LOOK YOUR HOME OVER

There are homes in Clarendon whose owners are able to finance their re-conditioning and whose failure to do so is costing them a high rate of depreciation.

"Save the surface and you save all" is a well-known slogan of the paint makers and sellers. It sticks in the mind because it must be accepted as the truth. Paint excludes moisture which is the enemy of wood and quite unfriendly to metal.

There are enough homes in Clarendon which need paint to furnish employment to all the painters for two years. They need the employment and will work for small wages. Paint prices are lower than you have ever seen them. Your home needs that paint job. If you are able to pay for it, it would be both economy and public service to start the work NOW.

TAXES AND JOBS

E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, recently said that if the money his company pays in taxes were available for wages it would be possible to put 20 per cent more men on the payroll.

Which is a queer way to attack the so-called tax burden. Taxes or no taxes, no corporation would put more men on the payroll than the volume of sales justified. The tax burden was loaded on all of us when sales volumes were high, but the burden did not shrink when volume fell off.

Chances are that when prosperity returns we will forget our present determination to reduce the tax burden. The best way to go about it will require time—the complete reorganization of state, county and city government. Taxpayers are thinking about a program now. But when they get to making money again they are more than likely to forget that cost of government could be cut one-half to two-thirds by combining many city and county jobs and letting a lot of office-holders find something else to do.

WE ARE UNDER A DICTATORSHIP NOW

The 73rd Congress, which will adjourn early in June if present plans are carried out, has granted to the President greater powers than have ever been placed in the hands of a president of the United States.

His powers are virtually those of a dictator, so much so that there are those who express disapproval of the course which the Congress has followed. Their disapproval, as they are careful to say, is not based on the fear that the President will be disposed to abuse his power, but rather on the danger that influences of which the President himself is not aware will be brought to bear on him.

Within the period of the adjournment of Congress until its regular session in January, 1934, the President may exercise at his discretion the grant of power which is now his. He enjoys the faith and confidence of the American people to a degree that is all the more amazing because of its steadfastness. The first flush of popularity which he attained by his vigorous handling of a tottering banking system has carried on beyond the expectations of a people accustomed to the ebb and flow of popular approval.

His simplicity of utterance, his sincere wish to make good on "the new deal" and his clarity of thought and purpose on the erection of a new order of banking and finance, of tariffs, of foreign policy, of agricultural opportunity and of governmental economy, have combined to keep him riding on the crest of a wave of popular approval.

Even those who are most fearful of the possibility that his "stock" may decline do not want to see it happen, unless it be the few who are selfishly actuated. Party lines have largely been obliterated by the universal wish to see a return to normal business, normal profits and reasonable prosperity. President Roosevelt is the man of the hour and all Americans want to see his plans work out successfully. And, after all, this wish will be the strongest factor in his success. Once the tide begins running strongly in the direction of prosperity, however, his critics will increase and attacks on his policies will become more popular than they would be now. And he will be made to pay the price of public service in the realization that only those things he failed to do are remembered.

When all is said and done there is one earthly ruler in this land—Public Opinion—but this must be recorded, it must be interpreted, it must be crystallized—through journalism.—Martin P. Rindlaub.

The train of time and opportunity has no rear entrance; you have to enter by the front door if you care to ride.

SIDELIGHTS

by
MARVIN JONES
Panhandle Congressman

One of the most important phases of work in Congressional committees during recent years is the investigation now being conducted before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Already a number of facts have been brought to light concerning the international banking establishment of J. P. Morgan & Co., which has come to be looked upon by the American people in an almost legendary light because of its great power in the financial world.

The outcome of this investigation, which will embrace not only the Morgan interests but other big banking institutions as well, will no doubt result in beneficial legislation which will enable the federal government to strengthen its control over the money and credit of the nation. It may also lead to further banking reform and to the strengthening of other laws as well. Work along this line has already been started.

An example of the inadequacy of present statutes can be found in the testimony that J. P. Morgan gave to the Senate investigating committee in which he said that he paid no income taxes during 1931 and 1932, and very little in 1930. However he did pay income taxes in England.

The American people may well be astonished by such a revelation. The fact that America's symbol of money power paid no income tax is startling. Mr. Morgan explained this fact by saying that he had to partake of the losses of his company as well as the profits.

In this country capital losses are not taxable, while in Great Britain they cannot be deducted in making individual returns.

Another interesting revelation which has been made in the extensive control which the company has through its twenty partners. These partners hold eighteen directorships in banks and trust companies and 167 directorships in corporations.

These points are only a few examples of the many things which the Senate committee is learning, and as the hearings progress, more interesting developments are likely to result.

It is the intention of the investigators to bring into the open the practice of these private interests which have held such a grip on our economic structure.

If present laws have been violated, punishment should follow immediately. If the laws have been evaded by various methods, then they must be tightened and revised to insure justice to every American citizen.

No matter what the final outcome of the insignificant he is in the midst of this enormous centralization of holdings and control. The balance must be restored and the irregularities must be corrected.

RADIO FANS TO HEAR GRAND CANYON PROGRAM

"The rim of the Grand Canyon is one of the stillest places on earth," says Carveth Wells, Continental Oil Company radio entertainer. "This is even true when there are hundreds of people there staring down into this mile-deep chasm. The grandeur of it renders tourists speechless.

"Furthermore," says Wells, "not many people attempt to describe the Canyon. Those who do including myself, deserve to be shot." Wells' attempt to picture this wonder of the world, however, will be heard during the regular Wednesday night Conoco program on June 7, which will be broadcast by 20 N. B. C. stations.

The Conoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on stations WFAA or WOAI Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

ORGANIZING FOOD WORK PAYS THESE WOMEN WELL

One hundred and fifty-four home demonstration club women and 84 4-H club girls have made canning budgets for the family food supply for 1933, making a total of 238 homes of San Saba county which have started out to organize their food work in a systematic way under the guidance of the home demonstration agent Miss Lorena Dry. These women and girls are planning to produce foods to meet the demands of the budget or to exchange for those foods which must be purchased.

"I took care of my family this year and sent my three boys to college by having an adequate food supply," states Mrs. Ora B. Smith, home demonstration club member of the Richland Springs Club, who canned over 1000 containers of food last year. "My boys have used the pantry all year and with what they take to school from home their board bill averages only $9 a month for the three."

GRADUATE IN BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION COURSE

Henry Chester Williams son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams of this city, is listed among twenty students at Texas Technological College, at Lubbock, who will graduate on June 5th from the school of business administration.

Texas Tech will graduate the largest class in its history this year, when 302 men and women receive their diplomas. Of this number 197 will graduate on June 5 and 123 expect to graduate in August. The present class includes 119 women and 171 men. The average age of the women is 24.16 years of the men is 23.28 years. The youngest graduate is Miss Aleen Brown, of Ackerly who has just passed her eighteenth birthday, although there are several others who are not yet 19 years old.

"Thunder Beast" Breathes Again at World's Fair

Portion of the Sinclair Prehistoric Exhibit at the World's Fair—the first attempt ever to reproduce out of doors the conditions of life as they existed a hundred million years ago.

Called "Thunder Beast" by scientists because the ground trembled under his 40-ton tread, the brawny Brontosaurus will "breathe" and "live again" at the Chicago World's Fair.

be animated, may be had by comparing them with the people shown in the picture.

P. G. Allen, of Fort Wayne and Hollywood, dinosaur-maker extraordinary to the motion-picture industry, was commissioned by the Sinclair Refining Company to recreate these odd forms of life that roamed the earth millions of years ago while Nature was mellowing and filtering the crude oil from which today's motor oils are refined.

COMMUNITY CANNING KITCHENS ARE BUILT

Thirty community canning kitchens are being built and put in readiness for canning the surplus crop of vegetables in Rusk county, according to Miss Lotye Thomas, home demonstration agent who has been asked to conduct schools for training the managers of the kitchens. Most of the houses are of logs with board roofs, and are provided with screened porches, and furnaces made of native stone and clay. Each community furnishes its kitchen and the Community Chest funds cooker and sealer.

Bits Of WASHINGTON'S Current Comment

If Congress casts a favorable eye on the plans of the President, government expenses will be cut about a billion dollars. Having cut them there remains the equally serious problem of keeping them down. Assuming that they are not permitted to rise again, there are a good many dead horses to pay for, as well as several new and live ones to be taken care of. Like it or not, there is but one mine that can be depended upon to yield unflinching pay-dirt, and that mine is taxation. The excise taxes, scheduled for the scaffold on the first of July, are likely to be given a reprieve of a year. Others will be created or increased. Heavier tax paying seems distinctly probable. The immediate result will be the production of ready cash in the Treasury. If the list of tax-free securities is suspended, the market for government bonds will be improved, but what will happen to the securities that heretofore have been regarded as gilt-edged? The net result, in the more or less distant future, may prove to be highly satisfactory, but no one should delude himself into thinking that there are no high mountain ranges yet to be crossed. It will be necessary to carry on for some time to come.

The Navy Department has issued orders that sailors who swear are to be punished. It will be recalled that Farragut made harsh remarks about the torpedoes. Washington broke loose at Monmouth. Horace Greeley could rip off on occasion. A newspaper says that a former Vice-President uses only the "conventional" hell and damn. Discrimination against the boys in the fore-castle is evident, yet there remains the ancient prerogative of saying important things in a low breath.

The door nail, although popularly regarded as dead has been kept alive for several centuries by a proverb of common speech. Even as a by-word, the door-nail is doomed to go. The current phrase is "deader than a war debt."

The representative of the United States at Geneva assures the conference of the support of his country in efforts to put down future wars, a statement which has a good and wholesome sound. The only thing that causes apprehension is the fact that the delegates of the other nations greeted the announcement with cheers. Woe unto you when all men shall speak well of you.

Relaxing revision of anti-trust laws is suggested now and then, as a means of bolstering up business. There was a time when the had men of history were Benedict Arnold and Mr. Rockefeller. The future may conclude that John D. should have a statue in the Hall of Fame.

An Italian liner breaks a record, on a voyage of five days and twenty-two hours from Spain to New York. No doubt the affairs of the passengers were so urgent that a quick run was necessary. Columbus took about ten weeks for the trip, but he had no business more pressing than the discovery of a continent.

Great Britain, France Italy and Germany have concluded a peace treaty. It is specified that it shall stand for ten years. Even in these serious times one does not have the heart to forbid a man his little joke.

England took one of her crack trains from the track and sent it to Chicago for exhibition at the World's Fair. The train was shown here and there, on its way to the windy city on the lake, and the observant saw some mysterious things in the varnish on the tables. They were caused by cold water. It may be that the Britons thought that they would give the Yankees a gentle hint that they had no reason to be too much puffed up over their 3.2 beer.

Mexico and Peru, who have been on the outs for about a year, have patched up their difficulties, which is a serious infraction of an old Spanish custom. No thriving Latin-American country should be without a war a near-war, a revolution, or a presidential assassination.

OLD FURNITURE MADE NEW AT SMALL COST

With a half can of lye and a pint of varnish, costing 65 cents, Mabel Caldwell, 4-H club girl, has refinished 7 pieces of hardwood furniture 5 of them to use in her own demonstration bedroom and two other pieces at $2 each for other people, according to the report of Miss Alpha Lynn Dallas county assistant home demonstration agent. The pieces are two walnut marble-top dressers with mirrors, the top of a walnut organ from which she built a set of book shelves, an oak wash stand, a cherrywood rocker a cherrywood table, and an oak table.

This room with freshly painted ceiling, re-papered walls, refinished clothes closet and floor. Indian-tied rugs made from feed sacks, a comfortable bed with light weight cover with windows which will lower from the top and screens repaired, is typical of the bedroom work being carried on by 36 4-H club girl bedroom demonstrators in Dallas county.

Two new buildings are being planned for the State Fair of Texas,—a boys and girls encampment building and an agriculture building. The State Fair helps to entertain more than 3,000 4-H Club Boys and Girls and Future Farmers each year, and the encampment building is now badly needed. Both buildings will be financed from funds raised in the sale of sustaining membership certificates.

MELLOWED A HUNDRED MILLION YEARS

WHAT makes one motor oil higher in lubricating quality than another?

For one thing, the earth conditions in the geological age when the crude oil was formed. For another, the expertness of the refining process.

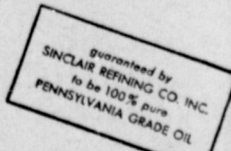

For these reasons the Sinclair Refining Company uses only the famous Bradford-Allegany District crude from the Pennsylvania field in its big, new Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil refinery at Wells-ville, N. Y.—where Sinclair Pennsylvania is triple-filtered, and the wax removed at as low as 60° F. below zero—thus making it more uniform than most oils, and far less productive of carbon.

The Bradford-Allegany crude that goes into Sinclair Pennsylvania was one of the few crude oils formed in the Devonian Age—a period in earth's long history when conditions of heat, pressure and materials were nearest perfect for the forming of oil. And the crude has lain there mellowing and filtering for a hundred million years—long enough to filter out undesirable compounds—long enough to bring the crude to a point where its superior lubricating quality commands the highest price of all Pennsylvania grade crude oils!

Have us change your oil to Sinclair Pennsylvania according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. Then examine this oil after long, hard driving. Note how it stands up—how it comes out of the crankcase almost as good as it went in. Note, especially, how little has been used up—positive, visible proof that this rich, Pennsylvania oil protects the last mile as well as the first!

By MRS. C. A. BURTON

"Life is an uncharted ocean. The cautious marine must need take many soundings ere he conduct his barque to port in safety." This is the suggestive quotation on the title page of "Soundings" by A. Hamilton Gibs. It is not a very late book—was published several years ago—but I found it a book of unusual interest. It has an English setting. A little village near London where the artist, Jim Hawthorne and his dear, loved young wife found a cottage which was "like dreams come true." Here Nancy was born and death claimed the young mother. With her death, the world crashed in ruins about Jim's feet. Nan had been more to him than he knew and in his loneliness he prayed for death and death refused him, thrust him back to an unrelenting conviction of the utter worthiness of life. Aimless wandering failed to bring even diversion, and in desperation he again turned to his work. Nancy was eight before he discovered that she was an individual. He was no longer alone.

"Here's my job!" he said. "Every man plays his hand to the limits of the boundary prescribed by his fear of what society will do or say. This kid shall not be afraid of traditional beliefs or rules of conduct. I'll teach her to stand on her own two feet, to answer to herself alone. She shall be honest." So her education began. She imbibed knowledge as she breathed and Jim lived only for her, watching the beautiful unfolding of her girlhood and womanhood. And now she is eighteen and suddenly facing some of life's big questions. True to his conviction he lets her face them for herself, in her own way, taking "soundings." While studying art in Paris new friends came into her life—an American girl, Cornelia Evars and her twin brother, Lloyd and his friend, Bob Whittaker, both Oxford boys over for the Christmas vacation. "Lloyd's laughing eyes were an invitation to fellowship—people would always seek him out for his great gift of being able to make them see everything in terms of laughter." "Bob was different—his code was that if one wanted something one should set one's shoulder silently and shove."

Life in all its joyousness its freedom, its irresponsibility—life flooded with new meanings, new emotions—and then suddenly the greatest experience that life can hold, the answer to her question "Is it Bob?—or just man?" and the realization, "It's Bob." But as is so often true, their standards were different and she had learned to think clearly and unafraid—to expect absolute truthfulness and loyalty. A terrible accident which left Jim Hawthorne in a wheel chair ever afterward called Nancy home and for them both began the fight to meet life with courage and sanity.

Nancy left love and marriage out of her thinking and with the maturity which the years bring, came calmness, poise and success. When she celebrated her twenty-seventh birthday, suddenly her merrings were torn loose again and then came the inevitable question—why? Where is it all leading? What does life hold? And then came the war and then—

It is a story of unusual charm. The author keeps you interested not only in what he is saying but in how he is saying it—the unusual wording, the turn of a phrase makes you go back and read it again. Often the philosophy of life pulls you up short—you catch your breath that any one should have expressed so clearly your own thought—and sometimes you are shocked.

But the ending atones for it all, and still life is good.

A capon show, one of the first ever held in Texas, will be one of the features of the poultry department of the 1933 State Fair of Texas, it has been announced here by W. I. Yopp, director in charge of this department. The capons will be shown for two days as features of the show and will be dressed and exhibited on the third day. Awards will be made on the dressed capons. A Capon dinner is also planned as one of the features of the show.

Largest Advertising Space Buyer in Texas Papers

A. F. BAUMGARTNER—CINCINNATI

As President of the Thompson-Koch Advertising Agency, Cincinnati, Mr. Baumgartner is easily the outstanding advertising figure to Texas newspaper men at this time. Each year, this man's "say so" either places or keeps out of your paper a portion of the $15,000,000 credited as being placed annually by this agency. This agency is reputed as being hard bargainers for space, but when once contracted for are pleasant business associates. Meet him at the Houston convention of the Texas Press Association, June 8th.

School Notes

By SLOAN BAKER.

An addition to the faculty at Skillet, an eight-pound girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Smith last Monday. Mr. Smith has been chosen to head the new consolidated school at Midway next year.

J. H. Pierce, president of the Trustees-Teachers meeting, called the meeting to order at Giles last Friday night. W. C. Howard of Bray, able secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. A trustee's duties to investigate the former reputation of teacher and their scholastic standing, no excuse to hire a weak teacher these days, trustee owes it to the community to study the teacher problem child's welfare first thought in hiring teacher, should forget about relatives and friends and hire teachers only on their merits—were thoughts brought out by W. A. Louis of Smith School.

More practical courses for the rural boy and girl, including home economics, vocational agriculture, manual training which will keep the boy and girl more interested in their school life and fit them for life after school days are over were discussed by W. C. Howard of Bray. Joe Baker, of Giles, looks into the new school term with a spirit of optimism believing as the farmer prospers so the school prospers. President G. G. Reeves, enthusiastic about the success of the County Trustees Association announced that Rep John Puryear will speak to the organization as soon as the legislature adjourns. It was a very interesting meeting, adjourned to meet at Smith next time.

They are being sold on a monthly payment plan where desired and cost but ten dollars.

T. D. Nored, first vice-president of the Clarendon Lions Club who will automatically be elevated to the presidency by the election which will be held Tuesday, June 13th, made an oral report to the club at its regular meeting this week on the State Lions Club convention at Lubbock.

He regret the fact that the newspapers inaccurately reported the rejection by the convention of a resolution endorsing President Roosevelt as being due to his attitude toward legalized beer

The convention was attended by about 250 delegates from the five districts of Texas. Dinners and other social courtesies were tendered in honor of the visitors, including a "chuck-wagon barbecue" at Texas Tech's gymnasium.

Sam M. Braswell, international director was the guest of honor at a banquet tendered in his honor. International President Chas. H. Hatton, of Wichita, Kansas, also attended the convention for one day.

A train of fifteen passenger coaches from Ft. Sill passed through Clarendon Wednesday night, loaded with young men on their way to camps in Colorado and Wyoming. Another train of to each of us just how they would prefer that their memory be honored they would not ask that, once each year, an audience should gather to hear their brave deeds recounted, their sacrifice on the altar of patriotism extolled and their glorious deaths held up as examples for each of us.

They would tell us that we could best honor them, he said, by seeing to it that their loved ones do not hunger; that their children are given adequate schooling; that as a citizenship we nourish a spirit of true patriotism.

His address held aloft the obligation and opportunity of patriotic citizenship, and impressed his hearers with its logical conclusion that the deaths under arms of their fellow-soldiers but increased the sense of duty which each should feel to make his own life count for as much as possible in peace-time patriotism.

Committees from both the Legion and the Auxiliary went to the cemetery after the service to decorate the graves of soldier dead with flags and flowers.
