ASHTOLA VOTES ON REBUILDING

TRUSTEES TO DECIDE IF SCHOOL SHOULD COST $9,000 OR $12,000.

At a community meeting held Monday evening in the Ashtola teacherage, the community voted unanimously to rebuild the school which burned recently.

Citizens from all parts of the community were present and voiced their opinions concerning the construction of a new school building.

A total of $9,000.00 in insurance was collected and these funds will be used to rebuild. However, it was left entirely to the school board to decide whether or not a $9,000 or $12,000 building should be built. Opinion of those present indicated that the citizenship of Ashtola would desire to rebuild a $12,000 structure.

Trustees D. W. Tomlinson, J. M. Graham and Van Knox, together with County Superintendent G. W. Kavanaugh, had charge of the meeting.

A meeting of the trustees will be held this week and building arrangements, together with final decision upon the cost of construction, will be made.

INSPECTOR PASSES APPROVAL ON CJC; WOULD OMIT FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

W. A. Nelson, college examiner from the State Department of Education, was in Clarendon Monday inspecting Clarendon Junior College and after checking thoroughly all departments in the college, reported that he had no criticisms to make on the manner in which the departments were being conducted or the equipment.

However, Mr. Nelson suggested that next year the department of foreign language be dropped from the curriculum as during the past two years, five new courses have been added and are required along with other required courses to obtain an elementary certificate on two years college work. Under the present ruling, nine of the ten courses to obtain a certificate are required, so therefore as the majority of students attending Clarendon College plan to teach there is no chance for them to take a course in foreign language along with their required subjects.

Heretofore, upon visiting Clarendon College, Mr. Nelson has carefully checked scholastics to determine whether or not Clarendon met regulations in regard to attendance, but due to the increase in enrollment this year, he speedily placed his approval on that requirement.

The building was erected in 1890 by Troutman Bros., contractors with Bulger & Rapp architects. Jas. Kilfoil was construction superintendent. County Commissioners were H. W. Taylor, Robt. Sawyer, Wm. Beverly and C. Goodnight, while B. H. White was judge.

A WASTEFUL HABIT

One of the most wasteful and exasperating habits of modern days, is that of being chronically late for all engagements and public meetings.

It is wasteful because it wastes the time of one or more persons who must wait until the late comer appears, if it is a committee meeting, or something as inconsequential as a luncheon engagement or golf match. In case of public meetings, even if the meeting can go on without the late comer, his arrival breaks into the train of thought in the meeting, oftentimes creating an awkward disturbance to those who had the breeding and courtesy to be on time.

Of course, this criticism doesn't apply to those who are unavoidably delayed—and there are a few isolated bonafide cases of this kind—but those who deliberately trifle away the time and patience of their friends and neighbors certainly should have a rough reminder—if it takes a rough one—of the wasteful, discourteous habit they have drifted into, so that they might make contacts with their fellows more pleasant, and improve their own standing and esteem.

Be on time—you have no right to deliberately waste the time of your friends and associates.

HOW WE KNOW THE VALUE OF THE NEWS' SERVICE

Sometimes we have a person to ask us the fair question as to how we know people read the Clarendon News, and appreciate its services to the public. We answer:

—Because almost every day some publicity seeker comes to this office asking for insertion of publicity, either of selfish aim, or for some organization he represents.

—Because in political years—and in off years, too—candidates and would-be candidates appeal to us for space and not-too-thinly veiled stories about them, personally, and of their record and claims.

—Because every week, some subscriber, whose paper failed to reach him by error in our office, in the mails, or other cause nearer his place of business comes in to report it and asks for another paper (which we gladly furnish).

—Because we often have those who are unfortunately implicated in some wrong-doing, drop in to request us to keep all mention out of the News. Some have even threatened about it.

—Because advertisers of the most well-established firms, use News advertising columns for profit—not for any other reason—and do it year after year.

—Because users of small, inexpensive want ads testify to the uniform and continuous results of such advertising.

—Because people come in every week to tell us they appreciated—or didn't agree—with some editorial expression of The News.

—Because people are big and broad enough to differ with the general attitude of The News on morals and politics and still want the paper because it prints the home news, fights for the good of Clarendon and Donley County—because they realize that it stands always for the moral, educational, economic, agricultural, and cultural development of this county and its fine people.

—Yes—thousands read The News thoroughly every week—we know they do for they say so and prove it by their actions and their financial support.

A REAL OBITUARY

Anyone of us would be proud to have an obituary that rings with as much truth and sincerity as that written for a Canadian sheep-dog:

A gentleman has just passed on.

He was kind and courteous, respectful to his superiors and indulgent to his inferiors.

He had courage without bluster and pride without vaunting.

He was a loyal friend and a devoted companion.

He never picked a quarrel nor fled from a fight.

He loved children and delighted in their enjoyment.

He was generous and never critical.

He was full of the joy of living.

His name was "Hurley" and he was a sheep dog, eleven years old.

He lived happily, died serenely and left a volume of satisfying memories.—Minneapolis Press.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin. — Entering the final quarter of the four-month legislative relay, the 45th legislature this week neared a crisis that ought to give a pretty fair idea of just what it is going to accomplish, as the senate took up the Mauritz tax remission bill, which would give back to the counties all save the constitutional state ad valorem levies for a period of five years. If the tax remission bill is passed, the state general fund will undoubtedly have to be substantially bolstered with new funds from some source. If it fails, then the senate, which has been pursuing a "watchful waiting" policy, will be ready to begin work on the house's taxation program, now virtually completed.

House Ends Tax Efforts

The house has passed and sent to the senate the 6-cent oil tax, a sulphur tax increase bill, a small natural gas tax increase, and last week wound up its tax efforts by passing the Jones franchise tax bill, after drastically reducing its rate of increase on corporation franchises from 1200 per cent to about 700 per cent. The entire program, as passed by the house, would yield about $18,000,000 annually of new revenue; with most of this coming from oil, which now bears a 2 1/2 cent tax. But even the most optimistic observers here do not think the senate will let the house's oil levy stand. Yield of both the oil hike and the franchise measure, will be substantially cut down, if and when the senate passes them. The gas and sulphur increases were so small as to yield only negligible revenue.

Would Inject Sales Tax

When the senate quit for the week early, so its members could go to a baseball game—the sales tax advocates were seeking to tie up the tax remission bill with a constitutional amendment offered by Sulak of LaGrange, imposing a 2-cent sales tax for pensions. Clint Small and John Redditt opposed to make the county tax remission effective only if the sales tax amendment is adopted. Such action would release to the general funds about $10,000,000 of special taxes now allocated to the pension fund, thus maintaining about the present income for the general revenue fund.

House to Probe School

Aroused by the action of Rep. Jap Lucas of Athens, who summoned by collect telegrams, 800 school officials to pack the galleries while the house debated the deficiency appropriation to aid rural schools until the beginning of the next fiscal year, the house voted overwhelmingly to investigate expenditure of the rural aid fund during the last two years, directing its committee to ascertain truth or falsity of repeated charges that State Superintendent L. A. Woods has discriminated in expenditure of the rural fund, and has used it to build up a vast political machine. The criticism of Woods on the house floor followed lines similar to that voiced in a report of a senate committee which delved extensively into the state school setup, and recommended that the state superintendent's office should be made elective by the board of education, instead of by the people, as at present. Woods is serving his third term as superintendent. Then the house passed and sent to the senate the rural aid bill, carrying an appropriation of $1,080,000 supplemental rural aid funds.

Race Repeal Doubtful

With the senate calendar seriously jammed, opponents of race horse betting repeal have failed in five attempts recently to get the bill, far down on the calendar, set for special order, and its passage by the senate now appears very doubtful. The senate, maneuvered into a vote once on the issue, voted 21 to 8 to repeal betting. The truth is, there are half a dozen or more senators who, if forced to a vote, will vote to repeal betting because they know the people of their district demand it. But they are lending their aid to the lobbyists seeking to prevent the bill coming up again, because at heart, they are not repealists. It requires two-thirds vote to set the repeal bill for special order, and several senators who voted ones for it, have voted with the anti-repealists repeatedly since, to prevent the issue coming to the floor again.

New Dealer Wins

Lyndon Johnson, 29, former NYA director for Texas, and previously secretary to Congressman Richard Kleberg of Corpus Christi, was an easy winner of the 10th district congressional race, and succeeds the late veteran, James Buchanan. Johnson's victory was interpreted as an overwhelming endorsement for Roosevelt and his supreme court reform plan. He was outspoken on the issue, and although four other candidates endorsed the Roosevelt program with varying degrees of emphasis, Johnson ran far ahead of all. Polk Shelton and Sen. Houghton Brownlee, both of Austin, and both anti-court change candidate, trailed far behind. Johnson, youthful, vigorous, keenly intelligent and experienced in Washington, ought to be a valuable addition to Texas' splendid congressional delegation.

Notes

Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul hoped to get up his constitutional amendment, calling for a $3,000,000 appropriation to carry on a five-year national advertising program for Texas, in the house this week. The senate passed it, and, if approved by the people, many believe it will be the greatest factor in modern times to promote industrial and tourist development of Texas. . . . Doyle Settle, youthful house member from Lubbock County, has told friends that he expects to be a candidate for state commissioner of agriculture next summer. Settle, highly regarded by his colleagues, is a past president of the Young Democrats of Texas. . . . Passage by the senate of a hurriedly drafted bill by R. A. Weinert of Seguin to make participation in a sit-down strike in Texas a felony offense, drew the wrath and active protest of every labor representative in Austin. The representatives of A. F. of L. unions—which oppose the sit-down strike—declared Weinert's bill would deprive labor of every right it has gained in 50 years, including the right to strike, or to picket peacefully and lawfully. They expect to defeat the measure in the house, after present sit-down publicity has quieted somewhat.

Rev. and Mrs. T. S. Barcus, and Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Landreth, and Sam M. Braswell attended the state-wide gathering of Methodists in Fort Worth this week, going Monday and returning Wednesday. Gipsy Smith, world-famed evangelist, was one of the speakers on the program together with other notable leaders and bishops of the church.

need more intra-mural activities. Softball leagues, volleyball teams, tennis and tournaments could be worked out very effectively and profitably if a movement in this direction was started.

interested in such a program should see Mr. Drennan of Mr. Burton immediately.

Seniors Celebrate Kid Day Monday

Monday, April 12, was celebrated by the seniors as kid day. Long curls, short dresses and trousers, bow ties, and socks were worn, and gum and suckers were very much in evidence.

Most of the costumes were very kiddish. Marian McCormick was a tom-boy in overalls and straw hat. Lillie Jewel Barnes wore a sailor dress and carried a large doll. Mildred Talley wore a white organdy with red trimming; Jeanne McDonald had Shirley Temple curls and ruffles; Joan Thompson's costume was of red and white stripes. The boys had very clever costumes. James Bartlett mixed his colors with a bright yellow shirt and socks, red tie and handkerchief and white knee trousers and hat. His suspenders were the cause of much grief to James and fun to everyone else.

Playing dolls, shooting marbles and pistols, spinning tops, skating and bicycle riding, not to mention chewing gum and eating fruit and suckers were the pastimes of the senior kids.

The day was fittingly ended by a party at the Parish House. Kid games, Little White House over the Hill, a modern spelling bee, drop the handkerchief, winkum, knocking for love and snap occupied the time until a fairly late hour when pink punch and cake were served. Popcorn and suckers were also served during the party. Charlie Murphy, a sailor lad, and Rebecca Welch, dressed in brown linen, were chosen as the most typically dressed kids. Members of the faculty present included

C.H.S. Teams Lose At District Meet

Clarendon high school representatives were eliminated in the tennis and volleyball matches at the district meet Saturday at Pampa.

The girls' volleyball team, coached by Miss Berry, was eliminated in the semi-finals by Booker, the team that beat LeFors in the finals. The C.H.S. girls won their first match from White Deer in a very hard-fought match. In the morning round, it was thought that White Deer had won two games to one, but it was later found there was an error in the score, so White Deer and C.H.S. played one more game to determine the winner and C.H.S. won 16-14.

Billie Cooke, Jessie Cornell, J. D. Swift, Jr., accompanied Glenn Allison, tennis coach, to Pampa for the tennis events. Billie Cooke, singles, won his first match from Perryton, but went down in the semi-finals match to Craig of Spearman, 6-1, 6-4. Craig, Spearman, then won over Bob Childress, Pampa, in the finals by the count 6-1, 6-2, 4-6, 4-6, 3-6. Jessie Cornell and Junior Swift lost their first doubles match to Borsper by score of 4-6, 5-7. Panhandle won the boys' doubles from Derizet in the finals.

All band members are urged to be present at the next practice session Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

LIBRARY NOTES

(By Mrs. C. A. Burton)

The citizens of Martin's Ferry, Ohio, celebrated the 100th birthday anniversary of William Dean Howells there on March 1st. The house in which he was born was destroyed sixty years ago, but there are plans to erect a monument in memory of this famous author, whose books have almost become American classics.

Edgar Allan Poe's fame has grown with the years, and many places in Baltimore, New York, Virginia and Philadelphia are held sacred to his memory. He lived in a three-story brick house in the latter place from 1842 to 1844 and here he wrote "The Gold Bug", "The Raven", and other stories and poems. This house was recently sold at auction for $7,000 to Richard Gimbel, who will present it to the city for a memorial.

Eugene O'Neill received the representatives of King Gustav V in a hospital in Oakland, Calif., where they came in February to award the Nobel prize to him. O'Neill was there recovering from an operation at the time. He received a gold medal and a diploma in addition to the cash prize of $40,000.

The winner of the 1933 Pulitzer prize with his poem, "Conquistador", Archibald MacLeish, a graduate of Yale, has recently been appointed "poet in residence" at Princeton University through a grant from the Carnegie corporation. Mr. MacLeish will lecture on literature and confer with undergraduate students who are interested in creative writing.

A member of the faculty of the State University of North Carolina, Dr. Archibald Henderson, who is authorized biographer of George Bernard Shaw, has presented to Yale University his entire collection of Shavian of more than one hundred volumes, covering a period of more than thirty-five years.

The eleventh annual Jewish book week in America will be observed this year from April 25 to May 2. Special efforts will be made by the Jewish pulpit and press to emphasize the importance of books and learning in the life of the Jew. Special emphasis will also be given to peace literature, as has been done in the past by Jewish leaders.

As the season advances, travel books are being widely advertised and at more reasonable prices. The Newman Travel library is making a much better price on its "Seeing London", "Seeing Russia", and practically all of Europe.

Robinson Jeffers, winner of one of the four book-of-the-month club fellowship awards offered to little known but worth-while authors, will have a new book of poetry on the fall lists. He calls it "Such Counsels You Gave to Me". Mr. Jeffers has twin sons in the University of California, and he says the prize award is very welcome for tuition bills.

Peter Freuchen, author of "Arctic Adventure" has arrived in this country from London for an extensive lecture tour.

Edwin Markham, who in a former generation started the literary world with his poem "The Man With the Hoe", has recently been officially declared incompetent to manage his property by a court in Brooklyn "by reason of old age, loss of memory and understanding". He is 84 years old. His property consists of $40,000 in personal property, $12,000 in real estate, and an annuity of $5,000 from the Academy of American Poets.

Josephine Johnson, who three years ago won the Pulitzer prize with her first novel, "Now in November", has written a second book, "Jordanstown". Miss Johnson shows herself a crusader in this latest story, championing the cause of the "underdog", the worker, to whom injustice is done. The critics do not find the story comparable with her first. We have "Now in November", but not her latest book.

Byrum Haile, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Haile, together with his wife and daughter, Jeanne Ann, returned last week to his Amarillo home from Marlin, where he received medical treatment. His condition is greatly improved and he has entered business college in Amarillo, where he will complete his course in one month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Patman, Mrs. Wm. Patman, Miss Ruth Patman and Miss Mantie Graves spent Sunday in the Palo Duro Canyon. Early Sunday evening, 1330 cars with an average of four persons in each, had been admitted into the scenic Palo Duro park.

"THE ODYSSEY OF MRS. BROWN"
 BY J. C. MATTHEWS
 State Department Director, P.-T.A.

This week The Clarendon News starts a continued story for the Parent-Teacher Association, which is entitled "The Odyssey of Mrs. Brown", which has interestingly been prepared by the Texas Curriculum Program for P.-T.A. by J. C. Matthews, state department director. Each week for the next ten weeks a chapter of the story will appear.

This story is used in the hope that through it and the avenue it may open to the thoughtful parent, a better understanding of the school's purpose, problems and plans, and a closer relationship between the home and the school may be developed. While the story of Mrs. Brown is fiction, the picture of conditions and their possible solution, as is presented here, is true to life.

Chapter One. The Journey

The streaming prairie landscape slackened its speed and through the window, Mrs. Anna Brown saw the first scattered dwellings and buildings of Edensburg float by. Then suddenly the train was at the station, and Mrs. Brown stepped down to the brick platform into the soft brilliance of a fall day in Texas.

But Mrs. Brown gave little thought either to the weather or to the quiet little town, with its one paved street and neat little houses with green lawns and flowers. Clara, her elder sister, was gravely ill.

Mrs. Brown found that Clara had passed the crisis the previous night, and crinkly-eyed, little Dr. Lawrence was optimistic for the first time in nearly a week. Anna Brown sighed with relief, and settled herself to the endless task of looking after the family.

"Now, don't wear yourself out, Annie," said her hardware-selling brother-in-law as he left for the store. "All three of the children are big enough to look out for themselves, and when they come home from school, don't let them get in the way." He hesitated and then, in answer to Anna's expectant look, added: "Elsie's been complaining about some of her lessons. Maybe you could do something about that, since your own Bobbie is just about her age." She was immersed in household tasks—the thousand and one things to be done and that are usually left undone when the mistress of the home is ill—when the two boys, Tom and Allen, and little Elsie came home from school.

The boys, fifteen and thirteen, respectively, were in high spirits, and throwing down their books, rushed out to the neighborhood baseball diamond. But Elsie, eleven, drooped like a dusty flower. Amid tears, she poured out her tale of juvenile woe.

Her fifth grade class at school, among many other things, was studying history—and Elsie had no memory for dates. The account of the Civil War has been extremely trying, she said. She simply couldn't make the jig-saw puzzle of those dates, battles, new states, new laws, etc., fit together into a harmonious whole.

"I study every night, Aunt Anna," the child said dejectedly. "Yet when I get to school in the morning it all seems a muddle in my head."

Anna Brown didn't know quite what to say since Elsie's was a new problem to her. Bobbie's complaints were not in the scholastic vein. But she knew that brown-eyed little Elsie looked to her for help. She must do something.

Miss Robinson, Elsie's teacher, met Anna Brown in the corridor outside her room in the venerable two-story, red brick building that housed all the elementary grades in Edensburg.

"My history class is just now beginning," said the teacher, "and I should be glad to have you visit it. After that, I have my rest period, and we shall be able to talk over Elsie's problem."

From the rear of the classroom Anna Brown surveyed the rows of small heads in front of her attentively. Visions of her own childhood and the long days spent in the classrooms eddied back through half-choked channels of memory. Yes, there were almost the identical yellow maple desks, almost the same globe on the teacher's desk, the same maps on the wall, the pictures of Washington and Stephen F. Austin, the blackboards with their wobbling lines of childish scrawl.

Anna Brown's meditative eyes came to rest upon the assemblage of heads and backs before her.

Quickly she discovered Elsie, whose desk was near the back. The child, as did all others in the room, glanced back, gave her aunt a single, timid smile of greeting and then steadfastly kept her eyes riveted on Miss Robinson.

"For tomorrow," said the teacher from her desk, "study the next chapter in the book, and write out the answers to the first ten questions at the end. Now, books closed, please, and we'll begin the recitation."

The day's lesson was on the admission of new states to the Union. As the first question, Miss Robinson asked Johnny to give the date of the annexation of Texas. Johnny knew; it was 1845.

"That's right," said the teacher. "And now, Alice, what was the first state west of the Mississippi to be admitted to the Union?"

Alice thought deeply, and finally decided it was Illinois.

"No," replied Miss Robinson, shaking her head. "James?"

James, who was more comfortably known as Jimmie, fidgeted, then shook his tousled red head.

Miss Robinson's eyes glinted and came to rest on Elsie.

"Now, Elsie," she said, "Tell me the right answer."

"1820," said the child in a muffled voice.

The teacher's eyes met those of Anna Brown in a look that seemed to say: "There you are! Aren't they terrible?"

Anna Brown didn't know, but she was beginning to entertain some troublesome doubts. She knew why Elsie had said "1820".

The weary recitation dragged on to an unaltered close, which came earlier than usual that day because, as Miss Robinson rather acidly put it, "the class quite evidently has been studying everything except history", and set her young charges to reviewing the same lesson for the remainder of the period. Anna Brown thought she detected a slight tremble in Elsie's chin. When the bell rang, she was joined by the teacher, who sank into a chair with an audible sigh.

"You see how it is, Mrs. Brown,"

DECISION GOES TO THE Bag
 ... ON POINTS

The first three rounds were a draw between the two favorites: Coffee-in-Bags and Coffee-in-Other-Containers. In the first round, the quality of the two was the same. In the second, both had the same oven-freshness. In the third, fragrance and flavor were uniform in both. But in the fourth...

Coffee-in-Bags won the decision on price!

When the housewife finds that Admission Coffee in the moisture-proof Cellophane bags is the same fresh, fragrant, delicious coffee as that packed by other methods, she will certainly choose the bag at about 4c the pound less. Methods of packaging, plus Admission's fast truck delivery service, assure her of an equally good coffee at a more economical price.

Buy it in the bag and save the difference.

Admission Coffee comes packed three ways: vacuum glass jars, slip-covered tin cans, and in triple-sealed Cellophane bags.

Romance Brews Trouble

Apparently, this picture was snapped just a moment before Ida Lupino's left landed resoundingly on Ralph Bellamy's cheek in a scene from Columbia's new comedy, "Let's Get Married", showing Saturday Prevue, Sunday and Monday, April 17, 18, 19, at the Pastime Theatre. Walter Connolly, who portrays Miss Lupino's father in the film, seems to be enjoying the goings-on. Reginald Denny and Raymond Walburn also enact prominent roles in the screen farce, which was directed by Alfred E. Green.
