War On 'Hoppers' Still Going On

Forty-five farmers and ranchers attended the grasshopper control meeting held by County Agent H. M. Breedlove on the night of June 16th at the court house in Clarendon. Breedlove went over the entire program and discussed the aid that might be available from the state. County Judge R. E. Drennan and Breedlove met with Governor Price Daniel at Dumas on the afternoon of June 16th and heard the program discussed on the state level. Breedlove was spokesman for the counties in the southeastern Panhandle and requested the governor to extend aid to row crop farmers and ranchers in this section. The governor said that no state funds were available at this time but that he was requesting the highway department to spray their right-of-ways in these counties. The federal aid at this time is in seven north plains counties where the migratory hopper is invading fields and pastures and is restricted to range land only. The governor said if any aid was possible that it would be extended to other counties as soon as possible.

Donley County has gone forward with their spraying because we can not wait and be eaten up by the hoppers. In the meeting Monday night, approximately thirty thousand acres of pasture and farm land was signed up to be sprayed by plane with Mr. Rudolph Campbell. He started flying the land on Tuesday morning. Farmers are running ground equipment all over the county and this will be a county-wide effort to get rid of the hoppers. The county judge and the commissioners court are working close with the county agent to do all in their power to assist in the war against the hoppers. Breedlove warns not to spray in the middle of the day when the temperature is eighty degrees or over because the aldrin will lose some of its strength in the air. Be sure you get at least one pint of aldrin to the acre and spray on green vegetation.

Spraying has been underway in the county for the past month. Ground equipment has been used from the start; however spraying by airplane has been used during the week.

City Warns Against Burning Trash

Mayor H. T. Burton reported this morning that four grass fires have been set this week from burning trash barrels. Each of these could have been disastrous fires had the fire department not reached them in time, he added.

We are asking all residents to not burn trash in your barrels. Leave it for the City Garbage Truck to empty, or if you feel that you must burn your trash, be sure you have a good screen cover to keep the fire in the barrel. The same request goes for burning trash piles. Do not burn unless well guarded, the Mayor pointed out.

Ashtola Consolidates With Local Schools

In the election held last Saturday, Ashtola residents voted 2 to 1 to consolidate with the Clarendon Independent Consolidated School District. The vote was 22 for consolidation with 11 against. Here in town the vote was 59 for and none against the consolidation of the two districts.

As part of the consolidation procedure, a bond assumption election will be held on Monday, July 7th. This is a formality that is always required by the state. Voters of the district which now includes Ashtola, will cast their ballots at the local School Tax office.

The big celebration is only two weeks away and plans are moving along swiftly to make this the grand-daddy of them all. Bob Head, president of the Outdoor Entertainment Association, reports all committees functioning as per schedule and is urging all citizens of Clarendon and this area to cooperate by accepting the job or jobs they are called on to perform.

Ray Palmer is in charge of the Box Seat sales for the Rodeo again this year and says he is ready to sign you up for the box you prefer for all performances. There are six seats in each box and the total charge for all four performances is only $18.00. Drive by or call Palmer and let him know your needs.

Pete Borden is in charge of the parking spaces around the arena again this year also. Pete has his parking spaces all mapped out and is ready to set you up a stall for all four performances for only $3.00.

J. G. McAnear and R. E. Drennan are still rounding up entries for the big parade. If you plan to prepare something or will prepare some type of entry, contact either of these men and let them know right away.

Tickets are now on sale for the big pre-western week dance which will be held the night of June 26th at the Legion Hall. This particular dance is being sponsored by the Association and is the opening event of the Celebration. All business and professional men, employees, etc., will don their western garb for the dance and everyone will go western from that time on thru the celebration dates. The Mello-Aires orchestra of Pampa will furnish the music for the dance and this band has a top rating for playing the type of music you will enjoy. You can purchase tickets from any of the Association directors and we understand a canvass of the business section will be made prior to the dance date. (Remember too - the horse tank will be put into action for the non-cooperative at this time also. Jr. Spier and the Chamber of Commerce will be in charge of this part of the pre-celebration activities.)

If the reaction of the people is favorable the plan for the proposed pool will be given in detail, with reference to size, cost, operation, etc., and a petition will be circulated for the purpose of calling for a municipal election to finance the pool. GABIE BETTS BURTON LIBRARY NOTES

By May L. Prewitt

Some of the Tom Goodner memorial books have arrived for his shelf. They were purchased by a memorial donation recently given. The ones received at present are: "Tomahawk, Fighting Horse of the Old West" by Thomas C. Hinkle, The boys and girls all appreciate anything that Hinkle writes. Another for this shelf is "Exploring Earth & Space." These science books are all popular. This one is by a woman scientist, Margaret O. Hyde.

For the Mrs. Sella Gentry memorial shelf, we have "Call of the White Fox" by Willis Lindquist. This story is well written and informative concerning the life and superstitions of the Eskimo people. Mark, who tames the white fox, finds many difficulties confronting him. "Strange Plants & Their Ways" by Ross E. Hutchins is rather a treatise on Botany. "Palomino Girl" is a delightful book for teenage girls. Even adults could appreciate it.

The R. L. Tolberts gave the Library "The Three Musketeers" in memory of Mr. W. J. Richerson.

Someone gave us "The Boys' Sherlock Holmes" by A. Conan Doyle, and "The Art of Thinking" by Ernest Dimmet.

We purchased "The Gollideans" by Frank G. Slaughter. There are so many demands for recent books, but we haven't made an order recently.

Two other memorial books ordered in memory of Tom Goodner have been received. These are: "The Kid Who Batted 1,000" and "The Lost City." There are some others that are being shipped.

If You Are a Tax Payer Read This

The City Commission is frequently asked why we don't build a swimming pool and various other worth while things that other Cities of this size and a little larger have. You will find the answer below on our bonded indebtedness that we must pay over the next several years. Our bonded indebtedness is not an exorbitant amount for a City of this size.

The trouble is we are paying on four different sets of bonds every year. If these bonds had been staggered so that all the various issues would not come due at the same time, we could handle it very easily, or if any of them were refunding bonds, we could call in these bonds and re-finance them. They are all non-refunding bonds. Before the last issue of $100,000, in 1952, the City had to pay from $8,000.00 to $10,000.00 each year. The total taxes assessed amounts to approximately $34,000.00 each year. We collect approximately $28,000.00 to $29,000.00 each year.) This leaves a very small amount of money for the City to keep up streets, the sewer, water, garbage, fire department, spraying and police protection and to pay the help.

We voted these bonds and they must be paid as they come due. Apparently one of two things must be done. Either we must increase the rate on property or increase the valuation across the board. The Board of Equalization this year did an excellent job we think of equalizing taxes for everyone.

Below is a recapitulation of our obligation on our bonded indebtedness.

STATE NEWS
The Huntsville Item informs us that 58,057 yards of cloth, worth $8,095.18 were manufactured at the Penitentiary during the past month.

We learn from the Columbus Citizen that the Colorado river at that place had risen, up to the night of the 11th, seven feet.

The Belton Independent is informed by a gentleman of experience in the matter, that barley is one of the best small grain crops which can be cultivated, particularly as provender for horses.

The examination of the cadets of the Texas Military Institute, will take place on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th of the present month. The Institution is represented as being in a flourishing condition.

Maj. E. A. Carroll, of Henderson county, who received authority from the Governor to enlist a company of men to serve as Rangers, we learn from the Palestine Advocate, has succeeded in raising about half the number required.

The track on the Central Railroad is finished within half a mile of Hempstead. The road will be completed to that place by the 29th of this month, when a grand barbecue will be given, to which the citizens of the State are invited.

POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES

The Railroad Record, in an able article on the physical development of the United States, make the following calculations as to the probable results of the general increase of population for the next seventy years:

In 1850—23,000,000
In 1860—30,660,000
In 1870—40,800,000
In 1880—54,000,000
In 1890—72,000,000
In 1900—96,000,000
In 1950—290,000,000
In 2000—640,000,000

The wheat crop in this county (very little having been planted), was almost perhaps totally destroyed by the grasshoppers. Oats are most excellent as fine as could be wished; excepting a few, that have been injured by the rust. Corn that which was left of the last planting — perhaps one fourth planted — is now really made; it is being almost in roasting ears. It can not fall much short, if any, of fifty bushels to the acre.

Anecdote of Peter Cartwright — Peter Cartwright, the famous western preacher, whose name is associated with that of General Jackson, and is familiar to thousands of our readers, has been in the city making us a visit. Right well have we and many more enjoyed the old man's flow of soul, his genial humor, and his fund of backwoods life and adventure.

The District Convention met at Lockhart, on Saturday last, pursuant to adjournment. Delegates from Hays, Guadalupe, Bastrop and Caldwell were present. John P. White, Esp., of Guadalupe, received the nomination for the office of District Attorney.

We regret to learn by the last issue of that excellent paper, the Seguin Mercury, that a friend to whom the proprietors entrusted money to buy paper in Galveston, has decamped, and when last heard from was on his way to Baltimore with the funds. As will be seen in another column the Mercury gives a most flattering account of the crops in that section.

We find in the Victoria Advocate the following statistics of Jackson county: White males over 18 and under 45 years of age, 203; under 18, 255; over 45, 78; white females over 18, 213; children under 18 and over 6, 175; slaves, 814, free persons of color, 5. Total population, 1,802. Voters, 228. Number of acres planted in corn, 3,371; wheat, 53; cotton, 2,843; sugar, 33; miscellaneous products, 423. Total number of acres of land in cultivation, 6,724.

Miss Alta Joyce Spires Becomes Bride of Larry Gene Byars

Miss Alta Joyce Spires, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Spires of Lelia Lake, became the bride of Larry Gene Byars of Oklahoma City, son of Mrs. George W. Knight of New Orleans, La., on June 4 in the First Baptist Church, Lelia Lake.

The bride's father, pastor of the Dodson Baptist Church, read the double ring service before an arch entwined with green spruce, jade leaves and white carnations flanked by white candelabra.

Miss Brenda Keel of Carey, maid of honor, wore a dress of pink frosted nylon styled with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and pink bridal satin. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Geneva Thomas and Mrs. Hugh Spires, sister-in-law of the bride, were attired in frosted blue organza dresses identical to that worn by the honor attendant. They carried nosegays of white carnations.

Jerry Spires was best man and usher was John Alf Thomas of Wellington.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Hugh Spires of El Paso, wore a ballerina-length gown of French-imported lace over satin styled with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and long sleeves terminating in petal points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a band of iridescent horsehair braid. She carried a yellow orchid atop a white Bible.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents with Mrs. Dickie Kephart of Rankin and Mrs. Harold Gray of Gould, Ark., presiding. Following a trip to Clovis, N. M., the couple will be at home in Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Byars was graduated from Carey High School, Clarendon Junior College and West Texas State College at Canyon. Her husband is a graduate of Behrman High School in New Orleans and is now stationed with the United States Air Force in Oklahoma City.

Texas Butane Dealers To Meet In Dallas June 25-26-27

When butane dealers from every part of Texas and adjoining states meet in Dallas, June 25-26-27, among those present will be Ray J. Noblitt of the Noblitt Sales Co., Butane Dealer, who plans to take an active part in the three-day Convention of the Texas Butane Dealers Association.

The approaching convention will be the thirteenth of the Association, which is the largest state or regional level organization of liquefied petroleum gas dealers in the nation. Mr. Noblitt has been an active member of the organization for several years and has attended a number of annual, seasonal, and district meetings.

The annual presentation of the Southwestern Butane Exposition will be offered in Dallas coincident to the butane men's convention, Mr. Noblitt said. Many of the nation's leading manufacturers of home appliances using butane or propane as fuel will exhibit their products. This Trade Show has become the largest held by LPG industry groups in any state. It attracts attendance from a number of Latin American countries.

This year, as a feature of the convention, the Texas Butane Dealers Association will award 850 Safe Operator Certificates to employees of LPG dealers of the state. Awards at the 1957 convention were presented to more than 600, and enrolled for the 1958-59 safe operators competition are more than 1200 butane employees. Mr. Noblitt points out that safety in all operations is one of the prime objectives of the Association, which has won high commendation for its continuing accident prevention programs.

During Mr. Noblitt's absence, company operations will be directed by Virgil Siddle Jr., general manager, who has long been a member of the organization.

Pattie Brogdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Brogdon of Amarillo, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Helton.

Unique Charity Needs Your Discarded Eyeglasses

SHORT HILLS, N. J.—Did you know there is a wonderful use for your old eyeglasses? In Short Hills, New Jersey, there is a unique organization called New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., which turns discarded eyeglasses and gold and silver scrap into new glasses for needy people all over the country — without soliciting a penny!

The idea originated with the late Mrs. Arthur E. Terry of Short Hills each year. She worked as a volunteer in a Red Cross depot during the depth of the depression. So many applicants had impaired vision that she collected discarded eyeglasses from her friends in the hope that she could help them. She soon realized that the real need was for new glasses prescribed for each individual.

As most of the glasses in her collection had gold rims, it occurred to Mrs. Terry that they might be a source of income. She consulted a refinery and on being assured that gold rims in quantity would be valuable, began to collect in earnest.

After the founder's death in 1947, the Junior Service League of Short Hills, New Jersey, assumed full responsibility for the project and 45 of its volunteers handle the entire operation. New Eyes is incorporated in New Jersey as a non-profit charitable organization and is endorsed by the Essex County Medical Society, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind and the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

Approximately 180,000 people have been helped by New Eyes in the last 26 years, and in October 1955 the millionth pair of discarded glasses was received. Simple non-astigmatic glasses are sent to medical missions all over the world, good plastic frames are reused, and all the metal frames and gold and silver scrap go to a refinery. Distribution of new prescription glasses is arranged through hospitals and welfare agencies, who are given funds for this purpose. Any hospital or accredited agency will be considered for assistance in the purchase of glasses. Any deserving individual may apply directly to New Eyes for the Needy.

It has sent funds to lonely hill towns in the Deep South and to tiny fishing hamlets far North on the bleak Maine Coast. A letter tells how one little girl, after receiving her new glasses, clapped her hands and exclaimed over the beauty of things as commonplace as green bottles in a grocer's window; how she kept murmuring: "Look, look!" That wondrous word has new meaning to her now. And an old man who wrote to thank New Eyes for his glasses added, "It's so nice to be able to tell the weeds from the vegetables in my garden!"

Demand for the services of New Eyes threatens to exceed its supply of materials, in spite of the fact that over 250,000 pairs of glasses find their way to Short Hills each year. So please round up your discarded plastic or metal framed glasses, odds and ends of jewelry and other precious metal scrap, and ship them off to New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., Short Hills 2, New Jersey.

How Often Should Vision Be Examined?

By James R. Gregg, O. D.
Director of Education,
California Optometric Ass'n.

The rate vision changes depends upon a person's age. No set rule can be applied to everyone. For the utmost in preventive care, once a year would be ideal for eye examinations. But considering practical and economical factors, the frequency can vary throughout life.

Every child should be examined by the time he reaches the first or second grade. Not all have visual defects, but some 25% do.

If the child is found to have a visual problem, he should have a check-up every year during the elementary grades and high school, dependent upon the eye specialist's advice.

The rate of change generally slows down during the teens, though a few cases will continue rapid fluctuations. The college student must watch his vision closely as well as anyone whose work calls for intense and critical seeing.

From age twenty to forty the need for visual examination is dependent upon eye usage. If the occupation requires close work, vision should be tested every two years. Otherwise, if the person is alert for symptoms, it is safe to go five years or more before significant change in the refractive condition of the eye is likely to occur. The person who wears glasses, however, should be guided by the advice of his doctor.

The next twenty years is a period of rapid visual change. The need for bifocals is beginning and to avoid trouble, examination should be made every two years in the average case, sometimes oftener. There is no cause for alarm at what seems to be the sudden and increasing need for glasses.

Beyond the age of sixty-five, focus changes slow down, but now the threat of disease or abnormal function is greater. Lens changes will become less frequent, but no person should go more than two years if he wishes to safeguard his precious sight.

Cowpeas Made the Difference

DONLEY COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Farmers of the Donley County Soil Conservation District are urged to plant some type of soil improving crop this spring. William C. Swindle, technician with the Soil Conservation Service, said that cowpeas can benefit the area in a number of ways.
Swindle says the use of cowpeas as a cover and soil-improving crop is increasing in popularity in this area, especially since we have acreage controls.

Among the more important benefits to be obtained from cowpeas are: an increase in yields of crops that follow; improved tillage of the soil; and coverage of the ground to prevent wind erosion.
The technician says that if cowpeas are mixed and planted with grain sorghums, additional benefits may be expected, such as an increase in the growing crop, and a decrease in the amount of water needed to mature feed because cover from the legumes lessen moisture evaporation in the soil.
He also points out that since cowpeas are higher in protection than any kind of sorghum stalks, a combination of the two make a better feed than the sorghum alone.
Cowpeas can be planted on almost any type of soil in the District, he further explained. The planting rate varies from 8 pounds interplanted with sorghums, 12 pounds planted in rows, to 25 pounds in drills. The seed should be planted from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inches deep. Seed should be inoculated with the proper inoculant prior to planting.
Several varieties of cowpeas are being sold on the market today, the most common being the black-eyed pea. Black-eyed peas can be planted with a regular corn plate, while the smaller seeded varieties such as Brabhams, Chinese Reds, New Era, and Iron Clay can be planted with a milo plate. The practice of mixing milo and cowpeas and interplanting into the same row is gaining in popularity, he concluded.

From the County ASC Committee

JULY 31 LAST DATE TO REDEEM LOAN COTTON FOR 1957

July 31 is the last day farmers can redeem 1957-crop loan cotton. At the close of business on that date the Commodity Credit Corporation will purchase all 1957-crop cotton which is unredeemed at that time. Notice about the purchase of the 1957 loan cotton at maturity of the loans is being given at this time so that producers will have plenty of time in which to redeem their loan cotton before maturity date. Until the close of business on July 31, therefore, producers may either sell their "equity" in the loan cotton or they may redeem it from the loan and then sell it in the open market. At present prices, farmers should be able to dispose of some quantities of cotton at prices that will give some net profits above the loan and charges against the cotton.

ACREAGE RESERVE

The following list of things which you must do to maintain land placed in the Acreage Reserve:

1. Control of noxious weeds. The following weeds must be controlled on your Acreage Reserve land by mowing, shredding, plowing or any other approved farming method usually used on the farms in this area: Bindweed, Sunflower, Russian Knap Weed, Cocklebur, Canada Thistle, Russian Thistle, Morning Glory.

2. No grazing permitted on designated acreage reserve.
3. No harvesting of seed or hay permitted from the designated acreage reserve.
4. No harvesting of crops from the designated acreage reserve.

FARM STORAGE

Farmers should realize that having plenty of storage on their farms pays off in more ways than one. The government's farm storage facility loan program has been extended, making it possible for a farmer to obtain a loan of up to 80% of the cost of a new grain storage structure at 4% interest. The loans run for 5 years and may be repaid in annual installments.

Post Office Box Rent Paying Time Again

Why not pay your Post Office Box Rent by the Year this time and not be bothered with having to pay every three months. It will save you time and trouble and might keep you from losing your Box by not paying the Rent on time each quarter.

The Post Office Department recommends you pay by the year as it is a time saver for yourself as well as the Post Office Department. Ask to pay your Box Rent by the year.

Thanks,
Ray Moore, Act. Dir.

When is a Discount a Discount?

When you buy an item of merchandise, you buy two things: First, you buy the item itself and second, you buy the services which the seller offers with the sale.

Now, if a seller sells consistently at a lower price and still wants to make a profit, he must "cut corners" some place. Usually, the so-called "discount" seller will cut the number of services which normally go with the sale. When this happens, are you really getting a price discount or are you just getting fewer services?

Some "discounts" apparently feel that they can obtain more word-of-mouth advertising and more patronage if they take on the mysterious "discount card" approach. If you want to participate in this play-acting, that is your privilege as a buyer - - - but stop and ask yourself, just why the card idea and what am I getting for it? Here is a check list that you might consider when you start out to buy:

1. Does the seller use the appeal of "discounts" on well known brand-name items to "bait" you into the store where subtle efforts are made to switch you to other and higher priced items, some of which are priced much higher than the same or comparable merchandise in competitive stores?
2. Is the seller an established dealer for the item you are buying? If not, the manufacturer's warranty may be void.
3. Does the seller back up the sale with his personal guarantee? How will he make such a guarantee effective?
4. Will the seller service the item if necessary? What kind of service facilities does he maintain? Adequate service usually requires a staff of trained people.
5. Will the seller deliver the purchase?
6. What about return or refund or exchange privileges if the article proves unsatisfactory?
7. Is credit available to you? And at what cost? Find out, in advance, exactly what credit or "time" will cost you.
8. Is there any assurance of your satisfaction? Are you buying the merchandise or product on an "as is" basis with no recourse or "comeback" on the seller? Or with recourse? An old adage, particularly appropriate, says "If you don't know the merchandise, you had better know the merchant."

Recently I have received a considerable number of letters, particularly from school children, asking me to do with our National Anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner". Confusion seems to exist in some quarters, and a few of the letters urged me to adopt the new "changed version" of the National Anthem, while others expressed their opinion that they wanted it to remain just as they have always known it. Actually, four bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives having to do with the adoption of an "official version" of the Star Spangled Banner, none of which would change the words of the song and only one of which would slightly alter the music. All of these bills were introduced on the premise that there was no official version of the Anthem and, consequently, it was often played and sung with considerable variation. A search of the records reveals that Public Law 823 of the 71st Congress on March 3, 1931, designated the Star Spangled Banner as the National Anthem of the United States, but the law failed to specify the particular version of either the words or music which is to be official. Legislation was introduced in the 84th Congress and reintroduced in the current 85th Congress to establish a standard of both words and music for the National Anthem. I understand these bills were the first legislation in the national Congress to contain music, and each of them includes a full score of the song.

The composer of the music is unknown, and it allegedly came from an old English folk tune. Francis Scott Key wrote the words during the battle of Fort Mchenry on September 14, 1814, the original of which is preserved to this day by the Maryland Historical Society. However nearly all printed sources of the poem are derived from a newspaper account which was set in type by a 14-year-old apprentice the day after the words were written.

This newspaper account contained some major and minor changes from the original and has been the source for some of the confusion which has existed. One of the bills would alter the music of the song in six measures by lowering it to a more singable register. The author of this bill states that most people find the song difficult to sing because of the high notes about "the rockets' red glare" and "land of the free". I must confess that any alteration of the music would not particularly effect my performance of it, since I usually have as much difficulty singing "Os say can you see" as with "the rockets' red glare."

A Judiciary Subcommittee commenced hearings on the bills this week. These hearings were somewhat different from the usual congressional committee hearings, to say the least, in that there were musical performers present and tape recordings of the song were heard in versions all the way from piano and voice to the full Army Band. One of the questioners wanted to know how a layman could tell an official anthem from a clandestine version, and "if he did know the difference and heard someone hit a sour note, should he remain standing or sit down?"

It is unknown at this time if any of the bills will be reported from committee or, if so, their fate thereafter in the House and Senate. It does seem to me that the numerous pressing issues which confront the Congress today should not be sidetracked in favor of less important matters. In my opinion, however, if any of this legislation is adopted, it will not signal a change in the manner you and I have always heard, sung and performed our National Anthem.

DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS
The House last week voted 389 to 0 to give the Department of Defense 38 1/2 billion dollars for the 1959 fiscal year. The House added an amendment which would keep the standing army at 900 thousand during 1959. The House felt, by the tune of 224 votes for to 158 votes against, that the army should not be reduced to the 670,000 figure suggested by the President. In 1955 the Army had 1 million 109 thousand 300; 1 million 25 thousand 800 in 1956; and 998 thousand in 1957. The President first suggested for 1958 a standing army of 1 million, but subsequently reduced his estimate to 900 thousand. He then urged a further reduction to 870 thousand for 1959. The matter was thoroughly debated, both in Committee and before the House, and the conclusion to fix the standing army at 900 thousand for 1959 was well justified. The fact is the Army gets the smallest amount of money from the defense budget, some 8 1/2 billion; the Air Force approximately 18 billion, and the Navy about 12 billion.

The tremendous amount of money involved in the over-all defense picture is one of the bones of contention between the White House and the Congress with relation to the reorganization plan offered by the President. Our military establishment has always been maintained under civilian control through a Secretary for each respective Service. The unification bill of a few years ago setting up the Department of Defense created a single cabinet office of Secretary of Defense, but did not abolish the administrative powers of the Secretaries of each of the Services. The latest request of the President for changes in the bill written by the Armed Services Committee of the House would indicate that the Administration wants to concentrate all power in the Secretary of Defense and leave with the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force limited powers that would be ineffective as against the whims or desires of the Secretary of Defense.

To follow the President's suggestion would be to place in the hands of one man, the Secretary of Defense, almost absolute powers with relation to the military forces of this nation. That power, coupled with the power to control the expenditure of 38 1/2 billions of dollars for the next fiscal year plus carry-over sums, could, and possibly would, create an over-all power in one man that could measurably affect the economy in any section of this country. Although it could be argued that the proposal of the President would not, in itself, set up a Prussian-type of high command, it cannot be successfully argued that the powers placed in one man would not provide a vehicle by which a Prussian-type command could be set up in a very few years and perpetuated for many.

New Column Separates Facts From Fiction

This is to be a series of articles dealing with subjects of general interest connected with the eyes and vision. We hope you do find this column interesting, and if you have any questions on any related subject we will be happy to have you send them in and we will do our best to answer them in this column.

I am undoubtedly prejudiced, but I believe this subject is one of the most interesting topics one could think about because of the many many things we do—and don't do—in accordance with decisions based on what we see, and what we THINK we see, and what we think ABOUT what we see.

Physical vision is made up of two elements—sight and light. Of course, we must have light by which to see, then we must have something with which to see, and last but not least, something with which to interpret what we see. This last job is performed by the brain and unnecessary if there is to be vision. A camera can record on film what it "sees" but doesn't know what to do about it once it's there. Of course, neither do some of us humans, but that comes under the heading of intelligence, and is slightly off the subject. Without the eye to change light into the nerve impulses which are carried to the brain there could be no sight.

This reminds me of a statement which once puzzled me when I was in high school. The teacher said that without the ear there was no such thing as what we call sound. I could not imagine, for instance, thunder would be less thunderous just because no one happened to be present to hear it. It is true, however, since sound is actually created by waves of air beating on the ear drum with the resulting vibrations being carried to, and interpreted by, the brain. If the sound is one we've heard before, such as that of dishes crashing against the wall in the near vicinity of the head as the better half gently reminds us that we were out too late with the boys last night, then we recognize it. But if it reminds one of the "secret sound" heard on a well-known radio program, then it's just so much noise. It is the same with the eye. Light is just another form of energy unless it happens to fall on the specialized nerves of the eye where it is transformed into the nerve impulse which is interpreted by the brain. If light falls on any other part of the body it may be transformed into a sunburn but not into sight.

It seems this girl was so crazy about the service she got from her Phillips 66 Dealer that she'd buy only one gallon of Flite-Fuel at a time... just so she'd have an excuse to come back oftener.

It was rather trying for this Phillips 66 Dealer, considering all the free services he provides for every customer on every visit. Brushing out inside the car, for example. Cleaning the windows all around. Checking the tires, battery, and radiator.

It turned out just about as you'd expect. Such an obliging fellow, she decided, would be a handy man around the house. So she hooked him.

The trouble is, of course, that most Phillips 66 Dealers are so dedicated to their jobs that household chores get short shrift. No moral here for wives. Obvious moral for motorists:

Remember his first great adventure?

With full heart and watchful eyes you helped him enjoy his very first taste of independence.

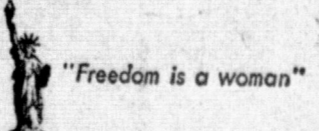

And how proud you were when he achieved his goal, all by himself, and then, laughing, ran to your waiting arms to share his triumph with you!

Nothing you can give your child is half so precious as this wonderful opportunity to be himself. All through life you want him to be free to choose his way.

That's why it's so important to be on the watch for ideas or ideologies that could set limits to his independence. The idea, for instance, that government should own and run more and more businesses, services, institutions. Don't forget that when government runs more and more things, the individual has less and less freedom and independence!

Think of your son's first "independence day" when you hear talk like that. Point out that in countries where government does control almost everything, the individual is controlled, also. And the loss of anybody's independence is a threat to everybody's freedom.

Very much aware of this danger are the independent electric light and power companies, because government already runs part of the electric business. And powerful people are pressing to take over more.

More on the Trouble subject; Some folks have more trouble than others just let less trouble trouble them more.

This week we received a nice letter from O. R. Stark Jr., Cashier of the First National Bank in Quitaque, Texas. You are right, he didn't want to loan a poor guy like myself any money but he did admit that he was a regular reader of this column from the pages of Southwestern Crop & Stock. We appreciated his kind remarks all the more because Mr. Stark is in the writing field himself. He edits a little publication called Comings, Goings, & Doings. He publishes it occasionally and sends it out free. Along with some good information it always has some priceless sayings and good advice tucked in. For instance like the following:

"Tomorrow will be a better day if we begin this morning to improve it."
"The dictionary is the only place where we find Success coming before Work."

Thanks for the nice letter Mr.

Stark, and please keep sending us your little publication.

Psychiatrists tell us that it's not good for a man to keep too much to himself. Funny thing, the income tax folks tell us the same thing.

"If a thing will go without saying, it is usually a good idea to let it."

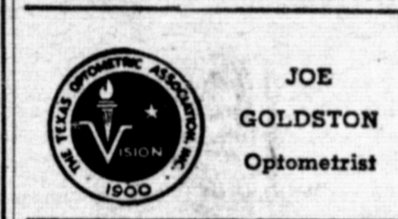

"The trouble with traffic is that pedestrians walk as if they owned the streets and motorists drive as if they owned their cars."

"Kinsfolks and money are relative; the more kinsfolks the more relatives."

Noticed in the paper that several fellows had already volunteered to go on a mission to help our country set up business on the moon. The way the other places have been paying us off lately we wonder why we want any new business. Then, too, sometimes we wonder if these other planets are any of man's business. It just sort of scares us to think about it.

Spring and summer are the times for all sorts of get-togethers; picnics, rodeos, cow calling, and re-unions. We always enjoy going to these goings on. So, if you see a fellow that doesn't look hungry but can certainly deceive his looks, be sure and look the second time cause it just might be us taking seconds at the feed trough. We sure meant to make the Cow Calling at Miami, but couldn't. Next year we are inviting ourselves real early.

Madame Ali Ghito To Conduct Classes In Clarendon

"Tricks and Treats For Teenagers" aptly describes the course of study in eurythmic gymnastics, posture, and personality to be conducted in Clarendon by Mme. Ali Ghito.

A German baroness by birth, Mme. Ghito came to America ten years ago and, for five years now, has been a legalized citizen of the United States. A stage and screen star in Germany, she became an international nurse during World War II, worked with the German Underground and the American Army.

Her formal educational in psychology and eurythmic gymnastics together with her training as an actress and her varied personal experience in war-time Europe adequately equip her for leadership and the teaching of teenagers and adults.

Attractive, personable, and very serious about her work, Mme. Ghito delights especially in the teaching of young people. Her six-weeks course of study and training to begin in Clarendon the middle of June will consist of twelve hour lessons, two each week. Included in the course will be directions for correct posture, walking, and breathing, as well as social amenities and graces tending to enhance the charm, poise, and personality of the young ladies enrolled for lessons.

Mme. Ghito will arrange a conference with her prospective pupils before classes begin to acquaint them with her plans and set up a time and place of meeting for this cultural program.

The parents of Clarendon are extremely fortunate to have this rare opportunity for their daughters to associate with and learn from one so talented and capable as Mme. Ghito. Only because she will be at liberty during the month of June and July, is she able to arrange her busy schedule to include the classes in Clarendon.

If enough older ladies are interested, Mme. Ghito will be glad to plan a series of similar classes for adults.

more drastically than anything since the Terrell election law became effective over a half century ago.

Governor Daniel's proposals are (1) to abolish precinct conventions and, instead, elect county convention delegates at the first primary and (2) to hold primaries in May and June instead of July and August.

Such ideas are grist for mills that grind slowly. They'll be debated, pro and con, at the party conventions this summer and, probably, again by the Legislature next year.

At the June 9 meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee, the resolutions sub-committee will recommend support of the changes. Sub-committee members announced they agreed with the governor that a direct primary vote in the precincts would insure wider participation and do away with the "ugly contests, rump delegations and bitterness" that have characterized Texas party politics all the way to the national convention.

Support from the State Committee was to be expected since a majority of its members are friendly to Governor Daniel.

Opposition is anticipated, down the line, from people who regularly participate in precinct meetings. They or at least some of them—contend the neighborhood gatherings provide the citizenry with a sort of democratic "town hall" experience. Others object to earlier elections on the grounds they would prolong the "lame duck" period for defeated incumbents.

Defenders of the anti-precinct convention plan declare it's the next logical step in a long-range trend. Before the adoption of the Terrell election law, state officials were nominated by political parties at their state conventions.

Beginning in 1907 voters were given a more direct say by the use of one primary and a convention vote if no candidate received a primary majority. In 1918 this was amended to provide the present two-primary system.

for conducting party conventions. The Committee said it did not feel privileged to dictate procedures from the state level to precinct and county officials, "the overwhelming majority of whom can be trusted to function—with the highest ethical considerations." But it said it would recommend a "declaration of principles which will insure - - majority determination" at state conventions.

A "fair play code" has been a rallying cry for the liberal Democrats of Texas led by Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston.

ANTI-TRUST INQUIRY

When a city or county needing supplies or equipment gets sealed bids identical to the fraction of a cent, there's a possibility the bidders got together beforehand and agreed on a jacked-up price.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson says that his office has had several reports of identical bidding. He is making an intensive investigation. Suits will be filed after evidence is complete, probably within six to eight weeks.

Contracts under study involve sales of electric transformers, chlorine for swimming pools, and lime and oyster shell for street topping.

A conspiracy among bidders to raise prices can cost taxpayers in the multi-millions, Wilson commented.

HOLES IN THE NET?

With the state facing a sizable deficit net year, the Senate general investigating committee is seeking to discover if the state is getting all the tax money due it.

Members of the State Comptroller's Department, chief collecting agency, told the committee, in effect, that the collecting net was a little skimpy for the potential catch.

They're way behind in their audits of large companies, said Houston area supervisor Harvey J. McKinzie. Reason, he said, is that low state salaries have caused the staff to dwindle from 14 in 1948 to 5 at present.

An audit, said McKinzie, sometimes results in recovery of large sums of additional tax money.

AUSTIN — Texas Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools is working toward getting a gold star when an economy-minded Legislature hits Austin next year.

Launching a new tight-purse policy, the Board voted to prohibit superintendents of individual state institutions from (1) using leftover funds without Board permission and (2) making any expenditure of more than $1,000 without Board approval.

Sometimes individual hospitals develop surplus funds resulting from smaller patient loads than had been expected, or other reduced costs. New rule puts an end to no-strings-attached spending of such surpluses. These lapsed funds could amount to as much as one million dollars, according to Board Member W. G. Kirklin of Odessa.

CHILL WIND

Hospital Board's move pinpointed the spot where the state's money shortage is expected to pinch hardest—administration of state's services.

A revenue shortage in excess of $100,000,000 by next year has been freely predicted by various authorities for months.

A survey of the platforms of legislative candidates over the state shows a fairly consistent approach by those making statements on the revenue dilemma. General pattern of promises to voters:

(1) Continuation or, often, increase in state obligations for education, welfare payments, road building, soil and water conservation, etc.

(2) Opposition to certain new taxes or sometimes new taxes in general.

(3) Cuts in state spending by "elimination of waste, duplication and needless services by state agencies."

Actual achievement or near-achievement of this fiscal magic will put a real squeeze on every state department.

NOT ME

Likelihood that someone may draw the "black bean" of new state taxes has group after group telling the State Tax Study Commission how overburdened they are already.

A spokesman for the Texas Motor Bus Association told the Commission taxes on that industry are heavy and discriminatory. He said many smaller lines were having to go out of business.

A representative of retired people asked tax relief for people living on pensions.

"We are no longer concerned with saving the goose that lays the golden eggs. Our goose was cooked when we lost our ability to work and earn," said W. B. Wood of Port Arthur.

On behalf of the Texas Association for Tax Relief for Texans over 65, Wood asked for tax exemption for the first $3,000 of property owned by oldsters. He also opposed a sales tax.

Discrimination is charged because the law applies to wholesalers but not to producers who sell only the output of their own flocks. Suit also objects to the provision that makes violations a criminal offense and the requirement that eggs kept under refrigeration for 30 days or more be labeled "cold storage eggs."

REPUBLICRAT

Texas Supreme Court is considering the question of whether a former Democratic candidate is entitled to a position on the Republican primary ballot.

Grover Cantrell, Dallas labor leader and onetime Democratic candidate for the Legislature attempted to file against Texas' only Republican congressman, Bruce Alger. He called himself a "Stevenson Republican," an apparent parody of Eisenhower Democrats.

A lower court ruled that Cantrell, as a member of one party was not entitled to seek nomination in another party's primary.
