SEVERAL HUNDRED HEAD OF CATTLE CHANGE OWNERSHIP OVER THE WEEK

There is one phase of the cattle business that never changes. That is plenty of eager buyers when prices are high. Prices of heifers, for instance, have advanced from $12 per head a year ago to $37.50 today. This a gain of over 346 percent, something never before known in the history of the cattle industry, old-time stockmen say.

During the past week several large ranch sales have been made. Most or all of the sales at this time are young stuff, the old cattle and culls having been sold to the government, or else shipped as canners when feed prices became prohibitive.

Calves bought by the pound now bring around $45 a head. Heifer yearlings bring around $37.50 a head. Selling cattle by the pound is something else new in the industry, but is said to be on a fair way to rule the purchase price in the future.

Sales over the past week, or purchases by Donley county stockmen include a purchase of 600 head of yearling steers by Hermesmeyer Bros. of near Jericho from parties near Wichita Falls.

Grady Bros. sold 600 calves and yearling heifers the past week. Joe and Jim McMurtry were the principal purchasers.

The JA ranch estate sold approximately 2,500 steer calves.

W. J. Lewis sold 2,500 head of steer and heifer calves and in turn bought about 2,000 head of cows from the Bivins estate, 400 head of them being bought from Julian Bivins.

J. L. McMurtry bought 500 head of stuff from the Harrel ranch near Claude.

Small sales and purchases have been made and prices range into the higher brackets in every case.

FFA Boys Exhibit Greater Ideas at Big Fair

Soil and water conservation were the main object lessons taught in the exhibit of the Future Farmers of America from J. M. Hill's class in the Clarendon high school.

The contours, terracing and general scheme of planting were skillfully pictured with soil. Some fields of growing grain were shown in miniature form to better illustrate the idea.

Dairy and poultry buildings came in for a share of attention.

This and similar exhibits drew a lot of attention from people residing in the "dust bowl", as northwest Texas has been dubbed since the dust storms and drought swooped down on our section.

Wells Becomes Department Head in Big School

Due to the resignation of another teacher recently, Roy Wells, was advanced to the position of head of the department of business administration and commercial law in the Sam Houston State Teachers' College at Huntsville.

Mr. Wells a few years ago was head of the commercial department of the Clarendon public school system. He later was elected a member of the faculty of a college in Abilene, Texas. His recent promotion is a recognition of his standing in one of the largest schools of the state.

He is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Stallings of this city, he and Mrs. Wells having visited here some two weeks ago.

DONLEY EXHIBIT IS AWARDED ELEVEN PRIZE RIBBONS

County Exhibits Only Sample Tobacco Grown in West Texas Area

"That white burley tobacco grown by P. H. Buntin of Clarendon drew a lot of attention," county agent H. M. Breedlove stated Wednesday in referring to the Donley county agricultural exhibits at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo this week.

Prizes of $2 were given for first place in individual specimen exhibits in county displays. $1.50 for second, $1 for third and .50 for fourth place.

Individuals to receive special recognition were eleven in number.

Major Nelse Robinson knocked their eyes out with monster sunflower display. Nelse resides near Midway. He won 4th on 'pumpkin' if you don't happen to know it, and 4th on peaches.

Jess Cornell, a lad of about 18 who shows his father how to farm near sunnyside, drew fourth on white dent corn.

J. M. Acord was awarded third place on alfalfa.

H. M. Breedlove got fourth on prairie hay. Who would have thought prairie hay would have grown without rain? Then he got second on beans, third on watermelons.

Frank Hardin went after first prizes altogether, winning first on canteloupes and first on egg plant. T. B. Downing won third on cream peas.

John T. Sims got third on millet.

The Donley exhibit arranged by H. M. Breedlove made a fine showing in detail as well as general outline. Besides tobacco, the exhibit had the only cotton shown west of Paducah.

In view of the fact that the above men won awards in competition with the cream of three states, they are entitled to feel proud of their contribution to the county's exhibit.

Dad Buntin Came Back to See His Tobacco Crop

"They let my tobacco sucker out while I was away," P. H. (Dad) Buntin stated Tuesday after returning from Ft. Worth and Glen Rose where he had been visiting for some five weeks.

He purchased a new pair of overalls Tuesday and got ready to wade into his fine crop of white burley, which he says does well here, this being his third crop which he grows for pastime.

Mr. Buntin states that white burley is the finest grade of tobacco grown in this nation, and that Donley produces as fine a plant as anything he ever saw in his native Kentucky.

LOCAL MERCHANTS WANT YOUR BUSINESS (An Editorial)

In this issue of the Leader that covers the Clarendon trade territory, merchants of Clarendon are making a strong bid for your business. They offer you real value for your money in everything you eat, wear and use. They are right here to back up the quality, to satisfy the purchaser in every instance. They are the folks who help you with your problems—who help to build your community interests. Their contributions of goods and money are frequent and most liberal when one takes into consideration the numerous calls they have to help.

Look through this issue of the Donley County Leader carefully. Never before have honest goods of first quality been offered at a better price. Of course if you want second quality at a lower price, they have that too, in some lines. Our local merchants will tell you honestly what grade, brand or quality offers you the best money-saving bargain. Buy where you can get the best bargains. Your local merchant knows what you will have to pay in other towns. He knows he must meet that competition. Just for that reason you are asked to get prices and look at the goods offered you here—first.

Trades Day every Saturday with no advance in price on any form of merchandise. If this were not true, the Leader would tell you. The Leader is wholly independent of every faction, clique, ring or other influence. Its influence is dedicated to the upbuilding of the whole trade territory.

DISTRICT WPA MAN MEETS WITH COMMISSIONERS

State Office Wants to Know What It Is All About Down San Antonio Way

R. W. Willis, district director Plan and Projects of the WPA under the Amarillo district board, met with the county commissioners here Tuesday at 11 a. m.

Mr. Willis had just returned from a gathering of district men in San Antonio, and he, like others, were directed to return to their districts and ascertain the most urgent projects to be taken up for consideration first. His purpose in visiting here at this time was to get a line-up on the projects recommended by county officials for first consideration.

Projects recommended included flood control near here which would employ 56 men.

Highway work on 88 from Hall county line toward Clarendon which would employ 47 men.

Street work in Hedley which would give employment to 21 men.

School project in Lelia Lake to employ six men.

Work on Clarendon school dormitory to employ approximately twenty men.

It was the opinion of Mr. Willis that terracing projects would have to be voted and come under federal supervision as provided by an act of the last legislature. For this reason the terracing project of the county agent was deferred.

Several other county projects already having approval down to and including the state office at San Antonio, will be taken up later, Mr. Willis said. Among these are various lateral road projects one of them being the road from Hedley north to McLean.

ONE FARMER IN PLAIN TALK TO OTHERS TUESDAY

Large Crowd Hears Pillers In District Court Room Voicing Approval

A farmer crowd, estimated at five hundred, enthusiastically backed the statements of Marvin A. Pillers in his talk here Tuesday afternoon. The speaker is a plain dirt farmer and resides at Twitty, over in Wheeler county.

He is representing District No. 1 of farmers in the Washington huddles, and apparently gets the job done about right.

At the close of his remarks, he organized an Agricultural Association which is composed of local committeemen. It is believed that quicker and better results may be had from a well organized group in pressing claims of the farming element under the New Deal.

Voicing his approval of the AAA the speaker said those who refused to go into it would be like niggers of Alabama. Down there he said "they can go into AAA, or they won't BBB very long."

Pillers gave a clear concise outline of the farmer program "so plain that I understood it for the first time," one farmer remarked to a Leader reporter after the speaking.

A STATE ON WHEELS.

Many years ago Texas' floating population constituted a large percentage, and travel was principally by covered wagon. At one time it was declared that "half the population was on wheels" trekking to the west.

This old spirit must prevail down Austin way. A few years ago Dan Moody and some other 'real estaters' wanted to move the prison system to Austin. There was enough level-headed men to put a stop to such a foolish waste of tax money.

The last stab was last winter when the legislature decreed that the prison board of management and pardons should be permanently domiciled at Huntsville. All the records are kept at Austin and the continuous travel back and forth between Huntsville and Austin, conferring with the Governor and looking up court records of convicts, will be terrific. A court injunction is "holding the line" for the present while a pet scheme is hanging in the air pretty much as the victim of a vigilante committee.

ANOTHER COMMERCIAL WAR LOOMS.

Back in 1918 thousands of the flower of the manhood of America were sent across the ocean thousands of miles to protect the trade and commercial interests of France, England, Italy and few lesser nations. They were sent on a pretext, or a number of pretexts, all of which we do not understand to this day. It certainly was not to our interests then or since.

Switzerland, a very small nation backed up against the warring factions, maintained a strict neutrality and planted no men on anybody's battle field. Her self respect was rigidly maintained at the same time.

When the war dogs of Europe are unchained soon, as it now looks like they will be, it will be high time for America to recall that old saying of "millions for defense, but not a penny for tribute." Pay no tribute in men or means. It is to be hoped that every red-blooded American will rebel at the idea of mixing in foreign affairs. If attacked, we will give them all the war they want and then some, but let them attack us before we get into any wholesale slaughter of human lives. America is well prepared for any kind of a war right now despite anything we read to the contrary. War profiteers keep shouting about our unpreparedness, but it is a commercial lie.

I'D LIKE TO BE A HALF-WIT.

In these days of political pull, if one can't have the pull, he can take a better course, that of being a half-wit. Perhaps if he had been a half-wit to begin with, he would have had political pull. Halfwits get the best of everything. If he wants to, he can get into an institution. If he does not like that secluded form of existence, he can marry. The state will supply hospital, nurse and doctor when the offsprings spring off. The children are fed on charity and the halfwit papa gets on relief. It's the other folks who have to dig up to raise a batch of morons—not the halfwit.

If a war breaks out, the halfwit is exempt because he could never make the "hay-foot, straw-foot" grade, much less "squads right." The world is made safe for imbeciles or halfwits in all nations—just sentiment. If a smart man commits murder, he's killed legally for the crime. A halfwit is locked up for a time, then turned loose "because he didn't know any better." If he steals, it's the same thing over again. In this manner the commonwealth pursues a system of selectivity placing a premium on the "batty" brother as the progenitor of future men and women.

Then again, the halfwit escapes bellywash, booze, "confession" magazines, radio crooners, patent medicine, political speeches and a lot of other annoying rot simply because he doesn't have sense enough to recognize it. Finally, after a life of ease and worthlessness, the preacher says no halfwit ever goes to hell, because God does not hold him accountable. By golly, I wish I had been a half-wit.

BLESSED ARE THE POOR

Blessed are the poor! No bandit holds them up as they drive into the garage in the old flivver. What thug in his right mind would select a victim in such a wind-blown bus? That's why the poor are always with us, nobody kills them for their cash.

Nor would any kidnapper risk his neck to carry off any person on his way to the country farm. Snatching him from a street carner and smothering him in a blanket could not get a dogs ransom from the pound.

The pocket-book of the poor is always flat. Voliva would not have to travel around the world to prove the earth were that way, he could just come this way. Everything has been flat here for some time.

Blessed are the poor! They grow strong wrestling with the wolf at the door. They have learned to go out and have a tussle with the brute every morning before breakfast as a setting up exercise. Running around the block is the place to get red blood.

Then the poor know no depression, they have had it all their lives and used to it. They know nothing else. With them it is the regular thing. They know how to take it. They never formed extravagant habits.

Blessed are the poor! They have learned to limit their wants. They cut their garments according to the cloth. They have to stay at home at night and so they get acquainted with their families, they are seldom in the divorce courts. Anyway, they haven't money enough to go to Reno or to a high-priced lawyer before they cool off and are happy again.

Blessed are the poor! They are used to pennies, this penny age doesn't bother them, they feel perfectly at home.

School Days and Health Problem Explained

The beginning of another school year is near at hand. The weeks have provided for school children the opportunity for mental rest and relaxation; they have likewise made for physical growth and development. Thousands of boys and girls will advance to a higher grade as they turn toward the schoolhouse. In addition, a new group of children, escorted by parents or older children, will be entering school for the first time.

The years spent in school represent training for life work. Such training accomplishes most when administered to pupils and students with clear minds and sound bodies. Moreover, this training must go on without serious interruption. Other things being equal, the school with a fine record for attendance is more apt to approach a high standard of education than the school with poor enrollment due to avoidable disease, declared Dr. John W. Brown, State

Health Officer.

Miss Lucille Wright and brother C. A. are visiting their sister, Mrs. Gene Leggett and family at Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Simpson and son spent the week end in Frederick, Okla. with her parents and sister. Miss Nola Gordon is teaching in the school there.

Robert McKee left Tuesday to enter Rice Institute at Houston.

Neal McKillop of Ft. Worth visited friends here over the week end. Neal is manager of one of the leading drug stores down there.

J. E. Teer, local manager of the Cameron lumber interests, attended a district meeting of the company managers at Altus Friday.

LITTLE EDDIE GALLOWAY

The son and joy of the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Galloway born September 20, 1931, departed this life September 15, 1935. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church at 3 p. m. Monday.

When death enters our homes, it suddenly opens our eyes to the floods of sorrow that are at all times sweeping over the world.

Especially, does the piteous fellowship of the tiny casket—so short, so little—claim those whose hearts are breaking for the touch of baby fingers, now still.

Into this sacred fellowship of strangely poignant grief how many have entered. What a world of sorrow this proves to be! Is there no comfort and consolation to be had?

If not, that are we, of all creatures, most miserable—life a mockery, hope and joy base betrayals, death a grey veil before unspeakable desolation.

But answer we have, joyous as Resurrection morn, positive as realized experience, and solid as God himself—our Everlasting Rock.

In little Eddie's passing, we find a sympathetic phrasing in the stanza of the beautiful poem:

"A bud the Gardener gave us,
A pure and lovely child:
He gave it to our keeping,
To cherish undefiled.
And just as it was opening,
To the glory of our day,
Down came the Heavenly Father
And took our bud away."

Human ties are broken when loved ones are taken. Something goes out of our lives that can never be again. But through afflictions and grief is born a new strength and confidence in the Great Counsellor who will cast divine light upon our darkness.

We realize more keenly our individual interest in the home "over there" as the little body is laid away, and the little life we held so precious becomes but a sweet memory. Little playthings, and the birthday watch sent by a relative that was to be his a few days later, become sacred.

The greatest consolation the bereaved have today, is the satisfaction of realizing that their love and undivided attention for his best interests, were considered a precious privilege. His happiness of a few short years with them glowed with appreciation. May they visualize that sweet picture today, and find solace in a duty well done.

To Dr. and Mrs. Galloway, their legion of friends feel deeply their loss, the vacancy in their home of their only child, and tender sincerest sympathy.

Fossils of Local Museum Verify Swampy Tropical Climate of Panhandle Ages Ago

Canyon, September 17.—The Panhandle Historical Society Museum here is rapidly accumulating a collection of fossil animals which illustrate the kind of place the Panhandle of Texas was five million or more years ago.

One of the latest acquisitions is the immense jaw of a shovel jawed Mastodon which lived along the margins of swamps and rivers which existed in Northwest Texas before men had appeared on the earth.

There were many Shovel-Jaws in these far off days according to J. Stuart Johnston, paleontologist of the West Texas State Teachers College, who prepared the jaw for exhibition. Boy Scouts of Amarillo located the jaw in a pit near their city and then assisted in excavating it.

This Mastodon, like others of the Pliocene age in which he lived, was about the size of a present-day elephant. He was a vegetarian and his long jaw was used to shovel his food from the surface of the ground. Like elephants of today, he had only two lower and two upper teeth at a time. These teeth which show in the jaw are about ten inches by four inches. It is likely that when one set wore out they were pushed out of the jaw and replaced by new ones. It is unlikely that old Shovel-Jaw ever had to visit a pre-historic dentist when he needed new teeth. This was a good thing, for he lived a long time before man is supposed to have appeared on the earth.

Many Fossils in Museum
Fossils of many other animals which lived in the early ages of the earth are found in the museum. Miss Iris Gillis of Pampa, a college student who is interested in paleontology and geology, was recently photographed with the leg bones and skull of a rhinoceros. These bones were found in Hemphill county not far from Canadian.

In this grave yard of big animals Wayne Miles of Dalhart, another college student, unearthed the bones of this semi-aquatic rhinoceros which lived by browsing on soft lush vegetation.

Professor Johnston says that the museum has now collected enough bones of this animal to make a complete specimen. When it is ready to exhibit it will take its place beside a fossil camel, another animal of the great Plains region which lived, however, in the Miocene Age, some ten million years ago. The camel is about the size of a goat.

One of the largest fossil bones in the collection is the upper front leg bone of the Imperial Elephant. This elephant was one of the largest that ever lived, some specimens of the family reaching a height of approximately fifteen feet and weighing several tons. The short leg bone of this animal is more than 40 inches long.

Perhaps the snout of the mastodon and the nose of the rhino were sometimes seized by immense turtles which lived in those days, for the shell of it which must have weighed at least 450 pounds is exhibited. This fossilized shell is 30 inches long. It was found near Clarendon, and was prepared for exhibition by Professor Johnson and Harry Hartzog, a student paleontologist of Clarendon.

Other interesting fossil exhibits include that of a pre-historic dog about the size of today's police dog, bones of a sabre-toothed tiger and fossil tracks of another huge tiger which were found in rocks near the camp of the excavating party in Hemphill county.

Fossils Bring Visitors

The fossil collection of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum is attracting attention of paleontologists all over the United States. During the last few months Dr. R. A. Stirton of the Museum of Paleontology of California University spent two days studying here. Dr. T. E. White and Dr. L. I. Price, research assistants for the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology, studied specimens in the museum and in Palo Duro State Park. Professor J. W. Stovall of Oklahoma University Museum of Paleontology and Dr. E. W. Sellards of the geology department of the University of Texas and Dr. E. C. Olsen of the University of Chicago are among those who are interested in the Panhandle field as shown in the local museum.

Frequently the bone hunters find several fossils of a given kind. When this happens the bones are exchanged with other museums for specimens not found in this territory. In this way institutions secure valuable material at only a small cost.

Some of the fossils which have been found during the summer in Palo Duro State Park and in the pits of Hemphill, Potter, Donley, and Randall counties will be prepared for exhibition, and many others will be used during the coming nine months as laboratory materials for classes in the West Texas State Teachers College. Students of paleontology not only secure an understanding of life on earth from its earliest beginning to the present time, but also learn how to find an excavate and how to classify fossil animals and plants. Field trips are a regular part of such classes.

Mrs. F. C. Johnson was an Amarillo visitor Monday.

Mrs. J. R. Bartlett and children visited the Fair Wednesday at Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hill were in Amarillo Tuesday, also visited the Fair.

AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
J. Perry King, Pastor

There is Always Worship Fellowship :: Service

Maybe you have noticed it, too: The happiest people are also the busiest. Entirely too many christians are looking for parking places in the church. The church is not a safety zone for pious people, but a place to work in the Master's vineyard. Paul's favorite picture of the christian was that of a fighting man; one clad in the whole armour of God, ready to fight sin on every hand. If the Lord should court-martial his soldiers for being absent without leave a great many christians would be in court Monday morning. Nor do I believe that the penalty would be suspended. The church is both a school and an army, and can do little with absentees. No instructor can make scholars out of truants. No general can win a war with deserters. Let every christian be in their place next Sunday morning and offer themselves for service. One trouble with the world-to-day is that laziness is so seldom fatal. Be busy for Christ and you will be a happy christian.

The Sunday evening service at the Baptist Church will begin promptly at 7:30. This service will be for the benefit and in the interest of those who are not christians. Bring your friends and neighbors and loved ones who are not christians and let's try to show them the way of eternal life. The hour for the Training Service is 6:30. Mr. John Naylor is our new Director, and earnestly solicits your presence and help in this his new undertaking.

Turks Take First Game Off Hedley Owls Friday

The Hedley Owls made their 19 35 football debut Friday Sept. 13, against the strong Turkey Turks at Turkey while losing by a score of 20-0, the Owls showed real promise, and prospects look good, as they are due to make great improvement as the season advances. The heavier, more experienced Turks scored three touchdowns and kicked and passed for two extra points.

In the first period, Hedley chose to kick, and held the Turks for downs, forcing them to kick. Hedley then, taking the ball, made a first down, but failed to make their second one, and punted. Both team played a defensive game the remainder of the quarter, Hedley having a slight edge. Score 0-0.

In the second quarter Turkey made their first score. Turkey punted deep into Hedley territory; then blocked a punt and recovered on about the 12yd. line. Stunned for a minute, the Owls weakened, and several end runs netted a touchdown. The try for extra point was a pass, and failed. Hedley then received, and carried the ball back well toward Turkey's goal line. After making substantial gain thru the Turkey line, a pass was attempted, but was intercepted. The score at the end of the half: Turkey 6—Hedley 0.

In the third quarter Turkey again scored, obtaining possession of the ball after Hedley failed to fall on a punt that had been touched by a Hedley player. The kick for point was good. Score Turkey 13—Hedley 0.

In the last period the Turks, with a half yard to go for a first down, completed a long pass, putting the ball almost on the Hedley goal line. Although fighting valiantly, and holding for three downs, the Owls were forced back, and Turkey made their third touchdown of the afternoon and passed for the extra point. Score Turkey 20—Hedley 0.

Although out-weighted, and out-scored, the Owls were not out-fought, for they were in there every minute, fighting from whistle to whistle. The light inexperienced team (Capt. Richardson is the only letterman on the squad) showed that it is not the kind to quit, even against over-whelming odds. Richardson was the outstanding Owl player for the day; he proved himself an able field general, as well as a dangerous triple threat man. He can pass, is an excellent ball-toter, and a remarkable punter. Other players also played well—the line, in spite of its lack of weight, held and most of Turkey's gains were made around end or thru the air.

Hedley's conference schedule begins Fri. Sept. 20, against Samnorwood, there. The first home game is on Fri. Sept. 27, with Alanreed. Let's all support the Owls and help them to win the Class C Championship.

Chevrolet Truck Sales Set New Time Record

A new all-time record for truck sales in a single month was set by Chevrolet in August, W. E. Fish, manager of the commercial car department of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced yesterday. There were 21,776 trucks delivered in the United States in August, Mr. Fish said. The best previous August was in 1928, when the total was 20,641. Last year, 16,748 trucks were delivered in August, so that the record just achieved is more than 30 per cent improvement over the corresponding month in 1934.

"Sales of these commercial vehicles," said Mr. Fish, "were a most important factor in the spectacular sales record which Chevrolet dealers established in August, during which month they delivered 99,018 units for a new all-time August record. Increase in truck volume is doubly gratifying because in addition to returning profits it forecasts improved business for the future. Such a showing as was made last month is a reliable indication that commercial vehicles will be in demand right on through the fall."

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING TEXAS HISTORY IN AN EARLY EXCITING EPOCH

Distinguished as a frontier teacher, Indian trader, county commissioner, pioneer physician, explorer, naturalist, Gideon Lincecum was one of the unique individuals who sought Texas as a new frontier in the thirties and forties. Apprenticed in the profession of medicine, Lincecum was not scientifically trained and frequently quarreled with his colleagues. Ultimately he accepted "botanical medicine" and Indian herb-medicine, learned from the Alikchi Chito or "Great Indian Doctor" of the Choctaws. However, according to Samuel Wood Geiser, whose sketch of Lincecum appeared in The Southwest Review in 1929, "There is no question that among his fellow members of the profession, he was the chief recipient of popular esteem and approval." Lincecum was an acutely observant naturalist and his researches, at times, published in scientific journals, received the attention, sometimes favorable, sometimes adversary critical, of scientists of his day. His correspondents included Charles Darwin, Louis Agassiz, Alexander von Humboldt, and Dr. Elias Durand. Lincecum came to Texas for the first time in 1835, and located a league of land near Long Point, where he later settled when he returned in 1848 to make his home in the Lone Star State. He made early and tremendously valuable collections of Texas herbs, one of which, containing over a thousand specimens, he sent to Dr. Durand, who later turned them over to the Herbarium of the Jardin des Plantes, in Paris. Again, he presented a similar collection to the Philadelphia Academy. After the Civil War he sent fourteen different collections to the Smithsonian Institution, the materials consisting of mammals, fossils, shells, birds, insects, alcoholic specimens, and one negro skull. He also sent some two thousand specimens of Texas butterflies to a New York natural history society.

His principal study, however, was his research on the Agricultural—or Red Ant, a piece of work for which he was once well known. Papers of Gideon Lincecum, including a letter press and some of his recipes for herbal remedies, as well as notes on various Texas herbs, were deposited in the University of Texas library by his grandsons, C. B. Doran and F. L. Doran of Hempstead. Almost any page of his diary, unpublished, provides interesting reading. A few samples will illustrate the painstaking researches of this early scientist, and the flavor of the language in which he propounds his theories of cures. Of wild lemon balm he wrote: "Fragrant, Stomachic, Carminative, Diaphoretic, Tonic. I discovered this beautiful little sweet plant during the summer of 1848. It is found abundant on the high, dry, rocky points in the prairies of Texas—as far as I am familiar between the Brazos and Colorado. "I have used it extensively, and find it a very agreeable diaphoretic in fevers, pleurisies, colds, &c. It seems to be peculiarly adapted to the diseases of infants and small children and may be freely given, both by the mouth and for injections—I consider it one of the very best vehicles to administer the lobelia Tincture, or antispasmodic Tincture in, particularly to children and delicate females. Add to a teaspoonful of the tea made very sweet, 4 or 5 teaspoonfuls of the tincture of Lobelia and one teaspoonful of antispasmodic Tincture, stir it till it is mixed and you have the best preparation for croup known to the profession. A small portion of the antispasmodic tincture in the sweetened tea of this herb, makes a good injection for children. "This plant combines the properties of Balm, catnip and lemon, and possesses a considerable quantity of essential oil. "Dr. East, who has just returned from Mexico, informs me that it grows abundantly beyond the Rio Grande, and as far west as he went." The rosemary, fabled as a token "for remembrance," possesses remedial qualities, Lincecum wrote: "The plant—aromatic, Stomachic, Contains a very fine extractive oil—which is a good article in liniments for Rheumatism. "A mattress made of the dried herb, make an excellent bed for feeble patients to sleep on. In this way it possesses considerable restorative powers. "It is used for many purposes and is a pretty good article of medicine. "A few sprigs of it put into the lard tubs while the lard is cooling, will prevent it from becoming rancid." The spikenard is "good in female weakness, in coughs, and as a general tonic," Lincecum wrote. "It is taken in decoction or syrup. "The Choctaws use it for many complaints among their children. In all cases where we would use the paregoric, Bateman's drops, Godfrey's cordial &c. They use the spikenard, and it a superior article. For this purpose they boil a little of the root in clear water, sweeten the decoction and give it pretty freely to children of any age, who are troubled with gripes, colic &c. It is an excellent article, I have tried it often. "In bad cases of putrid sore eyes, the choctaws boil up a quantity of the root, and while it is boiling hot steam their eyes over it. Two or three applications generally cures them. "It makes an excellent cough medicine, and may be resorted to with advantage in almost all forms of cough." "A tea of the Roots of the angelica is a pretty good medicine for the gripes in suckling children," he added. "Dried and pulverized, it is a good flour to roll pills in, and it gives them a pleasant odor. It is not often used as a medicine." Lincecum's notations are all scientifically made, listing the class and order of each herb, its natural order, popular name, scientific name, family and specie, and its medicinal effect. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Duncan saw the Tri-State Fair Sunday. Mrs. Ross Scott and Mrs. Wiley Carmichael were Amarillo visitors Monday. Mrs. Faye Scogins and daughter Ruby Dell returned to Canyon Tuesday where they will resume their studies in the College. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Leggett of Vernon announce the birth of a 6½ pound daughter Sunday the 15th. Mrs. Leggett was formerly Miss Dorothy Wright of Clarendon.

WHAT HAS THIS DINOSAUR TO DO WITH MOTOR OIL ?

The Sinclair dinosaurs symbolize the vast age of the crude oils refined into Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvanian Motor Oils. Generally speaking, the longer a crude oil has mellowed and filtered in the earth, the tougher the lubricating film it will produce. Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvanian each give a lubricating film capable of withstanding a pressure of more than 3 tons per square inch—extra protection for every moving part of your car engine. Look for the dinosaur on the Tamper-Proof cans in which Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvanian Motor Oils are sold.

THOUSANDS ARE KILLED OR INJURED EVERY YEAR WHEN BLOW-OUTS THROW CARS OUT OF CONTROL

IS IT WORTH THE GAMBLE WHEN YOU CAN GET GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION AT NO EXTRA COST?

It may take only one blow-out to end your driving days. And here's what causes blow-outs. At today's high-speeds the inside of the tire gets as hot as boiling water. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A blister forms. Bigger and BIGGER it grows until, sooner or later BANG! A blow-out. You're headed for plenty of trouble.

By resisting internal tire heat, the Life-Saver Golden Ply that's built into every Goodrich Safety Silvertown keeps rubber and fabric from separating—keeps blisters from forming and thus gives you real protection against high speed blow-outs. Play safe. Let us equip your car with Golden Ply Silvertowns. Remember they cost no more than other standard tires and give months of extra mileage.

Our Weekly CHURCH CHAT

W. E. FERRELL
Minister First Christian Church

"THE VOICE OF GOD"

"I will hear what God the Lord will speak, for he will speak peace." Psa. 85:8.

"For the most part God speaks to our soul in unobtrusive ways. He does not often smite our ears with the thunder of His word, compelling us to hear whether he will or no. Instead, He often steals softly into our hearts and whispers there His word of warning or sweet comfort. His wonderful counsel or His stern judgment upon our deeds. God's message to us requires our undisturbed attention. We must listen if we would catch His voice above the din and fury of earth's noises and the clamor of our human passions. Elijah heard Him, when he spoke in the still small voice after the storm and fire. We should always keep our hearts in tune with the eternal Father and listen to His voice when he speaks to us.

From the heights of the mountain tops, God spoke to Moses and the children of Israel. They knew God was speaking. He demonstrated His power in a way that left no doubt in their minds. He was giving to a nation the laws that would govern their lives for centuries to come.

Fifteen hundred years later God spoke again from a mountain top. This time it was to a few chosen disciples of our Lord who were present with their Master on the mount of Transfiguration. This time God declared that Christ was His Son and that He was pleased with the Son and His mission. God closed this brief message with the statement, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, Hear ye Him."

This Son gathered a few followers around Him and gave them a world-wide mission. They were commanded to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. The disciples remembered the statement of God: "Hear ye Him" and they began the program of evangelizing the world.

Nearly two thousand years have passed since God spoke that message, and the true followers of Christ had all authority and power, and His word was final and complete. If we are followers of the Great Teacher, we will hear His voice and we will be obedient to His commands, program and plan.

GROVE MEETING MEMORIES

When we went to Grove Meeting On dear old Liberty Hill, Camp Meeting was in progress And the summer air was still.

How well I remember the hillside Where it was hard to walk, The ground was covered with gravel Almost as white as chalk.

The hill was clothed with cedars Open spaces were here and there, At one of these we gathered And worshipped and knelt in prayer.

We met in the late afternoons When the sun hung low in the West, And a peaceful atmosphere Had wrapped the valley in rest.

Experiences, songs, and prayers Were wafted upon high By love and deepest gratitude And we felt God's presence nigh.

Our hearts were full of happiness Yes, peace was everywhere When we went to Grove Meeting And the women led in prayer. —Irene Denman Kiser.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Mayes are taking a vacation this week. This trip will include a visit to their farming interests in Oklahoma, it is said.

Among those whose lives have followed the plans made early in life, the services of a good bank will generally be found to have played a part.

Spencer Tracy and Virginia Bruce Well Cast as Crime Reporter and "Sob Sister" Who Get Mixed Up in Murder Case With a Surprise Outcome

For breath-taking speed, suspense, mystery and romance, few pictures have equalled "The Murder Man," which presents Spencer Tracy and Virginia Bruce on the screen of the Pastime Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25-26th.

In a way its title is misleading, for it has nothing to do with gangs or gangsters. Instead, "The Murder Man" is the star reporter of a powerful New York daily newspaper who has won the nickname through his success in solving Collier, Sr., Louise Henry and others.

"The Murder Man" is Harry Rapf's new production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and was ably directed by Tim Whelan.

MR. and MRS. ED DUNCAN

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Duncan, local managers of the M System grocery came to Clarendon from Memphis September 10, 1926. A very small stock was kept in a building on the west side of the street on north Kearney.

After five years in that building, a move was made to a building next door to the postoffice where better lighting and display facilities were some of the features that went along toward increasing the sum of the firm's business for about one year.

The next move was to the commodious building at the corner of Second and Kearney, said to be the second best business building in town for the grocery or any other kind of business.

an excellent display of fruits, vegetables and other grocery products. With plenty of light and a strong desire on the part of the managers to accommodate the trade, goods are displayed to an advantage over the building, a large stock being carried at all times.

Last Saturday the M System displayed and sold one thousand pounds of cabbage alone. Sales have constantly grown calling for more help. The store is a favorite meeting place for rural customers as well as a fine town trade.

The display and business volume today is many times what it was as compared with the beginning on September 10, 1926. The firm has been consistent advertisers in the Donley County Leader through the years reaching all points of the Clarendon trade territory.

Multiply Your Man-Power By Seven

McCormick-Deering corn binders are built in two types, horizontal and vertical. Both are light-draft, long-lived machines that do hard work quickly and easily.

When you go into the corn with a McCormick-Deering Vertical or Horizontal Corn Binder you are equipped to do the work of five to seven men with corn knives. And you sit in comfort while you are doing it. Instead of turning standing corn into loose, unwieldy stalks that are hard to load or shock, the McCormick-Deering bundles and ties the corn for fast handling without loss of labor or corn. This saves time at harvest and afterward.

If you feed silage you especially need the fast, sure work of the McCormick-Deering Corn Binder. With the binder in the field and a McCormick-Deering Ensilage Cutter at the silo, every stalk can be turned into the highest grade silage, at minimum cost, because the fast-working equipment handles the corn when it is at its best. We have this new McCormick-Deering for you to see and try. Come to our store and we will point out the many fine features that this binder offers.
