Phifer Estlack, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Estlack of this city and a senior in Clarendon High School, was winner of the "My Home Town" oratorical contest which was held at the High School Wednesday afternoon. He will go to Wichita Falls to represent Clarendon in the contest at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention there. May 16 test at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention there, May 16 and 17. Speakers in the contest make original speeches and are graded on both content and delivery. With young Estlack as speaker of this city, Clarendon has an excellent chance of carrying off the cup in this contest, for Phifer has proved hish ability, before, as a speaker. He won second place in the extemporaneous contest at the District Interscholastic League meet in Canyon last month.

The Clarendon Municipal Chorus held an unusually good practice in the Antro Hotel on last Friday evening. The attendance was excellent and the spirit of co-operation was fine all through the hour spent in practice. President Bourland extends an invitation to the chorus to appear in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening, May 22nd for the first of a series of pre-service programs for the summer.

The chorus will not take the entire hour, but will only have a few minutes in which to present some numbers before the opening of the regular services of the church. If possible, the chorus plans to spend a number of these times all through the city in the various churches at intervals during the summer months to keep the interest in the chorus up to a fine state.

"ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS."

From letters received by Farm and Ranch one is given the impression that rural people are convinced that city people are in the main, prosperous, and that farmers are about the only class of people who are having a struggle to make both ends meet. There never was a more mistaken idea. There are prosperous men in the cities just as there are men who have always been successful on the farm. It is in the city, however, that one finds poverty. It is in the city where one finds charity organizations and bread lines, not in the country. Thousands of workers in our cities are forced to live up to their earnings. A month of idleness; sickness in the family, or per-

Many more struggle on from year to year putting up a "good front," but all the time wondering where they are going to own superiority and the decadence and unworthiness of others. get the money to pay running expenses.

The man or the woman of the country, visiting the city. it is easy to believe that city people have an easy time, but perhaps the fine home is mortgaged, and the big store with its stocks costing $200,00 or $300,000 or perhaps $1,000,000, is so involved in debt to manufacturers or through loans at a bank that a month of two of bad business would destroy an institution which required a lifetime to build up.

All is not gold that glitters. Much of the glitter in the cities comes from "fool gold." There is poverty, there is sorrow, and there is worry, much more of all three in the city than there is in the country. The difference in apearance is largely due to the fact that the city man believes it to be good policy to run a "bluff." He wants people to believe that he is prosperous under all circumstances. If he shows signs of weakening his customers leave him and he is worse off than ever. The man in the country is more inclined to take pleasure in talking "hard times." If he is poor and hard up, he doesn't mind saying so. If he is doing fairly well, he keeps it to himself. His business does not always depend upon an appearance of prosperity. The business man who borrows money at the city bank must present a statement of resources and prospects. Many farmers tell the banker a tale of hard luck ion as follows: and borrow money at a high rate of interest because they have made themselves almost an object of charity

There is no more honorable business than that of farming. To be successful it requires more than average intelligence, much study, and much work. A successful farmer has tion. reasons to be proud and he does not have to run a bluff, as do many of his city brethren, to secure needed credit in an Snobbishness is ridiculous, still every nation is guilty of it! Frenchmen for ages have been telling the world how much better-manered, braver, more artistic and higher civilized the Gallics are than other nations. The Hillcroft Golf Club has had! the player who made an Eagle dur-ing a contested round. To date this the player who made an Eagle during a contested round. To date this honor has not been copped by any player except J. T. Patman. Mr. Patman and Clyde Douglas were playing a contested round Thursday afternoon of this week, Mr. Patman being the challenger for the position on the team now held by Douglas. On the first round, Mr. Patman was two down, but had staged a rally and had come in for one up when the approached the minth hole on the final round. Driving off the ninth tee, he made a drive of more than 250 yards, On the second shot, he holed out from a two on the hole. Douglas followed suit and almost holed out from about the same distance from the cup. Patman was proudly exhibiting the prize to his friends Friday morning and was receiving the congratulations of the members wherever he made his way.

COLORED P. T. A. GIVES FINE MUSICAL PROGRAM. LIONS LUNCHEON

Of the numerous home talent musicals that have been staged in Clarendon in the past several weeks, one of the most successful was the jubilee song festival given by the Colored Parent Teachers last Friday evening: it was highly entertaining and it was a financial success. The entire program was arranged by the Mrs. N. R. Northeutt, Plainview; First Department, Mrs. R. R. Gilbreath of Munday and J. C. Mann of Estelline; Second Department, Rev. C. E. Jameson of Memphis and Grace Tolbert of Stamford; Third Department, Mrs. N. L. Stuckey of Amarillo and Miss Mattie Swisher of Canyon; Fourth Department, Rev. D. D. Denison of Texico, New Mexico, and Rev. J. W. Hawkins of Stamford.

A slight change has been made in the usual plan for the Assembly, as to the evening service. The Epworth League throughout the Southern Methodist Church is conducting what is known as a young people's revival. The Assembly will carry on the revival in the evening services, at which Rev. Virgil Fisher of Amarillo will preach sermons of an evangelistic nature.

Something like an hundred well logs of this locality were studied and the structure marked on at least three subsurface ho-

We believe our plans are well laid, and we believe our proposition one of the very best that has come from the Panhandle oil field. We have tried to anticipate every difficulty that may arise in the development of this lease and believe that the investor is protected to a greater extent than in most cases. We know what it will cost us to drill the well to pay, we know what the leases have cost us and we know approximately what our expense will be to connect up with the pipe line and to build a reasonable amount of storage, and we know that we are offering you this stock at a price that is nearer the actual cost of production than any stock has been offered you before.

Besides the forty acre lease in Southwestern Hutchinson County, where we are now drilling we have a small lease (ten acres) right in the city limits of Pampa, that we believe to be proven for both oil and gas. The lease is located conveniently to oil well supplies and offers an opportunity to the operator to drill at the minimum cost.

Then we have placed with these tracts of proven acreage four wild cat tracts, three of which are composed of eighty acres and the other one hundred and twenty acres each of these tracts is playing a wildcat well now drilling. According to the laws of average as they seem to apply in the Panhandle field we should get at least one good well out of four wildcat wells. If this holds we believe that either of these leases may in a short while be worth as much as our entire capitaliza-

Mississippi Floods and Business

By Roger W. Babson

Authentic Statement by ROGER W. BABSON, to Be Quoted Only By

Babson Park, Mass., May 6, 1927. Roger W. Babson was today in-rview as to the floods in the Mississippi Valley region and their effects upon business. He states that it is very difficult to get satisfactory reports, but from those coming into his office his conclusions coming into his are as follows: Devastation Very Great. "Without doubt the flood devasta-tions have been very great. From a monetary point of view they may be classified with the Galveston Flood, the Dayton Flood, the San Francisco Earthquake, the Baltimore Fire and the Florida Hurricane. Consideration of the property of the control of the san Francisco Earthquake, the Baltimore Fire and the Florida Hurricane. ering the number of lives lost, the figures are in excess of anything in other devastations. The number of homeless exceeds anything that has taken place before. Therefore, from certain points of view, the recent floods have been exceedingly

"The Mississippi Flood is different from the other devastations in that the losses are largely rural. Although the area devastated exceeds anything that has happened in this county before, yet large cities have not been seriously damaged. The damage has largely been in the farming districts.
The houses swept away have mostly been small farm houses and the financial losses have been in the form or crops cattle and other agricul. nancial losses have been in the form or crops, cattle and other agricultural assets. The losses in cities have been confined largely to the following places: Fort Smith, Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Arkansas City, North St. Louis, Greenville, Mississippi, and Hickman, Kentucky.

Business Reactions.

"The immediate effect of these floods has been a quickening of hus.

floods has been a quickening of business in the flood area. More lumber has been needed to build homes, new seed to plant land, new tools to work the land, and new supplies to take the place of those washed away. Temporarily many industries will benefit from the flood as there will be a great demand for certain supplies to house the homeless and to restock business concerns and farmers. This has always been the case in times past. This was true in Dayton and that section of Ohio flooded some years ago. Galveston experienced a quickened demand for goods following the flood in that port. The railroads to California en-joyed a tremendous business for comes a very severe reaction.

"It is only reasonable to expect that the Mississippi River Valley will experience the same cycle as was ex-da after the Miami Hurricane, Last now so that as in the section of received which suffered from the hurricane. The industrial prostration now existing in Japan is largely a reaction from the activity following the earthquake there. The old saying that the piper must be paid is as true of communities as of individuals. A loss may temporarily benefit a few, but ultimately every loss harms many. A man may temporarily feel better by using a powerful stimulant, but a reaction follows when later he feels worse than he would have felt if he had not taken this stimulant.

Economic Benefits.

Economic Benefits.

"Notwithstanding the above, I do believe there will be certain economic blessings following this great Mississippi flood. The first of these will be a greater interest in reforestation. For the past 50 years this country has been slaughtering its forest in a most short sighted manner. Conservation interests have been preaching that in the interests of future generations we should begin systematic reforestation. These good people, however, have received very little support. Their appeal was not spectacular enough, and unfortunately people cannot be aroused without something spectacular. Scientists, however, agree that the chief cause of the great floods which this country is now experiencing is primarily due to denuding the country of the forests. They believe that the only solution to this problem is reforestation. If these floods, create a real interest in reforestation, not only will future floods be lessened, but future generations will be provided with lumber. This is a distinct benefit which may come about from this situation. Reforestation, however, is slow work. It takes a considerable time to raise a tree. A tree increases in diameter only about half an inch a year, so that a teninch tree is about 20 years old, and in the case of many woods the growth is even slower. Trees however grow more rapidly in the South where there is more moisture and heat than in the North.

"The immediate remedy for floods lies in the building of dams. This is, if it were not for the dams which the hydro-electric companies have been building in all parts of the United States. Recently the public has got the idea that public utili-ties are making too much money from these dams and so there has from these dams and so there has been some opposition to them. Only recently Congress appointed a commission to investigate the 'Hydro-electric Trust,' so called. At the hearings then held, the point was made by the public utilities that these dams are performing a very necessary service in flood prevention. These arguments, however, were then not taken seriously. Now they will be taken seriously. Either the hydro-electric companies must be encouraged to continue their program the hydro-electric companies must be encouraged to continue their program of building more and greater dams, or the National Government must build these dams themselves in order to prevent devastation. Hence, this Mississippi Valley flood may be the means of bringing the public to a realization of what they owe the a realization of what they owe the public utilities. This may result in giving a further impetus to hydro-electric development.

Mississippi Watershed.

"It is difficult to visualize the tremendous area covered by the Mississippi Watershed. The river, from joyed a tremendous business for months after the San Francisco fire, Experience shows, however, that following such activity there always comes a very severe reaction.

"It is only reasonable to expect of the Mississippi consists of a milthat the Mississippi River Valley will lion and a quarter square miles, or about 40 per cent of the mainland of the United States. This drainage area is divided as follows:

"The above table covers ten states ida after the Miami Hurricane. Last year while the Red Cross money was being spent, the Florida East Coast enjoyed a great boom. All the railroads did a large business, the merchants sold great quantities of goods, and labor was in active demand with high wages. After the Red Cross money was spent, however, there was a tremendous reaction from which the East Coast of Florida is still suffering today. I know of no part of the country where business is now so flat as in the section of Florida which suffered from the hurricane. The industrial prostration our senses and think of life in its true perspective and see values as they really exist. Such contemplation often has a depressing effect upon many lines of indutsry. Such effect has come to be evidenced already in the case of the Mississippi flood. I say this even although certain lines of industry have received an impetus owing to the replacement demands. Such effects thus far, however, are not evidenced in statistics.

"Railroad earnings are still holding up, check transactions are fair,

GUM-DIPPED TIRES Wear Longer

W E recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone tire design and construction-and how Firestone and Oldfield tires and tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion pictures showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low-pressure construction—one of the reasons why

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such unheard-of mileage records.

LOW Cash Prices OLDFIELD TIRES

Oldfield Tubes are also priced very low Made in the great conomical Firestone Factories at Akron and earry the Standard Tire Warranty

We learned why the Firestone Balloon Tread gives extra safety, comfort and long wear. We were shown why Firestone, from the very beginning, designed and continue to use the round Balloon Tread, minimizing "shoulder breaks", so destructive to tires. Excess rubber at the edges of a Balloon Tread is wasted-actually detrimental to tire mileage. In the Firestone Tread the small units and sharp projections are scientifically placed to permit easy flexing, resulting in extraordinary riding comfort.

Come in and let us put a set of these Gum-Dipped Tires on your car—you can forget about tire trouble. Quality is higher than ever before—prices are lowest in history. Buy now!
