Drouth? There's None in Capital

The drouth and its effects may be an ever-present worry in government circles, but Washington pedestrians and motorists would have been glad to have a little of it after the recent three-inch downpour in the capital.

NATION'S FARMERS ENDORSE CORN-HOG REDUCTION PROGRAM

Farmers of the United States have approved the AAA corn-hog program in the recent plebiscite, according to figures compiled by the Associated Press...

The corn-hog program limits the production of hogs and eliminates part of the corn acreage. A vote has been in progress during the past few weeks to determine the attitude of the farmers toward a continuation of the program.

Similar votes are being taken on the cotton reduction program, and it is expected that endorsement of this will be forthcoming from the cotton farmers of the nation.

LIST OF HISTORICAL PLACES OF COUNTY IS WANTED BY COLP

Brownwood's efforts to obtain a secondary celebration as a part of the Texas Centennial have been indirectly aided by a request this week from D. E. Colp, chairman of the Texas State Parks Board...

COTTON CERTIFICATE TRANSFERS MUST BE MADE THROUGH AGENT

Transfer of cotton exemption certificates must be made through the county agent's office, if the transfer is across the county or state line, according to information received Thursday by the County Agent's office from C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section.

Violation of this regulation will subject purchaser and seller alike to $1,000 fine or a year in prison or both, Mr. Cobb points out.

The following wire was received by County Agent C. W. Lehmburg Thursday from Mr. Cobb regarding this regulation:

BROWNWOOD NOW HEADQUARTERS OF SHER-RITT OIL CO.

As a result of the rapid development of its oil properties in Brown county the Sher-Ritt Oil Company has moved its headquarters to Brownwood.

The major portion of the holdings of the Sher-Ritt Oil Company are situated in Brown, Comanche and Callahan counties.

The discovery well on the Scott tract is considered of major importance to this district and oil men say that it has without doubt established the existence of a new pool in the Ranger lime in wildcat territory.

The Scott well, as stated in former reports, has been making regular flows through 6% casing since its shooting on September 26. On Sunday, October 7, tubing and packing were run and the well started off flowing at the rate of 40 to 50 barrels daily.

Members of other Lions clubs in this district will be invited to come to Brownwood on that date to meet Governor Brown, and members of other civic organizations in Brownwood will be urged to be present at the Lions Club meeting.

District Governor Will Visit Lions

According to an announcement made at the regular meeting of the Lions Club at noon Tuesday, District Governor Lorner Brown will be in Brownwood Friday, October 26, to meet with the local club.

Short Crop May Mean Good Price For 1934 Pecans

Gathering of New Crop Will Start Next Week; Opening Price Of 8 Cents Expected.

A short crop, variously estimated at from 15 to 25 per cent of normal, is expected to be a big factor in bringing the price of native pecans in West Texas up somewhere near the 10 cent figure during the 1934 season, according to local growers.

The crop will be considerably shorter than last year, which was one of the shortest in this section in some time, growers state. Continued dry weather throughout the spring and summer also has caused the nuts to be somewhat smaller than normal.

Growers expect the opening price for native pecans to be about 8 cents per pound, considerably higher than the average price for last year's crop.

Paper shell pecans will fare worse relatively than natives this year, according to present predictions. A heavy crop in Georgia, which dominates the paper shell market, probably will be responsible for lower prices of paper shell pecans than their usual relative price.

Should the paper shell pecan code go into effect before buying opens, it may serve to boost the paper shell price, which will have a stimulating effect on the price of natives.

The Heart of Texas Pecan Growers Cooperative Association, local marketing agency, will begin operations within the next ten days. Plans are being worked out now, and it is undecided whether pecans will be assembled at the Southwest Poultry Association offices or not.

Two shipments of pecans were sent out from the cooperative last year, each approximately one carload. With the shorter crop this year, it is expected that one full car will handle the shipment of the cooperative members, unless market conditions make it advisable to make smaller shipments during the gathering season.

The average price of native pecans on the Brownwood market last year was something under 6 cents a pound. The market opened in October at 6 cents, dropped to 5 cents and under through November, rallied to 7 1/2 cents in the closing weeks of the year, and went over 8 cents early in 1934.

The Special Session

Under ordinary circumstances, special sessions of the Texas Legislature are not to be desired, as always they are expensive and almost always productive of little good.

If the legislature will confine itself to the submitted issues, and should the governor not feel impelled to submit a number of unimportant matters in order to assure passage of the urgent bills, much good can be accomplished in a short time.

The five-point program of the governor is well known both to the legislature and the taxpayers of the state. It includes an appropriation for the Texas Centennial, remission of tax penalties, the Colorado River Authority Bill, the Brazos River Reclamation and Conservation District bill and an increased amount of relief bonds to take care of the unemployed.

Each of these measures was before the legislature during the special session just ended. Except for the last two named, the issues passed both houses, but failed of final passage due to obstructionists on the conference committees.

The past session authorized $6,000,000 of relief bonds and provided that the income be budgeted, $1,000,000 each for the months from October through December, and $1,500,000 each for January and February.

There is considerable support for the two river bills, and one, the Colorado authority bill, affects West Texas in general, and Brown County in particular.

Seldom have such clear-cut measures been submitted to a legislative session. Seldom have the members had such an opportunity to become familiar with the legislation proposed.

To the state as a whole, the Texas Centennial appropriation is the most important piece of legislation before the special session. And, because it involves an appropriation of several million dollars, considerable opposition to its final passage can be expected.

The Centennial Bill

Governor Jim Ferguson, in last week's issue of The Ferguson Forum, had an accurate summary of the need of this legislation, which he is recommending in no uncertain terms to the legislature.

Furthermore, the Centennial appropriation will relieve the relief situation to a great extent, for it will put several thousand workmen on the job almost immediately, and keep them busy for about two years.

Some effort doubtless will be made to divert part of the appropriation to secondary celebrations over the state, which may result in the Brownwood observation receiving a part of the state funds.

An interesting sidelight on the fight for Centennial funds will be the effect the attitude of Dallas' stormy petrel of the legislature, Mrs. Sarah Hughes, will have on its passage.

Be that as it may, the Texas Centennial appropriation is of vital importance to Texas at this time, and should receive first consideration at the hands of the legislators.

Cheering news to Brown county people who occasionally travel to Fort Worth and Dallas or beyond, comes this week in the announcement of the state highway commission, through member W. R. Ely, that completion of Highway 10 through Comanche and Erath counties will receive immediate attention of the commission.

Finishing Highway 10

"I know of no more important road than Highway 10," Commissioner Ely is quoted as saying. And while he gave as his reason for wishing the gap closed to furnish San Angelo and the ranch country with a good artery to Fort Worth, it's going to benefit Brown county, even if the Abilene commissioner wasn't thinking about us.

The commissioner is right that Highway 10 is one of the most important highways in the state, and its completion should be undertaken at an early date—especially the matter of closing the gaps in Comanche and Erath counties.

THE AVERAGE MAN

Who is the average American? The question was raised recently by President Roosevelt in his Green Bay speech. "Those who would measure confidence in this country in the future," he said on that occasion, "must first look to the average citizen."

It has remained for the economist of a down-town firm to look into the statistics and tell us what manner of person this "average citizen" actually is. He appears to be not at all the dissatisfied anti-capitalist. He is a person who is gainfully employed the greater part of the time. Outside of the larger cities every second average man owns his own home. The average family has an automobile. Eight or ten million average citizens own stocks or bonds, and as depositors in our banks and holders of insurance policies four or five times that number are indirect holders of securities.

"The average man," concludes the author of this little statistical study, "is a capitalist. He has no patience with socialism or communism as he understands these philosophies, though recently he has been taking doses of both under misleading labels."

San Saba—R. G. Murray from the Liveoak community in San Saba county will make two or two and one-half bales of cotton on six acres this year as a result of terraces constructed last year to prevent water logging, according to N. E. Scudder, farm demonstration agent.

The field belonging to Mr. Murray is low, flat and sandy and it catches all the hillside water. In the past it has always been so wet and boggy in the spring that early planting and cultivation was impossible. The terraces on the hillside withheld the water this year however and left his flat field just moist enough for ideal planting and cultivation. When the dry weather set in there was sufficient moisture to make a good yield.

He sells his truck to people in the nearby oilfields.

Proposed Constitutional Changes

Discussion of The Amendments To Be Voted on in November
By DALE MILLER, In The Texas Weekly.

Note—Following is a series of four articles discussing the eight amendments to the constitution. The amendments will be voted on at the election November 6. The articles originally appeared in The Texas Weekly.

The most perplexing problem which students of government have to deal today is how to deal with the duplication of services which characterize the cumbersome system of government in Texas. To provide economical administration of county affairs, to consolidate the 254 counties into a few, and that a great many should be consolidated into a few, is a reform that is gaining adherents daily—enough, at least, to secure the submission of an amendment empowering the legislature to combine certain counties when feasible—but the path of this great reform is so extremely long and so unpopularity that it is not likely to be completed in the near future.

It is suggested that the proposal be submitted to the legislature by the counties—S. J. R. 21—approved. Anyone who has attempted to wrangle at any attempt to transfer seats from one county to another can surmise the attitude of the legislature. A legislature might combine counties, but whether any practical results would be achieved is a question. The endorsement of the amendment will at least have the effect of generating wider public discussion of the reform and will encourage reformers, including newspapers, to continue their efforts to effect a more efficient administration of county affairs. Primarily, it defines authority to govern in the commissioners' court. Heretofore county government has been a hybrid creature, with final authority vested nowhere, and when a citizen who studiously has detected inefficient management in county affairs endeavors to register a complaint, he becomes involved in a strange anomaly. Every official to whom he appeals will agree with him thoroughly and pass him on to the next official. Finally, the citizen has made the rounds and finds himself just where he started, cognizant of the fact that there is waste somewhere but bewildered as to whom he should hold responsible. But this amendment definitely placed responsibility in the commissioners' courts, and in other provisions suggests different methods by which the court can effect economy in the operation of government. For example, the office of clerk of the district court will be combined with that of clerk of the county court. The offices of county assessor and county collector of taxes have already been combined and will be included in the amendment. Moreover, the court will have authority to fix compensation of county and precinct officers and to determine the number of assistant and clerical employees of these county and precinct officers. The legislature, however, will fix the compensation of the county judge, county auditor, district attorney, and the commissioners' courts should promote economy, particularly since the procedure often followed by county officials is to load down the county payrolls with political friends of those selected or the added financial burden placed on the taxpayers.

In these efforts to promote more economical administration of county affairs the argument is often advanced that city and county governments should be consolidated. It is doubtful, however, if this argument is sound. The problems of urban and rural districts are so dissimilar that separate agencies should, in most cases, be maintained. This proposed amendment, though, suggests methods by which useless duplication of services between cities and counties may be corrected without disturbing the integrity of either governmental agency. It is provided, for example, that any taxing unit within a county may urge a contract with the commissioners' court for the county to assess and collect the taxes, but if any city wished to continue assessing and collecting its own taxes it could of course do so. In other words, this constitutional proposal permits city councils and commissioners' courts to get together and effect needed economies without doing injury to either.

This amendment is the natural outgrowth of that movement toward reform in county government which culminated a year ago in the Home Rule Amendment. That measure was designed to meet the needs of the larger counties, only those counties having a population over 60,000 being affected by its provisions. With that amendment, however, the new proposal will not conflict. It is provided that the new amendment will not affect those counties which prefer to operate under a home rule charter. This latest proposal is merely a method of extending these advantages, in a simpler manner, to smaller counties.

Finally, this proposed amendment recognizes that the multiplicity county lines in Texas circumscribe economic conditions of a diversified character. In other words, Texas has counties with less than 1,000 and counties with more than 300,000 population, and many are as varied in economic pursuits as in size and population. Consequently, it is recognized that a form of government serviceable in one county might be burdensome in another, and this amendment permits the legislature to devise different systems of county government for different types of counties. One form might be worked out for counties strictly urban, another for counties predominantly rural and another for counties whose interests lie more versatily between the two. The legislature is limited by two provisions, one that it must never impair the authority of the commissioners' courts and another that no general law shall change constitutional limitations as to tax levies and incurrences of public debt. And, of course, each county is permitted to select that form of government which best meets its needs.

This proposed amendment attacks the incubus of cumbersome county government on a number of fronts, but a desirable feature to remember is that its mandatory provisions are those which are needed in every county. By and large, it simply removes constitutional barriers which heretofore have protected an antiquated form of government. This proposal should be widely studied and understood for with understanding will come unqualified approval.

The next Amendment—H. J. R. 2—strikes at the ancient evil of the fee system of compensating county and district officers. This proposal would abolish the fee system in all counties having a population exceeding 20,000 and would make abolition of the system discretionary with commissioners' courts in counties having less than 20,000 population. And in all counties the question of compensating precinct officers on a salary or a fee basis is left to the discretion of the commissioners' courts.

This amendment is a marked improvement over the one submitted and rejected just a few years ago. The previous amendment would have abolished the fee system in all counties and although the fee system has generally speaking, proved perhaps the most insidious evil in county government in Texas, it is probably true that varying conditions make its retention in some smaller counties advisable. In counties with a population of 20,000 or more, however, the system has invariably proved extravagant beyond all reason, and it is in these counties that the amendment would compel reform.

proposal would abolish the fee system in all counties having a population exceeding 20,000 and would make abolition of the system discretionary with commissioners' courts in counties having less than 20,000 population. And in all counties the question of compensating precinct officers on a salary or a fee basis is left to the discretion of the commissioners' courts.

This amendment is a marked improvement over the one submitted and rejected just a few years ago. The previous amendment would have abolished the fee system in all counties and although the fee system has generally speaking, proved perhaps the most insidious evil in county government in Texas, it is probably true that varying conditions make its retention in some smaller counties advisable. In counties with a population of 20,000 or more, however, the system has invariably proved extravagant beyond all reason, and it is in these counties that the amendment would compel reform.

Just a few years ago a legislative committee investigating the fee system discovered that officials in larger counties performing only clerical jobs received a remuneration often running above $25,000 a year. When obscure clerks can manage to draw compensation many times exceeding that received by the Governor of the State, then the inequities of the fee system become flagrantly obvious. This system has caused heavy extravagance, not only because of this condition but because it has led further to the employment of useless deputies and other personnel.

In leaving the manner of compensation for precinct officers discretionary with the commissioners' court the amendment, I believe was wisely conceived. In many larger counties some justices of the peace have earned as much as $12,000 under the fee system, while other justices in the same counties have received less than $100 during a like period. These inequities are apparent, of course, and the commissioners' court should be permitted to restrict the lucrative activities of one justice by placing him on a salary, while at the same time permitting the fee system to remain in another precinct where conditions are such that it will not likely be abused.

Naturally, this is one of those very desirable amendments which will be strenuously opposed by those who have found the fee system a lucrative adventure into the public purse and this opposition can be expected to materialize perhaps in tangible form. But the likelihood of this opposition should only serve to impress public-spirited leaders generally with their obligation to acquaint the people with the great benefits of this legislation. H. J. R. 2 is indeed an amendment which should receive an affirmative vote.

Here we have, therefore, two amendments which move definitely toward the elusive goal of economy in government. If county government in Texas were only an inanimate problem, capable of being examined and solved as simply as a laboratory experiment, then the passage of that amendment empowering the legislature to combine counties might be expected to produce the desired results. But the problem is not so simple as that. The cumbersome, antiquated system of county rule has become such a thriving parasite on the structure of government that reform becomes a difficult task. It is more likely to be achieved by amendments directed at explicit evils, and this is the excellent purpose of these two proposals which the people shall approve.

MAKING Smart CLOTHES

Augustabernard inspired this lovely dress, which embodies many important features of the new evening mode. First notice the flattering and very new halter neck and the low back decolletage, softly draped. Notice the hemline, too—it's very significant. The front of the skirt is plan and the fullness starts on either side of center front and sweeps toward the back. The gown is short enough in front to expose slipper tips, yet it trails on the floor ever so slightly in back—the very new hemline you see in the smartest evening gowns. And the plain front panel is slashed up a few inches to make each step a tantalizing adventure. Make this in flowered crepe or printed satin and you will have a stunning new-looking dress with definitely summery feeling. Make it in plain silk crepe in a lovely color and you will have a dress you can wear on through the winter. This is a Butterick Pattern and may be bought at your favorite department store.

CLUB REUNION.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Seward entertained a large crowd of the Happy Hour Club members at their home near McDaniel on Thursday, September 27.

Two quilts, the wedding ring and friendship, were ready for the ladies to quilt. A large quantity of good food was prepared by Mrs. Seward and those attending at the noon hour. It was served picnic style on large tables in the shade.

This club was organized about 25 years ago by Miss Carrie Reeves, at the home of Mrs. S. P. Keeler, and the members have never failed to keep up the meetings. Many prizes have been won on their exhibits and different projects have been improved while working with the county home demonstrator.

Only four of the members were absent, namely Mrs. Milford Ray, Mrs. Mildred Baugh, Miss Irma Louise Ray, and Mrs. Emmett Green.

The following are those who belonged to the club first organized, and were present: Mrs. Walter Ferguson, Santa Anna; Mrs. J. O. Swindle, Indian Gap; Mrs. Lillie Owens, Bangs; Mrs. Grace Randall, Brownwood; Mrs. C. A. Cavel and Miss Lora Cavel, Woodland Heights; Mrs. Henry Howlett, of Brownwood Route 1; Mrs. Roy Keeler and Mrs. Will Keeler, of Brownwood Route 1.

The local active members attending were: Mesdames J. O. Baugh, Ernest McCreery, T. F. Ray, N. A. Cropp, W. E. King, M. M. Humphrey, A. G. Norton, S. H. Spivey, Burl Teague, H. Y. Phelan, A. H. K. Wheatley, J. H. Sanderson, L. A. Sanderson, and Mrs. G. R. Seward, hostess.

Visitors present were: Mrs. Frank Blair, Mrs. H. W. Luman, Mrs. L. E. Crane, Mrs. Deoma Tripitt, all of McDaniel; Mrs. W. A. Forman and Mrs. Lulu Grantham, Bangs; Mrs. Cliff Awbrey, Brownwood; Mrs. Tom McArthur, Caradon; Mrs. A. E. Keeler, Thrifty; Mrs. Alton Keeler, Comanche.

A number of men were also present. All enjoyed the club reunion very much and the day will be long remembered by each individual present.

ONE GALLON could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories!
15% to 20% More Smooth Power Shown in Auto Test
To lift 500 tons of solid steel 8 stories—there's a job calling for giant power! And giant power there is in the new powerful Sinclair H-C Gasoline! A single gallon of this motor fuel actually could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories—if its potential energy could be fully utilized.
In a recent road test, where the new H-C was tried out against 12 other well-known gasolines, the results were as follows: The new H-C gave from 15% to 20% more smooth power. It also accelerated from 15% to 20% quicker than the other gasolines and gave from 1 to 3 more miles per gallon!
Ask the Sinclair dealer for a folder which fully explains how one gallon of the new H-C could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories.

NOTE: For best results with the new Sinclair H-C, use either Sinclair Opeline Motor Oil or Pennsylvania Motor Oil—now sold by all Sinclair dealers in Tamper-Proof cans.

TWO LOCAL GAMES ON FOOTBALL SCHEDULE FOR THE WEEK-END

Daniel Baker Plays Austin Thursday Night; Howard Payne Game Friday; Lions Play in Cisco.

The Yellow Jackets, Hill Billies and Lions, football representatives of Howard Payne, Daniel Baker and Brownwood High, could get no better than one victory, a tie game and one defeat in last week's games—this almost duplicating results of the week before.

The Yellow Jackets, as one week ago, contributed the victory by scoring a 28-0 decision over the Trinity University Tigers, of Waxahachie, in a Texas Conference game played in Brownwood. This victory put the Jackets in a tie with St. Edwards University, 1933 champs, for the conference leadership.

Daniel Baker came through with a 6-6 draw in a battle with John Tarleton in Stephenville last Friday night. The Billies completely outplayed the Tarleton eleven but were forced to drive two-thirds the length of the field in the last quarter to overcome a six point lead gained by the Ploboys in the second quarter.

The Lions of Brownwood High School ran into trouble again Saturday night when they tangled with the speedy and hard hitting Polytechnic High team of Fort Worth. The Lions came out on the short end of a 50-0 score.

The Lions open their Oil Belt schedule this week with Cisco on the Cisco gridiron Friday night. The Brownwood team will enter this game doped to lose.

Daniel Baker opens her Texas Conference schedule Thursday night when Austin College invades Brownwood for a battle with the Billies. Coach Taylor of Daniel Baker held back several of his veterans last week in preparation for the conference opener and although the Kangaroos will be favored to win Thursday night, the Billies say otherwise.

Howard Payne has a non-conference battle slated here Friday night with Texas Military College, 1933 champions of the Texas Junior College Association. Frank Bridges, former Baylor and Simmons coach, is coach at Terrill and according to reports has one of the best teams the school ever boasted.

DEMONSTRATION CLUBS

For several years maintaining one of the most active women's clubs in the county, Grosvenor now has a girl's club. The latter was organized last Friday afternoon under the direction of Miss Mayesie Malone, county home demonstration agent. Thirty-eight girls and eight women participated in the meeting.

Sponsor for the new club is Mrs. Harvey Chastain. Officers are as follows: Anna Rush, president; Bobbie Thomas, vice-president; Clara May Wilson, secretary, and Dorothy Peel, treasurer. Demonstrators elected are: Almarene McDaniel, garden; Lorene Mauldin, yard; Montie Moore and Anna Rush, bedroom.

Exports of men's shoes from the United States during the first seven months of the year were greater in volume than during any similar period since 1931.

Historic Constitutional Convention as Portrayed by Artist

This is one of the most important scenes in the history of the United States. It depicts the adoption of the Constitution, Sept. 17, 1787, in Independence Hall, Philadelphia. The artist, James B. Stearns, executed this painting in 1856. It shows George Washington, chairman of the convention, announcing the adoption of the memorable document after 39 delegates from 12 of the 13 states had signed it. Rhode Island alone remained unrepresented.

Repair Of Gates Is Not Completed Yet

It will be several days yet, according to a statement by officials Wednesday, before work on the conduits at Lake Brownwood dam will be completed. Repair work is progressing steadily, however, and within a day or two it will be possible to lower the flood gates in case of rain to prevent any possible damage to the job.

Work in progress includes lining the mouths of the two 12-foot conduits with steel plating to prevent the concrete gates from eroding. It also includes installation of strong gate tracks and reinforcement of the gate tower.

Until the conduits are in, water which might be caught from any rains would have to be released before work could continue.

Fiermonte Enjoys His Runaway

His high society wife didn't want him to go back to the prize ring, so Enzo Fiermonte, Italian pugilist, just up and ran away in a huff from New York to Hollywood. He seems to enjoy his new surroundings as he appears here, giving Toby Wing of the movies a chance to feast his eyes on his handsome features, while he returns the look with interest. Meanwhile, Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick Fiermonte, back in New York, says nothing.

Thompson Engineer On Pecos Dam Job

R. A. (Bob) Thompson, Jr., has been selected as assistant to Chief Engineer Vernon L. Mr. Thompson was assistant to Engineer D. W. Ross in the construction of the Lake Brownwood dam.

The Pecos project will take two years to complete and is one of the major undertakings of the PWA in Texas.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS TO ELIMINATE FREE AMBULANCE SERVICE

Positive elimination of free ambulance service of all kinds, discontinuance of commissions to physicians, nurses and hospitals and others in position to throw business to funeral directors and an agreement not to make direct solicitation of business were matters discussed and approved Tuesday at a meeting of funeral directors of the 17th district, held at the Brownwood Hotel, Brownwood. These matters are covered in the recently approved NRA code for funeral directors. George Williamson of Jacksonville, district supervisor and member of the state code authority, presided at the meeting.

A code committee for this district was appointed and includes Dan Laughter, Abilene; E. E. King, of Ballinger, and J. L. Castleberry, of Albany.

As a result of the code meeting, a new organization for funeral directors of this territory was formed, to be known as Heart of Texas Funeral Directors Association, with the three members of the code committee to serve as officers. Dan Laughter was elected chairman.

At a meeting of the new organization immediately following the code discussion, a minimum price of $3 was set for ambulance service calls in the city, with a charge of 50 cents per mile one way for the first 20 miles and 25 cents per mile thereafter for calls outside the city limits.

Minimum working hours and wages for employees also were discussed and funeral directors pledged themselves to comply strictly with the new code.

Among Brownwood funeral directors who attended and participated in the meeting were: Bill Mitcham, James R. Mitcham, H. D. Tucker, Roy Morris, D. L. Connally, C. A. White, Jack London and L. R. Burton.

Betz Baker Honored In Memorial Service

With a detail of seven cadets and officers from Brooks Field, San Antonio, participating, an impressive memorial service was held at Daniel Baker chapel October 5 to honor Betz Baker, former Daniel Baker student, who was killed recently in an airplane crash in Louisiana. At the time of his death Cadet Baker was on a mission with other students from Brooks Field. Following invocation by Rev. I. K. Floyd, Dr. R. G. Davis, president of Dan I Baker, introduced Dr. S. E. Chandler, who spoke on behalf of the school and outlined Baker's school career. Rex Galtner, captain of Service Company 142, Brownwood, then took charge of the exercises. He introduced Sergeant Grady Leach of the organization and a student at Daniel Baker, who paid a tribute to the deceased's service to the company.

Inspection Of Rural Schools Planned For Week Of October 22

Miss Opal Gilstrap, deputy district state school superintendent, and County Superintendent F. D. Pierce will begin inspection of the Brown county rural schools October 22, to determine the amount of state aid to be allotted the various schools. These inspections will be only for state teachers' and industrial aid and will not include bus aid. Industrial aid includes all home economics and manual training departments. Superintendent Pierce invites all school trustees and patrons to be present at the inspection of their schools and asks them to watch for further announcements as to what day their schools will be inspected.

CITY ENGINEER FINDS WATER SUPPLY GOOD AFTER EXHAUSTIVE STUDY

Turner, district sanitary engineer who will operate in 27 in this district and who established headquarters in Brownwood, has made a thorough report of Brownwood's water supply and its source. In comparison with the sanitary conditions in other cities, the only improvement that would suggest would be the rebuilding of the fence around the open reservoir on Mountain and the addition of ammonia treating process to the water supply, this being to rid it of its odor.

Turner, in his report, speaks highly of C. N. Davis, city water engineer, Sam Thomas, water superintendent and John Gray, city engineer. "These three men are efficient in their work as have ever seen," Mr. Turner says.

Turner's report follows: Description of Supply Water supply for the City of Brownwood is taken from Pecan Lake. Two concrete dams in a total of 727 acre feet of the Bayou depending on Brownwood for filling, which extends nine miles north of the city, contains, at spill-way level, 1,500 acre feet. The basin of Brownwood is now being planted with trees, shrubs, etc., upon 1418, which is operated by the city.

Water Rates. Commercial, Industrial and domestic rates are as follows: Minimum first 700 cu. ft. 75 cents. All over 1,000 cu. ft. 10 cents after the 700 cu. ft. minimum has been deducted.

Water Mains. Standard cast iron mains are used in the distribution system. The sizes run from 14 in. to 2 in. In the business district, the mains are from 6 in. to 14 in. in size. They have 3,600 ft. of 14 in. mains, 12,000 ft. of 10 in. mains, 12,500 ft. of 8 in. mains, 114,255 ft. of 6 in. mains, 19,945 ft. of 4 in. mains and 65,235 ft. of 2 in. mains and about 3,700 surface taps. Considerable service reaches outside the city limits. When pumps are in operation, pressure in mains is from 65 to 100 pounds, the reservoir pressure being 45 pounds. Mains are flushed annually and fire plugs greased once each year.

Sewer Disposal Plant. The present sewer system for the City of Brownwood, Texas, is all gravity flow and was installed at a cost of $280,741. The disposal plant, which is an Emhoff type, was built only four years ago. It is located about four miles southeast of the city. The Emhoff tank being 62 ft. long, 36 ft. wide and 49 ft. deep, having a retention period of approximately eight hours. The dosing chamber is 21 1/2 feet long, 7 1/2 feet wide and eight feet deep. They have sprinkler filter system which is 124 ft. by 133 ft. in diameter and 7 1/2 ft. deep. The effluent from the dosing chamber is aerated by 156 sprays after which it is filtered and again collected into a large main from which it empties into the chlorinating chamber, where the chlorine is administered to the effluent by means of a Wallace and Tiernan chlorinating apparatus. Following chlorination, it empties into Willis Creek, a tributary to Pecan bayou. The sludge is pumped regularly once a month onto a dry bed which consists of gravel and sand for filtration. The drying bed contains an area of 3,000 sq. feet.

There are in the city 196 pit type toilets and approximately 300 open dry toilets.

Mosquito control in the city has been very effective for the past six years. The riddance methods employed are:

1. Drainage where practical.
2. Filling.
3. The use of surface water minnows.
4. The use of kerosene and chemicals such as larvaicide, cresoline, etc.

The falcons are the bird airplanes of the sky, for no other bird can match their speed. As a rule, they kill their prey on wing, either by direct chase or by dropping on their victim. Their plummet-like drops are made with unerring aim, and they seldom miss the bird they are after.

COLORADO RIVER--

John Norris, chairman of the State Board of Water Engineers, said the rights of riparian landowners always would be safeguarded by the board as far as their reasonable uses were concerned, so long as they did not affect the rights of other riparian owners.

Representative R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene and Will Scott of Sweetwater, who helped kill the authority bill in the last Legislature, today again expressed opposition to the measure, as did Representative Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo on the grounds that the rights of present users of water, both below and above the Buchanan dam, would be impaired and that once the dam was built all the available water would be appropriated and no more permits could be issued.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors endorsed the passage of a reasonable bill for conservation of the flood waters of the Brazos River and carrying adequate safeguards for the upper reaches of the stream.

DEAN BROTHERS WIN TWO GAMES EACH TO GIVE CARDS SERIES

Thanks to the Dean Brothers, those farm boys from Oklahoma and Texas, the St. Louis Cardinals, pennant-winners of the National League, blasted out four wins out of seven games against the Detroit Tigers of the American League and won the 1934 baseball championship of the world. The deciding game came Tuesday of this week, when the Cardinals, behind the superb pitching of Dizzy, senior of the famous Dean duet, sent the Tigers down to defeat by the ignominious score of 11 to 0. To add insult to injury, the defeat was on Detroit's own grounds.

The story of this year's World's Series is inescapably a story of the Dean boys. It was behind their pitching that the Cardinals won all four of their games. Each Dean won two.

Dizzy pitched his team to victory on opening day, Wednesday of last week at Detroit. Detroit took the second game behind the superb mound work of Schoolboy Rowe, pride of Detroit. Then down at St. Louis, Paul Dean easily pitched his team through to a win in the third of the series.

Detroit dramatically upset the dope by turning around and winning the next two—Saturday and Sunday, behind the mound work of Auker and Bridges, the latter somewhat of an anemic from which the Tiger management frankly did not expect much in the World's Series.

St. Louis trailed up to Detroit for the sixth and seventh games, somewhat bewildered. On Sunday, during the fifth game of the series, Bridges had defeated the Cardinal's ace, Dizzy Dean. It left St. Louis groggy and the Deans thoroughly sore.

Paul went to the mound for St. Louis against the Tigers in the sixth game. He raged vehemently that he was out for revenge. The Terrible Tigers had beaten Brother Dizzy. The Dean tradition must be purged. Evidently he meant what he said, for he went into the box and easily pitched his team to a 4 to 1 victory.

Then, not to be outdone by Kid Brother Paul (Daffy), Dizzy came back Tuesday and pitched the seventh and final game to a dramatic conclusion. He thus handed Detroit one of the worst defeats, in point of runs, any World's Series team ever suffered.

Ten years ago Dizzy Dean was picking cotton in Oklahoma at 75 cents per hundred and glad to have the job. Three years ago Daffy was helper at a San Antonio service station. Today the Deans are the kingpins of American baseball and the idols of St. Louis.

FARM PRICES ADVANCE TOWARD PARITY, 1933-'34

Stacked coins show additional returns per crop unit to cooperating producers in benefit payments on domestic allotment or other portion of crop designated in contract

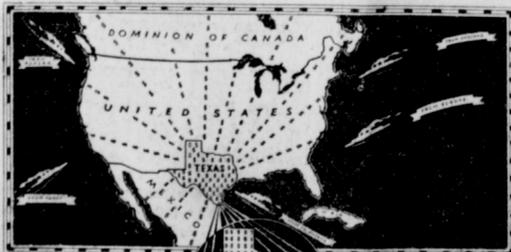

The real price (farm price plus benefit payments) that farmers are receiving for their allotted production of major farm products in terms of parity shows marked improvement. The figures along the parity price line of the above graph represent the amounts per unit farmers must receive, however, before their products will have as great exchange value as they did in the parity years, 1910-14. The increase in real prices since March 15, 1933, and the proportion of the real price farmers are receiving on designated portions of their crop in the form of benefit or rental payments under agricultural adjustment contracts are shown.
