

Council accepts water tower maintenance deal

by Dave Fette

Spend a lot of money; but save a lot of money over the long run. The reality of this dilemma was debated by the city council Monday night when Bob Sterling offered a long-term maintenance agreement to the city for the yet-to-be-built water tower. Sterling of Phoenix Fabricators who specialize in building only elevated water storage tanks, offered a 30 year maintenance contract for a locked in price of $393.40 per month. The deal includes yearly inspections and any needed repair plus a new paint job after eight, nine or ten years, whenever needed. Sterling said the projected cost of painting such a tank after 10 years not under a maintenance agreement is $73,000.00. After ten years the city will have paid $47,250.00. Sterling also offered a ten year contract but would not lock in the price for this shorter time. Agreeing that the tank would probably need a paint job after ten years, the council approved the 30 year deal especially when assured that the city could end the agreement with six months notice but Phoenix could not break the deal. "The cost of the special paint alone," said Sterling, "to paint a tank like this is approximately $42,000.00. That, with the yearly maintenance is a good deal."

The council also accepted Sterling's second offer of a five year contract to list the new tower as a telecommunications antenna site. The city would receive 70 percent of a possible $8,000.00 to $15,000.00 yearly lease. Phoenix gets 15 percent and the listing company gets 15%. No lease is guaranteed but if done, the antenna site income could pay for the maintenance agreement.

The foundation for the elevated tank is being built and the tank should be up in about three months.

The council switched to new business next to accommodate persons attending the meeting. Terry Tombaugh, of TU Electric-Lone Star Gas Utilities Company, offered the first reading of a requested customer controlled electric power rate. Tombaugh assured the council that the special rate was totally optional and he would personally analyze each customer's power usage before offering the rate to see if the variable rate was good for the customer. The council will vote on the rate next month.

The Cooke County Appraisal District sent board member Leon Klement and chief appraiser Doug Smithson to answer questions and seek approval to purchase the old TU Electric Building in Gainesville as the new home for the District. (see last week's Enterprise lead story) The move, if approved by most taxing entities will cost Muenster an additional $45.00 per month. Mayor Henry Weinzapfel recommended that they trust the appraisal district's studied opinion and approve the move. The city council agreed.

The new Muenster Museum property, the home of the late Ben and Aggie Seyler, moved into the spotlight next. Two Boy Scouts, Eric Fisher and Eric Knabe proposed renovation and beautification projects for the property for their Eagle Scout Service Projects. The Seyler family recently donated the property at the corner of Main and Fourth Streets to the City of Muenster and the Historical Commission. Fisher plans to re-do the front sidewalk with native stone to match other rock work flower bed corners in town. Knabe asked permission to repaint the building exterior. The Council approved both requests.

Boy Scouts plan to help museum

by Janet Felderhoff

Members of the Muenster Historical Commission hosted an Open House at the Seyler house. The purpose was to let the public view the future home of the Muenster Museum and to select refurbishing projects if they choose.

Two local Scouts plan to do their Eagle projects at the future museum. Eric Fisher will be replacing the front sidewalk with a stone walkway. Eric Knabe will tackle trimming shrubs and removing paint and replacing boards in preparation for painting. Other Scouts will take on projects there as a way to earn their Community Service badges.

Refreshments were served to those who attended. Several who came to look recalled spending time at the home in the past. Many expressed interest in helping restore the home for use as a museum.

The Seyler home was donated by Mary Adams, JohnAnn Bezner, and Sister Mary John Seyler, the children of Ben and Aggie Seyler. As a tribute to the couple the museum will carry their name.

Jaycees honor Nick Walterscheid

by Janet Felderhoff

Muenster Jaycee Tim Schneider introduced Muenster's Outstanding Citizen of the Year as someone who is always ready to help. Nick Walterscheid was selected for the honor for his service to the girls softball league for the past six years. It was noted that Walterscheid takes stats at the Muenster Hornet football games and has chaired the Cooke County Electric Cooperative's Relay For Life team the last two years.

Outgoing President Tim Schneider announced the winners of several key Jaycee awards. Neal Flusche was named Key Man and President's Partner. Gus Ashley earned the Outstanding Chairman award. One of the Jaycees' major projects for the past year was the baseball complex. More than 8000 yards of topsoil have been hauled in and leveled. The construction of the border fencing will be the next step in the project. Plans then include the construction of one of two backstops. Seeding the property will also be part of this next phase.

Some of the projects sponsored by the Jaycees during the past year were Little League and Coach Pitch Baseball, Scholarships, Ruth Hess Golf Tournament, Ranch Rodeo, Trap Shoot, fund raising raffles for Charlie Hermes and Allen Truebenebach, and Germanfest.

Officers installed for the 1999 year include Gus Ashley, president; Jeff Caldwell first vice-president; Rick Walterscheid, second vice-president; Shawn Flusche, secretary; Neal Flusche, treasurer; Tim Schneider and Craig Monday state directors. Serving as directors are Lee Buddy, Jim Nielsen, Damie Hellman, and Kenneth Walterscheid.

After taking the oath of office Gus Ashley promised to continue work on the new Jaycee baseball complex. He asked the Jaycees to remember that service to humanity is the best work of life.

Neal Flusche served as master of ceremonies for the evening. Tim Schneider welcomed guests, Jeff Caldwell led the pledge, and Rick Walterscheid gave the invocation. This was the Jaycees 37th annual installation banquet.

Fortune shines on MMH

by Janet Felderhoff

Muenster Memorial Hospital's board of directors received news of two pieces of good fortune at the Monday, Jan. 25 regular meeting. Administrator Jack Endres announced that as a result of the Tobacco Settlement, the hospital received $97,135.90 as a first payment and two more payments are scheduled. The hospital was also chosen as a recipient for a $45,000 grant from the State of Texas for internet access. Endres told the board the money could be used to enhance the hospital's computer hook-up to St.

Richard's Villa. Computer terminals will also be installed with internet access for use by the doctors and nurses.

The Telecommunications Infrastructure Fund Board formed the Telemedicine Internet Connectivity Initiative last summer to promote the improvement of health care delivery and to modernize Texas' public health telecommunications infrastructure.

A remodeling project in the hospital that included new flooring is now complete. Much of this expense was shouldered by the Muenster Memorial Hospital Auxiliary. Sydney Reynolds donated her time and talents to the renovation project. The hospital chapel was included in the renovations.

Three board members have terms that expire this spring. Don Flusche, Chas Bayer, and Duane Knabe are the three.

Physician privileges were granted for Dr. Barry Zindel and Yvonne Ambrose, F.N.P., - C., C.C.R.N. The board renewed the privileges of the physicians already given privileges at the hospital.

Yosten shares cowboy poetry at Elko

by Janet Felderhoff

"It was awesome. This place, it's like going to a family reunion. Everybody is for you. It doesn't matter if you mess up on stage or anything, everybody loves you no matter what. Everybody is so nice. They're the friendliest people I've ever met in my life," said Gina Yosten of her recent experience in Elko, Nevada. Gina was one of many talented cowboy poets invited to perform at the 15th Annual Cowboy Poetry Gathering last weekend. Elko is considered the center of cowboy poetry.

People come from all over the world — Australia, UK, Ireland, Canada, from all over the United States, said Gina. People get on stage and share their poetry with the crowd. Those who perform range from amateurs to celebrities. Gina and her parents, Doug and Lynda Yosten, had the opportunity to meet Texas celebrities, J. B. Allen from Whiteface and Larry McWhorter from Weatherford during their plane ride to Nevada. McWhorter was named 1998 Male Cowboy Poet of the Year.

Glenn Ohrlin of Mt. View, Arkansas made a great impression on Gina. "He's amazing," Gina remarked. "He's been doing poetry and music for over 50 years. He tells stories; he's hilarious!" Ohrlin was the first cowboy singer to be honored with the National Heritage Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Cowboy celebrity and Elko native Waddie Mitchell introduced Gina for her first performance at the event. It was held in a huge auditorium that held about 2,000 people. "The first thing I said was, 'Howdy!' and 2,000 Howdies came right back at me," Gina remarked. "It's just like sitting around a circle with your friends and telling stories." Her other two performances were in smaller rooms with only 200 to 400 people.

"The Old Cowboy" was one of the original poems that Gina shared in Elko. She also did, "The Unsung Hero" and "Greetings of the Cowboys".

"Greetings of the Cowboys" was Gina's tribute to her uncle Charlie Klement. He and his wife, Terry, came from Spokane, Washington to watch Gina perform in Elko. She performed the tribute on the big stage. "At the very end I say that he's my uncle and he's sitting right over there, so I pointed to him and he stood up and the lights came on; it was pretty cool," recalled Gina.

"Devotion was the most popular poem that Gina shared. People who heard it came and asked to buy her book because they liked that poem so much. It's just a prayer," said Gina. "Another neat thing about this one is that Glenn Ohrlin came up to me — we'd met several different times — and said, 'This guy over here is the toughest, meanest cowboy I've ever met in my life and you made him cry.'"

Gina's opportunity to participate at the annual Cowboy Poetry Gathering came when her teacher from Sacred Heart School, Joe Caserta, was in Elko, Nevada over the summer. He mentioned Gina's talent for cowboy poetry to the head of the Western Folklife Center and wrangled an opportunity for her work to be considered. Gina sent several pieces of her original poems and eventually she was invited to this year's event.

Performing her original poems before an appreciative audience was inspiring to Gina. "I like it a lot," she declared. "It's real encouraging to have people come up to you and say, 'I really enjoyed your poems!' and to have people moved by them. I performed three times and some people were telling me how they came back to hear me a second and third time."

Gina said that she's ready to See ELKO, Pg. 2

Air quality meeting held to address local concerns

by Gary L. Droll

On Monday, Jan. 25, the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) and the Texas Air Quality Coalition (TAQC) met with concerned citizens at the Gainesville Civic Center to listen to and express concerns about air quality.

The public meeting was well attended by concerned citizens, approximately 30 elected officials, eight city representatives and other representation coming from Texas Council of Government, several Chambers of Commerce, several local industries and the press.

Eric Birch, legal representative for the TAQC introduced the Texas clean air strategy proposed Jan. 27, 1998 by the TNRCC. This strategy was comprised of five components: 1) National low emission vehicle program, 2) Cleaner burning fuel, 3) Safer vapor recovery, 4) A program for older facilities, and 5) Potential VOC (volatile organic components) and NOx (nitrogen oxide) reductions for larger businesses. What caught most peoples attention was the impact this might have on business and industry and future economic development. This area of Texas got together and formed the TAQC. The purpose of this coalition was twofold: To find out if there was any basis for the TNRCC claims that this area contributes to the Dallas-Fort Worth non-attainment problem and to assist other areas throughout the state to achieve or maintain attainment.

Art Pedrosian, one of the ten TNRCC members attending, introduced some of the technical findings. A graph showing that a 100 km (62 miles) to 200 km (125 miles) 'bullseye' area around the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex was to be considered in an attainment area. The TNRCC found they weren't necessarily dealing with large quantities of emissions but with point sources of emissions. Within the entire TAQC area there are probably no more than 12 such sources. In 1% to 2% of the time the wind trajectory is from the north and can bring emissions not only from north Texas but points farther north. If an area was considered non-attainment, it means that the area does not meet the air quality standards of federal EPA guidelines.

Ralph Marquez, one of the three commissioners of the TNRCC then spoke about the goal of the clean air strategy which is to keep areas of Texas See CLEAN AIR, Pg. 2

MVFD nears completion of fleet

by Janet Felderhoff
Herbie Knabe, fire chief for the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department, reported that the fire department is in the process of building the final truck which should complete its truck fleet and give the best coverage for the Muenster Fire District. "It should also give us a better ability for mutual aid and still cover our district effectively," said Knabe.

Currently the Muenster Fire Department has a 1992 truck which is capable of pumping 350 gallons of water per minute. When the new truck is complete it will be capable of pumping at least 250 gallons per minute. The department has a truck that carries 500 gallons of water and the new truck will carry 400 gallons of water. "This does not mean that at all fires each truck will be pumping at full capacity, but will be positioned in different locations for better water application," explained Knabe. There is a truck that is capable of carrying 2500 gallons of water to any scene, dumping it into a portable tank and going for more water within a few minutes.

Soon it is anticipated that some rural areas in the county will be safer due to dry fire hydrants. Cooke County has received a grant from the Texas Forest Service to install dry fire hydrants in the county. Five have been designated for the Muenster Fire District. The Muenster Fire Department is now seeking suitable locations. It is suggested that these dry fire hydrants be placed at least five miles outside the city limits. There must be access to the location on all weather roads. Fire insurance on some homes and buildings near the dry hydrants may qualify for discounts. Land owners with ponds or lakes near all weather roads who are willing to have a dry fire hydrant installed should contact a member of the Muenster VFD or their county commissioner for more information. These sites must be selected by April of this year.

According to Chief Knabe, from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1998, the Muenster Fire Department volunteers put in a total of 1,488 hours. There were 812 training hours, 223 EMS hours and 453 non-EMS hours. The department logged 93 runs for the year.

Officers elected for the 1999 year are Knabe as fire chief; Bert Walterscheid assistant chief; Ben Bindel secretary; Joe Pagel three year trustee; Doug Fleitman two year trustee; and Ronnie Felderhoff one year trustee.

Other members of the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department are Ryan Bayer, Clinton Endres, Robert Endres, Jim Gehrig, Jimmy Green, Steve Henscheid, Brent Hess, Mark Hesse, Henry Knabe, Milton Knauf, Jim Koelzer, Rick Stewart, Tom Swirczynski, Bret Walterscheid, Duane Walterscheid, and John Yosten.

Concrete footing is poured at the site of the new water tower.

A rollover IRA isn't always the best choice

If you have shares of your employer's stock in profit sharing, stock options or a 401(k) plan, you may be better off not shifting them to an IRA when you leave. If you don't roll the shares over, you pay tax on the value of the shares when you acquired them, not on their current market value. Appreciation is taxed only when you sell them, and it qualifies as a capital gain. That means that you pay at a maximum rate of 20%, whereas any income from an IRA is taxed in your top bracket - up to 39.6%. Your heirs get a break, too. All appreciation from the time you take the stock to the time of your death is income tax free. In an IRA, it would be taxed in your beneficiary's top tax bracket. Of course, taking the stock means paying tax now as well as paying tax on dividends generated each year. Inside the IRA, the tax would be deferred.

in attainment with the new EPA ozone eight hour standard which is tougher than the current one hour standard. The aim of the TRNCC is to make the air cleaner everywhere, in every county in Texas. There is a need for voluntary action by individual counties and areas to be considered in attainment. Voluntary action by industries to reach attainment may circumvent the EPA from imposing mandatory restrictions on industry and communities.

In the near future automobiles in Texas will be much cleaner. These cars will be 50% to 70% cleaner than the cars we are driving today.

The gasoline itself will be cleaner as will the vapor recovery systems at gas stations when trucks come in to fill gas storage tanks. The next item is point sources. In 1971 any of these facilities which were in operation could continue to operate without an air permit under the 'grandfather' clause. There are approximately 60 companies which fall under the grandfather clause that have voluntarily made reductions in harmful air emissions.

Mr. Marquez does not believe that any changes in air quality emissions standards will have any adverse effect on local business and industry or on discouraging a business or industry from coming into the area. Texas has had tougher restrictions than surrounding states since 1972 and this has not hurt the state's economic growth.

A brief question and answer period followed.

Pope John Paul inspires four Sacred Heart students in St. Louis

by Janet Felderhoff
A long bus trip, lack of sleep, beds on cold, hard floors, and hours of waiting in freezing temperatures did little to dampen the spirits of four Sacred Heart students last week. Tanya Hess, Lisa Rohmer, and Mattie Sicking of Muenster, and Kristen Zimmerer of Denton counted themselves among the tens of thousands who were privileged to be in St. Louis, Missouri when Pope John Paul visited there last week.

"Awesome!" was the singular word the four girls used in unison to describe Pope John Paul II. "He's for the youth," remarked Kristen. "He supports us all the way." "He has a sense of humor that you don't necessarily get to see all the time," said Lisa. "He makes little side jokes that you have to be careful so that you can catch them."

Pope John Paul's homily left the youths with the impression that he feels that they are the future and that what they do now will impact the world. "He said that he is ours," the girls noted. "The Pope told us to be involved in our communities, that everyone is in training and that we should go out and spread the word and evangelize," Kristen said.

The Youth Rally which took place Tuesday, Jan. 26 in the Kiel Center was the highlight of the trip for the foursome. The Walk In The Light Youth March took the thousands of youths on a mile-long march from the Gateway Arch on the banks of the Mississippi River to Kiel Center. Bands played "cool" music throughout the event, there were motivational speakers, a short prayer service marked each hour, and a big screen television allowed the youths to observe as the pontiff's plane landed in St. Louis. They enjoyed meeting new people who shared their feelings about getting to see the Pope.

On Wednesday the Pope offered Mass in the Trans World Dome. The Sacred Heart group was in a concession area and watched the Mass on a television screen. Each had the opportunity to receive Holy Communion. After Mass the Pope rode around the stadium on his motorized cart greeting the crowd. At this time he came within five feet of the Sacred Heart students who said they could have reached out and touched him. "It was fun being there so close to the Pope," declared Tanya.

On Wednesday the girls had to get up by 3 a.m. to be dressed and ready to be at the Trans World Dome before 5:30 a.m. The event didn't start until 9:30 a.m. and the Mass lasted three hours. "We were up 24 hours straight because we got up at 3 a.m. and we didn't get home until three the next morning," Mattie said. Since they didn't get to bed until 12:30 a.m. Wednesday night they'd had very little sleep.

The youth group the local girls traveled with was The Light Keepers from St. Marks Parish in Denton. There were 74 people in their group, all representing the Diocese of Fort Worth. They stayed at Our Lady of the Pillar boarding school where they camped out in the gymnasium.

Back home and into the daily routine of school the four teens were still exuberant from their experience. "You can tell which ones went," commented Sacred Heart Principal Jack Murdock. "They're still glowing!"

Race Day provides fun for the Cub Scouts on Jan. 24

Sunday, January 24 was one of the big events of the year for the cub scouts of pack 664. The boys raced their pine wood derbies. The entire pack and their families came to watch the excitement. The scouts made their race cars out of a block of wood, four nails, and four wheels that they were given at the Christmas party. They carved the wood, then painted and decorated them. The cars turned out great. The judging was in two categories; one for speed and one for looks.

Receiving honors for the overall three fastest cars in the pack were: 1st Ricky Grewing, 2nd Mitchell Hesse, and 3rd Zachary Moritz. Within each den there were also three winners. Den 5 Tiger Cubs: 1st Pierce Morrill, 2nd Christopher Valliere, 3rd Chad Henscheid. Den 4 Tiger Cubs: 1st Zachary Moritz, 2nd Jeremy Lutkenhaus, 3rd Ashton Barrett. Den 3 Wolves: 1st Mitchell Hesse, 2nd Seth Pierce, 3rd Kirk Felderhoff. Den 2 Bears: 1st Ricky Grewing, 2nd Braden Frazier, 3rd John Crabtree. Den 1 Webelos: 1st Kyle Caldwell, 2nd Michael Valliere, 3rd Evan Koesler.

Receiving Best of Show for the best looking cars were Tyler Pagel, Bryce Frazier, Seth Pierce, Ricky Grewing, and Chad Endres.

All 36 boys in the pack participated and each was awarded a ribbon and a patch.

Other awards were also presented. The pack had over $3100 in popcorn sales. The proceeds pay for awards earned by the scouts. The top seller was Brandon Bindel. He sold $662 and was awarded a cap and a backpack. His den, the Wolves, sold a total of $1338. Each Wolf was awarded an extra patch.

Mitchell Hesse received a baseball belt loop and a Jr. Olympic shooting patch. Roman Vogel earned the rank of Bobcat and was awarded a patch.

The pack has also been collecting aluminum cans to earn money to pay for belt loops and also to learn to recycle and keep the environment clean. Earning a recycling patch were: Webelos Michael Valliere, Kyle Caldwell, Joseph Cowden, Brad Endres, Chad Endres, Matthew Abney, and Evan Koesler; Bears John Cowden, John Crabtree, and Ricky Grewing; Wolves Paul Crabtree, Josh Sicking, John Rohmer, Brandon Bindel, Mitchell Hesse, Kirk Felderhoff, Seth Pierce, Ryan Bartush, and Allen Fette; Tiger Cubs Ashton Barrett, Zachary Moritz, Bryce Frazier, Dustin Pumphrey, Jeremy Lutkenhaus, Steven Valliere, Christopher Valliere, Scott Endres, Ryan Henscheid, Chad Henscheid, Jacob Bayer, Pierce Morrill, and Tyler Pagel.

The Fort Worth Zoo: you'll go wild!

Ranked as a top zoo in the nation by Family Life magazine, the Los Angeles Times, USA Today, and most recently as one of the top zoos in the South by Southern Living Reader's Choice Awards, the historic Fort Worth Zoo is an adventure located just minutes from downtown.

See creatures from around the world in lush, natural-habitat exhibits. The Zoo is home to over 5,000 animals including koalas, meerkats, gorillas, bears, penguins, an on-site aquarium and a world-famous reptile collection. At many of the exhibits, visitors are only separated from the animals by a river or waterfall, and are often face-to-face with animals through large viewing windows!

The Zoo also hosts several special events each year for the entire family. Call the Fort Worth Zoo's 24-Hour Info Line for the latest news about what's coming up - (817)871-7050. Open 365 days a year, the Fort Worth Zoo is a fun place to visit throughout the year.

Zoo hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, with extended hours seasonally. Admission is $7 for adults (13+), $4.50 for children (3-12), free for toddlers (2 & under) and $3 for senior citizens (65+). Every Wednesday guests receive half-price admission all day. Parking is $4 per vehicle daily. Group rates are available.

To reach the Zoo from I-30, exit University Drive and go south. Turn left on Colonial Parkway and follow the signs to the Zoo. For more information, call (817)871-7050 or visit the Fort Worth Zoo's web site at fortworthzoo.com.

Texas academics standards make grade

Texas ranked first in the nation among states that have written academic standards in five major areas, according to a Fordham Foundation report titled "The State of State Standards" released this month. The five subject areas are geography, history, English, mathematics, and science.

When states with partially completed standards are considered, only Arizona outranked Texas. Arizona has completed standards in only three of the five subject areas. California, which has completed four, tied with Texas for second place.

Of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, only three (Texas, Arizona, and California) scored a "B" overall. No state received an "A." Fifteen were graded "C," 21 ranked "D," nine ranked "F," and three have not developed standards in any of the five areas.

Only Virginia scored higher with an A, and only two other states scored Bs (California and Massachusetts).

Texas scored a B on its English standards. Only one state scored higher (Massachusetts with an A), and only four other states scored Bs (Arizona, Virginia, Georgia, and Illinois).

Texas scored a B on its math standards. Only three states scored an A (California, North Carolina, and Ohio).

Texas' lowest ranking came on its science standards, scoring a C. Six states scored As, and seven scored Bs.

The Fordham Foundation, based in Washington D.C., sponsors research, publications, and action projects in education reform at the national level. Its major focus is the renewal of elementary and secondary education.

The Path of Life
 by Betty Trevino

Life is but an unknown path. For some it is long and wide which is carefree and easy to walk through. Yet, for others it is so narrow and short making it difficult to enjoy life and to fully experience the miracle of living. Some of the paths are bumpy and uneven. Others are smooth. There are paths that have stones and other objects in its course. It takes effort and determination in order to move each stone which in turn clears it for others. Each stone is a goal and once it is removed from the path it has become an achievement towards success. Those that are left behind remain there and after some traveling one realizes that it is too late, too far back to move that stone. Those stones that remain there are the regrets of life. They stay in one's memory forever and nothing can change them. Life is but a path towards an unknown destiny. A destiny placed to where everyone is capable of reaching.

Health Notes

Simple test detects disease

No sexually transmitted disease is more common or more insidious than chlamydia. Left untreated, chlamydia causes painful pelvic inflammatory disease and, ultimately, infertility.

"It is estimated four million Americans — especially sexually active teenagers and young adults — are infected with the chlamydia bacteria," reports Dr. Justin Radolf, professor of internal medicine and microbiology at UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas. "But most experts believe that number is low because many of those infected never suffer any symptoms."

Women's symptoms include vaginal bleeding or discharge, burning during urination, itching in the genital area and lower abdominal pain. Men's symptoms include burning while urinating and discharge. Even when there are no symptoms, infected men and women, unless they use a condom, spread the infection to their sexual partners.

"It's now possible to detect chlamydia infection with a simple urine test and once the infection is diagnosed, the new treatment is just one dose of azithromycin," said Radolf.

FISHING WORMS LONG OR SHORT

The length of a plastic worm make a difference when fighting. Long worms twist and turn, sink slowly and cast without added weight. Short worms work best in late winter, early spring and fall. They have little action or weight, but when sliding sinkers are added, they can hop along the bottom in deep water.

Texas game warden field notes

The month of September is a transitional month for most game wardens, heading into the hunting season while continuing water safety patrols.

To say that the duties of a game warden are varied is a gross understatement. However, most wardens will proudly admit that they hold the most interesting of law enforcement position.

A sampling of game warden activities during the month of September:

- During a Labor Day weekend saturation patrol on Lake Texoma, game wardens filed 59 water safety citations and arrested 6 people for boating while intoxicated.

- Knox County wardens filed cases on three hunters from Colorado who were in possession of 80 doves and no hunting license. One Texas hunter was cited for having 59 birds over his possession limit.

- A young man in Freestone County was cited by a warden for hunting doves from a public road, no hunting license, and unplugged shotguns.

- A Galveston County warden responded to a call from a distraught woman who thought she had just killed a cobra and believed that its mate was hiding under her mobile home. The warden drove to her home and found the mutilated body of a hog nosed snake.

- The Wichita Falls office received a call from a concerned citizen about a deer hanging in her neighbor's tree. The warden who responded to the call investigated the matter and determined that the animal was actually a brown goat.

Farm Bureau "Food Check-Out Day"

Texas Farm Bureau will recognize "Food Check-Out Day" — the date the average American has earned enough money to pay for his or her food supply for 1999 — on February 9.

"We work only about 40 days a year for an entire year's supply of food. Without the affordable food produced by America's farmers and ranchers, the nation's standard of living would be greatly reduced," said Bob Stallman, president of the Texas Farm Bureau. "Our farmers and ranchers are the most productive in the world."

Statistics compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service indicate American families and individuals spend, on average, just 10.7 percent of their disposable personal income for food. That percentage is down from the 10.9 percent figure from last year. As much as $547 billion annually is spent by consumers for food produced on US farms and ranches. However, out of every dollar consumers spend on food, a farmer's share is about 23 cents.

"Food Check-Out Day celebrates the efforts of farmers and ranchers who produce quality food at affordable prices," Stallman continued. "The day also allows consumers to join in American agriculture's success."

Stallman urged consumers to compare the 40 days necessary to purchase a year's worth of food with the amount of time it takes to pay a year's worth of taxes. In 1998, the average American worked until May 10 — more than three additional months or 130 days — for state and local tax bills.

"That shows that food is quite a bargain," he said.

Food Check-Out Day gives America's farmers and ranchers an opportunity to take the message of efficient, affordable food production to the public, Stallman said. And many local Farm Bureau's across the state plan to spread the word.

Some County Farm Bureaus are working with grocery stores and their customers to collect food for Ronald McDonald Houses, a non-profit operation located in many larger cities that gives parents of sick children a place to stay while their children are in the hospital.

In areas where there are no Ronald McDonald Houses, food banks will get the benefit of the County Farm Bureau's collection efforts.

"When it comes to food, America is a nation that has been blessed," Stallman said. "Sharing this blessing with those in need is part of what America is all about."

The crop always seems better in our neighbor's field and our neighbor's cow gives more milk.

Texas represented in committee

Farmers and ranchers nationwide will be looking to exas leadership on the US House Agriculture Committee during the 106th session of Congress.

"With Congressman Larry Combest as House Agriculture Committee Chairman and Representative Charles Stenholm as the ranking minority leader, Texas producers are represented very well on this congressional committee," said Cooke County Farm Bureau President Tim Artman.

Lubbock, and Stenholm, a Democrat from Stamford, give the committee new leadership to tackle the issues facing agriculture now and into the new century. They have worked together over the years as members of the committee.

Farm policy, crop insurance, an Agricultural Trust Fund, the environment, regulatory relief and fast track legislation are some of the issues anticipated to come before the new House Ag Committee and possibly sent on to the full House for floor consideration.

Antique farm equipment club meets

The first meeting of the new Hisholm Trail Antique Farm Equipment Club will be on Tuesday, February 9 at 7 p.m. at McMaster New Holland Tractor Company on US 1287 South in Decatur.

Everyone interested in antique farm equipment including tractors, stationary engines, implements, farm toys and collectibles is invited to become a part of the club. Neil Mackie of Ottomdale, interim chairman of the group.

In December, more than 30 persons met to begin organizing the club which will be open to those interested from Wise, Parker, Jack, Montague and other area counties.

The club is sponsored by Saginaw Implement Company of Rhome, McMaster New Holland Tractor Company, Hendershot Equipment Company, Zimmerer Kubota and the Wise County Messenger in Decatur.

Ag Comm. Combs advises pesticide applicators of Feb. 28 CEU deadline

Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs recently advised pesticide applicators that time is running out to obtain the continuing education units (CEUs) necessary to renew their applicator licenses. Private applicators, as well as all commercial and non-commercial applicators, face a Feb. 28 deadline.

"The foundation for safe pesticide use in Texas has been and always will be education," Combs said. "These CEU requirements help applicators stay informed of the latest products, regulations and application methods to ensure safe and effective use across our state."

Private applicators must renew their licenses every five years and obtain 15 CEUs during that period. Two credits must be in integrated pest management and two in laws and regulations. Applicators must self-certify their credits by listing them on a renewal form they should have received in early December.

Private applicators may also earn the required credits by passing a comprehensive recertification exam. A fee of $50 per test attempt is charged. After passing the exam, an applicator will receive a certificate of completion for 15 CEUs.

Commercial and non-commercial applicators must renew each year and must earn five CEUs annually, including one CEU in each of two of the following categories: laws and regulations, integrated pest management and drift minimization.

Combs urges pesticide applicators to check with their county Texas Agricultural Extension Service office for courses offered. Applicators can also call the Texas Department of Agriculture at 1-800-TELL-TDA [1-800-835-5832] or (512) 463-7548 for a list of approved courses.

In addition, information about licenses, renewals and CEU courses is available on the TDA website [www.agr.state.tx.us/pesticide/ceuhome.htm].

County Agent's Report by Craig Rosenbaum

COTTON ROOT ROT

Each year we lose some landscape plantings to cotton root rot. Now, homeowners are making plantings. If you have lost woody plants in the past to this disease your best line of defense is resistant varieties.

Cotton root rot is a soil borne disease of many woody plants. Several tree species are susceptible to the fungus. Infected trees die soon after symptoms are observed. The foliage remains on the tree after death. The best time to check for the fungus on the roots is when symptoms first appear. Trees that have been dead for only a short period of time are invaded by other fungi and this makes it more difficult to identify the cotton root rot fungus. Cotton root rot forms strands of tan mycelium a round the outside of the root.

The mycelium grown in the soil from one susceptible root to another. When the mycelium reaches a susceptible root, it grows along the root, moves toward the crown and girdles the trunk. The outer root tissue is killed, nutrients and water flow from the roots are blocked. Materials which are needed to sustain life are no longer translocated to the leaves. Researchers at Texas A&M working with apples have found that when a tree is symptomatic the next tree is already infected. This was a distance of 10 feet. In rare cases they identified the fungus as much as 20 feet away from the symptomatic tree.

The alkaline blackland soils of Cooke County and Central Texas are home for much of the cotton root rot fungus. It grows at a wide range of soil temperatures, but the optimum temperature is 82°F.

Control is extremely difficult due to the type, amount and location of the inoculum in the soil. Programs have been evaluated for the control of this fungus from the early formation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Use of organic materials, modifying the soil pH, deep plowing and numerous chemical treatments have been evaluated but none are effective.

Organic materials composted and not composted have been incorporated around trees with little or no results. Soil fumigation has not proven to be effective. The best control is to plant an immune or resistant tree. Select trees that are immune or resistant to the fungus. This is especially important when replanting in an area where trees or plants earlier died from the fungus.

Some of the more commonly grown shade trees for our county and their reaction to the cotton root rot fungus include: extremely or highly susceptible - Crab Apple, Catalpa, Chinaberry, American Smoke Tree, Cottonwood, Flowering Dogwood, American Elm, Chinese Elm, Slippery Elm, Winged Elm, Honey Locust, Mulberry, Pear, Poplar, Redbud, Soapberry, Sweetgum, Chinese Tallow, Black and English Walnut, Black Willow and Weeping Willow; resistant - Bois-d'arc, Red Cedar, Mountain Cedar, Cedar Elm, Hackberry, Hickory, Mesquite, Live Oak, Russian Olive, Mexican Plum, Sycamore and yaupon.
