to creation and production. If the habit of acquisition finally comes to predominate in a man over the zeal for production or creation, he may become rich, but he will almost certainly be dissatisfied.

The remedy for the waste, the unrest and the disillusionment everywhere, where are manifest as a consequence of the war will be applied as soon as men and women everywhere give heed again to the primal impulse that bids them work and create. Primal impulses may be kept in abeyance for a while, but they are never eradicated.—Randall County News.

AM I A GOOD CITIZEN?

"Keep out of politics!" is a warning given constantly to young men who show an inclination to interest themselves in public affairs. The civic standard is low in any community where a reputable citizen who seeks office encounters suspicion, reproach, or obloquy. The full powers conferred to the people presuppose the participation of all citizens in the business of the government.

Every citizen is in politics. The Constitution of the United States puts him there, and his conscience grants no exemptions.

I have heard men boast that they never perform jury service, or that they have a "pull" that gains them some other immunity. A corruptible public official finds his job unprofitable unless he is able to enter into partnership with another bad citizen. If I am more concerned with my privileges and immunities than with my duties, I am skidding; I am on the way to becoming a bad citizen. If I neglect to vote because it is inconvenient to meet that obligation, or I assume that my neighbors will protect me with their ballots I am a dodger and a slacker.

Blind confidence in government by good luck is bound to bring disaster. The constant vigilance and intelligent action of all the people is essential to enlightened, capable government.

Am I a good citizen? Is the first question in the American catechism. Government is a complex business, but citizenship may be reduced to three essentials: Understanding, loyalty and service.

This morning I saw a boy scout walk into the middle of the street, pick up a piece of paper, and deposit it in the letter box at the next corner. He didn't have to do that; it was his business quite as much as his. That lad exemplified the good citizenship that is always on the job. In the rebuilding of Jerusalem, every man labored "over against his house." In like manner, an American citizen's duty to his country is immediate and personal, and lies at his own door.

When I say to myself, "$ hold an inalienable partnership in this nation; its prosperity and happiness rest with me," then I have caught the spirit of true Americanism. Then indeed I am a worthy citizen of this mighty republic and a contributor to the forces that make for its perpetuity.—Floresville Chronicle Journal.

MORE WORK THAN PAY

Congress should come to the relief of the postmasters and the postal employees of the country. The pay is so small and the cost of living is so high that experienced men are resigning at an alarming rate in this branch of the public service. It is crippling the mails and retarding business to a serious extent, and creating a state of public uneasiness over the country.

Congress appoints committees to investigate and the committees consume much time in palavering, and that is about as far as they go. The postal employees continue to exist on small pay, or quit, and through the employment of new and inexperienced help the service becomes crippled.

We have no fault to find with the postal service itself. We believe it is doing all that it can do under seriously handicapping conditions. We do not believe that any business enterprise could long continue to exist under these same conditions.

The laborer is worthy of his hire the world over, and so long as employees in the marts of trade are receiving high wages to meet the advanced cost of living, the man who handles the mail of this great country should receive equal consideration.

Merchants do not make him a discount when he buys his food and clothing from them.

Why should the government expect him to discount the value of his services?—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

BEGINNER'S LUCK

The third hitch man and the no-striper had been sent out on patrol duty in No Man's land with strict instructions to get the sniper who had been worrying the company all day. Finally the offending Jerry was located among the branches of a tree.

With the utmost coolness the old-timer took careful aim, fired and missed. The recruit, with teeth chattering, wobble his rifle to his shoulder, pulled the trigger, and the sniper fell to the ground dead.

Disgustedly the veteran of three enlistments watched the performance. "No wonder you got him," he growled. "You aimed all over the damn tree."—American Legion Weekly.

NO TRAPPING

Positively no trapping in any of the JA pastures. If you want to avoid prosecution, observe the above J. W. Kent, Superintendent.

THE FEDERAL FARM LOAN SITUATION: TWO THINGS MUST BE DONE

All business of the Federal Farm Loan system has been suspended pending action by the United States Supreme Court as to the constitutionality of the act. The Federal Land Bank can get money for farmers only by selling its bonds to investors; and investors will not buy low-interest-rate bonds until the Court declares they are tax-free—and the Supreme Court will make no decision until next fall.

"In my community," as one friend writes The Progressive Farmer, "a number of people had applied for loans, and now find themselves in a very embarrassing position, with their loans held up, and important farming projects blocked at a time which will mean a whole year's loss." From all parts of the South similar reports are reaching us. Both town and country should be interested in this matter, for every handicap to farm work and farm progress means higher food prices for city consumers.

There are two things which both city and country readers can do to help remedy the present serious situation:

1. Write to your Congressman. Tell them the facts and ask them to have the United States Treasury buy enough farm loan bonds to take care of all farmers' applications now approved or that may be approved, until the Supreme Court acts. Congress has voted to have the United States Treasury buy bonds enough to take care of loans approved by Federal land banks prior to March 1, 1920, but we should ask it to go farther as just indicated.

2. See your local banks. Most of our banks have hundreds of farmer depositors. Much of their money is farmer money. Now let those banks lend to farmers who find themselves temporarily unable to get funds from a Federal land bank. The banks in each county should at least agree to carry until fall all loans approved by Federal land banks but temporarily held up; and since Congress does not offer any relief whatever to joint stock land banks, our local banks should try to carry loans which have been approved by them and are likewise held up the Supreme Court's delay.—Progressive Farmer.

PHILLIPS SISTERS AND HOPE HARDIE—HIGHLAND LASSIES AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

Admit it now—the combination of catchy music and charming young women is irresistible. From the moment this splendid orchestra starts the opening number in the afternoon until their final number at night, the audience is with them. Every member of the company plays one instrument especially well. Five of them are sisters and have had the advantage of developing their musical talent together since babyhood. For this reason the ensemble numbers are so well rendered that this little orchestra of six people produces music, both popular and classic, such as you would expect from a much larger organization. The solo work of all of them is splendid. Miss Hope Hardie, violinist, is both a talented artist and a winsome young woman. The entire combination is one that is especially interesting, for it includes violin, cello, trombone, cornet and drums in addition to other good features.

The good nature and sweet dispositions of every one of these six artists have made them one of the best loved companies in the country. They love their work and they like each other. They will have as much fun in making you happy as you will get in hearing them.

FOUR MILLION DOLLARS FOR TEXAS' EDUCATION

Austin, June 10.—After adoption of the substitute by Thomas as the committee's amendment providing for an appropriation of $4,000,000, the house today under suspension of rules, unanimously passed finally the bill for relief of the public schools of Texas. The committee amendment was to cut the appropriation of $5,000,000 provided for in the original bill to $3,000,000. Thomas' substitute was adopted, following lengthy debate, the vote being 59 to 50. The bill was engrossed by vote of 108 to 1; present and not voting, King of Erath. After the bill had passed to engrossment Miller, of Dallas, offered an amendment to make the appropriation $5,000,000. It was tabled 61 to 47. The bill as finally passed in the house carries $4,000,000, the same appropriation which was reported favorably by the senate committee.

Pull Together for an American Merchant Marine

The war resulted in the creation of a great merchant marine—10,000,000 tons of American ships which cost us $3,000,000,000.

Everybody agrees that we must keep this fleet on the seas.

If we fall back to pre-war conditions—when only 9 per cent of our foreign trade was carried in American ships—We shall be in the position of a department store whose goods are delivered in its competitor's wagons. Congress is considering legislation which will perpetuate our war-built merchant marine.

Until this is done the ships we have should not be sold to face conditions which, prior to the war, resulted in the decline of our merchant marine to insignificance.

This Committee calls attention to these facts because a right solution of our shipping problem is vital to the future prosperity of shipbuilding, but equally vital to the safety and prosperity of the nation.

Elmore Bagwell, brother-in-law of Cyrus Cope, and his little son, Henry Howard, came in Saturday for a short visit with old friends and relatives.

Mr. Bagwell was formerly in years past a bronc peeler for the J.A.'s. He afterwards went off to school. He is now principal of the High School at Greenville.

Fred C. Connally, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Connally of this city has been appointed a cadet to West Point thru the efforts of Hon. Marvin Jones congressman from this district. Fred is a product of our local public schools and Clarendon College. He saw service in the late war and since that time has been connected with a wholesale grocery firm in Dallas. He will report at West Point July 1st for further orders.

Will Hodges, formerly an employe of the Bugbee ranch and who served overseas with Co. H., was down from Tascosa the last of the week meeting his many friends. Will received some severe wounds while in the service and is still greatly inconvenienced as a result of those wounds even yet, but he never slacked at the time of his country's call for defenders and is a valuable producer in the days of reconstruction as well as a fighter during war time.

T. C. Johnson and J. A. Lemons of Hedley were here Monday looking for the income tax man and other interesting matters.

Claude L. Wensell, merchant of Wagonmound, N. M. and J. Frank Curms, prominent attorney of the same place were here the last of the week stopping off to visit old time friends on their way home from Fort Worth. Both men stated that Clarendon was the best looking town west of Fort Worth.

Quite a bit of damage to live stock has resulted during the past few weeks in the rural districts due to small target rifles in the hands of small boys, most of whom live in town and who make an occasional hunt into the country. Some of our farmer friends have posted their lands and will prosecute any further trespassing on their land by hunters of any age. Frank Hardie is the latest victim he having a valuable horse shot thru the leg a few days ago. He is quite sure that he knows who the guilty parties are, but is content to let them off this time only if they will respect his "posted" notices and the publication of same in this issue of The News.

W. P. CAGLE ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER PREC. NO. 2

586 AUTOS IN COUNTY

According to the report of the sheriff and tax collector there are in Foard County 586 paid up auto licenses. We understand that this is complete and represents all automobiles in use in the county. The increase is shown to be greater than the increase of male tax payers and if it continues to grow at the present rate it is only a question of a short while until every man in the county will have a car.—Foard County News.

RAILROAD BUILDING WILL STIMULATE WEST TEXAS

Some five hundred miles of new railroad construction will take place in west Texas for this year according to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The longest proposed line will be an extension of the Katy from Rotan to Snyder and reported to continue on to connect with a transcontinental line in New Mexico. Any short lines will be built in the oil territory. The Orient will likely extend a line from Angelo to Del Rio if the proposed assistance is given the road asked of the government.

John Rhea, prominent stock farmer whose home is south of Brice has been in the local hospital for the past two weeks due to a heart attack. He is improving nicely at this time but will go to a lower altitude when he is able to leave the hospital.

WATER WARNING

Unless the patrons of the City Water Works refrain from using water on lawns and gardens until we are able to increase our supply it will be necessary to keep the water cut off a large portion of the time, in order to maintain our minimum amount for fire protection and supply a reasonable amount for absolute necessities.

We are putting another well into operation at the earliest possible time and as soon as the light plant gets their new engine installed we will be able to supply all that is needed.

Kindly be considerate and help protect your own interest as well as the interest of others, and be conservative for a few days, of course we want to sell you all you can use as soon as the supply permits.

O. C. Watson, Mayor.

THE MAN WHO PAYS

The will to pay is hereditary. It is a common fallacy that a man pays his debts because he has money. This is not necessarily true. On the contrary, the matter of paying has only a remote relation to money. On the one hand is your friend with abundance of money, who can not be cajoled or threatened into paying the most ordinary debt. On the other hand, the poor fellow without a visible dollar—you know him—who is Johnny on the Invoice. Money has little to do with either case. It is the breed of the man.

The man who pays is the man who thinks in advance. He never flashes a roll; he does not drive a car and carry a mortgage at the same time. He does not hang up the butcher or the grocer for food that he can not afford to eat; he never lights the fire without wondering where the coal man gets off. He never throws the Bull, nor pitches the bluff, nor gives notes, nor writes checks dated tomorrow, but when the bills come in, he is there with the coin of the realm, God bless him.

Sometimes he feels sore at the rest of us. He does not see that he gets on any better than the fellow who skins as he goes. Still he goes on and on, pays and pays, simply because it is in the breed.

And after all, the world does think a lot of his breed. The man who pays is the bulwark of society. He is the balance wheel of civilization. He is the mainspring of commerce. Business blesses him and he has honor among men for all time.

As always, we carry dependable qualities in all these, neither the cheapest to be had nor yet the highest, but the best values in wear, fit and materials that your money can buy, and for as small an outlay of it as is possible.

—When you come to town, stop in to see us. We're always glad to see you, even if you don't buy a nickle's worth.

LITTLE LIFE LINES

W. H. F.

Just a small bit less than half the year of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty is gone; it is history so far as your life is concerned. You couldn't bring it back if you would. But how have you fared in the achievements of the months gone by? Where are those resolutions you considered and passed upon at the beginning of it? Or were there any? It is the middle of the year; mightn't we stop for a moment and take stock of the accomplishments or failures of the past months; maybe we can remedy something before the end of the year.

WOMAN SPEAKER TELLS OF CONDITIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA

MRS. ICA CLYDE CLARKE, TRAVELER OF WIDE EXPERIENCE, FINDS EXCEPTIONAL FIELD FOR WORK AMONG WOMEN.

By Mary Corner Raymond

With contagious humor and in picturesque descriptive style, Mrs. Ica Clyde Clarke, newspaper woman, traveler, magazine writer, author and contributing editor to Pictorial Review, held a delighted audience in smiles and wrapt attention at the evening session of the Southwestern field conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Dallas while she related her experiences and observations during a six months' trip in South America. Her subject was "The Challenge of South America to the Y. W. C. A."

True to her newspaper training and the characteristic temperament of the newspaper writer—ready for any emergency, from a fire to a sudden trip to South America—Mrs. Clarke picked up her hat and handbags on short notice and went to South America last January with a commission of three other women sent by the national board of the Y. W. C. A. to study the conditions and needs of women and girls in the Southern continent. Many appeals had come to the national board to send Y. W. C. A. workers to South America. As it is the policy of the association never to send workers anywhere for permanent work without first making an investigation as to the practicability of the enterprise, Mrs. Clarke, because of her experience as a traveler, was asked to be a member of this survey commission.

On the principal that a newspaper woman may go anywhere or do anything within the law, no matter what the traditions or customs of a country may be, Mrs. Clarke met presidents and diplomats, women of high and low degrees; made trips into countries where she was told women travelers never went alone, and everywhere, she said, she was treated with characteristic Latin courtesy. In every country she was struck with the immense wealth and culture of the higher classes, a universal eagerness for the progressive methods of North America, a universal desire for social and welfare work among women, and with it all she marveled at the vast resources of the country—forests of mahogany untouched by the ax and territory visited by no commercial enterprise except packers.

Social work among girls and women is as undeveloped as many of the natural resources of the country, she said, and the much-abused packers are doing in some places for their girl and women employes Y. W. C. A. work—not in the name of the Y. W. C. A., to be sure, for there is no organization there; but the heads of packing industries are trying to meet some of the needs the Y. W. C. A. meets with employed girls in the United States. The Y. W. C. A., she said, is also doing as far as it can Y. W. C. A. work because there is so much need of work for women.

The efforts of the men to provide opportunities for girls such as they have in North America were humorously illustrated by an enterprise undertaken in Brazil. A young President of one of the States of Brazil visited the United States and was greatly impressed with advantages afforded girls here. Like a regular Ad Clubber or Rotarian, he went back to his home city, interested all the other progressive young business men and they built a school for girls. It was elaborately equipped for teaching domestic science, thinking that first of all girls should be trained to be home makers. Courses were announced for "graduate wifehood and motherhood." The school, plenty of money to conduct it, pupils—everything but teachers were found. Again they turned to the United States and got a faculty of young women about 21 years of age to teach wifehood and motherhood. The school is now closed and the "faculty" have sought more suitable vocations.

At Rio Janeiro, a city of 1,000,000 population, she said, were 20,000 employed women and not a building where such a woman might have lunch while every third door is a coffee house for men. "When eating in your scientific cafeterias and in the lunch-rooms provided by factories and department stores for women employes, think of the girls of Rio Janeiro, eating a sandwich and a banana where ever they can find a spot to stand or sit."

"The one thing the matter with the woman movement in South America," Mrs. Clarke said, "is that it has no self-starter."

"If I were free to do so, I should go to South America tomorrow to help do the social and welfare work among girls and women that all classes of women are asking for."

Attending the conference were representative women from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Much interest was manifested in the conditions as described by Mrs. Clarke and the appeal made to extend the work of the Young Women's Christian Association in South America. Members of the Association and other interested women in the Southwest will co-operate with the National Y. W. C. A. in sending Y. W. C. A. secretaries to establish permanent work in new centers in the Southern Continent.

T. L. Naylor of the Fairview community was in town Tuesday. T. L. has served as commissioner in his district for a number of years and has greatly pleased the folks judging from reports.

G. M. ALLEN ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER PREC. NO. 2

G. M. Allen this week makes his announcement for the office of county commissioner from Precinct number two. Mr. Allen has been a resident of Donley county nine years seven years in the precinct which he asks to represent next term. He is a farmer and resides with his family three and a half miles east of town. In regard to good roads and other public improvements, he believes in using the means at hand to the best advantage.

Some little excitement was occasioned late Friday afternoon when the team hitched to the laundry wagon became frightened at the county tractor on east first street running away. Dave Wilson, the driver, had stepped away from the wagon to make a delivery and could not reach the lines in time to prevent the runaway. The wagon was turned over twice only to right itself again. The top was completely demolished and other damage done to the wagon.

WILL RATION SUGAR AS IN TIME OF WAR

New York, June 10.—Rationing of sugar as in war time will go into effect in hotels and restaurants throughout the country on June 21, Armin W. Riley, special assistant to Attorney General Palmer, announced here today.

Mr. Riley's announcement followed a conference here with representatives of the leading New York hotels and restaurants, who, he said, had promised to do anything in their power to reduce sugar consumption because of the shortage.—Childress Index.

HOG FAMINE LOOMS

Kansas and Oklahoma have been very short of hogs the past year, 1919, and this year the shortage is fully 25 per cent greater than it was last year, says J. J. Hunter in the Stock Yards Journal. Many farmers have cut down the number that they usually feed while others have quit the business entirely. The worst part of it is that there is now an alarming shortage of brood sows. Farmers have been letting their brood sows go to market along with the rest of their pigs. The source of supply for hogs is now rapidly being exhausted. When conditions change and farmers begin to look around for a few sows to raise pigs they will not find them very easily and scarcity will be reflected in greatly increased prices for those that they do find. The farmer who is raising no hogs or but a few and is so situated that he can add a few may well be prompt in taking such action. One of the most successful farmers in Oklahoma recently told me that he had always made it a practice to buy when his neighbors were selling and to sell when his neighbors were buying and that much of his success was the result of that practice. If it is time now, to buy, it is time to buy good ones.—Oklahoma Daily Live Stock Reporter.

THE COST OF WAR

"Give me the money that has been spent for war, and I will purchase every foot of land upon the globe; I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build a school house on every hillside, and in every valley over the whole earth; I will build an academy in every town and endow it. A college in every state and fill it with able professors. I will crown every hill with a place of worship, consecrated to the promulgation of the gospel of peace; I will support in every pulpit an able teacher of righteousness, so that every Sabbath morning the chime of one bell should answer to the chime on another round the earth's wide circumference; and the voice of prayer and the song of praise should ascend like a universal holocaust to heaven."—Henry Richard, in Encyclopedia of Quotations.

JOHN D. LOOSENS UP: OIL IS DUE TO ADVANCE

Trustees of the General Educational Board of the Rockefeller Foundation announced last night appropriations totalling $20,251,900 for various purposes of general education and for the development of medical schools. Among the bequests are: Washington University Medical School, St. Louis, for endowment, $1,250,000; for additional laboratory facilities and equipment, $70,000. Yale Medical School, for improved facilities in obstetrics, $300,000; for the development of teaching in psychiatry, $350,000. John Hopkins Medical School, for the development of a new department of pathology, toward a total of $600,000. Medical Research Foundation of Elizabeth, Queen of the Belgians, Brussels, for general purposes of medical research, 1,000,000 francs.

Childress, Vernon, Clarendon and other towns along the Denver are getting a world of publicity these days through their commercial clubs. The local Chamber of Commerce is without a secretary at the present, but the Observer understands that an effort is being made to get one. At this time a live commercial organization is necessary and it is to be hoped that a live-wire secretary will be secured and that the business men will lend him the very best of encouragement.—Quanah Observer.

Last year it is said there were 50,000 children in the State of Texas who were deprived of instruction in school on account of a shortage of teachers. The situation looks no better at this time for another term except by reason of the fact that an appropriation by the state legislature is being considered. But even an appropriation to increase the salaries of teachers will not bring back into the profession all those who abandoned it, for many of them doubtless have entered other vocations permanently, but such an appropriation will help hold what teachers we now have and may stimulate others to prepare for the work. We had as well face the fact that something must be done.—Foard County News.

WHEAT STANDARDS REMAIN

Continuation of present federal wheat standards was decided upon recently by Secretary Meredith in an opinion covering hearings held to inquire into dissatisfaction thru the Central Northwest, with existing grades for hard red spring and durum wheats. Requests for lowering the present standards, the secretary announced, would tend to decrease the return to farmers, while advocates of the change argued that the production would receive more money for their wheat.

The federal standards established in 1917 and revised in 1918 have been operative only under fixed price and war conditions, the secretary stated, adding that opportunity for fair tests of their merits or defects had not been afforded under normal conditions of marketing. "It is believed that any injustice to producers of wheat that may have resulted from fixed prices during the war will be eliminated when competitive marketing conditions again prevail," the opinion stated.

PROFITEERS GAME OF POKER STILL "RAISING" CONSUMER SAYS U. S. SENATOR CAPPER

Washington, June 12.—The biggest thing we have to work out in this country is, in my opinion, the control of big business in such a way as will not injure its efficiency or initiative, but will effectually curb its overwhelming greed for huge profits. It is not so much the individual good or bad business man is responsible for this rank exploiting of the people as it is the bad system which permits it and has permitted it for years.

The more I look into the evils of profiteering, the more convinced I am that the one thing which will do more to cure this abuse than any other is to require the actual cost price to be marked on every product of manufacture.

The profiteering spirit seems to be rampant in the Nation's capital, and the demand now of 17 per cent increase in the price of bread, amounting to $2,000,000 a year that will be exacted from the consuming public of Washington, is unreasonable. Especially is this true when the leading baker of the city declares one-third of a million dollars in one year, as was proven before the high cost of living committee last summer.

The committee brought out some very interesting information at this hearing showing that the chief of the profiteers in Washington was a man by the name of Corby, who had in a very short space of time become a millionaire in the bread-baking business.

We should have proceeded further in our investigations if we had not been informed that the Department of Justice was going to take hold of the situation in a vigorous way by appointing a fair price organization to improve conditions.

Vocal against profiteering is of no avail, but if the Department of Justice will come to grips with the gougers, it will do more to stop strikes and restore peace and order in the United States than all the propaganda ever uttered or printed. The Secret Service could get these spoilers on short notice and should recognize that they are a thousand times more potent for harm than all of the Reds in or out of Russia. The situation demands sincere activity by this Government against its enemies—the profiteers and food gamblers.

We forbid gambling games with cards, but do not interfere with gambling in sugar, which affects every home in the land. If the law enforcement officers of the Government cannot enforce the laws, they should let more able men take their places. The sugar gambling is the most brazen challenge of the Government we have had in a long orgy of profiteering. We are told that the refiners are unable to provide for the enormous new stocks of sugar. But a corner in sugar is formed right under the eyes of the Department of Justice.

The profiteer's game of draw poker is approaching a showdown, but he is still going ahead "raising" the consumer. This is the profiteer's handiwork and the legitimate result of the weakness of a Government that could lick Germany but can be thrashed by any profiteer with one hand tied behind him.

The golden rule of true prosperity is live and let live, and no country or people can prosper by gouging, or ever did.

The sugar speculators blandly predict that sugar will sell at 30 cents or more a pound when the canning season opens, and conservative wholesalers say the price will exceed 50 cents before it closes.

One billion pounds of sugar have recently been exported to Great Britain from our shores in addition to millions of pounds shipped shortly before. The Government owes it to the American people to declare at once an embargo on sugar and to seize immediately every stock of the commodity for distribution to the consumer at cost.

Because a Government that is sworn to protect its people permits this robbery and puts no curb upon it, this profiteering campaign in sugar passes in national grand larceny and brutal demand yet made. The Government while conducting a war on profiteering has for five years allowed them to double their fortunes. Even after the war it has been strangely minimal and tender of them, as if they were public benefactors. The Government finally did permit certain stores to be sold to the public after much pressure, but for the most part billions of dollars worth of property of the people has been allowed to go to ruin, or sold back at a song to the very men who originally sold it to the Government at quadruple rates; or has been held off the market and sold to the consumers barely to keep prices.

Any activity against the profiteers is commendable. What it costs to buy a suit of clothes or two good pairs of shoes would keep the average family in bread for nearly two years. It is the 300 per cent increase in clothing, 400 per cent increase in sugar and shoes and 600 per cent increase in cotton goods that are the cause of thousands of strikes.

If the Government wishes to encourage us it is only capable of limited action against the gougers, let it make a drive at the worst offenders—start at the top and come down the line instead of working from the bottom upward.

So far the efforts of the Government to put down the gouger would make good material for a comic opera if the results were not so tragic.

By Arthur Capper, United States Senator from Kansas.

IN INTEREST OF COUNTY FAIRS

Last fall I attended six county fairs, which took me from the mountains to the seashore. During the time and as I had occasion (I was in charge of an exhibit from the State Board of Health), I made a number of observations which I believe will be of interest and worth while to pass on just at this time when fair organizations are being formed and are making their plans for next fall.

Two of the fairs I attended were first-year efforts, three were the result of two or more years' experience, while one was the twelfth successful annual affair. Horse racing and carnivals characterized the first-year fairs while the older fairs—some of them—had passed this stage and were able to have a successful fair without these features.

One of the directors of the twelfth annual fair above referred to said to me: "We used to spend thousands of dollars on horse racing here, and great carnival companies came and took away thousands of dollars of our people's money, but we can do better than that now. We have learned how to have a fair, as you see here, and keep our money at home. Since we have cut out horse racing and much of the carnival business, especially those features that are morally indecent and otherwise objectionable, our fair has apparently lost none of its interest, its crowd are as large, and the attention given to farm displays, livestock and poultry exhibits, if anything, has increased."

It occurred to me that what is needed on what fairs should recognize and encourage is that farms be made to grow, as far as possible and as far as their soil is adaptable, everything needed on the farm, in the home, and things having a marketable value. The all-round farm is independent; prices may soar as high as they please, but a full smoke-house, a well stored pantry and a packed crib laugh the high cost of living in the face.

Undoubtedly one of the first things necessary for a successful county fair is to prepare and have printed a complete, practical prize-list, which should be put early into the hands of the people. Such a prize list should not act as a guide in planting and should show in what direction to work and to what end. It should also direct the efforts of the housewife in making exhibits for the home department or those who do fancy work. A prize-list should be a stimulus to encourage the best work of every kind and the greatest variety of exhibits.

Just as word as to making prize-lists practical. Why offer 50 cents or a dollar as a prize for the best pair of home-knit stockings or why offer probably the best prize in the home department for the fanciest patch-work quilt when you would not care to revive either of these methods in your community? Of course, we must have cover and stockings, too, but why not have cover that is more sanitary, that can be washed and is easier to make than patch-work quilts? They may save a few scraps, it is true, but they waste more time and strength of nerve than any woman has to spare these days. Why not crochet or knit wool blankets that are lighter and warmer than quilts and that can be washed? Since knit sweaters are in demand and knit stockings are not, why not offer the prize for the best knit sweater and leave the stockings out?—The Progressive Farmer.

"There are too many educated fools in the world today," is the statement F. M. Bralley, president of the College of Industrial Arts of Denton and formerly of this city, made before the University club of Dallas a few days ago," says the Honey Grove Citizen. "He goes on to say that half of the study courses in the high schools and universities are worthless and of no use to the business man or woman of today. Any person who has a little knowledge of the courses and studies that are taught throughout the country, will thoroughly agree with this noted instructor in this statement. The average student, whether high school or college, spends practically one third of his school life studying subjects and courses that will never do him one iota of good during his future life. If the time spent on studying these worthless courses had been spent in more practical courses, the result would have been twice as valuable. The majority of these worthless courses, which are being kept in the colleges, more from tradition and precedent than anything else, were at one time supposed to be helpful, but during the trend of the ages have become obsolete, but still the colleges hang on to them, with a tenacity that is almost amazing to the progressive men of the country. The time is coming when the schools and universities will be in reality schools of experience and practicability and the educated man or woman will be the one who knows modern methods and not ancient theology."—Fort Worth Record.
