VOLUME V

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1941

NUMBER 39

Of all the commodities to be affected by the war the greatest surprise to yours truly is carrot seed. Yes, carrot seed, believe it or not. Just a few days ago one of the merchants received a shipment of the seed. The price had been boosted from $1.60 a pound to $4.00. Other seeds in the shipment were priced about the same as usual.

Our friend knew the whole interesting story behind this carrot situation. Examinations of men entering the country's service disclosed that a great number of them lacked certain physical qualifications that should have been supplied by vitamin A, the best source of which is carrots. Examinations in Britain told the same story. Of course Britain made the discovery before we did and promptly placed a huge order for carrot seeds. Hence we now have a shortage at the very time of our nation's greatest demand.

In England, so they say, they're really taking this thing seriously. To induce children to eat carrots some have gone so far as to put on a chocolate coating. The kids are supposed to munch them between meals instead of candy bars. At the table "eat your carrots" has become a more important rule than "eat your spinach."

What we need now is some popular cartoonist who will keep his hero going on carrots the way Popeye does on spinach. If they'll just put Dick Tracy, the Lone Ranger or Superman on that diet youngsters will be somewhat easier to coax along.

It's amazing the way those vitamins work. Recent experiments indicated that rats, when deprived of vitamin A, got scrawny and sickly and almost blind. Shortly after the vitamin was added to the diet the rat's eyes cleared and they regained perfect health. No doubt that is what we could expect of ourselves if we left out that one vitamin altogether.

The reason we get along is that we get all the vitamins, some in under-doses, perhaps, but we aren't completely lacking in any. Diets prescribed by doctors are intended to give us an extra supply when we are found to be deficient in any one of them. For instance, lots of doctors prescribe carrots for certain kinds of eye trouble.

All of which gives us greater respect for the lowly carrot. Con has often heard it referred to as a "complexion weed"—good for that skin you love to touch—but did not consider it especially useful unless a person's taste happened to lean that way. Now it's beginning to seem that eating carrots is one form of patriotism.

When you come to think of it, the person who is ready to eat every dish on the table is rather lucky. He has a better chance of getting a balance of all essential vitamins than the one who doesn't care for this and that and a dozen other things. On that principle we venture a guess that such people actually enjoy better health. Wonder what the medicals have to say about this theory?

The above reference to rats for experimenting recalls the fact that a rat, in its physical make-up is supposed to be more similar to a human being than any other animal. It is omnivorous, eating meat, vegetables, berries, pastries and everything else, even devouring its own kind in a pinch—like our cannibals do. Its digestive organs act the same way. It responds similarly to most medicines.

We are inclined to wonder whether this striking analogy was the Creator's subtle way of reminding us that we aren't so high and mighty after all.

A pessimist would say the similarity goes even farther. Some people are as contemptible as rats.

Another note on vitamins refers to white bread. In the process of refining, flour loses many of its health attributes, such as thiamin and nicotinic acid. Leading bakeries now add those ingredients to their bread, but the addition would not be necessary if whole wheat flour were used. We may see the time when most of our bread is made of whole wheat. Today it constitutes only two per cent of the total.

Yours truly is in receipt of a membership card in the Sidewalk Superintendent's club of the Mercantile Bank building, Dallas. That institution, now constructing its 30-story office on the site of the old post office, invites everybody to come and see.

All of us know about the sideline kibitzers on an excavation job. It's

FMA Receives 43,000 Pounds Of Milk Daily

The dairy industry is still going strong in this locality. Daily receipts at the cheese factory are now about 43,000 pounds and the price is 45 cents per pound of butter fat.

Rudy Hellman, manager of the plant, stated Tuesday that the community's milk production is holding up far better than usual for this time of the year. During the past month the volume has fallen only 2,000 pounds. Last year at this time the total was 36,000.

Two circumstances are keeping the figure high. Scattered summer showers have revived pastures to provide exceptionally good summer grazing. And the number of dairy cows is increasing steadily. Within the past few weeks dozens of cows have been added to herds of this area.

Milk prices have reached an all-time high for the history of the local cheese factory. When it first opened the price was 42 cents and for a short time last winter, while production was very low, it reached 43, but this is the first time volume and price have both been high. Considering the year's poor harvest, the larger milk checks are especially timely.

Egg prices are also up to an exceptional figure for this time of the year. Farmers are getting 25 cents a dozen.

COMMUNITY BEGINS HARVEST OF SILAGE CROP THIS WEEKEND

The latter part of this week and the beginning of next week will bring on this community's second harvest season—the gathering of silage crops. The number of farmers who put up feed in that manner is estimated at 40 to 50.

It is believed this area has about 15 trench silos and the same number of upright silos. In addition there are usually some who stack the feed in bundles and permit them to cure as silage and some who use picket fencing to hold the feed.

In general the silage crop is good. Abundant moisture during its early stages provided a good sub-soil that carried through four weeks of drought. Recent rains have been very beneficial to the maturing crop.

Era Softball Club Swamps Muenster 12-1

The Muenster softballers went down in miserable defeat Tuesday night before a team of hard-hitting Era youngsters. Final tally was 12 to 1.

On the part of local players it was a ragged game. Their fielding and hitting were both poor. Several of their regulars were out of the game. At the same time the visitors were playing a snappy game through every minute whether at bat or in the field.

Lately younger lads of the community are showing some anxiety to take a turn on the diamond. Several boys of elementary school age have challenged the regular girls' team and are busy now organizing their club. They hope to have one act of a double header in the near future. The boys have also asked the older fellows to arrange for junior games when they schedule meetings with out-of-town opponents.

The next game on schedule will be at Nocona this Thursday night.

College Offers 12 Week Cram Course for Air Cadet Entrance Exam

SAN ANTONIO.—St. Mary's University will inaugurate an "Air Corps Institute" about Oct. 1 to prepare young men who have not completed two years of college for the mental examinations for admission to aviation cadet training.

A twelve-week session of concentrated doses of English, arithmetic, algebra, trigonometry, geometry, U. S. history, general history, and perhaps chemistry or physics will be offered. The session will be repeated four times a year, to end just before the quarterly examination periods: February, May, August and November.

A cooperative effort in the interest of national defense, the institute is jointly sponsored by the Fort Sam Houston Recruiting Office here; Motor Transport Post 1533 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and St. Mary's.

Officials of these three organizations—Leut. John W. Cooper Jr., Norman L. Summers and Rev. Bro. Thomas J. Treadway, S. M., Ph. D., respectively, jointly announced the institute here this week.

Information at St. Mary's indicates that at least seven other schools of the nation are offering similar institutes: San Angelo Junior College, Corpus Christi Junior College, University of Detroit, University of Baltimore, Michigan State College, Wayne (Ind.) University and Huntington (Ind.) College.

ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL CONFER AT SEA

The President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain met aboard the British battleship, HMS Prince of Wales, surrounded by high ranking officers of the American and British armed forces. In this photo an informal one of the meeting, President Roosevelt is leaning over talking to Winston Churchill, while the Captain of the Prince of Wales (name unknown) chats with the executives. Standing left to right: General George C. Marshall of U. S.; Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles; Admiral Harold R. Stark of the U. S. Navy; Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord of the Admiralty and General Sir John G. Dill, Chief of British Imperial Staff.

MORE CLOTHES AND BEDDING SENT OUT BY MISSION SOCIETY

Twenty-six ladies were present for the monthly meeting of the Saint Anne's Mission Sewing circle in the school basement Thursday afternoon and busied themselves with quilting, mending and rolling hospital bandages. More than the usual amount of good work was done.

Mrs. John Eberhart, president of the organization, expressed her thanks for materials and supplies that were donated in response to her appeal last week.

This weekend a large box of articles will be packed and shipped to the Central Bureau for distribution to needy missions before cold weather sets in. Mrs. Eberhart is pleased at the conclusion of the afternoon's activity Mrs. Joe Swinger served refreshments of coffee and sweet rolls to the group.

Excessive Exposure To Moisture May Cause Large Losses of Turkeys

Moisture contributes largely to diseases among turkeys, especially coccidiosis, paratyphoid infection and blackhead. Sanitation, particularly dryness, says George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, is the only effective preventive.

Excessive rainfall has been hard on young turkeys and indications are that poultry losses are considerably above average. But if poulters can have dry roosting quarters and are confined to pens during rainy periods to prevent them running through the wet grass, a lot of the losses can be controlled. Some turkey producers report they are finding that sulphur has given very good control of coccidiosis.

Blackhead easily is identified in post mortem examinations by the spotted condition of the liver and the heavily congested areas in the ceca, McCarthy says. This disease is best controlled by keeping young turkeys away from ground which has been used for poultry. The cecal worms in chickens are the carriers of the blackhead organism and it is transmitted to turkeys in this manner on contaminated ground.

McCarthy suggests that it is a good practice to treat turkeys for intestinal parasites several times during the growing season, perhaps worming them first at about 12 weeks of age and at least twice more during the growing period. He prescribes a regular pullet size capsule or a worm powder in the mash. If any of the turkeys are ailing, under no conditions give them a worm capsule as it might kill some of the weaker ones. In such cases he recommends a flock treatment.

"Indications are that turkeys are going to be in the money this fall, so make every effort to raise all you have," McCarthy adds.

County Fair Gets Off To Good Start

Best Local Attendance Expected Thursday For Muenster Day

Though slightly behind their 1940 attendance figures for the first two days, officials of the Cooke County Fair still have a chance to realize their hope of topping all previous records this year. The event got off to a flying start Monday with 3,402, 47 above last year's figure but the following day fell off 141 from the corresponding day of 1940. For the first two days the attendance stood at 6,644.

Evidence of extensive work and splendid cooperation are again evident at the fair. Almost all leading business concerns of Gainesville have attractive displays. There is a large variety of exhibits in livestock, poultry, canned goods, etc. Decorations carry out the patriotic theme.

Featured entertainment events are the Gainesville Community Circus performance on Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Bonner's rodeo on Thursday and Friday. Bill Hames Shows appear on the midway every day.

Muenster has been represented by an average of several dozen persons at the fair the first three nights and is expected to send over its largest delegation Thursday, designated as Muenster day. Persons who intended to go but had no special preference of dates waited until Thursday. Others who found conflicts in their plans or wished to see certain programs at the fair picked other days.

Probably the only caravan from here is that scheduled to leave between 5 and 5:15 and consisting of Garden Club ladies, their children and 4-H Girls. The group, estimated at about 80, will occupy 12 to 15 cars, and will go to Leonard Park for a picnic supper before going to the fair.

No attempt is being made to gather other visitors into a group. Past experience has shown that all prefer to go over by themselves when they are ready and too few will wait for a crowd to gather.

Public School Opens Sept. 8; Date Not Set For Parochial School

The Muenster public school will open on September 8 and the parochial school may open on the same date but is more likely to wait a week.

An improvement program now in progress at the sisters' home will be responsible for the delay, if any, in the school's opening. Father Frowin stated this week. Only three teachers are here at the present time and the others will not be summoned until the house is ready. After that it may not be possible to complete arrangements before the eighth.

Both schools will offer 12 grade courses this year. At the public school the new system was adopted in response to recommendations by the state and county boards of education. An extra teacher, bringing the total to five, has been engaged to make the change possible.

The twelve grade course has always been in effect at the other school. The teaching staff this year will be the same as last year, eight elementary, and three high school teachers and a separate teacher for the music department.

EVERY SECOND THIS NATION GOES $277.00 FARTHER IN THE RED

WASHINGTON.—Piling up at the rate of $277.50 a second, the federal debt towered above the 450,000,000,000 mark, a figure almost double the $26,596,701,648 peak reached in World War days.

Treasury officials said that since the new fiscal year began July 1, the debt has increased about $1,040,000,000. It has not, however, kept pace with defense expenditures which aggregated $1,400,000,000 during that six-week period.

On the basis of an estimated population of 132,633,000 the present debt amounts to $376.97 per person. The principal factor in the rising debt has been the sale of defense savings bonds, which netted about $480,000,000 in the six weeks. Another $255,000,000 came from the sale of tax anticipation notes. Although these securities are destined to be turned back to the Treasury in payment of taxes, they are regular debt securities and will be replaced by other forms of debt before they are cashed in. Other debts incurred in the six weeks included a variety of transactions such as borrowing from the unemployment trust and old age reserve funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stelzer of Fort Worth spent Saturday evening and Sunday here with relatives.

HALIFAX WELCOMES BEAVERBROOK TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—British Ambassador to the United States, Lord Halifax (left) greeting Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Supply in the British Government, on the latter's arrival at the British Embassy here. Lord Beaverbrook then began negotiations to secure more arms and supplies of all kinds for embattled Britain.

F. A. KATHMAN TAKES OVER LOCAL ROUTE FOR PURITY BREAD

Beginning next Monday, F. A. "Wimpy" Kathman will take over the Purity Bread route to Muenster, Saint Jo, Myra and Lindsay. He replaces J. B. Bailor, who is giving up the work to accept another job. Arrangements for transfer of the truck were completed Wednesday.

In connection with the route, Kathman will continue his radio repair service here. Normally bread deliveries are completed early in the afternoon.

Parish Hears Reports Of Delegates to Catholic State League Convention

Delegates of the local parish societies to the Catholic State League convention at Pilot Point last month gave reports of the three-day convocation during a general meeting in the parish hall Sunday evening.

An excellent account of activity was given by Mrs. Ben Hellman, Miss Mathilda Hess and Miss Armella Yostan, supplemented with brief explanations and details by Father Richard. He also read a report prepared by Miss Anna Marie Klement who was unable to attend the meeting.

C. J. Wimmer, as chairman of the session, was in charge of the meeting and introduced the speakers.

September 30 Draft Will Take 4 Cooke County Men

Four white men of this county, probably including two volunteers, will be inducted into Selective Service on September 30, according to instructions received this week by the Cooke County Selective Service board. Ancil Ross, chief clerk, stated that two volunteers are now on the list and it is possible to fill the quota with volunteers before the month expires.

NEW EQUIPMENT ADDED

A pneumatic fender ironing hammer is the latest addition to the body repair department of Luke's garage. That tool, which taps out blemishes with the speed of machine gun fire, was the only unit needed to make the local shop one of the best equipped in North Texas.

ON OUR SIDE, BUT NOT AN ALLY

In the opinion of one New York editor it was very significant that religion was not listed as one of the several forms of freedom assured in the eight points of world readjustment drawn up by Roosevelt and Churchill in their mid-ocean meeting last week. He considered it as a deliberate omission in order to avoid offense to Russia.

Perhaps the editor is correct. More than once this country has abandoned principles to humor Russia. It sanctioned trade and diplomatic relations with that country at a time when it knew definitely that Stalin was working underhanded to wreck civilization all over the world. It even continued those relations while Russia, allied with Germany, forwarded much of our goods to the Reich. Now it's furnishing war material for Russia. And there are plans for a Moscow conference in which American and British high officials will meet with Stalin.

Why this intimate friendship between our government and the Red tyrant? For years neither United States nor England has had anything whatever in common with the communistic regime. Today the only bond is a mutual hatred of Hitler. As regards ideals and political principles we still have to consider him in Hitler's class. His record for cruelty and treachery and despotism is not a bit better.

The objectives for a permanent peace as listed by Roosevelt and Churchill apply to Russia no less than to Germany. Stalin has been an aggressor in Poland, Finland and the Baltic countries. He has suppressed freedom in every form. Like Hitler, his consuming ambition is world domination. The world cannot be safe for decent people until both of them along with their isms are completely broken.

The mere fact that Russia is at war against our enemy does not make it an ally. The better word, said to have originated in England, is co-belligerent. It is not fighting to preserve the same ideals. It just happens to be fighting the same opponent.

We fervently hope that some day not too far hence our government will adopt a more consistent attitude and show equal contempt to all powers that disregard freedom and human dignity.

Since we have assumed the responsibility of helping restore order in the world we ought to see that the job is done properly. Just now it would seem the best method of accomplishing that is to permit Stalin and Hitler to fight it out. At the end U. S. and Britain can present their joint ultimatum. The weary victor, whoever he is, will be in a poor condition to refuse.

Let the gangster mobs kill off one another for a while and when they've exhausted their ammunition let the champions of law and order take control.

THE ROCKEFELLER CREDO

In a recent radio address in behalf of the USO, John D. Rockefeller recited the following credo of ten articles as the faiths by which he believes the ideal life should be guided. It is a masterful expression of Christian and democratic conviction worthy of a place among this nation's most profound statements.

"I believe in the supreme worth of the individual and in his right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"I believe that every right implies a responsibility; every opportunity, an obligation; every possession, a duty.

"I believe that the law was made for man and not man for the law; that government is the servant of the people and not their master.

"I believe in the dignity of labor, whether with head or hand; that the world owes no man a living but that it owes every man an opportunity to make a living.

"I believe that thrift is essential to well-ordered living and that economy is a prime requisite of a sound financial structure, whether in government, business or personal affairs.

"I believe that truth and justice are fundamental to an enduring social order.

"I believe in the sacredness of a promise, that a man's word should be as good as his bond; that character—not wealth or power or position—is of supreme worth.

"I believe that the rendering of useful service is the common duty of mankind and that only in the purifying fire of sacrifice is the dross of selfishness consumed and the greatness of the human soul set free.

"I believe in an all-wise and all-loving God, named by whatever name, and that the individual's highest fulfillment, greatest happiness and widest usefulness are to be found in living in harmony with His will.

"I believe that love is the greatest thing in the world; that it alone can overcome hate; that right can and will triumph over might."

"These are," Mr. Rockefeller explained, "the principles upon which alone a new world recognizing the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God can be established. It is to help usher in this new day that our sons have dedicated themselves to the service of their country. And it is worthy of this high service that we call upon all parents and neighbors in this city and throughout the length and breadth of this fair land to stand with us in supporting the United Service Organizations and their campaign.

"They are the principles which I learned, many of them, at my mother's knee. They point the way to happiness in life, to courage and peace in death. If they mean to you what they mean to me, they may perhaps be helpful also to our sons for their guidance and inspiration."

Economic Highlights

Uppermost in many million American minds right now is this question: "What effect will defense priorities have on the supply of goods for civilian use?" At this time, it is impossible to give an exact answer to that question. But, judging by information from Washington and the industrial centers, it looks like we're going to have enough of all the necessities and many of the luxuries of life to keep us going in comfortable style. There will be shortages in some lines, but there will be no grave disruption of the American economic system or the American standard of living, unless some unlooked-for cataclysm occurs. A lack of some important materials will make use of substitutes necessary, but, according to the experts, these substitutes will be generally adequate in quality and reasonable in price. Here is how the outlook shapes up at this writing:

CLOTHING: No serious shortage in sight, though there is none too much leather on hand, in the light of military needs. Prices will probably go considerably higher for shoes and suits. In the case of lower price goods, quality may have to be lowered. Within a few months, silk stockings are expected to entirely disappear from the market, and there is not enough nylon and rayon to supply the demand. However, new types of cotton stockings are being developed, and are said to be excellent.

AUTOMOBILES: It has not yet been decided to what extent production will be cut. Best guess is that 1942 output will be less than 25 per cent under the record level established in 1941. It will be necessary for dealers to make larger profits per unit, so trade-in values will be lower. The expected government excise tax will up the price of new cars substantially. There will be little chromium trimming, and there will be no aluminum for pistons, etc., after present stocks in car-makers' hands are exhausted.

OIL: The industry's capacity to produce is far beyond any demand that can yet be foreseen. But the transfer of tankers to Britain has created something of a transportation problem in this field. Main shortage is along the Atlantic seaboard, where some think rationing may be put into effect. In the foreseeable future, there will be no lack of petroleum in other parts of the country.

HOUSEHOLD APPLIANCES: Heavy cuts in production will be made to conserve metals for military purposes. In the case of washers and refrigerators, the cut may go as high as 50 per cent. However, the cut will be made, as in the case of automobiles, on the basis of 1941 record sales. So, for some time to come at least, production will be close to normal levels. It is reported that the substitutes being used for aluminum and nickel are satisfactory. Higher prices are to be expected.

FOOD: No shortage of any food is anticipated. If rationing of certain foods, such as in the last war, is imposed, it will be very limited in extent.

HOUSING: In certain areas, notably those which contain major defense industries, there is a very grave shortage, and rents are soaring. This is one of the toughest problems the country has on its hands now.

ELECTRIC POWER: Shortages exist in a few areas, and utility experts say this is largely due to the government's "anti-utility" policy.

which has prevented much private expansion. "Great utilities, however, are now planning an ambitious development program, and are confident of their ability to meet the demand. In most of the country there is plenty of juice for both industrial and household needs.

What it all adds up to is that we will have less non-military production of a good many commodities—but the pinch will not be anywhere near so severe as scare rumors might lead us to anticipate. It is generally believed that the average price level will go ten or fifteen per cent higher, and most government experts do not seem to feel that any danger of real inflation has yet appeared. Great hopes are pinned on higher taxes as a weapon against inflation—they will deprive the consumer of a large part of the increased income which war spending is producing. In addition, Congress will undoubtedly pass some kind of price-control legislation.

Emphasis is being placed now on making goods give better service. Economists tell us to drive our cars slower to save motors, rubber and gas; to have our shoes resoled and our clothes repaired, instead of buying new. That is good advice.

An emperor of ancient times, after winning a great battle, said this: "One more such victory, and I will be ruined." His losses of men and materials had been so great that victory left his people weary, exhausted, and low in morale.

Some think that may be Hitler's fate even if he finally subdues Russia. At a conservative estimate he has lost, in killed and wounded, 1,000,000 men, and they are the cream of the Reichswehr. In the meantime, his main opponent, the English, are suffering almost no casualties and are growing stronger fast.

fascinating to watch the big shovels in action. Most of us, if we have the time, will stop for a while.

So the Mercantile officials, in a gesture of good will, not only invited the public to look on but went so far as to provide a comfortable gallery. You can bet the public appreciates it. The bank has a lot more friends as a result of it.

Quite a few fellows would be disappointed if Con did not admit parking the front end of his car in that ravine at Lindsay last Friday night—the one just north of the entrance to the parish grounds. For their benefit: the only damage was a smashed oil pan. Resting on a rock, it supported the whole front end while the wheels were dangling in space. The first reaction is that there ought to be a guard rail or some kind of warning. Leaving a ditch like that at such a convenient parking location is a minor form of treachery. But after considerable kidding—people have a way of enjoying another's discomfort—I'm beginning to think no signs are necessary. Everyone else seems to know the hole is there, and quite a few had equally unpleasant ways of finding out. From reports it is fair to estimate that no less than a half dozen front ends have dropped into the ditch. And at least two men stepped off into it.

Needn't worry now about putting up any signs. That's like closing the barn door after all the horses are out.

A few pungent thoughts gathered at random. The way some people take their recreation, they should spell the first syllable "wreck." True travel has a broadening effect but so does sitting around home—A fool and his money are invited places—A good way to improve the monotony of any job is to think up ways to improve it—Killing time is not murder, it is suicide — If you want to see 50 don't look for it on the speedometer—Not what we want but what we enjoy constitutes our abundance—Some people are great, some achieve greatness, and some, well, just grate—Throwing mud is a sure way of losing ground—When you meet a fellow who is "up against it," you will find out he got that way from backing up, not going forward—One reason a man can love his enemies is because they never try to borrow money from him—Too many believe in the rule of the majority only when the majority agrees with them.
