

Dr. Rondon welcomed as principal at Sacred Heart Catholic School

By Janet Felderhoff

Dr. Rafael Francisco Rondon speaks with excitement about his new position as principal of Sacred Heart Catholic School. He and his family are moving to Muenster from Memphis, Tennessee. He began his duties at Sacred Heart on June 29. He stays with his wife's family in Frisco during the week and returns to Memphis on weekends. Just this week they closed on a house in Muenster and are now official residents of Muenster.

Dr. Rondon and his wife of seven years, Mary Ellen, have two children. Their son R.J. is six years old and will be in the first grade and daughter Charlotte Mary is four and will be in Preschool.

Mary Ellen's family all living in Texas was a big incentive to accepting the position of principal at Sacred Heart Catholic School. "My second reason is that my wife and I just fell in love with Muenster and thought this would be an idyllic place to raise our family," remarked Dr. Rondon.

A web search located Sacred Heart School for the Rondon. "We started looking for places close to my wife's family where there was an opportunity for me to continue my vocation in Catholic education. Of the many possibilities that existed, this was the one that was most appealing to us."

Prior to his position in Muenster, Dr. Rondon served as assistant superintendent of Catholic schools for the Catholic Diocese of Memphis for three years. At that same time, he also was principal of Resurrection Catholic School in Memphis. Before those positions, he taught 12th grade philosophy and mathematics at Belen Jesuit Preparatory School in Miami.

Dr. Rondon is certified in the State of Florida to teach mathematics 6th-12th, humanities K-12, and English K-12. In the State of Texas, he is certified in English grades 4-12 and mathematics 4-12. He expects to get his Administrators certificate some time this year.

Degrees held by Dr. Rondon include an Associates degree in General Studies from Miami Dade College in Miami, Florida, a Bachelor of Arts degree in Philosophy from Florida International University, and a PhD in Philosophy from the University of Oklahoma. He said that in the next two weeks he will finish his course work and be awarded a Master's in Educational Leadership from Christian Brothers University in Memphis and this fall expects to finish his final course for a Master of Arts in Catholic Studies also from Christian Brothers University. This last semester, Dr. Rondon received a graduate certificate in Catholic Theological Foundations from Christian Brothers University.

Commenting on his philosophy in education Dr. Rondon said, "Simply put, every child can learn, and the role of the school, the teachers, and the administrators is to ensure that every child entrusted to their care receives all the resources that they need in order to succeed. Which being a Catholic School, we have a slightly different vision. That is certainly part of it, but our primary mission is to help these children along their journey of faith and to become disciples of Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior. That comes first, and it just so happens that along the way they get an excellent education and learn to be good citizens. But the first, by far,

Surprise storm damages area buildings

By Janet Felderhoff

Texas weather showed its ability to change swiftly on Wednesday. One minute the sun was shining and the next the sky opened, dumping rain with a few small hail stones. High winds (some speculated it might be a twister) whipped through a swath damaging items in its path.

Reports of destroyed sheds, shovels, trailers, shaking homes, shredded tree leaves and limbs, missing roof shingles, and some heavy items moved about a half mile were received. One report from south of Muenster was of a camper moved 31 feet to the south and turned some to the east. North of Muenster, reports were of a 1000 pound creep feeder blown about 1/2 mile to the north, two sheds blown to the north, and a cattle trailer shoved up against a north fence.

The storm developed very rapidly, allowing little time for those outdoors to take cover.

Asked about what the cause might be, Gary Woodall, warning coordination meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Fort Worth commented, "My guess is that the area was hit by a downburst. "A downburst is a strong downward air current which hits the ground and rapidly spreads out along the ground. The effect is similar to turning on a garden hose and pointing the nozzle down at the sidewalk. The water hits the ground and quickly splatters out to the sides. Air and wind do the same thing in a downburst. The very heavy rain which rapidly developed from Wednesday's storm likely helped increase the speed of the downward motion, which in turn helped increase the wind speeds. "Downbursts can produce winds that are quite strong. Speeds of 60-70 mph (near hurricane force) are not uncommon, and the strongest downbursts have winds in excess of 100 mph."

Winds from last Wednesday's storm tumbled this 1,000 pound feeder across Henry Yosten's pastures north of Muenster. It traveled about 4/10 of a mile, pushing over fences and taking out mail boxes before coming to rest in Melvin Yosten's yard. Nobody was reported as being hurt, but there was a lot of damage to property in the small areas affected. Rain from the event measured anywhere from a few sprinkles to almost an inch.

Two die in I-35 accident Sunday

By Janet Felderhoff

Traffic in the north bound lane of I-35 came to a halt Sunday, July 5 as the result of an accident that occurred at 2:26 p.m. The interstate was shut down for hours.

According to a report from DPS Trooper Mark Tackett, two were killed and seven injured in the nine vehicle chain reaction accident. The incident was reportedly caused when Randy Crume of Harrah, Oklahoma was traveling north in the right lane driving a semi-truck and failed to control speed. Traffic was backed up and flowing slowly due to construction on I-35 northbound. Crume struck the rear of the stopped traffic, causing multiple collisions. The semi-truck and trailer and eight other vehicles were damaged in the crash. Wet and raining road conditions were reported at the time.

Gervious Hinkle of Fort Worth, driver of a 1996 Ford Explorer, and his grandson Casey Ishak, age 13 of Fort Worth, were both killed. Another passenger in Hinkle's vehicle remains in critical condition.

"Charges are pending as DPS troopers conduct further investigations," reported Tackett.

City contracts with CCAD for tax collection service

By Janet Felderhoff

For many years, Muenster has collected its own ad valorem taxes. All other entities in Cooke County contract with the Cooke County Appraisal District (CCAD) to collect the taxes for them.

At the Monday, July 6 meeting of the City Council, the CCAD's contract to assess and collect taxes was addressed. Mayor John Pagel remarked, "This topic has come up before and I think that the reasoning behind the local control and doing it ourselves was a sense of pride as much as anything else. It can't be economics because it costs us as much time and money to do that as what the Appraisal District would charge. They've estimated that the fee to do the collection process would be a fee of approximately $3,000 a year."

City Administrator Stan Endres added that the fee was for collection of both the City and Water district taxes.

Endres noted that they do spend a lot of time sending out the notices and dealing with collection of the ones that are delinquent.

The CCAD charge is determined by the amount of tax an entity levies; those with a higher amount of tax to be collected pay more than those with a lower amount of tax dollars to be collected. The City's portion for 2009 tax collection would be $1517.09 and $1463.10 for the Water District.

The City Council voted unanimously to contract with CCAD for tax appraisal and collection services.

Mayor Pagel presented retired City Water and Sewer Superintendent Chris Yosten with a proclamation honoring him for serving the City for 35 years as a dedicated, hard-working, and loyal employee. In appreciation for his many days and long hours of hard work, July 6, 2009 was declared a day of recognition, dedication, and appreciation for Chris Yosten for all he has done for Muenster. He was also given a gift as a token of appreciation.

Muenster has a new water well. Drilling of well #8 is complete and according to Administrator Endres, it is pumping about 200 gallons per minute. He said that after it is hooked up to the line, it is expected to pump at least 150 gallons per minute. Before it can be used, tests must be run, the driller's report given to TCEQ, and TCEQ approval given.

When #8 comes on line, the City will have five producing wells.

Bids to do the fencing around the new water well were opened. There were four bids submitted. They were Joe Sicking $19,247; David Dittfurth $8,916; Fuhrmann Construction $7,980; and Mike Corcoran $6,426.06. As low bidder, Corcoran was awarded the contract by a unanimous vote. Work must be done by July 31.

At the June City Council meeting, Mayor Pagel charged Endres, Alderman Jack Flusche, and Leo Lutkenhaus with looking into the purchase of a new tractor and mower to replace one in need of expensive repairs. They checked with area dealers and found the prices to be within a few dollars of each dealer.

At M&S Dairy in Gainesville they found a used one with only 55 hours on it. "That is like brand new," said Endres. The dealer couldn't guarantee to hold it until after the July meeting. The purchase was made and the is the most important to us.

"Here we have a very fine public school system. Excellent from all accounts and from everything that I can tell and the folks that I have met, I think they are an excellent partner. And I view them as partners, but we do have different missions and our ultimate goals are different because we are a faith based institution and they are a secular institution. I think we complement each other well."

Dr. Rondon noted that we are one community. "I think that sometimes folks forget that we all live together. Really, once you leave school, you're back out and most of the people that you'll meet were educated in the public school system, not the Catholic school system. So, it's very important even to those of us who are in Catholic education and who were educated in Catholic schools that the public schools be as good as they can be because these are the folks that we are going to be relying on to provide us services and to help us in times of need."

For the first year at Sacred Heart, Dr. Rondon has no definite plans to make changes. "There has been a lot of great work accomplished," he observed. "My first year will be spent primarily trying to ensure that the great work that was accomplished by this community, under the leadership of my predecessor Mr. Riley who I think did a phenomenal job from everything that I can see, is continued. Over the year, I will see how I can bring my own God-given talents and gifts to bear so that I can complement the work that's been done and move the school forward in its mission."

Dr. Rondon said that his whole family is very excited about joining this community of faith. "Both of us believe strongly in the communitarian aspects of our faith," he explained. "Faith for Catholics is an Ecclesial reality, which means it is not an individual, but a community sort of experience. We believe that Jesus Christ reveals Himself to us most intimately when we love one another the way that He loves us and continues to love us. One thing that we often forget is that everything that we say and that we do, we do in the presence of the risen Christ who is with us, a living real God. If the children can leave here with that sense that Jesus Christ is risen and that Jesus Christ is with them, then I feel that we will have accomplished our task. Not just me as a principal, but we as a community."

A Fourth Degree Knight, Dr. Rondon plans to be active in that organization in Muenster. He also will teach religious formation program for the public school children when school starts, and is very much looking forward to doing that.

Mary Ellen works from her home office as a senior project manager for the Motorola Corporation. "This move is very good for her as well because Motorola has a very large facility in Coppell, so she will have easier access to corporate resources when she needs them," said Dr. Rondon. She was very active at the last school they were at. She coached soccer, was a leader for a Daisy troop, and headed the library technology committee. The couple plans to be active in many areas of the community.

Dr. Rondon joked, "I told my wife when I received the job offer that I hadn't seen her this happy since the day she married me!"

mower has been in use for about three weeks with no problems. They got a $1,000 trade-in for the old tractor mower. The Council approved the purchase at a cost of $10,675.

Muenster Police Chief Bob Stovall presented his quarterly police activities report. He presented six months of activity reports since the first quarter had not been reported. There were 19 pages. "We've been busy," commented Chief Stovall. Some of the activity included child custody and domestic issues, stolen checks, forgeries, assault with a handgun, disturbance at a business, aggravated assault, sexual assault, just to name a few.

In other business, the City Council:

- Approved repair expenses to the Muenster swimming pool at a cost of $19,323, and amended City Parks Budget for an additional $15,000 for capital improvements since only $5,000 had been budgeted.
- Approved sale of alcohol by Muenster VFD for their BBQ fund raiser in the City Park on Aug. 8.
- Scheduled FY 2009-10 budget workshop meeting for Aug. 17 at 7 p.m.
- Rescheduled September regular meeting from Sept. 7 to Sept. 14 due to Labor Day holiday.
- Approved monthly bills totalling $131,918.45.

City Council members present were Mayor Pagel, Aldermen Pat Stelzer, Jewel Ott, Joey Anderson, and Jack Flusche. Greg Bohl was absent.

Travelling soon? Don't leave home without your passport

As you begin to make your summer travel plans, there will be several things that you need to add to your checklist before heading to Mexico, Canada, or the Caribbean. On June 1, 2009, the U.S. government will implement the full requirements of the land and sea phase of the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative (WHTI). The proposed rules under the WHTI will require U.S. citizens entering the United States at sea or land ports of entry to have a passport.

Currently, all U.S. citizens must show proof of identity and proof of U.S. citizenship when entering the United States from Canada, Mexico, Bermuda, and the Caribbean by land or sea. All persons travelling by air are required to show a passport to enter or re-enter the U.S. However, on June 1, all air, land, and sea passengers will be required to show a passport or other approved document. For a list of documents approved by the Department of Homeland Security, please visit <http://www.getyouhome.gov/html/lang/eng/index.html>.

The State Department is encouraging people to seek passports now to avoid a backlog of applications, and the Department of Homeland Security is stepping up publicity along U.S. border towns about the new policy. The policy aims to keep terrorists out of the country and our borders safe. If you have not already done so, Congressman Mac Thornberry encourages you to apply or renew your passport soon and, as always, contact him at any of his offices:

Carl "Boobie" Schilling

Carl Schilling

Remarks of remembrance were given by daughter Carla Zwinggi and son Dale Schilling. They remembered their dad, "He had an amazing knack with numbers. As we were pondering over math problems, Dad would look at our work and spout out the answer. Percentages, multiplication, and division came naturally to him. Dad also had a prophetic sense. We remember predictions he made about religion, politics, economics, and other current issues that we have seen come true. God gave him an uncommon amount of common sense, and such a witty sense of humor..."

"Early in the beginning of his retirement, Dad began collecting things - so you see, before a "Keep Muenster Beautiful" committee was formed, Dad was 'doing his part.' He spent hours collecting aluminum cans, bottles, and junk iron. Dad was a very routine social person and loved to pass his time away driving around and stopping in for a visit..."

Palbearers were Fritz Hermes, Tony Moster, Richard Moster, Clayton Truelsen, Charlie Moster, Jeff Reiter, and Frank Schilling, Jr.

A Rosary/Vigil service was held Sunday at the Funeral Home led by Fr. Ken.

The family requests memorials be made to Sacred Heart Trust Fund.

Mass of Christian Burial for Carl Justin "Boobie" Schilling, age 91 of Muenster, was held at 10 a.m. Monday, July 6 at Sacred Heart Church in Muenster with Fr. Kyle Walterscheid and Fr. Ken Robinson, celebrants. Burial followed in Sacred Heart Cemetery. Services were directed by McCoy Funeral Home of Muenster. Boobie died at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, July 3, 2009 at St. Richards Villa in Muenster.

Born Dec. 1, 1917 in Muenster, Carl was the youngest of eight children of John and Rosina Klement Schilling. His mother died when he was only six years of age. His sister Angela cared for him in Pilot Point during summer and he returned home in the fall to attend school at Sacred Heart. After the 8th grade, Boobie began working for local farmers John and Martin Bayer and Albert Henscheid. In 1936, he became an oil field worker at the salary of $2.50 per day.

Carl was drafted into the U.S. Army on Feb. 19, 1942. He served in the Chemical Warfare Division at Scofield Barracks on the island of Oahu, Hawaii. After 19 months of overseas duty, he was discharged on Sept. 1, 1945. He resumed working in the oil field and began dating Rosalie Henscheid. They married Oct. 22, 1946 in Sacred Heart Church. They had two daughters and four sons.

Carl worked 23 years for Muenster Milling, retiring in January 1982. Rosalie died March 19, 1974. Five years later, Carl married Cecilia Gieb Truelsen. While retired, Boobie enjoyed playing dominoes at the VFW where he was a lifetime member. Fishing, bottle and can collecting, and visiting with friends were among his hobbies. Boobie was a great family man and friend to many.

Oda Parks
1920 - 2009

Memorial service for Oda Fay Johnson Parks, age 88 of Lindsay, was held at 10 a.m. Friday, July 3 at McCoy Funeral Chapel in Saint Jo, with Rev. Larry Eberhart, pastor of Family Life Church in Gainesville, officiating. Oda's death at her home was pronounced at 11:25 a.m. Tuesday, June 30, 2009.

Born Dec. 30, 1920, to Lynn and Verdine Hall Johnson, Oda. She married Thomas Albert Parks on March 4, 1941 in Marietta, Oklahoma. They began their life together in Saint Jo, later moving to Abilene where they lived until 1984. They then moved to Lindsay where she lived until her death.

At the age of 88, Oda was still using a wheel barrel to move sand, and continued to mow, trim hedges, keep weeds out of her flower bed, and anything else that needed to be done tending her yard. If she wasn't outside working, she was inside doing home improvement projects or sorting through decades of pictures... she was a camera buff.

Oda showed the love of Christ by action, always lending a hand to those less fortunate. She made sure to visit the widows and tend to their needs. Her son, daughter-in-law, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren were her pride and joy. The newest pictures of them were always passed around for all to see, followed by a story telling of the event.

Survivors include son and daughter-in-law David and Susan Parks of Dallas; three grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; and sister Mina Lee Montgomery of Gainesville.

Letter to the Editor

Please excuse my use of the personal pronoun because this is not about me. This 4th of July was the most moving celebration in memory for me. I saw not a single firework. I listened to no dignitaries give speeches. No parades or military bands.

A group of people gathered at the First Presbyterian Church in Gainesville, ate hot dogs (an American institution), then went inside to pay respects to our flag and sing patriotic songs.

This is as the 4th of July once was and should be again. The 4th of July has lost its true meaning like all of our other holidays. The 4th has become a spectator holiday where we are entertained and do nothing but observe.

People, if we want our country back, then we must go back.

Felderhoff, Gorrell marry in Gainesville on June 27

Diana Felderhoff of Muenster and Joshua Gorrell were married on Saturday, June 27 at 3 p.m. Their double ring ceremony was held in Whaley United Methodist Church in Gainesville with Rev. Jim Goodwin officiating.

Tom and Becky Felderhoff of Muenster are parents of the bride. Her grandparents are Charles and Alice Davidson and Tom and Barbara Felderhoff, all of Muenster.

Parents of the groom are John and Becky Gorrell of Thornton, Texas. James and Virginia Haygood of Spring are his grandparents.

The couple's unity candle provided the focal point of the altar decorations, which included crystal vases of various sizes fitted with ivory candles. Ivory bows were placed at each pew.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless Alfred Angelo gown in ivory with claret satin. The claret inset accented the gown under the bodice and with an inverted "V" in the back of the gown through the train. Lace crystals and pearls covered the bodice and hem. She wore a veil edged in Swarovski crystals and lace held in place by a crystal tiara. She carried a bouquet of dark red roses tied with ivory satin. For tradition, she wore her mother's pearls as something old and something borrowed.

Music for the wedding was provided by pianist Carolyn Hook and vocalist Pat Gilliland, bride's aunt. Music included "Be Thou My Vision," sung as the mothers lit the unity family candles.

ATTENDANTS

Emily Hoffman of Gainesville served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Bridgette Klement of Mesquite and Jennifer Bayer of Gainesville, friends of the bride. Their floor length strapless gowns in claret were designed by Alfred Angelo with tucks under the bodice and crystal sequins scattered on one side. They carried ivory roses tied with claret ribbon.

Ami Hoffman of Gainesville, bride's niece, was flower girl. She wore an ivory Alfred Angelo gown of ankle length accented with three claret ribbons at the waist and a hem with an inverted "V" in the back.

Serving as best man was the groom's brother Jacob Gorrell of Katy. Groomsman were Dave Hathcock of Brownwood, friend of the groom, and Danny Felderhoff of Muenster, bride's brother.

Brian Hoffman of Gainesville, brother-in-law of the bride, Andy Haygood of Austin and Ethan Haygood of Lafayette, Louisiana, cousins of the groom, ushered guests.

RECEPTION

A dinner and dance reception was held in the Gainesville Knights of Columbus Hall after the wedding. Rohmer's Restaurant catered the meal. Virginia Haygood, groom's grandmother, offered the meal prayer.

Joey Wilson provided the music. Pat Gilliland sang two special songs for the bride and groom, "How You

Walter family holds two-year reunion

Every two years, the descendants of the John and Susanna Trachta Walter meet to renew family ties. This year, the reunion began on Thursday, June 11, in the evening at Doc's Bar and Grill located on Main Street in Muenster. About 40 early birds gathered to get reacquainted and swap family news.

The following day, activities included a tour of Sacred Heart Cemetery where family graves were marked for ease of location. In the afternoon, a tour of the John and Susie Walter farm was conducted by the current owners, John and Rosemary Becker. The evening hours were spent at the Hopp Ranch. Ninety-five descendants enjoyed a hamburger and hot dog roast with all the trimmings. Children (and many adults) enjoyed kite flying, mule-driven wagon rides, karaoke, and the great outdoors.

Saturday brought out 167 aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends for a catered lunch at the Muenster Park. Sn-cones, swimming, meeting new family members, and renewal of old friendships filled the afternoon. Special guests of honor were sisters Marie Endres and Rose Hofbauer, daughters of John and Susie.

Mass was celebrated Sunday morning at 8 a.m. with family members taking the Zadok Loy Schilling celebrated his first birthday on Saturday evening, May 16, with a "Fun on the Farm" party hosted by his parents Michael and Jo Schilling at their home. Guests enjoyed an evening on the deck eating fried chicken with all the sides.

Zadok's birthday cake was a special creation by his maternal grandmother, "Gonya" (Peggy Sparkman). It included a John Deere barn set atop the cake with barnyard animals, a John Deere tractor and trailer, as well as handmade round hay bales; perfectly sized for Zadok's own personal birthday "smasher" cake. The cake included a plowed field and a raked hayfield, as well as cow patties.

Zadok opened his gifts (with help from his cousins) in front of many family and friends, and thoroughly enjoyed playing with all his new toys, and especially the other children.

Attending with Zadok's parents were grandparents Sam L. and Peggy Sparkman of Lindsay and Jr. and Eileen Schilling of Muenster; great-grandfather Sam A. Sparkman of Muenster and great-great-aunt Mary Jo Graham of Gainesville. Other guests included great-uncle-and-aunt Larry and Retha Sparkman of Myra; cousin Shane Sparkman and Bree Chapman of Myra; Dewayne Williams of Myra; cousins Chad, Krystle, Chad, Jr., Kyle, and Morgan Greer of Callisburg; great-aunt Dianne LeClair of Saint Jo; and cousins Cyrus and Lisa Vestal of Fort Worth. Also, great-aunt Nancy Zadok's actual birthday is May 7. He celebrated with an "Elmo" themed party with Elmo hats, an Elmo cake, and Elmo gifts. Zadok enjoyed his favorite meal of meat sticks and his own "first personal" cake while guests enjoyed pizza and ice cream. Special guest for the celebration was his Godfather Sam B. Sparkman.

Three Girl Scouts earn Bronze Award

Recognizing the needs of others, forming a plan of action, and carrying out service to the community was the focus for three Bronze Award recipients. Lora Walterscheid, Rachel Hare, and Mikaela Lamar completed badge work, leadership skills, and project plans to earn their Girl Scout Bronze Award.

The Bronze Award is the highest award given at the Junior level of Girl Scouting. Each girl must complete specific badges and also spend specified hours planning and carrying out their project plus completing a record report. Lora, Rachel, and Mikaela decided to collect lightly used books from family, friends, and neighbors to deliver to the Scottish Rite Hospital Dyslexia Program. During their tour, they saw an inside view of classrooms, exam rooms, PT/OT workout rooms, and orthotics design and construction center. They also enjoyed the multiple fish tanks and play areas for children throughout the hospital. Over 2,000 books were collected, boxed, and delivered.

The girls were commended for their hard work and commitment to serve others.

Cooke County 4-H holds camp

The Cooke County 4-H County Camp was held at Collin County Adventure Camp under the direction of 4-H Extension Agent Phyllis Griffin and volunteer parents.

The group left Cooke County Monday arriving at camp to get acquainted, participate in games, and to take group pictures with their Double C 4-H League T shirts. The theme for the camp centered on heroes.

Group leaders and names were: Star Force, Carson Norton and Jill Walker; Night Wing, Stephen Wallace and Whitney Taylor; Geo Force, Paige Dill and Hal Ray Spears; Flash, Cooper Alexander and Madison Pearse; Green Lantern, Kendall Pearse and Loni Wilson; Superman, Victoria Blessing and Aaron Fleitman.

Following swimming and dinner on Monday night, the group watched a ceremonial by the Camp counselors who wore their hero capes.

In each morning session of camp, the counselors conducted lessons on Taking a Stand, which taught the campers how to get along with others, be a team, and how everyone is different and must adjust to each situation. They then enjoyed games on the low ropes, archery, BB shooting, or climbing the wall.

Afternoons were spent in workshops in the cool of air conditioning at the Club

Ed Building. Conducting the workshops were: Power Snacks, Phyllis Griffin and Denise Pearse; Screen Painting, Ann Blessing, Penny and Garren Taylor; Healthy Lifestyles, Leann Spears; Photography, Joyce White, Claudia Spears, and Adam Zimmerer; Going Green, Jenny Garner and Mark Blessing; Camp Crafts, Kelli Walker; Serving as the camp paramedics were Jerry Wells and Adam Zimmerer.

Following workshops, swimming and miniature golf was enjoyed by the campers.

Tuesday night, the group enjoyed lake activities of paddle boats, canoes, and kakashas. Also some good fishing from the deck. Afterwards the group enjoyed smores at their cabins.

On Wednesday night, the parents of the campers were invited to Family Night where the guests viewed the projects completed by the campers, a camp slide show, and tour of camp. The campers enjoyed a dance. To close the night, senior 4-H members Hal Ray Spears and Taylor Beuwin conducted a senior ceremony to honor their years of 4-H. They both told of what 4-H has meant to them and how it has influenced their lives. Hal Ray presented 4-H Agent Phyllis Griffin with a dozen roses as a thank you for what she has done for him.

On Thursday, each camp leader presented awards to their campers and the group returned to Gainesville tired, but full of new ideas and crafts for the new year.

Always designate someone to watch – not swim with – young swimmers

Many children narrowly escape drowning during summertime celebrations held near water. Even if life-guards are on duty, designating an adult water watcher could easily prevent a tragedy, said Dr. Steven Kernie, associate professor of pediatrics at UT Southwestern Medical Center.

"A lot of drownings happen at parties or social events where there are plenty of adults around, but everybody assumes someone else is watching the water," says Dr. Kernie, a pediatric critical care physician.

Water watchers should not swim themselves and have immediate access to a telephone so they can call 911 in case an accident occurs. That means keeping the phone, if it's a cell phone, charged and within reach rather than in your vehicle or indoors, Dr. Kernie says. Water watchers should also refrain from eating, talking, or other distractions while on duty.

Treat yourself to a picnic – sans Salmonella

Salmonella doesn't respect hot-weather holidays. Picnics and parties during the summertime can provide the ideal climate for growth of this bacteria, which can lead to food poisoning, says Dr. Kurt Kleinschmidt, professor of emergency medicine and toxicologist at UT Southwestern Medical Center.

Dr. Kleinschmidt offers a few tips to outsmart this germ:

- Refrigerate or freeze perishables immediately, and cook food to recommended temperatures in order to kill bacteria.

- Wash hands in hot, soapy water for at least 20 seconds before preparing, serving, or eating food.

- Thoroughly wash plates, utensils, cutting boards, and countertops after contact with raw meat.

- Avoid leaving food standing for long periods of time.

"Just be smart about how you buy, store, prepare, and serve food, and you'll reduce the risk of food-borne illnesses," said Dr. Kleinschmidt.

New school immunization requirements effective Aug. 1

Changes to school immunization requirements for five vaccines take effect Aug. 1 according to Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) officials.

"The changes were made to update the Texas elementary and secondary school immunization requirements to more closely match recommendations by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices," said Jack Sims, DSHS immunization branch manager.

Changes affect mainly students entering kindergarten and seventh grade. All immunizations must be completed by the first day of attendance at public and private schools. The vaccines and new requirements are:

- Hepatitis A vaccine: Students entering kindergarten statewide must have had two doses of the hepatitis A vaccine.

- Measles, mumps, rubella (MMR) vaccine: Students entering kindergarten must have had two doses of the MMR vaccine. Students in grades 1 through 12 must continue to meet the current requirement, which is two doses of a measles-containing vaccine and one dose each of mumps and rubella vaccine.

- Varicella vaccine: Students entering kindergarten and seventh grade must have had two doses. Students in grades 1 through 6 and 8 through 12 must continue to meet the current requirement, which is one dose of varicella vaccine.

- Tetanus, diphtheria, acellular pertussis-containing vaccine (Tdap): Students entering seventh grade must have had one dose of Tdap vaccine. Students in seventh grade must have had a booster dose of Tdap, but only if it has been five years since their last dose of a tetanus-containing vaccine. Students in grades 8 through 12 must have had a booster dose of Tdap if it has been 10 years since their last dose of a tetanus-containing vaccine.

- Meningococcal vaccine: Students entering seventh grade must have had one dose.

"A student may be enrolled provisionally if the student has received at least one dose of each required vaccine," Sims said. "To remain enrolled, the student must complete the required doses in each vaccine series on schedule and as quickly as is medically feasible."

Information about the new Texas immunization requirements was sent to health care providers, schools, and child-care facilities earlier this year.

The entire list of immunization requirements effective Aug. 1 for the 2009-10 school year is available at www.dshs.state.tx.us/immunize/docs/school/6-14eng.pdf.

Immunizations also are required for children in pre-kindergarten and child-care facilities. Those requirements are available at www.dshs.state.tx.us/immunize/docs/school/childcare_reqsENG.pdf.

Drive safely this summer

As summer begins, DPS reminds teens to play it safe while driving. In the U.S., motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for teens. Approximately 6,000 teens per year are killed in traffic crashes in this country—that's the equivalent of one commercial airliner full of teens crashing every week.

"Teen drivers' inexperience, combined with other factors, accounts for the fact that they are involved in three times as many fatal crashes as all other drivers," said Texas Highway Patrol Chief David Baker.

Teenagers are more likely to be involved in car crashes because of their inexperience behind the wheel, but they can take several steps to reduce their chances of becoming involved in a wreck.

Those safety steps include:

- Do not send text messages while driving! Talking on the cell phone and texting are dangerous distractions when you're behind the wheel.
- Always use your safety belt, and tell everyone in your vehicle to buckle up.
- Don't drink or use drugs and drive.
- Don't speed or race other cars.
- Exercise caution while driving at night. Darkness can make navigating the road more difficult, especially for inexperienced drivers.

If teen drivers make these simple steps a part of their daily routine, they'll improve their chances of returning home safely. These steps will also reduce their chances of receiving a ticket. From June through August 2008, the Texas Highway Patrol issued almost 5,000 citations to teens (ages 15-19) for driving under the influence, not wearing safety belts, and speeding.

Drought hits farmers and homeowners

This year's drought has affected not only area farmers and ranchers, but also homeowners.

Many homeowners are seeing their landscapes wither due to lack of rainfall and summer heat. Some homeowners are seeing their water bills skyrocket and probably not long from now, several communities will ask homeowners to conserve water through water rationing.

Proper maintenance is a key principle in reducing irrigation requirements in the landscape. Maintenance practices, such as mulching, mowing, and fertilizing greatly impact the water efficiency of any landscape, as well as the landscape's ability to survive a drought.

Research at Texas A&M University has shown that unmulched soil may lose twice as much water to evaporation as mulched soil. Mulch is a layer of material covering the soil surface around plants. Mulches can be organic materials, such as shredded bark, compost, and wood chips; or inorganic materials, such as lava rock, limestone, and woven plastic.

Use a mulch wherever possible. A good mulch preserves soil moisture, prevents soil compaction, keeps soil temperatures more moderate and reduces weed populations. In case weeds do get a start, they are much easier to pull if a mulch has been used. Organic mulches will decompose and sometimes regularly and replacements when necessary.

In addition to mulching, other maintenance practices help save water in the landscape. Raising the mowing height on turfgresses helps lawns survive drought conditions. For example, raise the mowing height on St. Augustine grass to 3 1/2 to 4 inches during drought. The typical mowing height is 2 to 2 1/2 inches.

Another maintenance practice that adds to the efficient use of water by plants is proper fertilization. Applying fertilizer to the lawn at the proper time and in the proper amount can save time, effort, and money through reduced mowing and watering. Fertilizers can also be a major source of pollution of streams and groundwater if excessive amounts are applied.

Other cultural practices that add to the efficient use of water by plants are periodic checks of the irrigation system, properly-timed insect and disease control, and elimination of water demanding weeds.

Knowing when to water, and for how long, is fundamental to maintaining a quality landscape that is water efficient. Newly planted trees and shrubs will need more frequent watering until they are well-rooted. As with lawns, trees and shrubs should be watered as infrequently as possible, yet thoroughly. Most established trees and shrubs will benefit from a twice a month thorough watering during the growing season in the absence of adequate rain.

County Agent's Report By Wayne Becker

Insects in Grain Sorghum

Most insect pests of sorghum are occasional pests, meaning they cause economic damage in localized areas or only during certain years. Early-planted sorghum generally avoids damaging numbers of sorghum midge, corn earworm, fall armyworm, sorghum webworm, stalk borers, and grain head-infecting bugs, but not always. Currently, producers need to be checking sorghum fields for midge and for corn earworms and/or armyworms.

The beat-bucket technique is the best way to estimate the number of corn earworm, fall armyworm, sorghum webworm, and bugs in sorghum grain heads. Shake sorghum grain heads vigorously into a 2.5 to 5-gallon plastic bucket. Then count the caterpillars and bugs in the bucket.

The sorghum midge is best detected visually. It is one of the most damaging insects to sorghum in Texas. The adult sorghum midge is a small, fragile-looking, orange-red fly with a yellow head, brown antennae and legs, and gray, membranous wings. The midges are capable of reproducing quickly. Early-season infestations in sorghum are usually below damaging levels. Later developing sorghum is at a much higher degree of risk from the midges. Numbers often drop late in the season.

A sorghum midge damages sorghum when the larva feeds on a newly fertilized ovary, preventing normal kernel development. Grain loss can be extremely high. To determine whether insecticides are needed, evaluate crop development, yield potential, and sorghum midge abundance daily during sorghum flowering. The period of susceptibility to sorghum midge may last from seven to nine days (individual grain head) to two to three weeks (individual field), depending on the uniformity of flowering. Scout for this pest with visual inspection of heads at mid-morning when the temperature warms to approximately 85° F. Sorghum midge adults can be seen crawling on or flying about flowering sorghum grain heads. Inspect random grain heads carefully and at close range. Because adult sorghum midges live less than one day, each day a new brood of adults emerges. Therefore, sampling must be done almost daily during the time sorghum grain heads are flowering. Inspect plants along field borders first, particularly those downwind of earlier flowering sorghum or johnsongrass.

Plan now for your winter hay needs

Given the recent rains, pastures in the County are in pretty good shape. This may be an omen that indicates you should be planning to exclude some pasture to extend grazing as far past frost this fall as possible, or planning to add winter annuals to your management plan. Some reports have indicated that the hay crop has not been the best as of yet this year, possibly because of a cooler than normal spring and a later than normal green-up, and depending on your location in the County, you may have missed the rain!

If you are planning for this winter's hay feeding, you already know that most 1,000-pound cows will consume about 1 1/2 to 2 tons of hay during a winter feeding period. Hay quality dictates the cow's other nutritional requirements, and the actual amount of baled hay required per cow will depend on storage losses.

The old rule of thumb is that a cow will eat 25 to 30 pounds of hay per day. For an average feeding period of 150 days, this translates into 75 to 90 square bales at 50 pounds each, or three to four 1,200-pound round bales. This does not figure in hay quality. Waste from hay bales stored outside on the ground also increases the hay needs. It is probable that you may lose one-third of each bale to rot and/or inedible spoilage when hay is stored on the ground and not well protected from rainfall.

Agriculture groups decry indirect land use schemes

Agriculture and energy groups recently said that indirect land use calculations should not be used to regulate the production of renewable fuels, calling the idea "a theory that defies reality." The comments were made in a letter sent by the American Farm Bureau Federation, National Farmers Union and Growth Energy to House Agriculture Committee Chair Collin Peterson (D-Minn.) and Ranking Member Frank Lucas (R-Okla.) in support of The Renewable Fuel Standard Improvement Act (HR 2409).

"It is our strong belief that the theory of using indirect land use calculations for determining the life cycle emissions of a liquid fuel is unrealistic and problematic," said the letter. "There are too many unanswered questions about how it is defined and implemented. It is not based on universally accepted science, and should not be used to regulate the production of renewable fuels by our nation's farmers and renewable fuels producers."

According to the groups, using indirect land use calculations would also put U.S. agriculture in jeopardy by making farmers responsible for actions in other countries, which are beyond their control. Far too many variables determine other nations' farming practices, including macro economic issues, worldwide weather, and productivity gains, as well as variable uses for the same commodity.

Using Brazil as an example, the groups cited that "Brazil has been deforesting for decades—long before corn ethanol or biodiesel were viable industries. In fact, over the past five years, ethanol production has nearly doubled, while at the same time deforestation in Brazil has been reduced by 50%."

In other areas of HR 2409, the groups said they supported provisions to define biomass, increase the participation of both the Agriculture and Energy Departments, and to grandfather biodiesel plants.

"We will also continue to work through the EPA rulemaking process to address our concerns about the science, the modeling, and other provisions of the RFS-II rule to ensure that our nation continues to advance renewable fuels," the letter concluded.

Job prospects for ag grads

In the midst of a global economic slowdown, you would think graduating seniors would have problems finding employment. But that's not the case for agriculture majors at Texas universities.

According to Texas A&M University, more companies are requesting resumes and interviews with agriculture students, and more are offering jobs to graduating seniors this year. In fact, officials with the Texas A&M College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, which has 31 undergraduate degrees and 72 graduate degrees, say job offers are up 12% from this time last year. That's great news, considering the state of today's economy.

Texas A&M poultry science graduate Brent Jones was still able to land a job in his field despite some challenging economic times in the poultry business. "With that degree, I wasn't too worried with the growth of the poultry industry. Not being able to find a job wasn't a big concern. People will always need to eat."

During last year's International Poultry Expo, Jones had at least 15 interviews during a three-day period. One company even flew him to Georgia for an interview and a tour of their facility. Jones eventually received several job offers and is currently employed at H-E-B as an associate team leader at the company's San Antonio meat plant.

As Texas students contemplate a major, they should continue to take a close look at agriculture. The opportunities for a career in this field are promising even during an economic slowdown. Making sure the best and the brightest choose agriculture is essential to ensure this industry maintains its status as a key component of the Texas economy.
