BATING THE GULLIBLE.

There is no question but what some of the corporations back east look upon the weekly publisher as the most gullible specimen of humanity running at large.

We wrote the firm that if they would send some of their products for a test to be made by the general public, and the tests proved satisfactory, we would then consider running their advertising on a paid in advance basis.

Publishers have long since learned that it pays to deal only with reputable advertising agencies.

SHORTING CHARIOTS GO BETTER.

A Sioux Falls paper in speaking of an old stunt in a new country sums the matter up in the following manner:

Alcohol gasoline has arrived in South Dakota, and judging from its reception and present indications, it is here to stay. This kind of motor fuel has been introduced to South Dakota and this part of the tri-state area by Chandler Gurney, operator of a chain of service stations in Sioux Falls and southeastern South Dakota, with the result that total sales showed a gain of 50 per cent the first week it is obtained.

Blending of alcohol and gasoline, in this case about 2 per cent being alcohol, has long been done in Europe where it is a combination of economy and the fact that petroleum is scarce, has made such a blend popular. In the mixture on sale here a greater mileage, more power, quicker starting and smoother running motors are claimed from the use of this fuel, and said to be backed by a report of the department of chemistry at Iowa State College.

Much stress is laid on the fact that many things which grow on the farm, such as corn, fruits, berries, potatoes, and so on, may be readily used to make the kind of alcohol desired, and according to the report from the Iowa State College on the subject, this may furnish a remunerative outlet for crop surpluses and a great aid to agriculture.

Agriculturists are hoping the new fuel will sweep the country as it has long since been evident that corn and potatoes, for example, are often unable to supply the needs of the market as well as if they are a drag on the market as

Gov. K. Shearer, United Press staff in Austin, state Senators are attempting to curtail publicity by providing punishment for the release of executive session.

According to Shearer in his column "Under the Gun", was brought about when a Houston newspaper published before the Senate for printing what he had said on confirmation of Judge Sarah T. Shearer to be appointed to the district court. The Senate discovered, Shearer states, that the newspaper had published publicity of the proceedings of the resulting vote. Whereupon, Shearer's committee to provide for the release of the vote.

Comments of Interest on The Texas History Pageant

This Texas History Pageant was one of the most historical displays of facts and events within the knowledge of Donley County Rural School people. All schools and communities were well pleased with the event and the public in general enjoyed the day to the utmost. With all the pleasures and all cooperation and all the interest shown, there has been an atmosphere created where it appears that the good that might have accrued from this pageant is being "covered up" by protests of the various people directly interested in their particular exhibits which from a general viewpoint will cause in the end a "wide-spread investigation of the activities of every individual in any way connected with the pageant which will attend to lead the formation of a bureau of investigation on protest."

Martin has been accused of using all the J A Ranch property in the parade. A. L. Millsap has been proved ineligible as a registrar because of being over interscholastic league age by Goldston's competitors. Jackson of Windy Valley has gone so far as to protest the action of one of the judges because he did not have his railroad map properly arranged horizontally on the floor. There has been an injunction filed by Sunnyview upon the infringement of their rights by Dennis Smith of Midway, because he displayed an Indian Wigwam which was exclusive for exhibit of Sunnyview, further more there is some talk of throwing Midway out of first place on these grounds. There are rumors that Bairfield will in the event of another pageant ask for the elimination of Jericho's Rhythm band due to the fact that Bob Weatherly attempted to steal the show with his performance as a skilled orchestra director. Detectives have found after investigation that E. V. Cooper of Chamberlain avoided all rules by commencing registration on Friday afternoon. It seems that the only bonafide exhibit were the "fossils from Glenwood." "The master workmanship of Ashtola's Exhibit has been questioned and class competitors are pushing with vigor for reconsideration by the judges. Frank Behringer, the window display artist, disapproved the excellent arrangement of Fairviews exhibit.

From the community of Giles there arises a dissatisfaction which undoubtedly eliminated Bray's second prize standing upon the ground that Bray's booth lacked quantity with too much stress on quality.

Because of all these protests and more which have been received but not definitely catalogued it has been deemed advisable by Mc Knight, Watkins, Smith and Skillet that more rigid rules be demanded for the next Texas History Pageant.

NEWS FLASH—There was a great crime committed Saturday, five people passed Chamberlain's booth without signing up. Liberal reward offered for the boy who signed the registration book and didn't know his name.

TEMPLE OF TRUTH
By the Apostle

A lot of folks never seem to properly appreciate living in this intelligent age. For instance, there appears an advt. in a Childress paper of a brand of chewing gum designed to strengthen teeth. You have to do is chew the gum 5 to 10 minutes after each meal. In case you do not have a reliable time piece, it might pay handsomely to invest in one. Otherwise the gum chewing benefits would be greatly lessened, if not harmful altogether. Chewing the rag never gets you anywhere—chew gum.

J. H. Nance out near Naylor has been borrowing the Leader for a long time. Now he has paid for a paper all his own. Thank you, J. H. Often a man has to borrow during times like this, but Mr.

Nance is one man who quit just as soon as he got able. That's a mighty fine lesson for other borrowers.

The Leader begins on its 7th year with this issue. This column has been permitted (by the public) to exist almost during the entire period. Personal feelings have been ruffled unintentionally. That's why personalities have been carefully avoided. Some fools still fight and carry sixshooters. Some times a casual mention has brought down the sky. Often we think a certain one is broad-minded, liberal and under standing until the article appears in print. Exceptions are often taken to the most inoffensive mention, but it brings us back to the old saying that the writer has "killed as many of the enemy as they have of him." Most folks appreciate silly stuff for a change, and this column is often filled with the cheapest form of such stuff. We hope you like it since it is to continue right along.

For instance, last Saturday night in the Norwood Pharmacy, Homer Taylor suggested an 'egg anomaly' as a possible attraction similar to that of Saturday. This egg production is a double cousin of an omelette of the same parentage where eggs of questionable character are exonerated in the cooking process. Homer related an instance which he witnessed in Centralia, Washington state when 35 thousand dozen eggs were arranged on one big skillet. It was a big day in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Traveling Motion Picture Studio on World Tour.

Centralia! George Norwood, a stickler for accuracy evidently gained from a demand made on his skill in filling prescriptions, asked Homer if he knew how many eggs were contained in a skillet banked with 35 thousand dozen eggs. Homer realizes that George's ability to mentally circumnavigate explorations in the gastronomic field are greatly inferior to his ability to understand the effects of pills and powders on the genus homus. Homer has patience and forbearance. He describes the skillet in measures of cubits pretty much as history does the noted ark back in the days of the last rainy season. "How much grease did they put into the skillet?" asks friend Norwood with all the 'sang froid' innocence of childhood's first entry into the realms unknown to accurate and positive science. Homer elucidated in making a counter attack. He explained that slabs of breakfast bacon were fastened to the dimpled (yes dimpled) feet of handsome maidens in abbreviated regalia. The maidens skated upon and in the skillet arena until the heat had melted the flesh side of Centralia's well known brand of breakfast bacon gotten from contented milk fed pigs—or possibly shoats. The success of the event was curtailed to some extent by some devil-mented person throwing in eggs of the woodpecker family. Pecking upon the family tree of erstwhile good citizens forced Homer to return to Texas where citizens take their eggs in broken doses along with 10-cent nogs wrapped up in 35-cent breakfast bacon. If a substitute can be found for grease, the experiment will be tried out in Clarendon. We have the eggs and pretty girls in luxurious quantity.

feet in length and 9 feet in width. All the equipment for making sound pictures will be explained. This educational feature is made possible through the efforts of Mr. Mulkey of the Pastime Theatre. School children will be especially interested in learning more of the "8th wonder of the world", as well as the elders. Thousands look at this wonderful machine at every stop, which is made only in the larger towns.

In watching a "grunt fest", it seems to me that wrestlers lose a lot of valuable time sticking safety pins in each other's ears and brading it up with chewing gum.

Split skirts may reveal a pink petticoat or rolled down sox, but the splits beat the skirts this windy weather. You didn't know this column run a first-class fashion department, did you? What becomes of the leather worn off shoes? That shows we have a scientific column too.

What? Yes! The Battle Creek cabinet treatment. For what? Anything from ingrowing toe nails to bald heads so long as you have the price. (P. S. That is a tip from our scientific department.)

With all these dust storms, the housewife is as busy as the boarding house bathroom.

Speaking of the dust storm Monday, Milt Mosley said he got out on the roadside and sat in his sedan waiting for the sand to drift by but she finally got so thick it was dark as night. In attempting to take a chaw of terbacker, he missed his mouth and stuck it in his eye.

Some people claim they are too poor to 'take' a paper when the eggs from a single hen during the 12 months, fed on table scraps, will pay for the paper a year.

Fanny Failure's grandmother fell out with her son down east, decided him all her property, and has come to West Texas to spend her remaining days with her widowed daughter.

Read in the paper where that young man who shot and killed an 80 year old night watchman when he was pulling a burglary near Ft. Worth, had been paroled to his mother. I'll bet it was humiliating to the young man to have to go home with his mother. Perhaps he will think twice before killing more old men forced to stay on the job all night. On the other hand, perhaps if he had killed the old man in the daytime, nothing would have been said about it at all.

Down in East Texas the jailer took a man's wooden leg away from him just because he kept getting out of jail. That man had stolen an auto casing and had no mother to be sent home with.

After that truck article appeared in the Leader some of the men said "I'll bet you made every truck driver sore in the Panhandle." Since that date, Ralph and Ben Andis have both renewed their subscriptions. Ben came around and agreed on what I had said. He wanted a ten thousand pound limit and not a fourteen thousand. These Andis brothers are fair and operate the best truck line in the Panhandle. They are honest and pay their bills. In fact it is the only truck line through here that does not owe us an unpaid account. If all truck line operators were as courteous as the Andis brothers, there would not be any barrow pit parking to let a truck pass. There would not be any prejudice at all against truck line men. But you don't find good honest citizens like Andis brothers every day—not by a long shot. They were my friends before the article was published, and they are yet. I've been patronizing them for 15 years and not a dispute of any kind. They have been more than fair all along. "Let Andis trucks haul it."

Clarendon Lady Contributes Valuable Book
Canyon, March 5.—An encyclopaedia more than one hundred years old and, according to its title page, containing "science, art, and practical mechanics comprising a popular view of the present state of knowledge" has become a part of the library of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. The London Encyclopaedia was printed in 1832 for Thomas Tegg, 73, Cheapside, London, and was sold in America by Whipple and Lawrence, Salem, Massachusetts. The Twenty-one volumes were presented to Clarendon College by Mrs. J. D. Stocking on July 20, 1926 and placed in the museum by H. T. Burton, President of the college, recently. Dr. Harris M. Cook of the West Texas State Teachers College faculty brought the valuable books from Clarendon.

Following the practice of his time, the editor, whose name does not appear, placed upon the title page a quotation intended to put the reader in the proper frame of mind for perusal of the books. Quoting Erasmus he chose "A reader should sit down to a book, especially of the miscellaneous kind, as a well-behaved visitor goes to a banquet. The master of the feast exerts himself to please his guests; but if, after his care and pains, something should appear on the table that does not suit this or that person's taste, they politely pass it over without notice, and commend other dishes, that they may not distress a kind host."

It is likely that the London Encyclopaedia was the predecessor of today's Encyclopaedia Britannica, as the first edition of the latter did not appear until 1884. The old volumes, when compared with the present Britannica, illustrates clearly how the values of men and things change in the course of a hundred years. In the book printed in 1832 Alexander Hamilton, one of America's greatest Federalists, first secretary of the United States treasury, and finances, does not appear at all, while in the latest Britannica, Hamilton is given five pages.

If the two encyclopaedias indicate correctly, the horse is as important to the world today as it was when motor cars had not yet been dreamed of, for the old book devotes 19 pages to a description of horses and expresses the regret that fine horses are no longer produced; it says that only in the British cavalry can horses of quality be found, the newer one gives 18 pages to the horse and tells much more about the different breeds and how they have been produced than the old volume does. Persons who are interested in science will find the old volumes especially interesting, since they afford an opportunity to compare scientific ideas of today with those of a century ago. The books will be available to visitors at the museum under the direction of Professor L. F. Sheffy.

Fashion Suggestion: The many friends of yellow will be glad to learn that yellow is gaining ground. Miss Martha E. Personally, we have had more trouble with the telephone than we have the electric light, and we are glad to have this nation-wide suggestion from Martha. She further suggests that gowns may be selected under electric light, but that morning and afternoon dresses should be selected by daylight. That's fair enough, but what will keep pajamers from shrinking?

Will Rogers Tells All World About State of Texas

A great many of our local citizens have wondered what Will Rogers had to say in his "daily squib" which was telegraphed from here upon his visit the 24th of January. Here is what Will said:

"CLARENDON, Texas, Jan. 24.—Texas is having a big centennial next year, and while you sorter plan your vacation ahead, you want to come to our biggest state. You ought to read a list of what this state produces. And modern and up to date cities. And size and distances. Plenty of ranches here as big as Germany or France. Horse pastures as big as England. Your Belgians and Switzerlands would get lost in some farmers cotton patches in Texas. And oil? It's the only state that can serve you oil hot or cold. Sam Houston, the most colorful man in all American history, made this his arena. Yes sir, brother, this is a state."

The above copy was kindly supplied by our friend J. L. Reid of Lelia Lake who happens to be an admirer of Will Rogers' many good qualities.

California Boys Build Their Own School Bus

The large school bus shown in the accompanying picture has the distinction of having been built, so far as body design and construction are concerned, by the passengers who regularly ride in it—sophomores, juniors and seniors attending the metal working class of Union High School, Selma, California.

Using the Dodge 2-ton chassis as foundation unit, the bus is quite a formidable affair, having a wheelbase of 216 inches and an overall length of 348 inches. The body is entirely of steel, with seat supports of cast aluminum poured in the school's own foundry.

To gain greatest possible passenger capacity—the vehicle seats forty-eight—the steering gear and the clutch and brake pedals were moved forward, with the result that the driver is seated not behind the engine, but beside it. Truck representatives of Dodge Brothers Corporation bestow much praise on the work done by the boys under direction of shop instructor George Woolwine.

Finest Quality Eggs Are Now Laid-to-Order

Controlled Feeding Makes Them Look and Taste Better

A revolutionary development resulting in vastly improved egg quality has been made possible in the past few years by two great factors in the poultry industry, according to Mendel Summers of the poultry department of Purina Mills. One of these factors, he says, is the growing consumer demand for eggs that look better and taste better—eggs that are uniformly better than average in appearance, color, flavor, and keeping qualities.

"It is this combination of circumstances," says Summers, "that has made absolute control of egg quality a definite achievement today and has brought laid-to-order eggs within easy reach of every producer and consumer. For today any poultry raiser, from the back yard flock owner to the big commercial operator can easily and economically get the finest of eggs, without variation, from his birds. Which means naturally that folks who use eggs can now purchase exactly the kind of eggs they prefer, anytime and anywhere—eggs which stand up well, with attractive light yellow yolks on thick firm whites, eggs which always have the same wholesome color and healthful flavor, eggs that always look and taste their best in every way they are prepared and served.

"The fascinating story of the successful development of quality egg control is all told in a bag of feed," Summers says. "It's a story that began 8 years ago in the research laboratory and experiment station. At that time Purina research men, observing the rapid growth of this quality egg market, began an intensive experimental program to make it easy to produce eggs made to order in all quality requirements. For six years, thousands of hens were used in a quality egg investigation which included a close study of breeding, feeding, care of eggs, housing, flock management, total egg production, cost of production, and the health and vigor of the birds—every factor that might effect egg quality.

Controlled feeding does this. Makes eggs that stand up well and always have the same appetizing color, flavor and appearance. Every egg looks better, tastes better, and is more wholesome and healthful. They do better in all egg recipes too!

"In the last analysis, feed is what makes eggs. The kind of feed used, the researchers decided, would undoubtedly have the most direct bearing on the kind of eggs produced. Accordingly, every practical combination of egg making ingredients was included in these feeding tests and results carefully observed. The eggs produced, too, were checked in the laboratory as to size, shell texture, color of yolks, condition of whites, keeping qualities, taste, and food content.

"As a result of these years of experiments, we've found that a hen is almost 100% under the control of the feeder—that whatever is put into the beak comes out in the egg. Resulting from this experimental work is a single complete feed built from a proven egg making formula that never varies from bag to bag. It gives hens everything they need in feed for producing quality eggs. There is no chance for the hen to upset the formula. She can't pick and choose her feed to suit herself. Every bite she takes is the same—every mouthful provides the same balanced quality egg making ingredients. Besides giving quality control, this feed has been found to promote higher sustained production, maintain body-weight and condition, and reduce her mortality. Too, it has made feeding easier since there's nothing else needed but water.

"Controlled feeding has made quality eggs a household institution. There is no reason today for producer or consumer being satisfied with anything less than eggs which are uniformly the best in size, color, appearance, flavor, and food value, when such eggs are so easily produced and so available to every housewife."

LOOKING FOR A NEW APARTMENT? TURN NOW TO THE WANT ADS

WORKERS' EDUCATION CHATS

By Earle Jones (Continued from last week)

Widespread interest in old age security began about a century ago. England in 1833 formulated a plan for selling annuities by the Government. In 1850, both France and Belgium established savings funds for old age; Italy set up a similar fund in 1895. It was hoped that through the granting of governmental subsidies wage earners would be stimulated to avail themselves of these annuities for protection against destitution and old age. But years of experience showed that, despite generous governmental assistance, few people took advantage of them.

Recognizing the ineffectiveness and futility of any form of voluntary saving for old age, Germany was the first to strike out boldly in 1889 with a plan of contributory old age insurance. This plan obliged the insured and their employers to contribute regularly towards the building up of a fund for old age. The German principle has since been followed by practically all nations except the Scandinavian and English-speaking countries. Denmark in 1891, New Zealand in 1898 and Great Britain in 1902 inaugurated non-contributory pensions, financed entirely by the government and granted only to persons above a stipulated age who are actually in need. In 1925, Great Britain added to its older non-contributory pension a system of contributory insurance.

The German plan of 1889 covered wage earners only; it was modified in 1899 and in 1911 was consolidated with insurance against sickness, invalidity and death. In 1911 a system of social insurance, including old age pensions, was adopted for salaried employees. In Russia the Soviet government provides against old age in conjunction with its system of social insurance which is paid entirely by the employers. In 1913 Sweden passed a compulsory insurance law covering invalidity and old age.

TEXAS HISTORY FROM MUSTY PAST TAKEN FROM BEXAR COUNTY ARCHIVES

(Note: This is one of a series of articles taken from the 300 special collections of family archives in the University of Texas Library. The collections cover all periods of Texas history, from the earliest days of the Spanish missionaries in the province of Texas, through the colonial era, to the present. This series of articles presents interesting excerpts from a number of these family collections, some chosen for their intrinsic significance in the development of the empire of Texas, others for their purely human interest in portraying personalities, economic conditions and social intercourse.)

SERIES II, No. 5

No more fitting description of the times in the Austin colony a hundred and more years ago could be afforded than that given in the letters written by members of that group of pioneers... to their loved ones "back home," in the Old South or in the still older settled regions of New England and the East Coast. Files of correspondence which are included in the family archives collections of the University of Texas library show that these letters were not merely personal greetings from one member of a family to another, but they were lengthy and in many cases detailed reports, tinged with the personal and human element, of the climate, agricultural, social and political conditions in the newly colonized country.

A particularly full description of the problems facing Austin's colony during the years immediately preceding the Texas war with Mexico, is given in the letters which Ira Ingram, one of the colonists, wrote to his uncle, Roswell Ingram, at Fort Covington, New York. The infrequency of these letters and the eagerness with which the colonists received any small scrap of news from his friends and relatives is testimony to the inaccessibility of the new settlement, and to the inadequacy of the existing methods of communication. His first letter, dated May 12, 1830, is in reply to one from his uncle written on February 12, exactly three months earlier, which had just come to his hand.

Ira Ingram and his brother Seth took an active part in the development of their chosen country, and cast their fortunes willingly with those of the new settlement. Seth became the official surveyor of Austin's colony between the Brazos and the Colorado, and laid out the town of San Felipe, as well as surveying much of the land on the old Caney and Peach creeks and on the lower Colorado. Ira was more politically minded, and was the first alcalde, or mayor, of the town of Matagorda. He served in the Congress of 1836, and was speaker of the House of Representatives. He died in 1839; Seth died in 1857.

In his first letter to his uncle, Ira Ingram outlines the activities of himself and his brother for the past several years, and indicates briefly his philosophy with regard to the future:

"... You ask me for information respecting myself and Brother. To be concise, and yet comply with your request; my Brother moved from Tennessee, where he had spent two years in acquiring a mathematical education, to this country, in the spring of 1822. When Col. Austin commenced colonizing, he embarked in the business which he had in view when he left the United States of the north. He is still in the same employment, that of surveyor of public land; He is the first of the profession who stretched a chain in conformity with law, between the Grand and Sabine rivers; is now in the vicinity of the Bay of Galveston, with his company and company is making money very fast; was in good health when his last messenger to me left him, and is still unmarried.

"As to myself, I am wifeless and childless. I married in the city of New Orleans, in March 1823—and in April 1824 lost my first child; in the October following, I buried my wife. She fell, one of the last victims of the yellow fever, for the year 1824.

"My wife was my idol—She was young, beautiful, and accomplished. Her name when married to me, was Emily B. Holt—in her grave, were buried my hopes, and my prospects of happiness. An uncommon buoyancy of spirits, however, enabled me to recover from the blow in part, by removing to and establishing myself in Texas. As to my property, it is difficult to say what it is worth. I have a large tract of very valuable land, slightly situated, and superlatively rich.

PANHANDLE POETRY CONTEST TO DEAL WITH HISTORIC SUBJECTS

Dalhart, Feb. 21.—Two announcements of unusual interest to Panhandle writers have just been made by The Dalhart Texan.

One is that two poetry contests are now open; acceptance of manuscripts to close May 31, 1935. In No. 1 contest, known as the general contest, the first prize will be $25; second, $10; third, $5. Contest No. 2 offers a $10 prize for the best poetic treatment of a Panhandle historic or scenic object. Writers in the Panhandle of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Colorado are eligible.

The other announcement is that The Texan again next fall will issue a poetry anthology, as yet untitled. This anthology will feature the prize-winning poems and others the editors think worthy of inclusion. It will be a larger, better book than the 1934 anthology, "Prairie Nights and Yucca," which has now become a collector's item, some volumes having sold as high as $5.00. More than 200 orders for this volume had to be turned down because the books were sold out.

The contest and anthology publication are aimed at discovering and encouraging advancement of poetic talent and ability of writers in the Panhandle, the whole effort being dedicated to the development of Panhandle literature and culture, the editors state.

Manuscripts for the poetry contests should be submitted immediately. Only one poem may be submitted in each contest, though one person may submit a poem in each of the contests. Work must have been done in its final state since June 1, 1934 and must not have been previously published. An internationally known Texas poet will judge both contests, submission of manuscripts implying acceptance of all contest rules. Awards are to be announced as soon after July 1 as possible.

Donley County Leader $1.50 a year

Tells How to Prolong Life of Good Cows

Five years is the average profitable milking life of a good cow, according to the U. S. D. A. records.

"Which is just another way of saying that a man operating a twenty cow dairy is, on the average, obliged to bring in four new cows each year, either as helpers he has raised or through the purchase of cows or helpers," declares W. R. Arends, prominent dairy advisor, in a general statement to American dairymen.

"Only five years seems a mighty short span of usefulness," says Arends, "and there's no getting around the truth of it. At the same time there is no reason why that comparatively brief period should not be extended several years, and save dairymen thousands of dollars. The fact is, this very thing is being accomplished every year in more and more herds, simply by recognizing the things that make frequent replacements necessary and taking definite steps to put a stop to them.

Replacement Factors

"In general, there are several reasons why dairy cows must be replaced. The U. S. D. A. states them to be: first, low production; second, udder trouble; third, sterility; fourth, abortion; fifth, tuberculosis. The Dairy Herd Improvement Association Records agree that more cows are eliminated because of low production than any other reason. This is as it should be. Cows that are not well enough bred to produce sufficient milk to pay their way, should be replaced even though they are healthy and in good condition. Strict adherence to this rule would go a long way toward stepping up net profits and increasing the general herd average as well.

"But that's not the whole story behind the present five year limit. There are other greatly responsible factors to be found in udder troubles, breeding failures, and cow diseases. Udder troubles are traced directly to the health and condition of the cow. If she is in prime condition these troubles seldom occur.

New Bulletin Offered

"For those who are interested, there is available a bulletin titled 'Profitable Cows' which can be had for the asking. It describes fully a proven program for effectively handling dairy cattle in a way that will successfully eliminate costly cow troubles and prolong the milking life of good cows. This program was worked out in collaboration with many reliable herd owners and after a series of experiments at the Purina Experimental Farm. To obtain this bulletin, write the Educational Division, Purina Mills, St. Louis, Mo."

"Analysis of Bible—Acts."

The narratives of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John are arguments designed to prove that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, (John 20:30,31). They summon witnesses from all positions of life to testify to this fact. They prove His divinity, by His fulfillment of Old Testament expectations, by His mighty teaching and miracles, by His perfect life and by His miraculous conception and resurrection. These four gospels lead us to a study of the greatest theme of all ages, "What shall we do to be saved." They tell us there is a Saviour that can and will save us from our sins, but there is not but ONE book in the Bible that answers this all important question. That book is the book we call, The Acts of the Apostles. We will study this book for the next few weeks and try to make a complete analysis.

physician, the writer of the gospel which bears his name. Acts in some sense is a sequel to the Gospel of Luke, and it is addressed to the same unknown person, Theophilus, See chapter 1:1.

THE MAIN THEME. It gives the history of the establishment and development of the early church, from the day of its beginning to the imprisonment of Paul in Rome. In this book we find when, where and how the church was established, and we know that this record is in harmony with the prophecies that pointed toward the new or Christian dispensation. In this book we find the beginning of the dispensation of the Holy Spirit and how He led men to answer the question regarding salvation of souls. The departing Christ makes the announcement of the establishment of His church and a great campaign of world-wide missions through human agencies under the power and leadership of the Holy Spirit. He told His disciples to tarry in Jerusalem until the Spirit arrived, they were obedient to Christ's command and on the day of Pentecost the Spirit began its operation and the church was established according to prophecies. Jerusalem being the place, Pentecost being the proper time and many other conditions working out to show that the work was begun as God would have it. Several cases of conversion are recorded to show how the work must be carried on today.

PAIR OF JACKS IN ODD MEETING

Here they are—he of the powerful fist, Jack Dempsey, and Jack Kearns standing arm in arm beside one of the new Dodge cars. Dempsey, on a wrestling-bout refereeing tour through New England and checking in at a Keene, N. H. hotel, noticed that the name preceding his own on the register read "Jack Kearns." Inquiry, brought out the fact that the gentleman so tagged was not the man who had guided the Manassa Mauler in his fist career and later opposed him in legal battles, but a representative of Dodge Brothers Corporation on a business tour covering New England in the interest of the 1935 Dodge. Needless to say, the Pair of Jacks got quite a kick out of the situation and decided to have the odd meeting commemorated in a photograph which, incidentally, proves the old newspaper adage that names — Jack Dempsey, Jack Kearns, Dodge — make news.

sun grins we were acquiring have practically vanished. The floors were oiled, the desks re-varnished and a locker has been built for our use. In this locker we keep all of our books and school supplies that might be misplaced at the public gatherings held in our room. The State Deputy Superintendent gave us enough money to buy some scissors and construction paper. Miss Baley makes a very good paste which she flavors with vanilla if it gets to smelling bad, and using these things we make pictures with which to decorate our room. Some of us have become quite adept in this work.

In connection with our school work we study each month the lives of two great persons on their birthday. We also study pictures which are suggestive of the month. We feel that much has been accomplished during this year and wish to express our thanks to everyone who has helped us in any way.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Batson and Miss Baley the Kokernot Klub has been organized. The Klub has for its mascot a monkey, its colors are brown and green, and the meetings are held at noon on each Tuesday. This organization is for all of the school girls and its purpose is to cause each of the members to live more closely to their motto, which is "Keep a sound mind, a clean soul, and a healthy body."

Primary Room
By Mrs. Batson
Since September we have enrolled twenty four pupils, but have only nineteen left; nine in the first grade, one in the second, and nine in the third. The schoolboard has been kind enough to improve our schoolroom. Our ceiling and walls are wearing a cream dress now; that makes the room much lighter. We have more room in our locker since it has been equipped with shelves, and they help us to keep it orderly. We have a bulletin board on which we put various articles, nature stories, best papers, and pictures of things that are interesting. We have a reading table and eight little chairs in the back of the room that we use a great deal for group work. We have a nice sandtable, on which we display our various projects. The back of our room is made of beaver board, which makes it ideal for exhibiting our drawings and construction work. In November the Puritans were picking their way among the trees to a log church house, in our sandtable. We studied all month about them, and made a nice book. In December we studied about Santa Claus, and wrote and read many Christmas stories. In our sandtable we had a Christmas tree. We had a community Christmas tree, too.

During February we studied about Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. The third grade boys made a replica of the house where Lincoln was born, and surrounded it with a rail fence for our sandtable. We had a Valentine box and party. Our outstanding nature lessons have been about prairie dogs, penguins, crickets, robins, maple and apple trees, and the Monarch Butterfly.

Every Tuesday we study a picture. On Tuesday and Thursday we have a music period and story telling on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. The first graders are doing splendid work having read two pre primers and six books. Our community has a live Sunday school that meets every Sunday at ten o'clock, with Mr. I. N. Noble as supt. and E. N. Cole, Mrs. Riffe, Mrs. I. N. Noble, and Clarence Jackson as teachers. Through the P. W. A. Mr. L. H. Earthman has conducted an eight weeks singing school, which has been of great benefit to our community.

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

(Use what Doctors do) Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation? Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation. Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for—

THE MILLING SANATORIUM

MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS

Jermyn, Texas.

Five years ago I took treatment from H. H. Milling for gall stone. He entirely cured me and I have not been bothered since. I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Milling and his Sanatorium to any who are sick. I know that he effects cures of all kinds where all others fail. The fact that I have had no further trouble convinces me that his cures are permanent. Any inquiries addressed to me will be answered promptly.

Dry Ice Stock Promoters Headed to Leavenworth

Clarendonites will recall that a few years ago "expert" salesmen invaded the sanctums of the city selling stock in a "dry ice" affair at Amarillo. The sample machine or drum containing the dry ice was located on a lot just north of the Toomb building near the depot.

Hundreds marveled at the frigidly of the compound. If any one "took stock", they have kept it quiet. Soon after, the postal department began camping on the trail of the promoters. Two were convicted of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Wednesday J. S. Belt and A. J. Kelley were taken from Amarillo to Leavenworth. They had stayed off the sentence for some two years while the decision languished in the higher courts.

Misses Vera and Eugenia Noland visited in Amarillo Tuesday, about our homes for which mother never gets any credit," says the secretary at the close of this interesting report.

Without any intention of "rubbing it in", it might be well to recall that the good women of old Donley canned more than 20,000 cans of food the first year of the depression. After the first year they had something to "do with," but that first year was a great accomplishment suffered under great difficulties, and never equaled by any people in any county in the state in proportion to the population.

Mitchell Beauty Shop Under New Management

Mrs. Irene Mitchell has leased her beauty shop to Miss Irene Rhodes and will seek a change of climate for her health which has been impaired since she contracted the flu some time ago.

Miss Rhodes is a graduate of the San Jacinto school of beauty culture of Amarillo. She has had experience in two different beauty shops in Clarendon, assisting Mrs. Mitchell for some time in the beauty shop which she has now leased. Miss Rhodes invites her friends and acquaintances to call on her at the Mitchell home. Miss Rhodes is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rhodes of the Goldston community.

Sermon Subjects at Church of Christ

Jan. L. Standridge, minister, announces that he will use the following subjects next Lord's Day at the church of Christ.

For the eleven o'clock hour, he will use the subject: "Modern Idolatry". Members of the church are especially urged to hear this exposition.

At the evening hour, seven-thirty the minister will speak upon the subject: "The Second Coming of Christ". Standridge states that the Scripture is not silent on this wonderful subject, and a personal invitation is extended the public to attend all the services at the church of Christ. They are especially urged to be present for the sermons next Sunday, March 10th.

Double Submission of Repeal Gaining Favor

Austin—A double vote on State-wide prohibition has been proposed to the 44th Legislature by Representative Jap Lucas of Henderson County. The Lucas plan is embodied in a resolution calling for the first vote on repeal in August, 1935 with the second vote to be held in the general election of November, 1936. The motive behind the plan is to place the legalized liquor traffic on probation for a fourteen month period. The suggestion has been given favorable consideration by many dries and the wets are viewing the proposition with favor because a number of prohibitionists have signified their willingness to support the double submission idea but hesitate to submit repeal on any other basis. The resolution as drawn applies only to liquors containing in excess of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content.

Two-thirds vote of the members of the House and Senate is necessary to submit repeal of Constitutional prohibition now in force in Texas. A majority vote of the people rules in the referendum election.

Unless there is provision for such a double submission, Lucas said he and many other Legislators from dry districts will be for retention of the present dry laws.

"The wets", he explained, "say the bootleg situation is terrible and that legalizing liquor will improve conditions and provide revenue for the State. The dries admit the situation is bad but say it will be worse if hard liquor is legalized. I concede that legalizing liquor may either make the situation better or worse, which no one knows without a trial. I favor a trial with the second election being provided for in advance.

Repeal on Probation
"If the people vote wet and the situation becomes repulsive, the condition can be remedied. Under my plan the liquor question will be returned to the counties under a 'probation' or 'suspended sentence.' If it has good behavior during the probation period, the electors undoubtedly would vote to retain it. If it turned out to be a 'bad boy' they would vote to rid themselves of it."

With the double submission plan Lucas said the dealers will be particularly. If it is handled properly for a year, he believes such proper handling will become well established and there will be less danger of a relapse.

The Lucas plan has its appeal with a number of members because it would eliminate the necessity for formulating a liquor control and regulation plan as an enabling act to the Constitutional amendment at this regular session. That could be done in a special session immediately following the first submission election in August this year and permit the present regular session to devote its attention to taxation, education and other important problems. Many prohibitionists feel that the wets working under a fourteen months probation would put forth their best effort to properly control the traffic.
