SIN SEPARATES

Your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that He will not hear.—Isaiah 59:2.

The practice of printing a verse of scripture just under the editorial mast-head, recently adopted by The Clarendon News is in accord with a movement which has become nation-wide in its scope. There can be no message to the masses comparable to the inspired wisdom of the Bible and now, as never before, we as a people need its influence. Read the verse every week—it's for the good of us all.

A lot of Americans have been rather proud of Jack Dempsey for his fistie fame, but if he does what now seems probable and goes into where. Give the boys your encouragement with a negro he will lose agement and support.

The chautauqua recently closed here in Clarendon after a very pleasing series of programs which ranked much higher than their former offerings, but the people did not sign their guaranteed contract for next year. The News points this out with a view of showing that there was no kick on the quality of programs presented, but rather to reiterate the declaration often made in these columns that the contract offered by the chautauqua people is not in accord with good old Americanism, in that the party of the first part takes no risk whatever. There is not another business in the country that demands and receives a guarantee and our contention is that the chautauqua should come to us solely on its merits. If they win, well and good; if they lose they will be having an experience common to other businesses. The News notices that other towns of the Panhandle are taking the same attitude and when the movement is general enough the chautauqua people will readjust their contracts and do business like anybody else in this glorious republic. Let us no longer be the cats-paw to pull the chestnuts from the embers for somebody else.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce at Amarillo has started out with a large subscribing membership and with a program that cannot but bring good to Amarillo. Their first task is to shoulder the work of the Panhandle Plains Chamber of Commerce, arguing that to help the Panhandle of Texas is the surest way of building up Amarillo. Such a program is a legitimate piece of selfishness and the sort of selfishness we should encourage rather than the tightwad kind that refuses to look beyond the personal horizon of the subject.

It is very doubtful if Donley County ever had a public servant who was worth more to the people of the county than has been the public health nurse, Miss Ella Yeager, who is leaving her position here to take work with the state health department at Austin. She has been on the job night and day, taking pains to see that her services were to those who needed them most. The News hopes that her place can be filled with another who will try to live up to the high standards set by Miss Yeager.

We have never known exactly what Sam Miller, of the Mineral Wells Index told Sam Braswell of the Clarendon News, Sam Fore of the Floresville Chronicle said, regarding the remarks of Sam Harben about one of the Texas Sams resembling Fatty Arbuckle's size.—Lee Rountree, in Bryan Eagle. Take it from me, Lee, Sam Fore's remarks concerning Ole Sam Harben's unfortunate utterance was of the sizzling variety and ranks up well with any vitriolic utterance of the year—and this is campaign year in Texas, too.

Think of it! Eleven hundred murders in Texas every year. One murder to each three thousand population every twelve months. These deplorable facts mean that a city the size of Clarendon will suffer one murder a year in order to keep up the average. It is a horrible commentary upon the low estimate of human life to think of such a condition existing in a state where we proudly boast of our culture and refinement. The remedy for this condition must be a combination of remedies. Home life of the people must be exalted. Schools must emphasize the value of human life. Christianity must preach energetically and practice more generally the spirit of brotherly love, exalting the principles of our being "our brothers' keeper." Finally the courts must be more iron clad in demanding "eye for an eye" and "tooth for a tooth," seeing to it that the offender pays the penalty due for the crime. Eleven hundred murders in one year in Texas, must never be equalled again. We all are responsible and must set our faces like stone against this blot on our state.

JUST BEING RELIABLE

Have you noticed that when a public organization of any kind elects officers, or names committees, or delegates authority to individuals, the persons selected for responsible positions usually are busy persons, who already have plenty on their hands? Why are the more important tasks not given to less occupied members free to give them more attention? The reason is clear. The individual of affairs has a sense of responsibility; this is generally known, and he is trusted to find time somehow to perform the extra duties. Thus so often we find that public men, who find the days too short for the pressure of their private undertakings, are asked to assume public functions which may require of them much time and thought. And we find them accepting these responsibilities, frequently with no prospect of reward but rather with the likelihood of criticism by the public whom they may be trying to serve. The only explanation of their acceptance is a real desire to be useful or an instinctive interest in getting things done.

The man already pressed for time manages to do his own work and take care of additional burdens, not so much on account of exceptional ability as because he is a pusher, and refuses to be distracted. He is a living proof that just being reliable is the prime requisite of success. If it is true that nobody ever achieved great renown merely by being reliable, it is fully as true that without being reliable nobody could accomplish anything worth mentioning.

Reliability is not a commonplace virtue. Every employer is on the lookout for it, and many a brilliant man is a failure for the reason that he has shown himself wanting in it. A sense of responsibility is in fact the basis for every sort of progress, in that an opportunity for distinction is granted less frequently to unreliable genius than to reliable mediocrity. And whereas if genius persists in being careless and untrustworthy it will be trusted less and less, the ordinary fellow, thorough and honest, will gain the good graces of his superiors and develop his own powers.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's surplus waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

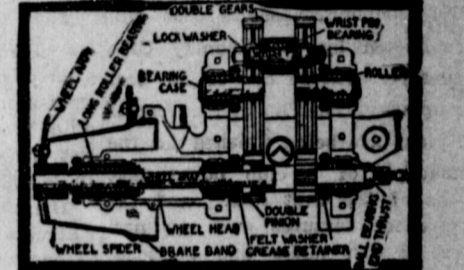

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

WHY DOES THE NATION PAY FOR THE SCHOOLS?

WILLIAM McANDREW

Every minute of every school purpose? was it not to sell to their cost money. Who pays it? readily see the the community, those who own no property, and those who own any, pay for the schools.

It is not your father, alone, who paid for your schooling, your uncle, your neighbor, those who know you and those who never saw you, are taxed to provide the money that educates you. Why? Because the people of America decided that they would govern themselves and that as a people, united in a government, they would educate the growing generation in the principles which distinguish the American government from the autocracies of the old world.

There was education before there was an American Republic. There were schools before the Revolution of 'Seventy-Six. What was their

By no means. The American public school is not for the selfish advantage of each separate boy and girl; it is not to lift them above their fellows. The public school is for the general welfare; to produce citizens who will serve the community in peace as well as in war, who will give their time and their money to public benefit, who will serve on town committees, who will create unselfishness and who will make sacrifices to accept public office, who will keep well informed upon the public needs and patriotic public opinion.

These are facts the schools must teach. These are duties the output of the schools must perform. Otherwise the original purpose of the American public schools is lost.

CLARENDON'S FOURTH A FIZZLE

Under the above caption, the Claude News takes Clarendon to a scathing arraignment for its celebration of the Fourth of July. It may be stated that this opinion is not held entirely outside of Clarendon, as already plans are being made by getting pledges for a big fund for a Fourth next year that is of the same type as the old time celebrations, this by providing plenty of free barbecue and other entertainment. But it must be said on the other hand, in justice to all parties, that everything that was promised was given. Not one line was put in this or other papers stating that there would be a rodeo, for oftentimes the people are more disgusted at having to pay for seeing poor entertainment of this kind than when no such is attempted and everything is free. Clarendon only promised baseball games, band music, political speaking, and the basket dinner, said dinner to be brought there by those intending to participate in same. The band and the baseball players played; the candidates who had promised to speak here, were unable to be here; and those who brought their dinner here, had a basket dinner as was planned. If then as the paper states, the Fourth was a fizzle; it can be truthfully said that nothing more was promised therefore, on one should have been disappointed. However we are glad that the neighboring paper took the shot at us, as we can hope to grow better only through criticism. The article follows:

"Of all the fizzle from Fizzledom, Clarendon's Fourth of July fizzle caps the climax. Thousands of people visited Clarendon July 4th expecting some kind of entertainment, but returned home sorely disappointed. We do not know that Clarendon advertised a 4th of July celebration, but items in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and other papers lead the people to believe that they were going to celebrate the Glorious Fourth, but they DID NOT. Barring the band, which is a mighty good band for only two months practice, they had no music, no singing, no speaking, no rodeo, no recitations, no barbecue, no orations, no programs, no nothing. A half dozen families, country people, who went there for entertainment, spread their dinner on the court house lawn and ate, each family to itself, while those who brought nothing either ate dinner at the restaurant or went home hungry. Many of the people of Clarendon expressed themselves as being very much disappointed that there was nothing by way of entertainment. People did not care so much about something to eat, but they did expect some kind of entertainment, for the afternoon at least. If Clarendon did not aim to entertain July 4th, she should have said "NOTHING DOING," instead of allowing the impression to go out that she would entertain, and then fail to do so. The fact that there were several thousand people at Clarendon July 4th leads many to believe they expected something, else they would have gone to Canyon, Panhandle, Amarillo, Washburn, Wheeler and many other places where the 4th was really enjoyed. Why, the little town of Washburn, with only two stores and a garage, entertained something like 2,000 people with a grand July 4th celebration. They furnished big free barbecue, the best that was ever prepared, speakers of State reputation, under a well seated arbor; a rodeo, the best the Panhandle ever witnessed; and many other side lines that go to make the Fourth of July a pleasure, closing the day with a grand ball in the evening. Clarendon should have announced in no unmistakable terms there would be no celebration at Clarendon this year, then thousands of people would not have been disappointed in going there. Say "yes" or "no." Let the people know that you will have nothing July 4th, or entertain them in some way when they do visit you."

CHICAGO BANKERS VIEW DRY LAW AS THRIFT-PROMOTER

That the dry law has boosted savings, is in substance, the response of Chicago bankers to a questionnaire sent out by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, asking for an expression of opinion on the financial results of Prohibition. This statement is made in a Chicago dispatch to the New York Times, which after noting that one banker asserts that savings deposits in his institution have increased 30 per cent, goes on to quote a few representative replies as follows:

James B. Forgan, Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank, said: "Immediately after Prohibition became the law of the land a large influx of savings accounts was noticeable in our bank, and, I believe, generally in other banks. The number of accounts opened has steadily increased, showing that the number of thrifty is steadily growing, and I believe that the absence of the saloon is largely responsible for this growth."

Earl H. Reynolds, President of the People's Trust and Savings Bank, asserted that Prohibition had "materially benefited and promoted thrift among the people of this country, and consequently has been of considerable value to the community."

John Jay Abbott of the Continental and Commercial Bank, said: "Since the date on which national Prohibition went into effect the savings deposits of this bank have increased approximately $10,000,000, or 30 per cent. There is no question that Prohibition has contributed very largely to the increase of savings in the United States and is of great economic value to the country."

George R. Shawhan of Champaign, Ill., replied: "From the standpoint of a banker and business man, Prohibition, I believe, has been of great economic value to the community."

"There can be no question that Prohibition has promoted thrift among the wage-earners and smaller salaried persons, and we believe, from that standpoint, it has been of great economic value," said Thomas F. Wallace of Minneapolis.—Literary Digest.

ROADS PAY DIVIDENDS

A wagon with a load of 3,000 pounds required an average draft of 108 pounds on a gravel road in dry condition, in a recent test at the Missouri College of Agriculture. The same load on a dry clay road required a draft of 321 pounds. This shows the great variation in the work done in hauling and in the size of load a team can handle, says J. C. Wooley, chairman of the agricultural engineering department, which conducted this test. The gravel roads prove their value even more completely under spring conditions. This load on the same roads after a heavy rain required a draft of 180 pounds on the gravel, and 372 pounds on the clay. This is only one of the many advantages offered by all-the-year roads.

Barnes and Brumley, of Clarendon have been awarded the contract for an addition to the Groom school. The addition will cost $20,275 and construction will begin at once. Parker & Rittenberry of Amarillo are the architects.—Amarillo News.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

-and Their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Firestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Firestone methods are different and better. These records, steadily increasing in number and in mileage totals, justify the Firestone contention that there is one best way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Firestone extra mileage is double gum-dipping—the saturation of the cord plies in a vat of liquid gum—thus coating each cord and virtually eliminating internal heat and friction.

Another is Firestone air bag curing, with its 200 pound pressure, which places every cord accurately and equalizes the tension.

By blending the rubbers of different plantations and types, and by tempering it before mixing, Firestone men add still more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are better—Firestone users say one is best.

Those who have already experienced Firestone mileage, have stopped shopping and experimenting—they have made these cords standard equipment. Investigate your friends' success with Firestone Cords—and buy your next tire accordingly. Come in and get your share of extra mileage.

WISDOM SISTERS EVANGELISTIC SINGERS

REVIVAL MEETING TO BEGIN NEXT SUNDAY

SERVICES TO BE HELD IN THE METHODIST CHURCH UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF DR. J. T. GRISWOLD. WISDOM SISTERS TO SING.

The summer revival to be held by the Methodists of Clarendon will begin Sunday morning in the First Methodist Church. It is planned to run the meeting two weeks, and the preaching will be done by Dr. J. T. Griswold, pastor of the church. Special music will be furnished by the Wisdom Sisters, of Macon Missouri, while all local singers who can be secured will be used for building up a large choir so necessary for the successful revival.

The decision to use the church as the place of meeting was reached after going over the situation carefully. The pastor and the board of stewards arrived at the conclusion that the church can be made as comfortable by a little effort as could a tabernacle; and it is readily evident that there is always an advantage from the surroundings when the meeting is held in the church. Also, the expense of the tabernacle will be done away with, and funds that would be spent in that way will be used otherwise to greater advantage.

The decision to use the local pastor as the evangelist has also met with hearty approval of those interested in the meeting. It goes without saying that Rev. Griswold is better acquainted with local conditions than could any visiting evangelist possibly be. And it also goes without saying that none of the sensational methods that are so popular with some will be employed. Rev. Griswold is also recognized as one of the leading evangelists of this conference, and great results are sure to follow his preaching.

A feature of the music that is creating great interest is the singing which will be done by the Wisdom sisters, of Macon Missouri. Peerless singers of the gospel that they are, they always make a profound impression on their audience; and they compose a trio of wonderful workers. They sang at the Annual Northwest Texas Conference last fall, and those present declare that they never heard greater gospel singing. Time and again, it is said, when the singers had finished singing some old hymn, every eye would be moist.

A large choir of local singers is also being recruited, and this feature of the music will, doubtless, prove the equal of the best ever had here. Everyone who has any love of singing is invited to help in the choir.

Although the meeting is held in the Methodist Church under the leadership of the Methodist congregation, its greatest usefulness can only be realized when it is city wide in scope; and members of every congregation who are interested in seeing lost people saved are invited to come and join in this meeting.

The hours for the day service in the morning and eight fifteen o'clock in the evening. So that there may be the greatest co-operation with the other churches of the city in holding their summer revivals, this meeting will be run for just two weeks.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE JOINS STATE BOARD

and is with deep regrets that the work is given up.

The value of the work will become the more apparent from the following resume made from a report of Miss Yeager to headquarters, which report covers the work from October 1st, 1921 to July 1st this year. The general report is 140 cases under care during the time. The record of visits made is: Nursing visits 484; infant welfare visits 265; prenatal visits 123; tuberculosis visits 62; child welfare visits 42; visits to schools 118; home visits to children 176; social service visits 36; office treatments 20; attendance at clinics 39; sanitary inspection visits 14; friendly visits 108; other visits 227; this gives a total of 1714 visits. The number of talks given by Miss Yeager was 170; and the number of night calls after eight p. m. was 70.

The special school report as made is: number of schools visited—all in Donley county; total number of visits made to school 118; number of pupils examined 2,000; number of pupils found defective, 470; number of cases corrected 133; treatments in school 10; class talks 130; health clubs organized 23; hours in school 183.

The report speaks for itself in far greater terms than can anyone else; the value of such a work can not be estimated in terms of dollars and cents; but it is hoped that only a short time will pass until Donley county will have this work again; and in the meantime it is hoped that Miss Yeager will realize the same success in her work with the State Department of Health that she has had in this county.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ryan and daughter, Miss Zell, motored down to the Harle ranch in Hall county Sunday and visited with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Sam Harle Jr.

Hon. R. H. Beville returned Tuesday morning from a short business trip to Amarillo.

KEENER-BRYAN

Miss Etta Mae Bryan, of this city, became the bride of Floyd Keener Friday afternoon at six o'clock at Quannah, Rev. Early, pastor of the Methodist church in that city, performing the ceremony.

The marriage came as the culmination of a romance begun while the groom was attending the college in this city. The father of the bride accompanied her to Quannah.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom left for Dennison where they will make their home.

The bride is next to the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bryan of this city, and is a young lady of many charming graces being highly popular among a large circle of friends. She was among the graduates of the local high school last commencement. The groom is a fine young man of sturdy habits, and while attending the college was prominent in student government and athletics, making a large circle of friends all of whom will join in wishing for him and his bride many happy years accompanied by prosperity.

HOW TO CONTROL THE MELON APHIS

During the last few weeks I have assisted in spraying a large number of melon fields for the melon aphis, or what is commonly called the "melon louse." It is probable that this pest will appear in numerous other patches within the next few days, especially if the weather continues to stay dry so that it would be advisable to examine your melon patch carefully at least twice each week.

The melon aphis injures plants by piercing them with its beak and sapping their vitality. This insect excretes a substance called "honey dew" from its own body and when they are present in large quantities the honeydew covers the leaves of the plant with a thin, sticky coating. This attracts attention to injury, as does also the wilting and dying down of the affected plants. Many persons who notice the honey dew are unaware of the presence of the insects, and thus speak of the injury as "honeydew," and some have even applied the name to the insect.

There are many natural enemies that help to combat the melon aphis, the most important of these natural enemies is the ladybug. There are also many wasp like flies which are said to devour large numbers. The presence of the melon louse may often be detected by the large number of ants on the under side of the leaves of the affected plants where the lice always do their work. These ants do not feed upon the lice however, but are there for the purpose of feeding upon the honey-like excretions described above as honeydew.

There are several considerations with regard to the methods of control. First it must be borne in mind that the plant-lice attack first the under side of the leaves and if they are to be sprayed effectively it must be done before the leaves have become crinkled and wilted, and their surface covered with honeydew. These insects being on the undersides of the leaves, and the vines often growing closely together often cause effective spraying to be difficult. It should be remembered that the effectiveness of any contact spray is in direct proportion to the thoroughness with which it is applied. NONE OF THEM ARE EFFECTIVE UNLESS BROUGHT INTO ACTUAL CONTACT WITH THE BODIES OF THE INSECT. It is thus very different to a stomach poison spray.

There are several contact insecticides which are used to combat the melon aphis, but I am partial to the NICOTINE SULPHATE spray, often called black leaf 40. Make a mixture in the following proportions: Nicotine sulphate, 40 per cent, fluid ounces 4.

Yellow laundry soap, pounds 4. Water, gallons 24.

Use a sprayer which is equipped with an angle nozzle so that every particle of the under side of every leaf will be covered. The county court has a spray of this kind. I can tell you most any time where you can get it by going after it. Where you have only a few plants affected near the house they can be materially checked by a direct stream of water from the garden hose upon them. Their bodies are soft and those that are hit direct do not survive, while others are dislodged from the plant and do not succeed in returning.

Roy W. Hendrix, County Agent.

NOTES TO MELON GROWERS

I have a recent communication from Mr. Norman, Manager of the State Melon Exchange, who advises me that melon shipments are coming along nicely in the South Texas area, and are bringing a fair price, although no number one cars had been shipped, as all the melons were too light so far. He lays this trouble to the fact that it was impossible to get the growers to all prune their melons as the exchange recommended. He expressed a wish that we will profit by the mistake which has been made in many places and not allow anything prevent us from pruning according to instructions. The exchange recommended that we plant our melons in hills 12 feet apart each way, and later thin them to one vine in each hill, and two well shaped melons to each vine. In pruning melons a vine should never be cut, but simply remove all except the best two or three melons. A short handled hoe straightened out is a good implement with which to prune melons. Many of the exchange members in this county have already shaped their melon fields up in every way according to instructions.

Last year I happened to the "good fortune" of being in a melon patch belonging to Mr. Wilson Gray of the Goldston community. I noticed that the melons were exceptionally sweet and of good texture, and also that the vines were planted very thin on the land. Mr. Gray explained that this was his method, as he had found that by having the melons never cease growing until they were mature as there would always be sufficient moisture to make one vine and its fruit. He explained that on the other hand he might have them thicker on the land, and they might run out of moisture before the fruit was mature, in which case the melon would cease growing for a while, then when additional moisture fall it would begin growing again and cause a hard place in the melon, or produce a melon which was not marketable. Several town people who have eaten melons from Mr. Gray's farm have told me that they were the sweetest ones they had ever bought anywhere, and the grower advises me that the secret of raising good melons is to secure a normal steady growth from the time they shed the bloom to maturity. It seems that the only way to do this is to prune them properly. Two 40 pound melons are always worth more than four 25 pound ones on the commercial market.

Roy W. Hendrix, County Agent.

THE TOMATO FRUIT WORM

Many people over the county seem to have had considerable trouble with the tomato fruit worm, or sometimes called the corn ear worm. This worm is extremely destructive to corn and equally so to tomatoes, as it bores into the tomato and feeds on the pulp which causes the tomato to decay. For the benefit of those who are having trouble with this pest I am offering the following control measures which have in many instances been used effectively.

The remedy consists in poisoning the worms with a mixture of corn meal and dry arsenate of lead, using 1 teaspoonful of arsenate of lead to 1 quart of meal. Dust this over the plant and tomatoes thoroughly. If the fruit is used within ten days of the application it should be carefully washed. This will not kill those worms which are already in the tomato, but will greatly check further destructiveness.

Are YOU Like Jones?

Jones was in the grocery business at Jonesville, so also, were Brown, Smith and others. They carried the usual articles found in grocery stores, but between them they divided only a part of the business. The other part went to the mail-order grocery houses of the cities, where the people felt they could secure not only a greater variety but more for their money.

To see the grocery money leaving the town was distressing to Jones, but he could find no way of preventing it. One day a salesman representing a wholesale grocery house came along and showed Jones how he could put him in a position to sell considerably more for the money than the mail-order houses were offering, giving the same or better quality and variety.

Jones gave the salesman the order and laid in the stock that was to keep the grocery money at home and increase his own bank account. He put the goods on the shelves and waited for the people who were buying from the mail-order houses to come for them, but his waiting was largely in vain.

The salesman returned and found Jones considerably in the dumps and near the financial rocks. "The people won't buy," said Jones. "They continue to send their money to the cities. They won't patronize the home store."

"Now that's funny," said the salesman. "I can't understand it. Ever do anything to make the people seriously dislike you? Ever caught stealing sheep, run away with another man's wife or abuse your own?"

"Never," replied Jones.

"Sure the public knows how much you are willing to give them for their money and the quality of the stuff?"

"Guess they should know," answered Jones. "It's here where they can see it if they will only come in."

"But haven't you advertised?" asked the salesman. "Haven't you used big space in the newspapers are covered the town and surrounding country with handbills telling the people the big bargains you are offering? Haven't you given them details and comparisons as to the way you are beating the inducements of the mail-order houses?"

That was where Jones had fallen down.

The Clarendon News can help you move your goods 'right now' if you will start a campaign of studied advertising.

Don't Be Like Jones

BRAINS IN FARMING

Brains mixed with agriculture, animal husbandry and household economics, is the blend that the extension service at the A. & M. College of Texas is helping to put out. It is spreading in all directions, helping in all directions. It is a guarantee that a "youth of labor means an age of ease."

Gray's picture of the "plowman homeward plods his weary way," is not as true as it used to be. The farmer is not by any means as lonesome, nor is he by several degrees as weary as he used to be. The dread "isolation" which once made men uncivil and women at times insane, has vanished to a large extent. Farmers now own motor cars, and home lighting plants and know a great deal more about the advantages that come from drainage and sanitation than they used to know. This year, according to the Wall Street Journal, colleges in forty-five states are giving courses in agricultural economics and allied subjects, including marketing cooperation, farm management and commercial geography. The meaning of this is that a revolution, bloodless but of far-reaching effect, is now under way in the United States.

Education is working an agricultural revolution that is bound to add enormously to the prosperity of this country. The Department of Agriculture at Washington has been the starting point. Its scientific and research work has added untold millions, and perhaps billions, to our agricultural wealth. Texas fever cost cattle raisers over $100,000,000 a year until a scientist in that department located the cause. Incidentally, this discovery led to the arrest, conviction and execution of the malarial and yellow fever-carrying mosquito. Hog cholera cost many millions more until a serum was made to prevent it. The introduction of the naval orange, durum wheat, Egyptian cotton and many improved grains, grasses and fruits by this department has been of almost priceless service.

Through pig, calf and corn clubs tens of thousands of farm boys have been reached and taught scientific farming and live stock breeding. They are flocking now to the agricultural college where, in addition to other things, they will learn about the soil, how through it to feed the plants and secure the greatest production possible. They will learn how to care for live stock and breed and develop profitable animals. So important is this work that a party of boys from one of the colleges is now on the way to England to study some of the leading herds of cattle. Larger crops and larger live stock returns are to be expected from such instruction.

One great evil today is that the farmer gets too small a percentage of what the consumer pays for his products. There is great need for improvement here, and there is bound to be a change for the better when a large percentage of the farms is directed by men who farm from the neck up. The country will receive much benefit from this because it prospers most when the farmers prosper. The only ones to suffer will be the political agitators who find discontent the most fertile soil for their work. But the country as a whole will rejoice to see the agricultural revolution grow and spread from sea to sea.

Getting back to Texas the A. & M. extension service has more than three hundred men and women, including 150 county agents, constantly at work, giving instructions by example as well as precept, to the farm boys and girls of Texas, in animal industry, farming, dairying, poultry and home economics. The boys and girls are organized in corn clubs, in beef clubs, in pig clubs, in poultry clubs and in home economic clubs. The state is divided into fourteen districts with a manager for each district, as well as local manager in most of the counties. Boys who want to learn live-stock judging find elaborate programs worked out for them, with attractive campments at district and State meetings and valuable prizes stimulate interest. Aside from the advantages of the individual instruction, the paramount thing in these gatherings is, perhaps, that the farm boys and girls are learning the tremendous advantage given by group movements. In the old days not only the farms were isolated as to location but the farmer was isolated as to taste, understanding and disposition. Mixing brains with farming is performing the double service of improving the output and likewise improving the market therefor. —Texas Commercial News.

THE TEXAS COTTON CROP

The Texas cotton acreage is estimated to be 12,312,000 acres, as compared with 11,193,000 acres, the revised estimate in cultivation a year ago, being a decrease of 1,119,000 acres or 10 percent.

The condition of the growing crop on June 25, 1922, was 72 percent of a normal condition, as compared with 72 on June 25, 1921, and 78, the average condition for the past ten years on June 25.

A condition of 72 on June 25 forecasts a yield per acre of about 137 pounds and a total production of about 3,515,800 bales, 500 lbs., gross weight, not including linters.

In the northwest district, especially on the plains, where there was a greatly reduced acreage last year on account of the then existing low price of cotton, the land went largely to winter wheat, the reverse has occurred this year. The failure of most of the wheat planted, because of the fall and winter drought in that part of the State, with a prospect of a good price for cotton, has caused more than three-fourths of the abandoned wheat land to be planted in cotton, in addition to new lands easily converted in that section. Largely, the same is true of the middle west district, in the western part. In the neighborhood of counties to Nueces, and south of that county to the Rio Grande river. Increases in the other districts would have been large, but for the almost continuous rains during April and the early part of May. That part of the center district, subject to floods and washing rains, as reported last month, estimated at 500,000 acres, has practically all been replanted to cotton and other crops. The net loss of cotton being about 200,000 acres. This loss, however, has been about overcome, by increased planting within the district, on lands not subject to floods. In all districts, the very open winter and the favorable condition for plowing, caused a greater preparation of land for planting than has been known in many years.

There has been a remarkable improvement over the very low condition reported last month. Never at this season has there been a more healthy, vigorous crop than is now witnessed in the State as a whole. And except for parts of certain districts, where too many replantings occurred, there has never been a better stand. The crop is now estimated to be less than a month late, having recovered during the latter two weeks of the period, under the influence of almost continuous dry hot weather. The plant is almost uniformly small for the season, account of lateness. With continued hot weather, however dry it may be, with the abundance of subsoil moisture, it is capable of continuing to retrieve lateness. The element against the crop, is the prevalence of weevil in all districts infected last year. Thus, far the plant with little exception, has not attained a size for fruiting to invite weevil ravages. Where it has begun to bloom, the dry hot weather, has largely held the weevil in check under cultural methods.

Many bankers and merchants have called meetings of farmers, to advise and offer support in any way practical, affecting weevil extermination. Many are beginning to use calcium arsenate, according to the government formula, and others are pursuing cultural methods, or trapping the insect, as they appear by use of various machines, now on the market.

Tanlac is unquestionably the most widely talked of medicine in the world today and those who once use it invariably buy it over and over again and tell their friends of the splendid results they have derived from its use. Stocking's Drug Store, R. A. Long Drug Co.

Deviled Spanish Green Olives

Here's a little hors d'oeuvre that may be prepared in a few minutes. It's novel and tasty. The family will enjoy it, and so will the guests. It's one of those "surprise" appetizers that labels your dinner "unique and charming!" Pit large green olives and fill with the yolk of hard-boiled eggs mixed to a paste with a little butter. Lay an olive on a strip of bacon, sprinkle with paprika and a tiny pinch of mustard, roll up, fasten with toothpick and broil just long enough to crisp the bacon. "Serve on toast fingers."

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It never fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

Both are Buick

One has Four Cylinders—the other has Six

The Buick nameplate on the radiator of a car is the mark of merit. Whether the car has four cylinders or six is of secondary importance. The vital fact is that it's a Buick.

The new Buick Four is the ideal automobile for the motorist requiring a light economical car, yet having all the speed, power and sturdiness of larger and costlier cars.

The Buick Six, perfectly appointed, with all the flexibility and smoothness of the six cylinder car at its best, has earned its position among motor cars as the Standard of Comparison.

Choosing between the Four and the Six is simply a matter of size and price. Both are Buick.

NEW ORLEANS READY FOR LEGION CONVENTION

New Orleans, July 8.—When the tumult and shouting died away and the American Legion hosts prepared to leave Kansas City, following the national convention there last fall, the general feeling was that there would be another convention of similar magnitude and general good times.

Faced by the necessity of living up to the high mark established by Kansas City, the 1922 convention committee started work immediately following the 1921 gathering. The result of this activity is the formation of a program for entertainment of the 150,000 visitors expected, which will eclipse in originality and spontaneity all previous conventions.

The plan of action for New Orleans convention authorities has been to provide certain types of amusement to satisfy the various tastes of visitors. Each man will be able to take advantage of the kind of entertainment he desires.

'Way back in the minds of most veterans is the desire to revisit the scenes of their best times during the World War. To the man who went to France there is perhaps the memory of a leave in Paris, a sojourn behind the lines in a picturesque village where the corpulent madam who ran the cafe was kind and where the mademoiselles were not hard to look upon. The soldier and sailor who did not go to France has heard his comrades hold forth at Legion posts meeting upon the joys of days spent behind the lines, and is no less eager than his buddy who went overseas to live again the old, care-free life.

For five days, starting October 16, New Orleans will cast aside its modern American ways and will revert to the days of French and Spanish domination. The famous carnival atmosphere of the Mardi Gras will prevail, bringing to every visitor that spontaneity which dominated the streets of Kansas City.

Arriving in New Orleans, the doughboy visitor will be transported to a cosmopolitan atmosphere. He will meet Creole and French girls, attired in the headdress and garb of Brittany, Normandy and other picturesque French provinces. At the street corner, he will see no sale a special La Vie Parisienne edition of a local newspaper. If the train arrives at night his journey to the hotel will be down a great White Way. Thirteen thousand electric lights will make the downtown streets a memorable display.

There are no descendants of Jesse James among the hotel proprietors of New Orleans. Co-operating with the convention committee to the fullest extent, all principal hostels have agreed to give the visitors a bunk for $1.50 a day, minus bath, and for $2.50 a day with porcelain tub. Every man gets a bed too. The hotels and housing committee is prepared to take care of all visitors. Those who prefer to live in the residential district far removed from the sounds of merriment will be entertained in the best homes of the city.

As a special act of courtesy to the Legion hosts a celebrated French carnival parade will be held by a number of French societies who have made the Mardi Gras a national event. The festivities will be held in the evening.

During the World War the rolls of the Army, Navy and Marine corps carried the names of many famous athletes. To a Legionnaire sports have always proved to be of exceptional interest. During the New Orleans convention, the greatest World War athletes of the United States will compete in track and field, marksmanship, wrestling and boxing contests. They will endeavor to bring the championships in their chosen sports to their Legion departments.

Dreadnoughts, cruisers, submarines and sub-chasers will frolic in the port of New Orleans for the amusement of the doughboy. The convention's water carnival is expected to be one of the most unique features on the program. All the great naval powers of the world have been invited to send ships to participate in the carnival. There will be British, French, Italian, Mexican and Brazilian craft, while our Cuban allies, who hold forth at a comparative stone's throw from New Orleans, will send a number of vessels.

Swarming about the sides of the great ocean vessels will be hundreds of yachts and small pleasure craft, decorated in festive colors. There will be an opportunity for all visitors to take a trip about the harbor and to sail on Lake Pontchartrain, one of the most beautiful bodies of water in the United States.

Excitement will reign and recollections of past perils will come to the convention visitor on one of the convention nights. A spectacular air raid will be staged over the center of the business district. Squadrons of bombing planes will drop flares and illuminating bombs, while powerful searchlights from the vessels in the harbor will play upon the air craft and reveal to the thousands of spectators the spiral dives, loops and daring movements executed by the pilots.

Women visitors who attend the American Legion Auxiliary convention, to be held in conjunction with the Legion gathering, will face a barrage of French fetes, yacht reviews, teas, luncheons and automobile tours. They will join their Legion comrades in dances on the roped-off downtown streets. Music will be provided by numerous jazz orchestras composed of New Orleans negroes who claim responsibility for the introduction of the syncopated tunes to the American ballroom. The Pickwick, Boston, Louisiana clubs and other historic and exclusive organizations are to open the doors to the Legion and Auxiliary guests. Amusement parks, theatres and all permanent entertainment enterprises of New Orleans have arranged special programs for convention week.

Volumes could be written of New Orleans and the many attractions the stranger finds within its gates. The architectural uniqueness of the buildings; its inviting parks and driveways, and its unusual historical associations, are features that appeal to all classes of travelers.

An experienced hostess, Miss New Orleans is preparing to demonstrate her hospitality to the Legion visitors and to send them back to their homes with happiest memories of the fourth annual national convention of the American Legion.

COL. GOODNIGHT WAS RIGHT—AGRICULTURE WINS

There is an old Roman away out in the plains country who is known as the pioneer citizen of the panhandle and the plains. Colonel Charles Goodnight is known and beloved by all the pioneers of a vast territory. He fed his herd on the green grass when the range was free. He helped to conquer a wilderness. With the assistance of Mrs. Goodnight he saved the buffalo from extinction.

Long ago he warned the cowmen that the man with the plow and the hoe would take the country as he had taken it throughout all civilized countries and it was only a question of time until the large ranches would disappear and the stock raiser and the farmer would take the place of the large ranch and the cowboy.

Colonel Goodnight saw the hand writing on the wall. He bowed to the inevitable. He disposed of his large possessions and he did it cheerfully and without regret. All his life in Texas he has been a builder and a humanitarian, and when the bell sounds for him there will be tears shed in the homes of the many who loved him.

Capt. Samuel Burnett was perhaps the most successful of all the cowmen of Texas. Major Lon Barkley, former postmaster of Fort Worth, back in the rough and ready days of 1880, was chief cowpuncher on Burnett's Wichita county ranch. Burnett had 8,000 cattle then and 30,000 acres of what the Indians thought was worthless land. In 1881 Major Barkley drove a herd of the best cattle in the southwest to the Indian territory. That saved the herd from the drought.

Burnett was in the north on some business and the Indians refused to let Barkley and his men and the herd of cattle remain there. Burnett was notified and he made haste to shorten his northern trip and to return to the territory.

He made a deal with the Indians and then what was known as the Big Pasture was controlled for years by Burnett and those associated with him. He fought against the opening of the Big Pasture to white settlers and W. T. Waggoner and other cowmen who were enjoying grazing privileges fought by his side.

Joseph A. Kemp could tell a beautiful story of the politicians and the cowmen who fought the advanced guard civilization in what was then known as the Indian Territory and the rich lands just over the Red river from the Texas border line. All those interested in the big pasture surrendered when they were compelled to surrender.

Burnett surrendered without a growl. He had some vision and the ability to interpret the signs of the time. "Westward, ho" was his slogan and his ranch holdings in Texas when he died must have been beyond the 500,000 acre mark.

Samuel Burk Burnett had a handsome town house in the city of Fort Worth. Olive Burnett and never had a Texas home a more gracious mansion. Just a few short years ago one of the idols of the home, young Samuel Burk Burnett Jr., was called to the invisible shores.

The other idol of the home was and is Miss Anne Burnett, the young granddaughter of the dead chief of the exas cowmen of old. Burnett had never made large investments in city property in Fort Worth until after Baldrige, an unfortunate banker, passed on. Then a 12-story office building on Main street became the property of the ranch king.

During the war he must have purchased liberty bonds having a value of a million dollars. He was a multimillionaire when oil wealth was brought in on some of his ranches. He could command more ready cash on deposit to be checked out at will than any man in Texas.

Men estimate the value of his estate at 15 millions. He has a son here, a daughter-in-law and a granddaughter at Fort Worth and a son-in-law and two or three grandchildren in the city of Denver.

The man who devours beefsteak every day pays more for that steak than Burnett or Waggoner paid per acre for land in the good old days when the ranchmen and their cowboys were not only the law west of the Pecos but the law west of Fort Worth.

There is a new civilization here and the man with the plow and the hoe is making it. Colonel Charles Goodnight was a prophet when he foretold the going of the large ranch and the coming of the farmer and the stockman.

They are already here. Irrigation will do the rest. Large ranches are doomed. They are going to join the Indian, the wildhorse the bison, the antelope, the cow king of old and the ever irrepresible and picturesque cowpuncher who was the first rough rider of the range.—Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald in Wichita Record News.

MORE RESTRICTIONS FOR IMMIGRATION SOUGHT

Washington, July 6.—The floodgates of immigration were raised July 1st, when a new fiscal year began and foreign countries became possessed of a new quota of 3 per cent of their nationals already in America. During the fiscal year just closed something over a third of a million immigrants came to these shores; without the quota law more here.

There are many who think the law is too liberal, and 300,000 foreigners admitted to this country without more restrictions as to education and citizenship plans, too many. Among them is Chairman Johnson of the House Immigration Committee. He has introduced a bill in which admission for permanent residence in this country would be granted only to aliens eligible for citizenship, thus shutting the gates to Japanese, Chinese, Mongolians and others not granted the right of citizenship.

The bill would reduce on July 1, 1923, the quota percentage from each country from 3 to 2 percent based on 1910 census figures. In addition to the 2 per cent quota, each country, however, would be given a flat allowance of 600, the maximum total from this 600 flow being estimated at 24,000.

This reduction would cut the total quota admissions to 170,000 yearly.

Not more than 10 percent of any country's quota would be admitted into the United States in one month.

Mrs. J. B. Annis and daughter Miss Joe Kate, left Monday morning for their home at San Antonio, after having visited here for some time with their husband and father, J. B. Annis.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It
Darkens so Naturally
Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

REV. FOSTER SENDS HIS CARD OF THANKS
The directors of the Chamber of Commerce are in receipt of the following letter of thanks from Rev. W. H. Foster, who recently resigned as pastor of the Presbyterian Church to go to McAllen as pastor of the Presbyterian Church. The letter is explanatory of the gift. Rev. Foster, although not one of the active directors of the Chamber of Commerce, was even more valuable for it was realized that he could be relied on as a worker at all times. Progressive and wide awake as he was, he made many friends; and it was with deep regrets that the Chamber of Commerce as well as his many other friends gave him up. The letter is:
Whitesboro, Texas,
July 11, 1922.
The Board of Directors,
Chamber of Commerce,
Clarendon, Texas.
Gentlemen:—
I tried to express to some of you individually my sincere appreciation of the gift you made in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce before I left Clarendon, but I wish to take this more satisfactory means of letting all know of my appreciation. It certainly is a fine thing—the thoughtfulness, the kindness of it, the suit itself, splendid, all of which is unmerited on my part, I feel.
But I do thank you for this expression of your esteem, and please remember that the kindly feeling which prompted this practical gift has a warm response in myself for you.
Hoping that our paths shall cross again and with best wishes for you all and for all Clarendon, I beg to be remembered,
Yours cordially,
W. H. Foster.

MAYFIELD RUNNING STRONG ACCORDING TO R. H. BEVILLE
Hon. R. H. Beville returned the latter part of last week from Ft. Worth where he attended the annual convention of the Texas Bar Association. Mr. Beville says that he asked many men from over all parts of the state their opinion of the outcome of the senatorial race; and that they invariably stated that they believed Mayfield will be in the run off. Mr. Beville said that a Thomas supporter would state that he believed Mayfield and Thomas will be in the run off; a Culberson supporter would say the same thing of Mayfield and Culberson; and likewise with the supporters of the other candidates. Maybe this is something to think about.

SEYMOUR MASONS WILL BUILD SPLENDID HALL
Seymour, Texas, July 6.—A banquet was served to Seymour and Baylor county Masons Friday night at 8 o'clock by the local blue lodge, the event being staged in the large agricultural building in Seymour fair park. About 150 guests were present.
The above item from the Wichita Times tells in brief what happened here last Friday night. And it was an auspicious occasion. Masons were here from surrounding towns and communities, and a fine spirit of fellowship was manifest.
About $10,000 was subscribed at the banquet Friday night towards building a hall here. This is a good beginning. A committee has been appointed to continue soliciting and it is thought $20,000 or more will be raised. With this much paid, the remainder can be paid out of receipts of the Lodge.
The building will cost about $35,000, and it will be one that the community and the lodge may well be proud of.—Baylor County Banner.
