Lady Broncos to play area championship game Friday

The CHS Lady Broncos beat Spearman in the bi-district playoff game Tuesday night, February 16, in Pampa. The final score was 63-54.

The Lady Broncos will travel to Amarillo this Friday, February 19, to play Abernathy for the area title. Game time and location were unavailable at presstime.

Complete coverage of the bi-district game and the area game will be in next week's ENTERPRISE.

The Lady Broncos finished their regular season games in Pahandle against the Pantherettes.

The Lady Broncos had a great first quarter in the tough Panhandle gym. Panhandle matched Clarendon bucket for bucket which gave the two teams a tied score at the end of the first eight minutes.

Panhandle picked up their offensive pace in the second quarter. Clarendon did a good job of keeping their fouls to a minimum throughout the first half.

But the Ettes were able to capitalize on 5 of 10 free throws to increase their lead to 8 with five seconds left in the first half. Sophomore Geri Butler took a long 3-point shot at the buzzer that banked in to cut the Panhandle lead to 5 at the end of the half.

The Lady Broncos seemed to have a mental breakdown in the third quarter as they began to throw the ball away and succumb to the Pantherette defense.

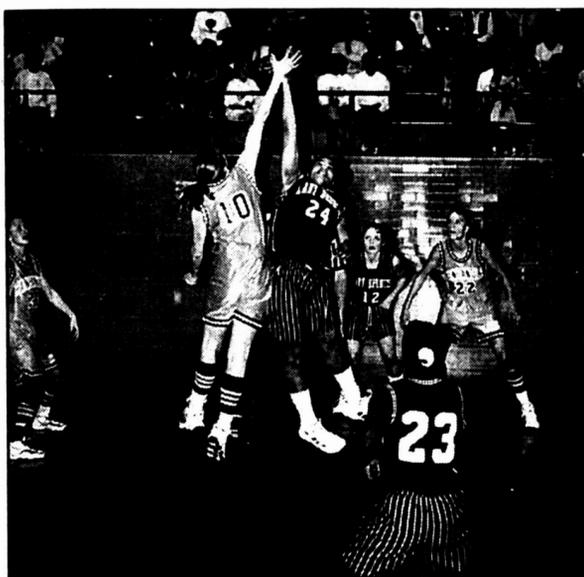

CHS continued to try to catch up in the fourth but could not as they went one for nine from the floor. The Pantherettes went six for nine from the free throw line in the final quarter. Clarendon gave a better defensive effort in the final minutes, but it was not enough. Panhandle won, 60-42.

Scoring for CHS were Geri Butler, 18; Kelley Lemley, 15; April Bryley, 7; and Lindsey Shelton, 2.

"Our second place spot had already been wrapped up, so we wanted to play with all we had," said Head Coach Steve Schmidt. "There was nothing to lose. I think the kids played that way in the first half and that kept it close. But they were probably a little too satisfied with a good half instead of wanting to get after Panhandle for four quarters.

"Our main problem was three players contributed for 95 percent of our scoring. We've got to have some more people involved in the scoring."

Lady Bronco Kim Alexander stretches for the tip off during Clarendon's recent game with Panhandle. Also shown are #12 Kelley Lemley and #23 Geri Butler.

Extension Service planning Health and Wealth Fair

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent
The community will have the opportunity to once again get health and financial information plus receive many free health screenings at the upcoming county health and wealth fair.

Entitled "Be a Champion of Your Health and Wealth II," this event will be held at the Clarendon College campus on Thursday, March 25th, from 11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Sponsors of the event are Community Bank, Donley County State Bank, Herring National Bank, Clarendon College, The Clarendon Enterprise, and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In addition to the community fair, a new 8-week health campaign called "Walk Across Texas" will kick off that evening at 6:30 p.m. at the College tracks. This activity involves teams of eight walkers or 4 bikers/joggers logging miles over the eight-week period. We hope each team taking part in this activity will log in enough miles to reach Houston (535 miles). For those teams walking further than Houston, the next destination point will be the sunny beaches of South Padre Island. This no-cost opportunity provides families, businesses, social and church groups, school teams and others to get into the habit of walking, biking or jogging "for the health of it."

For more information, contact the Donley County Extension office at 874-2141, Virginia Patten or Cennet Rhode.

Don't miss either event, the health and wealth fair, or the Walk Across Texas. Both can make an immeasurable difference in your life!

City sales tax rebates up 11 percent

AUSTIN - State Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander last week delivered $318.2 million in monthly sales tax payments to 1,097 Texas cities and 118 counties, a 9.5 percent over the $290.5 million allocated in February 1998.

"February sales tax rebates reflect holiday season sales by Texas retailers. It appears that retailers had a very good Christmas," Rylander said.

Locally the cities of Clarendon and Howardwick saw their rebates increase. Clarendon was up 11.06 percent for a rebate of $28,753.72, and Howardwick's return of $4,369.91 was a boost of $1,209.98 from 1998. Hedley, however, saw a 15.03 percent decrease for a total of $861.61.

This month's payments include sales taxes collected by monthly filers in December and reported to the Comptroller in January, plus quarterly returns for sales in October, November, and December, and returns from annual filers for all of 1998.

Senate lowers presidential standards

It was a foregone conclusion that our impeached president would be acquitted last week. The man has yet to face the consequences of his actions, and that's why the leader of the free world is called "Slick Willie." His slipperiness has taken our constitutional government to a new level.

On ABC's This Week, the so-called "Dean of the Senate," Sen. Robert Byrd, said before the vote there was no doubt in his mind that Clinton is guilty of the charges brought against him and that those offenses do in fact rise to the level of an impeachable offense.

But Sen. Byrd went on to say that no American president will ever be removed from office when the economy is as good as it is now.

Well, there you have it. Right out of the mouth of one of the senate's most respected members and, more importantly, a respected Democrat. The vote to acquit Clinton had nothing to do with his guilt or innocence and everything to do with the economy. If this had been the malaise days of the Carter years, the president would have been out on his fanny.

I believe it was another respected Democrat, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, who coined the phrase "defining deviancy down" in referring to America's declining moral standards. Last week it was Senate Democrats and a handful of Senate Republicans that "defined down" the standards by which we will measure the president in the future. With their votes to let Clinton off, they have set the bar for removing a president so high that future occupants of the White House can do anything short of treason as long as unemployment is low and the stock market is high.

It is a shame our nation has come to this. We are the most powerful nation on Earth, but many of our leaders lack the courage and conviction to discipline the president.

Can we really look America's school children in the eyes and tell them that in this country no man is above the law?

Meanwhile...

Lost: Several Federal Bridges. If found, please call Uncle Sam. The US Department of Transportation owns some 10,000 bridges across these great United States. But a REASON magazine article cites a recent DOT report finding that the government can't account for nearly half of the bridges it owns.

Of the bridges the DOT can find, nearly a quarter haven't been inspected in the last two years and some that were designated as "should be closed to traffic" were in fact open.

Ah, the brilliance of bureaucracy.

Suiters leaving Clarendon for Amarillo

Dear Editor,

After living in and serving this community and the Church of Christ for nearly eight years, I have accepted the position of minister of the San Jacinto Church of Christ in Amarillo. This was not an easy decision for Margie and me to make, and the next few weeks will be spent saying our good-byes to the many friends we have made over the years.

I just want to say we appreciate Clarendon for enriching our lives and allowing us to serve and be served in so many ways. Our ministry in Clarendon has been a most fulfilling and gratifying experience. We will cherish these precious memories for many years to come.

Sunday, February 28, will be our last day in Clarendon. We will move to Amarillo on Monday, March 1. If the next preacher at the Church of Christ is as well received as Margie and I, were he and his family will truly be blessed people. God bless you all!

Mechanized irrigation serves as important risk management tool

Mechanized irrigation not only allows growers to increase productivity but also plays an important role in managing their risk.

Statistics compiled by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) show lack of moisture is responsible for 47 percent of all crop failures in the U.S. "Center pivot and linear irrigation equipment virtually eliminates the greatest risk to a farmer's business by preventing losses due to drought," says Robert Helms, Dealer Principal at Red River Valley Irrigation, Memphis.

In addition to reducing risk, mechanized irrigation provides precise, uniform application of water to assure optimum plant growth and consistent crop quality. This gives growers the opportunity to maximize their production and return on each acre. It also allows some growers to capture premiums for producing crops of superior uniformity and quality.

Valley pivots and linears can be equipped with the patented Computer Aided Management System control panels to assure precise water application rates and timing. Combined with Valley Base Station software, growers can manage water application from their home or office computers.

"This technology gives the grower more control to optimize productivity in a variety of soil and weather conditions," Helms says.

Helms encourages growers who are interested in learning more about using mechanized irrigation as a risk management tool to contact Red River Valley Irrigation by calling 806-259-2757 or visiting the dealership in Memphis.

Valley products are manufactured by Valmont Irrigation, the world's leader in irrigation technology and manufacturer of mechanized irrigation equipment. Growers may visit Valmont Irrigation's web site at www.valmont.com for more information.

Spend more on defense but also spend smarter

After 13 straight years of real cuts in defense spending, Washington is likely to approve an increase in the defense budget this year. Needless to say, an increase will be welcome and long overdue.

This is particularly true when it comes to military personnel. We are asking our troops to do more and more, but their pay is falling further behind civilian salaries. As a result, it's getting harder and harder to get and keep top quality people.

Last year, the Navy fell 7,000 sailors short of its recruitment goal, and the Air Force is currently short of its goal by around 1,000 pilots. One of the best investments we can make in our military is to spend more on our troops — not only by bumping up pay, but by improving health care and other benefits for active duty soldiers and retirees.

But we'll be selling ourselves short if we believe that money alone will solve all of the challenges our military is facing. We do need to spend more on defense. But we also need to spend this money smarter and in a way that will prepare us for the threats we will face in the future.

This means moving ahead with the development of a national missile defense system. It means doing everything we can to limit the spread of weapons of mass destruction. It means cutting wasteful spending. And it means reshaping our military forces and doctrine so they are geared more toward fighting the wars of the next century, instead of the wars of the past or bureaucratic turf battles of today.

The bottom line is that we still have the best military in the world. But the world is getting more dangerous, and we can never afford to take our safety or our liberty for granted.

Health Hints For Today

Upper respiratory infections making rounds locally

By R.L. Gilkey, M.D.

Upper respiratory infections are making the rounds locally. It starts with runny nose, sore throat, watery eyes, and then a cough that is persistent. Some aching but not much fever is present. Antihistamines and decongestants help as well as a good cough syrup like Robitussin.

There have been a few cases of pneumonia and some influenza, but both of these diseases usually have chills and fever above 101° and more severe aching. So remember if your symptoms become more severe, go to the doctor.

There have been a few sore throats in the schools. Remember simple sore throats can be treated with hot salt-water gargles every three to four hours, and Cepacol or Chloroseptic lozenges or sprays really help the discomfort.

I hope that you had the opportunity to meet Dr. John Howard, Clarendon's new physician at the reception held for him on February 7. I think you're going to really like him and his family. Although they are still unpacking, they have moved in and have fallen in love with our community. They plan to live and raise their children here, so I expect them to be here for a long, long time.

I personally appreciate Dr. Howard's skill since I was ill on my return on February 2. He promptly diagnosed my problem, treated it, and I was almost well by the next day. I am very impressed with his medical skills as well as his personality. You'll find that he is a warm, compassionate physician as well as just a nice person.

His presence in our community means that many of us will no longer have to go out of town for medical treatment. With his training, 95% of most medical problems can be treated right here in Clarendon. Many of you will no longer have to spend the day in the big city just for a brief doctor's appointment.

I think that Clarendon has found the physician we were looking for, and the Howard family has found their home. Thank Heaven.

NRCS works to help preserve natural resources

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) works hand-in-hand with the American people to conserve natural resources on private lands. They help land users and communities approach conservation planning and implementation with an understanding of how natural resources relate to each other and to all of us and how our activities affect those resources.

NRCS is committed to government that works efficiently and is accountable. NRCS has been streamlined, strengthening its regional presence, delegating decisions to the local level, cutting red tape, and above all putting clients first.

NRCS is dedicated to the people, partnerships, and technology that will ensure the future of American agricultural productivity in harmony with a healthy land.

Conservation and productive agriculture are the work of many. No one can do it alone. NRCS relies on its partners to help set conservation districts; local, state, and federal agencies; industry; agricultural, natural resource, and professional organizations; and volunteers.

America's locally run conservation districts are the heart of the conservation delivery system. Districts operate on a fundamental principle that local people know the most about their local needs and communities. Districts and their technical support staffs augment the NRCS' work with local programs with help from county and state conservation agency partners.

Good science and practical technology are at the center of good land management, productive farming, and sound conservation. NRCS is a key source of resource information and technology, using a total natural resources approach to conservation, based upon sound science and ecological principles, that features conservation systems designed for local conditions to sustain and improve soil and water quality by addressing irrigation water management, wetlands conservation wildlife habitat improvement, flood control, and streambank stabilization; NRCS has the technical expertise and six decades of experience to solve natural resource challenges and maintain and improve land users economic viability. NRCS soil and plant scientists, agronomists, water and flood specialists, and erosion and sediment experts are dedicated to providing locally accessible information and guidance for the most efficient use of natural resources.

Farmers and ranchers care for most of the nation's privately owned land. They work voluntarily with NRCS to develop conservation plans and implement systems that protect and improve our natural resources and provide healthy food, a healthy agriculture, and a healthy land.

Urban and rural communities seek NRCS help to identify environmental problems and to devise solutions for conserving water, curbing erosion, and meeting other resource challenges.

Local, state, and federal agencies; policy makers; and land users rely on NRCS for practical, science-based assistance.

Countries around the globe seek NRCS advice to build conservation planning and delivery systems to help them cope with severe natural resource problems and to devise environmentally sound agricultural systems to meet their own future needs.

There are many ways you can give your time and knowledge to help care for our natural resources, support a productive agriculture based on an ethic of stewardship, and ensure a healthy land for future generations. Call 1-800-THE-SOIL for more information on natural resources conservation and volunteer opportunities.

Community Services offers utility assistance

CEAP (Comprehensive Energy Assistance Program) is a Panhandle Community Service program that provides emergency utility assistance for low income, elderly, and handicapped persons.

This year Panhandle Community Services will hold Energy Conservation Workshops throughout the year in compliance with program rules.

These classes are geared to educate clients in budgeting and energy saving methods to decrease utility costs, thereby eliminating their need for assistance. Many clients have received these services repeatedly over the years; therefore, this year's plan from the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs focuses on outreach and serving those in the most need.

Assistance will be allowed only to those families who have been determined by a priority matrix as in the most need. CEAP assistance is not automatic. Attending workshops is not a guarantee of assistance.

Those who wish to apply should call the PCS representative when she is in that area.

When going to an appointment, people need to bring proof of income and the 12-month history for their gas and electric bills. Those applying for the co-payment assistance also need to bring a current bill.

Applicants with young children need to make arrangements for someone to care for the children during the appointment time. Call 806/874-2573 in Clarendon to schedule an appointment.

Band Boosters to meet

Are you one of the 7 out of 8 who have not prepared a will?

When you die you must leave behind everything for which you have worked and saved. The question is, "TO WHOM?" If you have a will, you have already instructed the State, attorneys and judges to act according to YOUR wishes. But if you don't have a will, the State will simply distribute your estate according to law.

Without a Will you let the State determine the disposition of your assets, the welfare of your spouse and the guardianship of your children. Probate costs, taxes and fees increase. What's worse, you rob yourself of the privilege of continuing stewardship through designated gifts.

DON'T MAKE THE MISTAKE OF THINKING:

- only wealthy people need a will
- that drawing a will is too complicated
- or that it is too expensive.

Broncos' season ends in heartbreaker

The Clarendon Broncos went into Tuesday night's game with Panhandle with their backs against the wall. In order to be in third place tie in the district, the Broncos had to beat Panhandle in Panhandle. The Broncos were up to the task and played some of the best basketball they have played all year.

Both teams started off well offensively. Clarendon was led in the first quarter by Carey Thornberry, who had five of his eight points. The Panthers were able to outscore the Broncos in the first by a couple of free throws and led 15-13.

In the second quarter the defense of the two teams started heating up and slowed down the offensive efforts. Panhandle led at the half by three.

The Broncos raised their game to another level after the halftime break. Clarendon's defense held the Panthers to only six points, while the Bronco offense was on fire. Travis Woodard and Sam Holton each hit a big three point shot to help lift the Broncos to a five point lead with eight minutes to play.

Panhandle tried to make up the points they had lost but could not hit from the floor or from the free throw line in the fourth quarter. The Panthers went one for seven from the charity stripe in the final quarter.

The Broncos showed a lot of poise in the final four minutes as they took advantage of several Panther fouls and went 10 of 15 from the line. Clarendon used the clock to their advantage in the final minute and secured the 48-38 win over Panhandle.

Scoring for the Broncos were Travis Woodard, 11; Nathan Sears, 8; Carey Thornberry, 8; Derek Shields, 5; Chris Linquist, 4; Sam Holton, 4; Josh Williams, 4; Junior Rodriguez, 2; and Ben Wilson, 2.

The win on Tuesday night put the Broncos in a three way tie for third place with Quanah and Highland Park. Clarendon won the coin toss and got the bye for the first game. Quanah defeated Highland Park on Thursday night to set up an Indian and Bronco rematch on Friday night.

The Broncos' playoff game was held in Wellington. Clarendon was absolutely on fire from the floor in the first quarter. Derek Shields, Sam Holton, and Travis Woodard each put in a three point shot in the opening minutes of the game. Clarendon led 21-13 at the end of the first.

The Indians offense got warmed up in the second quarter. Quanah was able to take advantage of some Bronco mistakes and made seven of thirteen free throws. Clarendon stayed with Quanah offensively and lead 35-26 at the half.

Quanah came out in the second half ready for a battle. The Indians' Antwain Petty put in two three point shots and went four for four from the line as he scored ten of the Indians' 20 points in the third. The Broncos' offense had good balanced scoring in the third as they scored 15. Clarendon's lead was four points with the final eight minutes to play.

The final quarter was a wild one to say the least. The Broncos maintained their offensive composure and again had a balanced scoring effort. Clarendon lead by 12 with 1:30 left in the game.

Quanah started launching the three point shot and made two while also getting the foul call and making the four point play. With eight seconds left on the clock, the Broncos were up by three. Quanah's Antwain Petty put in another three point shot with four seconds left and also got the foul call. Petty put in the ninth of ten Indian free throws in the fourth to lift Quanah to a one point lead.

Quanah was hit with a technical foul for excessive celebration with the final four seconds left on the clock. Senior Travis Woodard went to the line for the Broncos to try to tie or win the game. He missed both shots. The Broncos set up an inbounds play to try to secure the win. The play did not go as planned, and Sam Holton put up a desperation shot that did not go in the bucket. The Indians came away with a shocking 72-71 win over the Broncos.

"Our kids have come a long way. They really battled against Quanah. They played hard and most importantly played with a lot of class and character. They were pulling for each other and really supporting each other. "This has been a learning year and a building year. I really appreciate the seniors and wish them the best in the future and I challenge the kids that will be returning to begin to work to be the best that they can be," stated Coach Osuna.

Scoring for the Broncos were Travis Woodard, 24; Sam Holton, 15; Derek Shields, 9; Junior Rodriguez, 7; Ben Wilson, 7; Josh Williams, 4; Carey Thornberry, 3; and Nathan Sears, 2. Other members of the Bronco squad were Chris Linquist and D. J. Edwards.

8th Lady Colts win Panhandle Tournament

The Lady Colts finished their basketball season with a three game sweep in the Panhandle tournament this weekend.

The Lady Colts faced Panhandle in their game on Thursday. The Lady Colts were off to a slow start in the first half. Clarendon did not get their offense going well until the second quarter. The Lady Colts led by one at the half.

In the third quarter, the Lady Colts looked like ball players. Clarendon worked the ball well offensively and came back to life defensively. The Lady Colts were up by five at the beginning of the fourth.

Clarendon's pressure defense tightened up in the final minutes and shut down the Pantherette offense. The Lady Colts caused several Panhandle turnovers which turned into Clarendon baskets. The Lady Colts won the game 41-29.

Scoring for the Lady Colts were May Butler, 20; Christine Holden, 9; Brandi Martindale, 4; Lacey Anderberg, 2; Brandi Betts, 2; Chancey Floyd, 2; and Mandy McKinney, 2.

"We had a slow start and some foul troubles early in the game. I think we just didn't have a lot of intensity. But the girls came through when they had to outscore Panhandle 21-10 in the second half," said Coach Steve Schmidt.

Clarendon had another bad start on Friday against Claude. Claude led at the half by a score of 15-11.

The Lady Colts regrouped and came out like a well oiled machine in the third. Clarendon outscored Claude 13-4 in the third to take a five point lead into the fourth quarter.

The Lady Colt defense continued to play well in the final quarter and held Claude to six points. Clarendon won the game 33-25.

Scoring for the Lady Colts were May Butler, 9; Mandy McKinney, 7; Lacey Anderberg, 6; Brandi Martindale, 5; Christine Holden, 2; Brandi Betts, 2; and Chancey Floyd, 2.

Saturday's championship game was against Panhandle. This was the fourth time this year, and the third time in a week that the two teams had faced each other.

The game was nip and tuck throughout the first half. Clarendon did well from the free throw line in the second quarter to go into halftime with a two point lead.

The Lady Colts stayed true to form and dominated in the second half. Lacey Anderberg scored nine of her twelve points in the third quarter to spark the Lady Colts.

Clarendon continued to make crucial free throws in the fourth quarter.

The Lady Colts pressure defense again caused Panhandle to turn the ball over several times in the final minutes of the game. The Lady Colts won the game 44-29.

Scoring for the Lady Colts were May Butler, 14; Lacey Anderberg, 12; Brandi Martindale, 5; Christine Holden, 4; Kinsey Morrow, 2; Chancey Floyd, 2; Mandy McKinney, 2; Ashlee Kidd, 2; and Ronna Edwards, 1. Other members of the Lady Colt team were Crystal Holman, Kelsey McQuien, Brandi Betts, Valerie Taylor, and Sarah Ray.

"A lot of people say it's tough to beat a team twice in one year. So we knew it would be tough to go 4-0 against Panhandle, especially on their homecourt for the third time. We had another close first half, but the Lady Colts took control in the second half. They did a good job of taking the ball inside and making their free throws. The kids went 14 of 26 from the line, which is very good for a junior high team," said Coach Schmidt.

"We went 14-2 overall and were district champs. It's been a very enjoyable season with this group. I thank them for their efforts in practice, in the games we've played, and for being quality young people off the court as well. I appreciate their parents' involvement and the support they have shown," said Coach Schmidt.

Junior varsity Broncos finish 9-1 in district

The Clarendon JV Bronco team finished their season in Panhandle on Tuesday night with an exciting overtime game.

The Broncos were led by Jeremy Ray in the first quarter with 10 of his 24 points. Clarendon was down by two at the start of the second quarter. In the second, the Broncos' defense showed what it does best and shut down the Panther offense. Clarendon held Panhandle to nine points while they scored 15 of their own. The Broncos led by two at the half.

The Broncos and Panthers traded buckets in the third quarter. Clarendon held on to a four point lead with the final quarter to play. Panhandle had an offensive surge in the final minutes to tie the score at 62 and force overtime.

The Bronco defense tightened up despite being in serious foul trouble and held the Panthers to only five points in the overtime. Clarendon's offense did a great job from the line and won the game 74-67.

Scoring for the Bronco JV were Jeremy Ray, 24; G. J. Martindale, 20; Cody Watson, 9; Zack Butts, 8; Rollie Valdez, 8; and Nathan Floyd, 3. The other member of the JV was Aaron Jeffers.

The JV team finished their season as district champions with a 9-1 record in the loop and 20-4 overall.

THANK YOU

The Ben Hill family deeply appreciates all the cards, flowers, meals, and kind words during this tragic period. A special thanks goes to the paramedics who so valiantly tried to save Ben's life. We thank you all, whatever the part.
The Ben Hill family.

Dear Friends,
 Mere words can in no way express the gratitude and appreciation that my family and I have for the recent actions of so very many wonderful people in this community. I can not begin to say how much that all of the beautiful flowers, each and every visitor, and phone call meant to me while I was in the hospital. I also know that the only thing that brought me through was the power of prayer, and to each and every person I truly thank you from the bottom of my heart. I never really realized how many people can or would pull together in a situation like mine, and there is a whole lot to be said for Clarendon and its citizens.
 I would be terribly remiss if I did not mention some people by name and thank them for the wonderful things that they have done. First of all, I owe the largest thank you in the world to my grandparents, Peck and Margaret Pettit, who have taken on all the responsibility of my three children during my recovery. I am so truly blessed to have them, and without them and the things they have done, well, all I can say is it would have been a mess! Secondly, to the most wonderful friend a person could be lucky enough to have Cherie Floyd...thank you, thank you, thank you. For the last few weeks Cherie has made sure that there has been dinner at my home, errands ran, and every little need that I have has been met. And to those of you who have sent food to both my grandparents home and mine, I can again not say how much that it has all been appreciated. There are just so many people and things that I want to say thank you for that I could just go on and on.
 Again, all I can do is say thank you all so very very much for everything, and I just cannot help but feel that thank you is not enough. But I thank you all for everything. And I speak for my children, Audrey, Hadley, and Shaydee, as well as my grandparents, when I say thank you. May God bless each and every one of you and again thank you.
Sincerely,
Larinda Ann Brown

THANK YOU

NOTE OF APPRECIATION
 We would like to extend a very special thank you to everyone of the Clarendon community. Your personal deeds, gifts of food, flowers, and cards were overwhelming. Your compassion, prayers, and support was of great comfort to us during our time of need. We thank you from our hearts. God bless you all.
The family of Donnie Ray Bilbrey

The family of Carroll McClellan would like to extend our sincere thanks to all of you who showed your love and concern during our time of loss. We were honored by each of you who participated in the celebration of her life, and we thank you for the many acts of kindness - the flowers, food, visits, memorials, and most of all your friendship and prayers.

We would like to say "Thank You" to all of our family and friends for the prayers, love, concern, and donations for our son and grandson, Jean West. We would appreciate your continued prayers.

A&M adds morbid class to curriculum

COLLEGE STATION — On its 100th anniversary, the department of entomology at Texas A&M University has added a rather morbid class to its curriculum. Students in the forensic entomology class are learning how to use insects to solve crimes.

Entomology professor Dr. Jim Olson said the goal of the course is to give students a working knowledge of how entomological knowledge is gathered, interpreted, recorded, preserved and used in forensic types of investigations.

"Students will gain hands-on experience and will be in contact with professional forensic entomologists," he said.

Olson said the main reason to hire a forensic entomologist in a criminal case is to establish the time of death, since insects are often the first "witnesses" to arrive on the scene of a murder.

"To establish the time of death, forensic entomologists need to know how the body decomposes and which insects attack at what times," he said.

Texas A&M's forensic entomology class is the only college course of its kind in the state. Olson said police departments and criminal investigators began using insects to help solve crimes 20 years ago, and since then it is increasingly being recognized for its power as a detective's tool.

"There are only about 15 forensic entomologists practicing in the United States," he said. "As entomology is used to help solve crimes, we will see that number increase."

Movies and television programs have made forensic entomology more recognizable as a tool for solving murders, but, Olson said, the science goes beyond death.

"Forensic entomology is used to solve crimes relating to food and product contamination, theft, illegal importation of drugs and child neglect," he said.

Entomologists also work on cases related to unethical entomological practices, pesticide accidents and soil and water contamination.

He added that although there has been renewed interest in forensic entomology, the field is not new. One of the earliest accounts of using entomology to solve crimes dates back to 13th century China and is found in the writings of the magistrate Sung Tz'us.

"A villager had been murdered in a farming community one summer," Olson said. "The murder weapon appeared to be a sickle, so the magistrate assembled the townspeople and asked them to place their sickles on the ground. The flies began to congregate on the sickle that had traces of the victim's blood on it, and the owner confessed."

For class purposes, Olson intends to use suckling pigs whose decomposition rate mimics that of humans.

"At the end of the class the students will be able to go out into the field and determine the time of death," he said.

Pentagon adopts Thornberry plan for joint forces command

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In testimony last week before the House Armed Services Committee, Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Hugh Shelton announced that the Department of Defense will adopt a plan put forward by Committee member Mac Thornberry to establish a Joint Forces Command.

The Joint Forces Command will be responsible for overseeing joint experimentation activities and operations among the branches of the United States Armed Services.

Thornberry (R-Clarendon) has been a leading proponent of establishing such a command and authored legislation just last year, which would have achieved that very goal.

Shelton stated that the Joint Forces Command proposal will be included in the Unified Command Plan for 1999, which is developed every other year by the Joint Chiefs as a way to lay out the organization and structure of the Armed Services.

Thornberry commended the decision. "The President's budget proposal for defense comes up short in several key areas," he stated. "But in this one important area, the Administration is headed in the right direction. It is critical that we prepare our military for the threats and challenges of the 21st century, which is why establishing a Joint Forces Command will prove to be one of the key parts of this budget down the road."

Thornberry did add, however, that he believes it is also critical that the Joint Forces Commander have a seat at the table when decisions are made relating to the development and acquisition of leap-ahead technologies and other areas having an impact on future force capabilities.

Money 2000 Tip: Mortgage Refinancing

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent
Want to be better off by the end of the year 2000? Consider refinancing your mortgage if you can get a rate that is at least one percentage point lower and plan to keep the new mortgage for at least several years. Ask an accountant to calculate how much your new mortgage will cost and whether in the long run it will cost less. Remember the money you save will continue to earn you money if it's in a savings account. To enroll in the Money 2000 Plus program, call 874-2141.

Allsup to compete at World Championship

FORT WORTH — After a grueling year of hauling around the country and strenuous cutting horse competition, the National Cutting Horse Association (NCHA) World Championship Title will come down to four nights in Houston during the John Deere World Championship Finals at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo and NCHA at the Astroarena February 17-21, 1999.

Leading the way in the open and non-profession divisions, respectively, are Go Little Lena, owned by Lonnie and Barbara Allsup of Clovis, New Mexico, with earnings of $69,701.43 after 103 shows and Wade Rust of New Ulm, Texas, with earnings of $80,946.67 after 111 shows. The second top money earner to date in the open division is Little Badger Dulce also owned by the Allsup's, with earnings of $62,731.35 after 78 shows.

Incidentally, Little Badger Dulce carried Lonnie Allsup, owner of Allsup's Convenience Stores, to the 1996 Non-Professional World Championship. Phil Rapp of Weatherford, Texas, is running a close second in the non-professional division, earning $76,033.12 in 98 shows.

The John Deere World Finals is a by-invitation-only event, where the top 15 non-professional riders and open division cutting horses come together to compete for top money and the championship, promising fierce cutting competition as well as an exceptional display of athletic skill and agility.

Texans to benefit from cancer information service

AUSTIN -- The American Cancer Society announced today that Texans will now benefit from its new cancer information and resource service - a national "one-stop" help line for up to date cancer information as well as local cancer resources.

The American Cancer Society's new service is now available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and is the only national cancer help line in the country that can offer both general and localized information.

The Society's help line offers cancer patients and their loved ones a single place to turn for help in understanding the challenges ahead. Specially-trained cancer information specialists spend time with callers, answering questions about their specific disease, the various diagnostic tests they may face, available treatment options, pain control methods, and any other questions that may arise.

The American Cancer Society's cancer information specialists rely on their psychology or social work backgrounds to handle sometimes emotionally-difficult calls. Oncology registered nurses are on-staff to assist with any clinical questions that may arise. Callers can have their questions answered over the phone and/or request an information packet to be mailed or faxed. Special deliveries are available upon request. Mailed materials are sent within the next business day, usually arriving within three or four business days. Sensitive to patients' privacy, the American Cancer Society always offers the option of having materials sent in an unmarked envelope.

Callers to the 800-number can also receive information on cancer prevention and detection, including smoking cessation, nutrition guidelines, and early detection methods, as well as American Cancer Society events, donations and volunteer opportunities. Around the country, American Cancer Society field offices are building their community resource databases (local information) in order to provide the most comprehensive service possible.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy and service.

For more information on the American Cancer Society's programs and services, call 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.
