SHCS Juniors re-use items for 2011 Reflections Prom

By Janet Felderhoff

With a goal to purchase as little new as possible and to re-use and recycle as much as they could, the Sacred Heart Catholic School Junior Class of 19 students, their sponsor Dale Schilling, and parents Donna Biffle and Stacie Miller set out on their mission. They chose the theme Reflections because it allowed flexibility in decor.

The decision was to not purchase a prom kit because they cost thousands of dollars and are trashed after one use. Instead they opted to use imagination, some items remaining untouched for years in attics, lots of elbow grease, and items that to others were trash.

With 180 hours of prep time and re-using or recycling 85-90% of the materials for decorations, the Junior Class saved thousands of dollars that was then used to purchase nice items that were raffled off during the evening. According to parent Donna Biffle, the only decoration items purchased new at full price were the red carpet, balloons, and glue. Chargers and votive candles were purchased at greatly reduced prices. Many items were boxed up after the event and are being stored for future use.

After selecting the theme, a search ensued to find suitthat are discarded. Some

Winds fan rural grass fire on Tuesday

Muenster Volunteer Fire Department responded to a grass fire call at 1:18 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 22. They were on the scene until 3:08 p.m. The fire started on Sylvan Walterscheid's property along CR 423 when a control burn in a burn pit got out of hand. It burned in a northwesterly direction toward FM 373. An estimated 80-90 acres burned according to Muenster VFD Chief Herbie Knabe. Muenster responded with five trucks and 12 firefighters and Myra VFD assisted with two trucks and four firefighters. They used 9,900 gallons of water to douse the flames. One truck got stuck in the mud while fighting the fire. The Muenster VFD was kept busy Friday morning when they were called to assist at a one-vehicle roll-over on South FM 373 below Gehrig hill. The MVFD rolled out on the call at 8:24 a.m. and arrived on the scene at 8:29. It was a very foggy morning. They were not finished assisting there until 11:12 a.m. The vehicle was an 18-wheeler hauling cattle. The driver was uninjured, but at least 24 head of cattle died as a result of injuries sustained in the accident. MVFD assisted with the cattle and traffic while the accident scene was worked. aware of an upcoming public meeting taking place on Thursday, March 3 to discuss an Air Quality Permit for a proposed rock crusher located approximately miles south of FM 1630 on the east side of CR 343 in Muenster, Cooke County, Texas. This facility will not only affect the houses and living environment directly surrounding the facility, but will greatly increase the truck traffic, decrease air quality, and increase noise and dust issues all around the area. The increased traffic will also adversely affect the already greatly deteriorated road conditions.

left town, she left him behind. He was 13 and alone in the world when he entered foster care. Alone, that is, until a judge assigned Michael a court-appointed special advocate, or CASA volunteer. Having a caring adult advocate in his life made a powerful difference for Michael.

CASA volunteers are appointed by judges to represent the best interests of young people who have been removed from their homes due to abuse or neglect. CASA of North Texas is dedicated to getting abused and neglected children out of the foster care system and into safe, permanent homes. On average, volunteers from the program speak out on behalf of 90 children each year in Cooke County.
Michael's CASA volunteer,

Joe, knew that the social services department had been unable to locate the boy's father. But the department had thousands of children to worry about, and Joe had only one. He did some independent investigating and found Michael's father living in another state. Working with Michael's state caseworker, Joe helped arrange a phone call between Michael and his father, who was overjoyed to hear from his son and ready to parent.

Baptism

Walterscheid

On Sunday, Feb. 13, Daniel Patrick Walterscheid was baptized in Sacred Heart Catholic Church following the 10:30 a.m. Mass. Officiating at the Sacrament of Baptism was Father Ken Robinson. Daniel is the son of Ron and Celeste Walterscheid. His Godparents are Angel and Waylen Hess, friends of the couple.

For his Baptism, Daniel wore a new white romper suit with a vest effect and a bow tie. He had a St. Daniel medal pinned to his garment, a gift from his paternal grandparents, and his first rosary, a gift from his Godparents, was placed on him. Daniel was wrapped in two white blankets, one made by his dad's Godmother Ginger Kupper, and the other made by Sister Barbara Bernauer of New York.

Present at the Sacrament of Baptism were Daniel Patrick's parents, his grandparents Jerry and Betty Rose Walterscheid of Muenster and Pat and Debby Crowder of Collinsville; uncles and aunts and cousins Travis in blue in the shape of a and Stephanie Irick of Pi- cross held a baby with gold lot Point, Doug and Leigh Walterscheid and Traci and was made by Betty Rose. and Dana Walterscheid and Sara, Abby, and Lora of

This year, 187,484 of books read increased by has once again promoted the Texas Bluebonnet Award (TBA) Reading Program to the Muenster Elementary students in the 3rd-6th grade, and the level of participation was outstanding. The unique characteristic of the Texas Bluebonnet Award is that the students get to vote on the winning book out of a group of 20 that were selected by a Texas Library Association (TLA) committee. Hence the motto, "Read five and then decide.

The goal of the TBA program is to "...encourage Texas children to read more current books, develop powers of discrimination, and number of participants grew

Texas students voted in January. After all votes were counted, the Texas Library Association announced that student participation and the award went to The Uglified Ducky: A Maynard Moose Tale by Willy Claffin. In second place was Dying to Meet You: 43 Cemetery Road by Kate Klise.

Tigerettes win first round

ettes hosted the Lady Vikings of Waco Vanguard Prep last Saturday in round one of the TAPPS basketball playoffs. "The girls' effort was outstanding," comment-ed Coach Jon LeBrasseur. "I am so proud of how we controlled the flow of the game on the offensive end. Playoff time is all about possession basketball, and this young squad is grasping that thought."

The Tigerettes had total control of the boards, allowing the Lady Vikings a total of 13 points in three periods, while scoring 53 - 26 in the 1st quarter alone.

Kaitlin Hesse led the Tigerettes with 20 points (10 in the 1st period) and 11 rebounds. Sydney Hoedebeck added 10, Bailey Walterscheid 8, Karleigh Reeves 7, Karli Anderle 6, Kelsey Reeves 5, and 2 apiece by Mikaela Bartush, Rebekah Hesse, Peyton Reiter, and Kylie Hess.

Knights win tiebreaker; lose 1st round

Third time's a charm for the Lindsay Knights as they defeated the Pirates of Collinsville last Friday to earn the 3rd place playoff spot in the District. A few extra points in the 2nd half gave the Knights a 38-34 victory.

After a low-scoring 8-8 1st half, Collinsville came out and built a small lead. A few shots eventually fell for the Knights for a 3 point lead going into the 4th period. In the final quarter, Lindsay slowly increased their lead. Garrett Yancey sealed the win with three free throws at the end.

Yancey was high scorer for the Knights with 13. Thomas Rohmer and Dean Fleitman each added 9. Madison Parkhill, Dawson Holt, and Travis Skinner scored 2 apiece, and Drew Cooney 1. The Knights only commit-

Fertilizing the vegetable garden

Proper fertilization is an important key to successful vegetable gardening. The amount of fertilizer needed depends upon the soil type and the crops you are growing. Cooke County soils vary from poor to excellent; therefore it stands to reason that your soil's nutrient needs may be different from that of your neighbor's.

Clay soils can be fertilized much more heavily at planting han can sandy soils. Heavy clay soils and those with plenty of organic matter can safely absorb and store fertilizer at three to four times the rate of sandy soils. Thin, sandy soils, which need fertilizer the most, unfortunately cannot be fed as heavily without burning plants. The solution is to feed poor, thin soils more often in lighter doses. For accurate recommendations regarding fertilizer rates for specific crops, you should utilize a soil sample. For general nutrient recommendations for a specific vegetable, you can consult one of the publications in the "Easy Gardening" series located on the internet at: http://aggie-horticulture.tamu.edu/extension/tives also received a copy of If you are getting ready to plant and need a general fertilizer recommendation, the "Texas Home Vegetable Gardening Guide" tells us, if your garden is located on deep, sandy ernment at FY-2010 levels soil, apply a complete preplant fertilizer such as 5-10-10 or 6-12-12 at the rate of one to two pounds per 100 square feet. If your soil has a high percentage of clay, a fertilizer such as 10-20-10 or 12-24-12 applied at one to two pounds per 100 square feet should be suitable. Make the preplant fertilizer application a few days before planting. Spade the garden plot, spread the fertilizer by hand or with a fertilizer distributor, and then work the soil well to properly mix the fertilizer with the soil.

TDA market recap

For the week ending Feb. 19, feeder cattle auction prices were steady to $10 higher per hundredweight with tight supplies, higher fed cattle markets, and renewed demand following the winter storms earlier in the month. Fed cattle were up sharply as processors sought to line up supplies in anticipation of higher prices later in the spring.

Winter wheat was reported in mostly fair to very poor condition and needs moisture in most areas. Field preparations for spring planting are underway statewide. Pastures were also reported in fair to very poor condition with supplemental livestock feed needed in many locations. Spring calving, lambing, and kidding remained active.

TEXAS

AG TALK

By Billy B. Brown Secretary-Treasurer

Does your groundwater district believe in private property rights?

Most landowners have a strong belief that they have a Texas private property right to the groundwater beneath their land. They believe that the Rule of Capture gives them a property right to drill a well and pump groundwater for their use. Unfortunately, this belief is being challenged at the Texas Supreme Court and the halls of the State Capitol. The Edwards Aquifer Authority, some groundwater con servation districts (maybe your district), and some historic groundwater users are saying the landowner does not have a private property right in Texas to the groundwater beneath their land. They say you only have a right to the groundwater you capture and control above the surface. Why would they make this argument? Because if you don't have a property right, then your access to the groundwater can be limited or completely taken away without you having any legal right

Your property rights as a landowner are legally "vested So, if groundwater is considered to be a property right that you have as a landowner, it is a "vested" right—one that is protected from unfair regulation and cannot be taken from you without compensation.

Does your groundwater district believe that you have property right in the groundwater beneath your land?

This is a very important question. It is the difference in how far your district believes it may legally go in restricting your right to groundwater. It is the difference in whether your district is paying attorneys to file legal briefs with the Texas Supreme Court saying you don't have a property right in groundwater. It is the difference in whether or not the lobbyist for your district is in Austin opposing legislation to protect your groundwater rights. Is your district for or

Some districts will say that they believe the landowner has a right to the groundwater, but they don't know if it is a "vested" right. They are completely missing the point. Property rights are "vested" rights. Landowners don't have property rights that aren't vested. So, either the district believes you have a "vested" right to groundwater as the landowner or they don't. Legally, there is no "in-between."

Some districts also say they fear that they won't be able to egulate groundwater if the landowner has a "vested" right. They seem to believe that "vested" rights are some sort of 'super" property rights—that if it is restricted, then the landowner must be compensated. It is very troubling if districts believe this. It makes one wonder if these local districts have the knowledge and ability to exercise the extensive regulatory authority given to them by the legislature.

Why would a property right in groundwater be superior to all the other property rights of a landowner? Are there any other property rights that can't be regulated? NO! Then why would district believe that they can't continue to regulate groundwater as a "vested" property right?

Cities, state agencies, and federal agencies certainly don't seem to have any doubt about their authority to regulate a landowner's property rights. Cities have extensive power to restrict the use of private property. All of these rights are vested." Yet, cities have no problem in enforcing zoning ordinances, building codes, etc. The Railroad Commission of Texas certainly doesn't have any issues with regulating the "vested" rights to oil and gas.

So, if you aren't sure whether or not your local district believes you have a legal right to the groundwater beneath your land, then you may want to ask the question. In fact, it is your obligation to ask the question. These districts are accountable to you. You have a right to know if they are working against your rights in court or in the Capitol.

In fact, there are a few groundwater conservation districts that are willing to support landowners' private property rights in Texas. The water beneath my land falls under the authority of the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District. They have adopted a resolution supporting the landowner's vested right to groundwater. Unfortunately, some districts have refused. Is your district one of them? Landowners voted to create these districts to protect their groundwater rights. Does your district believe you have rights? There's one way to find out. Ask them.

In observance of Dental Health Month, Iva Walterscheid (at right), dental hygienist from Dr. Elaine Schilling's office, came as a guest speaker to the Montessori classroom of Sacred Heart Catholic School. She demonstrated proper brushing and flossing techniques using "Al," the gator, and actively involved the PreK and K students in sorting pictures of good and bad food choices. Each student was delighted to receive a bag of dental materials compliments of Dr. Schilling. Pictured with Iva Walterscheid are students, from left, Tyler Felderhoff, Garrett Muller, and Carter Sicking.

Cardboard boxes salvaged from furniture and appliance stores provided the materials to create this beautiful city setting at the SHCS prom. The junior boys designed and built it. Courtesy photo
