NOTICE—Any erroneous reflections upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the publisher.

Next week the Panhandle Press Association meets in Amarillo in annual convention. Secretary Warwick wants to collect the dues before the first session begins, so that all the unpleasantness will be out of the way. Let's get there early, boys, pay-off and have the best convention, yet.

Clarendon is receiving many compliments these days on her new paving. Always an attractive city, Clarendon today presents one of the finest appearances of any town along the Fort Worth and Denver route. While it isn't the largest town, yet, but The News believes it is the best town in the whole country. Most Clarendon people feel the same way.

Federal aid in a very large sum has been granted the Texas Highway Commission for distribution on the road projects of Texas. In road building, like in matters religious, the Lord helps them that help themselves. State and Federal aid comes to the county or road district that votes bonds for road building purposes. Local money can be matched about two for one. A wonderfully liberal proposition and one to which we should give some early thought.

By vote of the highway commission at Austin, Highway No. 88, from Clarendon to Pampa retains its designation. There has been a powerful influence brought to bear to discontinue the designation, when as a matter of fact it is a very important artery of travel. The maintenance would have been lost had it been discontinued, and the counties of Donley and Gray would have been put to the necessity of keeping it up from county funds. Judge Porter is due great credit in having made a successful representation at Austin.

An official of the State Telephone Company said in Clarendon this week that he felt that The News misinterpreted the attitude of his company in their refusal to contribute to the upkeep of our band, as other institutions and firms here are doing. He asks for a little time, and gives an opinion that he feels the company will pay its part when the home office at Lubbock gets its great mass of details incident to the proper organization of the system in order. We hope so.

All over the Panhandle country there is general approval and satisfaction over Governor Moody's ultimatum that officers who will not enforce the law at Borger must resign or martial law will be put into effect. Not often has a Texas governor given out a more vigorous demand in the matter of law enforcement than that Dan Moody handed the authorities of Borger. It bodes well for Texas when its governor realizes that his job is to see that the laws are obeyed. It does.

Chautauquas are coming to a real American basis. Last week one of the old established circuits made a contract to go into Plainview on a "non-guarantee" plan. If their programs are worthy they will make money for they will get the patronage. If they try to run in "artists" incapable of making good on third-rate vaudeville, or youngsters out for the practice, they will lose money, just as they should. There are no better musical critics as a class in the whole country than the citizenry of Panhandle towns and country. Professional entertainers without the goods have no success out here. The "non-guarantee" system will promote better programs.

We know of a certain newspaper which seems to deplore the "harmony" and "good fellowship" that exists among the newspaper boys of the Panhandle, asserting that it stands for its community first, is no "handshaker," etc. Yet, in that same town a great railway company maintains a second-rate barn and calls it a depot, all because this "town building" newspaper hasn't seen fit to urge the town's demands for adequate depot facilities. What is a "handshaker," anyway?

The latest evidence of the growth of Childress is the Daily Index, published by Fred L. Haskett. The Index has been a tri-weekly for some months and now comes out as one of the promising dailies of this section of Texas. Fred Haskett is a good newspaper man, even if the Panhandle press boys do have to rub him down occasionally, just to keep him in line, and he has the best wishes of the fraternity in his venture. The announcement of a seven-story hotel for Childress and the Daily Index betokens steps cityward for Childress. Best wishes for the Index and we hope Fred will still have time for his weekly and semi-weekly friends of the Panhandle.

Class A baseball in the Panhandle will be inaugurated today at Amarillo, when the Amarillo "Texans" meet the Lincoln, Nebr., team, in the first game of the season in the Western League. Baseball, golf, football, tennis and other clean, manly sports are favorites among Panhandle people and all over this section there is a great interest in this coming of a high-grade brand of the great American game to Amarillo. Baseball fans are behind the "Texans" to win in the Western League, but will be divided in their allegiance between Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls in the Texas League. The higher grade the sports the cleaner the lives of our young men and women.

Our neighboring town of Clarendon seemingly has received a severe set-back over the moving of the Clarendon College to Amarillo. And yet we doubt if this is true. From the best information we can get the college cost Clarendon citizens a great deal more each year than they got out of it in a financial way. The burden of maintaining the college will now be placed upon Amarillo. If Amarillo wants to pay the fiddler it is up to them. But since they have taken this upon themselves they should not be calling upon the laity of the church for the annual and semi-annual contributions to keep it going. Amarillo has bidden for a college—now let them keep the infant's bottle full.—Paducah Post.

EVERYTHING IS ROSY

Now since the Childress Index has accepted The Clarendon News' policy of a "connected system" of hard surfaced roads, everything is rosy again. We have contended all along that we ought to have roads into our neighboring counties, but have affirmed steadily that the main highways ought to be hard surfaced first. The Index argued that the "belt system" of roads was more desirable, but at last has admitted that it has no fight to make on the paving of the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway which carries the great proportion of our traffic to and from the centers, such as Denver, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas and other points South. The News hopes soon to see the day when all our highways are paved, and we believe it is economy to pave them. We are just a little hard-headed about which shall be paved first—that's all.

ON TO WICHITA FALLS

West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention, Wichita Falls, Monday and Tuesday, May 16-17.

President Patman of the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce is very anxious that our town makes a fine showing at the big convention. A committee of the local organization is arranging plans which tentatively provide for Clarendon's Municipal Band to head the big parade at Wichita, featuring Clarendon's representation of England in the Congress of Nations. Lord Clarendon, John Bull and Lloyd George will be represented by certain local celebrities, the winner in the local elimination contest will compete in the "Home Town" contest for first prize, and a snappy male quartette is another attraction, which this city hopes to send to the great regional meet.

Clarendon's umbrellas will be used again in the parade, and other advertising matter will also be arranged for the occasion.

Get ready to go to Wichita Falls, May 16-17 and help advertise Clarendon.

KEEPING THE TOWN CLEAN

Another great help in keeping the town clean and tidy would be the elimination of circulars and waste paper. Many towns have ordinances against the distribution of hand-bills and circulars and the sweeping out of waste paper. Such a law would knock our job department quite noticeably, but it would serve the public welfare. Clarendon ought to be kept tidy and attractive.—Clarendon News.

Slaton has such an ordinance and it is working fine. Every town should have an ordinance like it. No town can be kept neat and attractive so long as tons of paper are distributed throughout the city and thrown out to blow whithersoever they may each day of the year. Circulars, under the Slaton ordinance, are allowed to residences if placed behind the screen doors when delivered, we are advised, and of course they may be mailed out just as before. So, the printer is not hurt in the last analysis of the proposition and the town is kept cleaner and with less fire hazards.—Slaton Slatonite.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

Baird—Record breaking crowds thronged the streets of Baird March 23 at the Oil Belt District Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which was declared by officials of the organization to be the most largely attended and the most enthusiastic district gathering ever held. Flags, bunting, and town colors streamed from every corner. Seven live bands from Abilene, Ranger, Moran, Dublin, Cisco, Cross Plains, and the host town kept Baird alive with music. Luncheon was served to a mammoth crowd in the Baird tabernacle; some 700 guests were banqueted, while only 500 had been expected. A number of distinguished West Texans were present and on the program. Dublin won the 1928 district meet of the Oil Belt after a close struggle with Moran for that honor. Sidelines on the Baird convention will be given in the April issue of "West Texas Today."

Cross Plains—President Arthur P. Duggan and Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and party, initiated a tour of the Heart of Texas district here March 23, following the banner Baird convention. The good will trip embraced from that point, Rising Star, Cisco, Gorman, Comanche, Brownwood, Mercury, Brady and Lampasas.

Crane City—A large delegation of McCamey Chamber of Commerce men visited here recently to organize a local commercial body.

The Crane City Booster Club voted to change its name to Crane City Chamber of Commerce. The town is one of the West's leading oil activity points.

Ropesville—Work is progressing nicely on the new Ropesville High School. The school is under direction of Superintendent C. V. Roberts, and is working on state affiliation.

Fort Davis—The major projects of the Fort Davis Chamber of Commerce, recently affiliated with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are: securing of a designated Federal highway, which will connect with the Bankhead at Pecos, running through Balmorhea, Fort Davis, Marfa, and Shafter to Presidio; increased school facilities; building cottages for the benefit of tourists, and a golf course.

Sweetwater—Monte Owen, formerly secretary of the Colorado Chamber of Commerce, is on the job here as secretary of the Sweetwater Board of City Development. Owen succeeds W. Scott Barcus who now holds the secretaryship at Pampa.

Dublin—R. M. Milhollin, vocational agricultural teacher here, has resigned his position to become Hale County Agricultural Agent. He takes the place left open when Paul Huey went to Dallas as Field Editor of "The Progressive Farmer." Milhollin has scored a number of successes in boy's club work and ani-

"Back To The Job"

CITIZENS SHOULD KEEP IN TOUCH WITH OFFICIALS

Let Them Know What You Are Thinking About the Public Business, and What Your Wishes Are.

By ROBERT N. STANFIELD, Retiring United States Senator

The general habit of the American electorate is to do most of its political family washing in one great batch during National, State and Municipal campaigns, and then depend on "the party" in power to handle the public linen till the next election. No wonder some of this linen gets pretty dirty before the next "general washday."

The rank and file of voters go back to their farms, their stores, their offices and their regular jobs, and leave their official representatives to wrestle with their problems "on their own."

Meanwhile, there are always interested "groups," having special axes to grind, who make the people's representatives the objects of their attention. These "groups" never lose sight of the things they want. They maintain constant contact with legislators and public officials. They know that the way to get things is to go after them.

The people's representatives are left largely to guess what their constituents really think or desire, and seldom hear from them except in the form of some organized propaganda of identical letter or telegram campaign, usually promoted by the "groups" who have their own interests to serve.

Representatives, especially in Congress, have become so insured to this sort of appeal that it has become a standing joke. I think I can truly say, speaking from my experience as U. S. Senator, that the Congressman would rather a dozen letters written by his constituents' own hands, voicing in their own language their opinions and desires, than a thousand propaganda letters identical in wording.

Speaking again from my own experience, I can testify that members of both Houses of Congress are as a rule busy people. They put in long hours before and after adjournment of the regular daily sessions, in multitudinous committee meetings and hearings; the reception of special delegations and individuals having particular measures to plead, besides their social demands which sometimes extend far into the night-time. Let nobody think that the members of the Senate and the House have nothing to do. The business man closes up his office at a certain time in the afternoon and goes home to his family. The Congressman is seldom, if ever, at liberty.

But, in spite of all this, the people's representative is always delighted to receive a genuine letter from "back home," and he always takes pleasure in answering it. If it contains some light on pending legislation, or tells about the opinion of the home folks, he is grateful. He knows it is reliable. I think public officials generally feel the same way. They are glad to know the real wishes of their constituents, free from "boiler-plate" propaganda.

Another habit of the American electorate is to recognize only the members of their own political "party" when making an appeal. Democrats write to Democrats, Republicans to Republicans, etc. This is political sectarianism of a subversive sort. Its tendency is to destroy electoral solidarity.

This "sectarianism" has no proper place at all, in my judgment, except upon the hustings. After public officials are elected and inaugurated, they are in a holy sense the representatives of the whole people, and the whole people should feel free to counsel with them. The "Democratic" official is just as much the representative of his "Republican" fellow citizens as he is of his "Democratic" fellow citizens, and the "Republican" official is just as much the representative of his "Democratic" fellow citizens as he is of his "Republican" fellow citizens. If this is not true in practice, then democratic government is a false alarm. Will anybody deny that the President of the United States is the President of the whole people? If he is not that, whose President is he? Is the Governor of a State the Governor of the Republicans or the Governor of the Democrats only? Poppycock.

I am not advocating the destruction of political parties. They serve a useful purpose in their proper sphere; but that sphere legitimately does not include constantly crashing the doors of the people's governmental work-shops, in my judgment.

I repeat, American citizens should feel free to write to and counsel with their officials. If there were more of this freedom, we would have better response to the will of the people as a whole. The idea at least would be representative of the underlying principle of democracy. Failing in making their own wishes known, citizens should refrain from carping criticism of their officials. Don't shoot your Senator or Representative. They are doing the best they can.

mal husbandry since he has been at Dublin. He will continue the monumental dairy project undertaken in Hale County.

Eastland—The "Eastland County News" has made its appearance in the press of West Texas. It is a constructive sheet devoted to interests of the farmer, rancher, and poultryman.

Barstow—A 4200 acre tract has been opened here recently for colonization by farmers.

Plemons—A bond election for voting on issuing of $1,250,000 bonds for paving or hard surfacing roads in Hutchinson County will be held here April 16.

Stanton—A meeting of all Commissioners Courts and Chambers of Commerce of the 17 counties containing non-taxable University lands has been called to convene here April 19, by J. V. Bush, manager of the Stanton Chamber of Commerce. A delegate from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be present to help formulate a plan of procedure. The idea of the meeting is for all counties to decide just how they want to handle the situation and let the West Texas Chamber attempt to put the proposition over.

Lampasas—Distinct pleasure at the reception they received during the Heart of Texas tour was expressed by President Arthur P. Duggan and Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here at the close of their good will trip through the Oil Belt District. The tour was started immediately following the banner convention at Baird March 23, and the itinerary included Cross Plains, Rising Star, Cisco, Gorman, Comanche, Brownwood, Mercury, Brady, and this place at which point the trip ended. Well-attended, enthusiastic meetings greeted the West Texas officials at each town visited.

Austin—Delegations from a number of West Texas towns met Thursday evening in the Stephen F. Austin Hotel for a preliminary conference under direction of Homer D.

Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to formulate a plan of procedure to be followed at the final hearing of the State Insurance Commission. The West Texas representatives aimed to fight as a unit against the proposed raise in insurance rate, believing that granting such a raise would sanction and encourage a policy of continued raising of rates annually.

Graham—Contract has been let for construction of the road from this point to the Stephen County line.

San Angelo—San Angelo's new sewerage plant will be put into operation within the next few weeks.

Stamford—The law firm of Andrews and Coombes is to make use of the upper rooms of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce building. Judge Coombes, past mayor of Abilene, will serve, among other duties at the Stamford office, as counsel for the Swenson Cattle and Land Company. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce building was erected to care for growing needs of the organization and until such time as expansion will make necessary, the upper floor will be rented out.

Lometa—The sheep raising industry is increasing materially in this section. More and better flocks than ever before are being raised. Most of the spring clip of wool has been contracted for a reasonable price and as a result, many thousands of dollars have been put into circulation here.

Vernon—A paving program which cost the city and citizens of Vernon approximately $175,000 has been completed here.

Albany—The Albany postoffice has made application to the department for installation of two new sections or a total of 180 new postoffice boxes in order to relieve general delivery congestion.

Sweetwater—Work on the Bankhead Highway is being pushed to the utmost here so that the 18-mile stretch that has already had the nine-inch sledge stone base put down will be completed before the real tourist season gets in full swing.

BROODING AND CARE OF BABY CHICKS

By F. W. Kazmeier, Bryan, Texas, formerly Poultry Husbandman A. & M. College.

At this season of the year, one of many peoples problem is raising the baby chicks. It may seem like a great economical waste to tell you, that less than 50 percent of the chicks hatched in Texas each year are raised. Millions are killed each year by improper care and feeding. This great waste can and should be prevented. A study of a few facts and principles, will help prevent this great mortality.

Chicks, that are properly hatched can only be killed by improper brooding and wrong feeding. Strong chicks are not easily killed, and it is a pleasure to raise them. Many thousands of baby chicks come from weak parent stock, and are improperly hatched. Such chicks are handicapped from the very start. Community hatcheries or custom hatching plants are rapidly being placed in all communities. Such plants when operated by experts may be depended upon to produce strong, vigorous and healthy chicks. Our story, however has more to do with the chick after it is hatched.

Crowding.
One thing that nearly every human man want to do, is to overcrowd the chicks in the house or under the hover. Crowding will positively cause a great mortality and many stunted chicks. Give them plenty of room and they will do much better. A house 12x12 feet square will take care of 250 chicks to 10 to 12 weeks old, when the cockerels may be culled out and sold as broilers. We can not devote much space at this time to the description of a good brooder house; let it be sufficient to remember these facts, a good floor is necessary to prevent dampness, disease and trouble with varmint. A wood or concrete floor is preferred. There must be no floor drafts in the house. It must provide fresh air without subjecting the chicks to direct drafts. We will be glad to furnish free of charge blue prints showing the construction of a good brooder house.

A house 14x14 will accommodate 350 chicks up to 12 weeks old. Many more than this should not be brooded together at one time.

The brooder or hover, should be a good one. A cheap brooder, is like everything else that is cheap, a very poor and expensive investment after all. Practically all kerosene heated brooders are over-rated about 50 percent. A hover that is 52 inches in diameter will brood 350 chicks and other sizes proportionately.

Hardening Chicks.
On the 22nd day, it is generally best to move the chicks out of the incubator. The past year a new plan has been developed, and that is to keep the chicks in common baby chick shipping boxes, until they are old enough to be watered and fed. The old fact, that chicks should not be fed until they are 72 hours old is still true.

They may however be given water or preferably milk to drink, when they are 60 hours old. On hot days especially they should be given something to drink when 48 to 60 hours old. When the chicks are kept in shipping boxes, they should be placed in room with a living room temperature and the boxes must be properly ventilated. It is quite a trick to ventilate these boxes properly. The boxes should not be stacked, should not be placed too near stoves and not in direct sunlight. The best litter for these boxes is wood wool or excelsior.

Location of Brooder House.
Select a good location if possible upon a well drained spot where no chicks were allowed to run the past 12 months. This will help prevent such chick diseases as coccidiosis and intestinal worms. Sandy loam is preferred. On black waxy land we recommend a sodded yard, such as a clover or bermuda grass pasture. If it is necessary to grow chicks under more or less soil contaminated conditions it may be better not to allow the chicks to run outside until four to six weeks old. In this case fine cut, fresh and tender green food in abundance must be carried to them.

Brooder House Equipment
Consists of a good brooder or hover, one put out by a responsible concern. A piece of hardware cloth 1/2 inch mesh 18 inches wide and about 20 feet long, is used as a chick-guard the first few days and nights. It is placed in circular fashion around the hover, about 12 inches from edge of hover, until feeding time when it may be placed further away from edge of hover to permit room for feed boxes and drinking dishes. For feed boxes, you can purchase specially constructed feed troughs or build home made feed boxes 24 inches long 10 inches wide and 2 or 3 inches high, with a piece of 1/2 inch mesh hardware cloth to fit very loosely on inside of box. The box is filled up with feed to about a half inch of the top and then the hardware cloth is placed on top of the feed. It will settle with the feed as it is eaten out of the box. For 350 chicks three of these boxes are necessary. One large water or milk dish is necessary or several smaller ones. A shallow box full of coarse sand or fine gravel complete the necessary appliances.

TEXAS TALKS

(By Wesley Peacock, Ph. B.)

An Easter Suggestion; A Call to Come Back. By Wesley Peacock, Ph. B.

There is an inspiration to all who worship on glad Easter morning, whether in the church or in the garden, in the following quatrain by Munkittrick entitled, "To a Bulb."

"Misshaped, black, unlovely to the sight, O mute companion to the murky mole, You must feel overjoyed to have a white, Imperious, daintily lily for a soul."

On the arch of the driveway to the cemetery in Palm Beach is inscribed this sentiment:

"Surely a thing so universal as death must be a blessing."

The prodigal son took a journey into a far country, but he came back and made good, after he had resolved, "I will Arise." Jonah, recreant to a trust, dwelt in the uttermost parts of the sea, yet he came back and made good, when he heard the voice to come back, and he made good. It is not the going but the coming back, that counts in this life and in the resurrection.

If Christ be not risen from the dead, then is our faith in vain. Paul didn't understand it, but he believed it. We can not understand it, but we can believe it. Faith is the victory. He came to save that which was lost. A man may be down, but he is never out. Come back.

It is placed in circular fashion around the hover, about 12 inches from edge of hover, until feeding time when it may be placed further away from edge of hover to permit room for feed boxes and drinking dishes. For feed boxes, you can purchase specially constructed feed troughs or build home made feed boxes 24 inches long 10 inches wide and 2 or 3 inches high, with a piece of 1/2 inch mesh hardware cloth to fit very loosely on inside of box. The box is filled up with feed to about a half inch of the top and then the hardware cloth is placed on top of the feed. It will settle with the feed as it is eaten out of the box. For 350 chicks three of these boxes are necessary. One large water or milk dish is necessary or several smaller ones. A shallow box full of coarse sand or fine gravel complete the necessary appliances.

Litter.
For litter, it is best to use something the chicks can not eat. We like prairie hay, that is clean and free from mustiness, however, in the case of kerosene heated brooders because of danger from fire, coarse sand is best, at least under the hover and around the barnyard. In this case, we would not place the chicks under the hover, until they are 60 to 72 hours old, and we would place feed and water before them at the same time. If you place the chicks under the hover for one or two days without anything to eat, and use sand for litter unless you darken the house they will eat too much sand before they are given their first feed. In this case it is much better to leave the chicks in the chick boxes, as previously mentioned until they are old enough to eat.

Any litter they can eat, is not satisfactory the first two or three weeks. For this reason, oat straw, sand, alfalfa hay and rice hulls are not desirable materials for litter. Saw dust of course is no good as litter. The baby chicks will eat anything they can swallow the first few days especially. After the chicks have been fed they are not so apt to eat litter. Until they are fed, if you place them under hover, instead of keeping in chick boxes, darken the house, so they will remain quiet and not be so apt to try to eat litter and other foreign matter.

Cleanliness
Clean out from under hover early every morning. Clean and disinfect entire house at least once a week. Scrub and scald all feeding and watering utensils once a week.

Direct Sunshine
In the winter and spring direct sunshine should be allowed to strike the chicks. Sunshine coming thru glass is not satisfactory. Recent experiments, indicate that cell-glass is superior to common window glass, for the purpose of admitting the ultra violet rays to enter.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas has the widest diversity of soil and climatic conditions of any state in the country.

Rainfall in Texas ranges from fifty inches annually in the southeast to ten inches in the extreme western part of the state.

Temperature in Texas ranges from sub-tropical in the lower Rio Grande Valley to middle temperate in the Panhandle.

A part of Texas as large as an average state lies below 200 feet above sea level and another section as large is about 3,000 feet above.

Oranges, hard wheat, rice, cotton and corn grow equally well in Texas.

ELECTRIC CUSTOMERS NOW TOTAL 29,500,000

Approximately two million customers were added to the lines of the electric power and light companies in 1926. This is an increase of 10.8 percent over 1925 and brings the total up to 29,500,000, says the Texas Public Service Information Bureau.

Of that number, 16,650,000 are domestic customers, representing an increase of 1,650,000 or 11 percent during 1926. Commercial customers increased 290,000 or 10.2 percent, and 50,000 power and traction customers were added, an increase of 9.2 percent, bringing the total of that class of customers up to 710,000.

A recent survey among 3,878,350 domestic customers of electric companies showed that there were in use 69,251 electric refrigerators, and that among the companies' 739,000 commercial customers 21,290 had electric commercial refrigerators. Application of the same ratio to the total number of customers in the country indicated more than 250,000 electric refrigerators and more than 85,000 electric commercial refrigerators in service.

"Thou shalt not kill," did not apply to game and fish, but the ancient decree may be reasonably amended to "thou shalt not kill it all."

CAN YOU AFFORD TO PASS UP

The Big Coach Oil Co.'s Proposition?

If you have not made some investigation as to the possibilities of this company it will pay you to do so now. Only a limited amount of the stock will be sold. We hope that you will make every investigation possible as to the location of the leases, the location of the first well, the plans of operation, etc. Every man who is familiar with the Panhandle oil fields will tell you that the acreage in which the first well is to be drilled is proven stuff. They will tell you that it will not be a question of getting oil, but that the only question about it is the size of the well. This particular part of the field is making wells good from 300 to 1200 bbls. of oil per day. It is also the Big Gas territory. This well when drilled will no doubt make a gas well capable of producing sixty to eighty million feet of gas in addition to the oil. This gas is very wet and when condensed produces a large quantity of casing head gas per unit volume. One well in this vicinity was put on a casing head gas test for three days and it was reported that this alone would net the operators more than $750.00 per day.

The Rock Island road is passing in less than a mile of this lease and the Town Site of Fritch has been surveyed just three quarters of a mile away. This places us in a position to dispose of any production we may get on this lease. Loading racks, will of course be built at this town, and it would be a small matter to pipe our oil that distance. However, the Pan-tex pipe line is within a mile and a half of this lease and probably offers the most practical outlet for production. Four other big pipe lines are being built into this field.

We are offering you an opportunity to invest with us in this enterprise, guaranteeing you nothing, but fully believing that every dollar placed in this company will bring you big returns within the next few months. We are placing our money alongside of yours and we would not be putting our money there if we did not believe in it, neither would we ask you to do so.

Banff's Big Indian Pow Wow a Colorful Spectacle

The Stoney Indians, who live near Banff, Alberta, in the Canadian Rockies, believe in the old adage: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," or words to that effect. Consequently, when they leave their Morley Reserve in July for their annual Pow Wow, at Banff, they put on for two or three days one of the most colorful and unique spectacles seen in North America.

per, and even the horses are painted. Tiny naposes are carried in moss bags on their mother's backs, or on the old travoise, and their little, shining faces seem to reflect the happiness of all these "people of the woods" in being back again in the mountains which they loved to roam.

contests, pony races, tepee pitching in the shortest time, squaw races, wrestling on horseback by bucks, horse racing contests by young Indians and many other events equally interesting, are staged daily in the Elk Pasture near Buffalo Park in a lovely meadow surrounded by mile-high mountains. The tepees are pitched along the sides of a vast rectangle and many are painted in fantastic designs, lending a dash of color to the scene.

FISHING RULES ARE MADE KNOWN TO GENERAL PUBLIC

Austin, Texas, April 13—Replying to inquiries as to how, when and where one may fish, the Game, Fish and Oyster Department today gave out a brief outline of laws with particular reference to fresh water fishing.

purchase or sale of same is prohibited. Those who fish for the market require a yearly license which costs one dollar, and shall pay a tax of 20c a hundred pounds on fish sold.

At no time is it permitted to use seines, or sell bass, perch, crappie or catfish in the counties of Burnet, Guadalupe, Bexar, Kerr, Bandera and Medina. Only ten bass and ten chappie may be taken in any one day, and closed season on artificial bait is Feb., Mar., Apr.

In the re-organization of the division, Mr. French has created four new sections, making a total of eleven for the division now.

CRACKS AT THE CITIZENRY

Uncle Adoniram says, "Seem' the numerous laws passed by our legislators, it looks a little strange that there ain't no punishment affixed to imperilin' folks' moral welfare by displayin' fishin' rods in this spell of warm Spring weather."

Sid Caustic made the remark that "If'n the loafers around the new store buildin' 're permitted to stand too close with the brickwork goin' up, th' mortar'll sure dry too quick in all th' hot air."

Everyone recalls the story of the lone Ranger who, when an indignant mayor doubted his ability to stop a riot, retorted: "Hell, there's only one riot, ain't there?"—Duke the drummer says that this famed member has left the service or else there's more than one riot in Berger, to judge from the number of Rangers sent to that lively little city.

A satisfactory answer to the oft-repeated query, "What makes the wild cat wild?" is found in the sudden exodus of Berger's wildest inhabitants to the surrounding creeks and breaks, irrespective of direction.

"200 WILD WOMEN RUN OUT OF BERGER" reads the headline on a neighboring daily. Just another case where they don't walk back to town, we suppose.

ROAD DIVISION RE-ORGANIZED WITH DONLEY IN SECTION K

Highway division No. 4, comprising the 26 Panhandle counties, has been completely re-organized and all appointments in the entire division have been made.

The engineer's office has been swamped with applications from workmen since the appointment of Mr. French over this division, and the greater part of his time has been spent in making the appointments necessary and in getting the territory organized for proper maintenance.

In the re-organization of the division, Mr. French has created four new sections, making a total of eleven for the division now. In some sections where there were four counties, a division has been made and two counties assigned to each foreman.

In the sections designated by Mr. French, Donley County is placed with Hall County in Section K, with headquarters at Memphis. T. M. Couch of this city is foreman for the section.

Two windmills stood just across the road from each other. With the first sign of a breeze one started up smoothly and quietly. When the breeze became a wind, the other started with a groan and lumbered away only as long as the wind raised a dust in the road.

That is the difference between accurately machined gears and ordinary cast tooth gears; the difference between turned, ground and polished shafts and ordinary shafts; the difference between machine and polished bearings and ordinary bearings; the difference between running in oil and running with dry bearings and gears.

In other words, it is the difference between the Fairbanks-Morse Self-Oiling Steel Eclipse Windmill and just an ordinary windmill.

Members of the Florida State Red Cross Commission, at their final meeting in Miami, received reports on the relief operations carried thru by the Red Cross in every area of the state affected by the hurricane of last September.

The reports were made by Henry M. Baker, National Disaster Director for the Red Cross, who has been in continuous charge of the work here throughout the disaster relief period.

A summary of the final reports reveals the following outstanding facts concerning the huge relief operations:

Total expenditures by the Red Cross for relief, inclusive of all administrative costs were $4,464,902.73. Remaining costs before the local administration office is closed will slightly increase this amount.

Of this amount the American Red Cross contributed from its national treasury $649,932.22. The remainder of the relief fund $3,814,970.51 was contributed by and through 3,000 chapters of the Red Cross in behalf of their respective communities throughout the United States.

Of the total expenditures, $4,254,405 went for emergency relief and awards for individual sufferers and their families.

In addition to the emergency relief extended to all who needed help of any kind during the first few days following the disaster, the Red Cross made individual awards to 11,424 individuals and families. These awards were based not on the actual losses sustained but on the minimum needs of each case in order that the individual family might, as nearly as possible, resume a normal place in the community.

Because of the far-flung nature of the storm and the huge numbers temporarily needing help, the costs for emergency relief work were slightly in excess of a million dollars, a much larger proportion than is usual in disaster work, according to Red Cross officials.

TEXAS CHAIN OF LIVING MEMORIALS

By Phebe K. Warner, Secretary Texas State Parks Board. There is an opportunity facing the citizens of Texas...

During the year 1924 that park board spent eight weeks of time and traveled almost 10,000 miles, mostly in automobiles furnished by patriotic citizens and business concerns...

These park sites ranged in size from 10 to 7,000 acres. They were distributed over the entire State, North, South, East, West, and Central Texas were all represented in that glorious West Texas beauty...

There is not another State on this continent that has so great a variety of beauties as the State of Texas. If all the beauty in Texas were moved up into a space no greater than the State of Ohio, Iowa, or Illinois...

TEXAS HAS MORE THAN BEAUTY. Texas as has everything a human being needs to make him healthy, happy and prosperous. But the world at large does not know it.

TEXAS SPENDS $8,000,000 EVERY YEAR RUNNING ROUND over the world seeking beauty and recreation. But until this hour we have not spent ONE DOLLAR as a State developing our own scenic resources.

TEXAS TALKS

Poor Boys and Education. By Wesley Peacock, Ph. D. Do you know Attorney D. M. Doyle of Ft. Worth? He calls more men by their first name than any other man in north Texas.

After he was 21 he went to school again. If he had stayed at home he would have been plowing a hule in Travis county today.

He didn't have any money when he came to San Antonio, but he had brains, and he had determination; moreover, he had a vision.

That was the turning point in his life—when he moved, changed, left his crowd, ventured, faced the world, sought a new environment and a new people.

But he had no money to pay his expenses. That didn't matter. He had character. Money is loaned on character.

He stayed in school three years. Then he graduated in law. Then he was rich.

Mr. Clifford Johnston is one of the best salesmen in Texas. Last week he told me that the many friendships he had formed during his four years in school had been worth thousands of dollars to him in business.

Whatever vocation you may choose, by all means prepare for it in a school that counts, and that will help you after you leave it. Start now.

You can't keep a big man on a little job. If you failed in school last year you will fail in the same school this year.

If you must make a change of school, of associates, of a father that wants to educate his son can get the money; unless he waits.

When some one asked Congressman Warzibach why he was moving to San Antonio, he replied, "I am going to run for Congress."

When is a boy old enough to go away? There was a carpenter's son that went away at the age of twelve. He left Nazareth. The town was too little to hold him. He went to Jerusalem, where he found out that He was a Prince.
